PITT KILLER ARRESTED AT NORFOLK, VA.

William Reeves, Colored, Wanted For Death of Zibe Barnhill, to Be Returned

William Reeves, 40-year-old Bethel community negro wanted in connection with the death of Zibe Barnhill, colored, near Bethel about a year ago, was arrested at Norfolk yesterday afternoon. Sheriff Sam Whitehurst was informed by long distance telephone last night.

The sheriff said this morning he would determine whether Reeves planned to flight extradition and proceed immediately to Norfolk to return him to Greenville to face preliminary hearing.

Reeves is charged with hitting Barnhill with a club in an argument near Bethel. The aged man was not believed to be seriously injured at the time but died a few days later. In the meantime, Reeves had been placed under a small bond pending the condition of Barnhill. When Barnhill died and officers went to seek Reeves, they found he had fled.

Although officers in several states were notified, nothing was heard of Reeves until yesterday when Norfolk police informed the sheriff they had his man.

The first warrant issued against the negro was for assault, and a new warrant was drawn up today charging murder.

For Throne?

As political rumors spread that Greece is on the verge of voting whether to restore ex-King George (above) to the throne, the former monarch was ready, so a British airplane pilot said, to fly from London to Athens. The report was denied by George's aide, Major Levidas, who termed it a "lie." (Associated Press Photo)

JAP GUNBOAT BLAZES AWAY ON AMERICANS

Missionaries Reported Machine Gun Fire Upon Arrival at Hankow, China

Honkew, July 22.—(AP)—The American missionaries of the American missionary Choo of Huping college at Yochow, Hunan province, reported today they were subjected to machine gun fire from Japanese gunboat July 18.

The missionaries reported the alleged incident when they arrived here from the post in the vicinity of Tungting where the gunboat which was not identified was said to have been cruising.

It was suggested here that the incident was an accident arising from gunboat target practice on Tungting lake.

FRESH BANS ON CATHOLICS IN GERMANY

Jews Also Included in Late Restrictions Issued by Nazi Organization

Berlin, July 22.—(AP)—Fresh bans against Catholic youth organizations were issued in the Palatinate today with indications that similar restrictions may soon be expected throughout Germany.

The machinery of the Nazi press was involved in the general fight against political Catholicism and Jewry with both Catholic organizations and Jews included in the term "reactionaries."

Reichsfuehrer Hitler's newspaper ranks political Catholicism as "public enemy No. 1, while Nazi antagonism against Jews was disclosed at increased heat.

From the Palatinate came word that Catholic youth organizations can no longer wear their district garb in public nor display their flags or emblems.

They also were forbidden athletic activities as organizations.

It appeared but a question of time when all Nazi district leaders throughout the Reich will have issued the same bans on Catholic organizations.

Two factors apparently were delaying more stringent action against both the Roman Catholics and Protestant churches—consequently arrests which had threatened against all priests who commented on political subjects from pulpits yesterday did not take place.

The first factor is the fact that man designated by Hitler to handle religious affairs as a cabinet minister, Hans Kerrl has left on a three weeks leave to prepare himself for mastering the task with which he is charged by Der Fuehrer.

The second delaying factor is the approaching conference of all Catholic bishops August 16 at Fulda.

PUSH PROBE OF ROBBERS AT RALEIGH

Investigation of Shooting of Policeman Here Continues to Center at Capital

Three alleged yegmen, suspected of shooting Policeman John Mobley in an unsuccessful attempt to rob two stores in tobacco town district of this city last Thursday night, continued to be held in Raleigh today. It was thought Saturday the trio might be brought here for investigation, but Sheriff Whitehurst said today the investigation would continue to center in the capital city and it was probable they would be brought here at a later date.

The sheriff, Chief of Police George Clark and Deputy Sheriff Herbert Harris returned Saturday afternoon late from Raleigh where they had spent virtually a night and day investigating the activities of Ray Chappell and J. D. Chappell of Raleigh, and W. C. Beaman, of Wilmington, who were nabbed by Raleigh officers Friday afternoon in connection with the theft of an automobile there.

Believing the Raleigh car was stolen after the car taken from Joe Brown, colored, shortly after the holdup here, had been abandoned somewhere near the capital city, officers spent a great part of Saturday seeking the local machine. Had the missing automobile been found the case against the trio would have been much stronger. However, the search was being pressed forward vigorously today, although Sheriff Whitehurst declined to divulge the nature of his investigation.

