

New Dictatorial Decrees Go Into Effect In Germany

RUBBER STAMP CABINET PUTS OKAY ON PLANS

Labor Camp Service Made Compulsory For Men and Women; Nazidom's Hold On Germany Tightened Even More By Hitler's Far Reaching Decisions

(Copyright by Associated Press) Berlin, June 27.—(AP)—Dictatorial decrees went into effect today, shaping anew the lives of all Germans without giving the chance to either approve or protest.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's "rubber stamp" cabinet meeting for the last time before the summer holidays and four days before the first anniversary of the bloody June 30 Nazi "purge" adopted these measures:

Making labor camp service compulsory for 200,000 young men and 100,000 young women annually.

Demanding everyone, even foreigners domiciled here, to participate actively in air expedition exercises.

Authorizing revision of the penal code in the light of "national socialist tenets."

Regulating official salaries.

Speeding up investigation of preliminary sterilization in order to prevent unsound progeny.

Encouraging establishment of people's gardens and homesteads.

Empowering Bernhard Rust, Prussian commissioner for culture and education, to deal with church conversions.

Not since the "blood purge" last June had Hitler made such a show of dictatorial powers and it seemed agreed the far-reaching decision would tighten even more Nazidom's hold on Germany.

Only in the church measure was an element of conciliation seen.

Rumors were heard that in the autumn when more problems are expected to be ironed out a cabinet shakeup was likely in a move toward 100 per cent radical nazidom's ideals.

Mrs. E. T. Dickinson, wife of a former Greenville physician and surgeon, now located at Wilson, died in Duke Hospital at Durham, last night, according to information reaching the city today.

Funeral services were to take place in Wilson this afternoon at 5 o'clock with interment being made in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Dickinson had been in ill health for some time but her death was received with profound shock here where she was well known and held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends.

The family lived here several years where Dr. Dickinson was instrumental in establishing Pitt Community Hospital, but returned to Wilson, their former home, several years ago.

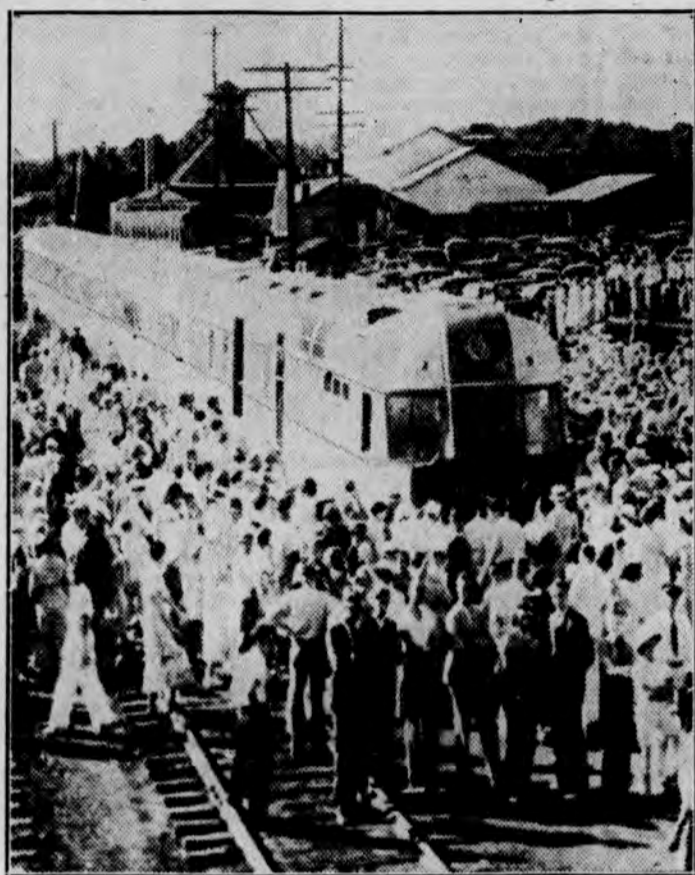

SENTENCE SUSPENDED: CONDITION, NO DRINKING

Smithfield, June 27.—Judge W. P. Aycock may have reduced the consumption of liquor in one family by giving a six months suspended road sentence to Henry Adams on condition that he does not drink any intoxicating liquids for a period of two years. Adams was convicted in Recorder's Court Tuesday of assault upon his wife. Further terms of the suspension were that he pay the cost and does not assault his wife or any other person again during the next two years.

Ninety days on the roads was given Ed Adams for violating the terms of suspended sentence given a previous term of court.

Court Refuses Injunction On Whiskey Ballot

Henderson, June 27.—(AP)—Judge W. A. Devin here today refused to grant a temporary injunction to restrain the holding of elections on county liquor control systems in Vance and Warren counties, and dissolved a temporary injunction granted by Judge R. Hunt Parker to restrain a similar election in Halifax county.

Full details of the judge's decision were not available immediately.

Warren and Vance are scheduled to vote Saturday and Halifax is to ballot on liquor July 6.

In the Vance and Warren cases no temporary injunction had been granted, the commissioners and election board members being required to show cause here today why such orders should not be given, but in Halifax the election board had been temporarily enjoined.

