

SENATE MOVES FORWARD WITH REVENUE BILL

Meal Tax Remains in Money Measure Although Boarding Houses Exempted

Reflector Bureau.
By C. A. PAUL.

Raleigh, April 11.—The senate has removed from the revenue bill the provision which would have imposed the three per cent retail sales tax on the rental of rooms by hotels, boarding houses and tourist homes, but left intact the three per cent levy on the sale of meals by tourist homes and hotels. At the same time the senate drew a distinction between boarding houses and tourist homes and relieved of taxation the boarding houses.

Boarding houses, as defined by the new money bill, are those establishments which do not advertise for transient patronage and do not have more than 15 chairs in their dining rooms. If a so-called boarding house violates either of those rules it becomes a tourist home and is subject to the same levies as are made against tourist homes in the new revenue bill. Those who eat at boarding houses will not have assessed against them the retail sales tax on their meals, but those who eat at cafes, hotel dining rooms and tourist homes will be subject to the levy.

Tourist homes, according to the bill, are those establishments which advertise for transient patronage and are subject to the following tax schedule: Those having less than five rooms, $10; and a levy of $2 for each room in excess of five, except that in computing the tax the sitting room, dining room, kitchen, and such rooms as are used by the owner or lessee or members of his family for their private use will be exempt from the tax. The taxes are levied on an annual basis.

Heretofore counties, cities and towns have been permitted to tax tourist homes, cafes and hotels. Under the bill as now written by the senate counties are expressly forbidden the right to tax such establishments, but cities and towns may levy a tax not to exceed one-half the base tax imposed by the state. By "base tax" is meant the uniform levies. Local governments will not be permitted to levy a tax based upon sales tax payments.

The senate also removed from the bill the provision which made it mandatory for sales to pass onto the consumer the retail sales tax, leaving the passing on of the levy to the consumer optional.

Also written into the sections dealing with all establishments serving meals was a provision that when such establishments make purchases of foodstuffs at retail they may deduct from their sales tax returns to the state the amount of sales tax already paid in that manner. Receipts showing the payment of the sales tax will have to be presented to the revenue department before such exemptions will be permitted.

Although the state does not now apply the cafe tax to eating establishments operated in the state's public schools and colleges the senate adopted an amendment by Senator Gravelly, of Nash, which specifically exempts them from the tax.

The senate also adopted an amendment by Senator Johnston, of Buncombe, which exempts from the regular restaurant tax those cafes operated by companies which are not operated for profit and which serve only employees of the companies. The retail sales tax levy will apply to such cafes.

The tax on boarding houses is the result of a series of controversies and public hearings before the senate finance committee. Raleigh boarding house keepers protested vigorously against the imposition of additional taxes. The committee reached the decision that these establishments which are strictly boarding houses do not compete with cafes and hotels. It was pointed out by several committee members that lower prices prevail in boarding houses than in cafes and hotels and that most of the small boarding houses are operated by widows with dependents and that such widows use their homes as boarding houses in order to support themselves and their dependents. In that view the committee concurred, as did the senate itself.

The AAA appears to be accumulating a constantly larger share of the alphabetical troubles of the Roosevelt administration.

Up to quite recently, what this farm relief agency was doing was largely overshadowed by the activities of its more noisy brothers and sisters.

NRA, in particular, stirred up such loud controversy that those who wanted to start an argument about AAA couldn't make themselves heard. At times the visitations of PWA and FERA took turns playing the lead roles in the Washington extravaganza.

Nowadays, however, AAA is coming more and more into public and private discussion. There is every sign that the next few months will see the Roosevelt farm policies debated with growing intensity both in and out of Congress.

AAA Troubles
Here are a few of the things AAA officials have to think about:

The cotton program has piled up nearly 6,000,000 bales in the hands of the government, and there is widespread apprehension that when it is turned loose (presumably it must be some time) prices will crack badly. Many attributed to that cause the recent case of jitters in the cotton market.

Drought has upset completely the plan to hold wheat acreage to 90 per cent of the 1928-1932 base average. After changing their minds several times, officials now plan to permit farmers to plant 165 per cent of their base acreage. What will happen during the next few years when presumably an effort will be made to get back on the track again?

Definite back-peddling is indicated on the milk program, under which an attempt was made to fix the price to the consumer through marketing agreements. Great uncertainty and confusion has developed in the face of court decisions holding such agreements invalid except where the milk moves across State lines.

Congress Unsympathetic
Western livestock men are refusing to agree to an AAA proposal for levying beef and mutton processing taxes to pay benefits to farmers for adjusting the production of feed grains.

Corn-hog processing taxes are running behind the corn-hog benefit payments, so that the AAAA is, in effect, borrowing from the Treasury against next year's tax collections.

