COX ISSUES STATEMENT ON ELECTION CALL

Chairman Feels People Should be Granted Rights of Suffrage

Roy T. Cox, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, who yesterday voted to call an election in this county July 6 on the question of setting up county controlled liquor stores, has issued a statement to the citizens of Pitt County in which he emphasizes his objections to legalized liquor but declares that under the circumstances he did not feel that the people of the county should be denied their right of suffrage in settling the important question. In his statement, however, he urges the voters to get a copy of the law and study carefully its effect upon the county government before casting their votes in the July 6 election.

Mr. Cox's statement follows: "To The Citizens of Pitt County: The Board of County Commissioners of Pitt County yesterday voted to grant an election on what is purported to be the Alcoholic Control bill.

I have not the slightest criticism for any member of our Board for the vote they cast. I hope you will not criticize them for I think I know that each voted only after mature thinking and upon deep convictions.

For the past two weeks, because of my position in County Government, I have been able to get the views of many citizens on the important question, and I want to say to you that I have appreciated these different views. In most cases I have been forced to disagree with these views, but I think in the main they have been presented with quite a bit of sincerity.

I think we all agree that there was no written law to compel the Commissioners to call an election. But our Democratic form of Government is founded upon the right of suffrage, and with the pressure that was brought to bear, I feel that the only wise thing we could do would be to let the people of this County say whether they want to accept or reject this type of legislation.

I can not see where anything would be gained, and I think I see much that would be lost to our moral and temperance forces, had we deviated from the usual procedure and refused to call the election.

As a citizen of this County, I am very much opposed to this bill, and I shall not hesitate to do all I can to fairly defeat it at the polls.

I certainly do wish to thank the many good people for their expressions against calling this election, and especially for the fine spirit of fairness they have manifested. If I have disappointed any of my friends, I am sorry, for I am sincere in my belief that a righteous cause would have suffered the more had we refused to grant to the people their right to suffrage.

I expect to have more to say later as to the dangers in this bill and how I purport to affect your County Unit of Government. I think it wise that all our good thinking people who are interested in their county, secure a copy of this bill and study it without prejudice, before they cast their vote.

Sincerely,
Roy T. Cox, Chairman.

DR. ODOM LEAVES TO TEACH IN CALIFORNIA THIS SUMMER

Chapel Hill, June 4.—Dr. Howard W. Odom, Kenan Professor of Sociology and acting director of the School of Public Administration, the University of North Carolina, left yesterday for the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, where he will teach during the summer.

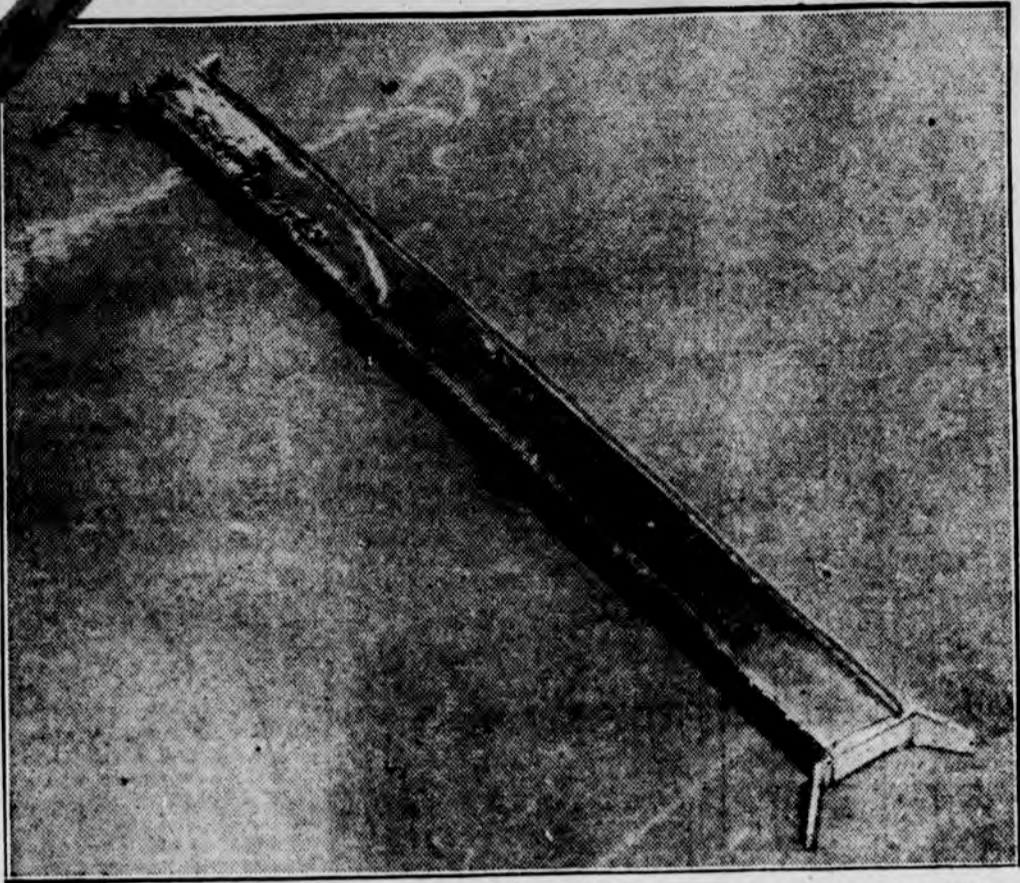

The summer session there will consist of two terms, the first opening June 17 and closing July 26, the second extending from July 27 to August 30.

Dr. Odom and his family are making the trip by motor. His first stop will be Monday, June 3, to make the commencement address at the College of the Ozarks, Clarkburg, Ark. Tuesday they will stop for commencement exercises at Hendrix College and from there to the University of Oklahoma Wednesday.