He merely stated the probe had not been closed by any means and that his men along with officers at Raleigh would continue their investigation.

Mobley, suffering from bullet wounds in both arms and one leg, was reported to be making satisfactory progress at the local hospital, and the investigators were depending much upon him in completing the case.

The automobile abandoned by the yegmen here was identified as belonging to a Wilmington man who came here the day after the attempted robbery, identified the machine and left it for inspection of insurance men.

Sheriff Whitehurst declined to say how much evidence they had against the trio, but it was reported at Raleigh Saturday that all clues pointed to them as perpetrators of the crime here.

COUNTY COURT SITS TUESDAY

Several Cases Scheduled For Hearing Tomorrow After Holiday of a Week

The regular weekly sitting of county court will be held tomorrow after postponement of one week to give farmers more time to harvest their crops.

It was likely a score or more cases would face the court tomorrow, although it was impossible to determine the exact number because of actions being sent up from courts in various sections of the county today.

It was indicated this morning that the annual summer vacation of the tribunal is not far away at this time. Court always takes about a month off during the mid-summer to give farmers ample time to harvest their crops.

Many cases heard by the court each week involves farm tenants either as witnesses or defendants and during the busy season when thousands of acres of tobacco are being "put in" the court adjourns until this work has been virtually completed. Although the exact date for the "holiday" has not been made known, Judge Dink James was expected to make this known in a short time.

GASOLINE TAX BEING STUDIED

Enforcement of Tax On Filling Stations Delayed Pending Closer Scrutiny

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, July 22.—Collection of the new gasoline filling station tax imposed by the 1935 general assembly is still being delayed to permit further study and interpretation of the law by the Attorney General and his staff. Although the law went into effect July 1, an announcement was made a few days prior to that date by Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell that an extension was being granted until August 1 to permit the clarification of several details by the Attorney General. If the interpretation and ruling on this law is not obtained by the Revenue Department by August 1, it is expected that another of extension will be granted, probably to September 1. But in any event, the law will be retroactive to July 1.

Commissioner Maxwell has not yet made any change in his original ruling to the effect that a filling station would be regarded as unit in the company whose equipment it used, or whose characteristic signs or coloring appeared on the pumps and equipment used, regardless of the nature of the contract between the operator and the company whose gasoline and oils he dispenses. Thus ruling is based on a law enacted by the 1931 general assembly requiring every gasoline pump to be painted with the characteristic color or sign of the company whose gasoline is dispensed, and was designed to reduce the bootlegging of gasoline or of unknown brands.

Under this ruling, however, the larger gasoline companies would have to pay the chain filling station tax for every station that used one of their pumps or which dispensed their gasoline, regardless of whether they owned or leased these stations or even if the station and equipment belonged entirely to the individual operator. They have lodged vigorous protest to this ruling, it has been learned, and are preparing to contest it in the courts. It is understood that this ruling is only one of several questions which the Attorney General has been asked to rule upon.

TAX RATE IN LENOIR IS RAISED 40 CENTS

Kinston, July 22.—The Lenoir county tax rate has been hiked 40 cents from $1.25 on the $100. Residents of Kinston and a surrounding zone will pay 20 cents additional in school taxes, making the county levy for them $1.85. Kinstonians paid $1.50 last year. The school levy has been reduced five cents this year.

The county invested more than $2,000,000 in paved roads just before the State started building highways. It is "paying the fiddler" now, with a large sum of interest in bonds due this year.

CRUELTY CASE CLOSED TODAY AT CHARLOTTE

Five Former Prison Officials Freed Following Court Trial

Charlotte, July 22.—(AP)—The case of two short-term negro convicts whose feet had to be amputated after their confinement in a dark cell prison camp here which resulted in a legislative investigation into prison conditions and the indictment of five former prison officials was closed today.

After directed verdicts of acquittal had been entered against two men, T. M. Gordon and J. W. Eudy, prison guards, a jury in Mecklenburg County Superior court yesterday absolved the other defendants on charges of mistreatment of the convicts, Woodrow Shropshire and Robert Barnes.

The men acquitted were Dr. C. S. McLaughlin, county physician, who attended the prisoners; R. C. Rape, charged with neglect of duty, and Captain Henry Little, charged with intent to kill.

