Authorities Seek To Settle Furniture Strike At Sumter

THREE PLANTS CLOSED WITH 800 MEN OUT

Federal Labor Commissioner to Go Directly to S. C. City to Seek Settlement of Dispute; Williams Furniture Plant Closes Because Police Unable to Maintain Order

Columbia, S. C., July 11.—(AP)—State and federal authorities launched a joint movement to mediate the strike of furniture factory employees at Sumter today as a third plant closed down and the strike rank swelled to 800.

Governor Olin D. Johnston said J. L. Bernard, of Greenville, federal labor commissioner, planned to go directly to Sumter after a conference with authorities this morning. The governor who successfully mediated a textile strike at Union with Bernard three weeks ago, explained he had sent his brother, W. C. Johnston, to Sumter because it was impossible for him to go himself.

"I am acting now," he said "because there are no serious differences between the management and employees that cannot be settled, as I see it, and I wish to effect a conciliation before the strike becomes more grave."

Sumter, S. C., July 11.—(AP)—Disorders at the Williams Furniture Company plant which has been attempting to operate in the face of a strike today brought announcement that the mill would be closed at noon.

The notice of the closing published in the form of an advertisement in the Sumter Daily Item stated action was due to the "inability of the police to maintain order." The plant will be reopened, it was said, as soon as plans for maintaining order have been made.

COLORED JAIL BREAKER HELD

Amos Brooks Who Escaped Here in 1931 Again Back Behind the Bars

Amos Brooks, negro who broke jail here in 1931, was captured by officers here Tuesday and was being held for action in the next term of criminal court, it was revealed today.

The negro was picked up by police on Allen's alley shortly after he had jumped off an Atlantic Coast Line freight train.

He at first denied his identity but was established by a number of negroes who had known him in the old days and immediately recognized him.

Brooks was being held in the county jail on a charge of forgery when he escaped with four others. Three of the others were recaptured and with Brooks literally walking into the hands of the police again, only one remained at large. The negro had only been in jail two days, it was stated, when he escaped. He had also been given preliminary hearing and bound over to Superior court, therefore, another hearing will not be necessary. Disinclined to talk, the negro refused to admit he was the man that engaged in the jail break and also refused to say where he had been. He did admit having lived in Rocky Mount and one or two other sections off the track by saying he had never lived in this section.

Officers however, said his face was familiar and when taken before several colored people his identity was established.

PITT ACREAGE CHECK DRAWS NEAR CLOSE

Corps of Workers Expected to Finish Measurements Sometime Next Week

The checking of tobacco, cotton and peanut acreage in Pitt county was drawing rapidly to a close today with indications that work would be completed sometime next week, it was revealed today by E. F. Arnold, director of the local farm department.

The measuring program has been completed in Belvoir with indications Greenville township would be finished sometime this week.

Rain has held up work, the fields being so wet the checks were unable to make any definite progress. However, with clearing weather, it was hoped to complete every township within the next few days and have all records in the farm office by the end of next week at the latest.

The acreage measurements are being conducted on farms under government contract and in view of the fact that tobacco marketing cards will not be issued until the work has been completed, farmers are cooperating with the checkers in every way possible.

Sixty-odd men were placed in the fields about a month ago and it was estimated at the time that about forty days would be required to complete the checking of acreage of the three crops.

N. C. CONVICT SHOT WHEN HE TRIES ESCAPE

Willie Stewart Wounded in Attempted Break at Halifax Co. Prison Farm

Raleigh, July 11.—(AP)—Willie Stewart, 29-year-old New Hanover convict, was in the state prison hospital today seriously wounded after he and two other prisoners attempted to escape from the prison farm in Halifax county late yesterday.

Stewart, whose father and brother were electrocuted at state prison in 1929 for the killing of two prohibition agents, was shot in the body by guards, and Dr. G. R. Coleman, prison physician, said it was indicated his kidneys might have been punctured. It was planned to operate on Stewart this afternoon.

With Stewart in the attempted break were Ralph Ladd, sent to prison from Wilkes county for 7 to 9 years for highway robbery, and Roy Cobb, given 10 years in Nash county for assault with a deadly weapon. Ladd was hit in the left thigh.

Neither was seriously hurt and both were being treated at Caledonia.

ITALY SEEKS SOLUTION OF AFRICAN ISSUE

Il Duce Tells Officers Italy Cannot Continue to Be Wounded by Ethiopia

Rome, July 11.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini's reiteration of Italy's determination to seek a "solution integral"—complete solution—of the conflict with Ethiopia was revealed today.

His statement for determination was made yesterday to 120 generals and superior officers of a black-shirt division leaving shortly for East Africa.

Il Duce spoke to them behind closed doors in the Scalo delle Battaglie, or hall of battles in Venezia palace. He said that Italy as a great power could not continue allowing herself to be wounded by provocations of Ethiopia.

Italian officials fired the nation to new anger today with publication of reports of two more incidents of "Ethiopian aggression." An official communiqué said the Italian consul at Harhar, Ethiopia, was insulted and menaced July 6 and an Eritrean soldier attached to the consulate was clubbed and stoned by 20 Ethiopians. A protest was lodged at Addis Ababa.

SALISBURY WOMAN DIES WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Salisbury, July 11.—Mrs. Lizze Keever, widow of Josh Keever, who for many years was a Southern Railway engineer, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon on North Main street when struck by a car driven by George F. Conrad, a Southern Railway brakeman.

Mrs. Keever had just alighted from a street car and passed from behind the car in time to be struck by Mr. Conrad's automobile. She recently moved here from Monroe, where she had made her home for some years, and was going to call on a friend.