Dr. Odom will deliver two lectures at the Texas Woman's College in Denton, Thursday and Friday, speak at the University of Texas Saturday, and visit the University of New Mexico Wednesday, June 12.

Prospects for an apple crop in northeast Kansas are above the five year average, a survey by the state horticultural society indicated.

HUNDREDS MAROONED IN WESTERN FLOODS

When the turbulent flood waters of the Republican river swirled over the plains in Nebraska and Kansas, hundreds of people were forced to forsake their homes and take refuge by whatever means were available. This picture, made from an airplane, shows a group clinging to the extreme left end of a bridge surrounded by water near McCook, Neb. No avenue of escape was left them and the continued rise of the river led to fears that they may have perished. (Associated Press Photo)

ALL COUNTIES SET DATES FOR REFERENDUMS

Eighteen Counties To Vote on Liquor Question Within Next 30 Days

Raleigh, June 4.—(AP)—Election dates had been set today in all 18 of the counties which the 1935 legislature authorized to vote on the question of establishing county liquor control systems. In one county, New Hanover—Wilmington—dry has obtained a temporary restraining order to prevent the referendum there July 2. The order is returnable after Judge J. Paul Prizelle at Wilmington Friday.

Commissioners of Pitt, Halifax, Onslow, Lenoir, Greene and Rockingham counties set referendum dates yesterday. No action has been taken by the resort towns of Pinehurst and Southern Pines, also included in the liquor legislation.

The election dates in the counties are June 22, Wilson and Edgecombe; June 29, Beaufort, Warren, Vance and Franklin; July 2, New Hanover and Craven; July 6, Pasquotank, Martin, Halifax, Currituck, Onslow, Pitt, Lenoir and Nash; July 9, Greene and Rockingham.

SUMMER TERM TO OPEN HERE NEXT TUESDAY

College Campus Quiet Since Graduating Exercises Yesterday

The College campus is quiet this morning, after the biggest commencement in its history, and the one that starts the new quarter of a century. The students have all gone and some of the members of the faculty, but most of them are still here finishing up the term's work and checking up at the end of the year.

The Summer School will open next Tuesday morning, June 11, and the prospects are for the largest in many years, with a possibility of the largest in the history of the school. The staff will be made up largely of regular members of the faculty and officers, but the full teaching staff is not on duty during the summer.

The new travel-study course is proving very popular. The three subjects for which the students will get credit, if they fulfill the requirements of the courses, and the teachers going on the tour with them, are: Geography, J. B. Cummings; English, Miss Emma L. Hooper; and History, E. C. Hollar. They will leave on next Tuesday, the first day of the summer term.

Late News Flashes

Out Quick.
Paris, June 4.—(AP)—Ferdinand Bouisson, France's premier of four days, was thrown out of power today 254 to 252 vote of the Chamber of Deputies, when he staked his government's life on the demand for free power to direct France's measures toward overcoming the depression.

No Bonus This Term.
Washington, June 4.—(AP)—Bismarck forces in Congress decided today to abandon their battle for cash payment at this session of Congress and to concentrate on a campaign with the people for enactment of the Patman inflationary bill at the next session. That will put the contest just before the presidential election. Some bonus supporters believe that to be good strategy.

A joint conference between House and Senate leaders of the Patman bill forces agreed almost unanimously that President Roosevelt's opposition would require "too serious a position" (Continued on Page Four)

FLETCHER IS CLUB SPEAKER

Things we Esteem Highest we Will Sacrifice Most For, He Tells Rotarians

By WYATT BROWN
"The things we esteem highest we suffer and sacrifice the most for," said Maynard Fletcher of Washington, North Carolina, last night at the Rotary Club dinner meeting in the course of his remarks bringing the Greenville Rotarians a word of cheer. Paradoxical as it may seem it nevertheless holds true, he said.

Likening life to school Mr. Fletcher said graduation is happiness and the angel of suffering, sorrow, and sacrifice the chief instructor. Progress of the race has been achieved by the idea he illustrated with the blind poet Homer, the imprisoned Bunyan who wrote the "Pilgrims Progress" and Fanny Crosby who wrote more songs than any other person though she became blind at six due to ignorance in placing a pin in her eye. She was never aware of her blindness in her joy of living except when friends called it to her attention.

"Oysters and mud turtles have mastered the matter of a painless life and cut out the heart of man and you have only a turtle left. It makes a man bigger to shoulder his burden and strive. The future depends on how you shoulder your burdens and it will take a lot of suffering to do a good job," he said.

At the conclusion of Mr. Fletcher's remarks Fordy Harding arose and said in commendation of the speaker that here was a man who could look into the soul of man, interpret it, and put it into words the hearers could understand.

CONFIDENCE VOTE GIVEN NEW PREMIER

French Chamber Gives Its Support To Bouisson in Money Crisis

Paris, June 4.—(AP)—The Chamber of Deputies which for nine years he ruled as its president, today gave Ferdinand Bouisson, France's new premier, a rising vote of confidence in answer to his demand for virtually a free hand to deal with the nation's financial crisis. The vote was 390 to 192 in his favor.

The vote was granted the new premier and his government on a technical point shutting off debate on the proposed law granting the government decree powers. The vote postpones interpellations of government. A more severe test than that of the actual vote is on the law to follow. Many deputies indicated they would rebel against the bill.

The deputies were guarded in their deliberations by a detachment of police outside the chamber. The guard was not heavy but elsewhere in Paris strong police forces including mounted men and mobile guards armed with carbines were seeing to it that the large group of striking shopkeepers did not march on the chamber.

BELIEVE FISH WANTS TO HEAD G. O. P. TICKET

New York Congressman Said to be Fishing For Support in This State

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, June 4.—Hamilton Fish, New York Congressman, is manifestly angling for the Republican vote in North Carolina in the next national convention of his party.

