REGISTRATION NEARS END ON SCHOOL ISSUE

Tomorrow Last Day Voters May Register For Special School Election

Registration books for the special nine months' school election to be held here on May 28 will close tomorrow, and persons who have not registered were urged today to do so at once.

Registration books will be at the court house today and tomorrow. They have been carried to virtually every section of the city since opening sometime ago, giving everybody an opportunity to register and thereby enable themselves to vote in the forthcoming election.

The object of the election, which has been given the approval of virtually every public organization of the community, is to vote a supplementary to the state eight months' school term. The Board of Aldermen and other necessary organizations approved the proposal for the election several weeks ago and the board called the election for May 28 at the same time ordering a special registration as required by law.

The Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and Parent-Teacher organizations of the city sometime ago put their stamp of approval on the movement for an extra month of school. Other organizations of the community also have taken similar action.

It was said at the beginning of the campaign that the object of the movement is not to improve the facilities of the school, but make it possible for children graduating from the high school to enter colleges without examination and enable the school to maintain its position as one of the accredited high schools of the country. If the election is not carried, the school will lose this rating, highly cherished by every institution of the city.

The city tax rate will be increased "not to exceed" 15 cents on the $100 valuation for the purpose, legal notices issued in connection with the election set forth, but the maximum probably will not be needed. There is a surplus in the debt service at this time it was said, and this will be applied to the extra month of school making it possible to hold the rate below 15 cents.

Several other towns the size of Greenville have already voted in favor of a ninth month of school, and others are making preparations to do so. Many of the communities planning such action are much smaller than Greenville, and are not nearly as able financially to do so as Greenville.

Mattamuskeet Thrown Open To Anglers At Once

The U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey which owns and controls Lake Mattamuskeet gave permission today to the N. C. Department of Conservation and Development to open the lake to fishing daily during the remainder of the closed season extending from May 1 to June 10.

Notice to this effect was received here today by Cecil Jones, Pitt County game warden.

It was said the privilege is extended to the public for the purpose of further reducing the excessive number of fish in the lake.

The order applies only to the property of the Lake Mattamuskeet Wildlife Refuge and does not apply to fishing in other parts of Hyde County.

Fish are so plentiful in the lake that they bite as fast as hooks are thrown in, according to reports brought to the city. The lifting of the ban probably will result in hundreds of people visiting the lake but it is problematical whether any great reduction will be caused by hook and line fishing even though hundreds fish all day long.

Bruce Burroughs Dies at Black Jack; Final Rites Today

Bruce Burroughs, 12, died last night at 12 o'clock at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Burroughs, at Black Jack, after three days' critical illness from pneumonia. Funeral services were conducted from the late home this afternoon at 3 o'clock by Elder Joe Elks, of the Pentecostal Holiness church and burial was made in the Pentecostal Holiness churchyard at Shiloh.

Surviving are the parents and three brothers, Quincy, Curtis and Albert; four sisters, Mamie, Dorothy May, Essie Ruth and Pauline.

PATMAN BONUS BILL SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

Supporters of Inflationary Measure Optimistic Over The Outlook

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—The Patman inflationary bonus bill was sent to the White House today for a certain veto.

The last congressional formality was completed when Vice President Garner signed the $2,200,000,000 measure.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt set aside this afternoon to start writing the veto message which probably will be sent to Congress on Monday.

Contrary to many reports the White House said this was the first work by the president on the veto message and until it was finished there could be no estimate of its length.

It will go to the House first where leaders conceded it will be quickly overridden.

The real test will come in the Senate probably about the middle of the week. Administration leaders maintained they had the vote to sustain the chief executive.

LIGHT DOCKET FOR CITY COURT

Charge of Drunken Driving to Highlight Weekly Session On Saturday

After postponing Wednesday's session because of the shortage of cases, the regular meeting of city court will be held tomorrow morning with three or four cases awaiting consideration. It was stated today by Chief of Police George Clark.

The principal case to be given consideration tomorrow, the police head said, is that against Cleveland Vincent, of the Winterville community, charged with drunken driving.

Clark said Vincent was taken into custody here yesterday afternoon after a policeman discovered he was driving drunk. He was lodged in jail for a while but later gave bond of $100 for his appearance in mayor's court Saturday.

There are two charges of excessive drinking of contraband whiskey also on the docket, but only a short time is expected to be required in disposing of them.

The docket will be one of the lightest weeks, unless the criminal element goes on a rampage today or tonight and causes police to throw additional people in jail.

Owing to the absence of Mayor R. C. Flanagan, Mayor Pro-Tem Herman Duncan will preside over the court tomorrow.