Late News Flashes

Two Murdered At Boonford.

Boonford, N. C., June 27.—(AP)—Winfield S. Garland, 73, wealthy farmer, and Mrs. Bona Teague, 35, daughter of a renter on his farm, were found shot to death last night in a shed near Garland's home here.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict they were killed by parties unknown. Odus Buchanan, Vance county youth, was taken into custody this morning as a material witness and search was launched for a suspect, whose name was not disclosed.

Garland was found on a $200 cash on his person. Officers said they did not believe robbery was the motive for the slaying. The bodies were found by Will Wyatt and Charlie Grindstaff.

Grindstaff, father of the slain woman, is a renter on Garland's place. He said Garland and Mrs. Teague left his home before dark yesterday to go to the barnyard to milk. When they failed to return after a reasonable time he said he became alarmed and began search. Failing to find them he called the aid of Wyatt and the men discovered the bodies under the barn shed.

Nuisance Taxes Extended Two Years

Washington, June 27.—(AP)—In speedy fashion congressional action was completed today on a resolution extending for two years from next Sunday a list of nuisance taxes yielding $500,000,000 additional revenue.

The house approved a conference report and then sent the measure to the White House for President Roosevelt to sign.

House and senate conferees agreed to accept the two-year extension approved by the house instead of the one-year voted by the senate. Within thirty minutes unanimity was reached.

Democratic Leaders Discard All Effort to Rush Share-Wealth Program

Washington, June 27.—(AP)—Discarding all efforts for high speed action on President Roosevelt's tax-the-wealth program, Democratic leaders today outlined a schedule calling for weeks of hearings and debate.

Legislators said the house could not reach a showdown vote on the president's plan until the last of July at the earliest, and the senate would act three to six weeks later.

FOUR LIQUOR STILLS, THREE MEN CAPTURED

Pitt and Beaufort Officers Also Nab 20 Gallons Rum in Series of Raids

Four whiskey distilling plants and three men were captured by sheriffs officers from Pitt and Beaufort counties in a series of raids yesterday afternoon, it was reported today from the office of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst here.

Twenty gallons of liquor and thousands of gallons of beer were also rounded up in the raids.

Marshall Lee, white man of Chitwood township, was held under bond of $200 for hearing at the next session of county court after he had been nabbed at a still along with 20 gallons of whiskey and 5,000 gallons of beer.

Officers said Lee had his still operating at full blast when they suddenly appeared and ordered him to surrender. Instead of doing as directed, Lee was reported to have fled headlong through the woods for a considerable distance before the fleet-footed officers finally ran him down.

Another still was captured in the same community but it was not operating. A considerable amount of beer was located near the still site, however.

Leaving this county, the officers went into Beaufort where two stills were raided with the capture of a couple of men, although no whiskey was found. The names of the operators were not determined by local officers.

The park is located on a section of land loaned to the city by East Carolina Teachers College. A fence has been erected between the college campus and the park to prevent holiday crowds from interfering with activities at the college.

The fence is of a modern type and in keeping with other splendid appointments of both the school and park.

Situated on an elevation overlooking the new municipal swimming pool, erected with federal and local funds last year, the playground affords a close view of the pool and hundreds of people are expected to watch swimmers from this vantage point day and night.

Tables and benches to take care of the demand of picnickers and those seeking rest have been placed throughout the park, making it possible for holiday crowds to find all conveniences awaiting them.

Chief of Police George Clark, who with Mayor R. C. Flanagan, was placed in charge of park construction, said today every detail had been completed. He expressed the hope that the citizenship as well as the hundreds of visitors who come here from day to day would take advantage of the park facilities.

Concrete steps were erected at the Fifth street park entrance several weeks ago, greatly facilitating entrance to the lower end of the park and swimming pool grounds.

Ample facilities have also been provided for a children's playground on land adjoining the park and swimming pool properties, and various forms of entertainment have been provided for the children of the city during the hot summer months.

Over a city block has been converted into a recreational center for both young and old alike, and people who have viewed the improvements have expressed commendation of city officials for the fine work they have done.

WOMAN HOPES FOR REPRIEVE FROM DEATH

Eve Coe Awaits Action of Governor To Save Her From the Electric Chair

Ossining, N. Y., June 27.—(AP)—Eve Coe, doomed to die in the electric chair tonight, clung desperately today to the hope of an 11th hour reprieve from Governor Herbert Lehman.

Men who have studied the electric currents which carry convicted men to death, expressed belief she was grasping at a straw.

Also hoping against hope for a reprieve was Leonard Scarnell. He was also scheduled to die tonight.

Mrs. Coe was convicted of the insurance slaying of Harry Wright, handy man at her road house near Copperstown. Scarnell's conviction was for the holdup killing of a Rensselaer detective.

"The worry and dreadful suspense are almost unbearable," the 43-year-old woman was quoted as saying. "I can't fall asleep until nearly dawn-break and then I get up with a horrible headache."

AUTO PLATE 'DODGERS' ARE INDICTED HERE

Warrants Served On Around Two Score Persons Without City License Tags

Around two score persons who have been evading the purchase of city automobile license plates have been ordered to appear in mayor's court Saturday morning to explain why they refused to purchase the tags, after being notified by the city clerk.

