FOES OF FARM TAX PREPARE FOR CONCLAVE

Congressional Bloc Marshalls Forces for Arguments in Mass Interview

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—The Congressional bloc marshalled its arguments today for its massed interview with the President next week when efforts will be made for immediate action in behalf of the cotton textile industry.

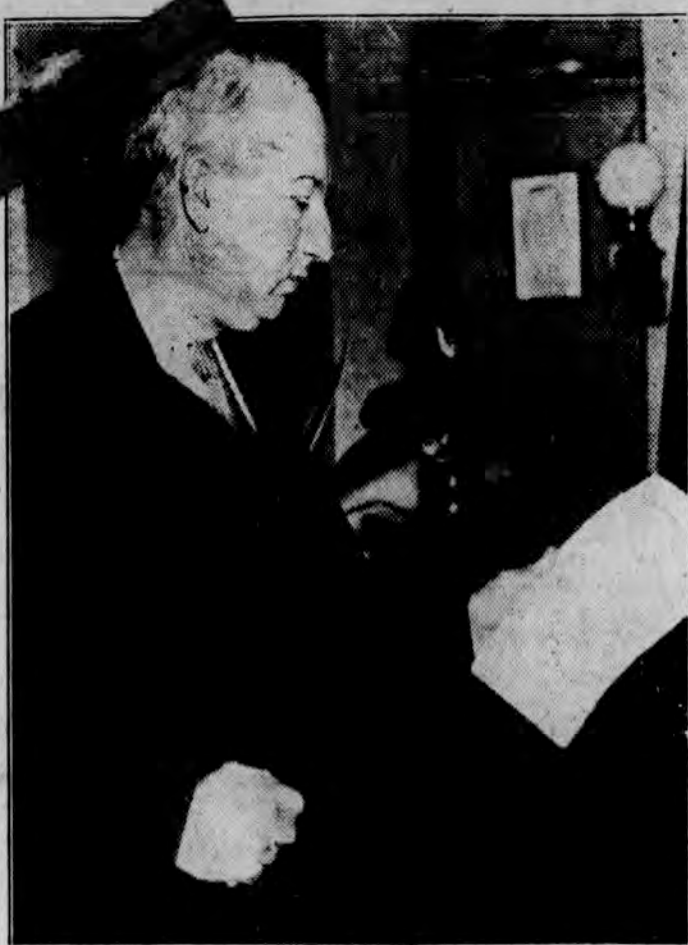

Developments yesterday were declared encouraged by the legislators. Outstanding was the decision of the House Ways and Means Committee to take up soon the question of naming a sub-committee for study of the question of foreign imports. This decision was taken on the motion of Representative McCormack Democrat, of Massachusetts, who said conditions in the industry warranted an immediate study.

Four Cabinet members and the chairman of the Tariff Commission also are serving as a special committee to study the textile situation. The secretaries are Hull of the State Department, Wallace of Agriculture, Reper of Commerce and Perkins of Labor.

There was no indication that Wallace's stand for the cotton processing tax has been changed. Abolition of this tax—which is levied on manufacturers in the industry to pay farmers for cutting production, is sought by the manufacturers along with a higher tariff against Japanese imports.

Speaking of the AAA in general and not referring to cotton in particular, Wallace said in a radio address last night that processors and dealers in farm products were trying to destroy the AAA so they might handle the farmers and consumers in their own way. He said processors were "trying to put the farmer again in their power."

HARRISON OFFERS NEW BONUS BILL

Senator Pat Harrison, democrat of Mississippi, is shown studying the new compromise bonus bill which he drafted and offered in the senate. Harrison said he thought his measure would be satisfactory to President Roosevelt. However, it didn't please Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, who wrote the greenback bonus bill already approved by the house. He asserted that the veterans would rather lose their battle than accept Harrison's proposal. SOLONS GET ANTI-PARDON BOARD BILL

Measure Seeks to Confer Clemency Powers Solely on The Governor

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, N. C., April 19.—Apparently a counter-move against those who would take from the Governor of North Carolina his power to pardon prison inmates was the offering of a bill which would vest with the Governor full and complete clemency powers. Its introducers were Senators Dunn, of Rowan, and Gravelly, of Nash.

Over in the House of Representatives in the hands of a sub-committee of the penal institutions committee is the bill by Representative Cooper, of New Hanover, which would take from the Governor his pardoning powers and establish a pardoning board instead. The Cooper bill would set up a "merit" system for the promotion of prisoners looking toward parole. It is believed generally here that the Cooper bill is dead—the sub-committee will still be "considering" the measure when the Legislature adjourns sine die.

The Dunn-Gravelly bill would add to the Governor's powers one item: paroles. The State Constitution empowers the Governor to pardon prisoners and commute sentences. It does not grant expressly the power to parole prisoners. Long-established by customs, however, is the Governor's power to parole. There are many who doubt the constitutionality of the Cooper bill because it would remove from the direct control of the Governor the clemency power.

For the past several sessions of the Legislature moves have been made to abolish the office of Commissioner of Paroles. The office is now held by Edwin Gill. It is his duty to hold hearings on applications for clemency, paroles and pardons and to furnish to the Governor reports of such cases. The title of Commissioner of Paroles is a new one in North Carolina. When Tyrone Taylor, Gill's predecessor, was in office, he held the title of "Adviser to the Governor," although his duties were identical with those now performed by Gill. The Legislature abolished the "adviser" post one day reestablished Taylor on the following day with the present title. It is believed that the Dunn-Gravelly bill will be enacted into law.

Two Tried For Crime They Did Not Commit

Raleigh, N. C., April 19.—(AP)—Sylvian Palmer and Victor Fowler, 22-year-old High Point men, were freed today after serving two and one-half years of a crime they did not commit.

It was also believed here that Walter Bridgeman, sentenced with them for the alleged robbery of the Bank of Denton in 1932, had been freed in Duplin County, where he was confined in a prison camp, but official word of his release probably will not reach here in several days.

