Soldiers Tighten Military Control At Terre Haute

ONLY A FEW STORES OPEN AFTER STRIKE

National Guardsmen Inured in Disorders Around Columbian Enameling Plant Today; Crowd Dispersed With Tear Gas; Windows Broken by Mob; Several Placed in Military Jail

Terre Haute, Ind., July 23.—(AP)—Only a few business houses opened today as from 1,500 to 2,000 Indiana national guardsmen tightened down military control of this city of 66,000 which is in the second day of a general strike.

A guardsman, Eugene Harvey, of Martinsville, received face bruises and injuries this morning when he was hit on the head with a piece of cement as approximately 1,000 strike sympathizers resisted, which set up a mile square military zone around the plant of the Columbia Enameling and Stamping Company whose opposition to a closed shop started the walkout.

Windows were broken and tear gas bombs were thrown before the crowd was dispersed. Five of the alleged sympathizers were arrested today and placed in the military and city jail.

Walter J. Smith, who said he was manager of the enameling plant and the he spoke for C. B. Ogby, president, asserted today "there would be no compromise with the strikers, that the plant would be opened in three days or a week, or ten days at the outside, as soon as repairs have been made."

Charles L. Richardson, of Washington, and Harry E. Shuck, Chicago conciliators for the United States Department of Labor, today began conferring with the strikers and mill officials.

Although only a few stores, including eating establishments, were open Brigadier General D. Wray DePrez, in charge of the national guard forces, said:

"Stores can be opened if they wish and will be adequately protected." He said employees of the brewing company and dairies had indicated they wanted to return to work.

REALTY SALES STILL LIGHT

Trend Remains Sluggish in Both City and Farm Properties, Records Show

No pronounced improvement has been shown in the real estate business here the last several days, transactions remaining about as they have been for the last several months.

Records in the office of the register of deeds today indicated that nine transfers have been made during the past week with only two of the transactions going over the thousand dollar mark. The deal between Mary L. Beaman to R. L. Davis, involving one lot, carried the largest sum, $5,000.

The transactions between Charlie James and W. M. Kittrell carried a total of $1,800.251 acres of land were involved in the deal.

The remainder of the transfers follow:

Maude Owens and et als to J. E. Winslow Co., 1 lot, $450.

A. A. Joyner to Allie A. Roberson, 2A, $100.

Charlie James to W. M. Kittrell, 251A, $1,800.

New Bern Oil and Fertz, Co. to J. R. Harvey, 2 tr. $275.

Atlantic Land and Imp. Co. to Lula Williams, 2 lots, $100.

J. H. Waldrop to J. D. Aman and wife, 2 lots, $10.

R. L. Whitehurst and wife to F. C. Martin, 1 lot, $100.

Henderson Mitchell and wife to F. M. Davis, Jr., 4 lots, $250.

Mary L. Beaman to R. L. Davis, 1 lot, $5,000.

Figures of the 1930 census revealed that there were 13,920,600 foreign-born people in the United States at that time.

Earlier in the day there had been similar occurrences and tear gas was used. Several men in the crowd were taken into court.

ANOTHER CASE OF PARALYSIS IN PITT COUNTY

Health Department Reports 12th Case Discovered in Fountain Township

A new case of infantile paralysis was reported from Fountain township to the Health Department here today, it was made known this morning by Dr. N. T. Ennett, health officer. It brought the total number of cases reported in this county to 12.

The new case is a colored boy three years old with both legs paralyzed.

Doctor Ennett reported the onset of this case was July the 14th, but due to delay in consulting a physician, a diagnosis was not made until yesterday, July the 22nd.

The health officer quarantined this case promptly, and said he wished to remind the public that the time has not yet arrived for any relaxation in the preventive measures now being enforced.

This is the 12th case for Pitt County, 7 of whom are white and 5 colored.

CROP CHECK NEARS FINISH IN THIS AREA

Only Slight Over-Production Expected to be Reflected When Work is Over

The checking of crop control acreage in this county, which got under way several weeks ago will come to an end the latter part of the week, it was made known today at the Farm Department here.

With completion of the checking program as required by the federal crop control plan, it is expected that only about 5 percent over-production will be found, and only one percent of growers take advantage of the 90 percent limit. The check involves only tobacco, cotton and peanuts. Over 65 supervisors were being used in checking the 5,000 contracts involving thousands of acres of land in all sections of the county.

The supervisors were given around forty days to complete the work. The checking actually started on June 11, and with the finish line in sight only slightly over forty days will be required to complete the task.

In view of the fact that Pitt county is the largest bright tobacco growing region in the world and one of the largest counties in the state, the task of checking acreage is a monumental one. The work was held up several days on account of the heavy rainfall which visited this section last week and the week before and it is probable this would have been closed in the forty-day limit had it not been for the unfavorable weather conditions.

E. F. Arnold, director of the farm department which is in charge of the program, said today he was very well pleased with the progress made and expressed appreciation of the fine spirit of co-operation exhibited by farmers. Farmers who aided the supervisors in checking their acreage helped considerably to speed up the work.

The farm head made it plain at the beginning of the checking program that growers would not receive benefit payments or marketing cards until their acreage had been checked and their compliance shown. Preparations were under way at the farm office today to receive requests for marketing cards.

FRANCE SEEKS ITALIAN RULE OVER ETHIOPIA

Domination Pact Will be Proposed at Next Meeting of League of Nations

Paris, July 23.—(AP)—Authoritative sources disclosed today that France seeks a treaty giving Italy economic domination over Ethiopia in exchange for Italy's guarantee of Ethiopia's nominal independence. This treaty is sought, it was said, as the only likely preventative of war.

