PITT TO VOTE ON LEGALIZATION OF WHISKEY

CLUBMEN BACK MOVE FOR NINE MONTH SCHOOL

Kiwanians go on Rec- ord as Unanimously In Favor of Extra Month Here

The Kiwanis Club, among the first organizations of the city to rally behind the movement to call an election for a nine months' school for Greenville, last night went on record as unanimously in favor of the plan.

The action was taken at the suggestion of H. H. Duncan, a member of the Board of Aldermen who several years ago was engaged in school work here and who declared he believed the ninth months of school indispensable.

Mr. Duncan made the proposal after hearing J. H. Rose, superintendent of city schools, tell of the work of the various institutions and the election to be held May 28 for the purpose of voting on an assessment for a nine months' term for the city.

The school head called attention to some of the achievements of the schools in recent years, and the fine records the students were making after entering college. He also referred to the success of the High School in the State-wide music contest held at Greensboro each year, the achievement of the ball club in winning all games played this season but one, and the many improvements made to buildings through Federal Emergency relief funds during the last two years. The improvements included athletic field and club house at Third Street school, addition to the library at the High School and wings to both white and colored schools. The improvements cost approximately $125,000.

Referring to the importance of a nine months' school for the city, Mr. Rose said the High School here would be dropped from the accredited list if the extra month was not added. With only eight months as provided by the State it is difficult for students to enter college and make good. They have to stand entrance examinations now, but this would not be required if the city had a longer term school.

He read the list of citizens who signed the petition required to call a school election, and then presented endorsements of the election from some of the largest property owners of the city. The speaker asserted a longer term school would prove an attraction to people desiring to make their homes in communities where educational facilities are on par with the largest cities in the state. He mentioned a family that plans to move here immediately if the nine

MOTHERS TO BE HONORED

City to Join Remain- der of the Nation in Observance of Mother's Day Sunday

Tomorrow is Mother's Day and Greenville will join the remainder of the nation in paying tribute to the saintly spirit of every household.

Programs in keeping with the significance of the occasion will be presented in the various Sunday schools tomorrow morning and sermons and special musical programs dealing with Mother will feature 11 o'clock services.

Millions of people throughout the nation were busy today doing last-minute shopping for presents for Mother. Stores displayed a wide assortment of gifts for the occasion and merchants today anticipated extensive purchases.

Millions of red and white flowers will be worn by citizens of all communities tomorrow, the white denoting the dead, and red, the living. The demand for flowers on Mother's Day is probably more extensive than any other season of the year except Easter.

The observance this year probably will be more extensive than previous years and services at the various churches will be more inspirational and impressive.

Mothers play an important part in moulding the ideals of a nation and everybody has been urged to attend services and help pay tribute to the Guardian Angel of every household.

TWO CONVICTS TAKEN IN PITT

Men Who Escaped From Cary Prison Farm Arrested in Winterville

Two convicts who escaped from the State prison camp at Cary Thursday were being held here today for State authorities after being captured by sheriff's officers at Winterville last night.

The prisoners are: Levy Tyson, Pitt County, serving from three to five years for forgery, and Willis Lewis, of Goldsboro, who was serving a similar term for larceny.

Officers said the two men were doing a little "window shopping" at Winterville last night while waiting for some liquor to be delivered to them when they were surprised and taken into custody. Tyson gave the officers something of a chase before finally surrendering.

Those taking part in the arrest were Deputy Sheriff Preston Pierce, Constable Gus Stokes and Policeman Mobley of Greenville.

Three or four shots were said to have been fired at the fleeing Tyson but the bullets went wild and he was uninjured.

Lewis was described as "hard-boiled" prisoner who proved rather recalcitrant after being taken into custody.

The men were being held in the county jail today awaiting the arrival of guards from the Cary farm to return them to camp.

Grifton Re-elects Its Town Officials

W. J. Bissett - was re-elected mayor of Grifton along with three members of the board of town commissioners in the municipal election held there Tuesday.

The commissioners re-elected were: M. B. Hodges, H. P. Quinley and R. A. Nelson.

PERKED: G. O. P. Chairman opposed the idea of regional Republican conferences when it was first broached. He feared they might provoke rivalries among anxious presidential candidates and differences over principles. But now his rosy face is wreathed in smiles.

The Boston meeting was no howling success in itself—but it brought a million dollars worth of newspaper publicity. The resulting enthusiasm was reflected in every hamlet. Small but steady contributions are trickling into a hitherto empty treasury. Now Mr. Fletcher is afire with excitement over the eleven-state meeting to be staged at Springfield, Ill. next month.

GORDON WILL OPEN REVIVAL HERE SUNDAY

Initial Sermon to be Delivered at Memorial Baptist Church Tomorrow Morning

Arrangements had been made today for school children to attend the series of revival services to be opened at Memorial Baptist Church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock by Dr. S. D. Gordon, of Winston-Salem, noted writer and lecturer.

Rev. A. W. Fleishmann, pastor of the local church, said this morning that services would be held each morning from 8 to 8:30 o'clock enabling children of the city schools to attend and reach school on time. Evening services will be held at 8 o'clock.

Preparatory services which have been held the last few days came to a close last night, and Mr. Fleishmann announced that all arrangements had been completed for handling the tremendous crowds expected to attend each service.

Dr. Gordon is well-known because of the prominence received by his "Quiet Talks," a series of books that have gained wide circulation. Recently he returned from Europe where he had an opportunity of sitting in on sessions of the League of Nations at Geneva. He gained many impressions concerning world conditions at these gatherings and his talks are colored by his observations.