LIGHT POLICE DOCKET TODAY

Only Three Defendants Given Hearing at Regular Sitting This Morning

J. H. Waters, of Rocky Mount, charged with speeding, was permitted to pay cost at the regular sitting of police court here this morning. It was the first sitting of the court since last Wednesday by reason of postponement Saturday because of the absence of Police Chief George Clark who was in Raleigh in connection with the probe of three men suspected of having taken part in an unsuccessful robbery here Thursday night.

Eight or ten cases were scheduled for hearing this morning but the majority were continued until next Saturday to give the defendants more time in harvesting their crops. Herbert Harrell, charged with being drunk, was released on payment of cost.

John Parker, charged with being drunk and disorderly, was fined $10 and cost of action. Police continued their drive against violators of traffic laws started here several months ago. Numbers of persons have been arrested and fined for violations of this kind and the situation here has shown a pronounced improvement in recent weeks although a number of arrests are made from time to time.

SENATE VOTES QUOTA LIMITS ON FARM CROPS

President to Be Permitted to Impose Restrictions to Preserve Price Gains

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—By a vote of 60 to 17 the senate today adopted an amendment to Senator LaFollette, progressive of Wisconsin, to the AAA bill permitting the president to impose quota restrictions on agricultural imports to preserve price gains achieved by the domestic farm program.

The LaFollette amendment was supported by many democrats and republicans. In effect it is a substitute for the hour provisions in the bill which would have permitted the president "to impose quotas and increase tariffs on commodities when importation was found to be depressing the price of basic farm commodities."

The vote came quickly today after the subject had been debated for two hours Sunday.

LaFollette's proposal was opposed vigorously by Chairman Smith, Democrat of South Carolina, of the Senate agricultural committee which has stricken out the house language entirely.

Smith declared it was an expansion of the protective system which he had always opposed. Supporting it Senator Vandenberg, Republican of Michigan, declared it as an effort to stop a "flood of basic commodities coming over the tariff walls."

NEGRO HELD FOR SHOOTING

Columbus Williams Surrenders After Wounding Elijah Langley at Pactolus

Columbus Williams, 35-year-old colored man, was held in the county jail here today on a charge of shooting and seriously injuring another negro named Elijah Langley, on the highway at Pactolus, late yesterday afternoon. It was revealed today from the office of Sheriff Sam Whitehurst.

Williams immediately came to Greenville and surrendered, informing Sheriff Whitehurst; he shot his friend, Langley with a pistol a man tried to sell them.

He said he and Langley were standing on the highway when the unknown man approached and offered to sell them a pistol. He said he took the gun to examine it pulled the trigger, and it fired, the bullet striking Langley in the abdomen.

Langley was rushed to a Washington hospital where he was reported today to be in a serious condition.

Sheriff Whitehurst said he planned to go to Pactolus sometime today to more fully investigate the shooting. In the meantime Williams was held in the county jail without bond pending the condition of Langley, who was described by hospital attaches this morning as being dangerously wounded.

Three Killed In Auto Crash In Crisp Area

Tarboro, July 22.—(AP)—Raymond Harris was held under $5,000 bond today on charges of manslaughter and driving while drunk following the death of three persons injured in an auto accident Saturday night.

The dead: C. E. Harris, 28, engineer with the Farmville City Power Service, his wife, Mrs. Lena Bundy Harris, 22, and Paul Wilmer Alford, 4, all of Farmville. Mrs. Harris died Sunday morning of internal injuries and her husband last night of a fracture of the skull.

Mrs. B. W. Alford was seriously injured and Miss Polly Bundy, 16, sister of Mrs. Harris, suffered severe cuts about the face in the accident.

Raymond Harris, is from old Sparta and formerly was with the U. S. Navy, was coming out of a side road when the car ran into the one containing the C. C. Harris family and the Alford's, according to Edgecombe county officer who investigated the wreck.

The officer said Raymond Harris was drunk and was riding in a light truck.

Late News Flashes

Senate Moves To Validate Crop Control

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—Moving to protect the administration farm program against court attacks the Senate today voted to validate crop control contracts between the Agricultural Department and farmers.

Quickly the Senate then struck out of the AAA bill the last vestige of crop fixing provisions by adopting an amendment by Senator Byrd, of Virginia.

Another amendment was attached by Byrd requiring that no marketing agreements may be entered into among handlers without the consent of two thirds of the producers.