These same sources said that France intends to use the forthcoming session of the League of Nations at Geneva for negotiating a treaty.

In Italy would be given special privileges, including immigration rights and would have in return to guarantee the sovereignty of the emperor.

While this suggestion would be akin to a protectorate the French source said they hoped it would circumvent Emperor Haile Selassie's objections to an outright protectorate.

START WORK ON TOBACCO MART CARDS

Growers Asked to Make Requests for Marketing Cards Between Now-Aug. 1

Tobacco contract signers have been asked to go to the farm department here and file a request for their marketing cards between now and August 1.

If this is done, E. F. Arnold, director of the farm office said today, cards will be in the hands of all contract signers by the opening of the marketing season, and if it is not done growers will be subjected to considerable delay.

Without the requests, Mr. Arnold said, his office will not know how many marketing cards each grower needs and consequently work will be stalled until the information has been provided.

The farm director said every effort was being made to have cards in the hands of all growers by the opening date of the tobacco market, set for August 26, and farmers can greatly expedite the work by filing their requests as promptly as convenient.

Should all requests be in the office by the first of next month, the department workers will be given sufficient time to place cards in the hands of all growers in time to sell on opening sales, but if this is not done, delay is unavoidable.

Mr. Arnold urged all growers to take this matter under consideration and to move immediately to assist his department in completing the annual task in due time.

Operation of N. C. Railroad Still In Doubt

Raleigh, July 23.—(AP)—Future operation of the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, state controlled line, whose revenue was recently pledged as security for a PWA loan for the Morehead City terminal, will be independent or operated by the Norfolk Southern railroad the present operator and be assor.

Governor Ehringhaus said today it was "obvious" at this time that no other railroad was interested in leasing the line and that the only options are to lease it again to the present operators or run it independently.

Of the total amount, North Carolina would get $1,018,000.

POTATO BILL IN SIGHT OF BECOMING LAW

Warren Measure on Senate Calendar After Strategy by Leading Supporters

Washington, July 23.—(AP)—Parliamentary strategy had placed the Warren potato control bill today within sight of becoming law.

The measure which originated in the house was added yesterday on motion of Senator Bailey, democrat of North Carolina, as an amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment bill now before the senate.

Stubborn resistance retarded progress of the bill in the house. Although it had a favorable report from the house agriculture committee there appeared little hope it would reach the floor because of committee failure to ask a rule for immediate consideration. Senator Hatch, of New Mexico, proposed to exclude from the potato amendment provisions which did not produce as many potatoes as they consume. He was defeated.

The proposal was fostered in the house by Rep. Warren of North Carolina, would classify potatoes as a basic commodity and authorize a system of production and sales allotments.

A tax of 75 cents on the hundred pounds would be levied on potatoes sold in excess of the allotments to insure enforcement of regulations. Producers would be given tax exempt certificates to the amount of quotas.

The measure is designed to restrict production of commercial potatoes and would provide no limitations on production for use by growers for feed or otherwise.

250 COTTON CHECKS DUE COUNTY SOON

Rental Money Expected to Arrive at Farm Office in Ten Days or Two Weeks

Notice was received at the Farm department today that 250 cotton rental checks are in preparation for growers of this county and are expected to arrive in the next ten days or two weeks.

E. F. Arnold, director of the department, said the checks were for growers taking part in the 1935 crop production program. He was unable to say how much the checks would be for.

There are a total of 1,800 checks to be paid to growers of this county, 1,300 of which have already been delivered. A batch of fifty came in today and will be paid out during the week.

Coming at this season of the year when finances on the farm are always at a low ebb, the money will aid growers considerably in harvesting their crops. Some have been able to borrow from governmental sources for carrying on their planting and harvesting, but the benefit checks in many instances are sufficient to tide some of the boys over until they begin realizing from their efforts.

When the 1,200 checks were received in June, the farm office was besieged by growers anxious to get their hands on the government money, and while the rush will not be as great when the 250 checks are received, growers will crowd the office until they are all paid.

LIQUOR STORE TO OPEN HERE ON THURSDAY

Farmville Store to Open Same Day; Ayden and Fountain to Open on Friday

Liquor control stores will be opened at Greenville and Farmville Thursday and at Ayden and Fountain Friday, it was announced today from the ABC board office in the court house.

It had been planned to have all openings at the same time, but in view of the fact that buildings at Greenville and Farmville will be completed a day ahead of the other two towns the board decided to adopt the plan announced today.

It was also announced that the first consignment of whiskey—estimated at three carloads—is expected to arrive in Greenville tomorrow. A fourth carload is expected later. The total value of the initial purchase was given last week as between $25,000 and $30,000.

The Greenville store will be located in the Higgs building on the upper end of Dickinson avenue and the Ayden store will be in the old National bank building in the heart of the business district.

Renovation of the two buildings was begun Monday morning and it was said they would be ready for occupancy by Thursday.

Immediately upon arrival of the first shipment of liquor here it will be moved to the Higgs building which is also being used as a distribution center for the four county stores. Considerable time will be required for assortment of brands and arranging for deliveries to the remainder of the stores.

The control board, headed by C. O. H. Horne, was pressing its plans for the openings with much vigor and stated everything had been done to open the store as early as possible.

MALARIA FIGHT GETS RESULTS

Mosquito Emergence Cut Sharply Here by Anti-Malarial Campaign of City

The anti-malarial campaign started here during the first of the summer has shown good results during the last several weeks, especially during the period when protracted rain was due to increase mosquito emergence to no little extent.

