PLAN TO OPEN
ABC STORES
COMING WEEK

Opening Set For
Thursday or Friday;
Locations Found
Here and Ayden

Four Alcoholic Beverage Control stores will be thrown open in this county probably next Thursday or Friday, it was revealed today by C. O. H. Horne, chairman of the control board, after several days of delay experienced in securing a warehouse and store site in Greenville.

The chairman announced his board had completed arrangements for converting the Higgs store on Dickinson Avenue, formerly used as a relief commissary, into a storage house and store, and that renovations would begin Monday morning and be completed in time for the opening the latter part of the week.

He also made known that orders had been wired in the for the release of four carloads of liquor purchased several days ago. The shipment, valued at approximately $25,000 is expected to arrive in Greenville Monday or Tuesday. It will be immediately removed to the storage warehouse, in the back of the Higgs building, assorted, and then transferred in appropriate quantities and brands to stores at Farmville, Ayden and Fountain.

The shipment will be the largest probably ever to arrive in Greenville, even in pre-prohibition days 26 years ago, when as many as thirty barrooms catered to the thirsty on the main streets of the city.

It was impossible to say which of the stores would be opened first, but Mr. Horne said the opening of all would come along about the same time. However, the town that gets its building in shape first, will get the first opening.

Work was being rushed forward rapidly in the remainder of the three towns, it was said, especially at Farmville and Fountain, where the first locations were obtained.

Along with announcing the location here, the chairman also said his board had decided that the Ayden store would be located in the old National Bank building in the heart of the business district. The structure is located on the corner of the main business street, and the Greenville-Kinston highway, hence in the exact center of town.

Considerable improvements will have to be made in the building, but like Greenville, work was being rushed forward rapidly and will be completed in time for Ayden folks to get their beverages along with the rest.

Commissary equipment was being moved from the Higgs building here today and will be cleared out by the late afternoon. Monday morning a force of carpenters will be put to work building shelves and counters and placing of equipment, also purchased several days ago.

The announcement of completion of arrangements for the opening was made just two weeks from the Continued On Page Four

POLICE COURT
FAILS TO SIT

Cases Scheduled For Hearing Today Continued
Until Next
Monday Morning

The regular Saturday morning session of police court was postponed today until Monday. Only three or four cases were scheduled for hearing and they were of a minor nature.

The postponement was caused by the absence of Chief of Police George Clark who went to Raleigh in connection with the capture of three suspects believed to be responsible for the unsuccessful robbery of two stores and wounding of a policeman here early Thursday morning.

Chief Clark was notified of the capture last night and left for the capital city early this morning to help establish the identity of the men, and to attempt to locate the car the yegmen stole from Jim Brown, colored, after tying the negro to a tree on the Farmville highway.

Police on duty at the department this morning said nothing out of the ordinary developed here last night and all attention was being turned toward Raleigh where developments in the robbery case are expected momentarily.

Most of the defendants scheduled to receive hearing Monday are charged with drunkenness and other minor charges.

Three Suspects Held
In Attempted Robbery

Three men, suspected of shooting Policeman John Mobley in an attempted robbery of two stores here Thursday morning, were to be returned to Greenville this afternoon from Raleigh where they were arrested yesterday afternoon following a three mile foot chase.

The trio gave their names as Ray Chappell, 21, and J. D. C. Chappell, 25, both of Raleigh, and W. C. Beaman, 27 of Wilmington.

They were to be returned to Greenville in the custody of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst, Deputy Sheriff Herbert Harris and Chief of Police George Clark.

Sheriff Whitehurst and Deputy Harris went to Raleigh immediately after being informed of the capture last night, and Chief Clark left this morning.

The officers were reported to have spent most of the morning seeking to recover the automobile the bandits took from Joe Brown colored, after shooting and seriously wounding Mobley in a pitch battle about two miles from Greenville on the Washington road. The bandits came back through Greenville while officers were carrying Mobley to the hospital, tied Brown to a tree with a close line beside the Farmville road, several miles from Greenville, and went on in the negro's car.

Sheriff Whitehurst was said to have told Raleigh officers that Beaman checked perfectly with the description given him by one of the men and he felt they had the right men.

Upon their arrival here the trio was to face Brown, who obtained a fairly good description of the bandits. Mobley probably will be able to say whether or not they are the men as he got fairly close to them in the first gun battle staged in tobacco town where the bandits attempted to enter the Smith Hines Co., and Bilbro Wholesale Company.

Although suffering bullet wounds in both arms and one leg, Mobley was reported to be getting along nicely today, having complications.

Shortly after noon yesterday, Raleigh police received a tip that the three men, wanted here for theft of a car Thursday about 11 a. m., were hiding out in the northern section of the city near the Seaboard Air Line Yards.