500 GALLONS OF LIQUOR IS SEIZED IN RAID

Two Men, Boat and 10,000 Gallons of Mash Taken in Pitt-Beaufort Counties

Pitt and Beaufort county officers in a smashing drive against illicit whiskey dealers of the two counties captured two whiskey distilling plants, two operators, 500 gallons of whiskey, 10,000 gallons of mash and a boat in the Tranter's Creek area yesterday afternoon, according to information given out this morning by Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst.

The stills were located on the Pitt county side of the creek and the whiskey was stored in a small house on the Beaufort county side of the stream. J. A. Caraway and a colored man whose name was not determined, are being held in the Beaufort county jail today awaiting hearing on a charge of manufacturing and possessing whiskey for the purpose of sale.

The small boat containing about 25 gallons of whiskey was found on the creek and Sheriff Whitehurst expressed the opinion the whiskey was made on the Pitt county side and then transported by boat into Beaufort county.

The tremendous amount of mash was stored near the still site and indicated, the sheriff said, that the manufacturers had gone into business in a big way, probably to combat the sale of legal whiskey which the two counties voted for so overwhelmingly in recent elections.

The liquor was stored in a house on a small island just across the creek from Pitt county with exception of the small amount discovered in the boat. The boat was confiscated along with the plant and beverage and will be disposed of by the authorities according to law.

Al though numbers of raids have been made in the lower end of Pitt county in recent years, that yesterday was the largest ever reported. Pitt and Beaufort county officers have been uniting in an effort to clean up border areas for sometime, and a number of stills and considerable amount of whiskey were seized in a series of raids last week.

Late News Flashes

Offers Potato Bill. Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Senator Bailey, Democrat of North Carolina, today offered the potato control plan as an amendment to the agricultural adjustment bill now being considered in the Senate.

He said the amendment was similar to the Warren potato control bill approved yesterday by the House agricultural committee which failed to ask a rule for immediate consideration and thus dimmed the prospect of the measure reaching the floor of the House through that channel.

The amendment would classify potatoes as a basic commodity and authorize a tax of 75 cents a hundred pounds of potatoes sold in excess of stated allotment. A favorable vote of the growers, however, would be required before the control plan could be put into force by the secretary of agriculture.

Bailey said a number of senators from potato growing states were behind the control program.

Recess Islands Hearing. Washington, July 11.—(AP)—The Senate investigation of the Virgin Islands was recessed subject to call of the chair by Chairman Tydings.

Democrat of Maryland, today on his return to the hearing room after a conference with the President.

The action was taken without explanation after President Roosevelt personally had taken a hand in the controversy between Secretary Ickes and Tydings over the conduct of the investigation by summoning both to the White House.

No indication of what the President said Tydings during their talk lasting an hour was given, beyond a statement by Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, who accompanied the territorial committee chairman to the White House.

Immediately on his return to the room where the probe was in progress Tydings abruptly announced the hearing was recessed and would make no statement beyond saying: "There is nothing to add to the Robinson statement."

Tokyo, July 11.—(AP)—Twenty-four persons were killed and 58 injured today by a severe earthquake in the Shikouka district of Japan from which America annually buys millions of dollars worth of tea and oranges.

A police survey showed the casualties and the more serious damage were confined to Shikouka City, 100 miles southwest of here, with a population of 136,000, and Shimizu, with a population of 56,000. A total of 47 buildings were reported destroyed with many more seriously damaged.

Fires broke out but were subdued before they spread seriously. Electric power plants were put out of commission and the cities were in darkness at 8 p. m., but authorities said they hoped to restore service during the night.

Mrs. Russ was born and reared in Greenville, the member of an old and prominent family. She was the sister of Mrs. W. H. Long and J. E. Williams of this city.

Mrs. Russ was the daughter of the late Dr. Richard Williams and Mrs. Henrietta Greene Williams of Greenville.

LIQUOR BOARD NAMED HERE; PUSHES WORK

Stores to Be Set Up At Greenville and Farmville Probably In 10 Days

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners meeting in special session at the courthouse here yesterday afternoon completed formation of the Liquor Control Board approved by overwhelming vote in this county Saturday, and the newly created organization moved immediately to lay plans for setting up stores in Greenville and Farmville.

The control board is composed of C. O. Horne, Greenville, chairman, S. T. Lewis, Farmville and J. R. Harvey, Grifton.

Horne and Harvey, who took the matter under consideration after being asked by the commissioners to serve the day before, informed the board yesterday afternoon they had decided to accept the positions.

Immediately afterward the new board went into session and discussed methods of procedure for setting up a store in Greenville and one in Farmville and probably in other sections of the county at a later date. Although it was impossible to say how long would be required to open the stores, it is probable this may be accomplished within the next ten days or two weeks.

The legislation authorizing establishment of stores in 18 counties of the state after favorable vote, must be studied, locations for stores secured, employees hired, stocks and fixtures obtained and scores of other things done before the board is able to throw open the first two stores.

The board made it plain today that persons having locations for stores to offer and others seeking employment would be required to file their applications in writing only with the local Control Board.

Pitt county people went to the polls Saturday and voted about three to one in favor of liquor control as authorized by an act of the last Legislature.

Acting speedily to carry out the mandate of the people, the board of commissioners met here Monday to select the Board of Control. The chairmanship was first offered to W. E. Hooker, who next day notified the commissioners he would be unable to accept on account of ill health. Another post was offered to A. W. Ange, of Winterville, but he also declined, stating that business matters would prevent his serving.

Mr. Lewis who was named at the same time, accepted. It was at this time the two posts were offered to Horne and Harvey.

Liquor stores already have been set up in several of the counties which voted in favor of the act, and others are pending.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News.

Washington

LAGGING: The undercover revolt against President Roosevelt on Capitol Hill gains new converts every day. If the boys voted as they talk in the cloakrooms they would defy the White House by recessing until late fall.

The members want to go home. They are dog-tired physically, mentally and politically. They judge from their letters that the country would like to relax and rest.

