Chiefs Say War In-

Geneva, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Certain League of Nations circles predicted today, following a long distance telephone conference between Premier Laval of France and Premier Mussolini that a formula for settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute would be agreed upon within 24 hours.

The impression grew that Il Duce had proved somewhat conciliatory in this talk with Laval.

This optimism was expressed despite the fact that they stated a few hours earlier that the Italian delegation to the special session of the League council summoned to attempt a solution of the crisis had declared an Anglo-French pact for neutrality unacceptable.

The formula had been prepared overnight by Anthony Eden of Great Britain and Premier Laval of France. The test of the formula was communicated at once to Mussolini in Italy, a spokesman for the Italian delegation told the Associated Press.

"The atmosphere among the Italians is one of insistent pessimism," it was said.

A formal council session arranged for the afternoon was cancelled an hour before it was to be called and the cancellation was interpreted as meaning that more time was necessary to negotiate the difficult situation with Premier Mussolini.

Ethiopia Begins Recruiting.
Addis Ababa, Aug. 1.—(AP)— Massed recruiting for the Ethiopian army began today in the capital.

The recruiting was preceded by a military review and massed meeting in front of the ministry of war.

The action was taken following a war council by the high chiefs of Ethiopia who were reported to have told Emperor Haile Selassie they believed "it may be too late now to prevent war."

Fire Damages
Wooten Home

Fire of undetermined origin late yesterday afternoon damaged the home of Dr. W. I. Wooten, at the corner of Fifth and Green streets, at what figures estimated at between $700 and $1,000.

The flames originated in a third story fire and burned through the roof before firemen brought them under control. A considerable amount of stored baseball goods was badly damaged. Water damage was described as slight.

THREE ARE ACQUITTED
IN CONSPIRACY CASE

Smithfield, Aug. 1.—Malcolm Jernigan, Roy Allen and Wade Vinson were acquitted in Recorder's Court Tuesday on the charge of conspiracy in assisting Marion Stevens of Mendow township to get a marriage license under false pretense.

Marion is only 16 and admitted to have told Roy Allen, whom she married on July 6, that she was 19.

Court records show that while claiming to be Wade Vinson's wife that she was over 18, but Wade Vinson could not be identified as the one who had made the oath and the marriage certificate was not available for his signature to be proven. She was married at the home of Mr. Jerigan but the evidence of conspiracy was not sufficient to cause a conviction.

Increased prices of livestock have caused many Kentucky farmers to turn their attention to raising mules and horses.

Greenville Leaf Men
See Strong Ga. Prices

The Georgia bright leaf tobacco market opened today with prices on early sales reported to be averaging around 20 cents a pound or better, with quality fair and general satisfaction among the growers.

Opening averages last season were estimated between 20 and 24 cents a pound, but the average for the entire season was 18.73 cents.

Although it is impossible to obtain official figures during early sales, it was indicated on the basis of telegrams received by the Reflector today from Greenville toba-conists on Georgia warehouse floors that prices were similar to last season. Heavy sales were indicated on all markets with blocks reported on some.

A telegram filed by Tom Gorman at Metter, Ga., at 12:40 p. m., said
"Opening sales were very satisfactory to all farmers," and that the estimated average on the one house sold up to that hour was 21 cents a pound. The other house, he indicated, would be sold after dinner.

He reported "big companies all anxious for cigarette tobacco."

J. C. Lanier, administrator of the voluntary warehouse agreement in Georgia, reported earlier from Valdosta that "prices first hour very satisfactory, indicating average of twenty cents or better." He said all buying companies seemed anxious for tobacco and that prices ranged from 6 to 31 cents a pound.

Common tobacco was described as selling "good" with farmers entirely satisfied.

C. H. McGowan at Metter, reported shortly after 10 o'clock that "market will block." He indicated quality of the leaf was fair and that farmers were satisfied. He quoted the average on the first row as 21 cents a pound.

A telegram from Gilbert Peel said first hours sale at Douglas averaged 17.75. He said farmers were well pleased.

Georgia Tobacco
Opening Causing Growers to Look to Sales Here

The opening of the Georgia toba-cacco market today found Pitt county farmers pushing rapidly the housing of their golden crop, with indications that the work would be completed well in advance of the opening of the Eastern Carolina bright leaf belt August 26.

Housing operations were started in Pitt county several weeks ago and while rain held up work for several days, it was reported by observers today that considerable progress has been made by growers in all parts of the county with a good crop in prospect.

One of the brightest things in connection with the Pitt crop this year is the quality of the leaf, described as the best in years, and the splendid way it is curing. Farmers for some time have been reporting the best of cures, indicating they will offer buyers this year the finest brand of cigarette tobacco found in this section in years.

The crop in some sections was damaged by torrential rains several weeks ago, but there is enough tobacco left to go well above the government allotment, thus a well acquainted with the situation believed.

Pitt county's golden leaf crop sold for over ten million dollars last year, and with increased acreage allowed under the government control program, it is likely the figure will be exceeded substantially.

This is the season of the year when a neurotic condition strikes all farms as growers pushing the harvesting of their crop with visions of dollars dancing before their eyes. It is the eve of a period when everybody enjoys his share of prosperity as result of labor on the farms, and the opening of the market will find thousands on the warehouse floors, determining the price trend and estimating how much money they will have left after meeting their obligations.

Because of the good prices paid for the crop the last two years a measure of peace has returned to this section, where several years before depression gripped city homes and farms in a way that brought despair and devastation to thousands of families. The situation has been metamorphosed into one of joy and optimism today, and the opening of the market was being looked forward to with renewed hope of reward for the long days and nights of labor.

Dr. N. T. Ennett, director of the Pitt County Department of Health, today mailed a letter to various milk dispensing sources of the county, calling to their attention certain regulations of the milk ordinance adopted by the health department some time ago.