Several officers, some equipped with rifles, rushed to the scene and the chase ensued. Through thickly wooded sections, over the railroad tracks, and back in to a swamp, the officers chased the three men on foot. The chase covered a three and a half mile run in the captain Bruce Poole finally apprehended all three. Several men living in the neighborhood volunteered and aided officers in the capture.

Police Chief H. L. Pierce, returning uptown from his home at the time, came up on the group of officers as they sought the men. He joined them on foot and aided in cornering the trio.

Police Seek
To Identify
Three Yeggs

Raleigh, July 20.—(AP)—Efforts to connect three men arrested here on an automobile theft charge and with the attempted robbery of two stores and shooting of Policeman John Mobley in Greenville early Thursday had met with no success this afternoon when witnesses failed to identify any of them as those sought by police officers.

Chief of Police George Clark of Greenville, and Wilson county filing station operator whose name was not learned by Raleigh police, came here to see if the three men could be identified by the filing station man as being in a suspicious car which was filled with gas at his filling station.

Raleigh police continued to hold the three, J. P. Chappell, and Roy Chappell, 19, brothers of Raleigh, and W. C. Beaman, of Wilmington, on charges of wounding an automobile.

Chief Clark told Raleigh officers the filing station man he brought here believed one of the three yeggs being sought for the Greenville crime had driven a car the yeggs stole from Joe Brown, Negro, into his place of business Thursday and bought ten gallons of gas.

Police said the possibility the men might have been connected with the Greenville case was being pushed and other possible witnesses are being sought.

The Chappells and Beaman recently completed prison terms and their fingerprints will be compared with prints on the car the yeggs abandoned in Pitt county before they stole the negro's car.

NEW CONTROL
MEASURE FOR
'LEAF' SOUGHT

Possibility Separate Measure May Be Asked as Result of Roosevelt Confab

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—Continuance of a control program for tobacco despite the future of the farm administration was under consideration today.

Possibility the AAA may be ruled unconstitutional bringing down with it the tobacco program was receiving administration attention. In some quarters it was believed the stage was being set for a separate control bill for tobacco.

The fact that the future of the tobacco control program, which has boosted the price of that commodity to a level where producers are enjoying better prices than any recent year is under consideration it became known yesterday.

Rep. Hancock, Democrat, of North Carolina, discussed eventualities with President Roosevelt. He was silent about the meeting but admitted he and the president exchanged ideas on the future of the tobacco program despite AAA. The North Carolina representative is of the opinion it would be disastrous to abandon tobacco control.

Meanwhile, another problem confronted the tobacco situation. Under the George amendment to the AAA approved by the senate processors who have not shouldered processing taxes upon producers or customers will be given the right to seek recovery in the courts in the event the levies are declared invalid.

Tobacco companies under this provision possibly may be able to seek court action claiming they have paid processing taxes on the weed without passing it on to the consumer or making up for it in prices paid to consumers.

Principal Address
as Kiwanians Entertain League Club

The fine work of members of the Greenville club of the Coastal Plain league was praised last night by R. C. Deal, Eastern Carolina Teachers College humorist, speaking at the regular meeting of the local Kiwanis club.

The address climaxed the club's entertainment of the ball players and followed a delightful chicken supper served by members of the Woman's club.

Mr. Deal, himself a former ball player, and prominently identified with the athletic life of the college here, pointed to the splendid record made by the Greenville club in capturing two pennants in a row and making a strong bid for this year's honors, and declared the city should give the boys one hundred per cent support.

He enumerated the value of athletics to a community and paid tribute to the fine character of the college boys comprising the roster of the Greenville club. He said they represented the highest type of citizenship and deserved the best support it is possible for the community to give.

The speaker also told a number of baseball stories in connection with some of his experiences on the diamond.

Concluding his remarks, Mr. Deal paid a tribute to the liberality of G. V. Smith, president of the local club, who for years has lead baseball activities here, and said it was impossible to say what Greenville would do in the way of recreation during the hot summer months.

Mr. Deal then presented the club head with a bouquet on behalf of the city another winning ball club. The speaker was presented by H. H. Dunbar, a director of the baseball organization, who with Charlie Fly, was in charge of the program. The attendance prize given by Berry Bosic was won by Charles Wilkerson.

POCKETBOOKS

Two Health Workers
Short of $11 as Intruder Visits Health Department Here

Miss Susie Bursell, secretary to Dr. N. T. Ennett, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, left on her vacation yesterday exactly $10 short of funds because a thief rifled her pocketbook the afternoon preceding her departure.

The thief also was said to have taken $1 from the pocketbook of Miss Edna McKee, health department nurse.

The two young ladies left the office for a short time Thursday afternoon to return and find someone had entered their pocketbooks and taken all the money they could find. Had the intruder looked under a handkerchief in Miss Bursell's pocketbook he or she might have obtained several additional dollars, but pressed for time, he confined his attention only to the coin purse where the $10 bill had been placed by the owner shortly before.

