

Military Moves Pushed In Many Parts Of Europe

FRENCH MOVE NEW TROOPS TO BORDERS

Mussolini Retires to His Country Villa to Prepare Securities Proposal for Stresa Conference; Austria Continues Plans for Rearmament; Germany Plans to Refrain From War

(By Associated Press)

Military moves occupied a large part of Europe today as statesmen prepared for next week's security conference at Stresa.

The French moved 32,000 troops up to advanced positions along the German border increasing the reinforcements of the border garrisons by about 60,000 men. New barbed wire and fresh fortifications were ordered built to connect the line of blockhouses.

While Premier Mussolini retired to his country villa to prepare a European security proposal to present to the French and British at Stresa, the Italian fascist militia began a movement of volunteer mobilization which it was estimated would involve more than 10,000 men.

Austrian military borders buzzed with unconfirmed reports that Austria in her avowed process of rearmament was about to make its first public appearance. Austria's plan of rearmament was complicated by Hapsburg ambitions, the energetic fascist Heimwehr and by lack of finances.

Meanwhile Germany which increased military interest by its announced rearmament was understood to be prepared to give a pledge of refraining from war by a series of non-aggression pacts with neighbor countries.

Britain in her role of "peace broker" was said in official London circles to be hopeful of restraining France from making the league of nations council session April 15 a demonstration against Germany.

ROAD DEATHS REFLECT DROP

Five Persons Killed in This Highway Patrol Division During Past Month

Death, which has swept so destructively over highways of this district the last several months, showed a pronounced drop during the month of March with the list of injured reflecting a slight increase it was revealed today in the monthly report of Lester Jones, head of the local Highway Patrol division.

Five persons were killed and forty injured in a series of accidents in various parts of the division, against twelve killed and thirty-eight injured the previous months the report disclosed.

Drunken drivers, who have been giving patrolmen more or less trouble for months, continued to stagger into machines and threaten the lives of thousands of others driving over the various highways from day to day.

The report revealed that 34 persons were arrested for operating automobiles while drunk, a slight increase over the previous month in spite of a concerted drive being put on in this and other communities to reduce the monthly toll of death.

The patrol made a total of 280 arrests, the largest number in recent months, and 269 of the defendants were found guilty and eleven not guilty.

In addition, the patrolmen issued 106 warnings to motorists in all sections of the division obtained 102 warrants, had 1,425 vehicles inspected, and investigated a total of 72 accidents.

Total revenue collected was reported as $26,894.31 and value of property recovered was given at $1,224.

NAB TWO IN AUTO THEFT

Men Who Stole Car in Theatre District Here Last Night Taken in Duplin

Paul and Claude Mills, of the Grimesland community, charged with stealing an automobile here last night, were arrested, along with the car, in Kenansville, Duplin County, early today police here were notified by Duplin County authorities this morning.

They are alleged to have stolen an automobile belonging to a Mr. Porter of the Simpson community and two other ladies came to Greenville last night to attend a show. They parked the key in the switch. When they came out of the theatre the car was missing.

Porter immediately notified the police department of the theft and officers in towns in this immediate section of the State were asked to be on the lookout for the car. Meanwhile the police department offered its assistance to Porter and his friends and they were assisted in reaching home in the department car.

Chief Clark said he was informed in the telephone message from the sheriff of Duplin County that the car was recovered without much trouble. The men were said to have jumped out of the machine and fled but were soon overhauled by the officers.

Arrest Man For Threat To Kill Pres. Roosevelt

Boston, April 5.—(AP)—United States Secret Service agents today arrested Thomas Murphy, 29, of Cambridge, on a charge of threatening to assassinate President Roosevelt.

Murphy was brought to secret headquarters in Boston by John McGrath and Harry Parker, head of the force of agents here. The agents said Murphy admitted writing the letter.

The letter was mailed March 27 to the president at Washington. Agents said it was three pages long and concluded with the following sentence: "I will assassinate you if I do not receive an answer."

In his communication the writer complained because he was not able to get a job and of not getting satisfactory treatment at employment office of private industry.

FIVE INJURED AS TRAIN HITS AUTOMOBILE

Pitt County People Have Narrow Escape in Crossing Accident Yesterday

Five persons were injured, one probably seriously, when an automobile driven by Dorsey Carson, of Cox Mill community was struck by Norfolk-Southern passenger train No. 1 on the Greenville-Washington highway crossing at the intersections of Pitt and Beaufort county lines, yesterday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock. It was reported today from the local office of the State Highway Patrol which instituted an investigation immediately after news of the crash was received here.

Jack Cahoon, of Bath, was rushed to a Washington hospital suffering from lacerations of the head, and the full extent of his injuries was not immediately determined. Physicians said they could not say whether he had suffered a fractured skull or not. The lacerations were described as painful and probably serious. Others suffering from bruises, shock and slight cuts were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Carawan and Mrs. Bettie Lee Dixon of Greenville, and Carson.

The party was bound from Greenville to Bath when the accident occurred. Carson told investigating officers they did not see the train until it was too late to stop the car. He also said they did not hear the engine whistle, although members of the train crew said the whistle was blown several times before reaching the crossing.

The car was completely demolished by the impact and turned over two times before coming to a halt on its side in a ditch off the railroad right of way.

The crossing is one of the worst of the several between this city and Washington and has been the scene of a number of fatal accidents in recent years. A Rich Transfer Company truck of this city was struck by a train several months ago and three persons killed. Other lives have been lost at the same point in recent years.

GREEK REBEL LEADER SHOT

Major Volanis Faces Firing Squad for His Part in Recent Revolt in Greece

Salonika, Greece, April 5.—(AP)—Major Volanis, convicted yesterday by court martial of complicity in the recent Greek revolt, was executed by a firing squad today.

Volanis' execution took place in the Eftalyrion prison after the insignia had been ripped from his uniform.

The major was the first of the accused rebels to be condemned to death.

After sentence was pronounced yesterday, the former army officer appealed to President Salas for clemency. His appeal failing, to produce results, Major Volanis faced the firing squad courageously.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington By GEORGE DUNNO

WOUND: Enough dirt has been about with the later stages of the scrap over President Roosevelt's $4-88,000,000 bill to take a steam shovel off the relief rolls.

New Dealers are muttering that the power interests came within an inch of wrecking the new work-relief program. Further, the rankle under what they charge was an adroit effort to set Comptroller General John R. McCarl up as the real czar of public works rather than Mr. Roosevelt.

On the other hand conservatives will tell you that once the White House gets its hands on the huge sum, millions of dollars will be spent to buy up electric plants and gas plants—thus putting the government further into competition with private enterprise but NOT furnishing work for the unemployed. They say FDR, by remote control from the Astor yacht, and Secretary of Interior Ickes here in Washington usurped the legislative functions of Congress in preventing passage of

NEGRO NAMES TO BE PUT IN JURY BOXES

Alabama Judge Says Supreme Court Ruling in Scottsboro Case Causes Action

Montgomery, Ala., April 5.—(AP)—Governor Bibb Graves today announced he has written circuit judges and solicitors that the United States Supreme court's decision in the Scottsboro case meant that the names of negroes must be placed in jury boxes of the state.

The governor's announcement was a formal statement declaring his action after receiving official copies of the Supreme court decision, copies of which were forwarded to all officers.

The governor also said he was going to ask the legislature which convenes April 30 to enact such legislation as may be necessary to cover dumping and refilling jury boxes in Alabama.

The United States Supreme court in setting aside death sentences imposed on two of the negroes in the Scottsboro case held that "negroes were systematically excluded from jury rolls in Jackson and Morgan counties in infringing on the rights of the defendants."