He spent three years speaking in the British Isles, continental countries and Asia in addition to visiting virtually every nook in this country.

CIVIL COURT CLOSES HERE

Two Week Term to Open Monday Week With Judge Barnhill Presiding

The one week term of civil Superior court which has been in progress here the past week came to a close yesterday after disposing of 15 of its 30 case calendar. It was made known today by J. F. Harrington, clerk of Superior court.

Court started to work on the case of Mary Hemby and others vs. King Simon Lodge No. 122 yesterday, but after hearing a portion of the evidence referred it to L. G. Cooper.

The litigants were colored and the suit involved a split in the lodge. The plaintiffs were suing for possession of the lodge property.

Of the fifteen cases completed during the week, the majority were compromises. Three or four actions described as "snags" were completed, each requiring around a day or over.

Judge Clayton Moore, of Williamston, presided over the term Monday week a two week term of court will convene here with Judge M. V. Barnhill, of Rocky Mount, presiding. Approximately sixty cases are expected to be set for hearing during the term with indications that the bulk will be completed.

clipping bureau. It will soon resume distribution of party hand-outs. It means to capitalize on the apparent growth of anti-New Deal sentiment.

ROBERTS: With a few exceptions, even G. O. P. presidential candidates are behaving themselves. "Ham" Fish of New York—a very dark horse—is the only avowed and active aspirant. Senator Vandenberg declines all invitations to make speeches and has little to say in the Senate. The others wisely refuse to take their chances seriously.

In their private chats Republican wisacres predict the nomination of a dark horse. Representative James W. Wadsworth and Justice Owen J. Roberts of the Supreme Court are in this class. High-up Democrats seem to fear a man like Justice Roberts more than any others mentioned.

Washington, May 11.—(AP)—Though both houses of congress were in recess today the bonus issue gave legislators no rest.

President Roosevelt, accompanied by congressional leaders, left the White House by motor for a fishing trip in the Blue Ridge Mountains. His destination was the Woodmont Rod and Gun club near the Maryland-West Virginia border where he plans an overnight stay.

Accompanying him were Vice President Garner, Speaker Byrnes, Senator Robinson and Senator Harrison of Mississippi.

ROBBER SHOT AFTER HOLDUP

Second of Three Men In Memphis Payroll Robbery Arrested; $3,945 Recovered

Memphis, Tenn., May 11.—(AP)—Less than an hour after three bandits obtained $3,945 in a pay-roll robbery at the Anderson-Tulley Co. lumber manufacturers, today police shot one of the robbers, arrested another and recovered all the money.

While a companion waited outside in an automobile, two bandits entered the company's office a short while after the weekly pay-roll had been delivered in an armored truck.

The bandits menaced office employees with their weapons, one of the pair grabbing up the pay-roll sacks. Warning workers against giving an alarm, they fled to the car and the machine sped away.

The new school machinery act as finally passed contains many improvements over former acts, in that it gives much more local control over the schools and gives the smaller administrative districts the right to select their own teachers and principals as well as to hold elections and vote supplemental taxes within which to increase teachers' salaries or to increase the length of the school term. The bill as finally passed by both Houses provides that any district with a total school enrollment of less than 100 pupils may elect a one-day conference at East Carolina Teachers College here today. The meeting was in preparation for closing of the year's activities.

Three exercises consisted of addresses by leading educators, reports, exhibits, illustrated lectures and various musical selections by pupils of the Emergency Relief Education classes. The program was given in the campus building beginning at 10:30 o'clock and was to last through out the day.

School superintendents and relief administrators of the eastern counties were also in attendance in addition to more than two hundred teachers employed in the relief field.

Miss Carrie B. Wilson, of Nashville supervisor of relief teachers of the Eastern District, presided over the sessions.

Dr. Leon R. Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers College, delivered the opening address on the subject, "Is Our Education Functioning Properly in Our Social Life?"

SMITH AWARD IS SET ASIDE

Judge W. F. Harding Orders New Trial of Alienation of Affec- tions Suit

Charlotte, N. C., May 11.—(AP)—Judge W. F. Harding describing himself as "shocked," today set aside the $125,000 verdict given F. Brandon Smith, Jr., in his alienation of affections suit against Jos. F. Cannon, his former father-in-law.

Holding that the size of the award was out of reason, Judge Harding ordered a new trial but agreed to rescind the order if counsel for the principals should submit a settlement agreement based on what he termed "a reasonable" sum.

This counsel for Cannon announced would not be considered, and Paul C. Whitlock, chief counsel for Smith, announced himself ready for re-trial "within a week if it could be set."

The probable time for the new trial was indefinite, but in the normal course of business it would not be reached for several months.

Cannon was the only one of the principals in court when Judge Harding set aside the $250,000 award which was half the amount originally demanded by Smith. He made no statement nor did the 29-year-old real estate man who married Ann in 1932 a few months after her Reno divorce from Smith Reynolds with whom she had lived only a few weeks.

TWO NATIONS ALLOWED TO BOOST ARMS

Four Balkan States Agree to Permit Bul- garia and Rumania To Rearm

Bucharest, Rumania, May 11.—(AP)—Representatives of four Balkan states decided after a five-hour discussion today, authoritative sources revealed, to allow re-armament of Bulgaria and Hungary, provided those states agree to join in a pact of non-aggression and mutual assistance with Yugoslavia, Rumania, Turkey, Czechoslovakia and Greece.