With "no ill-will" toward the State and ready to "begin life all over," Palmer and Fowler left the prison freed by pardon.

MAN HANGED ACCUSING HIS PROSECUTORS

William DeBoe Goes To Gallows in Kentucky Condemning Woman in Case

Smithland, Ky., April 19.—(AP)—After he had talked 45 minutes to 1,500 citizens of Smithland, Ky., who had gathered to see him die, William DeBoe was hanged for criminal assault today in the courthouse yard.

After denouncing the chief prosecuting witness, Mrs. Marjorie Johnson, as a "cold-blooded murderer," the 23-year-old Paducah, Ky., man went to his death calmly. The trap was sprung at 6:39 a. m. (Central Standard Time) and he was pronounced dead eleven minutes later.

Nine separate times the doomed man shook his manacled hands at Mrs. Johnson, whose whereabouts had been indicated to him, and denounced her in clear, ringing tones.

The prosecuting attorney who was instrumental in having DeBoe convicted, likewise was attacked as a "party to a terrible miscarriage of justice."

"Why don't you speak?" he shouted at Mrs. Johnson. "Are you satisfied to stand there and say nothing and see me die. You should be here in my place."

"The woman's face remained expressionless until DeBoe in his final outburst, yelled:

"If you had had $500 I wouldn't be on this scaffold. You would have taken the money and said nothing."

"Not if you had offered me $1,000," the woman replied in a strident voice.

HEALTH HEADS SCHOOLS HERE MEETING HERE BEGIN EASTER

Public Health Workers Discuss Problems Of Section at Proctor Hotel

Public health directors of Eastern Carolina and representatives of the State Department of Health gathered at the Proctor Hotel today at 1 o'clock for a discussion of the health problems confronting this section of the State.

The meeting, called by Dr. N. T. Kinnitt, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, was expected to consume a greater part of the afternoon. The visitors were welcomed to the city by F. C. Harding, member of the Pitt County Bar Association, who declared that Pitt County is doing everything possible to cope with disease and make life safer for the inhabitants.

Representatives of the State Department of Health scheduled to be present were Dr. C. V. Reynolds, State Health Officer; Dr. R. E. Fox, director of the Division of County Health Work; Dr. G. M. Cooper, Director of the Division of Preventive Medicine; Dr. John H. Hamilton, Director of the State Laboratory of Hygiene; and Dr. J. C. Knox, Collaborating Epidemiologist.

Dr. Cooper read a paper dealing with "The Reduction of Maternal and Infant Mortality," and Dr. Kinnitt another paper on the subject "A Practical Method of School Medicine Inspection."

Other health problems scheduled to receive consideration during the latter part of the afternoon were dairy inspection, tuberculosis, malaria, etc. These were to be taken up in a round table discussion.

The gathering comes in the wake of a meeting of State Department of Health officials here some weeks ago at which time it was suggested that public health officers from other sections of the eastern part of the State be invited to attend the meeting here today.

SEEK SINGLE HEAD FOR BIG POWER PLAN

Administration May Coordinate Power Program Under Single Unit

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—The Roosevelt power program, now spread out among a half-dozen or more branches of government, may be co-ordinated under one head or agency.

An authoritative source disclosed today that such an idea is being considered at the White House. This has resulted from the marking of $1,000,000 of the new PWA billion dollar fund for power expansion in which the government unit is involved.

Tied to this plan, it was learned, is Farm and Home authority, stepchild of the Tennessee Valley Authority. The FHA has been seeking to promote sale of electric appliances and increase the power load in the Tennessee Valley.

Chairman Frank McNinch of the Power Commission, already has said that only $500,000 of an estimated more than $6,000,000 farm homes are linked with central power stations.

Londoners Like Hamlet.—London.—(AP)—So popular was John Gielgud's production of "Hamlet" here this season that for the closing performances hundreds of persons were in line as early as 6 a. m. The play grossed $160,000 for 155 performances.

Hawaii was a kingdom until a provisional government was set up in 1893. A Republican government was then established with Sanford B. Dole, a missionary's son, as president.

CITY READY FOR EASTER

Sunrise Service and Two Cantatas to Mark Observance Here Sunday

After several weeks of preparation Greenville had completed plans today for the celebration of Easter and indications pointed to one of the most widespread observances probably in history.

Preparations began nearly seven weeks ago with the inauguration of Pre-Easter services each Sunday evening at Pitt Theater. These services closed last Sunday night and were followed this week by Holy Week services each morning at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church with all churches of the city participating.

Last night a sacred cantata, "Seven Last Words," was rendered at Eighth Street Christian Church which was followed by the administering of the Sacrament of the Holy Communion. The cantata was well attended and the singing was impressive, dealing as it did with scenes from the Crucifixion. Miss Eugenia Thomas directed the choir.

Special sunrise services will also be conducted by young people of the Christian Church at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

Cantatas will be represented by the choir of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church and Memorial Baptist Church Sunday evening.

"Easter Victory," by H. W. Petrie will be rendered by the choir of the Methodist Church, and "From Death Unto Life," by Carrie B. Adams will be rendered at the Baptist Church.

Special services in preparation for Easter have been in progress at St. Paul's Episcopal Church for the last several days, and other churches of the city were preparing special music along with sermons dealing with the significance of the occasion.

Providing the weather is permissible, the coming of Easter is expected to see the usual dress parade with the latest creations from the great style centers of the world being in all public gatherings throughout the city.

Scores of young people home from colleges are expected to join in the observance of the occasion, with the usual number of Easter egg hunts and other affairs of the kind on schedule for the occasion.

REPORT RAPS NRA ACTIVITY

Blue Eagle Declared To Have "Substantially Retarded Recovery" in U. S.

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—Critics seeking to abolish or drastically change the NRA found new ammunition today in a report by groups of Brookings Institute who declared the Blue Eagle has "substantially retarded recovery."