Chief of Police George Clark said this morning that between 30 and 40 warrants had been served on alleged license plate "dodgers" the last day or so. The action was taken after all automobile owners of the city without license plates had been notified by the city clerk that they were expected to buy tags by a specified time, and that failure to do so would result in their being ordered to appear before the mayor.

The action is the most far-reaching taken by the administration in years, and comes on the heels of an announcement that sales of auto plates this year was larger than in any other period in history.

A check of car owners was made by the city clerk's office sometime ago after instructions had been issued by the Board of Aldermen that a campaign be instituted immediately against persons who had failed to provide themselves with plates.

Automobile and truck owners were first notified of the contemplated action of the administration, and told that all who failed to abide by the warning would be served with warrants and ordered to appear in court.

Just what action the court will take against the violators of the license plate legislation is problematical. It is certain, however, that mayor's court will have the largest attendance of years as the two score persons gather there to ask for clemency. All found guilty of the violation will be required to buy plates in addition to other action taken by the court.

Told To Clean Up—New York or Quit

Pressing a crusade against crime and vice in New York City, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman threatened to sue District Attorney William C. LIQUOR FIGHT AGAIN BEFORE STATE COURT

Elections in Warren, Vance and Halifax Counties at Stake in Henderson

Henderson, June 27.—(AP)—The scene of North Carolina's dry fight drifted to Henderson today as Judge W. A. Devin prepared to hear petitions to make permanent injunctions temporarily restraining liquor store referenda in Warren, Vance and Halifax counties.

The Warren and Vance elections are scheduled for Saturday but that in Halifax is set for July 6. Franklin was prepared to vote Saturday but Judge J. C. Lawson Williams, a few days ago held the law under which the election was authorized is unconstitutional and blocked the referendum. In Beaufort county where a vote is also set for Saturday, county officials have sought an order to prevent drys from interfering with the referendum.

The order is returnable before Judge E. H. Cramer in Elizabeth City, while the "Pasquotank liquor act" returnable before Judge Williams and authorizing elections in 18 counties and two townships be restrained, the order only affected Franklin county. A separate act permitting an election in New Hanover has also been held unconstitutional.

It was considered certain the question of the constitutionality of the liquor act would be appealed to superior court and later taken to Supreme court. It appeared unlikely, however, that the matter would be heard by the Supreme court before fall. The court ended its spring term yesterday.

W. J. Boykin, Wilson county official and Mr. Willis, a Raleigh auditor, went to Richmond today to study liquor store operations in that state. It was said Wilson county liquor stores would hardly be ready for business before next week.

PITT VOTE FOR CROP CONTROL STILL SWELLS

Total of 7,279 Favorable Ballots Cast in 12 of 13 Precincts; Only 13 Vote 'No'

Only thirteen persons voted against the federal crop control program in the referendum conducted in all townships of the county last Saturday, it was indicated today by reports received at the farm department here from 12 of the county's 13 precincts.

Although returns had not been received today from Swift Creek, the farm department was advised there were no "no" votes cast there. Complete but unofficial returns are expected to be received from this township probably today or tomorrow.

With the four counties reporting yesterday and today, the total vote favoring continuing the government tobacco crop control movement was swelled to 7,279, and it was believed the Swift Creek ballot along with scattering votes being cast in areas where ballot's gave out last Saturday would swell the figure to nearly 8,000.

Twelve of the 13 "no" votes were cast against the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program in Beaufort township. The others came from Beaver Dam. A few other votes of this nature may pop up from the scattering ballots cast during the week, but it was believed by members of the farm office the figure would exceed only to a very slight extent that already reported.

Because of the shortage of ballots in some of the townships, farmers who were unable to vote on the question have been given until Saturday evening at 7 o'clock to file their vote with their committee-men or at the local farm office. Additional ballots were placed in the hands of all committeemen the first of the week so the election could be closed by the prescribed limit.

As stated in the initial report Monday, Greenville township led in the number of votes cast, 1,370 persons answering in the affirmative and not a one in the negative. Chicod township came second with 1,205 votes and none against.

Counties reporting since Monday are: Pasquotank 397; Carolina 452; Beaufort 248, 12 against; Fountain 370.

Those reporting the first of the week: Farmville 172; Falkland, 300; Beaver Dam 354, one against; Ayden 900; Winterville 61; Bethel 373; Greenville, 1,370; Chicod, 1,205.

were fairly widespread. The report will precipitate some private squir-mings and explanations.

TRUCE: Administration labor scouts don't look for any major strikes until fall. There may be sporadic outbreaks, but they expect basic industries—steel, automobile and textile—to escape large-scale disturbance through the summer months.

AFL—er Francis J. Gorman, for instance, years to stage a strike demonstration in the textile industry tomorrow. He would like to protest against the industry's installation of lower wages and longer hours since the codes flew out the window. But the manufacturers would welcome a strike now.
They have large inventories and would appreciate a summer war.
The codeless NRA is watching this situation closely. The new Labor Relations Labor Board will tackle this armed truce as its first problem. Mr. Roosevelt is banking heavily on fall recovery. He does not want it jeopardized by industrial upsets.