The four statesmen, foreign ministers of Rumania, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia, this authoritative source said, agreed for practical purposes the Balkan pact state, would record at the Rome conference of Central European affairs a formal former action.

Despite a morning effort to prevent sine die quitting until some new form of State-wide liquor legislation could be considered, the lawmakers ended the session.

Wet and dry leaders and Governor Ehringhaus conferred at length after the legislators had written into law measures to be set up in eighteen counties if voters agree upon a form of State-wide control legislation being considered, but the meeting resulted in no change.

Legislative records showed the lawmakers quit at noon as clocks were stopped at that hour while the liquor matter was studied.

A special session within a year was a freely predicted.

Noon, which had been agreed upon as the hour to quit came and passed and the only notice the legislature took of it was to stop the clocks.

Speaker Johnson of the house came out of the Governor's conference for a few minutes at 2:10 and commented:

"The situation appears hopeless. He would not enlarge on his remarks except to say the legislators from counties covered by the liquor acts had agreed for a state control plan to be set up while the drys refused to compromise."

Both divisions passed and enacted into law a measure the governor sent up this morning to the employes council of state to create a state agency to handle unemployed insurance matters if federal legislation should make such an agency needed to protect the interests of the employers and employees in the state. No funds are provided.

Disorder reigned in the house during the morning and the representatives took a recess after the noon hour had passed.

As steps were started to prevent sine die adjournment this week bills were sent forward to also legalize whiskey if the voters approved in Chowan, Lee, Forsyth and Durham counties by placing them under the first liquor law enacted which was New Hanover county.

All of the measures died, however, as the senate took no action on them.

Raleigh, N. C., May 11.—(AP)—The House this morning passed the measure calling for a referendum on the legalization of whiskey in sixteen counties in Eastern North Carolina. Among the counties was Pitt. This measure now becomes law on ratification subject to vote of the counties affected.

The Senate which last week killed the House State-wide liquor control bill embodying referendum provisions, early today passed and sent to the lower branch a similar measure affecting sixteen eastern counties. The bill would require only concurrence in the House to become law. Since the measure originated in that branch as a local bill applying only to Pasquotank County, the other fifteen counties were added by the Senate.

In addition to the sixteen counties in the eastern part of the State, the

MOTHER

(Home Life Magazine)

Mother's Day is the spirit of all holidays rolled into

one. Behind the birth of our

Savior is the love and patience of Mary; Good Friday and Easter are permeated with the anguish and later the joy of the Mother Mary.

Behind Independence Day we sense the grim enduring courage of mothers of fighting patriots. Memorial Day represents the bitter sadness of mothers of dead boys.

Every time we see a grey-haired woman at a grave

over which flutters a soldier's flag, we have a feeling that her sorrow is one more silken link in the chain that will bind us to peace rather than war.

This year we are doing honor to some weary mothers.

For in this dark period of depression, happily lifting very slowly but surely, it has been the mothers of the country who have had to meet the grim realities and cushion the shocks that would otherwise have prostrated

the nation. It was the mothers who had to take the dwindling income and stretch the pennies to cover the barest spots. When food was scarce it was mother who worked out the problem; when there was no money for clothes mother went without new things; when husband or son lost his job mother softened the bit-terness and carried on gallantly.

The mothers of the world are a little weary this year from the strain of years of grim depression. As conditions are picking up unmis-takably this year they sit back and relax a trifle, glad-ly dropping some of their burden onto the shoulders of Federal Work Relief, the CCC, the Agricultural Ad-justment, the Home Own-ers' Loan.

The country is grateful to its mothers for keeping up the nation's morale so gallantly in the dark period. Here's peace and contentment to our mothers!

ENEMY'S KISS by Evelyn M. Wink

SYNOPSIS: Guy Western has rescued Allison Reed from a dangerous situation in an empty house on the Sussex coast. They are driving back to London together, and Allison is telling Guy how much she loves him. She is a girl who is a "fussy" failed to meet her at the Sussex house. Allison loves Guy, but thinks it remarkable that he should have been so convenient and kind. Meanwhile a man in a motor car arrives at the house and a woman enters to direct the driver. She looks at a desk that has been tampered with.

CHAPTER 12 THE CELLAR

"LOOK AT THAT!" said the woman. The foreman looked at the desk drawers in turn, doubtfully. "Looks as if someone been in them," he admitted reluctantly. Then with great emphasis, "Me and my mates can't be responsible for this. We couldn't get into the house."

"Oh, I'm not blaming you," agreed the lady coolly. She left the man there and went on into the pantry down the passage into the kitchen. In the doorway she stopped, frowning.

On the deal table stood a brown teapot, two dirty cups, two plates which bore the traces of recent egg and bacon. A brand-new shining tin kettle sat on the oil-stove.

She picked it up and stared at it. A sharp-cut line between her thin, pinched eyebrows. Her tongue slid out and wet her painted lips. She put one pale, well-measured hand against the side of the kettle, but being empty it was cold.

Her eyes—dark, round and set rather too near a big nose—grew very thoughtful as they rested on a frying-pan which contained a circle of cold bacon fat and two bright spots of egg. With her thin crooked mouth compressed hard, she turned away and went quickly down the seven steps leading into the cellar.

She turned the key, went in, walked through it, first turning on the main switch, then all the lights one by one. In the farthest cellar, by the fallen roll of linoleum, she stopped.

For a moment she stood staring into the recess, her face blanched, a picture of surprise and consternation, horror and fear. Twice she bent forward, as if she doubted her own eyes.