Mr. Fish, who attacked the Patman bill which President Roosevelt vetoed two weeks ago, gave out at the same time a statement as to his purposes in presenting a veterans' pension measure more satisfactory to the country at large and factory to the country at large and to the sound financial policy of the nation. That statement was generally was. That statement was generally was.

The spring visit of Mr. Fish to North Carolina attended by addresses in Chapel Hill, Raleigh, Charlotte and over the radio, left no doubt of his presidential candidacy, but the New York all-American football player did not catch the country's imagination as he did when he helped Harvard to win football games. ## WIDESPREAD HEARINGS ON SEARCH FOR POTATO BILL KIDNAPPERS NEARING END

Government Will Redeem Bills Used to Pay Weyerhaeuser Ransom

Tacoma, Wash., June 4.—(AP)—"Innocent bystanders" who receive one of the 20,000 Weyerhaeuser ransom banknotes will be compensated. Department of Justice agents here today. "Nobody will lose his money," the spokesman said. "The department will take the bill and see that another is given in return for it. We also want to emphasize the importance of remembering from whom the ransom bill is received."

It was reported that when the $200,000 worth of ransom bills are recovered they will be destroyed to avoid confusion by continued circulation of the advertised money. Other bills of different number will be issued.

State patrolmen continued their highway blockade and it was reported that they had resumed their search yesterday for the lair in which nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser, son of the wealthy lumber family was kept until he was brought back to his parents.

The patrol's search is believed to center around Issaquah, about 12 miles east of Seattle, near where the kidnaped lad reappeared Saturday after being gone for nearly eight days. The manhunters hoped to round up the abductors this week. Otherwise they would face a long wait until the extortionists attempted to pass some of the ransom money or try to make a getaway.

DRYS SEEK TO ENJOIN ELECTIONS

Dry Judges Will Be Sought to Block Elections in Various Counties

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, June 4.—"Dry" judges will be sought by the United Dry Forces in their effort to enjoin the several county elections on liquor stores.

As much has been said in this correspondence more than once. The move before parching dry Judge E. H. Cramer in New Hanover was entirely in character as was the decision. Judge Cramer, however, gets the temporary handling of that issue. It will fall to some other jurist to decide whether the order will be made permanent or not.

There are "wet" judges and "dry" judges with quite a representation of jurists willing to give up all their preconceived opinions. Some of the judges are reputed to sip wet and vote dry, some others vote wet and drink dry. Still others do not know where they are. The evidence is not all in. Judge Cramer is unquestionably unchanged. He is dry all over.

If the resident judge signs a temporary restraining order that is dissolved by the succeeding judge that leaves the county affected to go ahead. If the judge declines to sign such an order the poll may proceed. For that reason it behooves the Drys to get a restraining order. They probably can do it in half the counties concerned.

Diligent search among the records tends to cast doubt among the Drys that they can overthrow the county liquor acts with constitutional help. The we have found in the 1917 and 1918 reports of the supreme court measures to enjoin county commissioners. These in Irrell and McDowell counties undertook to prevent the issue of highway bonds on the ground that the acts were not read three separate times in each House and voted by aye and no record, and on the further ground that they were local bills passed in violation of the constitutional restrictions upon such legislation. Justice George H. Brown threw out the McDowell and Chief Justice Hoke the Irrell cases. It is admitted that they almost duplicate the county liquor issues recently submitted. The weils still think they will carry a lot of county elections and the Drys fear it too.

"Pin money" fines are used at Eagle Pass, Tex. to enforce the headlight ordinance. It costs motorists 25 cents the first time.

Warren Declares Potato Production Control Bill Is Constitutional

Washington, June 4.—(AP)—As the House Agriculture Committee held its final hearings on the Warren potato control bill, Representative Warren, North Carolina, said today he had no doubt as to the constitutionality of the measure. The question was prompted by reason of the recent Supreme Court decision.

He said the bill made no provision for benefit payments to the producers, the point on which the Supreme Court is to rule in the test cases on other agricultural control legislation, and that the tax levied is for the purpose of administration.

The measure introduced in the House during the early part of the session calls for potatoes as a basic commodity and authorizes the agriculture secretary to set up sales allotments and to restrict commercial production. No processing tax would be levied but a tax would be collected on potatoes sold in excess of allotments. The sales allotments, it was pointed out, does not restrict growers from growing potatoes for personal use for food or feed.

A previous hearing on the bill found representatives from several of the large potato producing states in favor of it.

DEATH TOLL FROM FLOODS REACHES 500

Property Damage In Three Midwestern States Estimated at $17,000,000

(By Associated Press)

Death estimates in three midwestern states and in Mexico today mounted to the 500 mark as rampaging floods continued their widespread destruction. A daylight checkup over the ravaged portion of the federal district in the valley of Mexico revealed that approximately 400 persons had perished, the majority of them dying as they prayed to San Pedro's patron saint to whom they annually voice their supplications for the benefits of rain.

Nebraska, Missouri and Kansas are still lashed by raging streams. Estimates based on reports by relief workers placed the number of dead in Nebraska at 140. An unofficial list compiled by the Associated Press shows 94 persons. Kansas had eight dead and Missouri three. Property damage in the three states is estimated at $17,000,000 with the greatest loss in Nebraska.

FORMIDABLE: The conservatives who danced so gaily on the grave of the NRA may soon have reason to wish for its resurrection. Unless business behaves—to use Congressional language—and shoulders wage and hour responsibilities it said it could carry without the help of the Blue Eagle, the free-and-easy spending and inflationist fellows on Capitol Hill will have a new sales talk.

In the corridors and cloakrooms they speculate on the possibility of price-cutting and wage-slashing. The farm bloc worries over a drop in commodity prices and a setback to agriculture. Labor feels it has been denied the federal reinforcement it had expected through Section 7a. Only the promises of industrialists to preserve NRA's gains sustains them. And they are skeptical men.