Notified of the theft, officers began an investigation, questioned a suspect or so, but were unable to recover the money.

Although much stealing has been going on in the city for the past several months this is the first time the thieves have turned their attention to the health department where both time and money are given daily to relief of suffering humanity.

The theft was the second Miss McKee has experienced in the last several months, her pocketbook having been rifled of $25 at her home without the theft ever being caught.

Severe Heat Wave Sweeps Nation;
Thirty-five Dead

(By Associated Press)
The severe heat gripping the eastern half of the country and accompanying storms left at least 35 dead today with the probability that there would be no relief from the high temperatures over the week-end.

Chicago with 7 dead had a temperature of 93 yesterday, a new high for the season. South Bend, Indiana, was the hottest with 101. In Columbus it was 100 and several Mid-West cities reported thermometer readings in the 90's.

Storms sweeping New England resulted in temporary relief but cost nine lives, mostly death from lightning.

Cooling showers fell over Oklahoma and Texas.

Weather forecasters predicted for the most part that the heat would persist through Sunday.

Senator Bailey Plans

Washington, July 20.—(AP)—A senate weary from debate on intricacies of the triple a bill to day may be asked to include potatoes among the so-called basic commodities thereby setting up a control program.

Senator Bailey of North Carolina was ready to ask for action on a potato amendment reported earlier in the week by the senate agricultural committee.

The proposal is similar to the potato control plan offered in the house by Rep. Warren, Democrat, of N. C., which would provide a tax of 75 cents a hundred pounds on potatoes grown in excess of sales quotas.

IF YOUR JOB WAS AT STAKE

The private automobile driver has much to learn, so far as safety is concerned, from the operator of commercial vehicles.

From 1927 to 1934, the number of passenger cars registered increased 7 1-2 per cent—while the number of such cars involved in fatal accidents rose 55 per cent.

By contrast, during the same period the number of trucks in use increased 11 per cent—while the number involved in fatal accidents rose only 5 per cent.
Similar favorable records were made by buses and taxicabs.

The private driver is his own boss. He can take chances, get in accidents, and be as reckless and incompetent as he pleases without losing his "job"— unless the authorities step in. The commercial operator has to drive safely—or look for another calling. The reckless and incapable driver lasts about as long with a commercial vehicle concern as does a snowball in Hades—and the accident figures reflect that situation accurately.

If every driver adopted the attitude that his job and his livelihood depended upon his being safe and competent the accident toll would go into a tail spin at once. As a matter of fact, he has something even more vital at stake whenever he takes the wheel—his life, and the lives of others.
Thirty-five thousand people competently driven automobiles. Will that happen again?

a month. The White House spokes-to be an innocuous proposal, it struck him as harmful in several unrealized respects. Industry, the Senator argued, would fire younger hands to subscribe to its aged pensioners and a scarcity of young contributors would eventually bankrupt the federal system, according to the Roosevelt-Wagner

The Senator sees the possibility of an even more dangerous move

He fears that some employers may

READY MADE WIFE

SYNOPSIS: Rex and Laurie Moore are pretending to be married because it seems necessary in order that Rex may hold his job with Mark Albery, whose private secretary Laurie is, Rex realizes that he loves the other, and neither can bring himself to tell. Now Rex is having a call from "Gavin Drake," to whom Laurie had given an "interview" some time before, dealing with her supposed marriage.

Chapter 27

CROOK
MOORE stood in the doorway, looking down at his visitor. His stare was at first bewildered; then grew instinctively hostile, and finally a cold light of recognition came into his grey eyes.

"I know you," he said. "But I can't remember your name. You come from Sydney."

"My name is Gavin Drake. I am a newspaper man now, Moore. I'm over here on a holiday."

"That wasn't your name when I met you before," said the airman curtly, without asking him. "What do you want?"

"I should be grateful for an interview."

"I don't give interviews."

"But for the sake of old times!" persisted the young man in that dif-fident manner that Laurie had at first found appealing, particularly as she had been touched by his empty sleeve.

But Rex Moore was not touched at all.

"Come in," he said. "I know who you are now—you are Dunbar, of the Steadfast Insurance Company in Sydney who cheated me out of all my savings on that wild aerodrome scheme in Warratara. It was you who got me to teach you to fly and then tried to become a stunt pilot, and crashed and lost your arm doing a fool trick I'd warned you against, and went about telling everybody it was my fault. And you were sacked by your company and would have been prosecuted for embezzlement if I'd told what I knew. Only, like a fool, I was sorry for you because you'd lost your arm."

The young man's face had turned a sickly grey for a few moments, but he soon recovered himself, knowing that he held a trump card. He did not inform Rex Moore that he had already interviewed his wife. It was clear that Mrs. Moore had not told her husband. She had got the wind up.