PLAN TO SHIP RENTAL BOOKS

School Commission Seeking Direct Shipment to Schools of the State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, July 2.—Definite word from publishers of school textbooks is expected in a few days with regard to contracts for shipment of textbooks direct to the various schools in the state. Secretary E. N. Peeler of the State Rental Textbook Commission, said today. Under the new law passed by the 1935 general assembly, textbooks will no longer be handled through the old North Carolina School Book Depository, a subsidiary of Alfred Williams and Company here, but will be shipped direct to the various schools by the publishers. The school book depository here formerly collected 10 per cent of the price of every book sold as its charge for handling these books, while the local dealers also collected a profit of 10 per cent.

The new textbook rental commission, however, is setting up a system under which all basal books, at least in the elementary grades, will be rented to the children at a rent—a cost of not more than one-third of the cost of the books. For this coming school year, however, children will be required to purchase their supplemental books as in the past except where individual school units already have their own rental systems in operation in which they rent supplemental as well as basal books.

For several weeks now the commission has been conducting negotiations with the various publishers of the basal textbooks with a view to securing an acceptable contract covering shipment and delivery of books to the various schools. Mr. Peeler said. It is believed that these negotiations will be completed and a new contract form agreed upon within the next few days, certainly by the latter part of the week.

School systems or units which already have textbooks rental systems will be permitted to continue operation of these as independent rental systems, provided they charge the same rentals as will be charged in the new state rental system. Mr. Peeler said.

LARGE CROWD HEARS M'IVER AT UNION MEET

Joint Service at Pitt Theatre Marked by Impressive Sermon and Music

One of the largest crowds of the year attended the union services at Pitt theatre last night and enjoyed an impressive sermon by Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, and several selections by the choir of the same church.

The services were the fifth of the series sponsored by the Ministerial Association during the summer months and co-operated in by various churches of the city. The final services is scheduled for the latter part of August or the first of September.

A feature of the song services last night was a solo by Mrs. J. A. McIver, "Think on Thy Way", accompanied at the piano by Miss Opal Claire Harris, who is taking the place of Mrs. Catherine Thomas, regular organist, during a part of the summer.

Mr. McIver spoke on the subject "Our Greatest Need," showing that the only way to eternal life is through the teachings of God's own emissary, Jesus Christ.

His text was taken from Proverbs 8:17-8:35. He pointed to the fact that these two passages of Scripture have to do with wisdom who is God by the Omnipotent or All Wise One. He said God, always knows us, what we are, and where we are. "He knows our attitudes on all things at all times," the speaker said, "and our great need is to find God."

His first point was to find God in the bible. "We do not study the bible as we do any other book to familiarize ourselves with its characters, but we should study it to find wherein God lives in the lives, or wherein the characters studied failed by as much as they failed to follow and obey God," said the speaker.

His other points were finding God in life, in service, through sorrow and death.

The final point, to find God through Christ, was given additional emphasis by the minister as he attempted to drive home the thought that Christ is the one and only way to find the Supreme Being.

Christ said: "I am the way, the truth, the life, no man cometh unto the Father but by Me," the minister said in conclusion.

Roosevelt sanctions this filibuster behind the scenes. He has promised every time they have talked with him.

But that was before the prospect of conflict became so threatening in Europe, in Asia, in Africa. American manufacturers directly and indirectly concerned in war profits have made backside proposals that citizens, ships, goods and money be embargoed in the event of large-scale hostilities. European nations have informed us in a diplomatic way that they may make large purchases here, if and when—

Senator Nye seeks a showdown.
He is turning on the heat behind the doors of the foreign relations committee. If that doesn't get action, he and four other Senators—Norris, LaFollette, Clark, Bone—
will telephone Secretary MacIntyre for an appointment with the President. They will ask the head man to tell them what's what.

SATRAPS: Appointment of Hugh Johnson as New York City works progress director relieved the President of an embarrassing friend.
But it has caused more serious trouble for the White House in an unforeseen way.

Mayor LaGuardia asked for Johnson in order to stave off the pressure of the politicians. Stay public works bosses at Albany were insisting on handling the program as a partisan proposition. So the Mayor placed Johnson in charge on the theory that the Albany dynasty would not dare to try to browbeat a man with the Blue Eagle's prestige. So far the scheme has worked.

