

House Threatens To Kick Over Traces In Wealth Tax Program

SENATE TAKES QUICK STEPS TO PUSH WORK

House Situation So Serious That Byrnes Calls Conference to Urge Extension of Nuisance Taxes; Government Will Lose $1,500,000 a Day If Action Is Not Taken Immediately

Washington, June 25.—(AP)—House ways and means committee Democrats threatened today to kick over the traces in the wealth distribution tax program agreed to last night by President Roosevelt and congressional leaders.

With representatives vigorously protesting against haste Chairman Harrison called his Senate finance committee to meet late today to map a course of procedure in accordance with the President's decision to seek action at this session.

The House situation was such that Speaker Byrnes was called in to talk with the committee Democrats in a secret session this afternoon urging on them the idea of extending nuisance taxes from 30 to 90 days so the Senate could go ahead and grant the new wealth distribution tax schedules.

Unless the nuisance taxes are extended before June 30 the government will lose more than $1,500,000 a day in revenue.

Several members of the House committee expressed in forceful language their objections to any move to let the Senate write the new tax measure.

Two alleged colored bootleggers were taken into custody by police over the week-end and were scheduled to face trial in county court today after being bound over under $100 bond each in the regular session of police court here yesterday.

They are James Jones and Ernest Branch.

Branch was captured at his home, police said, while selling whiskey to one of his customers. Although he poured out most of his liquor before police arrived, officers said they were holding the purchaser as evidence. Jones was bound over to county court under bond of $100. He was unable to provide bail and was remanded to jail to await trial.

Branch was nabbed at his home in the western section of the city while selling liquor to three customers. Chief of Police George Clark said. The purchasers are being held as witnesses. Branch posted $100 bond for his appearance in county court today.

The two men were rounded up in a series of raids staged by police during the week-end. They are charged with possession of contraband whiskey for the purpose of sale.

NEGRO NAMES PLACED IN MARTIN JURY BOX

Williamston, June 25.—Revising the Martin county jury list recently the county commissioners for the first time in more than a generation placed the names of negro citizens in the jury box, making the members of that race subject to duty on the petit and grand juries in the Superior Court of this county.

The commissioners limited their selection to men. The jury box is being selected with greatest care. The commissioners holding the number of names to the lowest point in several years.

FORN TAX RATE KEPT AT 50 CENTS

Winston Salem, June 25.—(AP)—Fornish County's tax rate was set at 50 cents yesterday, the same as last year. It is based on a property valuation of $152,000,000.

Drys Cheered By Court Decision On Liquor Act

Raleigh, June 25.—(AP)—A ruling that the state local option liquor acts were unconstitutional today cheered North Carolina dry forces but authorities of Wilson and Edgecombe counties which voted overwhelmingly for legalization were faced with preparations to open liquor stores in the next few days.

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle at Whiteville yesterday held that both the New Hanover act for an election in that county and the Pasquotank measure permitting an election in 17 other counties to vote off the question, were unconstitutional.

The latter act was involved in proceedings brought to prevent an election in Greene county.

At the same time he refused to continue in effect restraining orders obtained by dries by which the counties would be ordered to refrain from holding elections.

Further litigation was indicated with an opinion by Judge Frizzelle that both cases would probably be tried on their merits in Superior court and would eventually go to the State Supreme court.

New Hanover officials said they would not act until after the election in that county which is set for next Tuesday. If the voting is favorable to legalization they said they would seek a reversal of Judge Frizzelle's opinion, otherwise they would act.

The association's convention will be held at White Sulphur Springs July 1-3.

EDEN PRESSES FOR A VOW OF ITALIAN PLANS

British Envoy Seeks Intentions of Government in Move To Aid Ethiopia

Rome, June 25.—(AP)—Captain Anthony Eden crossing the strong-willed Premier Mussolini pressed today for an avowal of Italy's intentions toward Ethiopia.

Great Britain's special envoy and Geoffrey Thompson, British expert on African affairs, conferred with Fulvio Suvich, Italian under secretary of foreign affairs, before going to an interview with Il Duce himself.

British officials said the preliminary conference was called to determine to what extent Captain Eden might question him on the East African policy.

Il Duce was impatient with the idea of stating Italy's already well defined viewpoint on the East African controversy, but it was agreed some main point of that policy might be brought sharply to the foreground.

Italy will not consider any new settlement of her differences with Ethiopia such as territorial concessions.

Italy will be satisfied with nothing less than a protectorate over Ethiopia, backed by Italy's strong military organization and Ethiopia's expulsion from the league, on the ground she has violated the principles of membership.

Captain Eden's purpose in bringing the Ethiopian question in o his Rome conversations was described by British circles as an attempt to persuade Italy to honor the league's efforts to settle the border dispute.

STATE COUNTS 12 NEW CASES OF PARALYSIS

First Case Since May 1 Reported in Gaston During Last 24 Hours

Raleigh, June 25.—(AP)—Gaston county reported its first case of infantile paralysis since May 1 as the State Board of Health was notified of 12 additional cases, making 217 this year and 158 in June.

As the list of sufferers from "polio myelitis" continued to mount far above all previous records, Dr. Carl Reynolds, state health officer, sounded a warning that care should also be taken to prevent typhoid fever as 60 cases have been reported this month.