Although mosquitoes were rather numerous during the first of the summer, infestation has been cut sharply the last month or so and the pests are causing only slight discomfort in any section of the city.

In reducing infestation further during the summer, those in charge of the program have urged homeowners to do away with all receptacles in their yards capable of holding water. Mosquitoes breed rapidly in such places and also in rank growth of weeds.

The city is doing everything possible to cope with weeds, but this is a matter of impossibility without the aid of property owners, who have been called on several times during the summer to eliminate all rank growth of vegetation.

Chief of Police George Clark, who directs street activities here, said it will be impossible for the anti-malarial forces to keep the city virtually free of mosquitoes without the co-operation of the citizenship.

The lack of mosquitoes has done much toward improving the malarial situation here and only a minor number of cases have been reported by the health department during the summer.

Dr. Hollar at Assembly Hour
Dr. E. C. Hollar, who was the instructor in history on the recent educational New England-Canadian tour sponsored by the College, spoke at the assembly hour this morning, dwelling upon some of the values of the eighteen days of travel and study.

Briefly he sketched the entire route, and then gave special emphasis to characteristics of sections different from local sections. The cold of New England winters was made vivid by a description of a Maine farmhouse with the great barn attached to it. Temperature of 59 degrees below zero and six feet of snow demand special architecture.

Next he described what it feels like to be an immigrant, when at the Canadian border the baggage of the party was inspected and the nationality of the members was questioned. The foreign life was further impressed by his account of hearing only French spoken by the Canadian children, of seeing shrines by the wayside, and of being stopped by police for religious processions to pass on the highway.

The value of having the gypsy spirit of travel was the closing thought of his talk.

First Church of Christ, Scientist
"Life" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on July 21, 1935.

The Golden Text was from Psalms 36:7-9. "How excellent is thy loving kindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings, and thou shalt make them drink of the river of thy pleasures. For with them is the fountain of life."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "The spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Almighty hath given me life." (Job 33:4.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is, always has been, and ever will be independent of matter; for life is God, and man is the idea of God, not formed materially but spiritually, and not subject to decay and dust. The Psalmist said: 'Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of Thy hands. Thou hast put all things under his feet.' (Psalm 100.)

'HELP WANTED' ADS APPEAR IN SWEDEN

Stockholm, (AP)—Sweden, with unemployment still a factor, but with a marked decrease in the number of jobless, is enjoying the return of "help wanted" signs as indications of escape from the depression.

A definite shortage of applicants is reported in certain kinds of farm labor, in various forms of juvenile work, and in several branches of skilled industrial labor.

The official unemployment is now placed at approximately 80,000, or slightly more than one per cent of the population, as compared with 160,000 a year ago.

A large contracting firm, desiring 140 skilled machine workers, had to advertise for several days. Trained industrial mechanics are at a premium in some sections.

In Stockholm, with summer building under way, contractors have to advertise for skilled workers. Trained servants are likewise scarce.

STARTS $15,000 SUIT FOR ACCIDENT HURTS

Smithfield, July 23.—Suits have been entered in Superior Court by Mrs. Adams and Mrs. W. G. Stancil against S. B. and S. T. Langdon for $15,000 for Mr. Stancil and $5,000 for Mrs. Stancil, for damages alleged to have been received in an automobile accident that occurred on the Hunter Road five miles west of Smithfield on July 6.

It was a head-on collision on Stancil's right side of the road and not only were both Mr. and Mrs. Stancil seriously injured, but their baby was hurt fatally; though the suit is only for their own injuries. Mr. Stancil's arms were both broken and one of his legs. He has not been able to do manual work since. Mrs. Stancil's right arm was cut and bruised and the muscles torn loose, and she is still having to consult the doctor frequently. They are represented by Attorneys Ward and Stancil.

SOFT LINE, SUBTLE COLOR GIVE NEGLIGEEES 'ALLURE'

White cobweb lace over white crepe makes one of the filmy new Paris negligees. The low V-neckline is accented by the long drooping sleeves, while the girdle is marked by a black enamel flower outline in silver. Design by Maggy Rouff.

By ADELAIDE KERR

Paris.—(AP)—Negligees are "going in" for allure. No more pajama lounging suits. No more tailored house coats. Instead curves, soft lines, low necklines and trailing skirts.

Lace, chiffon, soft crepe and tulle are back in the boudoir and with them such subtle colors as gray green, pearly blue and coral and such accents as turquoise and violet. The idea is to look both feminine and worldly.

Some of the new negligees are sufficiently formal in effect to be worn as hostess gowns or for informal dinners at home.

Arduous makes some of the most colorful negligees seen this season. One is a gray green tulle affair with short puffed sleeves split down the front so that the rose tulle slip underneath may be seen.

Sheer chiffon coats with big sleeves and trailing skirts worn over satins slips of a contrasting color are Madame Yrlande's contribution to the negligee mode of 1935. She cuts them on the bias so that the skirts swoop backward with an air as regal as the robe of a queen. Blue violet goes over white, green over pale blue, cherry over gray, blue wine red over flesh and brown over salmon.

Chiffon negligees made over heavy cream lace slips are another negligee note which spells allure. Some of these are made of soft pastel colors so that the lace pattern will show underneath.

Negligees which look like frocks are being designed for some of the smartest Parisians. They are fashioned with short puffed sleeves, high necklines and full bias skirts. Some are of pink shadow print chiffon with the figure stamped in the same color, others of pale blue mousseline sprinkled with deeper blue bachelors' buttons.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: The innocent deception which Rex and Laurie Moore have practiced is coming to a climax. They have pretended to be married so that Rex might continue to hold his job with Mark Albery. And although Laurie just told Rex, who is leaving to try to lower the record for the Atlantic flight, that she hates him—it is not the truth. The complication is that Albery is in love with Laurie, and willing to do anything to take her away from Rex.

