France and Soviet Russia Agree On Mutual Defense

RUSSIA ALSO REACHES PACT WITH GERMANY

Britain Plans to go to Stresa Conference With Open Mind; Italian Government Determined Conference Will Take Definite Action for Peace

FRANCE AND RUSSIA

(By The Associated Press)

The announcement of an agreement between France and Soviet Russia for mutual defense came with unexpected suddenness to diplomats preparing for the opening of the conference Thursday at Stresa, Italy directed toward the establishment of a Pan-European security system.

The Franco-Russian agreement was explained as a secondary check against war in case the proposed Pan-European system fails to designate the aggressor nation in event of hostilities.

Even as the bi-lateral military agreement between France and Russia was announced, Russia concluded a bilateral treaty with Germany and Russian commentators said this suggestion might be necessary for Eastern European nations to make their own deals.

Sir John Simon, the British Foreign Secretary, informed Robert W. Bingham, the United States Ambassador, that Britain was going to the Stresa conference with an "open mind."

The Italian government which has the French and British commitments the Stresa conference indicated it was determined that the conference should take definite action

GUARDSMEN TO BE INSPECTED

Annual Inspection of Military Unit to be Made in Greenville Tomorrow

The annual inspection of the local unit of North Carolina National Guards will take place tomorrow it was announced today by Captain J. H. Waldrop, head of the local organization.

The inspection will be made by Colonel Parkhurst, Major Quintard and Colonel Cheshire, of the North Carolina National Guards and will consume practically the entire day. Captain Waldrop said he had been informed that Adjutant General J. Van Metre would visit the guardsmen in the near future, although definite date for his coming had not been determined.

Annual inspection is always an important affair in the life of the artillerymen and the army and men alike will have on their best "bib and tucker" when the ranking officers of the National Guards appear here.

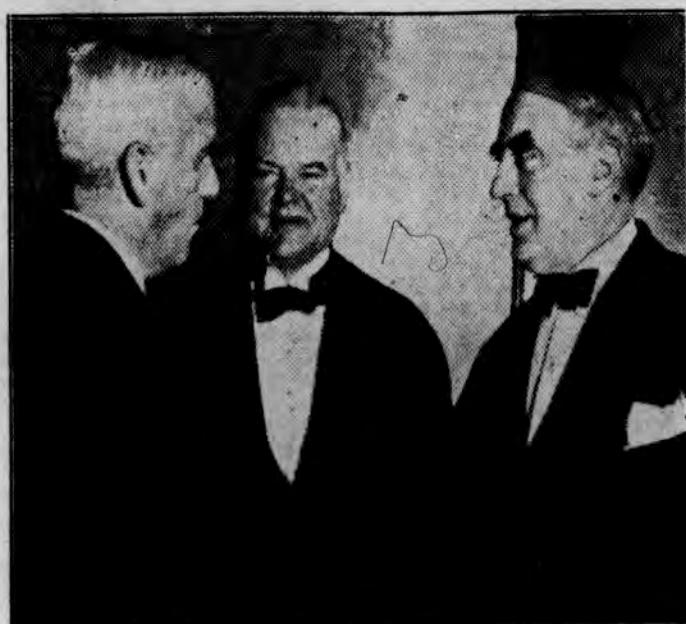

With new uniforms and trucks, the local unit is expected to make the best showing in years and come off with a rating of among the best in the State. The unit in past years has been accorded considerable praise by the officers of the organization and this year is expected to be no exception.

The new trucks, Captain Waldrop said, will enable the Guardsmen to go to annual encampment the latter part of the summer by means of their own transportation facilities. In past years they have been making the trip by train with supplies and equipment being sent by this limited number of trucks on hand.

Captain Waldrop also said the unit was up to full strength at this time with 65 men and four officers. The youngsters have been going through considerable drilling recently in preparation for the coming of the inspecting officers and should be in the best of trim.

The Braves will be well manned when they start master-minding with Manager McKechnie, Assistant Manager Ruth, ex-Manager Fred Mitchell, ex-Manager Maranville, ex-Manager Puchs, ex-Manager Duffy and ex-Manager Gowdy.

As usual, these services will be held in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church from 8:30 each morning, including Saturday. The schedule of preachers for these services is as follows:

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore appeared before the association and asked the endorsement and support of the members of the Community Fine Arts Program to be presented on Wednesday and Thursday, April 10 and 11. This request was most heartily granted and the members promised to add to this action such support as might be given through public announcement from pulpit and through bulletins.

The reports on the Union Lenten Services being held in the Pitt Theater each Sunday evening during Lent were splendid and the members expressed themselves as much gratified with this community effort.

SPLITTING Democrats whose return to Congress depends upon the success of FDR next year, are hard at work along the radical fringe, trying to stir up several presidential ambitions so that the radicals will split their vote and let FDR go sailing in "If you think Roosevelt is too conservative, why don't you boost LaFollette?" asked a regular Democrat of a radical constituent. Huey Long has been patted on the back lately by a number of regular Roosevelt men—why? Senator Wheeler is another radical whose secret yearning for the White House are encouraged. They say Huey Long and Wheeler are buddies.

Regular Democrats see a radical ticket in the field anyhow. Therefore they want two or three—the more the merrier and the more sure the victory of FDR.

SCARCE President Roosevelt has been sounding out prominent men in sections where great power developments are in prospect. He wants these men to serve without pay as counselors in working preliminary features of these projects. Government engineers have already outlined the project in a sketchy fashion.

HOLD FOUR IN CAR ROBBERIES

Four Negroes Bound Over to Superior Court in Preliminary Hearing Today

Four negroes, arrested here the first of the week on a charge of robbing freight cars of the Norfolk Southern Railway, were given preliminary hearing in police court here this morning and bound over to the next sitting of criminal Superior Court.

They were unable to provide bond of $1,000 each and were remanded to jail.

They are Boston McNeal, Frank Austin, Eddie Barnes, and Robert Betha.

McNeal is charged with stealing cigarettes valued at approximately $300 from a car here Sunday night. The cigarettes were recovered by police near Greenville where the negro had hid them.

The other three are charged with stealing rayon goods and belts from another train. They were arrested at Farmville and Wilson and returned to Greenville to face trial.

The major part of the stolen property was recovered.

McNeal, Chief of Police George Clark said today, has been connected with a number of freight car thefts in recent years, and had just recently completed a term on the roads. Each of the defendants alleged confessed when they were quizzed at police headquarters.