"We are supposed to have an immunity against typhoid, but there have been 123 cases this year, 60 thus far in June," the health officer said.

"Attention is being centered on trying to check 'polio' but we should also strive to prevent typhoid."

Addition of Gaston to the list of counties reporting infantile paralysis since it flared up seven weeks ago, makes a total of 46, but the center continued in the east central section of the state where the disease is regarded as epidemic in Wake and Johnston counties.

The other 11 cases reported today were from three counties, Granville listing six, Wake three and Franklin two.

The Grifton Masonic Lodge conducted the service at the grave.

He is survived by a half-brother, Walter Barrington of New Bern; a sister-in-law, Mrs. N. Williams of Norfolk; a nephew, Zebulon Vance Barrington; two nieces, Virginia and Elizabeth Barrington, all of Norfolk.

Mr. Barrington was a faithful member of St. John's Church and for a number of years had served on the vestry. He was also a prominent member of the Masonic Lodge.

DROWNED MAN'S BODY RECOVERED FROM SURF

Wilmington, June 25.—The body of D. Gordon Turner, 19, of Teachey, who drowned while in swimming at Carolina Beach late Sunday afternoon, was found on the beach this morning around 6:30 o'clock at a place approximately six miles north of the spot where he disappeared in the surf.

The body was found by a group that had patrolled the beach all night; J. L. Peck, a life guard; the youth's brother, H. F. Turner and Joe Davis.

Turner drowned when he apparently stepped into a hole as he and Miss Eloise Boone, of Wallace, were in bathing some distance north of the bathing zone. Lifeguards responded when Miss Boone screamed but Turner had disappeared.

Late News Flashes

COURT RESTRAINS COLLECTION OF PROCESSING TAXES

Birmingham, June 25.—(AP)—A temporary injunction against restraining the collector of internal revenue from collecting processing taxes under the Agricultural Adjustment Act today was granted the Alabama Packing Company in the United States District court.

The order was issued by federal Judge W. I. Grubb, who set the petition for final hearing on July 20.

The Alabama Packing Company ten days ago filed an application for an injunction to restrict collection of processing taxes based on alleged constitutionality of the AAA.

Today In Congress.

Washington, June 25.—(AP)—Administration plans to seek enactment this week of a tax program to raise $340,000,000 more a year through inheritance and gift taxes—higher taxes on big income and a graduated corporation tax, were disclosed today by Chairman Harrison of the Senate finance committee.

Meanwhile House ways and means committee Democrats rejected for the time being a proposal by Speaker Byrnes to extend nuisance taxes 30 to 100 days so the Senate would have time to pass the President's wealth distribution program.

Instead the Democrats decided to do nothing for a couple of days until the situation in the Senate had reached a more concrete shape.

Byrnes talked with the committee for more than an hour, urging on them the necessity of extending the nuisance taxes which expire June 30 in order to keep the treasury from losing $1,500,000 a day or more in revenue.

But the committee declined for the present at least to follow his suggestion, although it was agreed at the White House last night.

The new inheritance tax Harrison said, would be on net inheritances of about $300,000 under the tentative program. Similar rates on

COUNTY VOTE ON AAA MOVES SLOWLY TODAY

Missing Five Precincts Not Expected to Be Received Until Latter Part Week

With four or five of the precincts still missing, indication today were that a complete check of the referendum taken on the federal crop control movement here Saturday, would not be completed until the latter part of the week.

Eight townships had been heard from at the farm office here yesterday, showing a total of 5,812 votes in favor of the federal government's program with only one ballot being cast against it.

E. F. Arnold, director of the farm office, said he expected the remainder of the five precincts would vote as overwhelmingly in favor of the plan as those already reported. A total of 8,000 votes is expected when all reports are in, Mr. Arnold said.

Greenville and Chocoma townships, the largest in the county and which always record the largest ballot in every election, forged to the front in the crop control voting, Greenville registering 1,370 and Chocoma bringing up a close second place with 1,205.

The negative vote was recorded in Beaver Dam township where the total vote in favor of the plan was 354. Although full reports from the other five precincts will not be available until later, Mr. Arnold said he had learned that another vote was cast against the plan in one of the five missing townships.

Farmers have until Saturday to finish their balloting by reason of the fact that ballots gave out Saturday and voting could not be completed in some sections. The balloting will be closed at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. Persons wishing to register their sentiment on the question during the in evening time have been asked to get in touch with their local committeemen or apply at the farm office here.

Mr. Arnold was highly pleased with the reports from the eight townships in view of the fact he had predicted previously the county would go overwhelmingly for continuing the control program another year.

ETHIOPIANS REJECT NEW ITALIAN NOTE

Charges of Creation Of Another Province Declared "Non Pertinent"

Addis Ababa, June 25.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government in a note to Italy rejected today as "non pertinent" Italian charges that they were making the sultanate of Jimma another province of the empire.

The note was dispatched in reply to Ethiopian representations made June 23 in which the Italian government "took cognizance" of steps the Ethiopian government was taking to make Jimma another province under its direct administration.

Italy insisted she had rights in Jimma as consequence of treaties concluded with Sultan Abba Jaffar and expressed "formal reserves" concerning the new situation.