Among consumers there is a pronounced tendency to protest at the higher prices of food, and blame the AAA and the processing tax system for the situation.

On top of that, Congress is not looking on the plight of the farm relief venture with the sympathetic eye officials had hoped for.

There is no assurance that the AAA amendments, designed to get the farm administration out of some of its difficulties, ever will pass; and Secretary Wallace says frankly that if they fail, the whole marketing agreement policy must be abandoned.

HOTEL LOBBY WINS OUT ON ROOM TAX

Powerful Influence Brought to Bear in Revenue Fight in General Assembly

Reflector Bureau.
By A. C. PAUL.

Raleigh, April 11.—One of the highest-powered lobbies in North Carolina applied its foot to the accelerator, got underway, and when the smoke and dust of battle had cleared the hotel lobby had succeeded in wiping from the 1935 revenue bill the section which would have imposed the three per cent retail sales tax levy to the rental of hotel rooms.

The hotels of the extreme eastern and western sections of the state were largely responsible for the removal by the senate of the tax. Resort hotels were most active in fighting against the proposed levy, which was written into the bill by the joint legislative committee, approved by the house of representatives and the senate finance committee only to be stricken out by the senate acting as a committee of the whole for the consideration of the biennial money-raising bill.

They have as yet made no effort to remove from the bill the section which levies the three per cent tax on sales of meals. Offering the amendment which removed the room tax were Senators A. Hall Johnson of Buncombe, Browning of Swain, and Ramsey of Transylvania. All hail from the west, where are located many resort hotels.

Waging a fight against removal of the tax were Senator Lee Gravelly, of Nash, anti-sales tax leader in the senate. "I see no valid reason," he said, "for taxing the man who lives at home for the bed he sleeps in and exempting from payment of the tax the man who can afford to live in a hotel."

The removal of the room tax was accomplished through the aid of several senators who will vote against any form of sales tax. Expressing the views of that bloc was youthful Senator Allsbrook, of Halifax, who declared that he would oppose a sales tax of even one millionth of one per cent. "I am not," he said, "in favor of exempting the hotels and their guests from payment of the sales tax if we are to make others pay it." He had previously stated that if the legislature voted to reenact the sales tax he would vote to impose it also on hotel room rentals.

It is not known whether or not the lower house will agree to removal of the room tax. Opposition to its removal will be very great in the larger legislative body.

Japan Plans Welcome For Monarch's Visit

Tokyo.—(AP)—An emperor's welcome will be accorded Kang Teh of Manchoukuo when he arrives in Tokyo April 6 to thank Emperor Hirohito of Japan for his realm and his throne.

Although this state visit will be an acknowledgment of Emperor Kang Teh's and Manchoukuo's great indebtedness to the Japanese sovereign—and especially his arm—he will be received with all the pomp and circumstance that should mark the hospitality of one emperor to another, his equal.

The Mikado himself will go to the railway station to greet his fellow-monarch from over the Sea of Japan, an honor which has not been accorded any visitor in modern times. Hirohito similarly welcomed the Prince of Wales in 1922, but then he was only Prince Regent.

Leaving Hsinking, his capital, on April 2, Emperor Kang Teh will be carried from Dairen to Yokohama aboard the Japanese Navy's imperial passenger boat, the Hiei, a former battle cruiser. He will remain in Tokyo as the Japanese Emperor's guest until April 15, spend a week sight-seeing in the famous beauty spots of Japan, at the season in the full glory of the cherry blossoms, and disembark on the Hiei at Kobe on April 23 for his voyage home.

The official Japanese insistence on Emperor Kang Teh's imperial status and the independence of his realm will be carried out with solemn gravity throughout the spectacle.

When the Manchoukuo monarch arrives at Yokohama aboard the Hiei, he will be met at the dock by Prince Chichibu, the Japanese Emperor's brother. A special train will carry Emperor Kang Teh and his suite—74 of the highest Chinese and Japanese dignitaries of the Manchoukuo government—to Tokyo station, where Emperor Hirohito and the highest officials of his court will be waiting.

AUTO STRUCK BY PRESIDENT'S SPECIAL TRAIN

The special train bearing President Roosevelt from a fishing trip off Florida to New York struck an abandoned automobile on a crossing near Wilson, N. C., and was delayed for 15 minutes. A thorough investigation was made, but it was believed there was no intention to wreck the train. It was found that the auto had been stolen and apparently was stalled on the tracks by the men who took it. Mechanics are shown clearing it from the tracks. (Associated Press Photo)

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Action off three Arizona State Legislators in providing for an "ambassador" to Washington promises to become what is known in diplomatic parlance, l'affaire protocol when he arrives to present his credentials.