ALLEGED COUNTERFEITER

ARRESTED IN RICHMOND

Charlotte, N. C., April 10.—(AP)—Albert Wertz, Spartanburg, S. C. negro wanted for passing counterfeit money in Charlotte, Columbia, Asheville, Hendersonville and other Carolina towns, has been arrested in Richmond, Va., and will be returned here for trial. Henry E. Thomas, of the U. S. Secret Service announced today.

On account of the urgency of relief-work it was decided not to ask Congress for a walloping big federal power-project system at this session. But the scheme for duplicating TVA systems is well under way. The Mississippi is to have two, upper and lower, and other watersheds are under study. Plans are in the making to extend to the Columbia and Upper Missouri projects the TVA electrical appliance scheme for farmers.

Look out for further government reports stressing the shortage of power in case of war—reports on the line of the one lately issued by the Federal Power Commission.

PROPOSANTS TO RALLY BACK OF COTTON TAX

Rep. Fulmer Declares Movement on Foot to Save Processing Legislation

Washington, D. C., April 10.—(AP)—Indications that proponents of the cotton processing tax would rally strongly to its defense were seen today in the contention of Representative Fulmer, Democrat of South Carolina, the cotton textile industry was "shedding its cotton fetters."

As the movement to have the tax removed gained momentum in Congress, Representative Fulmer defended it stoutly and accused Southern representatives of participating in the movement of joining hands with the enemy. Meanwhile signatures to a petition being circulated in the House calling on the President to remove the levy and substitute benefits to farmers from the work relief fund reached the one hundred mark.

PITT SLAYER IS SET FREE

Ollie Hodges Released on Parole at Raleigh by Order of Gov. Ehringhaus

Ollie Hodges, Pitt County white man serving a prison sentence for murder, has been paroled by Governor Ehringhaus after serving two and a half years of a fifteen-year sentence. It was announced at the office of Edwin Gill, Commissioner of Paroles, yesterday.

Hodges was convicted in Pitt County Superior Court in August 1932, and was sentenced by Judge W. C. Harris. Judge Harris occurred in a parole recommendation made by trial Solicitor D. M. Clark who wrote that the prisoner was "very drunk" and the time of the crime and "hardly realized what he was doing."

Various other persons in Pitt County, including the Clerk of Court, sheriff and register of deeds urged that clemency be extended Hodges.

The Governor also paroled four other prisoners, including Joe Long Jackson County Indians serving a five-year sentence for attempted criminal assault. Long's parole was recommended by Chief Jarrett Bythe of the Cherokee tribe, among others.

RIVERS RISE IN THIS STATE

Tar River Expected to Reach 18 Foot Stage At Tarboro in Next Few Days

Raleigh, N. C., April 10.—(AP)—Four eastern North Carolina rivers were in light flood today, but the swirling muddy waters were doing little damage. Lee A. Denson, in charge of the Weather Bureau here, said the Cape Fear River reached 28 feet at Fayetteville last night and started falling with a depth this morning at Elizabethtown of 24.2 feet. The water has about reached a standstill at Elizabethtown where it is out of its banks. The Neuse was 13.6 feet at Smithfield, overflowing its banks and another rise was predicted there.

The Roanoke at Weldon had reached 36.2 feet this morning and was still rising. The Tar was rising in the lower reaches and flood warnings for a depth of 18 feet, or slightly above, were issued at Tarboro.

The explosion, which shattered the windows in 39 establishments in a half-mile radius. Deputy State Fire Marshal John Reardon estimated the damage at $500,000.

The dead man was identified as Joseph Bond, 51, of Weymouth, father of six children and manager of a chain grocery store. Four of the six persons taken to the city and Weymouth hospitals included two firemen who were on the danger list. One of the firemen was not expected to live. Other injured occupants to live. Other injured occupants to live. Other injured occupants to live.

Two birds with one stone is exceptional, but one bolt of lightning killed 1,500 of them at Clarendon, Va., in 1931. The birds, sparrows, were perched on an electric light wire when the lightning struck it.

Misspelled Word Contest Gains In Popularity

The misspelled word contest that has appeared in The Daily Reflector each Wednesday for the past three weeks is surely creating a wealth of interest among the readers of this newspaper. A greater volume of entries have been received at the office each week which indicates that the readers are doing some intensified at reading. A number of the entrants corrected the words "Chevies" to Chevrolets and "Olds" to Oldsmobiles.

While these words are coined by the automobile dealers, they are really not in the classification of misspelled words, and your contest editor pleads "not guilty" to the foregoing.

Some very neat entries were received at this office which made the fair awarding of prizes a very difficult problem.

The prize winners for the issue of April 3 are as follows: First prize, Mrs. Elsie Zankiser; second prize, Mrs. Richard Williams, and third prize, to Mrs. L. L. Stokes, all of Greenville.

To honorable mention are entitled Edith Forest, Inez Allen, Mrs. W. J. Webb, and Tony Forbes, all of Greenville, and Miss Annie Bryan, of Winterville, N. C.

If the winners of prizes will call at the office of The Daily Reflector, checks will be handed to each individual covering the prize won.

In this issue appears the last misspelled word page of this campaign; therefore, your contest editor suggests that your good folks get out your dictionaries and catch these words that might catch you napping, so watch your spelling.

BOARD OKAYS ELECTION FOR SCHOOLS HERE

Aldermen Approve Proposal For Referendum For Nine Months' Term

An election looking to a nine months' school term for Greenville apparently was assured today following approval of the proposed referendum by the Board of Aldermen meeting in special session at the City Hall late yesterday afternoon.

Action of the board followed presentation of resolutions from the Board of Trustees of city schools asking that an election be called to give the people of the school district an opportunity of expressing themselves on the subject. The movement by the school board resulted from petitions from various parent-teacher organizations of the city and the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs.

J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, presented the resolutions to the board, remarking that the movement was launched in behalf of the children of the community and not for improvement of the school system or raising of teachers' salaries.

Mr. Rose appeared before the Board of Education of Pitt County yesterday and the resolutions were also given okay by that body. Final action was to be taken today and tomorrow when the resolutions are presented to the Board of County Commissioners and the State School Commission for approval. The commissioners gave their approval this afternoon.

The reason for the resolution having to pass through the hands of so many boards is caused by the fact that the Greenville school district goes beyond the boundaries of the city and thereby gives the county authorities a chance to act on the proposal.

The date of the election will be set immediately after final approval has been given by the two remaining boards. It was said and machinery for the balloting will be set up at once.

The eight months' school term supported by the State, but it is necessary for cities and towns desiring an additional month to vote an assessment. Other towns of the State have already done this, and it is argued by proponents of the movement here that Greenville children should enjoy the same advantages of those in other parts of the State.