FATE: It would not serve as legal evidence in the controversy between the government and the airplane company as to what caused the crash in which Senator Bronson Cutting was killed. But it is the talk of the Capital.

On the night before the late Senator Cutting flew home he dined with Evelyn McLean, the owner of the fatal Hope diamond. She wore it at the dinner. Its lustre attracted the artist's Senator. He reached toward it. Mrs. McLean warned him of the superstition—allegedly borne out by many deaths—that to handle it was disastrous to everybody except the owner.

Senator Cutting scoffed at her warning. Two days later he was dead.

PRACTICAL: Senator Norris has reframed his constitutional amendments for abolition of the electoral college and direct election of Presidents.

He hatched this revolutionary plan when Presidents he did not like were in the White House. He thought it would encourage and ease the formation of a third party.
It was designed to lighten the expense and the task of fomenting a potential revolution.

But Senator Norris still does on Franklin D. Roosevelt — "another Roosevelt." He believes that the President has made some serious mistakes, but he is strong for the administration's social program.
So he won't give aid and comfort to third parties at this particular moment if he can help it. Mr. Norris is a very practical politician.

UNLIKELY: It is well to bear in mind the impediments facing attempts to amend the Constitution.
No proposed amendment can be submitted to the states unless it is passed by a two-thirds vote of Congress. The tight squeaks through which recent legislation has passed show that it would be exceedingly difficult to get a two-thirds vote for a constitutional amendment.

No amendments can be submitted through the states unless two-thirds of them make the demand—and then three-fourths of them must concur if the amendment is so beratified.

A great deal of agitation and an unmistakable public demand must develop before two-thirds of the present Congress will propose any constitutional amendment. The overwhelming Democratic majority means nothing, as many Democrats balk on this question.

said Moore.

"Then, why do you say I must go

"I tried to make it clear, but you this time. I let Albery think I had a wife, that you were my wife. I didn't tell him you must be an impostor."

"But you can tell him now."
"He'd never forgive me. He can't stand being fooled. He thinks a whole heap of himself under that quiet, silky way of his. As I've just remarked, I'm broke to the wide, and he has my future in his hand."
"But he'd only blame me," she insisted. "It's I who have fooled him.
It's I who'd get the sack."

"That wouldn't help me. Don't argue! You'll have to do what I say. I didn't know how right I was the other day when I said you were probably taking a man's job. And I'm damned if I'm going to let you take mine."

"You're unfair, you're hateful!"
There was a sob of rage in her voice.
He was so deliberately insulting, so determined to hurt, so bitter in his obvious contempt for her as an unscrupulous adventuress. "What do you mean by taking your job?"

"If you don't go on pretending to be my wife, you will take my job from me. Gosh, how hard it is to get anything into your head! Must I say it all over again? I'm supposed to be dead. I come back. I lie to Albery from the beginning."

"I let him think I have a wife. He gives me her address. I say I am going to see her at once. He thinks a great deal of her. He congratulates me. He praises her work, her pluck.
He tells me that I am to go back to my job, that he will be behind me, as he was before. But, he says, we can talk about that later on. He is full of sympathy. I leave him to go to my wife. The scene is all set."

"What would he think if I went back and told him I never had a wife, but simply wanted to see the girl who had played such a trick on us both? He'd never forgive me. He'd think I was either mad, or I wanted to make him look a fool. I know him.
It would finish me with him."

Laurie had listened in stony silence.
"You say the scene is set, Mr.
Moore," she said coldly. "It is set for you."

"For you, too," he retorted. "It would finish you with Albery as well."

"I could get other work, I dare say."

"As you said just now, everybody would know that you were a cheat and a fraud."

"I'll risk that." She was quivering with defiance.

"I don't know that I couldn't prosecute you and have you sent to prison."

"I'd risk that, too!"

His voice changed. It was just as gruff, but less dictatorial.

"Look here, I didn't mean that, of course. If you're such a good worker as Albery says, you must be business-like. Don't you think you owe me something? Haven't you benefited quite a bit by passing as my widow?"

"I have," she admitted, and again the warm color flooded her pale cheeks with shame.

"You said something about it saving your sister's life." He spoke quite gently, for him.

"It did."

"Well, then, whether you like it or not, don't you think you owe it to me to go on with the farce, so that I can get on with my job?"

She was silent for a few moments, looking at him with undisguised an-tagonism.

"Are you sure it depends on me?"

"Definitely. I know Albery."

by the Constitution and delegates power to the Securities Exchange Commission without providing adequate standards to govern its exercise. The latter was one of the most important elements in the Supreme Court's anti-New Deal decisions on NRA and federal oil control. The eminent attorney expresses it as follows:

"If Congress were to pass an Act in bare language directing the Securities Exchange Commission to register and regulate such holding companies as it thought should be registered and regulated and to exempt all others—to cut off the heads of all those whose heads ought to be cut off and to spare the rest; and if the Act should add that the only guide Congress had to offer the Commission was that it should keep in mind the public interest, or the interest of investors or consumers—no one would agree that such an Act could stand. Yet it seems not unfair to say that S. 2796 re-

Unwillingly, she was forced to agree with him.