Chapter 30

DECLARATION

"THEN why do you worry about danger?" asked Rex. "It would not mean anything to you if I never came back? Except that you could go on being my widow?" He laughed scornfully, hardly able to believe what had come into his mind.

"No—nothing!" She had her back to him. Her voice was strangled. Her shoulders were shaking.

Rex Moore took a long stride, and turned her round. She was as white as a sheet. Her eyes were agonized.

"Laurie, it can't be that you care like that?"

He crushed her to him. His lips were pressed to hers. His eyes, when he released her, held her at arms' length, were shining, ardent, a lover's eyes, a conqueror's eyes.

"Laurie, you love me!" "I don't—I—" She tried to tear herself away.

"You do. I love you, Laurie. You're the one woman. It was fate. It was meant to be. We've been playing the fool with each other."

"Let me go! Let me go!" She struggled feebly. It was against some power she did not understand.

"We've been playing the fool," he repeated. "I love you and you love me. And that's all there is to it."

Again he drew her close. And this time she surrendered, and her lips clung to his, and in a great wave of ecstasy she did seem to lose herself altogether, and to be born anew.

The door bell rang harshly in the tense atmosphere of the room, filled with human passion and joy and pain.

Rex Moore gripped Laurie even closer for a strange, silent moment; then let her go.

"That's the car," he said. "I can't keep it waiting. I must get off. Laurie—" He looked at her with those brilliant, masterful eyes. "Isn't it the most beautiful thing in the world? Can you believe in it? Of course, we must believe in it, because it's true. Wait till I come back! Wait for me!"

She was leaning against the wall. Slowly her face was composing itself, losing its unearthly radiance. "I think we're mad," she muttered. "I must go. We're not mad. Wait till I get back!"

Another close embrace, desperate in its tragic haste. And he was gone. Laurie heard the door shut. She did not move; tears ran down her face. She was in a new world. Rex Moore loved her. She loved him. He had gone, but he would come back.

This was what she had been born for. This was what all her life had led to—blissfully groping, searching. It had led her to Rex Moore, her man.

From below came the sonorous hoot of Mark Albery's car, as the chauffeur drove off. Through her exaltation it struck Laurie's ears with a note of warning and fear. She knew that without Rex Moore there would now be no life for her. She might be alive; but she would not live.

"GLAD, I'm worried to death," said Laurie three nights later, when her sister came back from the theatre.

"What, no cable from your hero yet?" the girl asked teasingly. "But you know he's pulled it off, old girl, broken another record. He's being smothered with bouquets and banners to himself. You're a comic character all right, Laurie! Only the other day you were telling me you didn't know whether you were going to get on with Rex. And now you're worn to a shadow because you haven't heard from him!"

"It isn't that, Glad," said Laurie. "It's you."

"Me?" "Look at this!"

Laurie held out a letter, which the younger girl took and read. It was typewritten, and bore no address. "Does Mrs. Rex Moore know that her sister Gladys goes about with a swell young man all the time, and goes to his rooms alone after the show?"

Gladys crumpled the paper into a ball and flung it on the floor. Her face was so contorted with anger that it seemed to lose all trace of beauty.

"Well, you don't mean you take any notice of a thing like this!" she cried shrilly.

"Glad, is it true?" Laurie's desperate anxiety forced her sister to show some slight compunction.

"Oh, don't be so silly! Where did this beastly thing come from?" "The postmark is London, S.E."

"It's one of the girls, of course! There's more than one jealous of me since I'm leader of the troupe."

"But, Glad, is it true?"

"It must be one of the girls." Gladys went on, bent on her own train of thought. "It couldn't be anybody else. Must be somebody who knows you're my sister, and how silly you are about me."

"Silly! Glad, how can you be so mean? Is it true?"

"Well, of course. I go out with a boy sometimes. What girl doesn't? Aren't you often having meals with Mr. Albery? You're a nice one to carry on like this!"

"Glad, is it the same young man you told me about?"

"Yes," the girl said, telling the truth and lying at the same time. "But you told me the other day he'd gone abroad!"

"Yes, but he's back."

"You said you'd bring him here, to meet me."

"I know. But he hasn't had time yet. He's back in London on business."

The cruellest thing of her life happened to Laurie then. She knew for certain that Gladys was lying to her. That Gladys meant to lie to her. And she didn't know what to do.

SHE realized that it was no good scolding. She must try other methods.

"You might be straight with me. Glad, I don't want to pry into your affairs. But even nowadays a girl doesn't go to a young man's rooms alone. You don't deny it. And I don't want to be nasty, dear, but it's risky to go about with a man in a different position in life."

"Oh, hang it all. I can't help it if he has money!" cried Gladys. "And I've only been to his rooms once. And some interfering, jealous cat must have followed me. I'm ashamed of you, Laurie, taking notice of such a disgusting letter!"

"I wish you would let me meet him," said Laurie quietly. "Has he asked you to marry him, Glad? Do you mind telling me that?" "He can't marry for a bit. His father won't let him. He's got to make good in business. But I don't mind waiting. I'm not too keen to get married at once. I want to have lots of fun. I'll bring him along some day, if you promise not to scare him stiff."

But Laurie knew Gladys didn't mean her to meet this young man. She said nothing more. She must try to get the girl to trust her. It was the only way with Glad.