With whom will he discuss problems concerning the sovereign State of Arizona in the capital?

Those charged with looking after that sort of thing here frankly admit they're stumped.

But not the Arizona delegation. The State's three Representatives in Congress—Senators Ashurst and Hayden and Mrs. Isabella Greenway member of the House, are prepared to accord him full diplomatic recognition upon his arrival.

Ambassador to Ohio?
One authority here has raised the question if Arizona's recognition of Washington evidenced by that State's sending an ambassador to the banks of the Potomac, implies recognition Co.

By Washington of the sovereign State of Arizona.

The case of the State of Ohio is pointed to as an example.

Is the Federal Administrator of FERA sent out from Washington to handle Uncle Sam's largest an em-bassador or minister plenipotentiary?

With all their levity, however, the Arizona delegation in Congress regard the move of their State Legislature with more concern than they admit openly.

Wanted: Patronage—Money
Senator Ashurst, to re-examine, has compiled statistics showing that out of every dollar the tax-payers of Arizona have paid into the Federal Treasury last year they received 36 in return. He has distributed 100,000 circles in the State setting forth this information in detail.

The three Arizona members of Congress are frank to admit the mission of the State's ambassador here will be to obtain more money and patronage to the State. Already, they say, there are from 20 to 30 "ambassadors" or "lobbyists" from Arizona in Washington trying to influence legislation in one way or another.

"Another," says Ashurst, "even if he bears the credentials issued by the governor himself, won't make much difference."

But he'll be received with the dignity befitting his rank, nevertheless.

He'll even have a seat in the Senate gallery reserved for diplomats exclusively, if he wants it.

Overcame Her Nervousness
"A few years ago," writes Mrs. Charles Sivil, of Hartshorne, Okla., "I was weak and run-down. It seemed that nervousness was about to get the best of me. My mother told me about Cardui and that is what I decided to take. After I began taking Cardui, my appetite was better. I gained strength and was less nervous. By the time I had taken two bottles, I felt fine."

First, better appetite, and then more strength and a feeling of well-being! Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

LET'S GET A NEW BIRD

Representative Gassaway, of Oklahoma, has given Huey Long the new title of "political tom-tit." It will be remembered that some time back a session of our legislature officially designated the tom-tit as our state bird. In view of Representative Gassaway's recent declaration let's see that he retracts it or let's name a new state bird. Certainly the tom-tit should feel insulted.

COUNTIES MAY GET PAID

Word comes from Raleigh to the effect that the pending bill that would appoint a commission to study claims of counties for payment by the state for highways built by the counties, will get favorable action. This is as it should be, for already the majority of the counties have been repaid the money they let the state have to put into state highways and certainly the remainder of the counties should receive like treatment at the hands of the state. Any county with a just claim should be repaid and those whose claims are not just ones should not be repaid. This plan of study of each claim on its own merits is certainly a just one and when the commission reports that the state is indebted to a county then that county is entitled to be paid. Certainly Pitt County will be glad to place its claims before an impartial board of examiners.

TO VOTE FOR LONGER SCHOOL TERM

The board of aldermen has officially decided that an election will be called here for the purpose of voting to supplement the state funds in order to provide a nine months school term in Greenville. While there are always a few who oppose any kind of tax increase and would be willing to let the schools run only half their present terms for the sake of saving a few tax dollars, we believe that the great majority of our citizens are in favor of the extended term and that when the time comes to vote the movement will carry by an overwhelming majority. Our children need the ninth month of schooling each year and the amount of money involved is inconsequential compared to the value the extra month will be to the children.

GREAT RICHES

Chapter 22 RECONCILED

WHEN they were alone, Jane came up to him and slipped an affectionate arm through his.

She looked so pretty in her gleaming satin and lace that James' irritation vanished and he could do nothing but agree that it had been a lovely dinner, and that he was glad they had given it.

Jane, when she chose, could still be very tender and alluring, and now, of course, she must be most carefully cherished and considered.

Perhaps after the baby came things would be different and Jane not so avid for excitement. James knew he must have more time for his work, more time for study. Jane wanted him to succeed, expected him to succeed, but some way she could not realize that she, as well as he, must pay a price for that success. It was natural enough that Jane should not understand.

He would have to teach her, lead her instead of taking always the easier course of letting her lead him. Very tenderly he drew her down on his lap beside an open window after switching off the lights. "Honey," he began, "I want to have a talk with you."

"I know that you are going to scold and I am so tired," she coaxed. "I'm not going to scold, dear."

"Then you're going to preach?" "I feel it in my bones. Can't we be happy like this on our anniversary without thinking of anything but pleasant things?"