Labor Seeking Re-Opening of Textile Code

Washington, D. C., April 5.—(AP)—Organized labor surged into the already complicated textile situation today with a demand to the National Recovery Board for reopening of the code-textile code and drastic revisions of the charter.

The original conference agreement on the measure.

Last week's bill that will manifest themselves in next year's presidential campaign have been inflicted.

LABOR: Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas as majority leader of the Senate and Senator Carter Glass of Virginia as leader of the Senate conferees on the work-relief bill, touched all around the real issues in their floor debate yet both cautiously avoided getting down to underlying fundamentals.

But it is apparent the "joker" season has arrived on Capitol Hill. "Jokers" are innocent phrases written into bills which later explode under the unsuspecting side of the fight.

Administrators regarded that provision requiring that one-third of all money spent on non-federal projects, rural electrification and slum clearance go for "direct labor" as a "joker" of the foulest order. Here's why:

MORRO CASTLE IS PAINTED AS A FIRE TRAP

Laurence Wilder Tells Munitions Committee of Dangers of Ill-Fated Liner

Washington, April 5.—(AP)—Laurence R. Wilder, a shipbuilder, declared before the Senate Munitions committee today that the Morro Castle was a "fire trap" but it might easily have been built so there would have been "no necessary loss of life."

"There are plenty of other ships at sea of a similar nature with mail contracts that have no further protection," he added.

"In other words, the lives of our citizens are being risked."

LOCAL POOL TO BE OPENED AROUND MAY 1

Definite Date to be Set By Swimming Pool Committee of Board Of Aldermen Soon

Although the opening date for the Greenville municipal swimming pool has not been definitely settled it probably will be around May 1.

This fact was divulged at the regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen last night when the matter was called up for consideration, but the date for the opening was referred to the swimming pool committee of the board along with the question of arranging tickets rates for the convenience of those wishing to take advantage of the pool each day.

George Clark, who is in charge of preparing the pool for operation this season, told the board the pool was to be cleaned out in the near future and would be in proper condition when the opening day rolls around.

He also told of the improvements made to the pool property and the municipal park and playground which adjoins the pool.

Mr. Clark said work in beautifying the park had about been completed and that the only thing remaining to be done at this time was the building of seats for the park and wiring for proper lighting facilities. The lighting arrangement will be under direction of the Water and Light Commission and is expected to be completed in time for the opening of the pool.

The recreational center is one of the finest in this part of the state with the various improvements made since the opening of the pool the latter part of last summer, and will afford considerable entertainment for the public during the summer. The park, at least a part of it, is situated on a hillside on the college proper overlooking the swimming pool. It provides a splendid vantage point for persons desiring to watch swimmers at night or the day either for that matter, and is destined to entertain thousands of local citizens and visitors during the hot summer months.

Highsmith Youth Drowned Today

Slacy Highsmith, 13, was drowned in Tar river here this afternoon, and an 11-year-old boy by the name of Jordan had a narrow escape when the small boat in which they were endeavoring to cross the river overturned in the swift current of the swollen stream, near the water and light plant.

As the swift current swept the small boys under the draw bridge Jordan was able to grab a rope tied to a fish trap at the bridge and pull himself to safety, while the overturned boat and the Highsmith boy were swept on down stream. While some of the light plant employees were hauling young Jordan to safety, two others, Will Hill and Alton Vincent, broke the chain that held another small boat and followed Highsmith in an effort to rescue him. While it was not believed that Highsmith could swim, the swift current kept him afloat for some distance but his body disappeared from sight near the highway bridge before his rescuers could reach him.

So swift was the current that the boat in which Hill and Vincent were attempting the rescue overturned before they could reach shore and they were forced to swim to safety.

In addition to settling this issue the board also received word of resolutions from the Board of Trustees of City Schools asking for a nine months' school term, but no action was taken in view of the fact that the resolutions had not been completed.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, conveyed the information to the board in behalf of school authorities, and asked that they be permitted to present the resolutions at a called meeting of the board to be arranged in the near future.

Figures relative to the cost of the extra month of school were presented. (Continued on Page Five)

CRACK TRAIN CLEANED OUT BY ROBBERS

Four Swashbuckling Men Board Gulf Coast Limited and Rob Its Passengers

Kankakee, Ill., April 15.—(AP)—Four swashbuckling two-gun robbers who held up nearly forty persons aboard the crack Gulf Coast Limited Illinois Central train, the "Louisianne," were sought in a widespread man-hunt today.

Taking virtual command of the railroad reports said.

Taking virtual command of the train in a reign of terror, cowering those aboard some twenty minutes as the train sped southward out of Chicago last night, the gunmen, each armed with a 42 calibre pistol, escaped after shooting and wounding one man and commandeering the automobile of Edward Greizer, 26, of Kankakee, whom they kidnapped. Greizer was later dumped from his machine.

Firing wildly several times to put fear of death into their victims the gunmen, three of whom donned masks before the train reached Kankakee where the four men got carried out the raid with the perception of a typical Jesse James robbery of days gone by.

DILLINGER HAD OUTSIDE HELP

Report of Escape of Public Enemy Shows He Escaped Crown Point Without Gun

Fort Wayne, Ind., April 5.—(AP)—James R. Fleming, United States Attorney for the Southern Indiana District, has received a report from investigating agents of the Department of Justice indicating, he said, "that there was no wooden pistol in John Dillinger's escape March 3 1934, from the Crown Point, Indiana, jail."

The gangster had outside assistance.

No evidence had been uncovered to involve Lillian Holly, the sheriff or jail attaches, in the escape, it was said.

"Sheriff Holly was the innocent victim of circumstances," Fleming said today.

"The evidence gathered in this investigation shows Dillinger's escape may have been a genuine jail break."

The Department of Justice findings were reported verbally to Fleming last night by agents of the Bureau of Investigation who made an exhaustive inquiry into the escape which set off a nation-wide hunt for the No. 1 public enemy, a search that cost the lives of several officers, civilians and gangsters before Dillinger finally was cornered and killed on a Chicago street last July 22.

The attorney said that evidence to support a charge widely made after Dillinger fled that he had inside aid should be admitted only by a confession.

House Appropriations Chairman Victor Bryant who read the McDonald letter to the Lower House in which Dr. McDonald had asked that school superintendents to increase their efforts for a larger school appropriation stood in the capital rotunda reading what appeared to be another letter. "Well, Mr. Bryant," said your correspondent, "are you getting ready to regale the House with the contents of another letter?"

"No, indeed," answered the Durham lawyer. He didn't say so, but his tone implied that he is through, for awhile at least, reading letters aloud. Nor yet has Mr. Bryant told who gave him the McDonald letter.

P. S.—School Superintendent Clyde Ewin isn't anxious that anyone furnish any more letters to the appropriations chairman.

HILL LIQUOR BILL NOT DEAD AS BELIEVED

Senate Expected to do Something as it Continues to Tear up Revenue Bill

The Reflector, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, N. C., April 5.—The Hill liquor bill, for the past week or so considered as definitely dead and without any chance of being passed by this General Assembly, may not be as dead as some have thought according to comment heard here today. For if the Senate continues tearing the new taxes out of the revenue bill put into it by the House and thus throwing the bill further out of balance with the appropriations bill, the chances for the Hill bill will come increasingly better, it is agreed. As the revenue bill went to the Senate, the differences between it and the appropriations bill was so slight—only about $2,000,000 to the biennium—that the general belief was that this gap would be bridged without recourse to the Hill bill.