Then, slowly, her expression changed. Her eyes grew thoughtful, her long fingers tapped impatiently against her hip. Suddenly, like a person who has made up her mind, she laid down the bag and gloves which she held and got to work.

Four minutes later, pale and panting as if unaccustomed to taking heavy exercise, she stood back, dusted her hands and dress particularly carefully, looking back the while over her shoulder as if afraid that someone might come and find her there. Then, very quietly and swiftly, she ran back on tip-toe through the cellars, switching off the lights and locking the door.

She had gained the drawing room again when the mover, seeing her standing by the desk, touched his forehead and asked, "Nothing else is there but what's in these rooms and upstairs, madam? Anything to clear outside or down below?"

"Nothing," said the lady. "There are no other two things in the out-house, I think, but I'm leaving those for the new tenant to take over."

"Then we'll get on with it," agreed the man.

"Yes," she had turned away before she added, "I shall be back before you've done."

By the gate, she paused to slip the big key of the cellar furtively into her bag; then she went out and got into her red runabout. There were two spots of bright pink color in her thin, sallow cheeks, and her dark eyes smoldered as she started up the car and drove away.

"THIS IS IT," Allison held out her hand and they drew in towards the curb before No. 712 Chester Square.

It was a tall house, one of those solid seven-story houses which were built in the days when money and labor were plentiful. Some of the other houses had been converted into flats, but No. 712 still had kept its air of prosperous comfort, its tiled entrance made gay by bay trees in bright metal-bound tubs, its paint-work spotless and its door adorned with labor-making, brilliantly kept brass.

Guy Western looked up at the house with a dubious expression as he asked, "You live here?"

"Yes," Allison waved her hand. "There's my father."

Robert Reed, standing at the many a day. It makes Mr. Roberts the key and questionable man in future decisions which may destroy or de-throne the New Deal.

He has been aligned with Justices Hughes, Stone, Brandeis and Cardozo in all the famous 5-to-4 decisions upholding advanced state and federal legislation. He has been—though the jurists fiercely resent such hard-and-fast classification—a "liberal." New Dealers had come to depend upon him.

The Roberts-Hughes split is packed with human drama aside from its legal implications. Mr. Roberts' almost worshipful Mr. Hughes' legal mind and rates him "our greatest Chief Justice"—not excepting John Marshall. But rarely have there been two more violently dissenting opinions than those of Mr. Hughes and Mr. Roberts in this case.

SPOT: Organized labor may try direct political action next year—although it prefers to avoid that entangling policy. Disappointment over Congressional delay in clarifying Section 7a and in passing other measures—the Wagner bill and the 30-hour-week bill—may drag it into the political arena by the scuff of the neck.

Executive council members won't admit it, but they plan to tabulate their organization's voting strength between now and 1936. They claim to be strongest in politically doubtful states with large electoral votes—New York, Illinois and Ohio. They may do some collective bargaining of their own.

Council members left their Washington conference with plans to stage a telegraphic demonstration for the Wagner bill. The same wires which had their troubles estimating the carry the protest of Big Business against this measure will convey their endorsement. President Roosevelt and Green are in tough spot.

HARMONY: Senator Tydings' resolution aimed at compulsory balancing of the budget is "most highly recommended" by members of both houses, but their enthusiasm stops there. Tydings proposes to tie the hands of the President and future Congresses by providing that the budget shall be the first business of every session; that income and appropriations shall balance; that no appropriation shall be made outside of the budget estimates; and that when Congress exceeds any item it shall take the funds from some other item within the budget.

The joker in this plan is that any subsequent Congress could set it aside in five minutes. Developments during a session always force Congress to depart from budget figures, even in normal years.

The Tydings resolution can be made the vehicle of speeches criticizing Roosevelt for ignoring the budget—and that's probably the main object. Coming from a regular Democrat, doesn't promote harmony in the ranks at all.

P. M. G.: Despite supposedly authoritative hits to the contrary Jim Farley may not resign his Cabinet post to handle the job of reelecting Mr. Roosevelt.

Some Cabinet members insist it would be inadvisable—to say the least—for Jim to run both Post Office and the party. They want him to quit—and soon. But Mr. Farley knows that much of his power and prestige would disappear if he ceased to be official patronage dispenser.

If he does resign as P. M. G. the date will be no earlier than June 1, 1936.

LIAISON: Secretary Roper's Business Planning and Advisory Council has been little more than a useful administration stooge for months. It has held meetings and proffered advice—but nobody seemed to care. Some of its members were fed up with the casual treatment given their views and had gone so far as to advocate the group's dissolution.

But things are going to be different now. Insiders understand that the Council will be called at the White House to effect the sting of Chamber of Commerce criteria were assured that hereafter their idea would receive prompt and serious attention. It would be a mistake to characterize the group as liberals because they backed the President on NRA. They are by no means whole-hearted adherents of the New Deal. But they figure it's wiser to consider the administration's viewpoint and work with it as far as possible instead of bucking at every turn. They are due to be rewarded for sticking consistently to this attitude.

The point is that the Council is now only body representative of business sentiment in friendly contact with the administration. It therefore has a double liaison job of great importance. Industry must rely almost entirely on its influence to modify leftist trends. Conversely its prestige with outly business men is the Presidents hope of getting any constructive contributions to recovery from industry. Its activities will worthy of close attention.

GENTLE: New York banks have their keenest scouts in Washington appraising the prospects of banking legislation. The scouts have Wagner bill. The same wires which had their troubles estimating the effects of confusing cross-currents. But they are now in general agreement that when the wheels within wheels quit spinning the bill will be enacted substantially as it stands.