They were in the living room.
Moore did not ask the young man to sit down.

"What do you want?" he asked again.

"Only an interview, Moore. You needn't be so snooty. Possibly I can be of use to you. I've got a commission for the New Sydney Record while I'm over here, and I'd be obliged for a little story about your recent flight."

"I've given all I'm going to, thanks.
You're too late."

"Then, a little personal story, Moore. About your romantic marriage. All Australia would be keen on that. Particularly the women. A few facts, you know—when you were married, who married you, why it was kept a secret. I may say that I cabled over a little copy, just a few casual remarks on 'spec, you know.
But it seems they can't find any record of your marriage, and it would go down like hot cakes, a statement from you."

REX MOORE towered over the young man.

"Blackmail, is it?" he asked quietly. "It won't do, Dunbar. What do you mean—they can't find records of my marriage? Who wants to find any? Whose business is it when and where I was married?"

"But my dear chap, of course it's frantically interesting down there!
And to an Australian girl. You must see—"

"I see nothing, except that my business is my own," said the airman shortly.

"You might have a heart and give me a leg up," put in Gavin Drake, with his most ingratiating smile.
"Of course I don't want to do anything you wouldn't like, but I am in rather a bad way, and a good newspaper story would be the making of me. I wouldn't dream of doing it without your consent, of course, but you know how the public all over the world gobbles up a mystery—"

"Out with it!" interrupted Moore.
His eyes were stormy. "Is it blackmail or is it not?"

Gavin Drake took heart. He had evidently landed a blow. He was

BAG: Small-game hunters need not worry about prospects for fall shooting. Despite demands for a closed season, Sportsman Darling and Roosevelt will not declare a moratorium on the ducks.
It looks like it for a time. Biological Chief Darling has received almost 300,000 protests against declaration of game. Some come from professional, long-haired saviors of the fowl, but many were forwarded by hunting and fishing enthusiasts in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, feeble and knew it but his opponent was vulnerable.

"That's no word to use between you and me, Moore," he said, with an attempt at dignity. "I'm afraid I must admit that I'm down and out, and for the sake of old times, you might feel inclined to help me out —a loan, you know. Of course, I would repay it."

"That's right—it is blackmail," said the airman in a quiet tone of concentrated rage. "If you weren't a cripple, I'd kick you out of the place. My private affairs are my own. If you dare to cable anything about them to your beastly newspaper—and I don't believe you've got a commission for the New Sydney Record at all—if you so much as mention my name or my wife's in print, or spread any lying stories about me, I'll send all the information I have about you to Sydney and inform the police here, and you'll go to jail, where you belong! And that's all I've got to say. Good-morning!"

The young man was livid. Behind his thick glasses his little dark eyes saw red. But he controlled his rage and his panic and gave a little laugh.

"Good Lord, Moore, don't look as if you'd like to murder me! I didn't mean any harm."

"All right, then! Get out!"

He walked behind the young man to the front door, and slammed it behind him.

His temper was up. He had no prudence in his nature. He did not even realize that he had been foolish, that no public man can afford enemies, however small, however discredited. Certainly not when there is a decided chink in his own armor.

That was Rex Moore's way.

THE next day a young man with yellow hair, a small moustache, and heavily-lensed spectacles, called at the Albery office building on the Embankment and asked to see Mark Albery. He gave his card, inscribed—Gavin Drake—with the words "from Sydney, Australia, representing the 'New Sydney Record'" written on it.

His card did not reach Mark Albery.

He was told that Mr. Albery never granted interviews with strangers.
It was impossible to see Mr. Albery in his office without an appointment.
The polite clerk gave the young man to understand that Mr. Albery was unapproachable as royalty.

Gavin Drake did not make an appointment. Instead, he went to Albery's flat in Chelsea, rather late that same evening.

He ascertained that Mr. Albery was at home. He must have had an uncanny instinct, for he wrote on his card exactly the right message to procure him admission to the great man's presence. He wrote that he was from Sydney, Australia, a newspaper man, and that he would be very grateful if Mr. Albery would spare him a few moments. He had some important news concerning Mr. Rex Moore.

Albery's mind, insane with jealousy, responded automatically to Gavin Drake's mind, insane with hatred and revenge. He happened to be alone and he told his butler to show the visitor into his study.

As soon as he saw the young man, his knowledge of all sorts and conditions of men made him say to himself—"A blackmailer!" He smiled and indicated an armchair near to his own.

Gavin Drake was full of nerve tonight. He had the unmistakable feeling that luck was with him. He was going with the tide. He did not trouble to choose his words. He said whatever came into his head.

"You are a newspaper man from Australia, Mr. Drake?" asked Albery in his toneless, commanding voice. "What paper do you represent?"

The young man explained about his roving commission from the "New Sydney Record."