"How long would we have to keep it up?" she asked slowly.

"So you admit my claim on your gratitude? That's something." The mocking smile came into his eyes, and she stared back at him, and from the friction of that glance flew sparks of very positive interest. "I suppose it depends on what happens how long we have to keep it up. We can, no doubt, quarrel, and find we are not suited, and part. There's enough of that going on not to make it noticeable. After two years' separation, you know!"

How she hated him, his bitterness, his cynicism!

"You dislike women so much that you won't want it to be long," she said.

"I don't suppose I shall get in your way much," he answered. "All going well, I shall be mostly in the air.
Well, thanks. It's a bargain, then.
I'll see Albery tomorrow, and we can settle things. I'll say good-night now."

"Good-night!"

HE TURNED in at the door.

"You said in the train that you never wanted to meet me again."

"I haven't changed my mind."

"You must admit it looks like fate, as if we had to meet."

"There are different kinds of fate."

"And you hate this particular kind?"

"I do."

He gave her one of his intent, penetrating looks.

"You haven't told me all the truth," he said, "I feel sure of that."

"About what?"

"Why you did it. What drove you to it. Won't you tell me now?" There was an appeal in his voice, but Laurie was too angry to heed it.

She threw up her head.

"I have told you all."

His voice hardened.

"Then," he said brutally, "you are like most women. You get what you can, how you can, and when the time comes to pay, you don't like it—and you squeal."

With that he went out of the room.

Laurie heard his firm, light tread down the rickety stairs. She heard the front door bang. The old house was not made for him. He looked so big in it. There was something untamed, free about him. You felt that his home was in the air.

She went into her bedroom. Angry tears gushed from her eyes.

She opened a drawer and took out a box of Australian eucalyptus wood, unlocked it, and fumbled among a lot of papers. But she could hardly see for her tears.

No, she wouldn't tell him the truth.
Wild horses wouldn't drag it out of her. She hated him too much. She could not expose to him the agony of those days in Sydney when her lovely little sister, a child for her years, had disappeared from their lodgings, and she had searched for her distractedly for days, and found at last that she had been kidnapped by a gang associated with their landlady.

That, if Laurie had not by a miracle been in time, she would have been shipped off to some unknown destination and swallowed up in the night of a distant underworld, lost to her for ever.

That it was to cover their attempted crime that her landlady had accused her of theft. That she had been literally out of her mind when Glad went down with pneumonia, caught in some slum hotel where her kidnappers had hidden her, and nearly died. That when deliverance came, angel-wise, in the person of Mark Albery's friend, she had snatched at it—whatever the cost.

No, she could not tell him these things. He would not understand.
He was cruel; he only cared for himself and his career. Let him think what he liked of her!

She found what she was looking for, a photograph of Rex Moore that she had cut out of a newspaper.

The Rex Moore of more than two years ago. It was a good likeness, as newspaper photographs go, but she would never have known him from
it. Not only had he a moustache, and looked much younger, but the expression was quite different. It was an eager, happy face, although the ragged strength was there; and the eyes were laughing and kind.

How he must have suffered to become this harsh, embittered man!

into the tangle she has made for herself.

duced to simplest terms is little more than that. Good laws are not written by throwing an inkpot at the Devil.

RIGHTS: Another section of the lawyer's opinion dwells on the "grave deprivation of liberty involved in the attempted denial of access to the mails or the facilities of interstate commerce." This is the penalty imposed by the Bill upon any unregistered person or corporation who is declared a holding company. In essence it would forbid such persons to use the mails, telephone, telegraph and perhaps even the facilities of air, sea, and land travel—or to own securities in any company engaged in interstate commerce. "He is in short put under a form of domiciliary arrest."

The question is raised whether access to these things is a mere privilege which Congress may grant or withhold at its pleasure or a right which cannot be impaired except for causes connected with the instant use forbidden."

Court precedents are cited to show that a citizen's right to use the mails and engage in interstate commerce are natural rights not derived from federal authority. "As such it would seem that his right is subject to abridgment only when the public health, safety and morals or the protection of commerce are concerned; not because his activities are too widely scattered, his business unpopular, or his investments of a character that Congress does not approve." The analysis concludes:
"If the provisions of the Bill are enacted into law, I do not think the Act can survive the scrutiny of the Courts."

REINS: Great Britain is playing a grand game of hide-and-seek with stabilization. One day she's for it—next day no, a chance. The real answer to this off-and-on-again attitude is the Baldwin government's unwillingness to monkey with the monetary buzz-saw with a general election looming up this fall.
Returning to gold might prove unpopular at the polls.

If the Conservatives win the election—as they expect to at present despite a obvious Labor Party gains —getting is the would quit acting coy and get down to brass tacks with the United States and France.
They would no longer have to worry about political repercussions.

England is still angling for a commitment from FDR that he will not devalue the dollar again. The President politely declines to rise to the hook. There's no prospect of devaluation in the near future—but he has no intention of scrapping a potentially useful monetary weapon.
Even if he were willing to make such a pledge, it wouldn't mean a thing. Congress holds the monetary reins in the last analysis and the Supreme Court ruled—in the gold case—that no Congress has power to bind its successors even as to terms of a fixed contract.