POWER IS NEEDED IN RUM MUDDLE

Present Situation Would Never Have Resulted If Governor Had More Powers

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 17.—The present liquor law muddle would never have resulted if the Governor of North Carolina had the veto powers, such as the Governors in 47 other states have, Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell pointed out today. And Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus agreed with him. But since North Carolina is the only state in the Union in which the legislature is supreme and without any check upon it whatsoever, it was able to go ahead and disregard the plea made by Governor Ehringhaus to consider its actions more carefully with regard to its liquor law regulation and pass laws which are now admitted by both sides as being dangerous and makeshift.

"If the Governor had had the veto power, he could have refused to sign both the state-wide wine bill which permits both the sale and manufacture of wine in North Carolina without any tax and without the possibility of a state getting any revenue from it, as well as the county liquor laws that were passed," Mr. Maxwell said. "Thus the present patch-work county liquor laws could have been set aside and the enactment of a state-wide liquor control law or none at all. I think this is the best example we have yet had in North Carolina for the need of the veto power by the Governor."

It is freely agreed here that if the Governor had had the veto power that the present liquor law muddle would not have transpired. He could then have told the conference of legislators when they met with him last Saturday that he would veto the laws they had just passed and that their only hope would be to compromise and get together on a state-wide measure. But as it was the Governor had no authority whatever and when Cale K. Burgess, the leader of the United Dry Forces sat and shook his head at every compromise proposal that was made, his head-shaking had more influence than the verbal pleas of the Governor. As a result of the refusal of the drys to compromise the wets refused to give up what they had gained and stood pat.

START BALL FUND DRIVE

Canvass for Finances For Local Coastal Plain Club Is Begun Today

The canvass for funds for the Greenville baseball club of the Coastal Plain league got underway this morning and citizens were called upon to give as liberally as possible to the effort being made to again give Greenville the strongest club of the circuit.

The drive for funds was authorized at a meeting of the board of directors of the club the first of the week when it was stated virtually all players had been hired and everything was in readiness for the opening of the season June 4.

Similar campaigns are being put on in other towns of the league. Several have already been completed and the response was said to have been very generous. Seven other towns will participate in league play this year instead of six as last year, Goldsboro and Williamston are the newcomers.

G. V. Smith, president of the Greenville club, told the directors several days ago that Greenville would be able to put an unusually strong club into the field at the outset this year. There will not be experimentation with players as has marked club activities in past years and the organization is expected to move off smoothly and successfully.

The pitching staff this season will be the best Greenville has ever had. Mr. Smith also asserted, and fans are assured of seeing a winning team march upon the field at the beginning of play.

Numbers of the players come from Duke—the cream of this year's university club—in addition to others from some of the leading educational institutions of the country.

The drive for funds started today will determine largely the success of the club this season. Lack of finances is a tremendous handicap to a ball club as well as anything else, and hope was expressed by members of the board of directors that those interested in the success of the club would give liberally.

Martin County Forced To Call New Rum Ballot

Williamston, May 17.—(AP)—Finding its action here Wednesday in ordering an election on liquor for July 6 was illegal because the required six days' public notice of the election had not been given, the Martin County board of county commissioners gave notice of another meeting next Thursday to take the action over again.

Late News Flashes

Thayer Heads District Roles Raleigh, May 17.—(AP)—Cleveland Thayer, of Asheville, was nominated today to be governor of the 57th District of Rotary International for the coming year as the annual district conference ended here. Thayer will be formally elected at the Rotary convention in Mexico D. F., next month. He succeeds Rev. T. W. Sykes, of High Point.

There were 903 Rotarians and Rotary Anns here for the three day conference.

Robert D. House, dean of Administration of the University of North Carolina, at Chapel Hill spoke this morning and substituted for Senator J. W. Bailey. Other speakers included H. W. Clarke, of Cleveland, O., Governor Nominee Thayer, Dr. Elbert Russell, of Duke University, the Rev. C. K. Proctor, of Oxford, Hugh Waldrop, of Goldsboro, and Dr. R. W. Madry, of Chapel Hill.

Waldrop spoke briefly on the subject of Rotary foundation used to further the ideals of International Rotary.

The "Sweepstakes" prize consisting of merchandise valued at $500 donated by the High Point club for having the largest proportionate number of Rotarians present for the conference within the distance traveled as a consideration.

The second prize, a standard of flags, of all nations went to the Ayden club and the third prize, a Rotary plaque, was given to the Roseboro club.

Cleveland Thayer, the next day.