Coming soon after Hugh S. Johnson had urged Congress to "scrub our infant vigorously, but don't throw the baby down the drain pipe with dirty water."

The report served to emphasize anew the conflict about NRA.

LEGISLATIVE RAMBLINGS

By C. A. PAUL

Raleigh, April 19.—Capitol observers who several weeks ago were saying that the house of representatives was leaderless are now saying the same thing about the senate. In fact, the senate just now appears more leaderless than the house ever did. Some leaders did emerge in the house during the squabble over the money bills. Among them were Representatives Gregg Cherry and Victor Bryant, chairmen, respectively, of the finance and appropriations committees. Mr. Cherry was able to jam through the house the revenue bill with the sales tax left at three per cent, the exemptions removed and more money in the bill than it contained when it left the joint finance committee room. Mr. Bryant had even an easier time with his appropriations bill. Only two changes were made in it—school teachers were given priority in state salary increases and the vocational agriculture allotment was boosted from $116,000 to $200,000.

Despite the fact that the house did march up the hill, down the hill, and back up the hill on the sales tax it did finish the revenue bill in far less time than the senate has had the measure. The revenue bill now has a shortage of over $4,000,000, the senate has reversed and re-reversed itself and still the battle isn't over. The date neither Senate Finance Chairman Harris (Continued on Page Two)

Mrs. Martha Scott Laid To Rest Today

Mrs. Martha E. Scott, age 64, died at home of her daughter, Mrs. D. N. Bradshaw, near Ayden, at 11:30 o'clock Thursday night. She had been ill since January and death was not unexpected.

She was a member of the Free Will Baptist Church of Pamlico County, moving to Pitt County about twenty years ago. Her husband preceded her to the grave nine years ago, and since that time had made her home with her children.

She is survived by two daughters Mrs. D. N. Bradshaw and Mrs. Howard Stocks, of Pitt County; two sons, H. B. Scott, of Pitt County, and C. A. Scott, of Norfolk, Va.; one sister, Mrs. S. J. Eburn, of Pitt County.

Funeral services were held today at 2:30 o'clock at the home by Elder W. H. Laughinghouse, Free Will Baptist minister. Burial was made at the Dixon graveyard near Black Jack.

Active pallbearers were: Tobie Williams, Willie Buck, Claude Hardee, Lorraine Marslander, Lee Cox and Levy Williams.

LOCAL POOL CLEANED OUT

Preparations For Opening Pushed Forward, Although Date Not Yet Decided

Work of cleaning out the municipal swimming pool on Fifth street got under way yesterday with indications it will be completed by tomorrow, barring too much bad weather.

Although preparations are being pushed forward for the opening of the pool, the committee named recently by the Board of Aldermen to decide on the opening date has not acted. They are also to decide on rates for season tickets.

The committee, however, is expected to act within the next few days, especially in view of the fact that it is believed the cold wave which has held the section in its grip the last several days is about over and hot weather is just round the corner.

The large pool was brushed out by workmen yesterday, but it will be put through other cleaning operations before it is ready to receive the hundreds of swimmers expected to partonize it on the opening day.

In addition to preparing for the opening of the pool, work was also being rushed ahead on the municipal park adjoining the pool property. Light standards were erected by the Water and Light commission during the week and it is probable lights will be put into place next week.

A fence is to be built between that area given by the Teachers College for the park and the college campus, and indications were that work would probably get underway next week. The type of fence to be built there is the only thing holding up operations.

Concrete steps have been built on Fourth street for the convenience of those desiring to enter the park from that end. The steps are just below the swimming pool near the culvert which was built sometime ago to provide adequate drainage for the territory. Other things have been done to get the park in readiness, and it was expected this would be ready for opening along with the pool.

TIMBERLAKE WITH WEBB'S

Former Operator of Johnston's Warehouse Buys Interest In Another Firm

It was announced today that Tom Timberlake, former operator of Johnston's warehouse, had bought an interest in Webb's warehouse and would be connected with the firm during the forthcoming tobacco season.

In announcing Mr. Timberlake as a member of the firm, C. H. Webb, who has operated the warehouse for the past several years, said the firm name would remain unchanged but that Mr. Timberlake would take an active part in operation of the house next season.

Mr. Timberlake has been connected with the tobacco warehouse business virtually all of his life, and has been on the tobacco market here a good part of that time with exception of the time spent in operating warehouse on other large markets of the state.

He has been operating Johnston's warehouse for the past three years and made numbers of new friends who will receive announcement of his new connection with interest.

Announcement of this change is one of the many to take place on the local market during the present year and when the opening date rolls around it will find Greenville in far better shape than ever before to handle the millions of pounds of bright leaf marketed here each season.

ALLAN CARSON FOUND GUILTY

Jury Returns Verdict of Second Degree Murder After Deliberating Hour

Allan Carson, 31-year-old Bethel filling station operator, charged with the slaying of Ed. Simons, of Bethel, about a year and a half ago, was found guilty of murder in the second degree in today's session of Circuit Superior Court, but Judge M. V. Barnhill did not pronounce sentence this afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock. The verdict carries a maximum of 30 years in State's Prison.

The jury received the case this morning about 11:30 o'clock and the verdict was brought in about 12:30, shortly before court recessed for dinner.

Judge Barnhill was expected to pass sentence during the afternoon.

The fate of Allan Carson, 31-year-old Bethel filling station operator, charged with the slaying of Ed. Simons, about a year and a half ago, went to the jury around noon today.

The morning hours of court were consumed by the final argument of Colonel Albion Dunn, who with Louis Gaylord, was named by the court to assist Solicitor D. M. Clark in the prosecution, and the charge by Judge M. V. Barnhill, of Rocky Mount.

Argument was begun yesterday with M. K. Blount and Dink James members of the law firm of Blount & James, making a powerful plea for acquittal of the defendant. They cited Carson's own plea of having been advanced upon with a knife by Simons when he opened fire with a pistol and fired two bullets into the body of his alleged assailant.