SEEK CLEANUP AT UNIVERSITY

Grand Jury Probe of Student Morals at University of Iowa Threatened

Iowa City, Iowa, April 10.—(AP)—An ultimatum demand "a thorough clean-up" of student morals with a grand jury inquiry, the penalty for non-compliance, confronted University of Iowa officials today.

The threat of the grand jury came from County Attorney A. E. Baldwin and 23 members of the Beta Delta Fraternity and disbanding of the Iowa chapter on charges of keeping a disorderly house.

"If there is not a thorough clean-up of conditions which exist in fraternities in intent to begin an investigation of my own when the grand jury convenes May 6," the prosecutor said.

There was no indication, however, that university officials intend to follow the demands by Baldwin. Dean of Men Robert Renow said the case was closed as far as the university was concerned.

"That is not true, and they know it is not true," the dean replied to charges by the attorney that two girls in the case "circulated freely" from fraternity to fraternity.

Late News Flashes

In the Legislature
Raleigh, N. C., April 10.—(AP)—Wilkes County politics and controversy over license taxes on hotels, boarding-houses and restaurants tied the Senate in a knot today and prevented further consideration of the per cent retail sales tax in the biennial revenue bill.

The House got a new bill to prevent the so-called stretch-out in textile plants and worked slowly on a public calendar, although, passing a number of local measures.

The House this afternoon passed and sent to the Senate a measure to require railroads operating in North Carolina to provide a minimum crew of five members on passenger and freight trains. The bill came to the House on a minority favorable report.

A cleanup victory was gained by Representative Stone, of Rockingham, when the House passed on second reading his bill to abolish the present State bank commission and transfer its duties to the Utilities Commission. Vote was 38 to 35. Harris, of Person, objected to further consideration when Sullivan, of Buncombe, asked immediate final passage, and the bill was carried over.

The bank measure reached the floor on a minority report and had been opposed in committee by more than a score of bankers as well as representatives of Federal banking agencies.

Bowie, of Ashe, led the fight for the minority report which was adopted with O'Berry, of Wayne (Continued on Page Four.)

IMMIGRATION FRAUD PROBE IS COMMENCED

Government Promises Starting Revelations From 1923 to 1933 At New York

Washington, D. C., April 10.—(AP)—"Startling revelations" were promised by the government today as it announced it had evidence of thousands of frauds in the immigration and naturalization field from 1923 to 1933. It moved to oust a number of employees and started a wholesale prosecution.

The bill paid by illegally entered aliens to the bribes taken in the service and "fixers" outside was estimated at $1,000,000 or more.

"Revelations so startling in character have come to light that investigators believe the actual extent of fraud has been partially disclosed," said a statement issued by the Labor Department last night after a secret investigation of fraud in the New York district.

The recent indictment of Michael Hogan, a former Congressman who was confidential clerk to the Collector of Customs at the port of New York, was noted by the Department.

Samuel H. Kaufman, of New York, special Assistant Attorney General, appointed to prosecute the immigration racketeers, has been given evidence to support twenty-five criminal prosecutions involving thirty or thirty-five individuals.

Virtually all members of the board were on hand for the gathering and listened to illuminating work reports from the various members.

The ten day period will be confined to preparations for the Washington Jamboree in August. He assured that a ten day camp would be held at Camp Cooper near Rocky Mount beginning July 14. He also said a camp for rural boys would be held at Camp Charles the week of May 26. The board voted to authorize a committee to make a camp available for colored scouts this summer. It also provided for the setting up of a camp for rural boys if necessary.

K. T. Putrell, chairman of the civic service committee, reported a number of good turns done by the council. These pertained to participation in a highway safety campaign, protection of street lights, and other public services. He said the light protection in the City of Greenville alone had been reduced from $60 in December to $23 in March.

Dr. Mullins of Wilson, reported that camp inspection would be made with a view of throwing a safeguard around the scouts both from the standpoint of sanitation and other forms of safety.

A flag was presented to the Greenville district for largest attendance at the annual meeting in Wilson on January 3.

Other committee members reported progress in their respective fields with all optimistic as to the outlook for the work in all parts of the council.

Myrl Hoag, being tried out by the Yanks as a third baseman, was a star at that position when younger. But his father, an old professional ball player, advised him to go to the outfield where baseball players last longer.

Dr. Ennet says that the bad weather for the past few days interfered somewhat with the attendance upon the clinics. It is understood that so far Chicod School has the distinction of having the largest clinic, 50 pre-school children having been examined at this school.

Adult Study Class

The final gathering of the Adult Study Class assembled in the laboratory of the Home Economic Department on Tuesday evening for the last study of this season.

Miss Mary York, under whose capable leadership this class has been conducted, opened the meeting with greetings, and announced the subject, which was "Recreation in the Home," and named music and reading as two formal essentials to every home. A splendid illustration was provided by Miss Ona Shindler and a trio of girls from her music class, in the way of music, and a play entitled "The Ladies," read by Miss Mary Dirmberger in the way of reading. Mrs. Rose briefly explained the purpose of the Mothers' Club giving an outline of the year's program, and urged the mothers to attend. Following this most interesting program, members of Miss York's Home Economic class served fresh strawberry tarts and coffee.

We were delighted to welcome as guests, Miss Mary Dirmberger, Miss Rogers, Miss Ona Shindler, Mrs. J. H. Rose, Mrs. Elliot of the Nursery school and members of the West End faculty.

This meeting brought to a close a series of twelve meetings which have been conducted by Miss Mary York, George-Reed Home Economic leader, and is the first Adult Study class of its nature conducted in Greenville. The members wish to publicly express their gratitude to Miss York for affording us the very rare privilege of meeting together in a study, the purpose of which has been, "The Promotion of Family Relationships." This subject has included many topics for discussion, and has been prepared and presented by Miss York, herself.

Amateur Night at College

NEW BOOKS

By JOHN SELBY

Rachel Field is trying to revivify one of the oldest of novelistic "set-ups," the decay of a family dynasty. Other burdens she bears are these: her book is about the Maine coast, which is a first-person chronicle, which is dangerous, and it contains a musical genius, and almost nobody can write about music in fiction without botching it.

But she succeeds in "Time Out of Mind" (Macmillan) because she makes her Kate, the girl who went to the Fortune mansion, grow to love it and young Nat, and grew to love the smell and surge of the coast still more, a perfectly credible being. Major Fortune, the stern and rockbound patriarch, is "less credible; Nat's sister is not too believable; Nat is only passable.