If the bottom drops out of the recovery movement these groups will pool their demands. They will square off for inflation, greenback money, raking leaves at govern-

CITY READY FOR OPENING GAME HERE

Many Business Houses to Begin Summer Half Holiday Schedule Tomorrow

With many local fans attending the opening game of the Coastal Plain League in Ayden this afternoon, others awaited with anticipation for tomorrow's opening game here when the Ayden club will meet the locals at Third Street School park. The opening game here will be marked by festivities beginning with a band concert at 3:30, followed by the formal opening exercises to be participated in by city and club officials of the two contesting towns.

While the great majority of local business houses will close tomorrow afternoon for their first Wednesday half-holiday of the summer, Mayor Pro Tem H. H. Duncan today requested that others who do not intend to observe the half-holiday throughout the summer, close just for tomorrow afternoon because of the opening game of the season here.

In exhibition games played by the locals last week the team showed up exceptionally well and it is the belief of those close to the team that the class of baseball to be seen on this circuit this season will be much faster than heretofore.

Wavnick Pays Visit To Former Department Head

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, June 4.—Chairman Capt. M. Wavnick's week-end call on former Chairman E. B. Jeffress of the State Highway and Public Works Commission astonished the New head of that department.

Mr. Wavnick had set several dates during the legislature for making the visit to Mr. Jeffress, but always found a conflict. When he called on Mr. Jeffress, for whom he once worked as city editor of the Greensboro Daily News and with whom he teamed as a member of the 1931 House, Mr. Wavnick found his old chief "looking five years younger, his mind as clear and logical as it ever was, and Jeff's interest in roads as great as it was when he was active chairman," Mr. Wavnick said.

PRESIDENT TO MOVE TO SAVE NRA FEATURES

Conferences With Cabinet and Congressional Leaders Being Held Today

Washington, June 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt appeared ready today to propose to Congress the restoration of the fundamental NRA principles limited to interstate commerce. Emergency congressional action to revive the structure of NRA demolished by the Supreme Court decision seemed imminent.

As the President started a series of conferences with cabinet members and congressional leaders it was said by some of his sympathizers at the capitol that he had added the Wagner labor dispute bill and the Guffey-Snyder coal bill to his program for congress. A conference of congressional leaders was called by the President for later this afternoon following a special cabinet session this morning. It was expected details of his plan would be divulged at his press conference set for 5 p. m. (EST) today.

Mr. Roosevelt has a legislative program to propose as a stop gap pending result of his campaign for broader constitutional authority for the federal government to deal with the nation's economic and social problems. Pending conclusion of the day's conferences the White House declined any hint of the nature of the President's moves. Emphasis was laid on the fact, however, that the President had told Donald Richberg, NRA head, last night not to arrange for the dismissal of the 5,400 NRA employees on June 16 when their terms expire.

J. A. Moore Died At Duke Yesterday; Funeral Tomorrow

Joshua Alexander Moore, 64 years, died in the Duke Hospital last night from a lingering illness. Mr. Moore was a highly respected citizen of Pitt County and was well known. He was reared in Beaufort county, moved to Grimesland, Pitt County, twenty-six years ago. Mr. Moore was a member of the Grimesland M. E. Church, and the Grimesland Lodge of Improved Order of Redmen. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Ray, Washington, N. C.; J. A. of Martinsville, Va.; L. A. of Hopewell, Va.; Larry, Leasford, Elton, and Annie May and Julia Russell, all of this county.

Funeral services will be conducted from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. J. J. Strawbridge, pastor of the Grimesland M. E. Church.

Burial will be near the home. Active pall bearers: J. T. Wilson, Bob Mobley, Noah Haddock, Jack Spain, O. J. Galloway, V. A. Jackson.

THE LIQUOR REFERENDUM

The County Commissioners followed the right course yesterday in deciding to let the people of this county vote their wishes on the question of the establishment of county controlled liquor stores. Of course it was within the power of the commissioners to have refused to call the election and there was considerable pressure brought to bear both in favor of and opposed to the calling of the election. The commissioners, despite their personal feelings in the matter, realized that under our democratic form of government the people should not be denied their right to settle the issue at the polls and the election was called.

Between now and the time of voting on July 6 there will no doubt be waged in this county a campaign both for and against the establishment of the legalized liquor stores. This is inevitable but it is to be hoped that both sides will stick to the facts and leave out personal attacks that would tend to leave ill feelings long after the voting has settled the real issue.
There is a wide divergence of views as to our present prohibition laws but it is to be hoped that every citizen who expects to cast a vote in the July 6 election will study the issued involved carefullly and then vote to the best of his or her ability their personal convictions in the matter.

In order that our people might know the facts in the case we are opening our columns to those who wish to use it to present their side of the question whether it be for or against the establishment of the stores. In submitting your arguments either for or against the issue you are urged to stick to the facts and refrain from dealing in personalities.

ENEMY'S KISS

SYNOPSIS: Alison Rede has apologized to her future stepmother for doubting the latter's statement that Alison's friend, Guy Western, is really Guy Lumley, a physician of dubious habits. Guy's name is Lumley; Alison still loves him, although she will not see him again.
Now she has learned from the newspaper that a murder had been done in the nearby Sunset House where she was reared from a dangerous situation by Guy. And the house belongs to Daphne Summers, the woman Alison's father is to marry.

Chapter 32

DAPHNE INTERFERES

GUY had lied when he told her that his name was Western, that he was an architect—well he lied about the car as well! Had the whole story of his stroll past the house been made up, and had his car been parked all the time a few hundred yards from the house? The car which could have taken them both into Warley.

Now that she looked back, Alison remembered too clearly that he had been very anxious that she should not walk to Warley and tell her story to the police.

Slowly, painfully, she recalled each incident of their strange meeting. With her suspicious awake, she could see that his tale of a midnight stroll on a wet night was pitifully thin.