Dr. Ennett called upon all hotels, restaurants, cafes, lunch counters, soda fountains and other milk dis-

J. P. Stowe, sanitary inspector, in carrying out provisions of the regulations in an effort to safeguard public health.

FARMER HITS IN 11TH AND GREENIES WIN

Launching several terrific offensives, Greenville subdued the invading New Bern Bears at Third Street School athletic field here yesterday afternoon to the tune of 7 to 6.

Eleven hectic innings, in which the crack of the willow reverberated to every part of the field, were required to reduce the snarling Bears to submission, but the league leaders finally did it to the general satisfaction of a large Wednesday half holiday crowd from Pitt County and to the chagrin of a smaller representation from the Craven county capital.

There is usually a hero to every game, and Hoyt Farmer, relief catcher of the Greenville club, found himself suddenly shoved into this role with a terrific eleventh inning drive that broke the 6-all tie and enabled the Greenies to strengthen their hold at the top of the standing of clubs.

The Bears were largely responsible for the rally that brought ignominious defeat upon their heads. They erred Wade's drive in the fatal stanza, the runner later reaching third on Huiskamp's sacrifice and Stine's infield out.

It was at this juncture that Farmer walked to the plate and passed the ball to the outer garden enabling Wade to race home with the winning run.

Many thrilling games have been played on the diamond this season but it is possible that yesterday takes rank with the best of them. Both clubs hit like a house afire, registering a total of 24 safe blows, 14 of which were credited to the Greenies and 10 to the visiting Bruins.

Greenville used three hurlers in an attempt to halt the Bear barrage and the visitors used two. It was a bad day for pitchers, as the fence-busters who have been giving so much trouble throughout the season went on a rampage that caused fans, who like to see plenty of hitting, yell so lustily that numbers had to be treated for enlarged tonsils after the game.

As omnivorous as usual when it comes to hits, Greenville obtained enough safe blows to win three of four ball games, as did the visitors, and it will probably be many a day before fans are treated to another willow offensive such as they witnessed yesterday.

George Barley, credited with ten wins and no losses this season, started out on the mound for the Greenies, but the rampaging Bears jumped his delivery as they might have hopped a gravy train and shelled the Duke star for a total of ten hits and six runs. He was relieved in the eighth, Williams and Wade went to Barley's relief and both pitched hitless ball the remainder of the game.

Ten hits and five runs caused the Bears to pull Armstrong in the fifth. It was then that Williamston walked in the box to yield four more hits and two runs.

Greenville shoved one run across the plate in the ninth to knot the count, and from then until the eleventh fans saw one of the finest exhibitions of stinging, both at bat and in the field, they ever saw before.

E. Ferbee with a double and single and Norwood with two singles lead the attack for the visitors, and Andy Johnson with two doubles, and a single and George Barley with three singles lead the league leaders' offensive.

Ambler and Chubby Dean grabbed the spotlight for the locals in the field with several plays that ordinarily would have gone for advantages for their adversaries.

Greenville carried hostilities to the Bear lair this afternoon in the last of the two game series.

EAGLES RALLY FOR WIN
Kinston, Aug. 1.—The Eagles pulled victory out of the fire yesterday with a four-run batting spree in the eighth for a 5-3 decision over Ayden.

The visitors outbit the locals, 11 to 8, and had things their way until the eighth when the Eagles went after Lefy Upchurch and drove him to the showers. Otto Patrick's single and Knowles' home run gave Ayden a two-run start in the first frame. Patrick, former Kinston player, repeated the home run stunt in the fifth, but this time there was no one on base.

Kinston got one in the second on a walk to Morgan, singles by Taylor and Stonebraker, and Taylor's infield out. Morgan was thrown out at the plate when he caught to score on Stonebraker's hit.

Morgan drew his four hit walk of the game to start Kinston's big eighth. Taylor tripped and counted when Stonebraker flied out to right. Strayhorn singled, and he came home a bit later when Humphries singled to center and the ball got away from Wall Greenberg doubled to score Humphries.

It was Booster Day here and a capacity crowd was on hand. Jim Tatum, Carolina grid star, was taxed $5 by Umpire Ben Mitchell for criticism of the umpire's eyesight. This riled Tatum and so he socked the ball for a two-bagger.

SNOW HILL GETS 8-5 WIN
Goldboro, Aug. 1.—After twice coming from behind to tie the score Goldboro awakened in the last four innings and lost to Snow Hill, 8-5, yesterday.

Norman Olgers of Petersburg, new Goldboro hurler, started on the hill and yielded only three hits until he was yanked in the fifth when he showed signs of wildness. Wilson replaced him on the hill and pitched until the ninth when he was succeeded by E. Webb after yielding a home run walk, and a double in succession.

Six lay-outed Parmelee on the hill for Snow Hill in the fifth. Singles by Cheek and Griffin led to a Snow Hill run in the first, and the Bugs erred it—the third of Patrick's walk and Webb's double.

Snow Hill batted around in the fifth, counting four runs on three hits by Parmelee, Cheek, and Norman—two walks, and two in batsmen.

Singles by Morris, Rand and Durrant gave Goldboro two in the seventh, and a walk and singles by Carter and Morris brought two in the fifth.

Griffin hit a home run and two singles to put Snow Hill, Taylor and Cheek each made a double, and single Don Moran with two for four led the losing Bugs.

TARBORO WINS, 5-4
Tarboro, Aug. 1.—Tarboro and Williamston each had one big scoring inning yesterday but the local was one run larger than that of the Martins and Tarboro took a 5-4 verdict.

A pair of throws which went to the wrong places helped Tarboro in its five-run third inning. Chumbriss walked, Maie singled off Shortner, Walter's knee, and Chumbriss walked when Walter threw wild in trying to head off Chumbriss at third. Maie pulled up at third and scored on Brake's fly, Bassin walked and Bryant singled. McArthur singled to right, and the throw to third went to the stands when third-baseman Leary and Bryant collided. Thus, a total of two runs came in on the blow and McArthur went to third. At this stage, Abbott relieved Cassell, starting Martin flinger. Short's infield out scored McArthur.