The great majority of their mail is critical and querulous. It reflects a general disillusion against any more reform measures at this time. The literary trend against the President started after the Supreme Court decision and has increased in volume.

The President is popular, personally. Constituents still seem to like his underlying objectives. But his more recent demands—constitutional revision, power legislation, a share-the-wealth program—have not made people rush to the ink bottle.

SUNK: The tax bill may set the spark to this talkative tinder. Except for liberals and a few White House friends almost nobody on Capitol Hill sympathizes with the three-point program. Democratic leaders on both sides privately would like to duck the issue until after the 1936 elections. In committee or on the floor they may subject it to some slick sabotage. The Republicans welcome the chance to

SEEK ACTION ON SPUD BILL IN THE SENATE

Proponents Scurry to Higher Branch When Body Seeks Action at Once

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Failure of the house agriculture committee to ask immediate consideration for a bill to control potato marketing sent proponents scurrying to the senate for action.

Discouraged because the house committee approved the Warren measure to make potatoes a basic commodity under the Agricultural Adjustment act but refused to act on special rules, Rep. Warren (D) N. C., said Senators would be urged to hitch the proposal to AAA amendments which the senate is now debating.

The house committee reported favorably the potato control measure but declined to ask the rules committee to give it the right of way in the house.

Warren expressed the opinion it was too late to get the measure before the house this session without a special rule.

Assurances an attempt would be made to get action in the senate, Warren said he had come from Senator Bailey, (D) N. C., and Senator White, of Maine, with whom the North Carolinian conferred late yesterday.

Meanwhile Rep. Cooley, of N. C., held hope of getting immediate consideration from the house rules committee although the house's committee voted down a measure for such action. He said this action would be required.

The Warren bill introduced early in the session would control potato production by imposing a tax of 75 cents a hundred pounds on potatoes in excess of sales allotment.

NEW ALIEN BILL BEFORE HOUSE

Deportation Asked For One Crime in Measure Introduced by Rep. Kerr of N. C.

Washington, July 11.—(AP)—Aliens, regardless of length of residence in the United States, would be subject to deportation if convicted of one crime involving moral turpitude, under a measure introduced by Rep. Kerr, of North Carolina, and now on the house calendar. The bill would place in the deportable class aliens who now avoid deportation for conviction by suspended sentence, payment of fines or by sentences of less than a year.

The present law provides that an alien criminal cannot be deported for one crime unless he is convicted within five years after penalty and is sentenced to prison for a year or more.

TEMPERATURE MOUNTS TO 114 IN KANSAS CITY

Mercury Climbs to New Seasonal Heights in Nebraska, Oklahoma and Other States; Kansas City Area Sees Mercury Rise to 103

Kansas City, July 11.—(AP)—Residents of the Middle West looked in vain today for abatement of the heat wave which has claimed 35 lives.

Andre Hamrick, federal meteorologist for the Kansas City area, said the temperature which reached 103 here yesterday, would go above 100 before noon today.

Phillipsburg, Kansas, with 114 degrees was reported the hottest place in the wheat belt yesterday.

Runners up included El Dorado with 102, Smi h Center, 100, Culver, Okla., 103, Bever, Okla., Gradsland, Neb. with 108 and Lincoln Neb. with 103.

JULY HANGS UP RAIN MARK

Precipitation Here Heaviest on Record; Crops Damaged only Slightly

Pitt county has had the heaviest rainfall so far this July of any similar month on record, but crops have been damaged only to a minor extent; in communities where precipitation was the heaviest.

B. T. Clark, local weather observer, said this morning his records showed 6.33 inches of rain since July 1 compared with 2.32 inches in June. The report covers precipitation through yesterday and last night.

While heavy rains have done damage to crops in some communities, E. F. Arnold, local farm director, said this morning he did not think crops in the county as a whole suffered to any extent. Precipitation was comparable to cloudbursts in some localities and in such regions, he said, the damage may be more than in the others where the rain was more general.

A heavy rain visited this immediate section yesterday and in the Winterville rain was accompanied by heavy winds which did some damage to corn and tobacco.

Around the first of the month rain was accompanied by hail which damaged over two hundred acres of tobacco between Greenville and Winterville as well as in some sections of the county.

While most of the storms have been accompanied by terrific electrical displays, only one person has been killed, that in the lower section of the county during the hail storm which wrought such havoc near Winterville.

The rainfall has not been general throughout the county, some sections getting showers one day and others the next, and the total precipitation in some probably may have been greater than in Greenville. Mr. Clark said rainfall the first 11 days of the month exceeds that of any similar period in the memory of the oldest inhabitants and certainly since records have been kept by his department.

To save citizens of towns not served by a dentist from long trips to obtain dental aid, Dr. Freeman Blunt of this city travels about in a large enclosed automobile trailer, fully equipped with dental supplies.

Charleson, S. C.—(AP)—With the drive expected to net a total of between 1,500 and 2,000 houses, 300 uninhabitable houses have been condemned by health officers here.

The houses have roofs that have fallen in, steps dislodged, no sanitary facilities whatever, holes for windows, whole families crowded into one small, poorly ventilated room, no water, and garbage laws are flagrantly broken.

Hindu Dhotis, Pancake Berets Give Beach Styles Air

Trousers, skirts and long bathrobe coats appear in these new beach costumes designed by Schiaparelli. The costume at left combines trousers of gold and white striped glared chintz and a loose linen jacket tied with a chintz sash. The one in the center tops a beach dress of golden yellow cravat silk inspired by the draped skirts worn by Hindu students, with a three quarter length coat of pink linen. The costume at right adds a bathrobe of rose, grey and green printed chintz lined with toweling to a green bathing suit. The pancake berets are fashioned of tent cloth.

Paris (AP)—The robes of Hindu students and the South Sea Island styles of Tahiti have inspired more beach styles to wear while lounging on sandy stretches this summer.