Naturally, James did not preach on this night; and it was the same on other nights. As the months passed Jane was far from well and she grew more and more irritable and less easy to please. James felt guilty conscious that it was all his fault.

Jane impressed it upon him that the lot of women was a hard one and scarcely to be endured. Mrs. Northrup looked at him accusingly every time her daughter sighed or refused pudding at dinner, and Anna sniffed scornfully whenever she passed him his food.

Their Sundays were more awful than James had conceived possible. He finally had given up spending his free afternoons with his aunt after Jane cried and cried and almost had hysterics, claiming that he did not love her.

Damn it! The lot of husbands was not always a round of voluptuous enjoyment whatever Jane and her mother thought about it. Heaven knows he hadn't invented the method and manner of bringing children into the world. He had thought that women wanted children and pitted old maids because of their childless state.

PERHAPS it is an exaggeration to say that all of New Concord was somewhat relieved when it became common knowledge that Jane was "expecting." However, it is true that all those who had James' interest and welfare at heart were relieved.

For some time during the close of the second year of their marriage the belief had become general that things weren't going just as they should between this especially selected and uncommonly well-suited young couple.

It was not that James complained or Jane complained or that they quarreled in public or were seen less often together. It was hard indeed to define just what seemed to be the matter, but that there was a vague "something" everyone agreed. And it was felt or at least hoped, that whatever ripples there were were caused entirely by the state of Jane's health and would be smoothed out and forgotten "after the baby came."

Nappy was perhaps the first one to "suspect" that James was not as happy as he should be and he, being worried, passed his uneasiness on to the Judge.

"It's Mister James' hair," he explained to Judge Holcomb. "It ain't been acting just right, not for a long while."

"His what?" boomed the Judge impatiently. He was getting old and his hearing bothered him and he flew into rages for no reason whatever.

"His hair, the hair on his head. I can most generally tell the state of Mister James' sperrits by making note of how his hair acts. When he's raring round, feeling fitten to bust, you'll notice as how every hair on his head is standing upon its hind legs looking the world in the face and shouting 'howdy'."

The Judge laughed. "Sounds like a Gorgon's head; the way you describe it."

"Yes, sir," said Nappy who had never heard of a Gorgon's head, but would not have admitted it for a hundred dollars. "It's one and the same thing to my way of believing."

"But what has James' hair been doing now to disturb you?"

"It ain't been doing nothing but lay down and play dead for weeks and weeks. That's as unnatural as for a lamb to lay down with a lion and as sure a sign a trouble."

"Nonsense," said the Judge. "Jim's been pitting some kind of grease on his head to make it flat. You're not as smart as I thought you were, going around making up trouble about nothing at all."

But though he dismissed Nappy and laughed at his diagnosis, he could not dismiss altogether the sneaking suspicion that perhaps Nappy was right and that James was not looking nor acting quite like himself.

He'd get him to knock off a few weeks, go down to Hot Springs or up to Chicago and take in a few shows. A vacation would put him right as a fiddle. He should have thought of it before.

JAMES dutifully took Jane and went to Chicago for a week, but when he came back Nappy reported that his hair was "laying" as flat as when he left home. A few weeks later when James confided Jane's condition to the Judge the old man was enormously relieved.

He patted James on the back, assured him cheerfully that there was nothing to worry about, reminded him of Jane's general health and of the billions of babies who came safely into the world without harm to their mothers.

Then the Judge very wisely set James to work on the very stiffest legal problem he had ever before had to handle and when he finished that immediately found him another. This last probably saved James from going all to pieces in the following months, for he was horribly frightened thinking of the fate of his own mother.

Nappy continued to accord to Mrs. Stimson all the respect and deference due to the wife of his beloved "Mister" James, but he never again thoroughly approved of her. In his eyes any wife remained only a woman and a handicap to any real man.

But even Nappy forgave Jane one frosty morning in early December when James came stumbling up the flight of stairs that led to the office and threw open the entrance door with a magnificent flourish.

His eyes flashed with their old fire, every single hair waved triumphantly aloft and his feet could scarcely keep themselves on the floor as he shouted out that there were twins at his house—a boy and a girl. As Nappy remarked, "Missus Stimson had more'n done herself proud."

The entire firm of Stimson and Holcomb stopped work then and there and made a triumphal progress up and down Commercial Street announcing the news, giving away five- and ten-cent cigars, receiving hilarious congratulations and having one very devil of a time.

When James went home he had a rocking horse under one arm, a doll under the other, a jeweler's box in his pocket and a bunch of flowers carried by a string in his hand.

Anna opened the door to James' ring and gave a contemptuous sniff when she saw the nature of his packages, but as usual she made no comment. The house was unnaturally quiet and James tiptoed cautiously upstairs.