They were followed by Louis Gaylord who asked conviction on the ground that Simons was shot because of ill-feeling existing between the two men and without attempting to make any attack on the defendant.

The shooting allegedly resulted from a check for $1.81 which Simons had gone to the filling station to talk it over with Carson. After an exchange of profane language, Carson allegedly pulled a pistol and shot Simons, who the defendant declared was advancing on him with a knife.

Character witnesses testified to the good character of the defendant and gave negative answers as to Simons. The case was begun Wednesday morning with the entire day being consumed in the taking of testimony. Evidence was completed yesterday morning with argument getting under way shortly before noon.

Scores of people from the Bethel community have attended court each day and watched progress of the case with interest.

BALL MOGULS MEET TONIGHT

Directors of the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain League will meet in the directors' room of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company tonight at 8 o'clock for what is described as one of the most "important meetings" of the season.

The purpose of the meeting is to receive reports from various committees name sometime ago to take up questions in connection with operation of the club. After receiving the reports, the directors are expected to act upon them.

With a manager and three players already signed, it was expected that the remaining members of the club would be decided upon in the next few days. The club is making an effort to put the strongest team in recent years on the field in the opening game so Greenville can get away to an early start.

A formidable pitching staff headed by Reynolds May, last season's star hurler, is being sought by the club and while the names of the remaining members have not been announced, it was expected they would be made known in the near future.

With eight clubs in the circuit this season, much more interest than usual is anticipated this season. Goldsboro and Williamston are the new members, with the Wayne County capital outfit being headed by no other than "Dick" Pool, last season's pilot of the victorious Greenville aggregation.

"Bo" Farley will be the skipper of the local club this season, and because of his playing and managerial abilities, the outlook for a successful team here is brighter than it has been in years, one of the directors said this morning.

Legislative Rambling

Newman anti-sales taxes Senator Gravelly have been able to crack the whip with any lasting success.

Next week a liquor bill, the revamped Day measure with its face lifted so that it looks like the Hill bill's twin, is expected to make its bow on the house floor. Fifty-two signatures are said to be attached to the measure which would permit state liquor stores in those counties which voted for repeal of the 18th Amendment back in 1933. As now written the bill would also permit the immediate establishment of stores in resort towns. Ardent sponsor No. 1 of the bill is Representative Luke Stevens, of Camden county. Camden county, incidentally, is also the home bailiwick of Cale Burgess, chief of North Carolina United Dry Forces.

Senate foes of the absentee ballot law have won a victory by succeeding in getting a without prejudice report from the elections committee. The bill will appear on the senate calendar today, but no one expects the upper house to act on the measure today because of the revenue fight which will be followed by senate consideration of the appropriations bill. The measure would repeal the law outright and would be state-wide in effect. Because Senator Allsbrook, of Halifax, had secured two other senators who had promised to sign a minority report with him those who would retain the abused act capitulated. It is being said on Capitol Hill that the opponents of the absentee ballot law have a majority in the senate and that is the real reason behind the capitulation. Previously the committee had killed six bills which would have repealed the law in individual counties and had shelved other bills which would have done the same thing. The present state-wide repealer was offered by Senator Weathers, of Wake, and had been lying inactive in the elections committee's files. The bill has the approval of the state elections committee, the Governor, most high officials, prominent Democrats and the state Republican party.

Most of those opposing repeal of the law are Democrats of the old school of politics and those legislators from counties where there is almost a balance between the two major political parties. It is in those counties that most of the charges of fraud in elections via the absentee law have originated. It is, in fact, an open secret that in several counties the absentee ballots are the deciding factor in elections. The absentee ballot law was passed in world war days, supposedly for the benefit of North Carolinians in the army and navy. The present showdown on the wartime act was precipitated by Senator Corey, of Pitt, who offered and had passed under suspension of the rules a bill which would have repealed the law for his county only. Immediately upon the protest of Senator Nixon, who hails from Lincoln, normally a Republican county, the bill was recalled, sent to the elections committee. Senator Nixon, a Democrat, is chairman of the senate elections committee.

Tips on CONTRACT

By TOM O'NEIL
Straight Flush Loser

Waiting for Hal Sims and Ely Culbertson to get busy on their smatch at Crockett's some of the boys writing about them started a game of their own. In the course of it I held five trumps in sequence, ten-spot high, against a bid of five spades. I refrained from doubling, hoping the enemy would get to slam. But the little slam could have been made. Here was the hand:

Robert Warburg, the dealer, offered a heart. After West's pass, Robert Neville, North, bid two clubs. I passed with the wonderful assortment East, fearing the worst. Warburg bid two spades and Neville said five of the same Warburg fooled me by passing.

West led the king of hearts and after taking it with the ace, North led the king of spades, West showing out and revealing the bunching of adverse trumps east. South just made five.

"You could have made six," said Professor Neville. And he proved it. It is one of those cases where adverse trumps must never be drawn, any of them, or a slam bid would be set. The trump honors must all be used for ruffing. East having to undertrump after other suits have been eliminated from his hand. He will make a trump at the end. He must never be allowed to discard. The declarer at a slam bid would be fortunate in finding East with three hearts and three diamonds, but would have to assume such a holding in order to make the hand. There must be a bit of care in timing. After taking the opening heart lead with the ace South, trump a low heart North with a low spade. Lead the ace of clubs and trump a low club South with a low trump. Trump another heart North with a low trump. Ruff another club South low. Now take three high diamonds.

At this point East will have nothing in his hand but five spades. North will have the queen-jack of spades and three clubs. South will have the ace-king and a low spade and two hearts. Lead a club from the North hand. East will have to

by Michael House Farham

SYNOPSIS: James and Jane Stimson are not getting along well. It is obvious to all New Concord. Finally, after a conversation with Leslie Harris, whom James once loved, Miss Julia Pratt takes it upon herself to try to reason with Jane, who is destroying all her young husband's confidence in himself by her overbearing and not too well bred tactics. But poor Miss Julia finds she has only lost a tornado of wrath upon herself.