Williamston tallied in the seventh. Chappell walked, Gaylord fanned, House and Leary singled to account for one run. Cheek's single sent in House. Mitchell then issued walks to Doyle, Morris and Abbott to force in two runs. Rhymer relieved Mitchell and retired the side without further scoring.

Bryant, with two for four, led Tarboro. Cheek, with two for three, led the Martins.

URGES SUPPORT OF MILK REGULATIONS

April 23, 1935, adopted the Standard Milk Ordinance. For fear you may not be fully familiar with it, we are calling your special attention to three very important items in said ordinance:

"1. Section 10. It shall be unlawful for hotels, soda fountains, restaurants, and similar establishments to sell or serve any milk except in the ORIGINAL container in which it was received from the producer or distributor, provided that this requirement shall not apply to mixed milk drinks. (This means that milk must not be served in glasses or cups).

"2. Section 10. All milk and/or milk products sold in quantities less than one gallon shall be delivered in standard containers approved by the health officer. (Fruit jars are among the containers disapproved by the health officer, and you should refuse to receive dairy products in such disapproved containers, and we would appreciate your advising the health department of the names of such persons or corporations violating this regulation).

"3. Section 7. Item 23. All milk shall be delivered to the final consumer at a temperature of 45 degrees F. or less.

"We feel that you have a right to know what the penalty is in case the ordinance is violated. Section 19 reads as follows: 'Any person who shall violate any provision in this ordinance shall be fined fifty ($50) dollars, and each and every violation of the provisions of this ordinance shall constitute a separate offense.'

"The Health Department bespeaks your sympathetic cooperation in this matter and Mr. J. P. Stowe, our sanitary inspector, will be glad to give you any assistance you may desire."

proved by the health officer. (Fruit jars are among the containers disapproved by the health officer, and you should refuse to receive dairy products in such disapproved containers, and we would appreciate your advising the health department of the names of such persons or corporations violating this regulation).

"3. Section 7. Item 23. All milk shall be delivered to the final consumer at a temperature of 45 degrees F. or less.

"We feel that you have a right to know what the penalty is in case the ordinance is violated. Section 19 reads as follows: 'Any person who shall violate any provision in this ordinance shall be fined fifty ($50) dollars, and each and every violation of the provisions of this ordinance shall constitute a separate offense.'

"The Health Department bespeaks your sympathetic cooperation in this matter and Mr. J. P. Stowe, our sanitary inspector, will be glad to give you any assistance you may desire."

"The census will be taken of the city twice each year in order to be able to keep in its files a classified list of the business and professional interests of the community. It is a move on the part of the chamber to have as its finger tips the information sought by similar interest from other sections of the country and one to which it is hoped all business men of the city will lend their support.

Boy Scouts of the city within the next day or two will begin a business and professional census of Greenville, it was made known today through a letter mailed out by the Chamber of Commerce.

The survey is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce to meet the ever-present demand for information concerning the business and professional interests of the city, and those interests have been urged to cooperate in every way possible.

The census will be taken of the city twice each year in order to be able to keep in its files a classified list of the business and professional interests of the community. It is a move on the part of the chamber to have as its finger tips the information sought by similar interest from other sections of the country and one to which it is hoped all business men of the city will lend their support.

Boy Scouts will circulate census cards throughout the city probably beginning tomorrow or next day, and those visited will speed up the work to no little extent, it was said, by signing immediately, so the Scouts may be on their way.

JOKE ENDS FATALITY.
WARRANT TAKEN OUT

Smithfield, Aug. 1.—Warrant has been issued for the arrest of George Phillips, who was the cause of Percy Hardee, negro of the Archer Lodge section, getting struck and killed by an automobile Sunday afternoon.

Phillips frightened the negro with a snake, which he was carrying, and the negro ran in front of the moving car which killed him. The coroner's jury met in Smithfield Tuesday morning and exonerated Barnes who was driving the death car, of all blame. Phillips left the community immediately after the accident and has not been apprehended, but a charge of manslaughter awaits him as soon as officers can find him.

ACCUSED OF FORGING U. S. RELIEF ORDERS

Wilmington, Aug. 1.—The case of Sam Perkins and Coy Baker, white men, charged with forgery of 17 Federal relief orders, was continued until Friday morning by Judge Alton A. Lennan in recorder's court Tuesday.

The men were arrested Tuesday morning at 1:40 o'clock by city police at 1012 S. Third street. Warrants were obtained by A. A. Nelms, local private detective.

Officers at headquarters said they did not know any details other than those given in the warrants, in the case, Baker, according to a recent issue of the city directory, is a textile worker.

Bonds for the appearance of the two men in the county's lower court were set at $200 each.

ASKS $2,000 DECLARES ARREST UNJUSTIFIED

Asheville, Aug. 1.—Clyde Roberts filed suit in general county court Tuesday against H. E. Godfrey for $2,000 damages as a result of an alleged false arrest.

The plaintiff charges that he was arrested at the instigation of the defendant on a charge of stealing a wrist watch valued at $49.50 on December 8, 1934. He charges that he was compelled to post $50 bond for his appearance and later was acquitted and completely freed of all charges. He asks for $1,000 actual and $1,000 punitive damages.

TO TAKE NEW CENSUS HERE

Boy Scouts to Compile Business Interests For Chamber of Commerce

Boy Scout of the city within the next day or two will begin a business and professional census of Greenville, it was made known today through a letter mailed out by the Chamber of Commerce.

The survey is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce to meet the ever-present demand for information concerning the business and professional interests of the city, and those interests have been urged to cooperate in every way possible.

The census will be taken of the city twice each year in order to be able to keep in its files a classified list of the business and professional interests of the community. It is a move on the part of the chamber to have as its finger tips the information sought by similar interest from other sections of the country and one to which it is hoped all business men of the city will lend their support.