But why had he lied? Why hadn't he said right out that his car was at hand, only a few yards away?
Was it because he was afraid that she might give him away?

And now, all in a rush, came back details to reinforce her fears. The telephone—he had shown no surprise when she got no answer! Had he himself cut off the telephone?

She recalled that they had gone at his suggestion to the drawing room; she had sat waiting at the desk while she dialed and had let her eyes stray down it, thinking that it was ugly. But surely the drawers had been shut then? And Guy himself had grown red when he told her about the burglary!

He himself, only yesterday, had said that he had stopped her cry in case someone should hear! On his own confession, then he had known that there was someone else in the house, before she told him of her fright! And he had been afraid that other person might know that he was in the house!

True, they had searched together —but not all the house. There had been a moment when she was in the bathroom alone and Guy had gone up to the attic.

True, he had put Gaffe on her bed to guard her through the night; she had thought that particularly nice of him, to be so anxious for her safety and comfort. But suppose that he was only anxious to see that she did not move without his knowledge, spy on what he was doing below?

"What've you got there?"
Alison jerked round to find Daphne looking over her shoulder.
For a moment she thought that Daphne was laughing but the glint, if there was a glint in those dark eyes, vanished at once.

"You've seen this?"

Daphne nodded.
"Oh, yes. Bob showed me before dinner. He was going to tell you but I wouldn't let him. Rather ghastly, isn't it? I mean, to happen in one's own house. At least, it isn't mine now, thank Heaven! As I was saying to your father, it's a good thing I completed the sale and had their check."

DAPHNE was chattering light-heartedly now. "Lucky for me that the poor creature didn't get fired a little earlier before the sale was closed, or they might have been out."

"How awful for the people who lived in it!" said Alison slowly.
"Oh, I don't know! An old house ought to have a ghost!" chaffed Daphne. "If it had happened before they moved in, I might've charged them extra for a ghost!"

But Alison could not even pretend to laugh.

"They seem to think it happened on the 25th."

"The night you were there?" Daphne's eyes were very quick as they darted at her and returned to the paper. "My dear! You don't think—"

"I'm sure he was the man I saw in the house."

"My dear!" Daphne seemed almost excited.
"Bob! Come here! Alison seems to think that the man they've found dead in my house was the one she saw there."

"Nonsense! Are you sure?" Robert did not look pleased.

"He was probably some tramp who was camping out in the house," put in Daphne swiftly.

But Alison spoke to her father.
"Do you think I ought to go to the police?"

Robert was troubled now, rubbing his chin.

"I suppose you ought to," he admitted. "If you're absolutely certain."

"I can't be certain, of course," Alison admitted, "but it sounds like it—the description, I mean."

"I suppose you must go to the police," admitted her father glumly.
"Bob!"

It was Daphne who cut in quickly; she looked almost angry as she faced him. "Bob, you're mad!"

"What'd you mean?" He looked up, startled.

"You can't seriously suggest that the child should get herself mixed up in a case like this?"

"But she is mixed up in it!"
"I know. But you can't want her to attend the inquest and tell the whole world, all the papers, that she spent the night at Warley with a man!"

Alison gave a little gasp. Robert said crossly "Really, Daphne—"

But Mrs. Summers stood her ground.
"Don't you see that is just what people would think? We know her story's true but who in the world would believe it was, when the public had done with it?" She drew a deep breath, seceded. "I could almost be angry with you, Bob, for suggesting it!"

But for once Rede was obstinate.
"This is a murder case, Daphne.
You can't monkey with evidence in a murder. If Alison knows anything, she ought to say so."

"But we don't know she does!
They haven't found out everything yet," argued Mrs. Summers. "Why they aren't even certain what date the poor man was killed."

"THEY say the night of the 25th." Alison's voice was toneless.

"They say they want to see a man whose car was near the house that night," corrected Daphne sharply.

"They don't say it happened that night, it couldn't have. Why, the body was found in the cellar and the removers were in there next day taking out my furniture."

"Were they?" It was a cry of sheer relief that broke from Alison.
Daphne looked at her curiously.

"Yes."
"That's true," agreed Robert.

Daphne drove home her advantage.

"I think at least we might wait," she pleaded plaintively now. "If you won't consider the child, Bob, you might consider me! If there's an inquest and Alison was called we should have to wait here in England, it'd upset all our plans."

"I don't see why," Alison was almost cheerful again.

"Of course it would. My dear girl, we couldn't leave you here alone to face that!" Daphne sounded shocked. "No. If you insist on her going to the police, Bob, there's nothing for it. We must put off our wedding. But I do think it'd be more sensible to wait a little while, anyway, and see what happens. She can't tell them anything except that she saw this man in the house and someone else may come forward to identify him without letting Alison's name get mixed up in it at all!"

Robert bent and kissed her fondly.
"You know, you're always right," he said. "She's marvelous isn't she, Alison? Such a lot of sense tucked into that little head!"

Alison laughed and agreed. She would have laughed at anything, agreed with anyone at that moment.
She was so filled with relief. Whatever motive Guy had had for his lies, it was not that one! At least he had not been responsible for that grim, grey-faced man's death.

"Look here, we ought to be getting on," Robert put down his coffee cup, fussily consulting his watch, although it was barely a quarter to eight and the play did not start until eight-fifteen. "If there's one thing I hate more than another, it's coming in after the curtain's gone up. Run and get on your coat, Alison. Where have you left yours?"

"In the telephone room," Daphne went out first, graceful in the long, sweeping lines of her dress; Alison ran upstairs glad of the momentary escape from the two below.

Her short white cape and powder were ready; she was coming down again, had reached the last bend of the stairs, when a voice checked her and made her stand still.

"I must see her. Please take her my card."