Schiaparelli has taken the dhoti—the draped skirt worn by the Hindu student—as a model for her latest beach frock designed of golden yellow English cravat silk with a skirt extended upward to swathe one shoulder. The other is left bare.

Helm favors the "pareos" which South Sea Island beauties wear as an inspiration for both swimming and lounge suits. He adopts them to modern bathing beauties in printed jersey, cut in an intricate pattern and swathed around the waist and hips.

The rest of the beach costumes which will dot this summer's sun-drenched sands are chiefly inspired by the figure and demands of the modern woman herself, with a general tendency to expose less epidermis than last year. There is a strictly tailored swing to many of them.

In the beach suits and frocks the trousered cut appears in everything from brief trunks to fairly long divided skirts. Mainbocher makes trousers of duck or pigskin combining shorts and a top with a tailored jacket. One outfit is fashioned entirely of white tablecloth linen and worn with a bright green Ascot scarf.

Lelong likes shantung beach frocks with divided skirts falling well below the knee and topped by bright flowered jackets or linen capes, while other designers combine shorts, which end a few inches above the knee, with colorful skirts and jackets or bare-backed chintz beach dresses and capes. Long beach coats of printed chintz lined with toweling are another 1935 design for lounging on the sands.

Miss Maria D. Graham was hostess to the college faculty and several other friends to whom she served a bountiful picnic supper on Tuesday night in the "Y" Hut.

It was in mood of a family gathering of the college group, with good companionship, good food, and Miss Graham's hospitality supplying everything needed for a delightful hour.

The party had been planned for the outdoors, but lost none of its charm when transferred, on account of the weather, to the "Y" Hut. The forest setting and simple turnshirts of the Hut and the formality of the occasion kept the outdoor atmosphere.

A long table at each end of the Hut was arranged for buffet service, with the same kinds of delicious food on each table. Fried chicken, baked ham, sliced tomatoes, sandwiches, rolls, pickles, cookies, and other picnic viands brought back memories of spreads in the "old home town." There was a hearty response to Miss Graham's invitation, "Help yourself." It was one of the most delightful parties enjoyed on College Hill during this social year.

Assisting Miss Graham in serving were Mrs. Horton, Miss Dorothy Odum of Kinston, and Miss Annie Mae Davis.

HURLS FRUIT JAR AT CAR, GETS SIXTY DAYS
Smithfield, July 11.—Throwing a fruit jar at an automobile is one way to stop a wife from riding around with other men at night. Sephus McLamb of Banner township, who was tried in recorder's court Tuesday for assault upon Tait Wilkins, appeared to the court. McLamb claimed that he was told his wife was in the car and when he made a vain attempt to stop the car by other means, he threw the jar. It struck the car and part of the glass cut Wilkins, who was in the car, but not with McLamb's wife. Judge Aycock gave him a 60-day jail sentence to begin on Sept. 10, and put him under $200 bond.

James Moye Ill.
Friends of James Moye will regret to learn that he is ill at his home on Evans street.

Miss Evans At College.
Miss Mavis Evans, a graduate of the college, delighted the students at the assembly hour this morning with her vocal rendition of John Prindlescott's "The Old Road." All enjoyed the song everybody loves, "When You Get Too Old To Dream," and her contralto voice gave an especially sympathetic interpretation of "Out of the Dark To Light."

She was ably accompanied by Miss Standler.

Georgians Told Of N. C. School and Road System

By J. C. BASKERVILL
Staff Correspondent

Atlanta, Ga., July 11.—How North Carolina operates its schools and maintains all its highways, county as well as state, with centralized state control and without levying any local property taxes for either schools or roads, was explained to the Georgia Legislative Committee on Economy and Taxation, meeting in the Henry Grady hotel here today, by Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction in North Carolina, and Charles Ross, special counsel for the State Highway and Public Works Commission. This committee is a special committee appointed by Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia to make a detailed study of ways and means of securing more economical administration of the Georgia state government. Having heard that North Carolina had greatly reduced the cost of operating its schools and maintaining its highways by consolidating the control of both under centralized state agencies, the committee invited Superintendent Erwin and Mr. Ross to come to Atlanta and tell it just how this state changed over from local to state control, how much money has been saved and how the new system has worked out.

The principal advantages of the state-wide school administration, is that it has provided a uniform, eight months school term for every school in North Carolina entirely supported by the state from indirect taxation and that the problem of supervision and administration has been greatly simplified, Dr. Erwin pointed out. This also resulted in bringing about a more economical administration of the schools, the entire cost of maintaining the public schools being reduced from the high peak of $28,500,000 in 1928-29, to $17,500,000 a year from 1933 to 1935, including the amounts which the counties put in for maintaining plants and equipment. But, Dr. Erwin intimated that in his opinion the reduction in the amount spent in maintaining the schools had been reduced too drastically and that the outlook for schools should be increased as rapidly as possible.

Dr. Erwin pointed out that the administration of the schools had been greatly simplified by reducing the number of school districts from about 3,600 to about 1,400 and the number of city and county administrative units from in excess of 200 to only 167. He also said that very better educational opportunity as well as greater economy had resulted from the discontinuation of many small one and two teacher schools and their consolidation with larger schools, as well as from the discontinuation and consolidation of numerous small high schools.

It was also pointed out that while in 1928-29 a total of $28,500,000 was spent on the state school system, all but $3,255,839 of this amount was derived from local taxes on property, since at that time the state contributed only $3,255,839 a year towards the maintenance of the public schools. But for the public schools, the state has been contributing $16,000,000 a year, or the entire cost of paying all teachers, principals and superintendents, as well as the entire cost of transportation and fuel. The only cost which the local units now have to bear is the cost of maintaining the school plants and providing necessary equipment, unless they levy local supplemental taxes with which to have a nine months school term or augment the state's allotment for salaries.