But Kate is grand. She is the explanation of an old maid who should have been a wife. She lives for the reader, and the reader knows her. Kate and the Maine coast are the book.

As an aside, might it not be possible to draw, someday, a musician who is not an eternal, delicate being? Most musicians are as strong as oxen—they have to be. The temptation is, of course, to produce fictional musicians who match the vigorous strands of tone which flutter hearts in sentimental passages; the chances are very good, however, that the chap who wrote those lovely chords will outlast the average over-strained athlete.

"The High Mettled Race," by Ernest Lewis (Dutton): a race horse writes an autobiography; well and not too sentimentally done, with interesting sidelights on horsey England.

"Must We Fight In Asia?" by Nathaniel Peffer (Harpers): it looks to Mr. Peffer as if our growing demand for oriental trade and Japan's obvious intention of keeping most of it for herself are likely to bring trouble; "the Far East today is where Europe was in 1909," he writes.

"Below London Bridge," by H. M. Tomlinson (Harpers): the port of London, written about by one who loves it and can make the reader follow suit; the numerous photographs are by Mr. Tomlinson's son.

"Strange Cults and Secret Societies of Modern London," by Elliott O'Donnell (Dutton): about the Gray sisters, and other curious and grisly matters calculated to make the hackles rise; you'll suspect your maiden aunt after you finish it.

RED OAK NEWS

The Red Oak Home Demonstration Club is making a "Friendship Quilt" to help boost funds for our treasury. The quilt will be a block pattern design and will be made of a rich dark brown and yellow everfast gingham and the names of our friends who wish to help us with this project will be embroidered on the squares with brown and yellow thread. The squares were distributed last Wednesday at our club meeting and each club member will place her name in a bag, and then will get as many of our friends as she can to help her finish out her square. Already two members have finished their square which has sixteen blocks and are helping someone else fill theirs. Several have reported as having fourteen and fifteen names. We hope to have every square filled by our next club meeting day which will be the first Wednesday in May. The hostesses will be announced at a later date. Plans were discussed at the Club House Monday morning for building an addition to our club house. Our club has outgrown our little log cabin and if the plans that were discussed at the meeting materialize we will begin work on a much larger community center at an early date. The interest in the club is at a high peak and we hope this will continue on.

We have a few chairs in our club house but every time we have a club meeting we have to carry benches from the church to the club house and then we have to carry the benches back into the church for church services. So we are having a "Chair Shower" for our club. If any of our friends have any old chairs in their attic or the garage that can be made usable by having a little work done to them, if they will call County Operator 2713 or let Mrs. Leon Tyson or Mrs. Raymond Tyson know about it we will get them. We are going to give our old chairs a new coat of paint and we will paint any other chairs we might get. We have also a committee

A POWERFUL ALLY FOR SAFETY

Aroused by the frightful record of traffic accidents and injuries during 1934, 11,000 Posts and Auxiliaries of the American Legion are uniting in a 4-point program for greater safety on the streets and highways. According to an announcement from the National Headquarters of the Legion, the efforts of the Legionnaires will be guided by a handbook distributed by their National Americanism Commission in cooperation with other agencies.

The Legion's program includes:

1. Recommendations for uniform traffic legislation.
2. Plans for safety education among both children and adults.
3. Recommendations for improved enforcement of existing traffic laws.
4. Sponsorship of better traffic engineering.

Under legislation, the Legion will recommend the uniform traffic laws established by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety and endorsed by such groups as the American Automobile Association, the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, the National Safety Council and others. These laws are considered by safety authorities as a basis for efficient traffic control, and include: A Uniform Drivers' License Law, a Uniform Financial Responsibility Statute, and Uniform Traffic Ordinances.

In adult and child safety education, formation of school boy patrols to direct pedestrian traffic near school buildings, establishment of courses in safe driving for high schools, and sponsorship of community safety programs, are among the plans to be urged.

By enlisting the American Legion, highway safety has gained a powerful ally.

doing everything possible to get a step forward at this session. FDR is anxious to indicate New York State in the great federal power development.

The snag has been negotiations with Canada. Senator Jim Ham Lewis now intimates that progress has been made which may open the way for committing the government to the St. Lawrence project—probably a resolution permitting New York State and Canada to make a deal on power division, subject to a later treaty. The treaty itself seems to be buried for this session on account of Canada's stubbornness in refusing to give Uncle Sam the right to hire any American workmen on digging jobs in Canada.

guish over the price of social security. Experts of the House Ways and Means committee calculate that business will be soaked $800,000,000 the first year for these reforms. The tax will be $1,800,000,000 by 1949 and "from then on."

House Republicans are kicking at these figures but some of them will vote for the bill. That takes the wind out of partisan opposition. On the Democratic side there's much private wailing of beads over the danger of stirring up any more resentment in industry. Openly, Democrats stand for the bill.

"As matters stand Uncle Sam pungs up $4,880,000,000 and industry must pungle up $800,000,000 more. In theory these expenditures will cure unemployment and insure workers against loss of jobs, besides taking care of the aged. Agents of industry in the corridors are saying to Congress, 'You know somebody has to pay that $4,880,000,000 back. Don't kill the golden-egg goose!'"

POLITICS: State railroad and utilities commissioners have been drawn into the fight over the Wheeler-Rayburn bill and are also raising protests against some features of the NRA and AAA proposals.

The commissioners are afraid that their occupation will be gone if Congress continues its excursion into the field of state powers. The course of the national association of railroad and utilities commissioners has given out a blast against the Wheeler-Rayburn bill, claiming that it aims at breaking down the regulatory powers of the states over operating and distributing companies.

Utilities men begin to fear the bill may be over-smashed. They want it passed with certain amendments, in order to get the subject out of politics. Some of the leaders think FDR won't permit that.

ENFORCEMENT: American Federation of Labor and its friends in Congress are going much further in the coming NRA fight than had been advertised.

AFL, speaking for "labor," will insist that the NRA law be equipped with teeth that will compel stubborn industries to get in line. "Voluntary action" can't be depended upon, in the opinion of President William Green and his cohorts. What they want is power to impose labor codes on any industry that has not voluntarily accepted a code. They suggest that a special board be created with authority to impose codes, amend codes, and to apply section 7a to any group that has not been codified. They will ask that labor have equal representation on this special board.