The door to Jane's room was slightly ajar and he pushed it open with his foot and entered quietly. Mrs. Northrup, sitting by the window sewing, held up a warning finger, but Jane opened her eyes and welcomed him. "Silly boy," she said when she saw the hobby horse and doll.

Tomorrow, James finds tragedy in a cradle.

good for quite a few Senators coming up for reelection next year.

Senator Long doesn't abide by the old rule. When he knows about a skeleton in another politician's closet he brings it out and rattles it until the disjunct bones run out and look for a quiet tombstone.

In recent weeks Long has placed a lot of dynamite in the Congressional Record that may well come back to explode under some of his colleagues next year. Nobody answers Huey if it is humanly possible to refrain, and Huey knows it. So he proceeds merrily making highly damaging statements about other Senators and their methods of doing business which should be just so many slices of pie in 36 for the men who oppose those Senators.

In the last month Long has got literally hundreds of unanswered accusations into the Congressional Record—which is privileged under the liberal laws.

SABOTAGE? New England Democrats are getting plenty jittery and plenty mad about the cotton textile situation.

Six mills closed in New England in the past few days. Operators say it is because of Japanese competition. They say that Japanese cloth is being sold in New Bedford and Fall River Mass., cheaper than the mills in those towns can manufacture.

The mill men and the Congressmen say the situation is chargeable to increased labor costs under NRA and a virtual doubling of raw material costs because of AAA processing taxes and control.

Sec. of Agriculture Wallace, no mean fighter once he gets aroused suggests that the New England mills have over-produced in a deliberate effort to store up goods against threatened labor trouble etc.

The whole situation—irrespective of merit on either side—is going to make it tough for the administration's efforts to revivify NRA and get new AAA amendments through Congress. The New England bloc, both Republican and Democratic, is most apt to vote no.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN

VULNERABLE: Now that Wendell Wilkie has broken the ice a number of other people are coming up with formulae for utility regulation designed to supplant the Wheeler-Rayburn bill. H. Hobart Porter of American Waterworks and Henry I. Harriman of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce have presented their programs and there are others to follow. A number of power leaders would have preferred to see Wilkie's plan stand as the only offering from private industry's side. They fear a multiplicity of ideas will only confuse Congress and give the original bill a better chance of passage.

As for Henry Harriman—some of the insiders feel that they could cheerfully wring his neck. It was bad enough to have the head of a leading conservative business organization suggest that holding companies in future be limited to one or operating systems. It was very much worse to have him add the qualification that the properties they were allowed to retain should be geographically integrated.

What a help that was to the men who have been trying to prove that geographical concentration is beside the point! The avowed reason for spreading utility empires all over the map was distribution of risk—minimizing the effect of bad conditions in a particular region. There's a more cogent reason behind the scenes. Integrated systems are more vulnerable to political attack—state legislatures can gang up on them effectively.

BRACE: Financial insiders aren't as alarmed as you might think about the Patman bonus bill—even if it should slip past a veto. They talk for the record about "runious inflation" in the wake of two billion dollar currency—but actually they doubt that it will have any inflationary effect except a briefly psychological one.

New York authorities agree with Federal Reserve Governor Eccles that potential inflation could easily be kept under control by the simple expedient of lifting reserve requirements for Federal Reserve member banks—thus sterilizing enough credit to offset the addition to the currency.

It's pointed out that the power required against deposits gives the government—through the Federal Reserve—a potent brake to check almost any kind of inflation. Of course there's no need for a brake at present—but it might come in handy when business starts picking up in earnest or if Congress should put over fancy monetary ideas.

RACKET: Industrial conservatives are gleeful about disclosures that two New York "white collar" unions have pursued the novel recruiting method of holding up employers for the closed shop and the checkoff without even consulting the employees who suddenly find themselves union members. They picket stores where not a soul is on strike if they don't get their way and there's evidence that they're not above using rough stuff on occasion.

The workers enrolled without their consent get no visible benefits but the union treasuries flourish. Many merchants have found it saves wear and tear on nerves and pocketbook to give in without an argument.

The situation is a sweet break for those who are anxious to discredit the Federation of Labor. Unless Bill Green does something soon to disavow the alleged racketeers the country will be deluged with publicity citing tactics as officially condoned by organized labor.

APPLES: Great Britain's political goulash is gradually coming to a boil. Rising popular discontent is augmented by an absence of harmony in the Cabinet.

Foreign Minister Sir John Simon isn't as cordially liked by his colleagues as he might be. Well-posted sources learn that several high officials wish he would take his talents elsewhere. A move to get his resignation was blocked some months ago by Sir John himself. He privately announced that if he were forced out he would take the Liberal party with him. He was in a position to make good on the threat—which would have wrecked the National Government—so he was allowed to retain his post. But his recent flop in Berlin as contrasted with Sir Anthony Eden's success in Moscow has heightened the tension.