Chapter 39. GREAT NEWS

"YOU know as well as I do, Miss Julia," Jane almost shouted at her guest, "that the Judge and old Grandpa Stimson were always stuffing him with drivel about his being the original boy wonder, certain to set the world on fire."

"Naturally," he objected when I treated him like a human being instead of a pampered poodle who just had won a ribbon at a bench show. It's been nothing but object, complain, object, complain, ever since we were married."

"But I did think he was man enough to confine his complaints to me. I did think he was gentleman enough not to go on in the highways and byways and spatter his own wife with mud. It seems, however, that I was mistaken."

Miss Julia said simply, "Jane, I am horrified." She got to her feet and marched to the door. There she said, over her shoulder: "As far as I know, James has never complained of you to anybody. But if he did, God knows I should never blame him."

And that was the end of Miss Julia's attempt to set matters right between her two favorites.

James that evening stayed downtown to dinner at the new Rotary Club, and Jane had time, with her mother's help, to indulge herself in an orgy of self-pity, which culminated, when James got home, in near hysteria.

Jane sobbed that she was sick of New Concord, sick to death of being laughed at and jeered at because of James' continued failure. He had promised her when he married her to take her away from New Concord. He had asked her to be patient, to give him a little time.

Hadn't she been patient? Hadn't she? For eight years she had smiled and endured and worked her fingers to the bone, putting up a front, making a penny do the work of a dollar, entertaining his friends, pretending, pretending, until she was worn to a shadow; that he was successful.

And all the time James was content to stand still, to do nothing, he nothing but a small-town lawyer, just a country lawyer, making a miserable three thousand a year. He was supposed to be an orator. And the only ones he could count on to listen to him were a lot of bumpkins at the Rotary Club. If he were a man.

James listened patiently, with bent head. At last, when Jane was sobbing quietly, he said, "How would you like Topeka for a change?"

"Topeka? I'd prefer Topeka to this shabby little town."

James explained that the Judge had decided that afternoon to let him run for the state legislature. His candidacy had been announced at the Rotary Club dinner.

JANE stared at him blankly. "You might have told me, but of course, I'm only your wife. Naturally, I should be the last to know."

"McNulough only told the Judge today he wasn't well enough to make the race. I could have telephoned you, but I wanted to tell you myself."

Jane went to bed that night a crushed and injured soul, but by morning she was cheered and elated. What might have happened between the Stimsons if James had won his first political goal will never be known. Certainly Jane was both charming and stimulating and very patient with James during the next few weeks. She was correspondingly cast down and irritated when James failed of the nomination by one vote.

James failed; that vote, and other, because it was told all over New Concord and New Concord County that Mrs. James Stimson had said that, while Andy Plumber from up Douglas was a perfect dear, his old trunk of a wife ought to be locked in at home or else tied up in a back yard, instead of being allowed to see him to political conventions.

Mrs. Plumber was one of the most popular women in the Douglas neighborhood, the kindest of neighbors, the greatest hand in sickness. James knew the reason for his defeat.

Brooklyn poultry firm of that name be brought up for argument on May 6. The Court set the date at May 2. Court attendants say it is unusual for the 9 high jurist to rush a hearing.

Now that the New Deal is in an imminent showdown on the Blue Eagle it's a safe bet there will be no final action on extension of NRA until the Supreme Court has spoken. That would defer a final Congressional vote until very shortly before the June 16 date on which the present setup expires.

PHAMPHLETS: The American Liberty League, that organization backed by wealthy conservative Democrats and Republicans, may not have been making such a stir

Chapter 40. GOOD ADVICE

"WELL, I see that James has become a model husband, trained and housebroken," Judge Holcomb remarked angrily to Miss Julia next spring, a week or so before he died. It was the last time he ever talked to Miss Julia of his erstwhile prodigy.

The old man passed away in his sleep very quietly just before James' thirty-third birthday. James missed him more, had leaned on him more, than perhaps either had realized. Although in his last year the Judge had been a silent rather than an active partner he was always there to advise James, prompt to laugh him out of an absurd enthusiasm or spur him from his now too frequent sloth.

"You lost your case today because you talked too much," the Judge once cautioned James. "You had it won hands down on two or ever, his red hair lost its brilliancy and was sprinkled with gray. He stopped going to conventions and making speeches or telling funny stories and no one predicted a brilliant future for him. His law practice ceased to expand, remained stationary and began to shrink.

James realized with a lump in his throat that his town had lost faith in him—had ceased to believe in him, as he had ceased to believe in himself.

He and Jane only quarreled a half dozen times a year now—or at least James answered that often his wife's querulous complaints. But sometimes when she looked full at him James felt that she hated him—and knew that it was because he was a failure. He felt extremely sorry for himself but sorrier for Jane.

He believed that he had won her under false pretenses and he never really blamed her for ceasing to love him after she found him out. He wondered at intervals, reading the papers, whether Jane, if they had lived in a city would not have asked him for a divorce. God knows she could have it for the asking. He had no desire to keep her tied to him.

In the last ten or fifteen years there have been few kind words three occasions, but you were reveling in the sound of your own voice and kept at it until you talked yourself and your client out of a victory. Never forget that talk is cheap... the cheapest thing in the world. Lincoln's best speech was written on the back of an envelope." James never again talked himself out of a case.

But the Judge was not always critical; far from it. When James won a case or put up a good fight the Judge was the first to slap him on the back and say the heart-warming things he most wanted to hear. It did not matter so much that Jane made light of his small successes as long as James knew that he had pleased the Judge.

BUT now the Judge was dead. His empty office, kept temporarily by Nappy in a state of unnatural order and cleanliness, was a daily, almost hourly, reminder that his best friend and protector had gone from him forever. James had no one now to depend on but himself.

James slept these days alone in a back bedroom and no longer wakened joyfully, anxious to work off his superfluous energy by romping with his wife. He ate his breakfast alone, tiptoeing cautiously down the back stairs for fear he might waken Jane, who had long since developed insomnia.