PRESSURE: Reconstruction Finance and Federal Housing chiefs are gradually putting some banks on a hot spot. These banks have been turning down applications for mortgage loans in spite of the fact that mortgages are now insurable by the government. Housing Administrator Moffett has obtained guarantees from his insurance companies that they will lend money on mortgages. He is sending out this information to all parts of the country and a quick spurt of new business has developed. Careful note is taken of banks that refuse to play ball; then Jesse Jones of the RFC looks into the bank's affairs. If it is of preferred stock to RFC, etc.

Jones has $100,000,000 with which to boost the mortgage-insurance system. He can help banks—and he can refuse help. Every regional office of Federal Housing Administration reports a rush of mortgage applications, including new construction enterprises. Contractors are are aiding home-builders in finding loans from insurance companies instead of banks—and the banks are losing business.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
DEMAND: Conservative leaders have figured out a new and deft approach to the problem of undermining the New Deal. It's based on subtly mobilizing consumers to ferment mass protest against high prices. An emissary is out now soliciting thousands of dollar contributions from manufacturing concerns to further the cause. He plan doesn't involve anything so crude as formation of a specific society to carry on the work. Rather the technique will be to help along existing organizations which might be useful and keep pouring in a skillful publicity barrage about the horrors of the high cost of living.

The attack has a double objective. With one barrel it aims at the political undoing of FDR. He gave the opening by recently repeating his dictum that the price level isn't yet high enough. Do consumers want it levered up some more? Then they'd better start looking for another President.

The second target intrigues large employers. After the high price seed is well planted the question will be raised as to what to make them high. The answer is partly ready: (1) High wages; (2) High taxes. Consumers will be urged to demand that these ingredients of the H. C. L. be sharply cut—especially the former. You can see what a help this will be to corporations if it goes over.

KICKBACK: Sponsors of the plan are confident their appeal will register with the public. Everybody's a consumer—and a lot of people are becoming acutely conscious of it. The hope is to evoke a crescendo of yells from all over the country which will make the public response to Huey Long and Father Coughlin sound like a crooner with a cold.

But critics see one weakness in the scheme which might prove fatal. They can easily conceive that the pressure of mobilized mass opinion could force the administration and Congress to take steps to lower prices. But they can't imagine doing anything to facilitate wage reductions. Nor can they see any possibility of easing the tax burden.

And what a kickback it would be if the industrialists behind the move were caught in a squeeze between cheaper prices and the same old wage and tax costs. The conditions they complain about today would seem a picnic by comparison.

POLITICS: The bitter struggle over the Stock Exchange presidency stirred contesting elements to unprecedented tactics. Last week a number of brokers circulated form letters on the floor of the Exchange requesting the nominating committee to rename Richard Whitney. Of 621 members approached 467 were willing to sign for Whitney. 82 refused to commit themselves—62 of these pleading the nature of their business and the principle of never taking sides.

DIVIDED FAMILY UNITED IN JAIL

Members of long standing say this is the first time a political coup has ever been put over on the Exchange as far as they can recall. This situation gives the background for important future developments in Exchange policy—both internal and external.

INNOVATION: Informal sources say that plans for a big Stock Exchange publicity campaign are progressing quietly and will soon be ready for public launching. The campaign will be based on the idea that the New York stock market is now a safe place to trade because its operations are regulated and its facilities protected by the government. Thus are even horns in the side turned to account.

Meanwhile Exchange authorities pulled a smart move by recommending to the Securities Commission that Hupp Motors be delisted before the Commission itself showed any sign of taking action. For once Wall Street beat the federal agency to the punch. Insiders agree that the Hupp case was a good one in which to demonstrate vigilance in the public interest—a thing that some of the management's maneuvers have been pretty flagrant.

A new policy of telling its public all is indicated by the Exchange's action in issuing a pamphlet containing the complete correspondence in the Hupp matter. The innovation was startling to Wall Street veterans.

MOTORS: Statistics show that little by little the big three auto makers are crowding the independents off the map. Registrations in 39 states for the first two months of this year give General Motors, Chrysler and Ford 92.5 per cent of the total. This compares to 89 per cent for the full year of 1934, 90.1 per cent for 1933 and 83 per cent for 1932. Observers say that the little fellows' chance of regaining lost ground are those of a mouse at a cat's convention.

PUNY: New Yorkers remark that the puriest rabbit in the New Deal litter is undoubtedly the idea of expanding credit by direct Federal Reserve loans to industry—born with much ballyhoo over a year ago. The total of such loans to date is only $21,700,000—of which less than two million in the key New York district.

By BRYON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

There is only one way to describe accurately the situation in Washington today. That is by recognizing frankly that it is a situation of confusion and uncertainty, which cannot be portrayed with clarity until executive, legislative and judicial attitudes have been developed more fully.

For two years the national capital has been riding along on a wave of enthusiasm and hopefulness. Mr. Roosevelt had launched certain vital experiments. The dull weariness induced by the depression had given way to a revived sense of motion.

Everyone was interested again. Congress was amiable, popular support for the President was overwhelming, and the day of reckoning in the courts seemed far away.

Now the atmosphere has changed. There is doubt and controversy where for two years there had been cheerful concord. Congress has grown quarrelsome and hesitant. The courts are approaching final judgments. Conservatism has reasserted itself on the one hand, and a bewildering swarm of radical movements has developed on the other.

Washington is puzzled. It would be thankful, indeed, if someone would tell it where it is and where it is going.

Roosevelt Silent
The general feeling of transition and uncertainty is increased by the silence of the President with respect to many of the controversies which are raging about him. It always has been Mr. Roosevelt's habit to bide his time. It is his practice not to reveal his hand until he thinks the psychological moment has arrived.

He makes a game of it, and likes to keep even some of his closest advisers guessing. In the present circumstances that method is keeping many in Congress and in administrative posts on the anxious seat.

The fortunes of key men within the administration circle are undergoing constant change. A few weeks ago Dr. Tugwell felt so disappointed he was considering resigning. Now his responsibilities have been enlarged and he seems quite happy.

Others have had the same experience. There are quite apparent differences of opinion now within the cabinet itself, and Washington again is filled with rumors of a general shake-up.

Program Changed
The administration's legislative program has been subject to constant fluctuations. About mid-March Congressional leaders received what they thought was definite word that the President wanted all his major bills passed before adjournment. A week later Senator Robinson emerged from a White House conference announcing a policy which would cut the calendar in half.

Today no member of Congress considers himself wise enough to predict just what will happen. The guesses of the insiders are divided on such important subjects as the bonus and inflation. It is difficult to recall any previous time when the fate of so large a number of major legislative proposals was hanging in the balance.