But now the Senate Finance Committee has removed taxing dividends from stock in domestic corporations, has changed the chain filling station tax section and numerous other sections of the revenue bill with a possibility that the Senate may reduce the sales tax rate to 2 per cent, as the Finance Committee voted to do Thursday morning. Indications are that the revenue from the Hill bill, as well as from several other additional sources, will be needed in order to get the two money bills anywhere near balancing again.

When Senator Harris Newman, of New Hanover, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, was asked today what the Senate could put into the revenue bill to make up for some of the taxes removed by the committee, he replied:

"Pass the Hill bill."

Senator John Sprunt Hill, of Durham, author of the bill, also said "Pass the Hill bill," when asked the same question. In fact, Senator Hill is convinced that his bill now has a better chance than ever before to be passed by both Houses, and is going to make another fight for its enactment when the proper time comes, probably not until after the Senate has completed consideration of the revenue bill.

"There are several more Senators now willing to vote for my liquor stores bill than were willing to support it several weeks ago," Senator Hill said. "The demand for the enactment of the bill has been growing steadily in all sections of the State, and this demand is having its effect here. Some Senators and Representatives who formerly have formerly thought their counties were opposed to the bill, now are convinced that the people in those counties want it. The sentiment for the bill is still definitely increasing and the opposition decreasing. I am more confident than ever that it will pass both Houses."

The manufacture and sale of liquor is at the present time the fourth largest industry in North Carolina, Senator Hill maintains and has assembled figures showing that people in North Carolina are now purchasing $15,000,000 a year worth of liquor either from bootleggers or from Virginia liquor stores. He is confident that the legalization of the sale in liquor will not increase the present use of liquor, but that it will remain about constant. He is convinced, however, that there will be less crime, less drunkenness and more respect for law with legalized liquor than the present wide-open bootleg system.

Three or four murder cases are scheduled to receive consideration during the two-week sitting, principal among them being the Carson case which has been hanging fire for at least two years. In addition, there are two or three colored men charged with slayings, one of which happened recently when Ernest Watson, Greenville negro, allegedly killed his stepfather.

This is the first term of criminal court held here in sometime, and hundreds of people from virtually all sections of the county are expected to be on hand each day. Unlike civil court, criminal court always brings people to town and attendance this time probably will be as large as any previous session, although only one case of outstanding importance, the Carson charge is scheduled for hearing.

Shoe Factory Is Likely For State Prison

Raleigh, N. C., April 5.—Boy's Sis Perils! It appears that all North Carolina's prison chills are going to have shoes. What's more, they will very likely be made by those very chills. Already approved by the Senate, a bill by Senator Griffin, of Franklin, is not before the Lower House which would authorize the Highway and Public Works Commission to establish at Central Prison here a factory where shoes would be made for prisoners only. An appropriation of $25,000 is contained in the bill.

Last year the State bought about 15,000 pairs of shoes for its prisoners at a cost of $30,000. Now being made at Central Prison are automobile license plates, clothing and canteens as well as producing a part of the State's printing. There are 575 jailers at the Central institution.

Forest fires in this country in 1934 cost $18,000 daily.

PAROLE BOARD BILL IS DEAD

Committee, However,
Is Expected to Bring Out Substitute to the Measure

The Raleigh Star-Walker, April 5.—While the bill introduced by Representative Thomas H. Cooper, of New Hanover County, to abolish the office of Commissioner of Parole, and set up a Parole Board in its place, which also would take the parole powers out of the hands of the Governor, is not expected to ever emerge from the Committee on Penal Institutions to which it was referred and of which Representative Sentelle, of Brunswick, is chairman, this committee is expected to report out a substitute bill.

One of several reasons why the Cooper bill is not expected to ever get out of committee is that many see in the bill little more than a threat to try to influence the Governor to issue paroles to Colonel Luke Lea, Tennessee politician and promoter, now serving in the State Prison here. Reports regarded as exceedingly reliable are to the effect that the main purpose of those bills was to use it as a club over the Governor and Commissioner of Paroles in an effort to hurry action on a parole for Lea. The prevailing opinion here is that the bill has failed already in doing that and that it has retarded instead of advanced the chances for a parole for Lea.

The substitute bill which the committee is expected to bring out has already been written. It is understood, and has the approval of Governor E. B. Rouse, of Chairman Caples M. Wayne of the State Highway Public Works Commission, Commissioner of Paroles Edwin M. Gill and of the prison division of the Highway Department. This bill it is further understood, makes extensive changes in the prison disciplinary regulations, makes prisoners eligible for parole after a certain time, as does the Cooper bill, but provides that the parole machinery shall remain in the hands of the parole board. In fact, it would be unconstitutional to place the parole or pardoning powers in the hands of a board, so that the Cooper bill would be unconstitutional even if it should be enacted.

Louisburg To Play College On Saturday

The Pirates of East Carolina Teachers College will play the Trojans of Louisburg College here Saturday. The game had been scheduled to be played at Louisburg but was canceled because of a conflict and will be played here instead.

Lefty Dunn or Stow, will pitch for the locals. Dunn is the only holdover on the pitching staff from last season. He is a former member of the New Bern club in the Coastal Plain League. Last year Stow played for the Spring Hope team in the tri-county league. Ayers, will be on the receiving end of the battery in the game Saturday. The following men are now on the first team.

Pitching staff: Dunn, Ayden; Stow, Morrells; Eason, Spring Hope; Rogers, Ayden, and Sinclair, Wilson.

The game will be played at College field at 3:30.

Stage Set For Big Exposition Here Next Week

Space has been about all sold and acts all contracted for the big exposition and automobile show which will get under way Monday night at 7 o'clock. It was announced today by Captain Stratford, of the exposition committee.

A real circus and vaudeville program of 16 acts will be offered the public each day during the week the exposition is in progress, and one of the fastest and snappiest programs ever offered here is promised by the Salvation Army, sponsors of the show.

All of the latest automobiles will be on display in the scores of booths and everything is being placed so there will be no delays in the opening night.

The grand opening Monday night will be marked by brief addresses by leading business and professional men. Tuesday night will be featured by an old time fiddlers' convention followed by a square dance.

Wednesday night will be college night and home talent night. The college drama club will offer a one-act play directed by Miss Dirmberg. The high school band will furnish music for the occasion.

Thursday night's feature will be a dance sponsored by the Junior Women's club, and Friday evening will see a revue of Spring fashions. A public wedding will highlight the program Saturday night.

Reflecting Sports

By

Wm. WATSON MORGAN

Sunday baseball our community wanted, and Sunday baseball they may have. The Mayor states, "The chair is in doubt, please call the roll." They voted four for and three against. I was informed that one of the three that voted against requested that his vote not be recorded.

Miss Hillhouse was commended by several for the stand that she took against Sunday baseball; they are right, she should be commended. Any lady that will appear before a group of men and give a convincing speech as she gave deserves credit, but for the life of me I can't understand why Miss Hillhouse chose to carry the burden alone; this is a community problem and any problem that concerns its citizens should be carried or defeated by its members.

As I see it, the proper procedure for Miss Hillhouse to have taken would have been for her to call a meeting of those opposed, give her speech, get her following, and there is no doubt but that she would have had a following, and let this group appear before the Board.

Guy Smith, Dink James and others, plainly stated that they positively would not be in favor of Sunday baseball if there was too much sentiment against it. No doubt more support, or I might say more and louder objections, would have defeated the bill.

It seems that one member had promised, or had expressed himself as one of those that were in favor of the great American past time to be played in Greenville on Sunday but after "the" speech against, he soon fell in line with those opposed.