HANG-OVER NO. 2—SPIRITUOUS DRINKS

Raw liquor actually sears the stomach linings, pickles the stomach. The system cannot function normally with such a condition. Hang-overs and other punishment follows. It is better to avoid this pickling by mixing the liquor with plenty of 7-Up, or using 7-Up on the side. Failing to do this, drink a glass or two of 7-Up the "morning after." The acid is neutralized—stomach is purified and nature restores harmony. 7-Up is not just another soda. There is no substitute for 7-Up. 7-Up sold wherever Bottled Drinks are sold. CLYDE HOEY TO COME OUT FOR GOVERNOR

Shelby Orator Expected to Make His Announcement. Within Next Ten Days

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL
Raleigh, April 11.—Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby, Cleveland county, brother-in-law of former Governor O. Max Gardner of the same city and county, will issue a formal announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the 1936 June primary, within the next ten days, according to reports heard here today. If none of the other prospective candidates issue an announcement before Hoey does, he will be the second to formally announce his candidacy. The first was John A. McRae of Charlotte, who announced his candidacy about ten days ago. It is generally agreed that Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham will be a candidate for the nomination and will issue a formal statement at the proper time, although he has not yet made a public announcement of his candidacy. But all his friends already regard him as an active candidate.

A good many also expect that Congressman Robert L. Doughton, now chairman of the house ways and means committee in Congress, will also become a candidate for the nomination, though within recent weeks some observers have not been as certain of his eventual candidacy as in the past. It is regarded as doubtful if Doughton will make any announcement until the present session of the general assembly adjourns. Some think he may wait until this session of Congress adjourns before making any announcement concerning his plans.

Others known to be toying with the idea of seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor are T. LeRoy Kirkpatrick of Charlotte, Judge Wilson Warlick of Newton, Thomas L. Johnson of Asheville, Senator John Sprunt Hill of Durham, Julian Price of Greensboro and several others. But it is regarded as very doubtful if any of these actually make the race.

It is virtually certain, however, that Hoey will become a candidate and that Doughton probably will also run, in addition to McRae and Lieutenant Governor Graham, with the result that a four-cornered primary race is in prospect a year from this June. If Doughton should not become a candidate, it is expected that one or more additional candidates will probably get into the race.

No surprise is being occasioned in legislative and political circles here by the report that Hoey will probably announce his candidacy within a few days. He has been regarded as a candidate for a good many months and the United Dry Forces have been bragging for weeks that Hoey was "their candidate" and that he would be nominated over the entire field, regardless of who else might run. For a time it was reported that Hoey was somewhat worried over the prohibition outlook in the general assembly, especially when it appeared that some type of liquor bill might be enacted. But since the chances for the enactment of any liquor legislation seem to have permanently faded, both the drys and Hoey seem to have become greatly encouraged.

There is little if any enthusiasm among members of the general assembly here in favor of Hoey, most observers agree and a good many think he is going to have rather difficult sledding in spite of the wholehearted support of the United Drys and Cate K. Burgess. For while it is conceded that Hoey can make an excellent speech and is probably the state's Number One orator, the fact that heretofore he has not shown much interest in holding public office is not going to help him much. It is also maintained that while he ranks seventh with the drys, that his very dryness will make him unacceptable to the liberal drys and the wets, as well as with the Young Democrats who have been so bitterly assailed by former Governor-Senator Cameron Morrison because of their moral proclivities. While it is expected that he will have the support of Morrison and his wife's bank-roll in the campaign, his support is not expected to help among the anti-Morrisonites, of whom there are admittedly many.

The feeling among many of the members of the general assembly here, as well as in political circles generally, is that Lieutenant Governor Graham seems to have a larger following and more substantial support than any of the announced or unannounced candidates for the nomination for Governor. Many also feel that Graham's chances for getting the nomination will be improved rather than retarded if Congressman Doughton becomes a candidate on the grounds that he and Hoey will cut into each other more than they will into Graham. The odds here now are decidedly on Graham.

The Kentucky Derby this year will be run on May 4th, and the Preakness at Pimlico will be run a week later.

Truck And Bus Lines In For Hard Sledding

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, April 11.—The motor truck and bus operators are going to have rough sledding in the house when the bill to regulate the size and width of trucks and busses comes up for action, according to most observers. This bill known as House Bill 770 was sent back to the committee on roads several days ago when it met so much opposition that its backers decided to send it back to committee rather than have it defeated. The bill is now being redrafted. It is understood but is still expected to meet with bitter opposition from those who are seeking to help the railroads by reducing bus and truck competition and those who are just naturally opposed to such large busses and trucks on the highway.