TECHNIQUE: The Pan-Asiatic movement is coming along much faster than even the Japanese expected a few months ago. A high Japanese staff officer tipped the hand when he remarked that Chinamen who opposed Nippon's program were "racial traitors."

The Japanese are great on bellicose gestures—but they have a streak of caution too. New Yorkers in close touch with the Far East say that army authorities never order a military operation these days unless they're darned sure it will be easily successful. They learned their lesson at Shanghai. The current Japanese strategy is to penetrate China with as little fighting as possible.

The Japanese use an educational technique also. A number of leading Chinese financiers and business men have recently been brought to Japan in groups—at the Empire's expense—to inspect Japanese industry and learn how much they stood to gain by accepting Japanese leadership.

BUCK: Financial insiders get word that a lot of Congressmen voted for the Wagner bill who really weren't any too strong for it. They rode along just to get the Federation of Labor off their chests—with the mental reservation that the Supreme Court can be counted on to nullify the law in due course.
That's blown-in-the-bottle buck passing.

Coburn Begins Shoe Sale Here

The "store wide" sale opened at Coburn's Shoes, Inc., Evans street firm, this morning at 9 o'clock with a large crowd of people from all sections of the county in attendance.

One of the features of the opening hour this morning was the sale of 60 pairs or more of ladies' bedroom slippers, which formerly sold for $1 or over, for 9 cents a pair.

Announcements of the sales carried in the columns of this paper yesterday was to the effect that the entire stock of shoes would be offered for sale. It was said the stock of medium and high grade footwear was valued at $27,000, or a $12,000 overstock.

The public has been given a cordial invitation to attend the sale and view the many splendid offerings which the firm has to offer.

The Smith Electric Company has just completed installing a new ventilation system and the store was cool and airy this morning for the reception of the crowds expected to be on hand throughout the sale period.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pop . . . Vigor . . . Vim

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy.

If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS. . . an old prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney

PITT SCHOOLS GET INCREASE OF TEACHERS

County Allotted 315
This Year and 305
Last Year; Green-
ville Also Boosted

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, June 27.—A total of 23-042 teachers have been allotted to the various county and city school systems in the state for this coming school year by the State School Commission, on the basis of the tentative allotment completed by the commission late Wednesday.
But it is expected that this number will be increased by at least 300 additional teachers by the time the schools open, since the commission will allot additional teachers in all schools where the enrollment this fall exceeds the average daily attendance of last year to the point where another teacher or several more teachers are needed.

Pitt county will get 315 teachers this year as compared with 305 for the previous year. The Greenville allotment shows a slight gain with 73 this year and 71 last year.

The total number of teachers employed last year in the public schools of the state amounted to 23,322 by the end of the school year, although only about 22,900 were allocated before the beginning of the school year. As a result, it is estimated that as many as 23,500 teachers may have to be employed before the end of the coming school year.
The reduction in the number of teachers so far allotted was brought about by changes made in the school machinery act by the 1935 general assembly, in which all high schools with three teachers or less were abolished, and other changes made, as well as by the action of the school commission in allotting teachers on the basis of one teacher for every 36 children in average daily attendance last year instead of one teacher for every 33 children, the basis used previously.

"After the schools open and it becomes evident that additional teachers are needed, the school commission will, of course, allot as many additional teachers as the new enrollment and average daily attendance will justify," said LeRoy Martin, executive secretary of the commission.

A special sub-committee of the school commission is now at work drawing up the new salary schedule for superintendents, principals and teachers, but this schedule will not be made public until it has been approved by the full commission and the state board of education, since it must be approved by both before becoming effective.

WEED FARMERS VOTE SLOWLY ON CONTROL.

Williamston, June 27.—While the farmers of this county are believed to be almost unanimously in favor of the tobacco control program now in effect, they are falling to promptly express their views and opinions as to the continuance of the program in the future.

The balloting is drawing to a close with next Saturday set as the deadline. Out of a possible 3,000 vote in this county, only 864 had entered their ballots yesterday, and all except three of these were in favor of continuing the program.

GRAND JURY REPORTS ON JOHNSTON AFFAIRS

Smithfield, June 27.—The report of the grand jury which was given to Judge Small at Tuesday's session of Superior Court said that they found the various officers in good condition, the officers efficient and courteous, the county home in good condition and under good management. The inmates of the home, said the report, seem to be contented and well cared for. "We commend Mr. Coats for the manner in which he is operating it," read the report. Their committee visited the jail also and gave a like favorable report.

Ward Brings In Cotton Blossom

Harvey Ward, who operates the Jim Moore farm on the outskirts of the city, brought the third cotton blossom to the city today.

Troop 30 Boy Scouts will meet in the Rotary Club Friday evening at 7:30. All Scouts are requested to bring their hand books.

Mrs. Graham Entertains.
Winton, N. C., June 21.—One of the most delightful parties of the season was given on Thursday evening by Mrs. Stokes N. Graham, at the home of her mother, when she entertained for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert N. Carter, who recently moved to Hertford county.