But the same conditions exist in many other states. Democratic politicians are treating large cities like so many satrapies in distributing work-relief funds. And many a Mayor is bombarding the White House with demands that he too be exempted from state domination. Each wants a little Hugh Johnson in his city.

$74,000: Texas' bonus to the nation—Wright Patman threatens to split the American Legion into smelters.

Smarting because the legionnaires backed the Vinson bonus plan against his, Mr. Patman is pressing his charge that the doughboys' chieftains sold out to the banking interests. He has quietly placed a local post's resolution alleging that the bankers spent $74,000 to block Legion endorsement of the bonus at recent conventions. He was careful not to underwrite the resolution's call for a Congressional investigation. But his flank attack has stirred up ill feeling among the veterans.

Legion officials are paying no public attention to this indictment.
They regard Mr. Patman as Legion Enemy No. 1. But National Commander Frank Belgrano is making a confidential inquiry about that mysterious $74,000 payment. You will hear a lot about it later.

THREAT: As Whirligig predicted, western Republicans have invited Senator Borah to be the principal speaker at their "grassroots" conference. It's the first open move toward giving him a presidential tryout and it has the heavy endorsement of many GOP chiefs. In fact, a senatorial Old Guardsmen promoted the idea.

Mr. Borah has informed friends that he will accept it if it is convenient. He will not absent himself from Washington if Congressional sessions conflict with the political get-together. He will not stir out of Boise if the brave GOP boys don't meet until after he has returned home. But he would like to try his voice—and his political luck—just the same.

The Senator may not run for President—there are many obstacles—but he will gain by a big noise in 1936. He is bounding his health for a fall speaking tour from coast to coast. He will attack the constitutional implications of the New Deal as he did the League

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Mark Albery, who employs both Rex and Laurie
Moore, has learned from Gloria Brooks that Rex and Laurie are not married, as they had told him.
The deception, originated because it seemed necessary so that Rex might hold his job. Now Laurie is discovering that she will have to share with Albery. The difficulty is that both Rex and Albery are in love with Laurie, and she is in love with Rex.

Chapter 29

ATLANTIC FLIGHT

"AND I have a message from Mr.

Albery," Laurie went on.

"He wants us to go down to Fen Graton for the week end."

"I can't do that," Rex said shortly.

"I've got my friend, Alec Wade,

from New York, spending the day.

Sunday. I told you. I can't put him off. He sails early in the week. You can go, all the same."

"Mr. Albery makes rather a point of it. He's got someone he wants you to meet."

"Can't help that," Moore's voice

was almost rude.

"All right, I'll tell Mr. Albery."

It was well after midnight when Laurie came in.

Rex was sitting over his maps.

"Is Gladys back?" was Laurie's first question. It always was.

"Yes, and gone to bed. You certainly have been working late."

"I wasn't working all the time. It was so late when we finished that

Mr. Albery took me to the Ellysde to dinner and we stayed on for the cabaret. It's an awfully good show."

Moore had been drinking strong black coffee in large cups, which was very bad for his nerves.

"Do you think it wise to run around with Albery the way you do?"

Laurie stiffened.

"I don't know what you mean. I can't refuse to work late when it is important. It's my job. Mr. Albery offers to pay me overtime, but I won't take it. He has done enough for me—and for you."

"I'm not suggesting that he should pay for your company. You haven't got as far as that, I suppose," he replied abruptly, with a steady glance from his grey eyes. "I merely wondered whether it was necessary for you to dine with him."

"You are insulting."

"I am only suggesting that, under the circumstances, it would be wise,

for a little while, not to be seen about so much with Albery. I don't like the idea of my wife being talked about as a girl secretary her employer has taken a fancy to."

Laurie went crimson.

"How dare you? What business is it of yours anyhow? I'm not your wife."

"You are supposed to be. You are living here with me. As far as anybody knows, it is a normal couple.

Of course, it is no business of mine."

"I'd no idea you paid so much attention to appearances." She was quivering with indignation.

"I don't like looking a fool," he answered brutally. "And while you are supposed to be my wife, I'd rather you didn't get talked about."

"I know who's been talking!" she flashed. "Mrs. Steele. She was at the Roma the other day when I was lunching with Mr. Albery. I took some notes from him when he was only up for an hour or two. I saw her watching me. Of course, she's jealous, because she's crazy about you,

and she thinks I am really your

wife."

It was the man's turn to grow red in the face. Laurie had hit the mark.