The Ethiopian empire replied that Jimma had always been an integral part of the empire administration under authority of the central government like other provinces.

Final rites for William Allen, 35, of Greenville and Durham, who was drowned while bathing in the ocean at Morehead City Sunday, were conducted from his late home here this morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. Warren Davis, of Washington, pastor of the Mount Pleasant Christian church. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Allen was in swimming down the shore a short distance from Atlantic Beach when he became distressed and drowned before aid could reach him. A spectator saw his plight and rushed in the surf and brought the body ashore. Jimmie White, who was with Allen, was in distress at the same time, but managed to struggle to safety.

Efforts were made by the coast-guard to resuscitate Allen but in vain. The tragedy occurred a short distance down the beach where no life guards are on duty.

Allen, who is employed by a Durham construction company, was spending the week-end at the beach with a number of friends.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Allen, of Greenville, and is survived by a number of brothers and sisters. He is a native of Pitt county, having been reared in the Farmville community. The family has been living in Greenville about 15 years.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington

By RAY TUCKER

LURKS: The private utilities' lobby against President Roosevelt's power program may prove a boom-boost. It may lead to passage of a measure which had been hopelessly lost—the Black anti-lobby bill.

Mr. Roosevelt has displayed little interest in this demand for registration of lobbyists and revelation of their expenditures. He has feared that any effort to enact it would block more important measures on his list.

But he has been angered by the drive which the power people have directed against TVA and holding company bills and may yet mark it "must."

Senate veterans say the power companies have spent more money than any lobby since 1900. In their opinion, the manufacturers, the railroads, the bankers and shipping interests have been pikers in comparison. Either the Black bill or a special investigation lurks around the corner if the utilities win out in their present struggle.

"CONTACTS": The lobbying is not all on one side, however. No administration has copied the tactics of lobby agents more faithfully than Mr. Roosevelt's.

Lobbyists often write bills for Congressmen to introduce. But every major bill on the Roosevelt program has been framed by an administration penman. Tommie Corcoran and Bennie Cohen wrote the banking, holding company and social security bills. Jim Landis drew up the two securities measures. White House aides have sat on the floor during debates—a privilege which private lobbyists do not enjoy.

Every executive department has a "contact man" on Capitol Hill. They buttonhole members on behalf of

MERCHANTS TO SEEK 'CUT' OF THE SALES TAX

Constitutionality of Measure Will Not be Tested, But Reduction Sought

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, June 25.—The North Carolina Merchants Association is not going to fight the sales tax in the courts, nor is it going to put an anti-sales tax ticket for Governor and Lieutenant Governor in the field next spring. It was apparent following the meeting of the directors of the state association here yesterday with Willard L. Dowell, executive secretary of the association.

This does not mean that all the merchants have become reconciled to the sales tax as ever and there were plenty of the directors of the state association here yesterday who were still opposed to it. But they realized that the tax is on the statute books for another two years, that no other body than the general assembly can change it and that there is virtually no possibility of a special session of the general assembly. They also realized that if they contested the tax in the courts it would take about two years to get a final decision—and that it would probably be against them and in favor of the state. It was also pointed out that they would be placed in a position of obstructing the state government and be likely to lose much public sympathy for their cause. As a result, it was decided best for all concerned to sit tight for the time being and not try to contest the tax in court.

There were some members of the board of directors, just as there are hundreds and probably thousands of merchants who would like to see an out and out anti-sales tax ticket for governor and lieutenant governor in the Democratic gubernatorial campaign next spring and who would support such a ticket. But the wiser and more experienced heads both among the merchants and in other circles, are inclined to agree that it would be very difficult to nominate and elect an anti-sales tax ticket over such strong candidates already in the race as Clyde R. Hoey, Lieutenant Gov. A. H. (Sandy) Graham and the others. They are much more inclined to wait and see if one of the four candidates already in the race for governor will not take some stand for a reduction in the sales tax rate and for its gradual replacement with other taxes and then support this candidate, rather than try to put an anti-sales tax ticket in the field. Reports are current to the effect that one of the present candidates for governor may issue a statement very soon outlining a plan for removing the sales tax from basic food articles and probably for reducing the rate.

The reason for the action taken by the directors of the State Merchants Association goes back to this recent general assembly when faced either with a continuation of the sales tax or the many new taxes proposed in the so-called McDonald Lumpkin plan, a large number of the larger merchants, including the Belk and Efrid chains of stores, decided they would much rather keep the sales tax.

NEGRO HELD FOR SHOOTING

Wilbur Dixon Arrested For Shooting James King and Noon Price Sunday

Wilbur Dixon, colored, went on a rampage on New Higgs street in the western part of the city over the week-end and shot James King and Noon Price, also colored. It was revealed today by police.

King carried a bullet wound in the lower part of his body and Price received a superficial wound in the side. Both are expected to recover, although hearing for Dixon is being held up pending the condition of King.

Police said the three men were drinking at the home of Beverly Daniels when they had some words. Dixon brought his pistol into play and fired two bullets into Price and King before they were able to get out of range.

Police were unable to determine what the argument was about, but described it as a result of taking on too much liquor by the three.

pet bills and report daily to Cabinet members. Some Cabinet members, like Secretary Ickes, lobby in person, summoning Senators to the anteroom. Messrs. Farley and Hurja apply the finishing touches when a bill stands in jeopardy. What's the difference?