"And you say you have news concerning Rex Moore, the airman?
Are you a friend of his?"

"An acquaintance, sir. I knew him in Australia."

"Do you come here as a friend of his?"

"Not exactly. I have come to give you a piece of information that I think you ought to know. And, although he was not aware of it, his voice revealed all the venom and spite in his soul."

"I see. Then, you would not like me to ring up Moore and ask him to come alone? He lives quite close."

"No," the young man looked alarmed.

"All right!" Albery was now satisfied. "Tell me, please, what you know and think I ought to know."

But he thinks he has solved the problem. He has recommended to Hunter Roosevelt that ten birds a killing regulations permit the killing of from five to twelve a day in various species, the new proposal is supposed to strike a happy balance. It is understood that the President will approve it with a few modifications which will placate the extreme conservationists.

SYNOPSIS: Laurie and Rex Moore have only pretended to be married, so that Rex may hold down his job with Mark Albery.
But now Gavin Drake has called Australia, where the wedding was supposed to have taken place, and found there was none. He tries blackmailing Rex, without success.
Now he has gone to Rex's employer, who has indicated that he will listen to his story. Albery is in love with Laurie.

Chapter 28

SILENCE BOUGHT

"AS I understand you are behind Moore, sir," Drake went on,
"and financing him, I feel you ought to know that he is deceiving you and everybody else who has been making such a fuss over him. He is making a fool of all the world. He is not married to that girl he is living with.
He never was."

"Indeed!" Albery showed only faint surprise. "Are you sure of that, Mr. Drake?"

"Positive. I had my doubts all the time, since I came over from Australia. My paper would naturally have welcomed a story about Rex Moore. So I cabled a friend in Sydney to make enquiries, and the answer is that there is no record of any marriage between Rex Moore and any woman, either in Sydney or anywhere in Warratara County, where the bride was supposed to have been living."

"Dear me, that is certainly strange.
Albery had got the hang of it by now. He knew that the young man had been to Rex Moore and been heavily turned down. His own mind was immediately made up. "I suppose you have evidence that you can give me?"

"Certainly, sir. I consider it a shameful fraud on the public. Moore has dragged this young woman into decent society under false pretences.
Why, I am told that she has been working in your own firm for years!
It seems a disgraceful business all round. I did not feel it right to leave you in the dark." He handed Albery a bundle of papers. "Here are my friend's statements by cable."

Albery examined them with apparently absorbed interest. But his mind was busy with his own affairs.
This might be true, or it might not.
It probably was. This unpleasant young man evidently bore a grudge against Moore. He must have gone to great trouble and expense to get these facts.

"LOOK here, Mr. Drake," he said, after a few moments, with the quick smile that gave such charm to his impassive Eastern face. "I am glad you came to me. I suppose your idea was naturally that you might turn it to your advantage and raise the circulation of your newspaper by sending them a most intriguing story?"

This was not true. The young man's one idea tonight had been to damage Rex Moore in his employer's sight. But Albery's words presented another possibility.

"Well, sir, things have been going badly with me," he stammered.
"You see, it's not so easy for me to get work." He mentally indicated his empty sleeve. "A really good scoop would be a great thing for me, but, of course, I can't say I'd really thought of that."

madge may not hurt FDR with their anti-New Deal sniping in 1936. Even if they elect anti-Roosevelt delegations to the national convention, they will be tossed out the door by Jim Farley. But the Louisiana and Georgia bad boys are making it hard for Congressmen from about six states in the deep South.

Most southern members are exhibiting their traditional loyalty to a Democratic President—Glass and Byrd of Virginia excepted. They are voting for measured extremely unpopular among their constituents, and they knew it. More than most other sections the South fiercely resented Mr. Roosevelt's Supreme Court lure with its suggestion of abolition of states' rights and lines.

Gov. Talmadge and Senator Long plan to put these boys on the spot.
They will face severe opposition and cross-examination in the primaries. They will have to bare their real attitude toward experiments which displace their constituents. And the victims are shiv-

"I am glad you came to me," said Albery suavely, "because I am more interested than most people in Rex Moore and his career. For the moment I don't want his activities interfered with. You see, his private life cannot affect his job. As a man, Mr. Drake, you must understand that."

"I am expecting him to do some good work for me and for aviation in general. But I quite see that you could have profited materially by your information in giving it to the Press. Nothing pays like a good scandal nowadays. So that I am prepared—in fact, I feel I owe it to you, Mr. Drake—to make up to you for your loss."

"In return for your promise not to mention these facts about Rex Moore to the press, or to any individual, in print or by word of mouth, I will pay you what you might have expected as remuneration at the moment. How much would that be?"

"Well, I really couldn't say, sir.
I'm sure you're very kind. I don't like taking money, but I've had a bad time."