Financial conservatives are pretty blue about it—though they admit there won't be much practical difference between legally authorized domination by the Federal Reserve Board and the unofficial control which the Treasury has exercised over the Federal Reserve Banks in the past two years.

Some New Yorkers are inclined to criticize the American Bankers' Association for being too gentle in its opposition to Title II. But most financial men agree that more strenuous resistance might have fended the old Washington war cry that the banks are to blame for everything—thus paving the way for even more distasteful legislation.

DIRECTORS: Title III—the "technical amendment" section of the banking bill—has been almost ignored in the debate over deposit insurance and Federal Reserve reform. But one of its provisions would raise cash with directorates of big New York institutions. A number of financial headlines still hold directorships in more than one Federal Reserve member bank—and they will be barred from doing so if this section is passed unamended.

The directors affected don't like the idea but they won't argue the point. They feel that to do so would only stir up fresh Washington excitement about "the money trust."

COMPROMISE: New Yorkers in close touch with Washington say that leading Democratic Senators have told FDR he has no chance whatever of getting all his program enacted. It's reported they advised him that the only way he can be sure of getting any part of it through is to concentrate on the two or three measures he wants most and horse-trade on the others.

These sources also report that Democratic Senators who come up for reelection in 1936 are convinced that this time they will have to depend more on themselves and less on Mr. Roosevelt. This feeling is understood to be quite a factor in the disintegration of party discipline.

New York analysts hope it that Congress is more conservative than the President on reform legislation but distinctly more radical on the subject of inflation. They therefore predict that FDR will have to give ground on reform in order to avert monetary experiments. Financial circles would rate a compromise along these lines all to the good.

Legislative Rambling

rollment of 1,000 pupils may become a special charter district whether it was previously one or not, and as such, have the full rights and privileges of all other special charter districts.

Heretofore only those districts which were special charter districts before the 1933 school machinery act was passed could continue as such. As a result many smaller city and town school systems did not have the right to levy supplemental taxes with which to have a longer school term or to supplement teachers' salaries.

The General Assembly refused, however, to turn any of the control of school funds over to the school forces and insisted on leaving full control of school funds over to the school forces and insisted on leaving full control over the expenditure of the $20,000,000 a year of State money for the support of the eight months' school term in the hands of the School Commission. It even refused to give to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction the power to sign the monthly pay checks of the city and county superintendents. As it passed the House the machinery act provided that the State Superintendent should issue the pay checks of all superintendents monthly from his office and that he could hold them up if at any time a superintendent had failed to comply with certain provisions of the law. But the Senate changed this and left full control over funds in the hands of the School Commission, which will continue, as in the past, to make monthly allotments to each county and school system, which allotment will include the salary of the superintendent as well as for all teachers and all other expenses paid by the State.

A bill which would have paid the merchants of the State a commission or bonus of $500,000 a year for collecting these sales tax in addition to the profit they already make from it, almost slipped by in the closing hours of the present legislative session. The bill passed the Senate Friday morning. But the House calendar committee reported it unfavorably Friday morning, with the result that it never reached a vote in the House. But even if it had come to a vote, the prevailing belief is that the House would have defeated the bill.

Recording to Willard L. Dowell, executive secretary of the North Carolina Merchants Association, the merchants of the State have been making a profit of from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 a year on the sales tax so far, since he has frequently alleged that the State has failed to collect that much which it should have collected from the tax. Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, a sales tax opponent in the House, made similar statements on the floor when the sales tax was under discussion.

This bill, which passed the Senate, was introduced by Senator White of Robeson County, a merchant, and was supported by Senator Swearingen, of Cabarrus County, also a merchant in Concord, both of whom opposed the sales tax. It would have required the State Department of Revenue to grant a 5 per cent discount to all merchants who made their sales tax returns between the fifteenth of each month. It would have cost the State about $500,000 a year. In other words, the State would have paid the merchants a commission of 5 per cent for collecting the tax and sending it in.

Under the present law, all merchants are required to make their returns and send in their sales tax collections by the fifteenth of the month following the month in which the sales tax was collected. Thus they have the free use of this money for fifteen days each month.

EDENTON POLICEMAN DIES BY HIS OWN HAND

Edenton, N. C., May 11. A. T. Spivey, 43, one of this town's two policemen, committed suicide in front of police headquarters early this morning by sending a revolver bullet into his brain.

No cause of the act has been determined further than occasional statements that affairs at home were not to his liking. He had not been living with his wife and two small children for several months. He also leaves three brothers and two sisters.

Shortly before shooting himself Spivey had been talking to Ray P. White and Percy Satterfield.

White and Satterfield were in White's automobile preparing to go home when Spivey fired.

Spivey was a member of the 119th Infantry and in the last month of the World War fearlessly invaded a nest of German machine gunners on the Hindenburg line, destroying the gun with a hand grenade, killing three and capturing eight others.

HANG-OVER NO. 6-- UNDER DRINKING

A man can go without eating 30 days or more. Three days is the limit if he goes without water. To lose 5 per cent body water brings hang-over, makes one irritable and grouchy. To lose 20 per cent is fatal. So drink more and more water. The CO2 in 7-UP helps purify the body linings and the copious water sluices away the waste. The distress after eating will vanish. You need plenty of good pure water like you have in 7-UP.

7-UP sold wherever Bottled Drinks are sold. Order a case today from your grocer.

Next is Hang-Over No. 7— Mental Laxitude.