Wanda Steele had suggested to him

very delicately that his "dear little wife" was perhaps being a trifle indiscreet.

"I'm sick of it," Laurie went on,

at white heat. "I'm going to quit tomorrow. You can say I left you—or anything else you like."

BUT the next day there was another turn to their affairs.

Rex Moore spent the morning with Albery at Fen Graton, and came back late in the afternoon, to find

Laurie packing her books.

"You can stop that," he said. "I'm off again. You'll be rid of me for a week or two. Albery wants me to try to lower the Atlantic record for the double crossing. He has heard that Bruce Morris is preparing secretly to make the flight, and he wants me to get in first. He says the Pacific can wait."

He was elated. He was going to undo his wings again. He was good-humored, almost friendly.

"You don't need to turn out, do you?" he added, with a touch of compunction in his voice. "I'm sorry

I ragged you yesterday."

She looked at him steadily.

"You mean it would look bad if I left the flat? That it would be damaging to you?"

"You might wait until I come back—that's all I mean." He looked at her in the shamed way he had when he asked her to do anything, rather like a small boy who knows he is in the wrong. "After all, I can't annoy you when I'm not here."

"All right," she said. Her voice was forbidding because she had to hide a little tremor in it. "When do you start?"

"Tomorrow night—for Ireland.

The weather looks as if it will hold."

Laurie turned away, putting her books back on the shelves from which she had taken them.

His spirit was already in the air.

He was not thinking of her.

Rex Moore did not come back to the flat the next day until it was almost time for him to start. All day long he had been making his preparations at Albery's private air field.

He found a tempting meal laid on the dining-room table, but Laurie was not in the room. She came out of her bedroom with the small hav-ersack that he was going to take with him in her hand.

"Mrs. Budd is no packer," she said lightly. "So I packed your things myself. You'll have something to eat, won't you? I'm scrambling some eggs the way you like them, with mushrooms. I'll go and fix them

now."

"Where is Mrs. Budd?" he asked.

"I sent her away. I didn't know how late you would be."

She disappeared into the kitchen.

WHEN she came back, with the dishes on her tray, Rex had changed into his flying kit.

"I won't have you waiting on me,"

he said angrily. "I can do all that myself."

"That's rather foolish," she retorted evenly. "I'm fond of cooking.

Now, please, sit down and eat."

She poured him out a cup of coffee, with the thick cream that he liked on the top.

She ate very little herself. When he had finished the eggs, she offered him fruit and a special light sponge cake that she had made.

They hardly spoke. Laurie seemed to have something on her mind.

"Is it dangerous—this Atlantic flight?" she said at last.

He laughed.

"What ever put that into your head?"

"All long-distance flights must be dangerous."

"Do you know the most dangerous occupation in the world?" he asked, with the mocking smile at the back of his eyes. "The one with the greatest percentage of casualties? A plate-layer on a railway."

But Laurie was looking at him with a curious concentration.

"Rex, you're not using this new fuel, are you?" she asked.

"What on earth do you know about that?" he countered.

"I've had to do a lot of work in connection with it for Mr. Albery. It isn't safe, is it?"

He looked startled.

"Has Albery talked to you about it? Why didn't you tell me before?"

"Because I know it's a secret. Mr.

Albery asked me not to talk about it.

He asked me if you had told me anything, and I told him that you never discussed your profession with me.

But I just wanted to know."

"Of course, I'm not using it. The tests aren't nearly satisfactory yet.

What a funny girl you are! I say, I shall have to get a move on. Mr.

Albery's car is coming to take me to the airfield. He's coming with me.

I suppose you wouldn't like to come."

"Oh, no!" Laurie said sharply.

They got up and Rex Moore went to fetch his flying coat and helmet.

He found Laurie standing in the dining-room, just where he had left her. She turned a white face to him.

"I'm sure—it's dangerous!" she said under her breath.

"Why do you harp on that, Lanrie?" he asked. And then there came a reaction so violent that his tanned face actually turned pale. "I don't understand," he said slowly. "It can't be that you care? I mean—what becomes of me? You hate me, don't you, for coming back and messing up your life?"

"Yes, I hate you," she said hysterically.

Confederates To Hold Final Reunion In Tex.

Armarillo, Texas, July 22.—Out here in Texas Panhandle, where the West is yet new, natives are preparing to join with the South in honoring that faltering line of survivors of those legions in gray who followed the "Stars and Bars" back there in the '60's.