"Shall we say two hundred pounds, Mr. Drake?"

"I'm sure it's very generous, sir."
"And," added Albery very deliberately, "I shall be glad of any further information on the subject. I will make it worth your while. Now, I hope we understand each other. You can ring me up and make an appointment at any time. I expect you would prefer notes to a check. I think I have enough in my safe. I will go and fetch it."

A FEW minutes later the black mailer was gone.

A sorry creature, reflected Albery, but he would have made use of the devil himself in such a cause.

If his story was true, then, Laurie Moore was a liar and a cheat. She had been associated with Rex Moore in Australia, but the rumor of their marriage was untrue, and when she thought he was dead, she had posed as his wife, in order to make as much as she could out of it.

And Moore, when he came back and found her in England, had forgiven her the deception, because it suited him.

That did not make her any less desirable in Albery's eyes. It did not cool the flame of his passion for her.

In fact, it brought her nearer to him, even though he knew that she loved Rex Moore. In spite of his infatuation, he did not want to marry her. If this were true, then he gave him a better chance.

Against Rex Moore his account was piling up. Rex Moore had made a fool of him. Rex Moore had the woman he wanted.

His self-esteem was wounded, and it made him pitiless.

From that moment the idea took root in his mind, and from that moment his whole energies were bent to carry it out. Fixed, implacable, merciless; it became an obsession.

Rex Moore must be got out of the way.

Rex Moore answered the telephone in the Chelsea flat about six o'clock in the evening, a few days later.

"Is that you, Rex? Laurie speaking. I shan't be able to get back for dinner. Mr. Albery has to work late."

Moore frowned at the instrument.

Rex gets a difficult assignment, erling. They figure that the solid South for the first time—1928 can be discounted—will vote on issues rather than prejudices hanging over from 1861-1865. Maybe Mr.

Roosevelt will break the "solid South" yet!

SUSPICION: The widening rift between the U. S. Department of Labor and the American Federation is worth watching. The Department undoubtedly meant well with its "Toledo plan" for settling labor disputes, but it could hardly have picked a surer way to rile Bill Green and his associates.

Conversely, leading industrialists think well of the plan. Why wouldn't they? It provides for a prolonged series of mediations before a union can resort to its right to strike—thus giving the employer ample time to make preparations which would minimize the effect of the walkout.
This in turn would encourage employers to take a firmer stand

Summer's Fashion Recipe Calls For 'Dash Of White'

This is the way Paris accents dark frocks with white this summer. To a dark blue tulle Chanel adds a blouse of white linen with petal collar and cuffs and a little toque of white pique. The mode of white with dark is what might be termed a "prevailing fashion." White hats or black hats trimmed with white flowers or ribbon are much in evidence. Black or navy blue frocks are sprinkled liberally with white flowers, figures, ribbon bows or scrolls. "White blouse frequently are used to give the contrasting touch."

By ADELAIDE KERR
Paris.—(AP)—"Add a dash of white" is the fashion formula for summer chic.

White accents around throats, wrists and waists, on hands and on heads give zest and piquancy to black and navy blue frocks worn in town on hot days.

White carnation cape collars, daisy garlands and anemone clusters are favorite floral neckpiece accents. Besides these there are any number of white fabric collars of all sizes and varieties—pique models cut to resemble a chain of petals.

White hats appear in models which vary from small toques to wide brimmed designs. Flower caps with deep visors covered entirely in white violet and broad brimmed white hats finished with a dark band about the crown appear on warm days, while many black straws are trimmed with a white grosgrain ribbon or white pique flower.

Many black or navy blue printed crepes for afternoon wear are peppered with white figures such as stars, leaves, birds or ribbon scrolls while a number of black afternoon outfits are brightened by some such touch as a white lining in the collar of short black tulle afternoon coat topped a dress of the same material.

White steps out at night too. White capes of organdy, linen or fox top colorful evening gowns; printed chintz dresses are splashed with white figures and printed linen dance frocks finished with white organdy hems. Even old fashioned white petticoats appear, one black organdy gown being worn over a white organdy petticoat trimmed with narrow lace edging.

After New Record

It's pretty generally agreed among the sport experts that somebody will have to do some mighty tall diving to beat out pretty Dorothy Paynton Hill of Los Angeles, champion platform diver, in the National A. Guy Williams, Furman University product, gave an exhibition of how to scatter opposition hits yesterday. As a result, Greenville won over New Bern 8 to 3, although the losers matched the winners in total hits—13.

Three triples and two doubles were included among the Greenies' hits, and four doubles and two triples were part of the Bruins' collection.

Greenville got enough runs to win—four—in the second inning. Dean walked, Johnson singled, and Farley walked to fill the bases. Flythe forced in a run by walking. Farmer, Andreoli replaced Flythe. Williams hit a grounder to Shipp, who errored. Bostic singled to score Farley and Farmer.