MOTHER

You painted no Madonnas
On chapel walls in Rome,
But with a touch divine
You lived one in your home.

You wrote no lofty poems
That critics counted art,
But with a nobler vision
You lived them in your heart.
You carved no shapeless marble
To some high soul design,
But with a finer sculpture
You shaped this soul of mine.

You built no great cathedrals
That centuries applaud,
But with a grace exquisite
Your life cathedral God.

Had I the gift of Raphael,
Or Michaelangelo,
Oh! what a rare Madonna
My mother's life would show.

TRIBUTES TO MOTHER

O, you who have a mother dear,
Let not a word or act give pain;
But cherish, love her, with your life—
You ne'er can have her like again.
—Selected.

All I am or can be I owe to my angel Mother.—Abraham Lincoln.

God could not be everywhere,
therefore He made Mothers.—Lew Wallace.

A Mother is a Mother still,
The holiest thing alive.
—Coleridge.

In the Heavens above,
The angels whispering to one another
Can find among their burning terms of love
No so devotional as that of Mother.
—Edgar Allen Poe.

For the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world.
—William Wallace.

A Mother's love—how sweet the name!
What is a Mother's love?
A noble, pure, and tender flame,
Enkindled from above.

To blend a heart of earthly mold;
The warmest love that can grow old.
—F. Montgomery.

There's not a place in earth or heaven
There's not a toast to mankind given
There's not a blessing or a woe
There's not a whispered yes or no
There's not a life, there's not a birth
There's not a featherweight of worth
Without a Mother in it.
—Anon.

Thanks
The George B. Singletary Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy wishes to express very sincere appreciation to each and everyone for services rendered yesterday, May the tenth, which made our Memorial Day exercises such a beautiful success. First to the Reflector for large space for publicity.

To the High school band led by Mr. H. A. McDougal, to the High School Glee Club, directed by Miss Ona Shindler, and to Supt. J. H. Rose, not only for his splendid cooperation but for his personal services as well. To Rev. R. C. Grady, To Battery "A" 13th Field Artillery, To Dr. L. R. Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers College, To Miss Sallie Joyner Davis, and the stage committee. Last but not least, to our fellow townsman, Col. J. C. Lanier, whose splendid address, appearing in yesterday's paper was full of good cheer and noble inspiration.

Junior-Senior Frolic
The Junior-Senior Frolic held last evening in the high school was one of the most brilliant and outstanding affairs of the season.

Guests assembled in the school library at eight o'clock and were invited to the gymnasium which was transformed into a ballroom. The decorations were elaborately carried out in the class colors, green and white, and vari colored lights. From a large hoop suspended from the ceiling ropes of green and white paper were festooned and fell to the floor. Small tables for four, spread with green and white covers were placed at intervals and places were marked with attractive cards, bearing diplomas in miniature.

Harding Sugg, president of the Junior class extended the address of welcome, and Sam Ders, president of the Senior class responded.

During the four course dinner served by Mrs. L. L. Rives, assisted by the Sophomore Home Economic class, dancing was enjoyed.

Paul Jones and his orchestra of Rocky Mount played throughout the evening.

Following the dinner a number of guests, including a number of former high school students and members of the Oak Ridge base ball team joined other guests and danced until one o'clock.

A special feature was during intermission when Miss Carolyn Hamric gave solo dances, and other dance numbers assisted by Miss Marie Smith, little Miss Alice Ruth Bundy and Sarah Francis Williams.

The patrons were Superintendent J. H. Rose and Mrs. Rose and members of the high school faculty.

Tea and Garden Party
A beautiful tea and garden party, in honor of the Senior class of the College was given yesterday afternoon at the lovely home of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams on West Fifth street by members of the Department of Education and their wives, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Henderson, Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Haynes, and Misses Coates, Newell, and Charlton. They were assisted by the critic teachers of the primary grades in the Training school and by the seniors majoring in primary education who are also members of the Primary Club.

The house was beautifully decorated in cut flowers, with the class colors, yellow and green, represented by bows of handsome yellow snapdragons.

In the receiving line were Dr. and Mrs. Adams, president, and Mrs. Meadows; Miss Eloise Camp, president of the class, and Miss Frances Newsom, president of the Student Government Association.

At the front door Misses Charlton and Frances Watson, president of the Primary club, welcomed the guests and introduced them to the line. Misses Eunice McGee and S. Elizabeth Smith directed them to the dining room where Mrs. E. L. Henderson and Miss Dora Coates, seated at a table decorated with yellow snapdragons, served refreshments, ice cream and cake in green and yellow. The group of seniors assisting in the serving were Misses Flora Lee Pate, Elizabeth Lewis, Elizabeth Norman, Elizabeth Overton, Kathryn Barnett and Bessie Hinson.

The guests passed through the sun room, where they were received by Misses Anne Redwine, Christine Johnson, and Geneva Hyatt.

Mrs. Adrian Savage and Miss Lucy Nulton directed the guests to the garden where punch was served. Here they were received by Dr. E. L. Henderson, Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Haynes, Misses Newell and Faison, and a group of seniors, Misses Martha Teal, Kitty Snow Phillips, Melba O'Brien, Hattie Mae Johnson, Louise Briley, Margaret Stator, Mary E. Singletary and Mrs. Francis Patterson, and Misses Elizabeth Meadows and Sarah Webster, of Shelbyville, Tenn., niece of Mrs. Meadows.

The garden was at its loveliest with the velvety lawn dropping from terraces down to a beautiful slope, the stretch of campus lawn beyond the low hedge giving an effect of spaciousness, yet the garden itself shut in by the hedge being privacy.