"But Miss Rede's just going out to the theatre, sir."

official circles there is some resentment. I isn't softened by the fact that the Supreme Court's decisions paraphrased the recommendations of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States—and Herbert Hoover's condemnation of NRA. And so far the tenders of cooperation have not been accepted by the administration. Mr. Roosevelt first summoned the men who helped to frame the stricken experiments.
They may know best how to reframe them.

Harper Sibley, the Chamber's president, has not yet visited the White House, although he and Mr.
Roosevelt are old friends and college mates. Mr. Sibley has not asked for an appointment, and says he doesn't intend to until he has a good reason for it.

WOOPER: Jim Farley is keeping one eye on Al Smith these days. Mr.
Roosevelt's political generalissimo wonders if there is an ulterior motive behind the many and colorful appearances of the 1928 candidate on the public stage. He would like to know whether Zoo Keeper Smith exhibits any favoritism when he gazes upon the elephant and the donkey.

Few expect Al to seek either major nomination next year, as suggested in some quarters. But grapevine information reports that he is more bitter than ever against the man he once called "Old Potato." Many of his closest political friends have expressed a desire to defeat Mr. Roosevelt at any cost. If Al feels that way he might be able to do it.

What Farleyites dread is the possible entry of Mr. Smith as a third candidate on a slate of destruction.
The popular New Yorker might attract enough votes in many porculous states to throw them to the GOP nominee. Unless, as some predict, Mr. Roosevelt sets out soon to woo the Smith-Baker-Davis-Raskob-Ritchie faction.

CHEAPER: It was all very well for Secretary Mowbray to play around once with this sort of selling government bonds in the highest bidder. But news that he intends to follow the same system to raise future Treasury needs for extra cash was a pull in his back to financial circles.

Barkers complain that the method uncovers the band market and keeps them on a constant spot.
They claim that nobody can tell while bids are pending how much to pay for the on standard bids to which additions are being made. Also the competitive stuff keeps them on tenterhooks—not knowing how high they must go to qualify nor whether they are overbidding. The latter causes a bond dealer as much pain as it does a broker player.

Wise sources figure the rapid recent growth of corporate financing has an important bearing on Mr.
Morgenthau's new policy. The Treasury no longer monopolizes the market for investment funds. The natural result of corporate competition for money would be to raise interest rates. It certainly makes it harder for the government to reach its 2-1/2 per cent goal for long term bonds. The hope is that Mr. Mor-genthau expects to go cheaper interest by auctioning his securities than he could get in a normal offering where the Treasury fixes the terms.

AWE: Utility men—and to some extent bankers—have a different outlook on life since the Supreme Court wrung the Blue Eagle's neck.
The general attitude now is: "Let and Exchange Act null and void.

But they won't get much help from Exchange officials—who are still too much in awe of the Great White Father in Washington to care about challenging his displeasure openly.

VALUABLE: Stanley Baldwin and Anthony Eden had more than graceful gestures on their minds in recent speeches voicing their felt affection for Uncle Sam. The object was to cultivate an atmosphere of good will preparatory to another effort to give the international debt ghost decent burial. The British have never relished the implied stigma of default. They have too many debtors themselves. So they are planning to take the initiative in negotiations for a final settlement.

Watch for proposals along this line soon after Stanley Baldwin formally replaces Ramsay MacDonald as Premier and Eden takes over Sir John Simon's job as Foreign Minister. This will happen within a week or two. Eden is rated a sure bet for the Foreign Affairs post dispite objections from the Conservative Old Guard that a man of 40 is much too infantile for such responsibility.

Insiders predict our government will be receptive. We won't get much cash out of a settlement but we probably can get other valuable considerations—notably useful trade swaps and an understanding on currency and tariffs.

HEADACHES: The railroads haven't often felt like cheering the Interstate Commerce Commission, but they're in that mood at the moment. The Commission's ruling that two roads can pool their terminal facilities at Kansas City, and fire employees made superfluous by the merger was well news to hard-pressed managements. It's the first encouragement they've had for their earnest attempts to inaugurate cooperative economies.

Railway labor has had several hard kicks in the teeth lately. First was Supreme Court annulment of the Pension Act. Now comes this boot from the I. C. C. and just around the corner is the probable failure to renew the Railroad Coordinator Act—the only legal bulwark between the brotherhoods and the reduction of rail employment by thousands.

Brotherhood chiefs haven't talked much for publication—but they've been doing a powerful lot of thinking. Don't be surprised if they suddenly decide to get tough and hand the government another sweet problem in how to head off a general railroad strike. It's unlikely that such a strike would get beyond the threat stage—but even in embryo it would raise a bumper crop of Washington headaches.

WRONG: New York's ex-Republican State Chairman—Kingsland Macy—is trying for a comeback.
His plan is to stir up as many primary fights as possible in preparation for the State Assembly election this fall. Despite his smashing defeat last year he still figures he can carry enough liberal sentiment to make himself a factor to be reckoned with.

Political insiders say he's barking for the dearest show that ever pitched a tent. The present state organization has a firm grip on the situation and has no intention of making further concessions to liberalism. The list of his supporters which Macy made public was a complete surprise to many of those whose names appeared on it—and they aren't hesitating to tell him he's been counting the wrong chickens.

EFFECT OF DEPRESSION ON FAMILY DISCUSSED BY GROVES

Chapel Hill, June 4.—The current issue of The American Journal of Sociology contains an article "Adaptations of Family Life" by Dr. Ernest R. Groves, of the Sociology Department of the University.

Dr. Groves, who is well known for his research and writings on family life, writes of the effects of the depression on individual families.

We find trends toward family demoralization and toward a record of family unity and loyalty," he says. "Increased tension, desperation, drinking, vice, and mental abnormality reveal the first; and sacrifice, more use of the home, and a wiser philosophy of living express the second trend."