TO CONSIDER SCHOOLS HERE

Two Special State-Wide Committees to Talk Curriculum at College Next Week

Two of the special state-wide committees working on the revision of the curriculum for the public schools of North Carolina will hold three-day sessions in East Carolina Teachers' College next week. The Science group will meet Monday Tuesday and Wednesday and the Mathematics group, Wednesday Thursday and Friday.

There will be three members of the State Department of Education here all the time, J. L. Hillman, who is the general director of the curriculum revision, J. H. Highsmith working with the committees on the secondary school level, and Miss Hattie Parrott, working with those on the elementary level. The committees are made up largely of classroom teachers from various parts of the State. Several members are from the faculty of East Carolina Teachers' College. Miss Coates is on the general committee. Dr. Herbert ReBarker is the leader of the Mathematics Committee. Dr. R. J. Slay and Miss Cleo Rainwater are serving on the Science Committee.

The committees will evaluate the materials collected by the various sub-committees that have been at work during the past year, deciding what should go into the curriculum and will work out definite plans.

Bodies of Two Drowned in Lake Are Recovered

Lake Lure, May 17.—(AP)—Bodies of Volney Harmon, 31, Atlanta, and Miss Virginia Savage, 22, Charlotte who drowned Tuesday night in Lake Lure, were recovered today.

Harmon's body and that of Miss Savage were recovered simultaneously, catching on the same drain line operated by two firemen of Charlotte, J. A. Purser and W. J. Lock.

Jones' body was recovered yesterday.

Apparently Harmon and Miss Savage had gone down together. He was a strong swimmer with training as a life guard, and it was believed that the fact the two bodies were together that he drowned while attempting to save Miss Savage who could not swim.

The bodies were near the spot where the motorboat, owned by Jones, was found on the lake bottom yesterday.

NRA LEADER NEARING END OF CAREER

Donald R. Richberg Expected to Retire As Recovery Chief Any Time Now

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—One of those meteoric of New Deal careers was declared today to be nearing a close. Informal sources said that under an understanding reached sometime ago Donald R. Richberg is to step out of the government and return to private law practice when the present NRA act expires June 16.

The informant, declining to be quoted by name, said Richberg who had expressed a desire to return to private life would remain in his post as chairman of the Blue Eagle Recovery board only during the legislative reorganization of NRA now being studied in Congress. If the new NRA is set up by June 16, it was said, Richberg will not head it. If the new law should not be passed by that date the expiration of the present act would put Richberg and the whole NRA setup out of legal existence.

Besides Richberg, other NRA executives also are said to be contemplating early retirement.

Only yesterday Senator Barkley, democrat of Kentucky, read before the senate a letter from Richberg, saying he had accepted his post only temporarily and wanted to go back to private life. Inquiry in some authoritative circles last night elicited the word that there was no prospect of his early retirement. Today, however, other officials said such a step was imminent.

Richberg's rise, during which he survived several storms, was rapid. A big-shouldered man whose legal career turned to music for relaxation, was noted as a lawyer for the railroad brotherhoods in Chicago before he came to Washington as counsel for the Recovery Administration under Hugh S. Johnson.

DRYS GAIN LEAD IN GA.

Complete Election Returns Show Drys 90 Votes Ahead of The Wets

Atlanta, Ga., May 17.—With a complete unofficial tabulation giving the drys a 90 vote victory, Georgians looked today to an official count of Wednesday's repeal vote for a decision in the closely contested issue.

Late returns from the dry rural sections yesterday overcame the lead of more than 8,000 votes which the wets at one time had piled up in returns from cities and larger centers of population.

Beer and wine voted on separately were legalized by good margins. The Associated Press count of the unofficial results from the state 138 counties showed 81,929 for repeal and 82,019 against.

BEGIN FIGHT ON MOSQUITO

Malaria Control Drive Started Here; Public Asked to Co-operate

An unusual prevalence of mosquitoes today caused City Sanitary Inspector to call on the public to clean up their premises of weeds and rubbish and thereby eliminate breeding places for the pests.

Mr. Lynch said a malaria control drive will be started here in the near future in the hope of reducing mosquito infestation, but that it would be impossible to improve the situation to any extent without the cooperation of home owners.

Weeds and receptacles containing water are excellent places for mosquitoes to breed, Lynch said, and it may be noted that the situation is unusually more severe where such a condition exists.

All streams and other places containing water will be oiled in a short time now as the municipal malaria control drive begins, Lynch said, and it is hoped to have the mosquito situation well in hand by the advent of real summer weather.

NEW FEDERAL CREDIT BOARD IS ADVOCATED

Morgenthau Wants Body Like Supreme Court to Govern Credit

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—Establishment of a strong federal board-like the supreme court—to govern credit and currency—was advocated today by Secretary Morgenthau in a statement to the senate banking subcommittee.