But she was full of foreboding. Also, she was full of confusion. That last scene with Rex Moore was like a dream. Like a dream that sometimes is more real than life. He loved her. And yet she had not heard a word from him directly, although he had made a new and magnificent record flight. Her news came from Albery and from the papers. That was all.

The next day was Sunday. Jimmy Dallas drove Gladys back from their favorite haunt on the river, and drew up at the door of the building at the back of St. James' Street in which he had his chambers.

"Come up for a cocktail, Flower-face!" he invited.

"I'd better not," the girl said. "I've got to go out to dinner with Laurie tonight. Couldn't get out of it."

Gladys was by no means a fool, although she was crazy about Jimmy Dallas. The anonymous letter to her sister had made a great impression on her. It was simply loathsome to be watched. She determined to make it her business to find out who was doing it.

Anyway, she decided, she wouldn't go to the young man's rooms again. "Just for a few minutes, cutie!" he urged. "I'm sure you're in need of a drink. Same here!"

She could not resist those merry, luring brown-green eyes, with their will-o'-the-wisp lightness and frivolity, and their power of making her follow, follow, wherever they wanted her to go.

'CYCLONE MAC' DIES AT BENNETTSVILLE

Bennettsville, S. C., July 23.—(AP)—Baxter P. (Cyclone) Mack McLendon, nationally known evangelist, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home here yesterday.

He had been in poor health several months but recently it was believed his condition had improved.

McLendon, who was 59 years old, at one time was a member of the Methodist Conference but resigned years ago to enter the evangelistic field. This work carried him to many parts of the United States.

Only a few days ago he returned to his home after conducting his last revival, a three-weeks meeting in Oklahoma City.

Funeral services will be held here Wednesday, with interment in McColl cemetery.

BLUNDER IN NAPOLEON'S MINT ENRICHES POOR HUNGARIAN

Budapest, (AP)—Because a coin caster more than a hundred years ago made a blunder, Johann Formayer at Szeged may step from poverty to riches.

In an old chest Formayer found a Napoleonic gold coin, minted in 1806. Assuming it is genuine, experts of the Hungarian National bank said the coin is worth about $250,000.

Its value to collectors is due to the fact that someone in the French mint mixed his dies and produced a few coins which showed France, at one and the same time, both a monarchy and a republic.

One side of the coins bore the inscription "Republique Francaise" and the other "L'Empereur Napoleon." Only 10 got into circulation.

ANOTHER DEATH FROM PARALYSIS

Raleigh, July 23.—Another death from infantile paralysis was reported yesterday, making the third from Vance County and the 25th fatality from the disease in the current epidemic.

Only nine new cases of the disease were reported over the week-end to the State Board of Health, strengthening officials' belief that the peak has been passed and continued lessened incidence will be the order during the remainder of the summer.

Yesterday's victim was a two-weeks-old negro child living in Henderson. It had been ill but a few days and was the first case of infantile paralysis to be reported in Vance County in about two weeks.

Heir to Fortune Dies in Poverty

ICC to force lower fares will be resisted furiously.
The suggestion was offered at recent directors' meeting of two leading western railroads that passenger services be discontinued entirely. It sounds like a joke—but it wasn't meant that way. Obviously nothing so drastic is likely in the near future—but the idea represents a significant trend of thought among among rail managements.
RAILS: Southern Pacific heads are hotter than a July noon about premature publication of their plan to retire RFC and other debts with a bank loan. Only a few bankers and officials knew of the plan. S. P.'s directors had never been told about it—nor had the executive committee. The leak was highly embarrassing to the management and it's looking for the culprit with blood in its eye.
The published reports—in addition to being premature—were a long way from correct in detail. No definite program has yet been adopted—or even worked out—but you can paste it in your hat that it will be vastly different in its official form from the one which got into news channels.
Southern Pacific isn't the only road that would like to get out of hook to the RFC. There's an excellent reason. Jesse Jones' whole policy on rail loans has changed in the past few months. Such advances were originally made for a period of years. Now they are being renewed practically on a call loan basis. The RFC can demand repayment on thirty days' notice at any time. That puts the borrowing roads on a tough spot. If they are called and can't pay Mr. Jones is empowered to take them over.

MULE BADLY GORED BY ENRAGED BULL
Vass, July 23.—A mule belonging to Paul Gschwind, well-known farmer of Vass, was badly gored by an enraged bull late Sunday afternoon after the animal had broken the latch on a gate and forced its way into the barnyard where the mule was confined. Several gashes were torn in the mule's side and shoulder, and he would, in all probability, have been fatally injured had it not been for the timely arrival of Edward Gschwind, 14-year-old grandson of the owner, who succeeded in getting the bull away from its victim. The gashes were sewed up and the mule is expected to recover.
GREENSBORO SCHOOLS GET THIRD OF FUNDS
Greensboro, July 23.—The Guilford commissioners today formally adopted a budget of $1,728,000 for the fiscal year opening July 1. Of this amount over a third is for school purposes and nearly $150,000 for upkeep of unemployable relief cases.
A tax rate of 68 cents on the $100 is proposed; but final adoption was deferred until final allocation of budget funds is made on the tax rate.