For on September 3 to 6 many bands from down in the deep South will blare the strains of "Dixie" as the men of a fast-dwindling host meet here for their forty-fifth and possibly last Annual Grand Reunion. Because the South never has lacked gratitude for the men who marched in its armies and because the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Sons of Confederate Veterans and the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, cherish the memories of the heroic deeds of their fathers and keeping alive the traditions of the Old South, the Reunion is expected to attract 40,000 visitors.

Entertainment for the Reunion will be made up largely of that sort found only in the West. Cowboy music makers will ride in from the open ranges to play for dances from the time the first coyote howls at a Texas moon until early morning when the chuck wagon cook yells "come and get it or I'll throw it out."

COMMITTEE OF WRITERS TO INVESTIGATE SOUTH

M'DONALD MAY SEEK POST AS SCHOOL HEAD

Militant College Professor as Likely to Do That as Run for Governor

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hote
By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, July 22.—While Dr. Ralph W. McDonald of Winston-Salem, the militant college professor who as a member of the general assembly led the fight against the sales tax for a larger appropriation for the public schools, is still regarded by many as a potential candidate for Governor, the belief is growing in many quarters that he is more likely to become a candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction than for Governor.

There are several reasons for this belief. One of the principal ones is the conviction in the minds of most people that the contest for the nomination for Governor is so clearly between Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby and Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham of Hillsboro that it would be virtually impossible for Dr. McDonald or any other candidate running on an anti-sales tax platform to win the nomination even if he could secure an adequate campaign fund. Not that there is not much anti-sales tax sentiment in the state for there is, but because this sentiment would be difficult to organize and hold together.

It is also pointed out that McDonald has already antagonized business and industry, as a result of the alternate tax plans which he proposed in the general assembly as substitutes for the sales tax. With the result that they would fight his candidacy tooth and nail. Most observers agree that McDonald would not even be able to secure the support of most of the merchants and chain store systems here in the state came out in opposition to McDonald's tax plans and for the retention of the sales tax before the recent session of the general assembly was over. Thus he would have the support only of the smaller merchants from whom he could not expect much help in the form of contributions to his campaign fund. And McDonald is a canny enough boss as a Scot and as a politician for Governor without an adequate campaign fund, especially in the face of strong opposition from business and industry. It is also maintained that while McDonald has picked up a surprising knowledge of politics in a very short time, that he is first, last and fundamentally a school teacher, with the school teacher's psychology and point of view and hence lacking in the breadth of experience along all lines necessary in candidates for Governor.

SCOUTS HERE PLAN TO PUSH WORK AT ONCE

Given Permission by Health Officer to Continue Ambitious Summer Program

Chairman Wyatt Brown of the activities committee of the Greenville district of the East Carolina Council of Boy Scouts announces this morning that permission has been given by Dr. N. T. Ennett Health officer and the Scouters of the Greenville District at a recent District meeting to go ahead with a full program of activity.

The chairman announces that practice on the tennis tournament should be resumed by local scouts in order that the run-off to determine who should represent Greenville District in the finals where our scouts will compete with the other district representatives.

The proposed rally should be kept in mind by local scouts-masters and their scouts should practice for it although until the epidemic is over permission to hold this rally where all sorts of competition in various scout crafts will be withheld by the Health Officer as this will be a public gathering and children under scout age would gather which would be dangerous. For this same reason a swimming and life saving program contemplated will be withheld.

Merit badge classes in four or five subjects to be announced later will soon get underway.

Hikes are being stressed by Mr. Brown for these summer months and Troop 30 is planning such a hike for this week-end with other out-door programs to come open.

The Court of Honor recognizing advancement of scouts on the various attainment of higher ranks will meet this Thursday night at the Rotary Building Chairman P. C. Harding announces. This committee met with Scouts of Troop 30 last Friday evening and heard a splendid talk from Dr. Carl Adams on "New Invention". Scouts to be advanced this Thursday are: Norman Wilkerson for second class scout and the following merit badges Charles Brile into Handcraft, Charles Horne into Music, Clifton Evans, Jr., for Pt. Aid to Animals, Vernon Tyson into Pt. Aid and Safety and Kenneth Henderson into Pathfinding. Scout Wilkerson also will receive the Handcraft Merit Badge.