Appearing at the suggestion of Senator Glass, democrat, of Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee, the secretary declared he "favored the principles" of the part of the omnibus banking bill giving the Federal Reserve board exclusive authority to conduct open market operations by which credit is controlled.

But he went even further by adding that he wanted the board divorced entirely from political control.

"I would like to see that authority concentrated in an independent agency," the secretary told the committee, speaking in such a low voice that members and reporters had to strain their ears to hear him.

"Independent of the president," Senator Buckley, of Ohio, asked.

"That he have the appointive power," Morgenthau replied. "Like the Supreme Court," Glass asked.

"Right," said the secretary. "Previously he had testified that he had gotten along extremely well with the Federal Reserve in open market commitments" although there had been times when he thought it should have shown "a little more courage and invested in longer term securities."

QUICK OKAY EXPECTED ON WORK RELIEF

President Roosevelt Probably Will Approve Allotments Immediately

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—A quick okay from the White House on the $1,061,802,200 worth of relief projects recommended to President Roosevelt by the chief of the relief drive was considered virtually certain in high quarters today.

Since the President himself attended the sessions of the Advisory Allotment Board, which culminated late yesterday when the board recommended the projects, the action of the President in withholding an immediate approval caused some surprise in the capital.

The reason was not announced. It was recalled, however, that in the congressional fight over the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill—when critics were hammering away at Secretary Ickes—the word went down the line from the White House that the President would have the final say in alloting the money.

Ickes and Harry L. Hopkins have two of the key positions in the work relief setup. Though the 22 man allotment board gave its formal approval yesterday, observers saw indications that it followed a chart largely prearranged.

One official said its action was largely routine because other agencies concerned had studied the proposals and submitted data.

Whether this meant that the allotment board had been permanently reduced to a routine part in the work machine was not indicated. In two hours yesterday it approved projects covering a wide range of types in hundreds of localities over the country.

There are five looks out into the world that we shall take. First the religious outlook. For a man to be in the pulpit tells us nothing of his belief, unless we know the man. There are five essentials in the Gospel: The Book of God, inspired by His Message; the Man of the Book; The Distinctive Death that He died; the distinctive badness of Sin; and the distinctive choice open to every individual, by which such an one must choose for present character and future destiny. Again, to be a church member or named in an official character does not necessarily tell anything of the belief or character of the man. A disturbing thing. Again, there is a generation of children arising that do not know the simple A B C's of HOW to be saved.

"Second, The Moral Outlook today. The moral fabric of the race is terribly ragged, and the ragged stick, and pollute the air with foulness. Purity is always modest. When Sodum and Gomorrah were suggested certain types of immoral conduct flash into the mind. Today these characteristics have become commonplace. ## GORDON SAYS WORLD FACES GREAT CRISIS

Noted Writer and Lecturer Delivers Final Sermon of Revival at Baptist Church

Predicting that the world is faced by a real crisis because of continued military preparations in Europe Dr. S. D. Gordon, of Winston-Salem, internationally known author and speaker, delivered the final sermon of the series of revival services at Memorial Baptist church last night.

The prediction was based on information acquired by the speaker during an extended visit in Europe. While abroad Dr. Gordon had an opportunity of looking upon session of the league of nations. As a result of his observations he declared the world is faced by "epochal events" and the general opinion arises from world leaders that a world crisis is impending.

"Europe is an armed camp," the noted writer and lecturer declared, "and armaments exceed by many times those of 1918 when the world was locked in the most deadly embrace of war in the history of mankind."

"In view of these outlooks we see a crisis predicted in the prophetic pages of Holy Writ," he asserted. "One is inclined to be very cautious and restrained in connection therewith. However, there are some signs that point with unmistakable accuracy to this impending crisis. The Jewish people are God's index finger. They move toward a re-nationalization."

"The fact of our Lord's return is considered a very controversial subject, but when our Lord Jesus does think it good time to come it will be to come for the purpose of arbitrary intervention for racial salvage."

"This impending crisis is a plea to the man out of Christ to come to Him and to walk together with him in complete harmony. It is likewise a plea for the Christian to understand his times and to live true to the divine purpose for his life."

The feature of last night's song service was a solo by H. A. McDougle, "In the Secret of His Presence."

Rev. A. W. Fleischman, pastor of the church, expressed appreciation of the church and visitors to Dr. Gordon for his fine ministry here, declaring he had done a splendid work.