Bunched hits brought Greenville runs in three later innings. The Bears' runs came in the last three innings.

Shipp, Sewell, Eason, and Cleary, each with a pair of hits, paced New Bern. Andy Johnson, with a triple and three singles, and Chubby Dean, with a double and two singles, batted .1000 to top the Greenies.

KINSTON BEATS AYDEN
Kinston, July 20.—The Eagles won a 5-4 decision over Ayden here today. The visitors trailed for the six innings, staged a rally in the seventh to go one run ahead and then saw victory snatched from them when the locals counted two in the same frame. A walk to Tommy Irwin and a homer by Jim Morgan gave Kinston the game-deciding runs.

In the first Hank Greenberg's little brother Joe hit the first ball pitched over the fence to give Kinston a start.

In the third Jack Seasholtz, new rightfielder from Altoona, Pa., walked. Irwin singled and Morgan doubled to make the count 3 to 0. Ayden got one in the fourth. Johnson and McCusker singled. Kowals hit into a double play, and Johnson scored on the play.

Rowles hit into a double play and Johnson scored on the play.

SNOW HILL HOLDS PARTY
Snow Hill, July 20.—Something of a record for a one-inning scoring party in the Coastal Plain League was set today when Snow Hill scored 13 times in the fifth inning of a game with Goldboro. The final count was 19-8 and you're right as to the winner.

The locals mixed six hits with eight walks and two hit-batsmen to get their backer's dozen of tallies in the fifth. John Griffin hit a homer with one on to set things in motion. Four Goldboro hurlers—including Newborn an outfielder, and Webb, first sacker—were targets of the scoring.

Griffin hit a double and a single in addition to his homer. Perry homered for Snow Hill with one on in the second and he also made a single. Ralph Williams, Paul Cheek and Buddy Crump each contributed two hits to the locals' offense.

Woody Lambeth, with a triple and three singles, batted .800 for the losers. Bill Herring hit a double and a single to bat 1.000 and Webb made three hits for four efforts.

CASTOFF BITS MARTINS
Williamston, July 20.—Cecil Brake Williamston castoff, shone for Tarboro yesterday as the Edgcombe boys defeated the locals 5-4 in one of those 2 1-2 hour games.

Most of the game's scoring came in the first inning Tarboro tallied two and the Martins made four in that stanza.

Hits Brake and Bassin, followed walks to Chumbris and Male gave Tarboro its first inning runs. The locals got their quartet of tallies on as many hits, including a homeer by Manager Henry House with one on.

Garner, Martin's starting pitcher was relieved in the seventh by Abbott after allowing a total of eight hits and six passes. Guan pitched for Tarboro until the seventh when he was relieved by Earp.

Brake handed the real insult to his old club when he banged a double in the sixth to send in two tallies and end a three-run spurge by the cellarites when Lane drew a pass.

date of the control election in which Pitt county people voted nearly three to one in favor of establishment of beverage stores.

The control board has met night and day since its appointment the middle of last week in an effort to secure locations, and was delayed considerably by the tieup in negotiations here. Two other buildings were given consideration until yesterday without a chance of immediate occupancy. Then the board found the Higgs building could be obtained and late yesterday afternoon closed negotiations with the owners.

ETHIOPIA READY FOR GENERAL MOBILIZATION

As thousands of Italian troops concentrated in east Africa in mood for war, Ethiopia speeded its defense preparations and an order for general mobilization of warriors was expected momentarily. These pictures give some idea of the Ethiopians' determination not to be caught napping. Upper left shows a machine gun detachment in trench maneuvers. In the center is a typical native infantryman in field drill, and at the right above is a group of porters bearing ammunition to soldiers guarding the frontier. Below at the left is an Ethiopian army filer and at the right are bare-footed infantrymen on the march. (Associated Press Photos)

Thirteen Killed in Plane Crash
San Bernardino, Calif., July 20.—(AP)—Thirteen persons were killed today in the crash of a Royal Dutch airline passenger plane which fell near here and was destroyed by fire.

Two of those aboard were alive when rescuers appeared but died shortly afterwards. All on board were believed to be of Dutch nationality.

The plane flying from Frankfurt-on-Main, to Milan, Germany, appeared out of clouds of fog and struck trees in view of the village of San Giacomo three miles from here.

The plane carried ten passengers two pilots and a radio operator. The plane tried to land in the narrow valley presumably because of motor trouble but there was no suitable field and it crashed into a group of trees.

Cruelty Charge Before Jury
Charlotte, July 20.—(AP)—The case of three former prison officials indicted after two negro prisoners lost their feet following incarceration in a "dark cell" at a chain gang camp near here last winter was given to the jury in Mecklenburg county Superior court at 1:55 p. m. today.