MECKLENBURG BEER THIRSTY
Guilford Rates as the Dirtiest, Records in Revenue Department Show
Reflector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
Raleigh, July 23.—Mecklenburg county is the most beer thirsty county in the state, while Guilford is the dirtiest county, judging from the Department of Revenue figures showing the collection of the beer and laundry taxes by counties for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935. For Mecklenburg led all the counties in the amount of beer taxes paid this past year with a total of $48,269. Guilford ranked in second place in the amount of "suds" tax collected, however, with $42,454, with Buncombe county in third place with a total of $31,018 and Durham county in fourth place with $21,772 and Forsyth in fifth place with collections amounting to $21,453. New Hanover ranked in sixth place with collections of $17,680. Wake county seventh with $15,015 and Pasquotank in eighth place with collections of $12,382.
Merely because more beer taxes are collected from one county than another, does not necessarily indicate that more "suds" is consumed than anywhere else, however, it was pointed out. For the beer tax is paid by the distributors rather than by the retailers. As a result, the collections from Mecklenburg county, for instance represents the tax on all the beer distributed from that county and may include beer sold in a dozen other counties. The smallest amount of beer tax collected last year was $5 from Clay county, while Graham county was next to the bottom with collections of only $10 from the beer tax.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
out the story on leaving the White House. She didn't realize that she was giving out a first-rate piece of political news which every critic would pounce on.
Attempts to cover up by explaining that the Treasury was preparing preliminary budget estimates didn't get far. Emergency expenditures are always the last to be forecast and no estimate will mean anything until the results of the present work-relief activity are known. The normally canny New Dealers have crossed their publicity wires several times lately. There has been too much talking and squabbling in the past.

PLANKERS: A presidential candidate furnishes a sensible explanation for Mr. Roosevelt's tolerant treatment of aides whose impulsiveness or indiscretions cause him unnecessary heart-burnings. No Chief Executive in years has been so restrained in his verbal chidings or so slow in severing relations with recalcitrants.
Mr. Roosevelt cannot make quick decisions with regard to people in his train, according to this view. He can reach a judgment on a policy without delay, although he does not always let advisers know how his mind is working at the moment. But he prefers to take his time when it comes to passing on human relationships.
The President also places a high premium on loyalty, balancing that quality against lack of ability or judgment. But when he makes up his mind that somebody must go, he acts diplomatically but effectively. Almost without knowing how or why they walk the plank and make their splash. Several are taking that last walk now but they don't know what's pushing them.

FORESIGHT: Silver speculators banking on the administration to balloon the price to $1.29 or anywhere near that figure are bound to be disappointed. Unless they stored up the metal early in the game—possibly below sixty cents an ounce—they may not recoup their white chips.
Treasury purchases must be matched against the price of silver as it will be fixed some day at a world conference. If the U. S. loans up at a high figure—above $1—it may stand to lose many millions. It wins only if it can acquire a store below the price eventually agreed upon by the world. These considerations influence Treasury manipulation as much as Congressional mandates and political pressure. Everybody on the inside knows it.
President Roosevelt has pointed out that there can be no "permanent measure of value" for gold or silver without concerted action by many nations. The specialist's forge; that remark. Secretary Hull has constantly queried foreign governments on silver. Meanwhile, we are buying it at slightly above sixty cents—a drop from a high of eighty plus—and it will be good business to keep it there while we hold the bag.

STYMIE: Insiders privately concede that the move to bar AAA processing suits is a colossal bluff. Few expect Supreme Court sanction for the plan. It will not outlaw actions instituted before the law is on the books—if it gets there.
But the gesture may work for a while. It may frighten off prospective litigants. It is official notice to government officials to give no quarter in fighting these actions, to impede and embarrass the suit-bringers. It is a practical rather than a legal expedient.
But the sponsors expect the amendments to have an indirect effect. Victorious plaintiffs in lower courts must seek actual refunds in the U. S. Court of Claims, which is counted on to interfere; the amendments as final expression of Congress' intention. Congress must appropriate funds for recovery of these taxes, and nobody expects it to shove out cash in defiance of its own mandate. So try to get your money back if you don't like the New Deal show.

New York
By James McMULLIN
AUTHORITY: New York conservatives have evolved what seems to them a clinching argument as to why inheritance taxes on large estates would be ruinous—not only to heirs but to cities and inferentially to the nation at large. They only hope it will sound as convincing to Washington.
They figure it out thus: Suppose a taxable inheritance is composed largely of real estate. Many of them are. The only way to pay the tax is to sell a lot of the property. That would mean forced sales at prices well below true value. This in turn would depress other real estate in the city where the sale took place—implying general collapse of values. Then what happens to the financial status of the municipality which depends on property taxes for its principal revenue? And what happens to national recovery if real estate goes into another tailspin?
This argument will not be sprung publicly unless and until there is real danger that a specific inheritance tax schedule will be enacted. The boys aren't wasting their ammunition. But at the same moment Peter Grimm—Secretary Morgenthau's new assistant on real estate matters—will be urged to present the case in the strongest possible terms to his superiors and to key Congressional contacts. It's felt that Grimm could get respectful attention. His background entitles him to speak with authority on real estate matters. It also makes him familiar with the brushing aside of identical arguments in Great Britain.