VACCINATION IN PARALYSIS NOT ADVISED

Health Authorities Not Sure of Serum as It Is Merely in Experimental Stage

Raleigh, July 11.—While there are two types of vaccine against infantile paralysis with which physicians are conducting experiments, neither of these has yet been proved to be an effective preventive of the disease and are hence both in the experimental stage, according to Dr. J. C. Knox, epidemiologist with the State Board of Health. As a result, neither of these vaccines or serums can be regarded as a certain preventive of infantile paralysis, although experiments so far conducted indicate that they may cause immunity or either reduce the intensity of the disease, if contracted.

Accordingly, parents of children are warned against having them vaccinated with either of these serums unless they are willing to take the risk involved and with the understanding that the serums are purely experimental and in no sense guaranteed to cause immunity against infantile paralysis. In Greensboro, where some 300 children have been inoculated with the Park-Brodie vaccine, the parents were all told that the vaccine was experimental and that while it might produce immunity, it also might not.

The only serum being used by the U. S. Public Health Service in its experiments in the state is the Park Brodie serum, developed by Dr. William H. Park and Dr. Maurice Brodie of the New York Health Department, since it is considered the safer vaccine and contains none of the living infantile paralysis virus.

Some private physicians over the state, however, have obtained some of the Kolmer vaccine, developed by Dr. A. J. Kolmer of Philadelphia, and have been administering it to their patients.

Both of these serums are made from the emulsified spinal cords of monkeys which have been inoculated with the infantile paralysis virus. In the Brodie serum, the emulsified spinal cords are treated with formalin, to kill the virus. One monkey supplies only enough vaccine for about ten doses. This vaccine is given by injection it both between the layers of the skin directly into the blood stream, in two inoculations about two weeks apart. So far, no detrimental after effects have been noted from inoculations with this serum.

The Kolmer serum or vaccine is also made from emulsified spinal cords of monkeys, but with the difference that the ground up spinal cords are treated or mixed with a solution of sodium ricinoleate, which is a sodium salt of castor oil, designed to reduce the effect of the infantile paralysis virus, which in this vaccine it still a living virus. Since this vaccine still contains the living infantile paralysis virus, it is not regarded as being as safe to administer as the Brodie vaccine, which does not contain any living virus. However, it is agreed that the Kolmer serum has been used with apparently good results in many cases.

Due to the fact that both of these vaccines are still in the experimental stages and that it will probably be several years yet before either one has been definitely proved to be an effective preventive or deterrent of paralysis, officials of the State Board of Health are hence advising parents not to put too much reliance in these serums. Instead, they are urging parents to keep their children out of crowds and not to permit them to go to theatres, swimming pools, picnics or even to Sunday School or church. They are also recommending that parents have their children lie down and rest an hour or two every afternoon in order to prevent fatigue, since it has been pretty well established that children in a fatigued condition, especially from a nervous standpoint, are inclined to be more likely to contract infantile paralysis.

Inflationists and bonuses mean to lead down with amendments distinctly unpalatable to the President. GOP-ers and La Follette's will move to broaden the base and tax everybody. They will get reinforcements among the Democrats. His leaders may then advise Mr. Roosevelt that they cannot check these thrusts. High-up Democrats are betting this; there will be no tax bill at this session. And it's certain the gang won't enact one on the eve of 1936.

REFORMS: The word is that President Roosevelt won't stand for any fudging. He has been frankfurthering again.

The Harvard professor spent a lonesome old July 4th weekend at the White House last Saturday and Sunday, although nobody but official attachés knew of his presence. He remained there while the President dined on Chesapeake Bay. The professor called for books and ink and paper. When he departed there were many mysterious documents awaiting presidential perusal.

Minor brain trusters smiled over this visit. According to them Mr. Frankfurter framed a six-point program for Congressional study and enactment after the Supreme Court decision. The taxation, youth and gold clause prohibition proposals are supposed to constitute half of the new demands. New NRA legislation is believed to be another, but the other two points remain a mystery. But Congress will hold it and when it is asked to undertake more reforms.

CRAMPED: Brain trusters don't make the charge publicly but off the record they insinuate that the House investigation of White House lobbying was inspired by GOP.

The man they mean is Chester C. Bolton, astute Ohio Representative and co-chairman of the Joint Republican Congressional Committee. They say they have proof that Mr. Bolton held many conferences with Ralph Brewster of Maine before the latter charged that "Tommy" Corcoran threatened to kill the Quaddy project unless Brewster voted "right" on the holding company bill. Another conspiracy or is supposed to have been Rep. Carroll Beedy of Maine.

Mr. Bolton is understood to have discovered the political dynamite in the incident. Mr. Brewster's charge worries the official fixers more than any recent development. It cramps their style in pushing through other bills with the same kind of tactics.

HOPEFUL: A small slight to Rules Chairman O'Connor of New York is causing the administration more woe than many major blunders of strategy and policy.

Mr. O'Connor's post as Rules Chairman is one of the three most important in the House. But it doesn't suit his temperament. John is a showy, talkative, excitable fellow. It has been his ambition to become Floor Leader, leading the charges and orations. He sought the place when Rep. Bankhead of Alabama fell ill, but House bosses handed the Acting Leadership to the plodding, dependable, elderly Mr. Taylor of Colorado. Tammany stalwart O'Connor got no help from FDR.

As Rules Chairman Mr. O'Connor has granted plenty of debating time to administration opponents. He has refused to permit roll calls desired by the White House. He has held up "must" measures in his committee. He fathered the investigation of lobbying by presidential spokesmen. Still hopeful of the leadership, he sides with the boys whose votes he will need if the position becomes vacant.

READY MADE WIFE
BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie and Gladys Moore have gone to the country place of Laurie's employer, Mark Albery, because Albery's wife is ill. Laurie is pretending to be married for Albery's benefit. The complication is that Albery himself is in love with Laurie.