Dink James certainly made one swell talk following Miss Hillhouse. He was tactful, convincing, suave, considerate in his presentation for Sunday baseball. His points were: That it was a community problem, a point of law, and so long as it did not interfere with the church hours he felt that it should be an advantage rather than a detriment. If the "Judge" is as clever when addressing a jury as he was last night, I wonder, how can he lose a case.

Before leaving for Ayden, Guy Smith stated that he would personally see to it that nothing but the best of conduct would be tolerated at the ball park.

Dr. Massey, even tho he did use several words to express himself, came through with a splendid idea. He suggested that the problem for each and every one of us is, decided for ourselves just what we should do, when is the best time to do the things that we decide we want to do, for in the end we are the ones that must give an account for our actions.

Mrs. D. D. Overton and Johnathan Overton, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Fountain, Jr., of Fountain are spending a few days in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. M. Whitehurst and Mrs. Mary Barrett of Farmville were here today.

Miss Lillian Carlton of Wilmington is the guest of Mrs. T. M. Watson.

Attend U. D. C. District Meeting.
Mrs. T. A. Person, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Mrs. Charles O'H. Laughlinhouse and Mrs. B. W. Moseley attended the meeting of the eleventh district of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held in Farmville yesterday.

Master Joe Bowen Ill.
Friends will be sorry to learn that Master Joe Bowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowen, is quite ill.

Virginia "Garden Week"
Anyone interested in "Garden Week in Virginia" may see attractive booklets on the garden table at Sheppard Memorial Library. There are a few for distribution. Other copies will be secured if there is a demand for them.

B. A. Pope To Speak In Arthur.
B. A. Pope, Jr., the vocational agriculture teacher of Fountain High School will speak to the farmers in the school building at Arthur Monday night, April 8th, at 7:30 o'clock.
Mr. Pope will discuss poultry, various phases of agriculture, also rabbits, or hydrophobia.
Both men and women are urged to attend.

Wright-Savage.
Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Savage announce the marriage of their daughter
Annie Lynn

to
Mr. William Horace Wright on Wednesday, April third
One thousand nine hundred thirty-five
Rockwell, Maryland

At Home
Richmond, Virginia

The above announcement will be read with interest by friends of Mrs. Wright. She is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Savage of this city, and has been making her home in Richmond, Virginia, for the past several years.

Dr. Meadows Speaks In Burlington.
Dr. L. R. Meadows reports a most interesting banquet meeting of the Burlington E. C. T. C. alumnae on Thursday night of last week. About twenty alumnae attended. Dr. Meadows delivered the principal address of the occasion. Dr. Frank was called on for a speech also. Mrs. R. C. Mullen was the toastmistress and delivered the address of welcome to which Miss Mary Lou Fogleman responded. Mrs. B. M. Bennett introduced Dr. Meadows.

Gunda Mordan To Sing Here.
Gunda Mordan, the soprano who will appear on the same program as James Melton at the College on April 16, has both a beautiful voice and great dramatic ability. Those who have seen her and heard her sing say the presentation of her songs is quite out of the ordinary, suggestive of the type that Ruth Draper has made popular.

A program that alternates songs by her and James Melton will be like having two concerts in one, and will be a rare treat to the audience.

Albermarle Presbytery Auxiliary.
The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of Albermarle Presbytery will be held in Wilson on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 9th and 10th, in the First Presbyterian Church in that city.

At ten o'clock Tuesday morning the annual meeting of the executive board will be held.

From ten to ten-forty-five visitors and delegates will register, and at ten-forty-five the session will be called to order by the president, Mrs. Frank Lea.

A very interesting and instructive program has been planned for the two days.

A large number of members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church of this city will attend.

Attend Meeting In Greensboro.
Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, and E. E. Mayes, manager of the local Western Union office, attended the statewide meeting for Baptist men held in Greensboro, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Miss Nina James Improving.
J. B. James has returned from Baltimore where he has been with his daughter, Miss Nina James, who underwent an emergency appendix operation early this week.

Friends of Miss James will be glad to learn that she is getting along nicely. Mrs. James will remain in Baltimore with her daughter for several days.

Hatem-Pearson.
Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Pearson of Morganton, North Carolina, announce the marriage of their daughter, Anna Pearl, to Mr. Paul Hatem, formerly of Greenville, on February 16th, 1935, at Gaffney, South Carolina. They will make their home in Morganton.

Billy Ryan Ill.
Friends of Master Billy Ryan, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Ryan, will be sorry to learn that he is ill.

Mr. Hollingsworth Improving.
Mrs. Charles A. Creech and Mrs. Ervin Gillette of Smithfield, and J. L. Hollingsworth of Savannah, Ga., were here yesterday to see T. T. Hollingsworth who is in Pitt Community Hospital.

Friends of Mr. Hollingsworth will be glad to learn that he is getting along nicely.

Mr. Cobb Improving.
Friends of K. W. Cobb who has been quite ill in Pitt Community Hospital, will be glad to learn that he is improving.

Festival Features Announced.
Three new and attractive features have been added to the plans for the Festival of Fine Arts to be held in Greenville next week at the Woman's Club, one of which will be an exhibit of Juxton and other North Carolina pottery. Another will be the presentation of Mrs. I. M. Meekins of Elizabeth City, who has won a reputation for herself in the artistic world by her creation of beautiful musical compositions. Mrs. Meekins will bring with her vocal and violin artists who will assist in presenting her original compositions. There will be also a violin solo by Bobby Elliott of Elizabeth City, who is a youthful but outstanding violinist of the state.

In addition to these two features there will be an exhibition of oil paintings by contemporary artists, lent by the Macbeth Gallery, New York, and the artists. This exhibit will come to us under the auspices of Southern Arts Projects with which the University of North Carolina, University of Virginia, Tulane Academy of Arts and Sciences, Savannah, Ga., are cooperating institutions. Following is a list of titles and artists:

"Tinting the Sail," by George Elmer Browne; "Peonies," by Hattie E. Burdette; "Morning Haze," by John F. Carlson; "Springtime," by Charles H. Davis; "Evening on the Farm," by Charles Warren Eaton; "Morning," by John F. Ensor; "Sunday Morning," by Eugene Higgins; "Winter Afternoon," by Minor S. Jameson; "Auburn Hair," by Matilde M. Leisentrup; "Park Avenue," by Hayley Lever; "Windmill by Moonlight," by Albert Lucas; "Head of Tosca," by Ivan G. Olinsky; "The New Day," by Roger M. Rittase.

These pictures are small but are painted by distinguished artists who render their subjects on canvas with consummate skill and perception. Each is exquisitely intimate in charm. To see these pictures will be an educational opportunity well worth the while of all who will make a special effort to attend the Festival of Fine Arts on April 10th and 11th. The public is requested to watch for future announcements and publication of complete program at an early date.

MRS. W. C. HARRIS,
Publicity Chairman.

Attends N. C. Poetry Society.
Charlotte, N. C. April 4th.—The North Carolina Poetry Society was glad to welcome Mrs. Eva Berry Harris of Greenville at its meeting Tuesday, April 2nd at 8 p. m. in the Hotel Charlotte, Charlotte, N. C.

Mrs. Harris was elected to membership in July 1933 but this was the first opportunity she had given the Society of greeting her in person. Everyone was charmed with her personality and enjoyed a reading of her poems, an admirably serious sonnet duo, "The Hour of Choice," and a short fantasy in lighter mood, "Tip-Turned New Moon."

Mrs. Jessamine Kimball Draper of Rocky Mount also attended the state meeting for the first time, and presented the special feature of the program, a dramatic reading of the poetic work, "Firehead," by the contemporary writer, Lola Ridge. She was given an enthusiastic vote of thanks.