Storms Gathering?
Add to this the unsettling effect of inconclusive litigation over new deal projects, the manifest instability of popular opinion, and the constant conflict in reports as to the actual status of the curve of business recovery, and it will be apparent why Washington is confused.

The air has about it the feel of gathering storms, whose magnitude any cheap imitation of the new deal; no one can gauge with precision.

What are Republicans throughout the country thinking today? That is a prime political question, for several reasons.

The Republican leaders very much want to know, for the natural reason that they want guidance for 1936. The Democratic leaders are interested for the unusual reason that Mr. Roosevelt had important Republican support in 1932, and apparently counts on having it again next year.

There is no intention to answer the question in these columns. What is presented below may or may not be representative of Republican thought generally. It consists of excerpts from letters received recently from various Republicans and it is interesting for its variety and for its many expressions of uncertainty.

'New Deal Not Popular'

From a Westerner who held high office under a former administration: "There is an undercurrent among Republicans that the next Republican candidate for President should be a safe and sane compromise between the old-fashioned standpatter and the extreme liberal of the Borah or Norris type. The new deal does not seem to be very popular in this State. However, it is too soon to assume that President Roosevelt has lost the major part of his following here."

From a mid-Western defeated nominee for governor: "It is my opinion that in the last two or three months especially the thinking people have become far more conservative, while those at the other extreme have drifted far away from Roosevelt and have become more radical as followers of men like Long and Coughlin. To some extent the same situation can be found in the Republican party. Most Republicans in the State believe the Republican party must not attempt to recall any previous time when the fate of so large a number of major legislative proposals was hanging in the balance."

that it must be the conservative party.

From a one-time Cabinet member: "Since last year's Congressional election, when the Republicans made such a pitiful showing, nothing has been done by the organization leaders (in this State), so far as I know, to arouse the lethargy or quicken the spirit of their followers. One particularly discouraging feature is the fact that many former Republicans have registered as Democrats in the hope of being permitted to benefit in some manner from the relief funds."

'Leadership Lacking'

From a West Coast business man: "The Republicans, so far as I can find out, are doing nothing in this State. There is a general feeling that the party should have a more liberal, progressive and aggressive leadership, but I cannot see that anybody is developing this."

From another Northwestern editor: "My guess is that unless the progressively inclined voters are alienated by the Roosevelt leadership, the alignment will continue about as it is. The governor has gone along in some ways very definitely with the President and, while in other ways he is a conservative, his identification with the Roosevelt administration was enough to put him over again."

Finally, from a once highly prominent old guard Senator: "I am entirely out of politics and have not even attended a meeting for a year."

It took a major engineering development—the Full-floating Springbase with Comfort Zone Seating—to make an automobile that gives every passenger the comfort of "a front seat ride."

But remember this. You get a lot more than new riding ease in the new Ford V-8. This is a car of major developments throughout.

HIGH LOSES FIRST GAME TO MOREHEAD

The locals were able to win six straight, but the seventh they kicked away. Morehead High licked them by the score of 8 to 7 in Greenville yesterday.

The players, and particularly the starting pitchers, decided, while in Rome one should do as Rome does. The day was dark and dreary, so the game was weird, dreary and filled with miscues.

Dick Downing had trouble getting the ball over the plate, but managed to get by all right until the sixth inning, when three runs had been scored against him. The bases filled and no one out; then he was relieved by Hodges. Richard got practically no support from his catcher Hamilton; instead of Hamilton helping the pitcher settle down, he committed just about all of the errors that one catcher, one game is allowed to commit. He was relieved by Harold Forbes. Harold certainly looks the part of a catcher, has a nice throwing arm and plenty of life. The prize boner of the day was pulled by Ed. Wells in the seventh when his throw to third was so wild that the winning run was scored by Morehead. Anyone is likely to make a wild throw, but he had very little chance of catching the runner even though the throw had been perfect.

Most people don't care to hear a pitcher say, "I told you so," but those who have been predicting that young Morehead would make a good pitcher had cause to say that, after the pitcher's performance in the box yesterday. He was quiet a puzzle to the Morehead batters. Carl Pierce had one of those good days that he is known for yesterday. He played nice, ball arid and score four of the seven tallies. The score:

The score: R. H. E.

Greenville.....101 014 0-7 4 4

Morehead.....101 005 1-3 4 2

Batteries: Greenville, Downing, Hodges, Hamilton and H. Forbes; Morehead, Stevens, Wade and Salter.

Clubmen Plan To Play Bethel High on Friday

The Greenville Kiwanis Club baseball team will go to Bethel Friday to take on the High School team of that place.

The Kiwanians opened the season here about two weeks ago when they went down in defeat before the local High School club. It was the second time in two years they have been downed by the local organization, although the score in both games was small.

The Kiwanians plan to play a number of High School clubs during the present season as they did last year in an effort to carry out one of their objectives looking to the fostering of athletics in all the schools.

It was said today that Donald Corley, director of public instruction in this county, would do the pitching for the clubmen, but the name of the Bethel pitcher had not been determined.

The club line-up will be comprised of such former league and college stars as Herman Duncan, "Mug" Massey, Jimmy Barrett, "Twist" Matthews, all now prominent business and professional men of Greenville. The club did not have its full line-up against High, it was said, but it was hoped to go to Bethel with every man in the field.

Although the schedule had not been announced today, it was said it was said that another High School organization would be taken on by the clubmen immediately following the Bethel contest. The next game, however, will not come until the latter part of next week, giving the clubmen time to recover from sore muscles and stiff joints expected to be incurred in the Bethel contest.

SPORT SLANTS

SPORT SLANTS

By PAP

On the Pacific Coast they are touting George Anderson, University of California sophomore, as the sprinter most likely to carry Uncle Sam's colors to the fore in the dash events in the 1936 Olympic games.

As a freshman last year, he ran 100 yards in 9.8 and stepped the 220 in 21 flat without testing competition. On the rare occasions when he matched strides in informal practice dashes with Bob Kiesel, California's I. C. A. sprint champion, Anderson generally managed to hold his own and at times even outstepped the varsity star.

With three full seasons of varsity competition ahead, Anderson may yet earn the title of "world's fastest."

est human," as some enthusiasts have dubbed him. You may be sure Coach Brutus Hamilton will bring out every bit of speed and power in the youth.

The boy is a great natural runner, and what's more important, has learned the art of running under control. He has the same fluid rhythm the carried little Bill Carr of Pennsylvania in the Olympic 400-meter championship at Los Angeles.