The background for the punch table was a climbing red rose trained on a trellis in a conventional fan-shaped design. This and the mass of azure irises on the western terrace were the two features that called forth the most exclamations of admiration from the guests.

The invited guests were members of the senior class, members of the faculty, and the wives of the men of the faculty.

HIGH CLOSES SEASON WITH FINE RECORD

By R. O. MOYE.

The Greenville High School baseball team, under the coaching of Coach Woods, has established a record for itself this past season which few high schools in the eastern or western part of the state can boast of.

The team has played a total of sixteen games during the past season and has lost only one, this loss to Morehead City on April 9th by the score of 8 to 7, and exactly one month to the day the local Greens went back to Morehead and gave them a 14-4 beating.

In the sixteen games played this season ten of the wins go to Ed Wells, who played his final game for the local high against Morehead Thursday, L. G. Hamilton, who switched from catcher to pitcher won three games, Dick Downing, won two games. The only loss of the season is credited against Howard Hodges, Jr., who went into the box to relieve Downing in the Morehead game which was lost through no fault of his own.

Speaking of Hodges, that boy will be the coming star pitcher on the local club after he has had a little more training. Hodges was the youngest member of the squad this past season and only a freshman in high school. Coach Woods said there was great possibilities in the youngster and he will be a regular on the team next season.

The Greens have made a total of 186 hits for the season or an average of approximately twelve hits per game. They have scored 155 runs, at an average of approximately ten runs per game, while their opponents have scored only 83 runs.

The Greens have defeated the following teams twice—Kinston, Tarboro, Wilson, Williamston, Washington and Ayden. They have defeated Morehead City the Kinston club, and the Winterville high school one game. The last two mentioned teams were only met once this season.

The team has a batting average very close to the 350 percent mark and in fact at the close of the game with Ayden last Monday the team's average was 336 percent. This of course accounts for most of the runs made by the team.

Our hats are off to Coach Woods, who started with the team at the beginning of the season with mostly green material and inexperienced players and who developed one of the strongest defensive teams the high school has had in many a year. Coach Woods started the season handicapped, first from the standpoint of lack of pitchers, and second from the fact that his most valuable players were unable to take the field at first due to scholastic classroom failures. When he switched L. G. Hamilton from catcher to pitcher he certainly did make a wise decision for L. G. turned out to be one of the mainstays on the pitching staff.

The Greenville high school team will be practically intact next season. Only three men will be lost from the squad. These are Ed Wells, pitcher; Max Minges, fielder, and Herbert Wilkerson, first baseman. Coach Woods certainly has a wonderful nucleus for building up a strong team next season and with plenty of material gradually coming into existence there is no reason that Greenville should not have just as strong a team as it did the past season.

High Bats .355 During The Season

By WM. WATSON MORGAN
The phenomenal record established by your Greens during the season just closed last Thursday with Morehead is possibly one of the best, if not the best, ever racked up by a Greenville High School team.

Why, some wonder, or for what reason or reasons, such a good record. In the early part of the season when some of the boys were ineligible, Coach Wood thought prospects were not so bright, however, this opinion was not shared by Superintendent Junius Rose. One morning in chapel Mr. Rose predicted that we would have one of the best teams in the history of the High School. As you already know, we had just that.

Now let's see if we can find the reasons. Coach Henry Wood certainly deserves all of the credit one wishes to give him. The team had a first-rate pitcher in Ed Wells; he was ably supported by Dick Downing, Howard Hodges and L. G. Hamilton. For you fans that like a team composed of fence-busters, take a peek at these records and see what you think. The batting averages are as follows:

Jack Forbes, .456; Hal Forbes, .441; Ed Wells, .432; George Lautares, .400; Carl Pierce, .400; Joe Hatem, .381; Max Minges, .373; Dick Downing, .300; Herbert Wilkerson, .200.

Team average, .355. For the season the Greens made a total of 194 hits out of 155 runs. Their opponents made 128 hits and scored only 83 runs. These averages were released by chief scorer, Glenn Brooks. The team was captained by Bill Clark and managed by William Brooks.

The question has been asked a number of times. How many of those boys do you have back for next year. Ed Wells, Herbert Wilkerson, Bill Clark, Max Minges are all seniors. It has been reported that Richard Downing will return to be with his brothers and sisters in the town of Wilson, and that L. G. Hamilton may not return to school. With the two Forbes, Lautares, Pierce, Hatem, Parrish and Hodges back, this should give a good nucleus for another winning team next year.

SPORT SLANTS

By PAP

It looks as though American golf enthusiasts will have an opportunity to see Miss Joyce Wethered, England's premier woman golfer, in action after all.

When Miss Wethered renounced her amateur standing to take up a position in the golf department of a fashionable London store, all hope of seeing her perform on American golf courses seemed to vanish.

To add further interest to Miss Wethered's visit here there is the prospect of a renewal of the old rivalry between Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare and the British miss. Mrs. Vare has accepted a bid to meet the great British player in a special match at the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club, Long Island, on May 30.

Miss Wethered and Mrs. Vare met abroad on three occasions, with Miss Wethered holding the upper hand each time.

The four-time British women's champion twice defeated Mrs. Vare in British championship tournament play and once in 1932, in the Anglo-American team matches.

Three 'Retirements'
After their first meeting in the British title event of 1925, when Joyce defeated Glenna in a third round match before going on to win the championship, the English girl withdrew from competition. She returned in 1929 to again win the British women's title and then again announced her retirement, this time largely because of the unruliness of the gallery during the championship tournament.