Chapter 20
SURPRISE

A FOOTMAN opened a door leading off the great hall into a long room, full of soft lights and wonderful brocades and dull gilded furniture and mellow Italian pictures, and roses—roses—roses everywhere!

The room was empty. They had met some people when they arrived, an elderly lady, very fashionable, a relative of their host, an elderly man, and his chic, ultra-modern daughter. Glad hoped to get some hints from that girl.

"How lovely to be rich!" chanted Gladys to herself, as the footman shut the door behind her. "Mr. Albery is a lamb! I love him! Girls on the stage often marry millionaires! I wonder if I shall?"

The door opened again and a tall young man came in, smoking a cigarette and whistling light-heartedly.

He had rather thick features, which gave his face a blurred effect, but he was very good-looking, and exuded that curious magnetism that no one can describe. His eyes were hazel, with green lights, very merry; his hair was light brown and thick, but fashionably plastered; his ears were big and stuck out from his head, which was very broad on the top. His evening clothes hid their perfection under an air of belonging to him.

Gladys gave a little shriek. "Jimmy! Jimmy Smith! Here's happiness!"

The young man gave a quick, startled glance round the room; then his eyes came back to Glad's lovely little figure in the azure-blue frock that Laurie had made her. A dream of witchery, with her grey-blue eyes so deliberately inviting his admiration.

This was like a fairy tale, to find her boy here, the boy of the cigarette case, the boy who had taught her to eat oysters in the grill of the Midland Grand at Manchester, the boy of the stream-lined sporting car in which they had skinned over the roads like a long red-and-white bird!

"What are you doing here?" he asked.

"Staying here, pet! Are you? I'm with my sister—she's Mr. Albery's secretary."

"Staying here?" He looked at her, and with a quick movement, took her in his arms and kissed her.

"You're the same cuddlesome cutie!" he said teasingly, and lightly pinched her ear. "But, listen, you mustn't know me here! Don't ask questions! There's no time. My name's not Smith. I can't explain now. Somebody may come in any minute. You don't know me, Glad—understand? We've never met before. You're adorable, cutie, and I'll tell you later on. I'm just the same, but I'm not Jimmy Smith now. There's somebody coming!"

His voice fell to a whisper, as the door handle turned. "Don't play the fool, or you'll get us both in a hell of a mess!"

It was Mark Albery who came into the room, alone.

He smiled at the two young people. His eyes did not fail to take in Glad's spectacular loveliness, but it made no appeal to him.

"So you've introduced yourselves—that's right!"

He had the careless ease of the born host, never worrying about his guests, but making everybody feel at home by showing that he expected them to.

Gladys, who had the instinct of luxury in its crudest form, looked at him with flattering eyes, lost in an ecstatic "adoration" of his sheer wealth.

"I hope my young friend Jimmy Dallas will amuse you, Miss Gladys," he said. "According to his father, he only lives for pleasure. Sorry your people couldn't come tonight. Jimmy! An important political meeting at Cambridge, your father says. Well, he's the kind of a man the poor old country wants. Always puts duty first. There'll be a few young people dropping in after dinner to dance. You'll have to mind your step with Miss Gladys—she's a real dancer and is going to be famous some day."

Gladys nearly burst out that Jimmy knew that quite well. She just saved herself. She was angry with him, and for a moment her eyebrows met and her mouth dropped in those sullen lines that hinted at an ugly temper.

His name was not Smith; it was Dallas. He had been playing the fool with her in the North. And he didn't want their host to know that they'd met. Well, she wouldn't give the show away now. She'd wait and give him a piece of her mind later on.

Albery, who knew that Jimmy Dallas had been a great trouble to his father, a stern, narrow-minded moralist, with one of those iron wills that must dominate his entire family and surroundings, was inclined to be sympathetic to the young man.

Jimmy seemed to him to be much the same as all those of his class who had grown up in the post-war years of excess and brilliance of crisis and gloom. One couldn't expect those boys to drudge and slave as their fathers and grandfathers had done, building up the great businesses that were now crashing on every hand. Working without respite, under crushing taxation and vexatious labor conditions, for a future that nobody could foresee.

But then Mark Albery was one of those rare men with the Midas touch, a gift from birth. And all his life he had had the remarkable luck to be able to work and play as well. Besides, he was absolutely non-moral; a man lacking in conscience.

THE other guests came in. There were some people from the neighborhood, besides the house party, an equal number of men and women.

Gladys sat beside the handsome elderly man with the very modern, daughter. Her chatter, so unconsciously egotistic, seemed to amuse him.

She was a little intoxicated by her success. She looked at Laurie, further down the table. How quiet she was. Jimmy Dallas was beside her, but she hardly opened her mouth. Something had come over Laurie since her husband's return. She had got kind of dull. Glad was almost ashamed of her sister tonight. She looked as if all this luxury and gaiety was too much for her.

That was certainly not the case. Laurie, who had brains and character, and much more imagination than her sister, was far better able to appreciate her surroundings and keep her head at the same time.

But her three hours alone with Albery, although they were working hours, had filled her once again with that curious depression. And each time she met his eyes and he smiled in his friendly way, she felt that there was something deep in his nature that she could never understand.

Also, she was wondering if Rex Moore were on his way back.

"It's too hot to dance," said Jimmy Dallas to Gladys, some hours later. "I'm melting away. Come into the garden!"

He knew the place well, and led her across a big lawn, through a shrubbery, into a wild garden, where azaleas and sweet-scented peonies in rich tints of rose and apricot and flame made an exquisite picture under the moon.

There was nobody there and Jimmy took her in his arms, squeezing her tight, and covering her smooth, peach-bloom face with kisses.

"Flowerface, what a treat!" he murmured. "I never expected anything like this!"

Flowerface! His sweet nickname for her! The girl looked into his merry deceiver's eyes, trying to be angry.