You Need That Control

Boby Heavy, another of Brutus Hamilton's proteges, has one claim to fame even if he doesn't win any championships or break records. It is doubtful if any half-miler in the country could fill Bob's size 13 shoes.

They have to be made up special for him.

Not long ago young Larry deserted crew and reported to Hamilton. The coach lined him up with a group of novices in a half-mile try-out.

Heavy surprised everyone by stepping out and winning in the clicking time of 1:38. Two minutes is good time for any runner so early in the season, so when the novice shaded that figure by two seconds he earned his spurs right then and there.

But just think of the handicap Bob Heavy will be laboring under when he matches strides with other half-milers and has to pick up and lay down the largest pair of shoes on the cinder track!

Strangely enough, the year's only change in big league manager involves a switch of pilots between the Boston Red Sox and the Washington Senators.

When Tom Yawkey, Boston owner, took the rubber band off his bank roll and spent that $25,000 for Joe Cronin, he quite naturally did not see fit to sign Bucky Harris, who held the managerial reins of the Red Sox in 1934. Cronin took care of that job when he moved into the Boston infield.

The move left Harris in a strange spot. The only opening for a manager in the American League was in Washington, where Bucky had first won big League fame. Back in 1924 and 1925 he was the ideal of the Washington fans only to be practically driven out of town later on when he failed to come through with more pennants.

Bucky moved to Detroit, and last season directed the Red Sox. Harris pocketed his pride and dickered with Clark Griffith when Cronin moved out.

Cronin couldn't be off to Boston any too quickly for the fans in Washington, for the manager they had gone crazy over in 1933 lost favor when his team slipped to seventh place last year.

Buck Bucks Up

The warm reception accorded Harris' home-coming was particularly gratifying to him. Bucky wanted to return to Washington, where he makes him home in the off season, but he was not at all certain as to how the followers of the Senators would receive him.

They greeted the news of his signing with great enthusiasm. That was all Harris needed to know.

Now he has gone ahead and tackled his old job with new vigor. He'll work like a beaver to make good. The chances are that the Senators will make progress for Harris is a first-rate manager with plenty of experience.

"I don't mean to sound egotistical," asserted Bucky gaily, after looking over his toiling athletes at the Biloxi training camp, "but, honestly, I believe I'll take back at least a first division club."

He Speaks Right Out

"I don't look upon Washington as a seventh place club at all. I may be all wrong, but I feel we've got balance, potentially, that is the equal of any club in the league."

The way the Washington fans took him back into their hearts has got under Bucky's skin. That's why he is tackling his job with the enthusiasm of a backwoods rookie.

thrilling at his first big league training camp experience.

Older and wiser, naturally, than when he first took over the reins in Washington over ten years ago, he has lost none of his straight-from-the-shoulder manner of speech.

If Bucky succeeds in imbuing his team with some of his new-found enthusiasm the Senators may cause quite a stir in the pennant race.

CONVICTS INJURED IN HIGHWAY CRASH

Reidsville, N. C., April 10—(AP)—Henry G. Simpson, local automobile salesman, was arrested today and held without bond, charged with driving his car into a motor grading machine three miles south of here and injuring four convicts, one probably fatally.

A formal charge of driving drunk was lodged against Simpson, but privilege of bond was denied pending the outcome of injuries to the convicts, who were working out from the prison camp near Wentworth.

The four injured men, all of whom are prisoners, are:

W. E. Davis, of Reidsville, whose left leg was so badly crushed it had to be amputated above the knee, his condition being regarded as critical.

Lewis Morgan Lockey, of Charlotte, who suffered a fractured skull and broken pelvis, and a broken spine. He is not expected to live.

WAKE COUNTY YOUTH BEGINS ON HIS SENTENCE

Durham, N. C., April 10—Millard Wilson, Wake County youth who was sentenced last December to serve four months for attempting to kill a Durham man by running him down with an automobile, this week began serving his term here.

Young Wilson appealed the sentence of Judge N. A. Sinclair, but the Supreme Court in January upheld it. Afterward, Wilson circulated a petition asking Governor Ehringhaus for a pardon which was not granted.

Seventeen Charges to Occupy Attention of The Grand Jury on April 15

The calendar has been completed for the two-week term of criminal Superior Court which will convene in this city Monday, April 15, with Judge M. V. Barnhill, of Rocky Mount, on the bench.

There are seventeen cases scheduled for action by the grand jury, one of them a manslaughter charge against Jesse Moring. The remainder of the actions consist of charges of larceny, breaking and entering and highway robbery.

The most important case of the term is the first degree murder charge against Allan Carson, Bethel your man, which has been hanging fire the last two years. The case has been continued from term to term because of lack of time in which to hear it, but with the action set for Wednesday of the first week, there was every indication it would be reached this time. ## REALTY HOLDS UP WELL HERE

Twenty-Five Transactions Reported in Various Sections of County Past Week

Pit County real estate continued to change hands during the last several days with records in the office of the Register of Deeds indicating the filing of twenty-five transactions during the period.

The list of deeds was not as large as last week, but it was of sufficient size to sustain belief that a revival in the real estate field has taken place with continued good business being in prospect during the summer months.

The largest of the transactions reported here the past week was that of J. E. Winslow & Company to Norman J. Winslow, 302.7 acres for a consideration of $10,000.

LIGHT DOCKET BEFORE COURT

Half Dozen Actions Disposed of in Week- ly Sitting of County Court Yesterday

Charges of driving drunk again held the spotlight in County Court here yesterday with the defendants either being required to pay fines or go to the roads.

Of the six cases heard by the court four involved charges of operating machines while under the influence of liquor. Considering the smallness of the docket, it was the largest number of such charges aired here in months, although around a half-dozen are given consideration each time court convenes.

With every effort being put forward by officers an effort to reduce drunken driving, the situation apparently is growing more serious in the county, calling for more drastic action on the part of the officials if proper protection is thrown about the thousands of people who travel the various highways from day to day. With increased traffic the situation is bad enough with clear, cool heads behind the wheel, but with drunken drivers at the steering wheel, the condition is generally agreed to be short of intolerable.

Just what the solution to the situation will be cannot be said, but there was every indication today that officers plan to watch the roads even more closely than formerly, hoping to throw as much protection as possible around public life.

C. W. Williams, driving drunk; $50 and cost and driver's license revoked for six months.

Woodrow Worthington, reckless driving; pay half cost and $5 to Alexander Wilson.

Wiley D. Jones, driving drunk $50 and cost and driver's license revoked six months.

Jack Creech, driving drunk; $50 and cost and driver's license revoked six months.