The revival was begun last Sunday morning and continued until last night with two services daily. The building was packed to overflowing on a number of occasions, but the bad weather preceded by the terrific wind and hail storm Tuesday evening cut attendance considerably.

Dr. Gordon's final sermon was on the subject, "This Present Troublesome World Outlook."

The following Scriptures were used to shed their light on this topic, Daniel 10: 4-6; Revelation 13: 13-18; Matthew 24: 3-14. In part he said: "It is the man who is spoken of in these several passages as being involved in an impending world crisis. Jesus was and is a world-man in size and reach. He came into the world through the doorway of a Jew, but he came to mankind. He came to Palestine which furnished the doorsill across which he could step into the world. He lived for the world; he died for the world; and when he went back to the Father, he sent his few followers out into all the world. In His plan and His passion he was distinctively a world-man. The same thing is true of His followers, and in consequence it is necessary for the Christian to keep his front steps swept off, and his back yard tidied up. The plea is to keep in touch with Jesus for his Word-wide activity."

"There are five looks out into the world that we shall take. First the religious outlook. For a man to be in the pulpit tells us nothing of his belief, unless we know the man. There are five essentials in the Gospel: The Book of God, inspired by His Message; the Man of the Book; The Distinctive Death that He died; the distinctive badness of Sin; and the distinctive choice open to every individual, by which such an one must choose for present character and future destiny. Again, to be a church member or named in an official character does not necessarily tell anything of the belief or character of the man. A disturbing thing. ## THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

By RAY TUCKER

STRATEGY: Democratic bonus steers threw up their hands over Jesse Jones' statement that immediate cashing of veterans' certificates would not produce uncontrollable inflation. It landed on them while they were advising the President to sharpen the preliminary draft of his veto message and to dynamite inflationers Long, Coughlin and Phocas.

But Mr. Jones supplied the missing key to inside bonus strategy. Everybody except professional agitators is scheming to erase the issue from the political calendar before the 1936 presidential year. They figure it would pass then even if headed off now. By his attitude Mr. Roosevelt is supposed to restore his waning prestige with some groups of bankers, business men, etc. Then Congress will go right ahead with the Vinson bill or a similar payment plan. Mr. Roosevelt is counted on to veto that proposal. Finally the boys on "the Hill" will get out of control and hand out Treasury notes or bonds.

Everybody will be fixed up, politically, if it works as planned. The President can "point to" his yielding stand. Candidates running for office can make better time. They won't have to slow up for a scared glance backward to see if the bonus is catching up to them.

ADVICE: The White House and Mr. Jones crossed signals badly on their interpretation of the consequences of the Patman plan. The RFC Chairman's cool dismissal of inflationary possibilities might have softened up enough Senators to put over a veto. Worse still, it tended to Entertain Practice Teachers The Science faculty of the College delightfully entertained the student practice teachers in science at a picnic supper in the "Y" hut last night. The guests were greeted by Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Slay. They gathered around the fire and enjoyed games and conversations during the first part of the evening.

A delicious picnic supper was served by Mrs. Slay, Misses Lorraine Hunter, Jessie Mack and Alice Wilson.

W. W. Morgan and Miss Evelyn Rogers, the two science teachers in the Greenville High School under whom the science majors did their practice teaching during the past year, and Mrs. Morgan, were also guests.

Visits Points of Interest Mrs. Herman Nobles, Mrs. Lucy McGowan, Miss Joanna Godwin, of Greenville, N. C.; Mrs. Leona Brown, Ayden; Mrs. Mary Moore and Mr. H. H. Weathering, Winterville returned Wednesday night from Elizabeth City where they attended the Great Council of Red Men and Degree of Pocahontas. While in Elizabeth City they visited Wright Memorial, Nags Head, Manteo and Fort Raleigh.

Announce Engagement The following announcement will be of interest to friends in this city of both Miss Taylor, former member of East Carolina Teachers College faculty, and Burke Stancill, resident of this city:

The engagement of Miss Herma Madge Taylor to Burke Stancill of Greenville, North Carolina was announced in Commerce, Texas, Saturday afternoon, May 4, at a Crystal Ball Tea given by Miss Anne Workman, member of the faculty of East Texas State Teachers College.

Miss Workman had members of the Training School Faculty and intimate friends of Miss Taylor assisting her in receiving and serving the guests.

The announcement was given in the interesting manner of reading a beautifully lighted crystal ball. The readers interpreted to the guests what the ball revealed concerning a certain dark-haired, charming friend of those present, who graduated from East Texas State Teachers College and George Peabody College and who taught school in East Carolina Teachers College where she met the fortunate young man.