FAILED: New York is intrigued by the silver bloc's drive to repeal nationalization of the metal and the heavy tax on profits from silver trading. Some of the boys think it would be just grand to have the same chance to pick up easy money as the European speculators.
But insiders doubt that Senator McCarran and his friends will get very far. Secretary Morgenthau is opposed to any alterations in the existing legislation and what he says goes at the White House.
Administration resistance might be overcome if the farm bloc would join up with the silverites—but they won't. A while back it seemed as if these two groups might get together—but relations between them are understood to have cooled a bit lately. The campaign to sell Senators from the wheat, cotton and corn belts the idea that high silver would cure all their constituents' ailments failed to click.
TREND: Examiner Irving L. Koch's report to the Interstate Commerce Commission recommending a basic passenger fare of 2 cents a mile was received with an almost unanimous lack of enthusiasm by the eastern railroads. The only important dissenter was Baltimore and Ohio. The other roads are pretty sore about this exception to their united front and bitterly remark that "B & O" often acts as if it had a crew loose anyway.
New York rail circles disagree violently with Mr. Koch's assertion that "the passenger market of the future looks as promising as at any time in the history of the country." They claim that would be true only if someone made a bonfire of all private autos, buses and airplanes. And they insist that the additional passengers they would get by fare-cutting wouldn't add enough to their revenues to buy a second-hand flat car. Any attempt by the

GREENIES WIN 'CLOSE' GAME FROM KINSTON

Kinston, July 22.—A thrilling ninth-inning rally by the home guard featured today's Greenville Kinston game. The locals were able to put over one run and pam the bases with only one out, but they couldn't find the hit which would have meant victory—and so Greenville's leaders came out on top, 3 to 2.

Jim Morgan's single started the ninth-inning party after one was out. Patton doubled. Morgan counted while Stonebraker was being thrown out after hitting a grounder. Strayhorn was walked to fill the bases. Garner, a pinch-hitter, rapped an in field bouncer which was stowed to the plate to force Patton. Greenberg grounded out to end the game.

Young Dave Smith relieved Reynolds May, who had pitched nifty ball for the Greenies up to the last inning, when matters became critical in the ninth.

Greenville opened the scoring by slaying in the second. Dean was safe on an error, advanced on Park's single and scored on Johnson's single. Another was added in the third when Parker singled after Hulskamp and Dean had been hit by pitched balls.

The ultimate winning run came in the sixth. Johnson singled advanced to third on an error, and scored on May's infield hit.

Kinston scored in the sixth when Irwin doubled after Greenberg had been given life on an error.

A double play nipped a Kinston rally in the eighth.

BRIGGS PITCHES WIN

Williamston, July 22.—Mike Briggs, Snow Hill hurler, kept the locals' hits well scattered except in the fifth inning and Peabody Walker's club defeated Williamston 7-2 today.

The Martins got half of their eight hits in the fifth their lone scoring inning. Goodman's walk, his stolen base, and hits by Gillespie, Herb Cheek, and Corbett produced the runs.

John Griffin's homer with three in the seventh featured a five-run inning for the visitors and sewed up the game.

Griffin was the second batsman to face Johnson, who delivered Morris in the seventh. Perry had opened the inning by reaching first on an error. Briggs' bunt was poorly played and went for a hit. Pete walked to fill the bases. Perry scored on a wild pitch. Cheek singled, and Morris was replaced by Johnson. After Williams had filed out, Griffin did his homer stunt.

Herby Cheek, Martins' new first-sacker, collected three singles to lead his club. Paul Cheek and Griffin, each with two hits, led Snow Hill.

AYDEN DEFEATS BEARS

Ayden, July 23.—Ayden defeated New Bern, 6-4, today in a game which was scoreless after the third inning.

The locals won with a four-run party in the third. Otto Patrick, formerly with Kinston, started the rally by hitting a single. Knowles walked. Atkins doubled to send him, both, and Atkins scored on a triple by Ervin Royal, who shortstopped for the locals last season and who returned after shining for Elm City of the Central Carolina League. Royal counted when Smith's bouncer was errorred.

Tom Burnette with three singles, paced New Bern. Atkins hit two singles and a double to lead Ayden. Eason hit two singles for the Bears and Patrick did likewise for the Aces.

Stanley Johnson, who pitched in the East Carolina League half a dozen years ago, made his debut for Ayden today and turned in a good performance.

GOLDSBORO WINS 7-4

Goldsboro, July 23.—Goldsboro started off with a bang to score four runs in the first stanza and added three in the later innings to defeat Tarboro here yesterday.

White and Tate, who divided the mound assignment for Goldsboro held the cellarites to eight hits. The Bugs made 16.

Hits by Michael and Dalrymple plus two walks and a sacrifice were mixed with Morris' double in the big first inning. Cno run was tallied in the second on singles by Rand, Webb and White. Hits by Dalrymple, Mewborn and White brought another in the third, and the final score resulted from Webb's single Patrick's sacrifice and Morris' single. It came in the sixth.

Short's triple scored Cobb, who had singled in the sixth. Short scored on Wood's long fly.

Wood, with two for three, led Tarboro. Well, E. Patrick and Morris each made two for three for the Bugs. White hit safely on each of two trips.

FEDERAL DRY AGENTS IN SPECTACULAR RAID

Elizabeth City, July 23.—Bootlegging and moonshining interests in Camden, Pasquotank, Perquimans and Chowan counties suffered staggering blow at the week-end when federal agents, operating from the Norfolk office, swept through the section.

They made 20 arrests, captured 10 stills with a total capacity of 1,960 gallons, found 33,100 gallons of mash and confiscated three automobiles and one mule and cart.