"What did you want to call yourself Smith for, Jimmy? What was the game? Making a fool of me?"

"Darling, I couldn't help myself! Let me tell! My old governor is a perfect terror. He didn't know I was up there at all. Nobody did. I was supposed to be somewhere else. If he'd got wind of it, that I was having fun with the sweetest little girl in the world, I'd never have heard the end of it."

"You mean your father?" asked Gladys suspiciously. "But you're not so darned young—you're not a kid!"

"The governor thinks I am—an infant in arms! He wants me to do nothing but slave away at the bally old business. If he knew I'd been seeing something of you girls up there in Liverpool, he'd think I was heading straight for hell."

"Thank you, Mr. Dallas. I'm quite respectable!" said Gladys furiously.

"Sweet, I'm trying to explain the old man to you! He belongs to another age."

"Still—using a false name!" she objected.

He drew her to him.

"For Control Act," and 1,171 votes were cast "Against Control Act." This was a positive decision by Pitt County, as it voted, for Alcoholic Beverage Control stores. Upon this decision, under our form of government, we must assume that Pitt County, as a unit, wants Alcoholic Beverage Control, therefore it is the duty of the Board of County Commissioners to proceed to put into effect the will of the people as expressed. Apparently Pitt County is united on this question and should harmoniously go forward to accept the object of this unity. On what are we united? We are united in the desire to control the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquor in Pitt County. Certainly the 3,469 voters who voted "For Control Act" are sincere in their expression. Also it is certain that 1,171 voters who voted "Against Control Act" are sincere in their expression to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquor in Pitt County. Therefore, to the extent of forcing out of Pitt County "blind tigers" or illegal sale of intoxicating liquor, it is certain that Pitt County is united, and being united, we, the present generation in Pitt County, must go forward in harmonious effort to accomplish this clearly expressed object.

No one will contradict the assertion that the Board of County Commissioners has elected to compose the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board men who are highly esteemed for their honesty, integrity, and devoted lives, therefore Pitt County should show its appreciation for these men and their willingness to serve on this Board by diligent and wholehearted support, and cooperation.

How should this support and cooperation be accomplished? The following suggestion is submitted for serious consideration by the county as a unit:

1. That the enforcement officer, who must be appointed by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, shall inaugurate with the Board's approval a program to eliminate "blind tigers" or illegal sale of intoxicating liquor.
2. That public notice should be immediately given through the newspapers of the county that "blind tigers" or illegal sale of intoxicating liquor must be abandoned at once.
3. The injurious effects of the use of intoxicating liquor should be taught the people through newspaper articles, lectures in churches, Sunday schools, public schools and civic organizations, periodically and in good judgment and discretion until the need for Alcoholic Beverage Control stores does not exist.
4. Aggressive cooperation through the courts with the Federal Alcoholic tax unit; the sheriff's office of Pitt County, the several police departments in Pitt County, and the courts of Pitt County, and these departments of government at large who control the sale and use of intoxicating liquor in Pitt County and actually and earnestly prohibit illegal sale and transportation of intoxicating liquor in our county.

It is my firm conviction that the Board of Commissioners of Pitt County and the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board of Pitt County are honestly and sincerely determined to cause to be enforced the will of the people expressed in the recent election on the Alcoholic Beverage Control law, and to this end are determined to use every means under their control to cause this law to be strictly observed and enforced.

YEGGS BLOW TWO SAFES IN STORE AT WENDELL
Wendell, July 11.—Yeggs last night blew two safes in B. D. Honeycutt's store here, obtaining something over $70 in cash. The robbery was discovered this morning. The safeblowers entered the store through a window, cutting an iron bar in breaking through. One of the safes belonged to C. E. Clark, former owner of the store and it was from this vault that most of the cash was taken.

LOCAL LEGION TEAM BLANKS MANTEO 8-0

The American Legion Junior baseball team of Greenville, representing Pitt County Post No. 39, defeated the Manteo Junior team, representing Fort Raleigh Post No. 26, Dare County, at Third Street Park yesterday by the score of 8-0. The victory was the second straight for the Pitt County Post and eliminated the Dare County team from further play for the state championship. Joseph Hobgood, stocky youngster from Winterville, pitched a no-hit shut-out game for Greenville. The game, however, only went six full innings, being washed out after the locals had a merry-go-round in the last of the sixth, scoring six runs and knocking Gray, the visiting starting pitcher, out of the box. He was relieved by Duvall with one out in the sixth, two runs in, and four runs were added on a double, two singles and a base on balls. Although Hobgood got by with a no-hit game, he was in constant trouble, walking four, the second man in the first inning, and the first batter in the third, fourth and fifth innings. He struck out three, and uncorked one wild pitch. Greenville didn't hit a ball out of the infield for the first three innings. Gray pitched nicely, and the Manteo infield playing a flashy fielding game. Martin tripled to left center after W. Clark had fanned to start the fourth, but the big catcher was left stranded as Mumford popped out to third. Harold Forbes walked, and Fleming was thrown out third to first. Geo Clark opened the fifth with a single, stole second after Wells failed in an attempt to sacrifice, and a moment later scored the first run of the game as Wells cracked a long hit to left center for three bases. Laurens rounded to F. White at second base and a perfect play was made on Wells at the plate. It was mighty close, umpire Rosneck calling it safe, making the score two to nothing. Laurens was caught on the same play as he tried to go to second, catcher Davis making a perfect throw.

Martin singled to start the sixth, stole second, and scored as the visiting shortstop nicked up Mumford's roller and threw wild to third. Mumford poine to third base on the play when a play was made at home plate. Forbes was called out on strikes then Fleming singled to score Mumford. Gray was relieved by Duvall. J. White leaving the game and Gray going to centerfield. A stolen base by Fleming. Geo Clark's single, another by Wells, a pass to Mumford, and a smashing hit by Bill Clark in left field for two bases, scored four runs and ran the total to eight. Laurens fled to right for the second out, and after Martin had walked Mumford went out second to first for the third out just as a heavy shower came to prevent further playing.