The advancement is a real activity of Scouts and many hours are given to "learning by doing" the true Scout Method.

These activities Mr. Brown explained will be supplemented from time to time as new projects are developed. "Scouts of the Greenville District have as one of their major activities the National Jamboree and ten white and one colored scout will leave for Washington at 11:30 August 19th for the most eventful experience of their lives" said Joe Taft chairman of the Greenville Jamboree Committee on the local District.

New York Cotton

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady four lower to one higher in response to irregular Liverpool cables and trading on differences between near and distant months.

Initial offerings were absorbed without much difficulty and the market steadied after the call on trade buying and covering. October after selling off to 11.45 rallied to 11.53 with active months generally ruling net unchanged at the end of the first hour.

October sold up to 11.58 and March to 11.35 with active months ruling 8 to 14 points net higher at midday.

Futures closed steady two to ten higher: Spots steady.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 22.—(AP)—The steel again acted as a stock market magnet today and most other equities reflected the optimistic influence.

While buying was not of the exciting sort and here and there a few soft spots were in evidence the list showed a steady to firm undertone from the start. Washington news continued to give precedence to the pressure of idle money for employment. Trading was brisk in the first hour with lots of several thousand shares changing hands.

The pace slowed down later. Wheat rallied. Cotton did little; bonds were slightly on the outside. Weakness of the Guilder unsettled gold exchanges.

The late stock tone was firm. Transfers 200,000 shares.

STRIKE FIGHT BARS NO HOLDS

Rules of warfare were lacking and no sort of weapon was barred when strikers and non-strikers engaged in a bloody hand-to-hand fight at the plant of the Morrell Packing company in Sioux Falls, S. D. The combatants fought with stones, clubs or just anything that came to hand, as this rare picture shows. Fifty-three were injured. (Associated Press Photo)

City port commission to purchase $318,500 in public works bonds for building terminal facilities at the N. C. seacoast town was in the hands of PWA officials today but final execution wasn't expected for several days.

The office of Frank C. Wright director of transportation for the PWA said a number of details must be worked out before execution of the contract can be completed. This probably would be done later this week or some time early next week it was said.

England To Abandon Principal of Naval Ratio

London, July 22.—(AP)—Ir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, told the house of commons today that England was definitely abandoning the principle of naval ratio adopted in 1922 at Washington.

He declared Great Britain's new policy had been adopted because some nations felt it would international pride to accept permanent inferiority.

Under the Washington treaty of 1922 later supplemented by the London treaty of 1930, the naval tonnage ratio were set at 5 for great Britain to 5 for the United States to three for Japan—the famous 5-5-3 ratio. The navies of France and Italy on the same basis received ratio of 1-5 each.

Sir Bolton explained that other means are being sought to accomplish the same results of naval limitations. They would be based on a system of average programs which by agreement would accommodate the various naval strength in such a way as to provide adequate defense while attempting to eliminate navies for offensive purposes.

mortgage bills involving new currency issues totaling $5,000,000,000 should be enacted separately and that he did not see how they could be disposed of at this session.

Asserting he had sought the bond question put over until next year Speaker Byrnes acknowledged the house would accept a bonus rider if the Senate tacked it on the program.

A bill described by its advocates as designed to bust the liquor trust was sanctioned by the house leader for consideration on the floor tomorrow.

It would set up provisions in the treasury to be known as the federal alcoholic control administration to administer a law applying many restrictions formerly imposed under FACA codes.

Halt Relief Work in S. D.
Pierre, S. D., July 22.—(AP)—The South Dakota relief administration

tration faced with continued campaign against its clients in harvest employment today ordered all state and federal relief suspended until the demand for harvest labor is supplied. The order put 19,000 family heads off relief rolls last night.

A telegram to the county relief director said:

"Stop all work relief projects and close the relief office tonight. All federal and state relief in South Dakota is suspended and no relief offices will be reopened until all families needed to help with harvest relief work have been supplied with such help."

What is the yardstick for a cigarette . . .

Take mildness for one thing—how does it measure up for mildness?
Chesterfields are milder—not flat or insipid, of course, but with a pleasing flavor.

Then take taste for another thing—does it have plenty of taste?
Chesterfields taste better—not strong but just right.

In other words, They Satisfy—that's my yardstick for a cigarette.

Chesterfield... the cigarette that's MILDER
Chesterfield... the cigarette that TASTES BETTER