BENEFITS: The much-maligned
AAA looms up as President Roosevelt's political mainstay for 1936.
Most people missed it, but the House vote on the licensing amendments commanded the support of a majority of the Republicans from the ten states which participated in the "grass roots" conference. The delegation from Kansas, where the idea for Republican revival originated, let the AAA parade.

AAA dopesters talk politics as well as farming in confidential moments. They point out that 3-000,000 farmers have signed benefit agreements. About half of these live in the tobacco and cotton-growing states, which should vote
for Mr. Roosevelt out of sentiment.
But the other half live in the normally Republican wheat-and-corn belt. Will they bite the hand that's feeding them?

HEALTHY: Washington correspondents have shown a more critical spirit at recent press conferences with high officials than they have since the inauguration of the New Deal. It apparently reflects a more critical attitude throughout the country.

Even the President is no longer
immune from sharp questioning.
There are more penetrating queries and less exchange of jokes than there used to be. Mr. Roosevelt can no longer dismiss a question with repartee. The newspapermen press him, refusing to be stayed. One correspondent, in a show of interpersonal, recently addressed the President as "Mr. Secretary." He was so intent on getting information that he forgot titles.

The long honeymoon is definitely ended. Newspapermen like Mr.
Roosevelt's personality and for a long time they succumbed to it. But now they want to know the answers to those old, old questions—how and how-often. It's a healthy sign.

CONTROL: Many people hold the theory that President Roosevelt is driving through questionable laws in full expectation that they will be upset by the Supreme Court, and that the result will be an uprising which will force amendment of the Constitution.

If Roosevelt were safely in until 1940 this theory would be more plausible. The flaw in it is that the full force of adverse court decisions
may strike him while he is running for reelection. Then he would face the cry that his whole New Deal is a failure after incurring debts running into billions.

A more accurate hypothesis is that President Roosevelt sincerely believes his laws are valid—that he has full confidence in his legal advisers—that he believes the country wants the reforms he advocates and is determined to have them—and that the campaign of 1936 will vindicate his judgment even if the court should kill off some of his laws. Then if elected, he could go forward with a move to amend the Constitution to give the government broader control of economic and social affairs.

INEXPEDIENT: Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the war-drift dodger—
has again made quiet over-sights looking toward a return home. His mother, who lives in Philadelphia, has engaged lawyers to discuss the matter with government officials.
Although he has plenty of money,
Bergdoll is unhappy in his German exile. Like "the man without a country," he wants to come back.
According to his legal representatives he is willing to serve part-perhaps a year—of the five-year sentence which an army court-martial doled out to him. He wants to look the flag and his friends in the face again.

Although negotiations are still in a tentative stage, the earlier bitter-

but she is unable to do so. She

Chapter Six

MAD SITUATION

"As it happens, I have Mrs.
Mark Moore's address here," said Laurie Moore. "Mrs. Moore worked for me personally for a few weeks
while my private secretary was ill.
She does not have a telephone, however."

A slightly elaborate explanation, and not quite true. Albery had asked Laurie for her address because he wanted to know where she lived.

He found it in his address book
and gave it to the young man.
"Do you think perhaps you ought to warn Mrs. Moore? Shall I do it for you? It will be such a shock."

"You just said joy doesn't kill," retorted Moore, with that sudden smile in his eyes, touched with mockery. "Thanks very much, I'll just get right along."

Albery felt a sudden dislike for the airman. There was something incomprehensible about him. His manner was so off-hand, almost inhuman. He was certainly changed, not only in looks, perhaps his adventure had really turned his brain
a little.

"I have a great admiration for Mrs. Moore," he said, a trifle stiffly.
"She has shown the greatest pluck,
and she is a splendid worker. You are a very lucky man, Moore."

"Sure, I know I must be," was the airman's reply, as they shook hands.
On Albery's part, not quite so warmly, this time.

Laurie Moore sat in her little living-room in the roof, with its slanting attic ceiling on either side of the quiet corner window, from which she looked over a dusty wilderness
behind high fences, where the old houses on the other side of the street
had been pulled down, and rebuilding had not yet begun.

Laurie's house was condemned,
too, with its eight neighbors. Here was the end one, and there was a solitary plane tree in front of it, at the moment delicately tasselled and bursting into green.

Laurie was making an evening frock for Glad. She had cooked and eaten her supper and washed up and put everything away.

It was a bright little room, Laurie
wanted everything that Glad wanted. And Glad adored color. So there was orange and soft blue in the curtains and covers, and there were flowery cushions, and on the dark-stained floor gay mats, and the furniture was painted white and primrose. As the old landlady said, it looked more like a garden than a room.

Laurie's bell rang. That meant there was a visitor downstairs at the front door. Each tenant had a bell, and attended to it. The landlady was not only old but rheumatic.

Who could it be? She had not many friends. Several of the girls in the office she liked very much but nearly all of them lived in the suburbs, and they only met when they made appointments. She knew three or four young men fairly well. But with none of them was she on such terms that they would drop in casually just before ten o'clock at night.