Others present included members from Statesville, Lenoirville and Charlotte. A heavy rain prevented full attendance of active members.

An applicant for membership is asked to send five typewritten poems with stamped return envelope, to Augusta Wray, present Membership chairman, 911 Elizabeth Street, Charlotte, N. C. After the following monthly meeting, he is notified whether or not he has been accepted for membership. Both native North Carolinians and residents of North Carolina are considered.

The North Carolina Poetry Society was founded in 1932 at the home of Edna Wilcox Talley in Charlotte, with Zoe Kincaid Brockman of Gastonia as president for the first two years. It now has over 70 regular members from every section of the state, besides honorary and associate members. The incumbent president is Leila Rush Kemp of Charlotte.

Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Draper arrived in Charlotte late Tuesday and were entertained at dinner by Mrs. Edna Wilcox Talley, founder and charter member of the North Carolina Poetry Society at her home on Clement Avenue. They remained overnight in the city and returned home Wednesday.

FRENCH ANIMALS
PAY IRAN STUDY

Marseilles, France.—(AP)—A flock of sheep and a herd of cattle are being taken out to Teheran in exchange for facilities to study ancient art and literature by Henri Lormian, French savant.

The animals, all of specially selected stock, were shipped by sea to Beirut. From there M. Lormian takes them in automobile trucks 1,600 miles across the desert to the capital of Iran.

The Iran government, wishing to introduce French stock, asked M. Lormian, who is a veterinary surgeon as well as an archeologist, to select the beasts. He will stay three years to see that the animals are settled under the best conditions and meanwhile will enjoy the freedom of archives and libraries.

PITT CLINICS ARE SUCCESS

Pre-School Clinics Being held in County Accomplish Good Results

The Pitt County Health Department is holding pre-school clinics throughout the county this week.

In addition to examining the pre-school children and vaccinating them against smallpox, the health department is also vaccinating the babies in the different school communities against diphtheria.

At Farmville on Wednesday morning, 42 children were given a careful physician examination and 42 vaccinated against diphtheria. Wednesday afternoon twenty-two children were examined at Fountain and smallpox. On Thursday clinics were held at Belvoir and Falkland. At Belvoir there were 21 children examined and 17 children vaccinated against smallpox. There were 42 babies vaccinated against diphtheria. At Falkland there were 24 children examined and 20 children vaccinated against smallpox. There were five babies vaccinated against diphtheria. Today, Friday, a pre-school clinic is being held at Chocod school from 9 to 10 noon.

Doctor Enbitt expresses himself as being much pleased with the interest shown in the pre-school clinics, and he says that he regards the vaccination of the babies against diphtheria as really of more importance than the examination of the pre-school child. He urges the parents who are able to pay for the service to take their children between six months and three years of age to their own family physician for protection against diphtheria. The new treatment consists of one dose only and is perfectly harmless.

IT WON'T STAY DOWN
The inequitable three per cent sales tax, extended by the House to the necessities of living of the poorest man, will not stay down. It is too nasty a dose.

Yesterday the Senate Finance Committee indicated a repugnance by a new move in retreat from this tax, which rests heaviest on the poorest, by voting to cut the tax from three to two per cent. Though the House nally passed the three per cent exemptionless sales tax, which is supported from sales taxation might mean a tax system based on getting the money where the money is, it did so only after voting a uncertainty both for and against the three per cent exemptionless levy.

Whatever this General Assembly finally does with this tax, which the people were promised in the law which levied is as an "emergency" form of taxation, action in both House and Senate has shown that legislators are reluctant to break that promise to the people in order to reenact a tax which violates every principle of ability to pay in connection with taxation.

In the House the votes were regimented to pass it. Despite the Senate Finance Committee decision yesterday the votes may be regimented in the Senate to pass it. But every day it becomes more and more apparent that this unfair and unsound tax on poverty, as the Commissioner of Revenue described it before he began to defend it, is a measure against which the opposition of the people will not down.

The question of the general sales tax in North Carolina will not be settled until it is settled right and light settlement means a reversal of policy from one of supporting the State on the subsistence of the people and a new determination to get the money where the money is.—(News and Observer).

GREAT RICHES
by Mabel Hove Farnham

SYNOPSIS: James Stimson, III, has had a very bad wedding day. He has decided he does not want to marry Jane Northrup after all, for one thing, and his wife was not improved by the petty malice of Mabel Webster in keeping candles off the altar, and the hysterical resentment that caused in the family of his bride. But after the ceremony, at the wedding supper, James decides he is very happy after all.

Chapter 27
HONEYMOON

THERE was but one small blot on the blissfulness of the honeymoon. That came toward the end after the arrival of a certain Louis Bradford of New York City.

It was not because Mr. Bradford was so perfectly poised and polished and manicured or because he made such apt remarks or wore such beautifully tailored clothes or even because his hair lay so gloriously sleek. No, it was his lordly assurance in the presence of the waiters that James envied and Jane desired to have James emulate.

If the waiters had happened by any chance to have been of African descent then Mr. Bradford might have envied the brilliant ease with which Mr. Stimson handled them, but at this particular hotel, the waiters, unfortunately, were as white as their hearts were black and they spoke a strange and unknown lingo that Mr. Bradford understood and James didn't.

Both the head waiter and his minions took one look at James, labeled him, docketed him, despised and neglected him thereafter. James tips were quite as lavish as those of Mr. Bradford, but he got only the most obscure ill-placed tables, the most transitory service.

This naturally enough irritated Jane, the loveliest and one of the best-dressed young women in the hotel. She kept urging her husband to assert himself and copy Mr. Bradford's masterful ways. James, alas, could do no better than to bribe the head waiter by a gift of ten dollars into promising better tables in the future—a promise sometimes fulfilled and sometimes not. Jane's remarks when they were not, made James tingle all over with shame.

"You like masterfulness in a man?" he asked once, crumpling his bread in nervous fingers.

"Yes, of course, to a certain degree. Every woman does," said Jane impatiently.

"Then I don't altogether see if you admire that sort, how you ever happened to marry me," answered James miserably. "I'm not masterful. I never was. I never will be. Didn't you know that until now?"

"You can be if you'll just assert yourself a little and don't let every one walk over you who wants to," said Jane a little uneasily. "It's only a question of making up your mind to be."

"I think there is more to it than that."

Someone came up to their table then to speak to Jane, and the subject was dropped.

James returned from his honeymoon a thoroughly happy but slightly puzzled young man with a determination to assert himself more frequently in the future and to take up on the first possible occasion the study of the art of masterfulness—and to cultivate on the side a darkly sinister gleam in his eyes.

A FEW days after the return of Mr. and Mrs. James Brewster Stimson III from their honeymoon and while they were still happily engaged in what is called in New Concord, "settling down," Judge Holcomb dropped in to see Miss Julia Pratt.

The Judge had spent the previous evening with the Roger Bennetts and while there had overheard Lucetta Bennett and some of her young crowd laughing over the account of the Stimson wedding in the Daily Globe. It had been written up in the society reporter's best and most flowery style, but what excited the derision of the young people was the line which spoke of the bridegroom leading the bride to the altar.

They had insisted that it should have been reversed to read, "When the bride led the bridegroom."

"And they were right," commented the Judge. "Jane certainly did all the chasing, but she landed James as neat as you please. And now the poor . . ."

"Do you think it's nice to talk about a sweet pretty girl like Jane Northrup name as if she was some sort of a who-hyena?" interrupted Miss Julia indignantly.

"I haven't said a word against Jane except to admire the clever way she went after James and caught him. There's nothing new about that. Women have been dragging men to the altar and marrying them in spite of their screams ever since the days of the cave men."