The interpreter foretold a wedding ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church of Paris, Texas, on June seventeenth, at high noon conducted by the Reverend T. L. Year, father-in-law of the bride.

The bride's sister, Mrs. F. D. Wear, the reader foresaw an extended honeymoon in the lovely mountains of Western Carolina, and predicted a happy home in Greenville North Carolina.

After the announcement, the guests passed into the dining room where, amid a bower of pink roses and crystals, tea was served.

In the sun-porch Miss Taylor, her mother, Mrs. W. R. Taylor of Olney, Texas and her sisters, Mrs. Wear of Paris and Mrs. Wilford A. Smith, of Gilmer, received the guests who tarried at length to express their esteem, love and best wishes for the future bride.

Mrs. J. D. Smith Honored Mrs. J. D. Smith, formerly Miss Evelyn Rountree, of this city, was honor guest Wednesday evening at a very charming shower given by Misses Louise and Blanche Rountree at their home on Cotton Drive.

The home was decorated with lovely garden flowers carrying out a pink and green color scheme. Bridge was played at two tables. At the conclusion of several games, Miss Lucy Bett Abbott was awarded prize for high score and Miss Lucille Woodard a prize for low score.

The guests were then invited to the dining room where a delicious and course was served. The table was lovely with burning tapers and each place was attractively marked with a hand-made silhouette. The gifts for the bride were placed in the center of the table.

Out-of-town guests were Misses Faye and Belle Gaskins of Grifton and Lucy Beth Abbott of Winterville.

Round Table Meeting
On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. G. R. Combs was a delightful hostess to members of the Round Table at her home on Ninth street.

Mrs. Robert Grady was a welcome guest for the afternoon.

The Round Table has this year presented to Sheppard Memorial Library a gift of twenty-five copies of Dickens' complete works including his life and letters. This set is composed of twenty volumes and is a special library edition published recently by Harper's. Several other books have also been added this year to the Round Table collection in the library.

Mrs. J. E. Nobles gave a most enjoyable paper on the life and interests of two outstanding present day women—Miss Frances Perkins and Miss Martha Berry—each doing splendid work in entirely different fields yet each working for those who most need their help. Many interesting items of Miss Perkins' personality and work were discussed and an illuminating description of the wonderful Martha Berry School near Rome, Georgia was given.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Grady served a delectable sweet course.

I am supporting the move to add the ninth month to our schools.

DRYS AFTER A BONE-DRY AS GOVERNOR

Failure of Clyde Hoye To Mention Prohibition Causes Disappointment

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

(By J. C. BASKERVILLE.)

Raleigh, May 17—Disappointed because Clyde R. Hoye of Shelby did not mention prohibition or liquor in his formal announcement as a candidate for Governor in 1936, reports here today are that some of the more extreme dries are already scouting around to find a bone-dry candidate for Governor to put into the field. These reports also are to the effect that the name of Charles A. Hines, of Greensboro, who was a state campaign manager for former Senator Furnifold M. Simmons in his unsuccessful campaign for re-election in 1932 is being mentioned by some of the bone-dry as a possible candidate for Governor. Hines was a member of the state senate in 1927 and for years has been active in Democratic circles in Guilford and surrounding counties.

When asked today if the United Dries were disappointed at Mr. Hoye's failure to mention prohibition and to include a state prohibition plank in his platform as outlined in the statement announcing his candidacy this week, Cale K. Burgess, generalissimo of the United Dry Forces, said that he had "nothing to say" at this time and refused to make any further comment. He indicated that he might have a statement of some sort, within a few days, however. Speaking for himself personally and not for the United Dries, he also said: "I am for Clyde Hoye."

Those in experienced political circles here, however, do not believe that the more extreme dries will be able to get a large enough following to persuade any really able candidate to run for Governor on a bone-dry platform. They maintain that Hoye will get the larger portion of the dry vote anyway, that another dry candidate would only tend to put into his vote, could not possibly be elected and would only increase the chances of a "liberal" candidate being nominated over Hoye. As a result there is virtually no one here who seriously believes that the extreme dries will attempt to put their own candidate for Governor in the Indemnity Company (now Carolina Mortgage Co.) Trustee, dated February 1st, 1926, recorded in Book out that even if Hoye is not as dry or as ardent for the continuation of state prohibition as the extreme dries would have him be, that he is still much more of a personal and political dry than any of the other candidates and hence the one and only hope of the dry forces.

Not that Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham is a wet. He is not in favor of the return of the open saloon or unrestricted liquor traffic in North Carolina any more than Dr. W. L. Poteat, president of the United Dries, is in favor of these things. Nor is he in favor of the retention of the present openly-disregarded state prohibition law, under which untaxed, bootleg liquor flows almost as freely as water in almost every part of the state. Graham is in favor of some form of state control of liquor with state liquor stores in those counties and cities which want them.