Aimed at subjugating Jews, clergymen and World war veterans, a new "purge" by nazis is spreading like wildfire in Germany. One of the chief "purgers" is Julius Strelcher (top), publisher and leading Jew-baiter, who plans to drive all Hebrews from Berlin. Meanwhile, Franz Seidte (bottom), leader of the Stahlhelm organization of war veterans, is trying to save it from dissolution. (Associated Press Photos)

83 KILLED IN AUTO WRECKS DURING JUNE

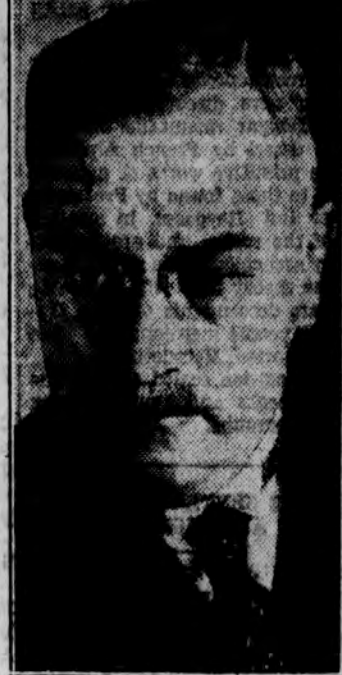

Total of 463 Injured In Series of Accidents in State During One Month

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, July 23.—North Carolina's automobile accident toll mounted to 460 killed and 2,395 injured in 2,262 accidents for the first six months of this year up to July 1, according to the figures released today by the motor vehicle bureau of the State Department of Revenue giving the automobile accident record for July, during which 83 persons were killed and 463 injured in 395 accidents. In May 75 persons were killed and 495 injured in 377 accidents.

The total number of killed and injured for the first six months of this year as compared with the first six months of 1934, shows that 80 more persons were killed and 359 more persons injured in 421 more

With the nazis rating political Catholicism as Germany's "public enemy No. 1," the Hitler regime has appointed Franz Guertner (above), minister of justice, to crack down on the clergy and prevent any sort of criticism from the pulpit. accidents. This record in tabular form is as follows:

First 6 months 1935, killed 480; injured, 2,895; accidents, 2,262. First 6 months 1934, killed, 400; injured, 2,536; accidents, 1,841.

Increase, killed 80; injured 359; accidents 421.

The automobile accident record for the entire twelve months of 1934 amounted to 926 killed and 6,273 injured in 4,552 accidents. At the present rate of increase, the number of killed for the entire year 1935 will exceed 1,000 and the number of injured mount at least 7,000.

It was this steady increase in automobile accidents, especially in the number of killed and injured, which prompted the 1935 general assembly to enact a state-wide drivers' license law and also to increase the size of the State Highway Patrol from 57 to 121 men. The enlarged highway patrol, with 103 new motorcycles and 40 specially built Ford V-8 roadsters, all to be equipped with short wave receiving sets, will take to the road soon after August 3, certainly by August 15, Captain Charles D. Farmer said today.

"I am confident that the people of the state will see a decided decrease both in the number of automobile accidents and in the number of killed and injured after the enlarged highway patrol of 121 men takes to the road early in August," Captain Farmer said. "For now that the patrol has been relieved of all other duties—for the past two years patrolmen have acted as gasoline and oil inspectors and as revenue collectors in addition to their other duties—I am confident that it is going to be able to bring about a very different situation. The state-wide drivers' license law is also going to be a great help in bringing about safer driving."

Collisions of various sorts caused most of the accidents, with 56 of those killed and 470 of the injured resulting from collision accidents. Twelve persons were killed and 237 injured in collision accidents with automobiles, while 29 pedestrians were killed and 53 injured when struck by cars, while 11 were killed and 50 injured in collisions with fixed objects, such as trees, telephone poles, bridges and so forth. Four were killed and four injured in collisions with trains. Only 27 persons were killed and 93 injured in non-collision accidents.

Children, as usual, suffered heavily, as nine of those killed and 29 of the injured were children under 14 years of age, struck while playing in streets or roadways. Eight pedestrians were killed and seven injured while walking along the roadway. One intoxicated pedestrian was killed and four injured.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington. — One of the most striking developments in Washington at the present is the spirit of independence being displayed by the house of representatives to the known wishes of the White House.

Ever since March 4, 1933, the house has been amenable to suggestions from the other end of Pennsylvania avenue. The wishes of Mr. Roosevelt only had to be known, it seemed, to the 435 representatives, and favorable action was had on New Deal legislation.

Through the 100 or so days of the special session of the last congress and during the regular session itself the house almost unswervingly was behind the administration. It frequently consented graciously to being stifled by special rules.

Bills Passed Hastily
The President's emergency banking bill, for example, was passed by the house without the members having read a line of it. It disposed of the bill creating NRA within a few hours.

Previous presidents have relied on the senate rather than the house to carry the administration's burdens. Senators are elected for six years. It is more difficult for lobbies to average themselves on senators than representatives because usually, in a state wide race, voting groups tend more to nullify one another.

A representative must run every two years and some consider it the better part of political wisdom to "play ball"—chance of reelection are better.

In recent weeks, however, there's been a decided assertion of independence on the part of the house and, what is a real matter of concern to the administration, it may grow.

There's still left on the calendars of both house and senate "must" legislation which the President says must be enacted before congress can be adjourned sine die.

A rebellious house could work havoc with these plans.

Must Bills Pending

There's the utility holding company bill still hanging fire, to say nothing of the amendments to TVA, the Guffey coal bill, and the administration's proposal for wider distribution of wealth.

These and others are on the "must" schedule.

Any attempt to interpret what appears to be the show of firmness being displayed by the house necessarily is limited. The complexion of things in Washington these days is changing as rapidly as the weather.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 23.—(AP)—Numerous new highs for the pearware recorded by today's stock market although the leadership shifted from group to group and considerable realizing was encountered.

Trading got off at a fast start and the ticker tape fell about 2 minutes behind floor transactions.

Then wary traders began to cash in some of their gains and the list turned spotty. Mining stock and the rails came to the fore the majority of steels stepped forward cautiously and scattered specialties were in demand.

Grains were mixed and cotton easier.

Bonds steadied. The late stock toe was steady to firm. Transfers were 1,090,000 shares.