The fact that the house yesterday passed the bill introduced by Representative Mitchell of Wake, Uzzell Bean of Rowan, Cooper of New Hanover and Fenner of Nash admitted to be a bill backed by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, to compel railroads operating in the state to use full crews on all engines and trains, indicates that the railroads have more support in this house than in many years. During the debate on this bill several references were made to motor busses and trucks and a good many members expressed themselves as being willing to vote for a bill to reduce the size and weight of busses and trucks.

The bus and truck bill as originally reported out by the roads committee would have permitted motor busses with a width of 96 inches to be operated in the state and would permit the operation of trucks and trailers with an overall length of 45 feet. It could not be learned today whether the subcommittee has changed these specifications or not. But if it has not, it is generally agreed that the house will change them, since there is no doubt that there is very strong sentiment in the house against permitting large busses and trucks to operate on the highway that are any larger than those now being operated.

Via and gracie jokers, I'm told," he said. The $125 amendment was voted, but Senator Corey's speech was not entirely. "The Senator's reference to gracie jokers reminds me that it's time to eat," he said.

Reported favorably by House Judiciary Committee No. 2 is a bill which would legalize the manufacture of beer in North Carolina will appear on the calendar of the House of Representatives today. Under present laws the sale and distribution of 5 per cent beer is legal, the manufacture banned.

Archives of the measure which would add manufacturing to selling and distributing are Representatives Cene, Cook and Royster, the same trio that offered the original bill which raised the legal alcoholic limit of beer from 3.2 to 5 per cent. A license tax of $500 annually, payable to the State, is provided for in the bill.

That a fight will be made on the bill is almost certain, although much of the opposition has been destroyed because of the legalization of the 5 per cent brew.

The settlement of the affairs of insolvent banks would be greatly expedited by a bill which would permit those who owe banks to purchase credits of the same banks for the purpose of applying the credits to the debts, according to Representative Ward, of Craven, introduced by the bill. It has been reported favorably by the House Judiciary Committee No. 2 and will appear on the calendar of the Lower House today.

In effect the bill would, if passed, permit debtors of insolvent banks to settle with such banks at great savings because of those banks can be bought at a fractional part of their face value. There will probably be a great deal of opposition to the bill because it would greatly reduce prospective dividends of depositors.

Teachers Hang Up Two Wins Over W. & M.

East Carolina Teachers raked up a pair of victories yesterday at the expense of the baseball club from the Norfolk Division of William and Mary-V. P. I.

Rogers punched as the Teachers counted an 8 to 4 win in the opening contest, and Lefty Dunn tossed four-hit ball for the home club in a 4 to 1 victory in the seven-inning night-cap.

Sundown Stories

Weasel Styles
By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"I've heard," said Mrs. Quacko, "as they sailed along another lake on their voyage, that the weasels change their styles summer and winter."

"I think it would be most interesting to stop and see them. By now they should be getting into their brown spring coats and their white hair should be disappearing."

"They wear white coats in the winter and brown ones in the summer, and there are some people, I've heard, who think they're wearing gracie fur when they're wearing weasel."

"The joke is on both," quacked Mrs. Quacko. "Not only on the people but on the weasels, who're caught."

"True," agreed Mrs. Quacko, "but the weasels are very clever. I was told. They can see wonderfully out of their little eyes and they can hear the slightest sound."

"They can get through the narrowest places and they're very strong even though they're not very large."

"You'd like to stop and see them and their new spring styles?" asked Mr. Quacko.

"Incessantly," quacked Mrs. Quacko.

"Oh no, you wouldn't!" said Mr. Quacko.

"And why not, pray tell?"

"My dear Mrs. Quacko, you've lived so long in safe Puddle Muddle that you've forgotten that weasels do not like us. We would not return to tell the story of our voyage if we stopped to see them."

"That's so, that's so," said Mrs. Quacko. "I'm so glad you remembered, so very, very glad indeed."

BILL TO CUT AUTO LICENSE COST ON TAP

Measure Expected to Be Given Consideration by the House Sometime Today

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, N. C., April 11.—The bill to reduce the cost of automobile license plates for passenger cars, already passed by the Senate, should be reached today in the House unless it runs into another jam as it did yesterday when it was in session for two hours and passed only a hard fight is expected when this bill is reached to amend it so that the reduction granted will amount to considerably more than that provided in the bill as it passed the Senate. The bill as it now stands would reduce the minimum license fee to $8 a year instead of $12.50 as at present and would reduce the base rate from 55 cents per 100 pounds to 45 cents per 100 pounds.