Consequently there is no doubt but that Graham will get the united support of all the "liberal dries" who are already convinced of the failure and futility of the present state prohibition law, as well as of the people who want better liquor made available in the state without having to pay extortionate prices and without having to violate the law to get it. Graham is also conceded to have the support of those who deplore the pussyfooting of politicians in the past on the liquor issue and in the recent session of the general assembly and who admire him for his refusal to pussyfoot.

Many believe that if the primary election should be held today that Graham would probably be nominated rather than Hoye, with the prohibition and liquor questions the dominant issue. Whether this will still be true a year from now remains to be seen.

MANY SEEK PATROL JOBS

Revenue Department Has About 2,000 Ap- plications For High- way Posts

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, May 17.—Approximately 2,000 applications have already been received from men over the state wanting jobs as highway patrolmen, despite the fact that the patrol is to be increased only 64 more men, it was learned today at the Department of Revenue. These applications are now being stored and studied by Assistant Commissioner of Revenue M. C. S. Noble, Jr., and Captain Charles D. Farmer of the highway patrol with a view to selecting about 200 of the applicants who look the most promising. The 200 men selected will then be called to a central training camp, probably near Raleigh, for a special course of training and instruction that will last from four to six weeks. The 64 men who make the best records in this training camp will then be selected for permanent jobs as patrolmen and will bring the total strength of the highway patrol up to 121 officers and men, as authorized by this last general assembly.

While the new law authorizes the size of the patrol to be increased to 121 officers and men effective July 1, it will probably be August 1, or even August 15 before the entire 121 patrolmen will be on duty on the highways of the state, due to the length of time required to train them and to get the necessary new equipment. Plans are now being made to hold the training camp and school for the new patrolmen as soon as possible and to start it before July 1 if the necessary new uniforms and equipment can be obtained by that time. But Revenue Department officials today pointed out that it will take considerable time, probably between 45 days and two months, to get the 64 motorcycles and automobiles purchased and delivered as well as the 121 radio receiving sets with which both the new and old motorcycles and automobiles will be equipped.

If it is found possible to get the training school for the new patrolmen started by July 1, it will probably be August before the school is over and the new patrolmen ready for duty on the highways. Another reason it will probably be at least July 1 before the training school can be started is the new appropriations does not become available until then. The Revenue Department also wants sufficient time in which to test out as many different types of short wave radio sets as possible, in order to get the best and most efficient type. Several of these sets are expected here within the next week for testing by members of the present patrol.

Indications are that the patrol training school will be conducted along much the same lines as in the past and that about 200 of the present 2,000 applicants will be selected for attendance at this school. It has not yet been definitely determined, but indications are that none of the 200 will receive any pay while at this school, but that they will be asked to attend the school of their own volition and with the understanding that only 64 of the men who attend will get permanent jobs. Two years ago when the second training school was held after the 1933 general assembly increased the size of the patrol, there were about 1,000 applicants for jobs and about 200 men started in at the training camp. This number was soon reduced to about 100 and out of these 100 only about 30 men were selected to become patrolmen.

While all of the plans for the enlarged patrol are now tentative, it is expected that all of the lieutenants and most of the sergeants will be equipped with automobiles, both coupes and sedans and the corporals and private patrolmen equipped with motorcycles. This will probably mean that there will be about 30 officers equipped with automobiles, and about 90 patrolmen on motorcycles. The men in the automobiles will patrol the highways the same as patrolmen, however, with the exception that they will carry scales for the weighing of trucks or busses which may be overloaded. The cars can also be used in case of serious accidents to rush injured persons to the hospital, it is pointed out. All of these cars as well as the motorcycles will be equipped with radio receiving sets and will be under the constant control of one of the highway patrol broadcasting stations, of which there will be four. Each patrolman will be required to keep a log of his activity each day, including miles and route covered and radio signals heard.

New York Cotton

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady unchanged to two higher in response to steadier Liverpool cables and on trade buying.

Reports that the Commodity Credit Corporation had extended the maturity date on 12 cent cotton on the 1934 crop from July 1, 1935 to February 1, 1936, attracted attention. July advanced from 11.95 to 11.99 and May from 12.01 to 12.03 or to net advances of three to five points.

At midday July was selling at 11.99 and the general market was about two to five net higher.

The market advanced further in trade covering and buying largely in the July position. Futures closed steady.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 17.—(AP)—The roaring stock market, lion of yesterday had more of a lamb like appearance today.