Boy Scouts will circulate census cards throughout the city probably beginning tomorrow or next day, and those visited will speed up the work to no little extent, it was said, by signing immediately, so the Scouts may be on their way.

JOKE ENDS FATALITY.
WARRANT TAKEN OUT

Smithfield, Aug. 1.—Warrant has been issued for the arrest of George Phillips, who was the cause of Percy Hardee, negro of the Archer Lodge section, getting struck and killed by an automobile Sunday afternoon.

Phillips frightened the negro with a snake, which he was carrying, and the negro ran in front of the moving car which killed him. The coroner's jury met in Smithfield Tuesday morning and exonerated Barnes who was driving the death car, of all blame. Phillips left the community immediately after the accident and has not been apprehended, but a charge of manslaughter awaits him as soon as officers can find him.

COLLECTIONS OF REVENUE UP IN JULY

Substantial Increase Shown in North Carolina Over The Previous Year

Raleigh, Aug. 1.—Collections of state revenue from all sources during July amounted to $4,140,442 as compared with $3,758,014 from the same sources in July, 1934, an increase of $382,427 or of 10.18 per cent, according to figures released this morning by Commissioner A. J. Maxwell of the State Department of Revenue.

Collections of general fund revenue, which is the revenue for all state purposes with the exception of highways and prisons, amounted to $2,330,956 in July as compared with $2,195,908 in July, 1934, an increase of $135,048 which when reduced to percentage represents an increase of 6.15 per cent.

Highway fund collections, obtained entirely from the gasoline tax, the motor vehicle tax, title fees and bus and franchise taxes, showed the largest percentage increase in July of this year over July of last year, amounting to $1,809,485 in July as compared with $1,562,106 in July of 1934, a gain of 15.84 per cent. Almost $200,000 of this gain came from the gasoline tax alone, although there were increases in every item.

Of the general fund collections of $2,330,956, the largest single amount collected in July of $1,068,069, came from franchise taxes while the next largest amount of $709,979 came from the sales tax. In July, 1934, the franchise tax yielded $1,368,822 while the sales tax brought in only $556,580. One of the principal reasons for the increased receipts from the sales tax in July is that included in the total are collections from the sales tax on meals as well as on retail sales. It does not reflect collections on food articles, however, since the tax on food did not go into effect until July 1 and hence will not be reflected in collections until August. The sales tax on meals went into effect June 1 and hence showed in the July collections, which represented the tax on business done in June.

The tax on beer yielded $49,247 in July as compared with only $33,527 in July, 1934. Most of the other taxes showed some increases.

NEW BOOKS

By JOHN SELBY

Probably for the first time in the history of Canada, her new Governor General is being introduced to his constituency by a light romance of the Graustark type.

The book is being published on the eve of John Buchan's accession as Lord Tweedsmuir, and its title is "The House of Four Winds." According to Buchan's disconsolate publisher, it may be his last book until he has finished his Canadian service. But Buchan has always been one of the busiest men in England and Canada would need to be very obstreperous to occupy his time any more fully.

The new novel deals with the internal problems of an imaginary Central European country, by name Evalonia, which problems Buchan solves through the agency of a group of adventurous Scots. Buchan is himself a Scot.

There is also an atmosphere of political satire, especially in the fact that Evalonia has its youth movement. This movement, like some others of its type, doesn't quite know where it is going and finally reaches a quite unexpected destination by unexpected means.

The future Lord Tweedsmuir does not confine himself to remnants of intrigue, however. He has lived several lives in one. He has been an officer in His Majesty's forces secretary to Lord Milner in South Africa, barrister, biographer, poet, mountaineer, an authority on Scottish law, a justice of the peace and a commuter.

His home is at Oxford, but daily he commutes to London.

WIRE YOUR SENATOR NOW

The Flannagan compulsory tobacco grading bill finally passed the House of Representatives after being amended by Congressman Lindsay Warren to require a two-thirds vote by the farmers in any belt or section before compulsory grading would be placed on the markets in that area. The bill is to come up before the Senate immediately and there is a concerted effort to strike out the Warren amendment.
Then if a majority of the growers vote for government grading every farmer must have his tobacco graded by the government graders whether he wants to or not.

If there is any benefit to government grading then certainly its proponents should be willing for it to stand on its merits and make it optional for a grower to have his tobacco graded by the government graders, but instead of being willing for it to be optional the friends of the grading system would have it thrust upon the growers whether they want it or not. If there is merit to the system the growers would soon find it out under the optional plan and would voluntarily take to the government grading, but certainly we do not feel that it should be forced upon them unless they want it, or are assured of benefit by the grading.

From the very start of the fight to obtain this legislation both Senator Bailey and Senator Reynolds have expressed a desire to carry out as far as possible the wishes of the tobacco growers themselves, and now is the time for the growers of this section to let their wishes be known in the matter. If you do not want compulsory grading forced upon you, wire Senators Bailey and Reynolds now, to use their influence to see that the Warren amendment is retained in the Flannagan bill if the measure is adopted by the Senate. If the Warren amendment is retained two-thirds of the growers will have to vote for the grading system before it goes into effect, but without the Warren amendment the Flannagan bill would require compulsory grading for every grower if a bare majority of the growers vote for the plan.

Don't put this matter off.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie has confessed to marry the wealthy and powerful Albery. Mark Moore has declared that although he will not marry her, he will love her. Rex Moore and Rex Moore's wife have allowed trivial matters to separate them.
Now Laurie has told him that she is to marry Albery. Rex is horrified, and disappointed with Laurie as well.

Chapter 38 ALBERY AGAIN

"It's by no means safe yet," said Rex Moore to Mark Albery, discussing the new fuel, a couple of days later. "It was just luck that we escaped yesterday. I only landed in the nick of time, and hang went the engine."

"You wouldn't try it for a longer flight?"

"Not in its present state."

"It's a pity. It would make such a sensational. I think you had better put off the Pacific flight until we get it right. It would make such a huge difference to us both—almost halve your time."

Rex Moore looked gloomy.