His hair no longer stuck up aggressively from his crown even on special occasions, but lay meekly down where he plastered it; and he almost never wore a blue coat with checked trousers or vice versa. He smoked only two cigars a day—and those at the office—and he spent his Sunday afternoons in a big chair in the Northrup library sleeping off his over-large over-the-midday dinner.

Jane had quarreled with his Aunt Sarah, and the latter had to come to the office to see her nephew, or he went occasionally to see her afterwards when he was not busy, though he never mentioned these visits at home.

He grew stooped, thinner than business will be in New York City, Chicago, Cleveland and Los Angeles. The company will borrow from RFC whatever it needs. It will also turn mortgages over to insurance companies. Local agents of RFC will shape up the business. All directors and officers are in the RFC outfit.

President Schuilst tells the Whirligig that this company is backed by law and cash. Its operations supplement the work of Home Owners, Loan, Federal Housing, and other agencies. It is free from red tape of a government bureau. It can turn sharp corners like any other private corporation. It will not confine its operations to big cities.

WOMEN: The annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution was colorful—full of patriotism and politics. Snappy addresses on preparedness and skirmishes between conservatives and radicals marked the dozens of side meetings. The contest for president-up of the financial log jam and his cheers for cheap money left Wall Street cold. Ditto for prophecies of tremendous industrial stimulation from the spending of the work relief fund.

You hear widespread comment in financial circles that the government is trying again to use talk for money in fostering recovery. Part of the skepticism traces to the simple conservative credo that the New Deal is ruining private enterprise and therefore recovery is impossible while it holds the reins—plus the further belief that psychology has consistently outrun performance. Part of it cuts deeper.

Definite obstructionism is growing in certain financial and industrial quarters. There are people in high places who are determined that recovery shall not come—if they can prevent it—until Mr. Roosevelt is beaten for reelection. They are quite prepared to take a licking in their own pocketbooks for a year and a half if it helps to accomplish the desired results.

PICK-UP: Impartial New York observers appraise the true prospect as less rosy than painted by Washington and its allies but considerably less indigo than right wing extremists maintain. They figure we're in for a dull and dispirited summer unless one of four factors develops unexpectedly. They hope it that immediate impetus could come only from (a) large new corporate financing (as distinct from the refunding issues which are beginning to come thick and fast) (b) extensive railroad buying of equipment, (c) a boom in private construction or (d) a rush of foreign capital to this country. The first three are rated highly unlikely. The fourth is worth watching if international tension increases.

They don't expect work relief money to work magic for several months. Subsistence homesteads and slum clearance—two of the most important spending classifications—are bound to bear fruit slowly. Too many local problems impede quick action. Grade crossing elimination can start at once—but won't create many jobs in proportion to the outlay.

But these analysts do expect federal cash to start things humming by fall and predict that the upturn which begins then will accelerate through 1936. They are convinced that the forces behind the pick-up will be too strong for any army of conservatives canutes to hold in check.

FEARFUL: Secretary Morgenthau's announcement that the balance of $1,200,000,000 in Fourth Liberties will be called for payment in October confirms our prophecy. When that job is done the decks will be clear to raise relief funds as needed with a minimum of maturity complications. Don't forget either that with all the Liberties out of the way—few securities on which to base gold clause suits will be left outstanding.

Experts agree with Mr. Morgenthau that the saving in interest is well worth while from the taxpayers' viewpoint—even if it's a flea-bite to the future debt which the nation is assuming. But they don't share his belief that cheap money is a cure for all our ailments. It will evidently take more than that to induce reluctant borrowers to use the ocean of credit available.

Right wing alarmists are fearful that Treasury policy plus proposed centralization of Federal Reserve control aims at giving the government complete mastery of capital and capital markets with "socialistic" financing of industry to follow. Their only consolation is that the government has so far been much bolder in word than in deed at pushing up the federal deficit.

NICE: Railroad men wish to pete the Supreme Court would hurry and make up its mind about the pension act. They also pray fervently that Congress will do something p. d. q. about regulating truck and bus competition.

If they get the breaks on these two matters they may go through with their wage-cutting gesture on May 1st. If they lose out on both, comment runs that even the pay cut won't save their bacon.

The Congressional outlook is not hopeful. It looks as if the only rail legislation likely to be enacted is extension of Mr. Eastman's job as coordinator. Rail circles say this will doubtless be very nice but can't see how it will help to pay their bills.

SELLING: Keen observers rate the action of the western railroads in instituting an advertising campaign to win back lost traffic as the most sensible thing they could do. It's remarked that travel assumes increasing importance with the inevitable growth of leisure and the trend toward giving better service for cheaper rates affords a first rate selling point—especially as to comfort against both automobiles and airplanes.

An effort is being made in the legislature now to again take down the bars and permit both the manufacture and operation of slot machines in this state. If there is any action taken with regard to slot machines it should be to outlaw what few types of these machines that remain rather than to permit some of those already outlawed to again come into use.

A measure now before the General Assembly would take away from the various towns and counties the privilege of hiring their own school teachers and place this authority in the hands of the officials in Raleigh. As we see it there has already been enough centralization of power in Raleigh and certainly the various communities should be in better position to select their teachers than to have them selected by the state board. The argument in favor of selection by the state board is that local politics plays a part in the present plan of selection of the teachers but it is our opinion that even with this fault the plan is far better than to centralize this power in Raleigh in the hands of those who go in for even more politics than prevail in the local communities with reference to employing school teachers.

With the Easter holidays there will be an increase of traffic on our highways and we take this opportunity in advance to urge the motorists to exercise caution as they venture on the highways the coming week-end. Remember that a heavy foot on the accelerator is a quick way to the cemetery or the hospital.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

According to one who was present, P. D. R. proposed a bargain with them. In exchange for assurance that Congress would give additional legislative life to the AAA cotton curtailment program, the President was willing to offer continuance of the 12c cotton loan policy.