Arguments were completed at the morning session and Judge Wilson Warlick delayed lunch to complete his charge to the jury.

At 2 o'clock the jury was taken to lunch and had not begun its deliberations.

When all testimony had been offered Judge Warlick dismissed charges of assault with intent to kill against Dr. C. S. McLaughlin, former prison physician, and R. C. Rape, former guard.

Judge Warlick, however, declined to dismiss the assault charge against the third defendant, Henry C. Little, former superintendent of the camp, and left Dr. McLaughlin facing only a charge of neglect of duty, a misdemeanor.

Senate Reaffirms Position of Tax
Washington, July 20.—(AP)—The senate today overwhelmingly reaffirmed its decision against imposing a compensatory tax on dayon and other competitors of cotton by rejecting 62 to 13 a motion to reconsider the question.

Opponents of the Rayon tax denounced it variously as "unjust" and as a "surrender to the silk industry." Senator Wagner, democrat of New York, argued that silk is a stronger competitor to dayon than rayon is to cotton.

Senator Russell, of Georgia, made the motion to reconsider the vote which the senate Thursday rejected the AAA amendment applying to rayon equal to 125 per cent of the processing tax on cotton. "This congress has gone to extremes in looking after the cotton growers," Senator Glass, Democrat, of Virginia said during furious debate on the proposal.

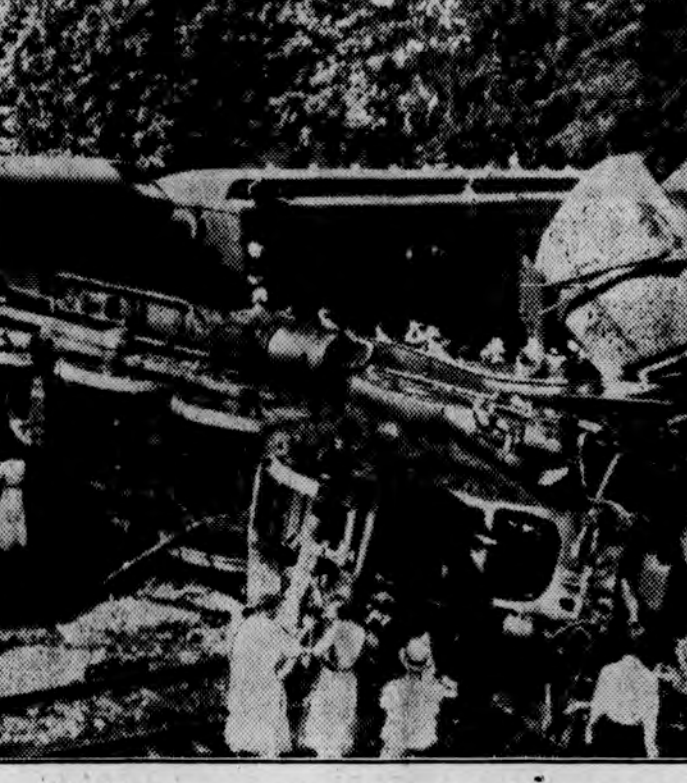

He said one rayon factory in Virginia employed 5,000 workers which meant that 20,000 people were dependent upon it. "And yet the senate without one word of hearing precipitates this proposition to tax out of existence this industry that is yet in its infancy."

ARREST WHITE OAK MAN FOR FATAL CAR MISHAP

Greensboro, July 20.—Posey Pearman, of 11th Street, White Oak, was arrested this afternoon and held for Virginia officers when the police received a telegram from Martinsville saying Pearman was wanted for manslaughter.

Pearman did not resist arrest and said he would willingly go to Martinsville. Some time ago his car hit a Martinsville resident and inflicted fatal wounds. Pearman had been over to see the victim of the accident.

THIS LITTLE WOODCHUCK WENT TO THE UNIVERSITY

Ann Arbor, Mich.—(AP)—One little pig went to market, but this Canadian woodchuck went to school.

He hitched-hiked his way, too. He arrived at the University of Michigan with A. L. McDonald, local business man who made a trip to Canada and found the animal in his automobile on the way back. McDonald turned him over to Miss Crystal Thompson curator to visual education in the university museum.

Chuck thereupon scampered over a lot of books, collected several bits of cloth and made a nest for himself.

JOHNSTON MAN TAKES OWN LIFE

Smithfield, July 20.—Robert Carl Lee, 39, farmer of Johnstonville township, Johnston County, committed suicide early Friday morning. Mr. Lee got up around 6:00 o'clock, asked his brother about some gun shells, telling him he was going out to shoot a rabbit. He passed his mother on the porch and told her the same thing, then walked about 100 yards from the house into the woods, placed the muzzle of the gun in his mouth and pulled the trigger with a forked stick that he had cut and trimmed. The contents of the shell tore up his head and, it is thought, death was instantaneous.