She put down the gleaming sky-
blue material that she was stitching with her busy, loving fingers, and went downstairs. She had a little landing all to herself, but no door enclosing the flat. She switched on a light on the first landing, as she ran down.

When she opened the front door,
a tall man stood outside.
"I want to see Mrs. Moore," he said.
"I am Mrs. Moore," Laurie answered, surprised.

He was in the shadow; her face was lit by the lamp in the narrow hall.

He gave a sharp exclamation.
Then stared at her for a speechless moment. Then looked in a baffled way.

"You are Mrs. Moore? You?"
He laughed, and Laurie recognized him, and gave a little cry. It was the man in the train who had been so rude to her.

"Oh, it's you! I didn't see you at the party."

new toward Bergdoll has disappeared in some high circles. But it may not be politically expedient to accept his offer at this time.

New York—
By JAMES MCMILLIN

HOPE: President Roosevelt's New York opponents aren't as confident of defeating him in 1936 as they were a few weeks ago. They are gratified to note increasing signs of defeatism in his own party—but they also observe that certain factors operating in his favor are likely to be even more potent by next year.

One is the credit which will natu-

and reemployment which most experts agree will be plainly in evidence this fall and will probably continue through '36. Another is the obvious inability of the New Deal opposition to get together. Not only is it split into right and left wing camps, but each of these in turn is

"You were extremely rude to me."

had done before. "I don't want to talk to you. I don't know who you are. I don't know what friend of mine you could have met. You were extremely rude to me in the train."

"I've something important to say to you. Let me come in! I won't keep you long."

His tone was so commanding that she gave way against her will. She led him upstairs and turned on more lights in her room.

She did not ask him to sit down.
She looked at him coldly.

"Would you please explain why
you are here?"

"Out of curiosity," he replied, with that smile in his eyes that both fascinated and repelled her. "I am in a peculiar position—unique, I imagine.
You will admit I have reason for my curiosity, not to say interest. I have just learned that you are my widow.
I mean—you have been my widow.
Now, it is interesting to a man to learn he has a widow—when he has never had a wife."

Laurie stood there, dumb, her eyes wide, her mouth open, but not a sound could she make. Then her knees gave way and she fell into a chair.

"You see, I happen to be Rex Moore," he explained. His voice was harsh; his angry lips curved with contempt. "I have just been with Mark Albery, and he told me that you, my widow, were working in his office, and had been for two years."

subdivided into factions which will have trouble harmonizing in a common cause. Some critics contend that Mr. Roosevelt represents only a minority of public opinion—but at least it looks like the biggest minority. A third element is the difficulty of finding brass-tack issues, the "democratic generalities" of the Grass Root convention and finally there's that doggone work-relief
funds.

There's plenty of cheerful talking for publication of the splendid prospects for a Republican conquest. But many top-rank conservatives privately believe their best real hope lies rather in beating FDR for renomination—which sounds
hard but might turn out simpler than beating him at the head of the Democratic ticket—or in capturing the Democratic party machinery to such an extent as to force him to swing to the right whether he wants to or not.

CONVINCING: Financial insiders say that one reason the government has hesitated to force financial reorganizations of sick railroads is because there is surprisingly strong sentiment against it in administration circles. Opponents of readjustment privately contend that many roads would show large profits on reorganized capital structures with only a slight increase in traffic—
thus making them an inviting target for fresh political attacks and leaving the whole rail problem up in the air. They argue that the government and the railroads will both be better off if the latter are left to work out their own salvation.

Advocates of forced reorganization argue that cuts in both freight and passenger rates are necessary to promote recovery—both rail and general—and that these are impossible without corresponding slashes in capital obligations. It's understood that the final decision on government intervention to compel readjustment will rest with FDR—and that he hasn't yet made up his mind.

Senator Wheeler may battle his head off for government ownership of railroads but he won't get anywhere with it. If the issue should become critical the attention of White House and Congress will be pointedly invited to the French railway deficit of a billion dollars,
and the Canadian Railway deficit of ninety million. These object lessons are expected to prove convincing. Comparable results for the far greater mileage in the United States—coupled with the loss of railway tax revenues—would blastimate the daylight out of both local and national treasuries.

SPLIT: The row between President Cardenas and ex-President Calles of Mexico runs remarkably parallel to the ruckus between Teddy Roosevelt and Taft.

Cardenas was a protégé of Calles and owes his job as President to the latter—just as Taft owed his to Teddy. Like TR, Calles tried to run things after his own office. Like Taft, Cardenas got tired of playing second fiddle to his predecessor and may be capable of trouble. But Cardenas has the army behind him—
which gives him a big edge.

Differences on two fundamental issues caused the Mexican split.
Calles was very anti-Catholic but rather friendly to a certain, socially foreign capital. Cardenas is violently pro-labor and anti-foreign capital. Particularly foreign who inclined to make peace with the church.
Informed sources expect a truce between Church and State now that Cardenas has full control. They also predict a sharp left turn in the government's attitude toward business.
American companies with large Mexican investments are plenty worried.

RECORD: Utility statisticians have worked out figures to show that the industry isn't such a foul ball as the New Deal claims.

The figures indicate that sales to domestic consumers reached a new peak of 12,700,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1934. This was an increase of 7 per cent over 1933 while rates were being reduced by 53 per cent. Householders paid an average of $2.79 a month for electric service—and around 65 per cent of them paid less than $2.00 a month.