A pink and white color scheme carried out in the lavish arrangement of summer flowers was used throughout the rooms in which six tables were arranged for play. This color motif was further emphasized in tallies, table appointments, and refreshments.

A number of progressions were enjoyed and at the close of the game attractive gifts were presented. Mrs. Hilda Kite, high scorer for the evening, was awarded a five piece china smoking set; and to Miss Bessie Lee, low scorer, was given a hob-nail sandwich plate.

Mrs. Robert Carter won the floating prize for honors, twin Japanese vases for a what-not. To the two out-of-town guests, Mrs. John Bellamy of New Jersey, and Mrs. J. T. Rhodes of Washington, N. C., were presented respectively, a what-not and a picture. The honoree, Mrs. Carter, was presented a set of crystal cocktail glasses.

During the game refreshing punch and delightful mints were served. At the conclusion of the evening a delicious ice cream, in which the pink and white motif was repeated, was served. Mrs. Graham, the hostess, was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. Mattie B. Carter, Mrs. W. B. Pollard and Mrs. R. W. Adams.

Those enjoying Mrs. Graham's hospitality were: Mrs. Robert N. Carter, honoree, Mrs. Mills Jordan, Mrs. J. P. Jordan, Mrs. Leon Malone, Mrs. John Bellamy, Mrs. T. D. Northcott, Mrs. F. M. Jenkins, Mrs. T. M. Coudon, Mrs. Elsie Stephenson, Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. Phillip Downs, Mrs. S. L. Clements, Mrs. Tom Parramore, Mrs. A. L. Gray, Mrs. Hilda Kite, Mrs. R. A. Liquor And Sales Tax Big Political Issues

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel
By J. C. BASKERVILL
Raleigh, June 27.—Both the sales tax and liquor are going to be big issues in the campaign for the nomination for Governor and Lieutenant Governor and the candidates that "get right" with the public first on these two important questions will be the ones nominated in the Democratic primary next June, according to most observers here. For while none of the four present candidates for Governor and two candidates for Lieutenant Governor have publicly had anything to say about either the sales tax or the liquor question, the prevailing opinion is that all of them are going to have to take a definite position on both of these questions eventually. A good many here believe that the sooner the various candidates declare themselves on these two questions of the sales tax and prohibition, the better off they will be.

It is regarded as almost certain now that W. L. Lumpkin of Franklin county, four times a member of the house, a candidate for speaker of the 1935 house and leader of the anti-sales tax group in the house in both the 1933 and 1935 session, will eventually announce as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor on an anti-sales tax and pro-state liquor control platform. In other words, it is believed that when Lumpkin announces his candidacy, he will do so in an announcement in which he will advocate a state-wide liquor control and liquor stores law with a proviso that all revenues from the sale of liquor be earmarked as a substitute for the sales tax so that the sales tax can be eventually removed. For while it is agreed that a state-wide liquor control plan would not yield enough revenue to make it possible to repeal the sales tax entirely, it is maintained that the revenue from such a law would make it possible to immediately remove the sales tax from the basic food articles and probably from meals in cafes and restaurants. Later on, the revenues might increase enough to make it possible to reduce the rate of the sales tax on other commodities to 2 percent. Lumpkin is of course in favor of increasing other taxes, especially on corporations, to make up the difference and remove the sales tax entirely.

If Lumpkin does come out in favor of such a program it is generally agreed that he will travel very far in the campaign and have an excellent chance to win the nomination. For while Senator Paul Grady of Johnston county, one of the present candidates for Lieutenant Governor, is running on an anti-sales tax platform, he is not advocating a state liquor control plan as a partial substitute for the sales tax. In fact, during most of the session, he stood with the group of drys in the senate who refused to permit the enactment of a state-wide liquor control law, although he finally did switch over about 3 o'clock in the morning of the last day the general assembly was in session, but too late to secure its enactment.

Senator W. P. Horton of Pittsboro, Chatham county, the second candidate for Lieutenant Governor, however, is now regarded as running for the office on a motor truck chassis propelled by drys, since during the closing days of the assembly he definitely allied himself with the bone dry element in the senate, though no personal dry himself. In fact, it was Horton who made the motion to reconsider the vote on the Day bill and then tabled that vote, thus making it impossible to reconsider the Day bill. As a result he lost the support of the liberal drys and of all those who wanted a state-wide liquor control law and it is now agreed that he will have to depend almost entirely on the support of the truck owners, for whom he was formerly counsel, and the drys for the votes he expects to get.

TRANSIENT ADMITS MURDER IN ROWLAND

Laurens, Pa., June 27.—(AP)—Constable George Peffley said today a negro transient who gave his name as George Willie Huggins confessed he killed Taft McClain, also a negro, in Rowland, N. C., in November, 1934.

Peffley arrested Huggins on suspicion. He is awaiting word from North Carolina authorities.

The first dwelling house in Birmingham, Ala., was built in 1835 and is still standing.

TAR BABIES ROUTED 10-1 BY GREENIES

Tarboro, June 27.—Greenville routed Tarboro 10-1 yesterday afternoon while David Smith was holding the visitors well in check.