"I'm not at all sure that it's ever going to be any good," he said. "It's too tricky—anyhow, so far. You can't begin to tell the speed at which it becomes dangerous. Yesterday when the first explosion happened, I was making much less than usual, owing to the wind. What can you do about that?"

"Get Gerard to go on with his experiments, my dear fellow."

"You don't want to risk lives, Mr.
Albery?"

"Of course not. We must have patience and take every precaution, as we always have done. And you're not one to talk about risks, Moore!"

"I should hate to put off the Pacific flight," said the airman ungraciously.

"We'll think it over. Have a drink, Moore! You must be tired out. I asked you to come up to me so late, because I was so anxious to know what you really felt about it, not having seen you yesterday."

Albery got up and went to a table under a high window and poured out a whiskey and soda for Rex Moore.

It was an unusual kind of room, this office of his in one of the great buildings of the Grettton Airplane Factory. It was high up on a glass-enclosed corridor that ran along one side of an enormous hangar, about sixty feet above the ground. One reached it by a spiral staircase.

Underneath was nothing but the huge space where the new planes were housed. The room was small and furnished as a luxurious office, and Albery spent a great deal of his time in it.

He always liked to be on the spot, and often sat here reading and working far into the night, his restless, imaginative brain engaged on that entrancing vision of controlling the entire airways of the world.

It was after eleven o'clock. Rex Moore had just come back from town, where he had spent the day seeing to his passport and the transport of his plane to South America, from whence he was this time to start on the Pacific flight. He had found a message at the bungal-ow, asking him to go to Albery's office as soon as he came back.

HE DID NOT want a drink, as he had had very little food all day and wanted to be up with the dawn.
Anyhow, he loathed the idea of drinking with Albery, who handed him a tumbler and held up his own.

"You haven't congratulated me, Moore! I want you to drink to our happiness, Laurie's and mine. We may as well drop all humbug from the beginning. You know she has told me the whole truth about your little game. If I may say so, Moore, it was rather stupid and not quite worthy of you."

Rex Moore took a gulp at his glass.

"I acted like a lunatic and a cad," he said harshly, his tanned face dark with disgust and humiliation.

"You mustn't be too hard on yourself," Albery retorted smoothly.
"Where were you wrong was that you misjudged me. But I must give you credit for having shielded Laurie, when you might have shown her up. But, my dear boy, I'm sure this is one of the affairs in which the less said the better. We'll forget all about it. Only, I want to tell you that you can leave all the details to me. If you do exactly as I tell you, no more blame shall be attached to you than is absolutely necessary.
And what does that amount to when people all around you are being divorced every day?"

Rex Moore was trembling with rage and revolt. He could hardly keep his hands off that inscrutable smiling face. He controlled himself with a mighty effort. Laurie had chosen. There was nothing to be done.

"Another drink, Moore!" said Albery, taking his glass and filling it.
This time Rex swallowed it at a gulp. He must get away, or something would happen.

"I'll be getting along," he said. "I want to be up early."

"Good-night, my dear boy!" Albery went to the door, and opened it. All was darkness outside. "How careless, they've forgotten and switched off the lights downstairs!" he said. There were several systems of lighting in the buildings, in case of fire. "I'm staying on for a bit. Can you find your way?"

"Yes, thanks. I'll walk along the corridor and go down the staircase at the other end. The door is always open." That was the way he was in the habit of reaching his bungalow from Albery's office. It was only a few hundred yards from the door of the big building.

Albery went back into his office and shut the door.

Rex Moore hesitated for a moment when he found himself in complete darkness, but he could find his way along the corridor blindfolded. He was terribly tired. The scene with Albery had upset him. There was a loud buzzing in his head. Why had he had those two drinks?

He hurried along. He would be glad to get to bed.

And, suddenly, the solid ground gave way under him. The floor of the corridor was not there. He stepped into a black abyss, with the sickening feeling of falling into space.

IN THE act of falling into space,

Rex Moore found himself thinking—"This means death!" And in the same flash he saw himself jerk-ing Laurie back by her coat collar when she had nearly fallen out of the train at Liverpool station.

And, with that memory, came sudden power and inspiration.

With a desperate effort, as of a drowning man, he lifted his arms and flung his body sideways, and it hit something solid. Half stunned, but with the strength of mortal necessity, he managed to get a grip on a thick plank, and, with a mighty heave, to hoist himself up and to crawl, spread-eagled, several yards away from the open pit that had awaited him in the blackness of the night.

He did not know that he cried out, but he must have done so, for the door of Albery's office opened in the distance, and Albery's figure became visible in a thin beam of light.

Moore could see, but he could not hear for a few seconds. His heart was beating in his ears louder than any engine.

"Is anything the matter?" Albery shouted. "Is that you, Moore? Did you call?"

And Albery began to walk along the corridor.

Then Rex Moore found his voice.
"For God's sake, keep back!" he cried sharply. "There's a hole here.
I nearly went through. Some of the boards are gone."

Albery gave vent to a shocked exclamation.

"Are you all right? Wait a minute!
Don't move! I'll go down and switch on the lights."

The blackness vanished in a glare of strong white light that half blinded the airman for a few moments.

Then he slowly stood up and saw what had so nearly happened to him.
From the other side of the large gap in the flooring, about six foot square, Albery approached.

Rex Moore had never seen his face showing emotion before.

"Moore, what an escape! How ever did you save yourself in the dark?"

"I don't know. Instinct, I suppose," said Rex grimly.

They both peered down through the hole into the great hangar, the cement floor of which was quite sixty feet below. The explanation was simple enough. The boards that had been removed formed a trap door through which the workmen reached a narrow platform from where they could inspect the pulleys that lifted the planes up to any desired height if the hangar should be too crowded to hold them all on the floor level.

Some workmen had evidently been using it, and neglected to replace it.