The Manteo team was accompanied here by Coach Charlie Satterwhites, T. P. Davis, Commander of Fort Raleigh Post No. 26, T. E. Evans, Cashier of the Bank of Manteo and Adjutant of the Post, Mrs. Ella Greene, Chas. Hassell, scorer, and Rev. Adrian Brown, a former resident of Greenville.

AYDEN TO PLAY LOCALS TODAY

The Greenville-Ayden game scheduled for Ayden yesterday afternoon was washed out by a torrential downpour of rain but the two clubs will meet at Third Street school athletic field here this afternoon in the second game of the two-game series.

With Ayden near second place and pushing hard to oust the Greens from the top of the column, the contest this afternoon is destined to be one of the hardest fought of the season. The two clubs haven't met since they split the Fourth of July double-header and the old rivalry will reassert itself in old time form in the game today.

Other teams of the league were able to play yesterday and either advanced their position in the standing of clubs or found themselves at a loss.

With "Bo" Farley, former manager back on the third sack the Greens had the same winning combination on the field that they had before Farley was called back to Danville, Va., concerning his school work there. Farley was released by the local club to give him an opportunity to attend summer school, but he was able to make arrangements with Danville school officials to remain in Greenville and continue play with the local club for the remainder of the season.

"Ty" Wagner, hard-hitting catcher, was elected to succeed Farley who is considered the fastest third baseman in the league and certainly a much desired acquisition to the team. With both he and the indomitable Wagner on the field the Greens may be expected to continue to hold their place at the top of the column and add strength to their position from day to day.

SNOW HILL WINS

Snow Hill, July 11.—Fans attending yesterday's Snow Hill-Tarboro game here were given lots of entertainment not promised with the price of admission.

They were treated to a 12-inning baseball battle—won by Snow Hill, 6-5, as a result of John Griffin's homer to open the home half of the third extra inning. And they saw quite a few near-fights, viewed one real exchange of blows between rival players, had plenty of opportunities to yowl at Umpire Dowd, and were given the privilege of joining with other fans in swarming onto the field to demonstrate their distaste of the umpire's views of things and to get a better view of the bout between the scrapping players. It was a merry time.

HERRING CLIPS MARTINS

Williamston, July 11.—Bill Herring, one-time hurler for Williamston's Albemarle League club, came back to town today as a member of Goldsboro's team. Bill let the Martins down with four hits and gained a 4-3 victory.

In addition to slandering the pinch double, Gardner fanned each of the Bug batters who faced him in the ninth.

KELLER'S HOMER WINS

New Bern, July 11.—Charlie Keller's fourth-inning homer over the right field barrier produced all of Kinston's runs today as the Eagles defeated New Bern, 3-2.

Keller, with a homer and a single, and Greenberg, with a pair of singles, paced Kinston. Van Horn topped the Bruins by hitting a double and a single.

New York Cotton

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened fairly steady with a decline of 7 to 13 points owing to relatively easier Liverpool cables, continued favorable weather and liquidation.

After selling off to 1166 for October prices held fairly steady at the end of the first hour.

Trading continued quiet and prices held within a narrow range with October selling around 1165 at midday when the general list was 13 to 16 points net lower.

Futures closed steady 9 to 11 lower. Spots were quiet.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 11.—(AP)—While selective buying continued in the stock market today a number of issues while favorites backed up under profit taking pressure.

Trading was active at the start and prices were relatively steady. One block of 14,000 shares of General Motors changed hands at small advance. The volume dwindled later.

The alcohol found friends and increased sales predictions. The utilities were a bit heavier.

Wheat dropped sharply at Chicago on the government crop figures. Cotton slipped sympathetically.

Foreign exchanges eased in terms of the dollar. The late stock tone was heavy. Transfers were 1,200,000 shares.

Late News Flashes

of Bob Warr, who reportedly refused to sign a government contract to limit his acreage and to have threatened Mrs. Warr with a gun.

Mrs. Warr said a son came in about 10 p. m. last night and told her it sounded as though tobacco was being stripped off its stalk.

When she rushed out as far as the tobacco barn she said she met a group of night riders and was forced to go back into the house at the point of a gun.

She said she was unable to recognize any of the group because of disguises but believed she knew at least one of them.

The band destroyed between six and seven acres of tobacco on the Warr farm in the Mechanicsville section of Darlington county.

Modoc Officer Found Dead
Wilmington, July 11.—(AP)—The body of Lieut. William Shellhouse, executive officer of the Coast Guard cutter Modoc was found in his automobile on a causeway approaching the Cape Fear river twin bridge here early this morning.

Coroner Asa W. Allen who investigated the case said today the body was lying half out of the tonneau and was pierced by two bullet wounds with slugs evidently fired from a 44 revolver, found clutched in his right hand. There were indications of powder around each wound. The body was discovered by R. Brown, an ice man and a negro, James Heaton at 5 a. m.

Examination of the body showed one bullet entered the left side of the officer's chest and the other entered the left side of the forehead.

It was indicated the coroner would call another inquest for tomorrow to probe the case further. There were no clues left upon which to work and officers were inclined to scout the theory of suicide.

House Passes TVA Legislation
Washington, July 11.—(AP)—After eliminating every major provision objectionable to President Roosevelt the house today passed legislation to broaden power of the Tennessee Valley authority.

The vote for final passage was 277 to 100.

It now goes back to the senate for action on amendments added by the house.

The difference probably will be adjusted by a conference committee representing the senate and the house.

Already the utilities bill has been sent to conference by the Senate to attempt to agree on whether to retain the provision desired by the President or to eliminate unnecessary holding companies in seven years.

The House rejected this twice and the Senate approved it by one vote margin.