"It's a pity all you men can't be locked up in glass cases," sniffed Miss Julia.

"Now, Miss Julia," said the Judge pleasantly, "you know more in a minute than all the women in this town in a million years and you needn't try to pretend to me that James ever so much as looked in Jane's direction until she made up her mind she wanted him. It's Thackeray, isn't it, who says that any woman, unless she has an actual bump on her back, can marry any man she picks out, easy as easy. Why, I believe you put Jane up to marrying James in the first place though I don't expect you'll ever admit it."

"I wouldn't say I did and I wouldn't say I didn't," snapped Miss Julia, rocking vigorously back and forth, "but I do say that young folks don't know their own minds to speak of, and it is a blessed good thing for a flibbertigibbet like James to marry a sensible practical girl like Jane."

"I suppose Jane didn't know her own mind."

"Well, for pity's sake, what do you want for your precious James? It's my opinion that he could have looked a lot farther and fared a lot worse. It wasn't so very long ago I heard you saying that Jane Northrup was the best-looking girl in this county and a catch for any man. Now what have you got against her? I believe you're jealous."

"SHE looks too much like her mother," said the old man meditatively, "and I don't like the set of that woman's jaw. Jane's fairly plump now and pink and white and her eyes are so bright and sparkling that, like an old fool, I never occurred to me to look at her jaw. But only yesterday I saw her walking up the street with James and it came to me all of a sudden that she was her mother over again, jaw and all."

"Mrs. Northrup is an awful hard worker and them that does the work generally gets the running of things. I guess you men let old Bill Clancy run the Bachelors' Club year in and year out and never say boo your- selves. And you mark my words, if James hadn't married Jane he would have married that flighty little Leslie Harris. I suppose you would have liked that better?"

"I don't know. Leslie's sweet as a peach and I wouldn't mind marrying her myself, but I don't like the breed. I reckon that I'm as hard to suit as a fussy old rooster with one chicken. But, Miss Julia, if you could have heard James speak to the Republic convention in Topeka last month your eyes would have popped out of your head. They cheered him for a quarter of an hour when he got through—and him just twenty-four. They called him silver-tongued but he's more than that."

"You think he's made of pure gold, don't you?" jibed Miss Julia good-naturedly.

"Well, I don't know. He's made of something pretty fine. But he's temperamental as a young colt that hasn't been hitched. Do you know that that boy remembers every man he meets and his name and where he met him? Presidents have gone into the White House for less. What he lacks is conceit—just natural everyday conceit such as every young pup of his age is bursting with. Miss Julia, are you sure Jane knows how to handle him right?"

Miss Julia was very sure and gradually convinced the Judge. Later the two old gossips talked of Leslie Harris.

"Seems to me I don't see Sam Fletcher clattering up her side porch as much as he did," said the Judge.

"No, I don't believe he does, come to think of it. But Bud Howard is there a lot and I like him much better than I do that uppity Sam Fletcher. Leslie never lacks beaux. I do believe that if there were eighty girls in this town and one man that Leslie would have him."

"You don't suppose she cared much about James, do you?"

"No-o," said Miss Julia reluctantly. "Some way she always felt a vague uncomfortable sense of guilt when she thought of Leslie. 'She seems just as cheerful and happy as ever and I've heard her say a hundred times if I've heard her say it once that James and Jane were made for each other.'"

What Miss Julia did not admit was that it had occurred to her frequently of late that she did not hear Leslie's contagious rippling laugh as often as she had in the past.

James tries, temporarily, to bring home the beauty.

for having created any indirect employment.

Thus, McCarr would have been in a position to hold up any works project until he satisfied himself that enough picks and shovels had been specifically and freshly manufactured for a particular project to provide the necessary balance of one third "direct labor." It would have been within the Comptroller General's province to withhold money for millions of dollars worth of worthy projects, say the New Dealers.

BACKSTAGE: In the privacy of their offices administration officials charge the utilities interests had a large part in trying to put this one over.

Whether true or not Glass vehemently asserted that unless the "direct labor" safeguard was written into the bill it would not be long before the White House was diverting large sums of the $4,880,000,000 to buy up and operate power plants under the guise of rural electrification. He said this wouldn't take men off the relief rolls as the bill was designed to do.

There you have the two sides of the backstage argument. One side

SNAG: There may be repercussions in New Deal corridors from the Supreme Court's decision on the Rock Island loan case.

When the high court held that under Section 77 of the bankruptcy law a federal court can prevent sale of collateral held against defaulted loans of a railroad—because it might interfere with reorganization plans—there are those who wonder how the Reconstruction Finance Corporation may be affected in the future. The RFC holds plenty of railroad collateral.

The RFC is one of the important factors in aiding business through government loans. Its resources are supposed to be liquid and constitute a revolving fund. Being a corporation in every sense of the word, according to the Court's decision RFC has no more right to sell collateral posted by carriers in process of reorganization than the banks of New York and Chicago.

avoid a summer crisis. But at least the breathing spell gives Congress time for legislative action which Lewis can construe as a victory. That's what he's after.

CLOUDS: New York sees the great value of the truce as a precedent for continued peace in the steel and motor industries. In those cases also organized labor has put on a bold front secretly praying its hand won't be called. It will welcome—as Lewis did—a decent excuse for inaction.

The tire industry is another breed of goats. Sub-surface feelings are much more bitter. Steel, auto and coal officials have resisted union encroachments—but their opposition has been largely passive and at least they have gone through the motions of keeping the channels of negotiation open. Not so the rubber barons. Their contemptuous attitude that the Federation isn't even worthy of notice has salted raw wounds and there's an avid yearning in labor circles to show 'em a thing or two.

Moreover in the case of rubber labor feels reasonably assured of the government's moral support. The National Labor Relations Board's demand that Firestone quit financing its company union—which Firestone will ignore—is confirming evidence. This implies assertion of managerial prerogatives where loans are defaulted. Comment runs that Mr. Jones will have intimate knowledge of all the tribulations to which bankers are subject before he's through.

but you can't pay debts with sympathy."

BANKER: Announcement that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation—"the world's largest bank"—is getting deeper and deeper into private business failed to stir the spinal shivers in New York you might have expected. Right wingers were more inclined to snicker than palpitate.

They point out that Mr. Jones is in rather a cruel spot. As a potential conservative Democratic candidate for President he can't afford to foster socialistic tendencies in his own organization. Therefore they don't expect him to take over any more properties than he has to.

But at the same time he is obliged to protect the RFC's reputation as the most solvent New Deal agency. This implies assertion of managerial prerogatives where loans are defaulted. Comment runs that Mr. Jones will have intimate knowledge of all the tribulations to which bankers are subject before he's through.

Regular Elimination
The proper use of Thedford's Black-Draught (for constipation) tends to leave the bowels acting regularly. It is a fine, reliable long-established family laxative.

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught fully thirty years," writes Mrs. J. E. McDuff, of Elgin, Texas. "I had trouble from constipation, why I first began the use of it, and as it gave perfect satisfaction I do not see any reason to change."

Another good thing about Black-Draught that helps to make it so popular—it is NOT expensive. THEODOR'S BLACK-DRAUGHT (Adv.)

NO. 1 HANG-OVER--OVER EATING

Most people think of over drinking as the cause of hang-overs when over eating, or eating the wrong food is the big offender. Distress after eating is banished after a glass of 7-Up. The effect of 7-Up in the stomach neutralizes the acid—the CO₂ (Carbon Dioxide) purifies and sweetens the stomach. 7-Up does take the "ouch" out of grouch. You can easily prove it. Keep a case at home.