Billy Huiskamp hit a homer in the fourth for the Greenies, who previously had put over two runs in the first and five in the third. A single by Andy Johnson was the only hit for the Greenies in the first inning, and there were just three hits—singles by Ambler and Johnson, and a double by Farley—in their big third inning.

McAboy's single in the fourth scored Knoke, who had singled and moved up on an error and an infield out, for Tarboro's lone count.

Huiskamp hit a single in addition to his homer. Ambler and Johnson each hit two singles for the Greenies.

Knoke, with two for four, led Tarboro.

KINSTON STOPS AYDEN

Ayden, June 27.—Kinston's climbing Eagles hit hard and often yesterday to turn back Ayden, 11-5 and snap the locals' seven-game winning streak.

Otto Patrick smacked a pair of homers to feature in Kinston's attack. His circuit blows accounted for three runs. Keller also hit for the circuit for the Eagles with one on in the seventh.

Dallas Morris' homer with three on gave Ayden four runs in the fourth and was just about the whole show in the locals' attack against Charlie Harris, Davidson star, and Kinston's undefeated chunker who scored his sixth win Tommy Irwin, with three hits, led Kinston.

Score: R. H. E.

Kinston 103 202 210—11 14 1

Ayden 040 000 100—5 7 5

Harris and Strayhorn; Upchurch, Weldon, Byrd and Suttentiff.

SNOW HILL BEATS BEARS

New Bern, June 27.—New Bern's Bruins lost a heartbreaker yesterday as Snow Hill counted twice in the ninth to take a 3-2 win.

Stuart Flythe had held the visitors to one run and four hits until the ninth. In the meantime, his mates had reached Siveley and Parmelee for 11 safeties and a pair of rallies.

Williams' homer in the fourth counted Snow Hill's other run. Cleary and Norwood each hit a double and a single for the Bruins, and Van Horne and Staton hit doubles.

Score: R. H. E.

Snow Hill 000 100 002—3 5 0

New Bern 100 010 000—2 11 1

BUGS AND MARTINS TIE

Goldsboro, June 27.—Goldsboro's Goldbugs made their debut yesterday under a new manager, Charles "Candy Ball" Smith, and battled Williamston to a 4-all deadlock in a game called at the end of the 12th by Umpire Tom Hanna. It was too dark to continue.

Smith was chosen pilot at a meeting of directors held Tuesday night. He succeeds Dick Poole, Smith, local attorney played for Goldsboro in the old Carolina League.

Bill Wilson pitched the route for the Goldbugs. Tom Morris and John Gaddy twirled for the Martins.

A three-run rally in the eighth put the Martins into a 4-all tie and brought on extra innings. Gaddy took over the pitching assignment for Williamston in the eighth.

S. Morris, with three for five, and Henry House, with three for six, led the Martins' hitting. Joe Webb, with three for five, and Doit Morris and Wilson, each with two hits led the Bugs. Webb has replaced Milky Gold as the Bugs' rightfielder. Gold plans to enter the training camp for State Highway Patrol candidates.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 27.—(AP)—Tax clouds again hovered over the securities markets today and bullish sentiment for the most part was noticeably restrained.

The majority of stocks milled about in an extreme narrow area. Selective buying was evident in scattered issues but many of the leaders were endangered. The oils were rather heavy as some doubts were expressed over the maintenance of gasoline and crude prices. Trading verged on dullness most of the session as the attention of the traders centered on Washington. Cotton improved. Grains exhibited a little nervousness as weather reports varied. Other commodities were listless. Bonds provided no especial stimulation for stocks, the more active ones holding about steady. Foreign exchanges were quiet.

The late stock tone was irregular. Transfers 800,000 shares.

Late News Flashes

mous approval was given in both houses for the compromise.

The resolution was approved by the senate without a word of debate when presented by Senator King, Democrat, of Utah.

He did not even explain to the senate what the resolution was or the action of the conferees in accepting the two-year extension.

Meanwhile legislative drafting clerks were put to work by the house ways and means committee on President Roosevelt's new wealth distribution measure with Chairman Doughton asserting the hearing probably would begin today.

He said however he had not yet agreed with the rate suggested earlier this week by Chairman Harrison, of the senate finance committee, estimated to raise $340,000,000 annually.

They would impose levies on inheritances, gifts, and incomes above $1,000,000 a year and graduated factors on corporations.

Seeks To Tighten Money System.

Washington, June 27.—(AP)—Legislation to tighten up any loopholes threatening the nation's new monetary system was recommended to Congress today by President Roosevelt.

"Before termination of this session of Congress," the President said in a special message, "I believe that it is important that definite action be taken to eliminate uncertainty with respect to the rights of holders of gold clause bonds of the government to sue for payment either in gold or else in legal tender with an additional sum of 69 cents on every dollar.

"To this end I urge the withdrawal by the United States of its consent to be sued on its currency or securities.

"I recommend therefore the enactment of legislation which will make clear that it is our fixed policy to continue to treat the bond holders of all securities equally and frankly to afford any holder of any gold clause security who thinks he could by any possibility sustain any loss in the future, an opportunity to put himself immediately in a position to avoid such a future loss and to remove all possibility of any suit designed to hamper the government and administration of the public debt and in financing its ordinary emergency expenditures."