When Mrs. Vare returned to Scotland in 1930 to seek the British title she once more found Miss Wethered blocking her path. The British star was forced back into competition by friends who insisted that she do so as a patriotic gesture.

She defeated Mrs. Vare in a spectacular exhibition in the 36-hole final after having been five down at the American champion at nine holes.

Having disposed of the American threat and saved the championship, Miss Wethered once more went into retirement.

Joyce's Game 'Perfect'
Two years later the Ladies' Golf union prevailed upon her to take part in the team matches between leading American and British golfers. Mrs. Vare and Miss Wethered met again and for the third time the British golfer proved her complete supremacy over one of the finest woman golfers America has developed.

When Miss Wethered forsook her amateur standing, Mrs. Vare also went into temporary retirement and settled down to rearing two fine children.

Glenna returned to competition late last summer and gladly accepted the invitation to meet Miss Wethered again.

Looking forward to the fourth meeting with keen anticipation, Mrs. Vare feels sure that the American golf public will enjoy Joyce's exhibitions for it is Mrs. Vare's opinion that the British girl's game comes as near to being perfect as golf has known.

By breezing home a winner in the 61st running of the Kentucky Derby William Woodward's Omaha once more proved the truth of the old turf axiom—"blood will tell."

Omaha is royally bred if ever a thoroughbred was. He is by Gallant Fox-Flambina. He goes back through Sir Gallahad 3rd to Teddy, one of the great sires of France, and finally to Flying Fox, one of the greatest of England.

Omaha is the third son of a Derby winner to capture the Kentucky classic. A span of only five years stretches between the victories of Gallant Fox and his son, Burgo King won in 1932, six years after his daddy Bubbling Over triumphed. The winner of 1935, Omaha sired the cold which won in 1902 Alan-a-Dale.

Running much the same sort of a race that his famous daddy did five years ago Omaha steered clear of the early jam, took command on the back stretch and never was seriously menaced in the long stretch drive.

After Fox's Mark
On the track where the great Earl Sandle rode Gallant Fox to triumph, "Wee Willie" Saunders, of Bozeman, Mont., piloted the big gangling son of the Fox to victory with all the finesse and resourcefulness of a veteran. You'd never suspect he was a youngster getting the thrill of his first Derby.

Omaha collected $39,525 for winning the Derby, some $11,000 less than Gallant Fox earned in 1930.

Woodard, in sending the great three-year-old after the Preakness gives Omaha another opportunity to duplicate his father's success for Gallant Fox is one of the three horses in history to win both the Derby and the Preakness.

While he is at it there is Gallant Fox's total winnings mark of $328,165 for Omaha to shoot at.

Heartache For Sanny
The disappointing race run by Today in the Derby was another heartache for C. V. "Sonny" Whitney. The son of the late Harry Payne Whitney was bitterly disappointed in 1931 when Equipoise was scratched on the eye of that Derby won the Twenty Grand.

The foot injury sustained by Today 1 na workout on the day prior to have been more serious than was apparent to his handlers, for the ill-fated Whitney entry never showed anything like the form which carried him to a triumph over Omaha in the Wood Memorial a week before.

In the Derby Today started well escaped interference, but began to fade on the back stretch and weakened woefully in the stretch, finishing in 12th position.

The horse was apparently primed to make a front running bid, but once more an accident frustrated the hopes of his owner.

measure as it was passed by the Senate would also legalize dispensaries in the resort towns of Pinehurst and Southern Pines if approved by the voters there.

The counties affected by the bill are: Pitt, Beaufort, Martin, Halifax, Edgecombe, Carteret, Craven, Onslow, Wilson, Greene, Nash, Lenoir, Warren, Vance and Rockingham. A similar bill affecting New Hanover had been approved by both Houses earlier.

New Gulf Station And Sandwich Shop Thrown Open Here

The new Gulf Filling Station, located next to Keel's Warehouse on Dickinson Avenue, was formally thrown open to the public last night with a large crowd visiting the new enterprise during the evening.

The new station is not only one of the most modernly equipped in this section, but operates a sandwich shoppe described as one of the best in Eastern Carolina.

The new Station, operated by W. J. Rhodes, is offering $5 for a name and has already received around two hundred suggestions. The name will be announced Tuesday, May 14, along with the name of the winner. Three judges, prominent local business men will select the most appropriate name from the several hundred expected to be presented.

Singing by two negro quartets from Washington and Greenville, featured the opening night program, coming up with one another for honors of the evening. Greenville was declared the winner.

Mr. Rhodes invites the public to visit the new filling station and sandwich shoppe and note the splendid service it is rendering to the community.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Preferred utilities and sugar company issues together with scattered specialties were in demand in today's brief stock market session.

Most of the others were listless, however, and some of the recent gamenesses under profit-taking. The close was about steady.

Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.

The speech of Chairman Jesse Jones, of the F. R. C., interpreted in some quarters as a prediction of the passage of the soldier's bonus, apparently did not renew inflationary enthusiasm in the equities list.

Although United States Government securities continued to point downward most Wall Street observers were still of the opinion that the Patman "flat" money measure would be vetoed.

Late buying in American Consolidated pushed this issue up two points and Inland Steel, Dupont, Union Pacific and Eastman Kodak improved one to around two points.

Most of the rails did better near to finish but American Telephone Consolidated Gas, General Motors United States Smelting and the majority of oil were a shade up and down.