The further point is made that home use of electricity increased 31 per cent for the five depression years ending 1934 while rates were

Singers Delight Audience

A delightful musical evening was the verdict of the audience that heard the concert at the college last night by Ethel Wright and Tom Fuson. These proved themselves real artists, who not only know music but know people.

Their program was an ideal one for a summer audience, beautiful songs, well sung, some of them tuneful melodies, such as folk tunes or "fireside songs," and selections from the masters.

The program was also a happy arrangement of duets and solos, about half and half, and it is difficult to tell which was the more enjoyable. Mr. Fuson, who is unmistakably Irish, sang a group of Irish folk songs with sympathy and understanding that won the hearts of all.

Miss Wright sang beautifully a group of folk songs of different nationalities and the two together sang several folk songs.

Their opening numbers, the group from the masters, showed the same careful planning. Two duets, "The Chase of the Wolf," arranged by Beethoven, and the ever lovely "Lullabye" from Brahms, two solos one from an oratorio and one from an opera of the romantic period, and one of Mendelssohn's wistful melodies, sung as a duet, made up this group.

The brief introductions and comments added to the enjoyment and appreciation of the program, creating the right mood in their listeners.

The references to the origin of songs and their tributes to the composers of the music and writers of the words of the songs, show that the artists are scholarly research workers in music as well as excellent singers.

Miss Wright referred to folk songs as "wild bird songs growing by the roadside." They showed that they recognized the greatness of the simple tunes. They called attention to such things as the religious nature of the Chinese song, the good humor and optimism of the Irish songs, and to the fact that the slightly different version of the familiar song "No, John, No," is the Spanish form.

Miss Wright has a deep, rich contralto voice and Mr. Fuson a mellow tenor, both of sympathetic quality.

Miss Shindler's playing of accompaniments not only pleased the audience but was very highly praised by the artists. They expressed the wish that they might be so fortunate as to find such a good accompanist anywhere else on their concert tour.

CHEAPER AUTO TAGS TO BE SOLD JULY 1

Motorists who intend to buy new automobiles for their vacation trips now have to wait only six days before they can get State licenses at half price. Beginning July 1, auto plates will go on sale at the reduced rate, Director L. S. Harris of the Motor Vehicle Bureau announced yesterday.

Sales of 431,957 pairs of plates so far this year exceed by 40,255 the 391,702 pairs sold through June 24 of last year. These sales have yielded the State $7,293,292, said Mr. Harris. Both sales of license plates and registrations of new cars have declined as the half-year licensing period has approached.

The performance of the mighty midge of the courts in winning the championship for the third time is topped only by Bill Tilden, who won the event six times. (Associated Press Photo)

LAND CHECK LIQUOR ISSUE PUSHES AHEAD AGAIN FLARES UP OVER STATE

Supervisors in Federal Acreage Check-Up Increased to 70 Here This Week

The tremendous task of measuring the acreage of tobacco, cotton and peanut growers in this county continued rapidly today with the number of supervisors in charge of the work being increased from 65 to 70 during the first of the week.

The checking of the acreage of growers who are taking part in the federal crop control movement got under way two weeks ago and is scheduled to be completed within the next forty days.

E. F. Arnold, director of the local farm department who announced the beginning of the check-up several days ago said today he was highly pleased with the progress being made in all sections of the county.

Growers have been asked to co-operate with the supervisors in every way possible so that the check of acreage may be made rapidly.

Mr. Arnold made it plain that compliance with the federal crop control program must be proved by rental checks and tobacco marketing cards are issued. This makes it to the advantage of every farmer to do his utmost to push the work.

Cotton planters last week received the first half of their rental checks. Around $24,000 was paid out to the growers of the 30,000 acres of cotton in this county and the rush at the farm office for two or three days was terrific.

Mr. Arnold stated in view of the fact that there is some thing like 75,000 acres to be checked for compliance, the supervisors would be forced to work at top speed to complete their work in time.

Tobacco growers in the AAA referendum conducted here the latter part of last week gave overwhelming approval to the crop control movement. Out of eight townships reporting up to yesterday only one vote had been cast against the plan.

Pitt county has come in for much commendation in recent months for the splendid nature of its compliance. In spite of the fact it is the largest tobacco producing county in the world, the county showed better compliance with the control plan than any other county in the state.

A better appetite often is one of the first results of taking Cardui, and as nourishment is improved, many disagreeable symptoms of a run-down condition go away. But of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician—Adv.

ham will now decline to grant permanent injunction on the petitions now pending before them in which they are being asked to grant permanent restraining orders to prevent the holding of liquor elections in six counties. Judge Frizzelle still has the petition asking a restraining order in New Hanover county and Greene county, while temporary restraining orders have been obtained in Warren, Vance, Franklin and Beaufort counties. It is expected that Judge Williams will rule on the Franklin county petition for a permanent injunction today or tomorrow. But in view of the fact that only ten per cent of the voters in Wilson and Edgecombe counties indicated opposition to the liquor stores plan and with indications that sentiment in the other counties is just as strong for liquor stores and liquor control as in these two, many doubt whether the various judges before whom injunction petitions are pending will decide to grant permanent orders and prevent the people in these other counties from going to the polls and voting their preference. A good many believe the various judges before whom injunction petitions are pending are pending deliberately postponed definite action in order to see how the first elections will turn out during counties.