The inflation picture did not seek as bright as in the preceding session and many nimble traders took spirit and adjourned to the sidelines to await another buying opportunity. The result was that equities after a fast and rather firm start turned irregular and the activity contracted.

Realizing seemed to be well absorbed and a few signs of real weakness was in evidence.

Grains continued to push forward in foreign exchange dealing while gold reflection further nervousness of devaluation prospects declined. The late tone was mixed.

Transfers were 1,700,000 shares.

Committee OKs Security Bill

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—The administration social security bill was approved today by the senate finance committee with two major additions to be formed on which it passed the house.

The measure a vital part of the administration's legislative program for the session was reported by the committee without record vote after attempts to modify or separate it into several separate bills were rejected in a swift succession of votes.

Approval of the bill left only the Omnibus Bank Bill among the laws remaining among the major administration measures in a senate committee.

All of the major provisions of the house bill were approved by the senate committee and it added:

A voluntary annuity system by which people could provide up to $100 a month for their old age.

Federal aid to the needy up to $15 a month to be matched by the state.

been identified as a prisoner who escaped from a North Carolina prison camp in 1932 in a break that resulted in the fatal shooting of H. B. Brantley, a guard.

Ebright said the youth was Robert Cook, who escaped from the Cary prison farm after serving a year of his 7 to 10 years sentence for highway robbery.

Ebright said Cook is alleged to have shot Brantley in the back during the break.

Cook was arrested after police received a tip that the youth had been in a lodging house that he was wanted for a prison break and the killing of a guard. Ebright said North Carolina authorities left Raleigh this morning to come here to return the youth to that state.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, D. C.—For something like two years the Senate's only M.D.—the gray-haired, deliberate Royal S. Copeland, of New York,—has labored to obtain passage of a new food and drugs bill in Congress.

Failure and disappointing delays have dogged his efforts from the start.

It is estimated the measure has been rewritten as many as a dozen times since the original draft, credited with being the brainchild of "Braintruster" Rex Tugwell, first was submitted to Congress in the spring of 1933.

During those two years in the neighborhood of 200 witnesses have appeared before the doctor and his committee. It has been an almost continuous job as far as he is concerned.

Copeland admitted when he succeeded in getting the bill before the Senate after the work-relief bill had been disposed of finally that despite the fact it bore his name he was nothing more than its "stepfather."

Retreat Forced

"I have understood," he said rather ironically, "that many a stepfather loves his stepchild" and proceeded to lavish as much care and affection on the bill as he could command.

After a week of hammering away Copeland was forced to make a strategic retreat. Under a threat to send the bill back to committee for another revision, thus losing all that he had gained, the doctor agreed to shelve his "stepchild" on the Senate calendar without prejudice until Senators are in better mood.

Many observers believe, however, the Copeland "stepchild" is far from being "out of the woods" yet.

Another Bill in House

A companion bill in the House, sponsored by Representative Mead of New York, proposes not a new food and drugs act as does the Copeland measure, but drastic amendment of the present law (the 60-year-old Dr. Wiley act).

During debate on the Copeland bill in the Senate the question arose time and again whether it would not be better for the Senate to proceed along the lines of the Mead bill. The argument was advanced that under the Wiley bill a vast amount of litigation had been threshed out helpful both to the government and to all others concerned. Substitution of an entirely new bill, it was argued, would mean the loss of these legal interpretations and going over the same ground again.

And in these, the emphasis is put upon a certain teaching of evolution. This is in the face of the acknowledged fact that, no facts have ever been found that are out of harmony with the Genesis account of creation.

It is also a point of interest to note that many of the immoral implications noted above are in intimate touch with this teaching.

"Fourth, the economic outlook. The conditions here are commonplace, and present some very strange phases of this matter. In some part of the world, food is burned in order to raise prices, while in other parts many lie down hungry and are without the necessities of life. The hoarding of money to a greater degree than ever before growing out of the spirit of fear. Then the world-wide aspect of this condition which is different than other instance of depressed economic experience.

"Fifth, the Political Outlook. Through the experience of looking in upon the sessions of the League of Nations at Geneva several observations may be made. One is the democracy of the English Alphabet by which the delegates of the various nations are seated in the assembly hall, and placed so as not to be in too close proximity. This is especially true of those nations who look at each other with considerable asistance. Out of such observations it is to be noted that 'epochal events are on edge in the world.' Just a few men hold the lines in these international conferences. The general opinion arises from them that a world crisis is impending. They would avert it if possible. Europe is an armed camp today, with armaments exceeding that of 1918 by many times."