In discussing the role with work-relief, Dr. Groves says that the latter has been beneficial in contrast with the role.

was so violently anti-Rad, anti-Communist that he left his audience to feel that he was quite satisfied with the country as Mr. Hoover left it. Mr. Fish declared that Mr. Hoover did bring prosperity, but there was such a magnitude of supply of it that the country went on a wild spending spree. Mr. Hoover could not foresee that, nor could he banish the national delusion of riches.

The present leadership of the Republican party thinks well of Mr. Fish. National Committeeman Charles A. Jonas, served in Congress with him, and Candidate Calvin Zimmerman, who seeks to succeed Mr. Jonas, is not averse to the Fish politics. Former Collector William Grissom, best party publicist in the organization, sticks to the New Yorker who utters a doctrine entirely satisfactory to Mr. Grissom who may run for governor as Mr. Fish tries for the presidency.

Chairman William C. Meekins of the Republican state organization, is friendly to Mr. Fish. And more than once it has been declared that Federal Judge Isaac M. Meekins, father of the chairman, is the likeliest sort of a prospect for the vice presidency on the G. O. P. ticket.

He accounted for the large growth with the statement that "New Deal" fertilizer had been used in growing his crop.

In The Tepee

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

"SWEET FACE, Sweet Face," called Willy Nilly.

"Sweet Face, caw, caw, caw, where are you?" cawed Christopher Columbus Crow.

"Sweet Face, quack, quack, quack, where are you?" quacked the ducks.

"Sweet Face, growl, growl," growled the bears, "where are you?"

But not an answer could be heard.

"Could he have followed the Indians?" asked Willy Nilly. "I'm sure if he has they will send him right back to us, but I am afraid that he may have fallen and hurt himself. Surely we would have noticed if he had gone after the Indians. We watched them until they were out of sight."

"I'll fly around and have a look," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow. In no time at all he was back again.

"Sweet Face is all right," he cawed. "Come along and see him."

The other Puddle Muddlers followed Christopher until they reached the tepee the Indians had left behind.

Just inside was Sweet Face bleating to himself:

"Big Chief Sweet Face, the lamb, likes green meadow, likes Puddle Muddler, likes Willy Nilly and Puddle Muddlers."

"Big Chief Sweet Face glad he has fine tepee in which to live on which shines Great Sun."

"Sweet Face," said Willy Nilly, "we thought you might have fallen and hurt yourself."

"No, baa, baa," bleated Sweet Face. "Big Chief does not fall. But Big Chief Lamb has no one to follow so copies big fine Indian brave. Baa, baa, baa."

"WELL," said Willy Nilly, "we have certainly been having a wonderful time with Indians as our guests."

"And a tepee left behind in which to play," said Sweet Face, the lamb. "I am going to put some green grass in there and pretend that it is my own private meadow."

"It's not yours any more than it's ours," cackled Top Notch.

"The Indians left the tepee and their gifts for all of us," agreed Willy Nilly. "But after having had such a marvelous time let's not argue."

"I barkingly agree with that," said Rip. "As for me, I think I'll take a long cross-country run and walk. I haven't been on one for ages and ages."

"We must attend to matters down at the pond," said Mr. Quacko Duck.

"And I must call on Mrs. Quacker," quacked Mrs. Quacko.

"We're hungry," said the cubs Jupiter and Hickey.

"Mother and Daddy will go with you in search of food," growled Jelly and Honey Bear.

"I want to fix up my general store and put some of the things I got in trades from the Indians along my front counter," said Top Notch.

"As soon as I tidy the place a bit I must fix my automobile Two-Ways and then attend to my ears," said Willy Nilly.

"Well, it's my idea that we all get started on what we're to do right away," said Rip. "I'm off for my walk at once. Good-bye, bow-wow."

"Have a good walk, and come back hungry for supper," said Willy Nilly, and Rip wagged his tail in agreement and said that he would.

Former Governor Of Virginia Will Attend Meeting Here

The Shenandoah Life Insurance Company of Roanoke, Virginia, will be host to J. W. Mann, branch manager, and members of his agency scattered throughout Eastern North Carolina, on Wednesday evening at seven o'clock at the Woman's Club, at which time a banquet will be served to the hundred or more agents throughout Eastern North Carolina and their wives. This will be followed by a dance at the club.

The occasion is the result of the Eastern North Carolina agency, of which J. W. Mann of this city, is branch manager, recently won out in the Charles Ward campaign in which agencies throughout the state competed.

Ex-Governor Lee Trinkle of Virginia, who is now president of the Shenandoah Life Insurance Company of Roanoke, Va., will be the toastmaster of the occasion. In addition to the ex-governor being present there will also be Vice-president Charles Ward, and Agency Manager Worley Haar, also of Roanoke.

Negress Held For Stealing $400 Here

Olive Gorham, local negress, is being held in county jail here after admitting the theft of approximately $400 Judge L. G. Cooper by whom she has been employed for around two years. The money was taken in a series of thefts from the Cooper home but the majority of the money was taken in one haul about two weeks ago.

The woman was a servant in the Cooper household and the series of raids upon Mr. Cooper's pockets were staged early in the mornings while she was about her duties of caring for the children in the house hold before Mr. Cooper arose. Mr. Cooper has missed some money from his pockets on several occasions but did not suspect the servant until around $300 was taken from his clothing at one time. This robbery was staged on the morning after Judge Cooper had returned from Baltimore late the night before and had retired, leaving the large amount of money in his pocket.

Immediately following this robbery, the negress left for Durham for some hospital treatment, and following her departure Judge Cooper began to make inquiries here as to her habits. He learned that she had been spending money freely and had been lavishing gifts upon many of her friends. Last Sunday Judge Cooper visited the negress in Durham and confronted her with what he had learned and she admitted the series of thefts totaling around $400.

Sheriff's officers went to Durham Monday morning and brought the woman back to this city and placed her in jail to await trial in Superior court.

LEA PARDON PLEA CAUSES SPECULATION

Observers Wonder If Tennessee Politicians Will Fight His Release

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, June 4.—Matching in importance the real news in the Luke Lea application for pardon has been the publicity campaign which attached as signatories to the petition individuals of national and international character.