The prevailing opinion in legal and political circles here is that there are no legal grounds for the granting of an injunction against the holding of these elections and that the dry forces should wait until after the elections are held and then seek to enjoin the opening of the liquor stores. For the best legal authorities now maintain that the dry can seek to enjoin the selling up of liquor stores, even in counties which have voted for the liquor control plan, on the grounds that to do so is illegal and an unwarranted expenditure of public money. Failing in this, they could then have recourse to the Turlington Act and make arrests of operators of county stores or of purchasers from county stores on the grounds that the Turlington Act is still in effect.

Reports here from Wilson and Edgecombe counties are to the effect that no efforts will be made in Wilson, June 25—John Howard Hines, negro, was sentenced to a year on the roads by Judge O. P. Dickinson in county court this morning. Patrolman H. B. Hartis attempted to arrest Hines early yesterday morning on a disorderly conduct charge. The negro resisted the officer and Hartis drew his black-jack which the negro managed to pull from the officer's hand after a struggle which brought both to the ground. Hartis' pistol fell from its holster in the struggle and the negro grabbed it and escaped. He was arrested this morning and brought before Judge Dickinson. He appealed and is under $250 bond.

Prison Population Growing

Sacramento, Calif. (AP)—Prison authorities foresee a penitentiary population of 9,000 in this state within a few years. Statistical charts on which the curve is plotted show an expectation of 10,000 convictions yearly for felonies of which 2,000 will be committed to prisons for average terms of three years.

BEARS FALL TO GREENIES BY SCORE 15-3

New Bern, June 25.—Bo Farley's Greenies made merry yesterday at the expense of New Bern's pitcher-cramped Bruins to collect 19 hits off three hurlers and gain a 15-3 victory.

So pressed was Manager Chick Doak for pitchers that the local pilot himself went to the mound in the fourth—and over the rest of the distance he hurled better ball than Andreoli and Bugz had done. The veteran State College coach, who in his days as a player was at home at just about every position, gave the Greenies only one run in the last five innings.

Ambler singled in each of the first four innings to pace the visitors, while Chubby Dean smacked two doubles and a single to rank next. Swamp Norwood was the one bright star for the locals. He collected four singles in five attempts against the hurrying Wade, who went the route for the Greenies and permitted a total of only seven hits. Van Horne, with two singles, and Eason with one, rounded out New Bern's hitting.

Stuart Flythe, New Bern pitching ace, was scheduled to start today's tussle in Greenville.

EAGLES BEST GOLDBORO
Goldboro, June 25.—Goldboro made as many hits as Kinston yesterday and committed only one error, but the locals couldn't hit in the pinches and Kinston took the decision 7 to 2.

The Eagles got away to a three-run start. Tommy Irwin tripled to right and scored on Keller's single. Keller tallied when Stonebreaker's bouncer towards third was climaxed by a bad throw to first. Strayhorn's single tallied Stonebreaker.

The Bugs got one run in the first on Biddle's triple and Patton's double, and added another in the fourth when Morris singled Patton singled, and Rand laid down a squeeze bunt.

The Eagles got one in the third on a walk, a passed ball, and an error. They counted three more in the seventh. Taylor walked and Irwin singled, both scoring on Keller's double. Stonebreaker tripled to send Keller home.

Wagner Leads Murderer's Row Of Local Club

"Ty" Wagner, catcher of the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain league, and former captain of the Duke University club leads the locals club with the stick for all games played through Sunday. It was revealed today in the official batting averages compiled by R. O. Moye, official scorekeeper.

Appearing in seventeen games, Wagner was credited with 23 hits out of 61 trips to the plate. His average is .377. Several of his blows went for the circuit, one of them on the local diamond being the longest ever recorded here. The ball cleared the left field fence by a good margin the first time this feat had been accomplished in the three years of play here.

Barley Duke University pitcher, came in for second position, with four hit out of 12 times at bat. He appeared in five games and his average is .334.

Reynolds May, also of Duke and last season's star pitcher of the local club, tied Barley for second place with two safe cracks out of six trips to the rubber. His average is .334.

Here's the way the rest of the club has been looking the old apple:

SPORT SLANTS

The failure of Max Baer to put over his vaunted punch in his unsuccessful title defense against Jimmy Braddock has left little enthusiasm a bit doubtful if Joe Louis will find the target for his crusher when he faces Primo Carnera.

There is no doubt but that Louis is the hardest hitter in the ring today. He is a far more dangerous hitter than Max Baer because his blows need travel but a few inches to be effective. Louis smashes his punches which seem to explode like a fire-cracker.

He carries a finishing punch in either hand, for his victims were felled by the power of his left as well as his right. A business-like worker in the ring, Louis never wastes a move but seems to be able to anticipate the other fellow's move and beat him to the punch. His short, jolting counter punches pave the way for the finisher.

Louis put on a great show at his training camp where his punching power was turned loose in all its fury against Ace Clark and Leonard Dixon, a pair of colored giants standing over 6 feet 7 inches, and Cecil Harris, who has worked as a sparring partner for Max Baer, King Levinsky and other heavy-weight sars.