7-Up sold wherever Bottled Drinks are sold. Order a case today from your grocer.

The next Hang-Over will be No. 2—Over Drinking.

A FULL 200 POUNDS
OF REAL EASTERN AT THE RIGHT QUALITY PRICE

Mr. Farmer: You have an important decision to make: One that vitally affects the welfare of you and your family.

In a short time the roads will be literally covered with trucks and wagons loaded with fertilizer. Some of these will be headed for your farm. Will it be just another load of fertilizer, or will it be a carefully selected load of plant food especially made for the particular crop under which you will use it. In making this selection you can not be too careful. Much depends upon your decision.

Now, if the bags on these trucks or wagons coming to your farm are branded "EASTERN", you will KNOW that you have a fertilizer second to none; that is backed by a management whose sincere purpose is to give to its customers the real results of experiment station recommendations; a fertilizer that has given great satisfaction to thousands of Virginia and Carolina farmers.

Legislative Ramblings

 tne U. S. Page, was openly defied and dared to do his darndest by Senator Bunn Frink when the latter rose to the familiar point of personal privilege to make public a letter he had received from the wife of Elizabethtown. The letter, which was unsigned, warned Senator Frink to stop opposing the Bladen Bombshells "purely local" bills and hinted at dire reprisals if and when the Senator should happen to be in Elizabethtown "at night."

Senator Frink, who hails from Brunswick, a county in the same Senatorial district as Bladen, has successfully throttled a number of the fiery Page's bill. Two weeks ago they almost came to blows.

Page was chief of police at Dunn, has shot and killed five men, and once stayed off single-handed a mob bent on lynching him. He was the father of the amendment to the lethal gas bill which would have placed the gas chamber on wheels so that it might be sent from county to county in order that those paying the death penalty would have forfeited their lives in the county in which the crime was committed.

There is at least one man in your capital city who knows his business. That man is Charles Ross, counsel to the State Highway Department. Originally sent over to the highway offices as assistant attorney general assigned to the Highway Commission, he has since demonstrated so well that he knows his job that the commissioners made sure of him by making him their counsel.

When a legislative roads committee meets Ross is on hand to give information. No bulky brief case or portfolio of statistics does he tote around. No, sir. He is the original ask-me-another man. To date no committee member has thought up a question difficult enough to stump him. He answers intricate, involved queries on the spur of the moment without reference to a single book or sheaf of papers. His brain is a flying cabinet wherein are placed, in neat array, practically every available piece of information concerning North Carolina's Highway Department, its activities, and its problems.

United States Attorney-General Homer Cummings kept the 170 members of the North Carolina Legislature cooling their heels in the hall of the Lower House for about ten minutes. Scheduled to address the General Assembly at noon, he made his appearance ten minutes later.

"Do I have to get a ticket of some sort to attend a session of the Legislature?" is a question asked by first-time visitors to Raleigh. No pass or ticket is required. The Legislature is not a show. Well, not technically, you know.

Instead of growing fonder as the legislative session gets nearer since the adjournment, local delegations from the various and sundry home bailiwicks of legislators are getting more numerous. Some of them are coming up to tell their Representatives and Senators what's what about local legislation. Most of the delegations are composed of county commissioners, office-holders and small-time politicians back home. They ask for this and that, and sometimes the other.

CITY ALDERMEN PERMIT SUNDAY BASEBALL TO BE PLAYED

 ed to the aldermen by Mr. Ross, showing that between $7,300 and $7,500 would be required to defray cost of operation for the period. He said it was not a movement designed to increase teachers' salaries or improvement of any department of the system, but purely an effort to give the children of the city the same advantages enjoyed by other cities where the ninth month supplements has already been voted.

The board also completed plans for the municipal election to be held here on Monday, May 6, when a mayor and six board members are to be elected. The election was ordered called at a former session, but the naming of pollholders was left until last night. Jack Foley, Mrs. Alex Viola were named registrars at the previous meeting.

The Sunday baseball question popped up unexpectedly and a fairly large delegation of "fans" and three or four opponents were on hand to register their approval and disapproval. Mayor Flanagan threw the question for discussion and G. V. Smith, president of the Greenville baseball club, and for many years connected with baseball activities in the community, presented the question on behalf of the club directors.

He informed the aldermen of the recent "pop" meeting held in the courthouse here, stating that sentiment at that time appeared to be unequivocally in favor of the sport on Sunday. He said an effort was being made to have Sunday games included in the schedule for all eight of the participating cities, and that this was already assured in the majority of places.

He said he did not intend to say whether it was a matter of right or wrong, but made the request because sentiment apparently was in favor of the recreation in view of the fact that it was to be played in the other towns of the circuit.

Assuring the board that play would be conducted with order, he declared he would see that the dignity of the community was observed if he had to don a policeman's badge himself and take part in enforcing the law.

Commenting on claims of some opponents that Sunday games were desired purely for commercial reasons, the speaker asserted he would take it upon himself to see that any profit derived from the games be turned over to charitable purposes. He said there were no commercial reasons attached to the proposition at all, in view of the fact that the ball club had never made money and that the sport merely was provided for community diversion.

Miss Ruth Hillhouse, director of young people's religious education of the Presbyterian Church, followed Mr. Smith, and asked the board not to grant the request for the good of the moral and spiritual life of the community. She told of the downfall of the children of Israel because of their disregard for the Sabbath, and expressed fear that continued disregard on the part of the people of this community might lead to some similar calamitous occurrence.

She said Sunday had been set aside to "keep holy, for worship and meditation," and did not feel that could be accomplished by yelling through the kind usually played a conspicuous part. She said the whole question involved "money or God," and declared that monetary had been enunciated by His followers since time immemorial. She appealed to the board to consider the effect on the young people of the city, and instead of providing more things to detract their attention from spiritual things on Sunday, to close up those already existing and make the Sabbath truly representative and in keeping with the Bible.

Judge Dink James, who made the keynote speech at the "pop" meeting Tuesday night, commended Miss Hillhouse for her fearlessness in her defense of the religious life of the community. He quoted that part of the Constitution of the United States pertaining to the welfare and happiness of the people, and asserted that if Sunday baseball was necessary to the happiness and well-being on the community, then the people should have it.

He said he had no intention of wrong, and did not see where it could work and moral of spiritual harm in view of the fact that it is one of the most wholesome forms of recreation. He assured the aldermen the schedule would in no way interfere with activities of the church and would be arranged so that the hours of play would not conflict with those of the various religious institutions of the community.

Alderman J. H. Boyd warmly commended the position taken by Miss Hillhouse and assured the board and the delegation that he was opposed to Sunday baseball and would cast his vote against it.

Alderman M. B. Massey, who years ago played first base for the Greenville club of the Eastern Carolina League, but has in recent years been a member of the dental profession, displayed the fact that the ministry missed a mighty good pulpit speaker by delivering a real sermon. He spoke probably longer than any of the rest, and when he expressed fear he was taking up too much time, Mayor Flanagan told him, "to go ahead," that it was probably the first time the board had heard a good sermon in some time.

Dr. Massey enumerated various reasons for support of the religious life of the community, declaring that he was a Sunday school teacher himself, and had always, since the day of his infancy, stood for the things looking to the spiritual uplift of humanity.

He discussed the question from many angles, and finally offered an amendment to a previous motion by Alderman Herman Duncan also a ball player during the day. Dr. Massey handled the willow with such devastating effect, that baseball be permitted on Sunday providing it did not interfere with religious services. The amendment provided that the schedule be arranged from 1 to 6 p. m. and be placed on trial until September 1 so that the board might have a chance or rescinding its action before the dignity of the community could be destroyed.