But there is a good sized group in the House which thinks the reduction in automobile license plates should be larger than that proposed in the Senate bill and which is going to make a determined fight to further reduce the rates. Last week when this same bill came up, Representative Jones of Swain County offered an amendment to reduce the minimum license price to $7 a year and the base licensing rate to 40 cents per 100 pounds instead of 45 cents per 100 pounds as proposed in the bill. The opponents of the Jones amendment were afraid to let it go to a vote, and immediately by moved that action on both the bill and amendment be deferred until a later date and this motion carried.

If this bill is reached in the House today, Representative Jones and his group are expected to renew their efforts to reduce the license cost to the lower rate proposed in his amendment. However, the highway and administration forces are expected to fight this move, since it would reduce the revenue going to the highway fund by about $1,000,000 a year and thus reduce the amount that otherwise would be spent for the maintenance of the secondary or country roads by that amount.

New York Cotton

New York, April 11.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened firm, 22 to 25 points higher on active foreign and commission house buying owing to the advance in silver and reports of dust storms in Texas.

July sold up to 11.57 and December to 11.26, making net advances of about 26 to 30 points.

The volume of business tapered off after the closing of Liverpool. The early buying met a good deal of realizing, and after showing net gains of 26 to 30 points, reacted slightly. The market at midday showed net gains of 18 to 27 points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 11.—(AP)—Metals and mining issues buoyed by the government boost of the domestic silver price to 71 cents an ounce today gave the stock market a mild thrill.

In the early dealing some of the silver sections jumped 1 to more than 4 but traders were quick to take profit and most gains were doubled or paired.

Other equities turned a trifle dull under realizing.

At the same time a little pronounced weakness was displayed and the tone later was steady.

Sputtering wheat prices at Chicago based partly on the official estimate of a much lower crop helped the grains. Cotton also showed strength. Other commodities were improved. Bonds were moderately mixed as were leading equities.

The closing tone was fairly steady. Transfers were 700,000 shares.

Late News Flashes

to the Utilities Commission. The measure won a surprising victory on second reading yesterday, 39 to 25.

The senate heard Senator Gravelly of Nash suggest that a liquor tax be passed or that changes be made in the income franchise tax schedule so that the sales tax rate in the revenue bill may be cut from the three two per cent.

Griffin of Franklin introduced a bill to require that buyers of tobacco on the auction markets of the state must be given uniform order each day to buyers working in the same belt. The buyers would have to be instructed to buy the same number of pounds and pay the same prices.

The house today passed a bill to create a commission to determine what if any amount should be paid to some 44 counties to reimburse them for about $8,000,000 donated or loaned the state some years ago for roads and sent the measure back to the senate for concurrence.

Mills to Fight Processing Tax
Washington, D. C., April 11.—(AP)—A warning that New England cotton mills were inclined toward immediate closing in protest against the cotton processing tax, was voiced today by Lincoln Bayliss, spokesman for the policy committee of Northern mills.

Asserting that mill owners were incensed at the statement of President Roosevelt yesterday to the effect that he would not exercise his authority to substitute funds from the work relief as a substitute for the processing levy, Bayliss indicated a court battle to determine the constitutionality of the tax might be pressed by the northern section of the industry.

In Congress
Washington, April 11.—(AP)—Silver gleamed anew in the capital today as the senate agricultural committee pushed toward floor consideration of the veteran 16 to 1 ratio issue of William Jennings Bryan.

Meeting just after President Roosevelt by proclamation had boosted prices of newly mined silver from 64 1-2 cents to 70 cents an ounce the committee approved the Wheeler bill to require the purchase of 60,000,000 ounces of silver a month until that portion of the metal reached one fourth of the month stocks.

These purchases would be suspended whenever 16 ounces of pure silver equal to an ounce of gold is reached.

The future of the measure in the Senate was doubtful, however.

School Principal Killed
Troy, April 11.—(AP)—A. R. Leary principal of the Cliffs school of Rutherford county, was killed near here today and five of his students injured, one seriously, as their car collided with a truck loaded with empty beer bottles.

The school principal who was about 33 years old was enroute to Chapel Hill for the state high school debate finals in which his students were to participate.

Elizabeth Hendrick was about the most seriously hurt of the students. She suffered a broken leg and possible other injuries and was taken to a hospital at Albemarle.

The other students who were given first aid treatment were: Howard Talbert, cuts about the hands and legs, and David Colvin, minor bruises.

The accidents occurred five miles west of here on Highway No. 74. Sheriff Bruton of Montgomery county, was making an investigation.

Pending the probe, Jeffie Dunston, of Winter Haven, Fla., driver of the truck, was being held but no charges were brought.