So far the White House is standing pat, on a continuance of the processing tax, about which the cotton manufacturers are screaming so loudly. But unless all signs fail, the President is going to have a knockdown fight with the textile people before he gets through. New England and Southern members of Congress have combined in a for some common cause and are enlisting the aid of others through side roads.

URGENT: It was significant the other day that the Supreme Court moved faster than the government toward bringing about a final ruling on the constitutionality of NRA. The Department of Justice asked that the Schechter case—involving alleged wholesale violations of the general was as full of political maneuvering as a national convention. Nothing so vividly illustrates the progress of women in public affairs as the congress of the Daughters. Many of them are skilled parliamentarians and public speakers. They furnish much food for thought to Congress.

Mrs. Roosevelt's carefully maintained neutrality in the presidency contest, and entertained the whole congress at a brilliant reception.

HIGHWAY BODY WINS BATTLE IN ASSEMBLY

Department Victor in Fight Over Width of Vehicles; Buses Regulated

Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
Raleigh, April 19.—The state highway department scored a victory as the house of representatives passed a bill which will, if approved by the senate, permit the department to stringently regulate buses and trucks on state roads. The measure was offered by Representatives Tatum, of Tyrrell, and Paylor, of Pitt.

Introduced several weeks ago and reported favorably by the house roads committee, of which Representative Tatum is chairman, the bill was met in the house by strong opposition, deferred day after day and finally referred to the roads committee. The main bone of contention was the proposal to increase the legal maximum width of motor vehicles to 96 inches. Although the present law lays down 90 inches as the maximum width hundreds of trucks and buses 96 inches wide have long been operating on state roads. The principal reason is that the state is powerless to regulate the width of vehicles engaged in interstate commerce. Many companies have been operating 6-inch trucks and buses by virtue of temporary permits issued by the highway department. The companies which manufacture buses make all standard models 96 inches wide. As a result a special order must be taken involving increased costs, if a 90-inch bus is desired. Typical 90-inch buses are those which have a narrow seat on one side, a wide one on the other. However, trucks and buses engaged in interstate travel is the prime reason for the highway decision to extend the width limit.

When the bill appeared on the house floor for debate it was met by a series of amendments. Republican Representative Jones, of Lincoln, successfully amended the bill so that became a part of the bill previously passed by the house which would permit the highway department to designate by means of road signs certain highways as light traffic roads, thus limiting the weight of vehicles which may be used on such roads.

Rejected was an amendment sent up by Representative Blount, of Beaufort, which would have limited the maximum width of motor vehicles to 90 inches. Only South Carolina and North Carolina have laws which do not permit 16-inch vehicles. Representative Cooper of New Hanover fought the 96-inch provision, presenting an argument for the Atlantic Coast Line and other railroads. He said, "The railroads pay $5,000,000 in taxes in North Carolina and maintain their own rights-of-ways."

Adopted was an amendment by the roads committee which would require adequate brakes on buses and trucks. Under it trailers would be required to be equipped with brakes.

Other provisions of the bill as approved are:
To require the speed of vehicles in any business district to 20 miles per hour; in residential districts, 25 miles per hour; and 45 miles per hour under any other conditions. To limit the over-all length of any single vehicle to 35 feet, the limit of any combination of vehicles to 45 feet, and to prohibit the coupling together of more than two vehicles. (Under existing law the combination limit is 50 feet. The bill would ban the use of many four-wheeled trailers now in use.) To prohibit the extension of loads beyond the axle on the left side and the extension of more than six inches on the right, or off, side. To limit the gross weight of any vehicle having two axles to 20,000 pounds, the gross weight of any vehicle or series of vehicles (trucks and trailers) to 40,000 pounds. Limitation in addition to the above are also imposed on whether vehicles are equipped with solid, pneumatic or low-pressure tires. Other sections of the bill would regulate the transportation of inflammables and explosives.

Parliament approved a bill permitting rural and city communities to force residents to help build roads, construct schools, plant forests, improve the soil, and so on, all of which has long been neglected. Community councils will decide how many days each year citizens will have to devote to these projects.

W. B. DAVIS IS GIVEN PAROLE

Former Asheville Bank President Freed From Prison by Order Governor

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, N. C., April 19.—Wallace B. Davis, former president of the Central Bank and Trust Company of Asheville, convicted with Colonel Luke Lea, Tennessee banker and politician, of violation of the North Carolina banking laws in the summer of 1931, was freed from prison today on a parole issued by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus. Davis would have completed serving his minimum service by about October, 1935, the parole set forth. He was serving two sentences, running concurrently, one of from five to seven years and the other of from four to six years.

Davis entered the prison here October 26, 1932, and started serving his sentences as soon as the United States Supreme Court had refused to issue a writ of certiorari, thus upholding the State Supreme Court Colonel Luke Lea, on the other hand, continued to use every legal loophole his lawyers could find to evade the sentence and did not come into the State and start serving his sentence until May 9, 1934. Colonel Lea received three separate sentences, two of from three to five years, to run consecutively, making a total of from six to ten years, and a third sentence of from six to ten years, to run concurrently with the other two. As a result of his delay in entering prison to start serving his sentence, Colonel Lea has served only a little more than eleven months of his sentence, while Davis is now free, having served two and one-half years of his minimum sentence of five years.

Davis was paroled entirely on the grounds of good behavior and of having made an excellent prison record, the parole set forth. The question of his original guilt or innocence was not touched upon in the statement issued by Governor Ehringhaus, evidently on the basis that that question had been decided by the jury that tried him. The parole was recommended by Judge M. V. Barnhill of Rocky Mount, who presided at the trial and sentenced both Davis and Lea; by L. P. McLendon and Thomas L. Johnson, special prosecutors appointed by Governor Ehringhaus to assist Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles, prosecute the cases against Davis and Lea and by all of the jurors who heard the cases in both trials. Prison authorities also recommended the parole and reported to the Governor as follows:

"He (Davis) at all times has shown a spirit of co-operation and a desire to help the prison management in all ways. All instructions have not only been carried out, but gladly and intelligently performed. His disposition to all connected with the prison has been kindly and friendly and his desire to be of help in every way and to everyone has been first in his mind."