(Copyright, 1935, Coralie Stanton)

Rex Moore has a disappointment, to say the least.

expected to wind up speedily his administration of the postoffice department, drop his double role and become simply Chairman Farley of the Democratic national committee.
Of course, there will be certain ceremonies. A White House letter probably will praise the services of the outgoing cabinet officer, and reaffirm the President's confidence in him. A statement already is planned by the New Deal publicity men. As now projected, it will declare the Farley postal administration one of the greatest ever from the standpoint of economy, efficiency, and progressive effort.

After all of that is over, Washington expects to see a great deal of Chairman Farley. As manager of the Roosevelt reelection campaign, he probably will be in and out of the White House as often as before.

In the past it has been a widely-believed fiction that President leave reelection efforts largely in the hands of their friends. Actually, behind the scenes, most Presidents do much of the campaign managing themselves. Mr. Roosevelt hardly is expected to be an exception to that practice.

Lobbying No Surprise

Investigation of lobbying has become a perennial chore of Congress.
Every few years this subject receives a general renovation at the hands of some committee.

Invariably the investigators express great shock and surprise at what comes out. As a matter of fact, most of it is either well known or strongly suspected in advance.

It is true that a few new tricks of the trade usually are uncovered but by and large the wide scope and devious methods of lobbying in Washington areas easy to see as the Washington monument.

There is no secret whatever about the fact that hundreds of corporations, private firms, trade associations, and societies of various kinds maintain representation at the capital; and that many of these representatives receive handsome salaries and generous expense accounts.

Some of those concerned say very frankly that this is not surprising, considering what they have at stake. The really surprising thing is that members of Congress are able to put up such a show of astonishment and indignation when testimony brings out what everyone familiar with the Washington scene already knew.

Borah Unpredictable

In spite of his 70 years, Senator Borah is able to maintain his standing as the one great figure in national politics whose decisions are wholly unpredictable.

He attained that position nearly a quarter of a century ago. In the 1912 Republican convention he was perhaps the outstanding floor leader of Theodore Roosevelt's revolt against Taft's renomination. He surprised everyone when the convention was over by refusing to join the Roosevelt bolt.

Recently he came to the defense of the constitution with a force and anability which led many people to ask in surprise whether he had become, after these years, an extreme conservative. Some conservative Republican leaders began to say the party might do worse than to nominate him for President next year.

Then without warning he announced an organized effort to force through Congress two bills calling for a $5,000,000,000 inflation of the currency—both of them bills which President Roosevelt had rejected as too radical for inclusion in the New Deal program.

SEVEN ARE ARRESTED FOR COUNTERFEITING

Charlotte, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Seven arrests on counterfeiting charges in the two Carolinas were reported here last night by Henry Thomas, investigator in charge.

Thomas said a man booked as Jimmy Ross was alleged to have been the "boss shover" of the bogus money. Ross and four others were taken into custody in Greenville, S. C.

The four men were listed by the investigator as Willie A. West, Lonnie W. Taylor, Walter W. Taylor, and Ladson Ward.

A man booked as W. Herber Faust was taken in Roanoke Rapids, and another listed as Everett Randolph Edney in Asheville.
Ross was said by Thomas to be under $10,000 bond, the others under smaller bonds.

M. "Little Bill" Johnston, U. S.

Tilden in 1920 and for six years thereafter, believes Tilden at his best would have beaten England's Tilden's cannon ball serve, he says, would have meant the difference, the two other wise being about equal. Perry goes to the net more frequently than did Tilden at his amateur peak.

try Gulf 3 weeks IN THE "TRAFFIC COURT"

Wanted: a fair trial

If it's been some time since you've used Gulf, try it 3 short weeks—and then give us your verdict.

Put it on trial in traffic. Starts. Crawls.
Get-aways. Climbs. There's no fairer test—and we think you'll confirm a judgment that's already been handed down...

750 Turned Judges

We went to owners of average cars—750 of them. We asked them to compare Gulf with their regular brands—judge it on (1) mileage, (2) starting, (3) pick-up, (4) power, (5) all-around performance.

Gulf Won the Verdict!

At the end of the trial, 7 out of 10 voted Gulf superior on one or more of the 5 counts—many on all five.

Reason? Controlled refining makes Gulf 5 good gasolines in one. Gives it not only 2 or 3—but all five qualities of a perfect gasoline.

Start off with a tankful of That Good Gulf today. In three weeks, you'll be an addict!

utility bill, downtown experts noted that three preponderantly Democratic delegations—New York, Pennsylvania and Texas—lined up against the administration. Their attitude was a great surprise to the White House. If enough of these Democrats can be forced to switch on the final balloting, Mr. Roosevelt will get the kind of a bill he wants. He needs a shift of only 39 votes.

So Mr. Black arranged to summon witnesses who would testify to skulduggery in those three states. He has dug up fake telegrams from Pennsylvania cities, a Texas member who bought $3,000 worth of baby bonds on a $5,000 income and expenditure of immense sums of Associated Gas and Electric officials headquartered in New York. Already they're talking Black-for-Vice-President if Jack Garner doesn't want to run again.

HANDY: Footballer "Ham" Fish of New York has already made it hard for the GOP to deny him the vice-presidential nomination. Confidential reports to Republican headquarters say that he has sold himself to the people in the 36 states where he has hoisted the banner of "Fish for Vice-President."

The New York Congressman, who represents Mr. Roosevelt's district, makes no secret of his desire for national honors in 1936. He is delightfully frank in admitting his ambitions. He has the heaviest mail of any House member—largely from remote admirers who have followed him in the headlines. He never dodges publicity. Although his colleagues don't regard him as a political heavyweight, they concede that he might be a secondary asset.

Upstate New York is said to be cooling toward the New Deal, and it is to voters above the Bronx that Mr. Fish would direct his appeal. Should first honors go to a Middle Westerner—Frank Knox, Senator Vandenberg or Gov. Landon—the GOP may find Mr. Fish to be a husky handy man.