A Bona Fide Kavo

Baer and Levinsky could not put the colored giant on the floor but Louis stretched him on the canvas with one of the neatest left hooks ever shown in boxing. Harris simply stiffened when the punch landed and dropped over backwards as straight as a ram-rod.

There was a suspicion that some of Louis' sparring mates were taking to the canvas at the slightest provocation to avoid taking further punishment and at the same time pay compliments to their boss' punching prowess. But the knockout of Harris was nothing like that—it was real. Cecil was on cold until Louis' hands worked frantically over him for several minutes to bring him to a sitting position on the floor.

You can't watch Louis work without appreciating the power of his punch and marvel at the flawless form he displays considering his less than a year of professional ring experience.

Carnera, of course, isn't likely to prove as susceptible to Louis' punch as the sparring mates for he is another kind of a giant. He can box, stand punishment fairly well, and backs at least one dangerous punch, an upper-cut. He almost tore Jack Sharkey's head off with an upper-cut.

The 'Leaning Tower'

Carnera has great strength and knows how to use it to wear down his opponents. He leaned on Tommy Leuchtrani, Max Baer and Ray Impellitteri until they were almost exhausted. There were times in his bout with Baer that Primo had Max mighty tired.

The big Italian's weight and experience may weigh against Louis' chances of scoring a knock-out victory but if the Brown Bomber is the puncher his practice sessions showed he should be for Carnera.

Louis' chances of grabbing the heavy-weight championship do not appear so bright since Braddock took the title from Baer. The new

45-YEAR PRISON SENTENCE SEPARATES WALEYS

Sentenced to 45 years imprisonment after pleading guilty to charges of kidnaping George Weyerhaeuser, Harmon M. Waley (left) is shown as a "G-man" led him out of the federal court building in Tacoma, Wash., en route to the United States penitentiary on nearby McNeil Island. Harmon's wife Margaret is shown at the right as she entered the court room with a smile. She sought to plead guilty but Judge E. E. ... denied permission and ordered her trial at a later date. ## JOHNSON TO HELP LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

State Treasurer to Assist City and Counties in Refinancing Matters

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, June 25.—State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson, following the best bond sale in North Carolina history, announces his purpose to give more time to refinancing those local governmental units which are now in difficulties.

Mr. Johnson says his state financing has been completed for the time and that no more will be necessary soon. The balanced budget with a rising revenue tide means that there will be no borrowings necessary. The Friday bond sale achieved at the lowest rate on record, lower by $1 a hundred than the former lowest, means that the state's credit position is improved. State supervision of local units promises to do something for them.

The treasurer does not think it possible that all of the distressed counties and cities can pay their complete bonded debt and he is entering into negotiations with the bondholders. If there can be an accommodation of debt differences the treasurer thinks their business can be made "current" and the taxpayers will be greatly relieved.

Bondholders are known to be willing to such an arrangement. They let the borrowers have money when it bought little and the service charges fall most heavily when money is hardest to raise. The treasurer hopes to get all such units "current." George H. Adams, assistant director of local government, has been handling the smaller units. The 1935 general assembly increased the appropriations for the local government commission and its duties will be enlarged.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 25.—(AP)—The stock market found a back tracking excuse today and leading issues reversed their recent trends.

The retreat was orderly and after sharp selling flurries in the first hour prices leveled off and turned quiet.

The sagging movement was attributed partly to overnight news that the president would insist on enactment of his distribution of wealth tax program at the present session of congress. Technical influences also were a contributing cause.

Grains and cotton maintained a rather steady position in the face of the performance of equities. Bonds were only moderately lower. The dollar was fairly firm in foreign exchange dealings. The late stock one was heavy. Transfers were 1,150,000 shares.

Incomes of more than $1,000,000 now 59 per cent would be based on a graduated scale running from about 60 per cent to 80 per cent above $1,000,000.

The proposed corporation tax would run from 10 per cent on net profits of $2,000,000 to 17.5 per cent on net profits of $20,000,000 or more. This sliding scale would replace the present flat tax of 13.34 per cent on all corporations.

Adding to their troubles was the possibility seen in some quarters that introduction of the new tax legislation might signalize the opening of a new drive for cash payment of the bonus and a fight over the tariff.

With most of the energies of administration chieftains concentrated on the tax problem, the Senate adopted a point resolution extending one year from June 30 the temporary law insuring bank deposits up to $5,000 and devoted itself to minor legislation.

The House took up the ship subsidy bill in the hope of disposing of it by night.

Files $2,500,000 Tax Suit.
Concord, N. H., June 25.—(AP)—The Amoskeag Manufacturing Co. of Manchester, largest single textile unit of its kind in the United States today brought suit in Federal court against the government for $2,500,000 charging the cotton processing and floor taxes unconstitutional.

The suit was brought against Peter Gagne of Somersworth, as collector of internal revenue of New Hampshire and claimed that $2,170,628 was paid to the government from August, 1933 to March, 1935.

The Amoskeag Company contended in its suit, the first of the kind ever brought in the United States District Court of New Hampshire, that the taxes were unlawfully assessed and unlawfully collected.

Gagne was sighted to appear before the federal court at its September session when the case against the government will be introduced.