Judge Barnhill, in his letter to Governor Ehringhaus, said: "I made a good prisoner. He has reached the age where it is practically impossible for him to ever regain his former position. In view of the facts state, I wish to assure you that any action you take in this matter will be entirely agreeable to me."

McLendon, the special prosecutor appointed by the Governor to prosecute Davis and Lea, said:

"I do not hesitate to say that, in my opinion, this prisoner (Davis) should receive some reduction in his sentence on account of his good behavior and other mitigating circumstances, with which you are familiar."

Assistant Special Prosecutor Johnson, in his letter to the Governor said:

"The dual purposes of punishment, in my opinion, has already been accomplished in this case and I shall be very glad if you can see your way clear to pardon the prisoner."

Argentina Pensions Murderess
Buenos Aires.—(AP)—Senora Elvira Mulvey de Leigh McMorrin, serving fifteen years for murder, for four years has been receiving a civil service pension in jail. She was convicted in 1931 and the Supreme Court only now has ruled that pensions stop upon conviction for crime.

The Michigan Schoolmasters' Club is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary in April.

There is no need for a lot of whangdoodle talk about cigarettes —just plain common-sense

When you stop to think about your cigarette—what it means to you—here's about the way you look at it—

Smoking a cigarette gives a lot of pleasure—it always has.

People have been smoking and enjoying tobacco in some form or another for over 400 years.

Of course you want a cigarette to be made right. And naturally you want it to be mild. Yet you want it to have the right taste—and plenty of it.

In other words—you want it to Satisfy.

Scientific methods and ripe mild tobaccos make Chesterfield a milder and better-tasting cigarette. We believe you will enjoy them.

from 55 cents to 40 cents per hundredweight with a minimum of $7 to $12.50. The measure must go back to the Senate for concurrence as the upper division voted a 45 cents rate with a minimum of $9.

Frank Belgrano, National Commander of the American Legion, failed to show up for a scheduled address to a joint meeting of the Assembly at noon, but in joint session the legislators elected trustees of the University of North Carolina.

There was no explanation why Belgrano failed to arrive for his scheduled address in mid-afternoon and no word had been received from him by the local committee which had expected him to arrive from Bennettsville, S. C. in time to speak at noon and again tonight.

Both divisions passed a bill to make Easter and National Decoration Days State holidays for banks.

Probe Prison Camp Cruelty
Charlotte, N. C., April 19.—(AP)—Oscar Cunningham and Eugene Whitley, negro convicts alleged to have been illegally whipped while inmates of the little chancery near here, came here today to testify at the Mecklenburg grand jury investigation of prison affairs.

Meanwhile Solicitor John Carpenter preferred bills of indictment against former prison camp officials charged with cruelty to Woodrow Shropshire and Robert Barnes whose feet were amputated after they were chained in solitary confinement at a camp in mid-winter.

The bills were expected to be acted upon this afternoon or tomorrow morning when the grand jury's probe is expected to be completed.

Protest Germany's Failure to Pay
Washington, April 19.—(AP)—A vigorous protest against Germany's failure to make interest payment approximating $2,000,000 to American holders of Dawes bonds on April 15 had been made by the United States.

Secretary Hull announced today that William Dodge, American ambassador to Berlin, had delivered the protest in the form of an aide memoire at the German foreign office yesterday.

The United States previously had made a number of formal and verbal protests against German failure to pay as being discriminatory against Americans.

Securities Bill Nearing Passage
Washington, April 19.—(AP)—Passage by nightfall of the administration social securities legislation was promised today by congressional leaders.

Still standing firmly behind the administration, the house refused to strike from the bill the section levying taxes on incomes and payrolls for old age annuities.

The senate continued debate on the Bankhead farm tenant measure. This would create a billion dollar corporation, but farms for tenant farmers and give them 60 years to acquire ownership.

A senate subcommittee started what were expected to be extended hearings on the omnibus bill hearing Leo Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposits Insurance Corporation as its first witness. He advocated indefinite suspension of the law insuring deposits up to $5,000.

Louisiana Legislators Rack Loe
Baton Rouge, April 19.—The Louisiana State legislature today at Senator Huey P. Long's order threw down the gauntlet to the federal government in the senator's PWA fund control fight by finally enacting legislation to place expenditures of federal funds under state supervision.

The General Assembly's endorsement of Loe's insistence that Louisiana cities and parishes shall be responsible to the State for projects on which PWA funds are spent was written when the senate passed legislation carrying into effect the senator's wishes. The vote was 29 to 10. Since Secretary of the Interior Ickes recently declared that if the legislature passed such a law, Louisiana PWA grants would be stopped and action of the law makers amounted to crossing the Rubicon.

Dr. Albert Parrott Dead
Kinston, April 19.—(AP)—Dr. Albert Parrott, chief surgeon of the Parrott Memorial hospital, died at his home here today after a heart attack. Widely known in medical circles, he was the nephew of the late Dr. James M. Parrott, state health officer. Surviving are his widow, two daughters and a son.

Brooklyn Beats Dodgers
Although Babe Ruth connected with two singles and drew his first National League base on balls the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated Boston 4 to 2 this afternoon in the first game of a double header. The other contest being set for this afternoon.

Watson Clark held the Braves to nine scattered hits and drove in two runs with a single.

Democratic Leaders Watch South
Atlanta, April 19.—(AP)—Political leaders in the Democratic solid south today watched closely as Washington took all relief funds out of the hands of Governor Talmadge of Georgia and Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, open critics of President Roosevelt.

Talmadge yesterday termed the president "a radical in the extreme" as he made preparations to stomp the cotton belt against the processing tax.

Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins, who revealed he has named an anti-Long man as head of the