Voting on the amendment found Aldermen Fleming, Duncan, Taft and Massey in favor and Mrs. J. L. Hassell, J. H. Boyd and A. E. Hobgood against.

Judge Dink James presented a petition from Mrs. Van Station requesting the board to permit a Mr. Sumrell to operate a pool-room in her building on Evans Street, but the board refused to grant it.

Alderman Fleming reported on the improvement program at Greenwood Cemetery, saying that new lot had been arranged according to plans. The board okayed the report. Mrs. J. L. Hassell also reported on the planting of a number of trees at the cemetery as a part of a beautification program, and this action also received approval of the board.

Alderman Fleming, member of a committee on the location of a bus station on Fifth Street, reported that to the satisfaction of the committee the question had worked itself out. He said congestion at the point had been greatly relieved by the taking off of a number of buses, and action of the police not to grant the buses any more privilege than other machines. He said buses were not permitted to park in the street, and if they were unable to find a place to park at the curb, they were kept moving until they could find a place to stop and unload their passengers.

There were several other minor matters considered by the board in addition to the paying of bills and claying reports of the various departments of government. The session was one of the longest in recent months, and a called meeting is on tap at a date to be fixed by the mayor to consider business that could not be completed last night.

The Career of a Funeral Director

How does one become a funeral director? That is a question often asked. The chief essential is a sympathetic nature and a sincere desire to help others. At least a high school education or its equal is necessary and then an intensive course at one of the many fine embalming colleges throughout the country.

Having passed this course satisfactorily, the graduate takes a strict state examination and, if successful, receives a license. Then follows a long period of practice before complete ability is reached. Meanwhile the funeral director must keep in touch with modern advances through his professional societies and technical publications.

The members of our staff have met these requirements with outstanding records. They have wide experience and are well suited to their duties. That is one of many reasons why our services are so much in demand.

a better-balanced FERTILIZER

CHARLIE GRAVES, of Kinston, is one of the leading bright tobacco growers in North Carolina. All of the tobacco grown on the 35 farms in the five counties shown on the map was supervised by him last year. It received a fertilizer containing 8% POTASH. Mr. Graves says: "Extra potash in tobacco fertilizer has given us improved quality, larger yields and greater profits. Of course, fertilizer must be varied to suit particular lands, but after seeing potash tests on tobacco and after using a fertilizer containing 8% POTASH on 596 acres of tobacco in 1933, as well as on the reduced acreage last year, I can conscientiously recommend 3-8-8 FERTILIZER to the tobacco growers of this section."

"If you wish to use a low-potash fertilizer at planting you can then topdress with sulphate of potash at the first or second plowing. This has worked fine for us. The right amount of high-potash fertilizer will produce a thin, grainy leaf of good color that fits the demand. It weighs out well with increased yields per acre. I am not talking about the thick, bony tobacco which is generally known as 'heavy' and is a drug on the market. High-potash tobacco is heavy on the scales and heavy on the profits."

Late News Flashes

was no doubt but that the revenue bill would be reported out by his group late today.

Acting after his assurance the senate decided to meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow to place the tax measure on the calendar and to assemble at noon Monday and start work on it as a committee of the whole.

There was no activity in the finance committee this morning but a meeting was scheduled for late this afternoon.

The senate approved and sent to the house an administration bill to increase the personnel of the state highway patrol from 67 to 121, creation of a division of highway safety of the Revenue department and establishment of a state radio system for law enforcement when funds are available.

House approval was voted a bill already passed by the senate to permit sheriffs and bonded deputies to serve criminal processes in any county in the state instead of only in the resident counties.

The senate elections committee this afternoon unfavorably reported the Corey Bill to repeal the absentee ballot law in Pitt county but a minority report will be made.

The committee voted to further the report and chairman Nixon of Lincoln cast the deciding ballot against the bill.

Without debate the house killed the Allbrook bill which the senate argued at length and which would prohibit county chairmen of political parties from running for office unless they resign their part post prior to the first of March in the year they run.

House Approves Work Relief Bill.

Washington, April 5.—(AP)—The conference agreement on the $4,880,000 work relief program was approved today by the House.

Senate action remained to speed the measure to President Roosevelt. Only an hour debate preceded the House acceptance of the conference report continuing the compromise agreement on the controversial work relief bill.

House clerks prepared immediately to carry the huge money bill to the other end of the capitol where Senate leaders awaited to press its approval.

Just as the relief bill neared the congressional finish another administration measure emerged from the House ways and means committee. It was the much talked of social securities bill which officials believed would mean $800,000,000 in new taxes in 1938 and a minimum of $1,800,000,000 by 1948.

The official business of the House was the McSwain bill, while the Senate considered the pure food and drug bill.

An increase of 39.7 per cent in income tax collections in March over the same month last year was reported by the treasury.

A. F. L. Backing Sprinkler Plan For State House

Raleigh, N. C., April 5.—The American Federation of Labor is backing a more to equip all State-owned buildings with automatic sprinkler systems as a precaution against fire. Under the signature of "Bill" Green, national president, letters are being mailed to State Federations urging legislative action along that line.

Green says that in fifty-one years of experience in sprinkler-equipped buildings that not a single life has been lost because of fire.

It is unlikely that any legislation requiring the installation of sprinkler systems for State-owned buildings will be passed by the present Legislature, but the Federation is interested in getting the subject before legislators so that eventually such a step will be taken in North Carolina.

New York Cotton

New York, April 5.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened quiet unchanged to three higher with a fair trade demand for old crop months and foreign selling of the late months.

At the end of the first half hour active months were unchanged to two lower with July selling at 10.95 and December 10.59. At midday July was selling at 11.03 and December at 10.67, or five to eight points net higher.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 5.—(AP)—Securities markets resumed their journey toward higher levels today and with the going smoother the trading pace was increased appreciably.

Incentive for continuation of the upward climb appeared in brighter business and industrial news, the congressional compromise on the work relief bill and improved sentiment.

The utilities led the advance although other sections of the list soon joined the procession. Grains were uncertain under the impetus of Liverpool selling but cotton improved. Bonds were better. Sterling moved up as the London price was again lower. The closing tone was firm. Transfers were 1,200,000 shares.

FINGER TIP You'll like its porcelain finish in modern colors: green and ivory, buff and ivory, or black and white. You'll like the compact, sturdy design, the full rounded corners and edges.

OVEN HEAT CONTROL You'll find new thrills in its cooking. The five powerful wickless burners give clean heat, focused on the cooking—cool kitchens. The big porcelain-lined oven, fully insulated with rock wool, is quick and hot and its Fingertip Heat Control enables you to balance the heat at moderate cooking temperatures.

FOCUSED HEAT Florence Oil Ranges are real time savers, work savers. Reliable dealers everywhere are showing models of all types for every need and purse. See these amazing values.

ROCK WOOL INSULATION 22 BIG FEATURES Outstanding value, backed by 63 years' experience. Endorsed by Good Housekeeping Institute. All level cooking top has end shelf, mantel has warming shelf. Oven has side-wall thermometer; heat spreader prevents the burning of food on the bottom.

Ask your Florence Dealer for a free copy of the big folder that shows modern Florence kitchens in color, and tells how to plan them. If he cannot supply you, write Florence Stove Company, 31 Hayes Street, N.W., Atlanta, Ga.

"I'm using

BLOUNT'S TOBACCO FERTILIZER

It yields more pounds to the acre, and it yields a finer textured tobacco which brings a higher price on the warehouse floor.

It doesn't have any sand filler, and it doesn't leech the soil. And then, it's made and sold by home folks."