TAXATION: House Democrats' writhings over the tax bill have produced an unexpected shift in sentiment on Capitol Hill. Their experience may silence "soak the rich" slogans for a while.

Ways and Means experts studied a score of rate setups against reports of large incomes in recent years. Although admittedly a conservative body, they experimented with the highest rates possible in their executive sessions. But the most they could uncover in additional revenue through extremely high taxes was $450,000,000. Beyond that point they figured that rates would prove confiscatory and crippling to recovery. The politically minded dared not go beyond increases which will yield from $250,000,000 to $300,000,000.

The result of this "soak the rich" venture may be ironic. It will strengthen the LaFollette demand for much higher rates in the lowest brackets. It may have just the opposite effect from what Mr. Roosevelt wanted when he proposed that taxation be utilized for social purposes.

BUSY: The report that New Dealers contemplated a special campaign against Bill Borah of Idaho gave shivers to the Democratic high command. Jim Farley telephoned from Salt Lake to deny that he had singled out the distinguished Idahoan for slaughter. To Mr. Farley the man from Boise is just another Senator.

There is no news in the fact that the Democrats will strive might and main to retire Mr. Borah from public life. It would be news if they pulled their punches against him. But what they fear is the effect such a premature announcement will have on pending legislation on Capitol Hill. They don't care to antagonize Messrs. LaFollette, Wheeler, Johnson, Nye and Borah.

himself while so many major bills are on the griddle.

Of course the Democrats will fight Mr. Borah. Three months ago even he thought that his foes had a fair chance to defeat him with Gov. Ben Ross as a candidate. Now the Senator thinks he's sitting pretty, with the "constitutional" issue made to order for him. But by giving him a hard tussle Mr. Farley may be able to keep him too busy at home to take part in the presidential campaign.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
FORGET: The banking bill moves into the hosiery stage with Senator Glass and Congressman Steagall as the leading Davis Harms. Steagall of course favors the Eccles bill as passed by the House—which concentrates open market powers in the Federal Reserve Board alone—ac against Glass' variant which gives the regional reserve banks a voice in determining open market policies. The Senate bill would also require that at least two members of the Federal Reserve Board be men of practical banking experience, while the House version has no such stipulation. Other differences are comparatively minor—except for one that has had little attention but may turn out to be the pivot on which the whole outcome of the Senate-House conference hinges.

The bill which Steagall steered through the House was supposed to be an administration measure—although the White House took care never to endorse it in detail. The obvious inference is that Steagall is the administration's good right arm in the forthcoming contest. New York sharps doubt that this is necessarily true.

Steagall is a staunch champion of the state banks in their fight to save off compulsory membership in the Federal Reserve System. This is a move toward unification on which Glass and the White House—for a wonder—see eye to eye. Insiders predict that the chairman of the House conferees will get so engrossed in defending state bank autonomy he may forget to do or die for other features of the original bill which Glass has undermined. That would set the stage for a neat if not gaudy victory by Glass and the conservatives.

REVIVED: Keen financial sources also express skepticism that the administration is as helibent for the

BRYAN'S MEMORY HONORED AT DAYTON, TENN.

On the tenth anniversary of his death, mountaineers far and near assembled at Dayton, Tenn., to pay tribute to the memory of William Jennings Bryan who died there just after his famous defense of religious fundamentalism in the trial of Prof. John Thomas Scopes on charges of violating the state's anti-evolution law. A section of the crowd is shown at the ceremonies. At the right is Patrick H. Callahan of Louisville, Ky., as he spoke in praise of Bryan's stand for biblical teachings. (Associated Press Photos)

House bill as published reports indicate. The amendments which LaFollette sponsored in the Senate were supposed to be just what Mr. Roosevelt wanted—yet administration Senators didn't even go through the motions of fighting for them. Instead they frankly passed the buck to the House-Senate conferees. Their casualness is taken as a reflection of FDR's true attitude. Certainly there was no such indifference on the part of administration backers when the House was debating the holding company death sentence.

Supporters of the banking bill drafted by Federal Reserve Governor Marriner Eccles charge that the changes introduced by Senator Glass hand the banking system back to Wall Street control. Wall Street emphatically doesn't agree. While New York bankers do prefer the Glass version to the alternative of complete centralization in Washington they would much rather have no legislation at all.

As predicted here, the much-discussed amendment to permit banks of deposit to underwrite security issues turns out to be nothing more than a pawn to be offered by Glass in exchange for more vital concessions on Federal Reserve reform. The big banks aren't disappointed as you might think. They figure their turn will come later when the volume of private financing grows to a point where it will be obvious that investment houses haven't the capital to handle it. Then they expect the project to be revived and quietly passed—possibly as soon as next spring. They would much rather wait and have the privilege handed them than go after it aggressively now.

BLESSING: One of the newest wrinkles in the transportation field is the introduction of the terms "TL" and "LTL." The trucking industry has grown to such proportions that it now quotes lower rates for Truck Load than for Less (than a) Truck Load. These correspond to the long-established railroad terms CL (Car Load) and LCL (Less Car Load).

A railroad analyst has recorded the loss of about 24,000,000 pounds of traffic yearly by the railroads from one shipping point in the past four years. He also notes a transition on some types of traffic from 100 per cent rail to 97 per cent truck and 3 per cent rail.

New York experts generally concede that railroad executives as a class do not measure up to the calibre of men in similar jobs in other industries. They claim this has been true ever since the Interstate Commerce Commission was created—because it so hampers private initiative that men of outstanding ability have no incentive to enter the railroad business. One critic contends the greatest blessing that could be conferred on the railroads would be a constitutional Retirement Pension Act which would ease out the present executives and allow the roads to acquire new blood and new ideas.

RESEARCH: J. L. O'Neill comes home from the NRA wars today to rejoin his employer—the Guaranty Trust. Both Mr. O'Neill and the bank are said to be delighted that his Washington service is over. He has made a tremendous splash in the NRA personnel in the past two months and arranged for further cuts to come. He was placed in command specifically to handle that unpleasant job—though the administration probably wouldn't care to admit as much publicly.