Will Skinner, driving drunk; $50 and cost and driver's license revoked two years, with the revocation of license being reduced to one year providing the defendant pays damages to the prosecuting witness.

Ellsworth Jordan, carrying a concealed weapon; $50 and cost and jail sentence of 90 days suspended for two years providing the defendant remains of good behavior.

Suspended sentences were also handed down with each of the driving drunk cases, each defendant being put on his good behavior for two years.

New York Cotton

New York, April 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, three to five points higher on trade and foreign buying with offerings small.

The market worked up and by the end of the first half hour July had advanced to 11.41 with the active months ruling about five to eleven points net higher.

The mid-morning advance went to 11.42 for July and 11.13 for December, making net gains of about nine to twelve points on active months, but considerable realizing was encountered at these levels.

The market eased off rather sharply later in the morning with prices at points lower.

New York Cotton

New York, April 10.—(AP)—The stock market wavered uncertainly today under the weight of profit-taking induced by the smart upturn in the closing hours Tuesday.

Professional traders sought to cash in on the opening lull and found good support in most sections of the list at the beginning, but larger offerings were more than the market could absorb without disturbing its even tone and later yielded minor fractions to a point before steadying.

Rails and a number of specialties offered stubborn resistance and held fairly well. Leading commodities were able to work upward without much difficulty, although foreign exchange markets were slightly upset at the start with further irregularities noted later.

Late News Flashes

By a 24 to 15 vote the Senators as a committee of the whole, struck out the Finance Committee application of the 3 per cent sales tax to room rentals of hotels. It then removed the same levy from rooms of boarding-houses.

Senator Gravely of Nash and Burrus, of Guilford, had previously lost an effort to have the 3 per cent sales tax article of the revenue bill considered before the license session of hotels and boarding-houses were debated further.

Sentelle Loses Appeal

Raleigh, N. C., April 10.—(AP)—The State Supreme Court today decided twenty-seven cases upholding the death sentence imposed in Cleveland County on Lewis Sentelle and arresting judgment in the case on Harry Baxter, sentenced to die in Chatham County.

Sentelle's appeal was dismissed as it has not been perfected. He was convicted of the murder of Mrs. William Drake. The court acted after it failed to discover error on the face of the record. Under State law he will be electrocuted April 26 unless he receives clemency.

In the case of Baxter, convicted of the killing of H. C. Routh, the court arrested judgment pending further action by Chatham superior court because the indictment under which Baxter was tried was returned by a grand jury without proper authority.

Prison Officials Indicted

Charlotte, April 10.—(AP)—Five former prison officials today were ordered held for trial on charges growing out of the whipping and maiming of negro convicts at state chain-gang camps in this country.

Concluding the three days hearing during which he sat as a committing magistrate, Superior court Judge Don Phillips announced his decision immediately after argument of counsel closed an investigation which was begun several weeks ago by several state agencies.

Henry Little, prison camp superintendent and three of his guards—R. C. Rate, J. W. Eudy and M. Gordon—were placed under $1,000 bond for the superior court May 11 to answer to charge of assault with intent to kill Robert Barnes and Woodrow Shropshire, 19-year-old negroes who lost their feet after being confined on a concrete floor in unheated solitary during the dead of winter.

Also under $1,000 bond in the same case was Dr. C. S. McLaughlin, for 30 years county physician and prison camp attendant.

In addition Little and the three guards were placed under $300 bond for trial in recorder's court on a charge of simple assault on Ed Biggers and Oscar Cunningham prisoners who said they were taken from their cells in the dead of night and beaten by the four.

Roosevelt Talks Relief

Washington, April 10.—(AP)—Plans for using existing government agencies to speed the four billion dollar work relief program into operation by mid November were disclosed today by President Roosevelt.

Burned by southern vacation sun, the president greeted his first press conference since his return and then answered questions about the big employment drive which Under Secretary Tugwell has termed third economy. He said there may be some board or committees to link the various agencies which led the relief fund but emphasized that there still were not strict rules of procedure.

In reply to questions he said if the cotton processing tax were removed—a demand made by a large group of textile interests—some other means must be found for providing a benefit payments fund.

Through a provision in the four billion dollar work relief law would permit its fund for benefit payments the president said that the money could go only for relief.

Mr. Roosevelt planned to consult soon with Secretary Perkins on the situation in the rubber industry where a strike has been threatened.

He declined to comment on agitation for new silver legislation. In the later afternoon the executive settled down to one of his busiest days in recent weeks. The schedule called for conferences with members of this cabinet.

One with Sec. Hull was for the purpose of discussing new neutrality plans for the United States in event of war abroad.

It was learned the white house hoped that congress would enact all new deal legislation at this session, including the NRA and social security bill.

Pitt County Instrumental in Getting Driver's License Bill Through Assembly

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, April 9.—Now, serving his second term as a member of the North Carolina legislature, Senator Arthur Benjamin Corey has managed to get through that body his pet measure, the driver's license law. Serving his apprenticeship in the senate in 1933, Senator Corey brought to Raleigh a driver's license bill, strove mightily, but in vain, to get it enacted into law. Failing in his first attempt, he returned this session with practically the same bill and succeeded.

Interested in highway legislation, he also introduced a bill this session which would have increased the state highway patrol to 300 men and limited its activities to a strict patrol of the state roads. The senate roads committee did not accept his bill, but incorporated some of its features in the bill now passing through the legislative mill.

With his local Pitt county bill which would repeal the absentee ballot law for that county he has forced a showdown on that much-abused, much-criticized law. This week perhaps a definite compromise may be effected between those who would abolish utterly the law and those who would retain it intact.

Senator Corey is a veteran of the world war, and fought overseas as a sergeant with the 113th Field Artillery. He is active in the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, holding offices in both and was once (1928) vice-commander of the N. C. Department of the Legion. He is a member of several fraternal organizations and the Methodist church. Born in Pitt county, he attended the University of North Carolina where he earned a law degree (1917) and now practices as an attorney in Greenville, county seat of Pitt. He has been secretary of the Pitt county Bar Association since 1924. At home he teaches a Sunday school class. In 1928 he married Miss Hazel Kennedy.

While sojourning in Raleigh Senator Corey takes an active interest in world war veterans' affairs and has addressed several Legion meetings. Occupying senate seat number five, an aisle seat on Row One, he is to be found in it almost every time the senate meets. Only once or twice has he been absent. Early in the session he offered the rabies bill which recently became law.

The box score, the method of keeping accurate account of a baseball game, was invented by John H. Doyle, 77, when he was a mere youth.