Some of the biggest state papers declined to carry anything on the application, objecting to the publicity. There never was any dispute about that. Friends of Col. Lea, who is serving a six to ten year sentence in the state prison, projected their whole enterprise on "newly found evidence" which they publicized, they explain, because it was news. They are relying on it to acquit him. If they fail there they are not asking mercy of the Governor.

But politically the case interests North Carolina as well as Tennessee. One of the dispatches from Nashville indicates that Col. Lea is desired in Tennessee because he is the opinion of the Colonel that he is in North Carolina now somewhat on account of former political attachments and unattachments.

The questions that arise is natural. Will Tennessee enemies of Prisoner Lea welcome his homecoming and return to the politics of the state? If they will not, will they come here and fight the petition for pardon? Thus far the parole commissioner has received no counter petition, but there is a week or more between now and filing time. The hearing probably will be set for June 12.

Some of the signers of the Lea petition are members of the Tennessee court. Two present Supreme Court Justices and one former justice have asked for the pardon and there are several other members of the court of appeals who are with him. It is said that not all of them are Lea partisans who are moved primarily by politics. Since Lea flourished in Tennessee politics there have been some big changes in Tennessee alliances.

It is the habit in North Carolina to think that when a prominent man in middle or late life lands in state prison any political or business come-back is out of the question, but the Tennesseans say this isn't true of their man. They prophesy that he will go immediately back into his state and take a commanding part in its business and professional life. It is their way of saying the Colonel has never entirely lost out and that he is recovering his losses among his enemies. There are several very eminent haters of the Colonel who are agreeable to his pardon.

There is a great deal of speculation as to what Governor Ehringhaus will do. First of all will be necessary his wading through the voluminous record. Commissioner Gill will do most of the wading. Clemency cases have been known to cripple other statesmen. Most of the mid-term violence toward Aycock grew out of his tenderness, old timers say. The worst punishment that Bickett took grew out of his mercifulness toward punishment.

The most noted case was Baxter Shemwell. The Davidson county man with a violent record used his gun to force a conductor to stop the Southern's highball. Shemwell did not shoot. He was tried and convicted. He went to prison. Governor Kitchin was urged to pardon him in the name of an impaired body. Kitchin yielded. His friends that day gave up his senatorial ambitions. They said he would never live it down. He was defeated.

But Governor Ehringhaus does not have a senatorial ambition, apparently.

SEN. JOSIAH W. BAILEY MRS. THOMAS W. O'BRIEN

Chapel Hill, N. C., June 4.—One of the principal sessions at the Institute of Government's meeting in Chapel Hill next Monday and Tuesday will be devoted to the interpretation of new Federal Legislation and the outlining for local officials of the methods for allocating and administering North Carolina's share of the new $4,800,000 Federal Public Works and Work Relief program.

City and county officials from every section of the State are expected to attend the 1935 sessions of The Institute, which will open with a buffet supper Monday evening and continue through Tuesday afternoon.

The session on Federal legislation will come Monday night, while the sessions Tuesday morning and afternoon will be devoted to the analysis and discussion by State legislators and officials of new State Legislation.

Nor h Carolina's Senior Senator, Josiah W. Bailey, and the Dean of the Tar Heel delegation in the House, Robert L. Doughton, head the Congressmen who will address the gathering of officials Monday night. Mrs. O'Brien and Dean Bailey, who will appear on the same program, head up the E. R. A. and P. W. A. programs, respectively in this State.

Plans submitted by North Carolina Highway and Public Works Commission for a bridge to be constructed across Blount's Creek near Washington, to replace the existing bridge.

Strength was exhibited by rails, oil, chemicals, tobacco and scattered specialties. Cotton pushed ahead briskly but grains after an early advance, were subjected to some profit taking. Sugar, rubber and other commodities improved. Secondary bonds followed stocks. Foreign exchanges were narrow after the French Chamber of Deputies voted confidence in the "Save the Franc" Bouissou government.

The late stock tone was firm. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

sacrifice to make a compromise possible at this session."

Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, who presided, announced that "we decided to refer the question of the Patman bill back to the people and start a campaign for adoption of the bill at the next session."

The conference turned down almost unanimously any suggestion to compromise the issue at this session. One of the compromises proposed worked out by Senator Thomas would provide cash payment of about 90 per cent of the face value of the certificates. Thomas was reported, however, to have voted with the majority deciding not to compromise in the face of a poll of the Senate showing that nothing could be passed over a vote except the Harrison bill, or something like it.

Read these reports from star athletes approving Camels

When athletes agree upon one cigarette, its mildness is placed beyond question. For they must be sure about mildness! Pete Desjardins says: "Camels are so mild that I can smoke as many as I like and still keep my wind in perfect condition."

Pepper Martin, fleet-footed St. Louis Cardinal, says: "Camels are mild—don't cut down on my speed or wind."

And Pepper is backed by Leo Sexton, Olympic shot-put record holder; Craig

Wood, the golf star; Reggie McNamara, the "bike" racer; and Susan Vilas, of swimming fame—all outstanding athletes who say they smoke Camels all they please, without disturbing their wind or nerves.

More enjoyment for you in this mild cigarette! You'll find you can smoke Camels all you want! And athletes say that Camel's costlier tobaccos don't tire their taste—don't upset their nerves or get their "wind."

SO MILD! YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!

Camels

PEPPER DESJARDINS, winner of many U. S. and Olympic diving titles, says: "I prefer Camels—they never get my wind or jangle my nerves."

YOU'LL LIKE THEIR MILDNESS TOO!

IT'S JUST AS IMPORTANT TO YOU to keep "in condition" as it is to any champion. Smoke Camels all you wish. Athletes say Camels never upset the nerves, never get the wind.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

• Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.