With his passing the NRA is reduced to an organization of pure research—and not much of that.

A NEW GASOLINE THAT NAMED ITSELF!

WHEN we inquired of our chemists what was new and different about our new American Gas, one of them said, "Among other things, it's not acid-treated, it's not necessary to add outside chemicals, and it's 'air-conditioned'."

"What do you mean, 'air-conditioned'?" he was asked. "You know," he answered, "how a motor acts up with ordinary gasoline when you run into sudden changes of temperature and humidity. In the course of a day there are a lot of such variations."

"Well, this new gas, as you know, is produced from a 100% pure petroleum base. By careful adjustment of light end content we're able to condition this gasoline at the new refinery so that it counteracts erratic tendencies in the motor due to outside temperature and humidity changes."

"There's been a lot of talk," he continued "about 'uniform performance' of gasoline. But it's built right into this gasoline—you fill up at any of our pumps from Maine to Florida and, whether you drive long distances or short distances, your motor will never notice any change in weather or climate. This gasoline is 'air-conditioned' and different."

And from that moment on it was known as "AIR-CONDITIONED" American Gas. It was named for how it's produced—for what it is and what it does!

"AIR-CONDITION" YOUR MOTOR!

Stop at any Yellow and Black American Gas pump and fill up your tank with "AIR-CONDITIONED" American Gas. Then keep your car "air-conditioned" with this amazing new "AIR-CONDITIONED" American Gas. Even though it costs us more to produce, it is being sold at regular gas price from Maine to Florida and inland, by thousands of American dealers and stations.

READ THESE OTHER GUARANTEED FEATURES

CLEAN BURNING: 100% Pure Petroleum Base—No Added Chemicals—100% clean burning—no harmful deposits.

GREATER NET POWER: "Air-conditioned" gasoline plus clean burning, guarantee superior performance. Hence, GREATER NET POWER.

HIGHER ANTI-KNOCK: By new processes—without acid treatment—in the world's most modern refinery, we obtain naturally from 100% Pure Petroleum Base a higher anti-knock value than other regular gasolines get artificially by the addition of chemicals to bring up anti-knock alone.

MORE MILES: Greater net power and higher anti-knock rating net more miles to the gallon than any other regular gasoline.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The stock market today began the new month with eyes ahead and its feet on fairly firm ground.

A steady underdone was apparently from opening although here and there a few issues backed water under profit taking pressure.

The first hour found block of several thousand shares changing hands.

The pace slowed later and the number of the recent favorites showed signs of needing a little rest.

The rails as a group probably were the best. Grains were nervous cotton was also inclined to slip, secondary carrier bonds were again in demand and improvement was registered by other loans divisions.

The late stock tone was heavy.

Transfers were 1,700,000 shares.

Hold Men For Assault.

Raleigh, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Three members of a Johnston county family were ordered held under bond of $10,000 each today on charges of conspiracy to assault and kill a federal alcohol tax collector and a Wake county constable, following a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Charles Wildes.

J. Percy, Jimmy and Vick Flowers, merchants of Johnston county, are charged with beating A. E. Bennett, federal investigator, and Falkland Jones, Wake county officer. After fixing their bonds Commissioner Wildes ordered a hearing for the defendants Saturday morning.

Bennett, who is alleged to have been struck over the head with the butt of a pistol and a stick and who was cut with a knife in a hospital here. His condition is considered serious. Jones was only slightly hurt.

The alleged assault was said to have been the result of a liquor raid in which five stills and 19,000 gallons of mash were destroyed.

county farmer, was adduced at the forenoon session of a judicial inquiry opened here today.

From officers who arrested Ward Superior, court Judge W. C. Harris received details of the rampage the negro went on when he cut off C. C. Stokes' head but none of the witnesses connected anyone with the lynching.

Solicitor W. Y. Bickett, of Raleigh, did most of the questioning of witnesses assisted by Attorney General A. E. F. Sewell.

Dr. H. C. Perry, of Laurinburg, who saw the negro and hour or so before he was hanged to an oak tree testified he believed Ward was under the influence of a narcotic when he ran amuck.

Some 20 witnesses were summoned for the hearing which packed the courtroom of Franklin county's 82-year-old court house intended to seat 250, to capacity with upwards of 400 spectators who crowded in in spite of the stifling heat.

TO AID TAX COLLECTIONS IN N. C. CITIES

League of Municipalities at Raleigh Plans Help to Small Towns Also Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 1.—In order to aid tax collectors in cities and towns in the collection of delinquent taxes and special assessments a pamphlet has been published in mimeographed form by the North Carolina League of Municipalities at Raleigh. The pamphlet, prepared by Arch T. Allen, Jr., Associate Attorney and Field Consultant, for the League, and entitled, "Collection of Delinquent Taxes and Special Assessments" is a summary of the general tax collection laws, set forth in simplified, chronological order from the time the tax is levied through the time it becomes due and delinquent to the manner for holding tax sales and the method for foreclosure. It is being distributed to city and town officials throughout the state.

In explaining the purpose of the publication, Patrick Healy, Director of the League's Bureau of Municipal Information, said:

"As every North Carolina public official knows, the tax collection laws of this State are confusing, conflicting and difficult to understand. The need for a summary digest of the tax collection laws, setting forth in chronological order the various steps in municipal tax collection procedure, has long been apparent. It was with the idea of fulfilling this need, therefore, that this pamphlet has been prepared by Mr. Allen. As a lawyer for the League Mr. Allen has made a thorough and exhaustive study of the statutes on tax collection in North Carolina.

"The League hopes eventually, through the cooperation of municipal officials, to recommend to the General Assembly a uniform, simplified tax collection law."

Healy pointed out that most tax collectors and even lawyers are often confused by the intricacies of the North Carolina tax collection statutes and that therefore the League of Municipalities hopes to render a distinct service to municipal officials by clarifying the laws in this publication.
