GOVERNOR TO TALK FUTURE OF RAILROAD

Ehringhaus To Go To Morehead Tomorrow In Connection With Proposition

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Before he takes his annual vacation beginning in a few days, Governor Ehringhaus will go to Morehead City tomorrow to confer with the officers and directors of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad as to its future, which means its relation to the Morehead City port.

"Old Mullet," as this line has been known for many years, is under lease to the Norfolk Southern Railroad for 99 years, more than 50 of which period is yet to run. Economic conditions which have resulted in the complete change of railroad business hit the Norfolk Southern hardest because it did more expanding during the years leading up to the debacle. Since the state leased Old Mullet more than 40 years ago that road has been made secondary to the line from Norfolk to Raleigh and from Raleigh to Charlotte and Fayetteville.

During the Norfolk Southern's great expansion which ran through from Norfolk to Charlotte, the state had an offer of sale of its stock in the Norfolk Southern. The late E. Carl Duncan, Republican party leader and business man of distinction, offered to buy for the Norfolk Southern the state's interest in Old Mullet. The state's interest could have had $1,000,000 for this property. It was, however, a much better thing apparently, to keep Old Mullet in the state's family. One of the vehement objectors to the sale to the Norfolk Southern declared that in time Old Mullet would make enough money for the state to pay the salaries of the entire state government. To give up the old A. & N. C. meant as this statesman said, to surrender the opportunity of making such profits as would pay all the expenses of government to the end of time.

It did not turn out that way and Old Mullet has been a moneyloser for several years. It had to default on paying taxes and the conditions of the lease could not be enforced. The Norfolk Southern simply was not making the money and it said so knowing that its credit would suffer. The state has this million dollar darling on its hands and at the meeting tomorrow some suggestion of control over it will be discussed.

What will be done at the Thursday morning meeting may determine the policy of the state as to "Old Mullet." The failure of the lease to pay the lease and the taxes automatically put the road back on the state's hands, but other less encumbered lines had suffered the same fate. There was not blame at

FAILS TO SIT

Regular Wednesday Session Abandoned On Account Of Lack Of Cases

Because of the paucity of cases the regular Wednesday session of city court was abandoned this morning.

No arrests of any consequence have been made here since the first of the week. Chief of Police George Clark, stated this morning, and no court will be held until Saturday.

The chief expressed belief that weather had been so hot the last few days that the criminal element didn't feel like exerting itself and this accounted for the lack of cases.

Other law enforcement officers of the county also reported a shortage of arrests, although violence over the past week-end was more widespread than any other similar period in several weeks.

Police today were continuing their investigation of the robbery of Nichols' market on Evans street Monday night. The only clue they had to work on was a series of fingerprints taken from the safe and other parts of the building visited by the thieves.

This was the first robbery reported here in several weeks, although last winter and the early spring, police were kept eternally busy checking activities of robbers and petty thieves.

With the busy season approaching with the opening of the tobacco market, officers were preparing to increase their vigil in an effort to hold down violations as much as possible.

CLUBMEN HEAR OF SCOUT WORK

Louis Thornton Of Buffalo, and Dr. Herbert ReBarker, Are Rotary Speakers

By WYATT BROWN

Scouting in Greenville was brought forcefully to the attention of the Rotarians last night at the Rotary Club by Mr. Louis Thornton, Scout Commissioner of Buffalo, New York, and Dr. Herbert ReBarker, a friend of long standing of Scouting. Both speakers indicated they thought Greenville had done a good deal so far for Scouting but had still the job of supplying adequate leadership in the form of Scout Masters.

Mr. Thornton, congratulated Greenville on the fine piece of Scouting both financially and in getting out and giving service. The results are already tangible, he said, judging from the report of K. T. Futrell of the Welfare Department who reports a decrease in glass breakage since the increased activity in Scouting in the last ten months. Mr. Thornton hastened to add that that did not mean the Scouts—the boys who are now Scouts—were the ones who did the breaking of window lights and electric light bulbs but that the spirit of Scouting from the Scouts had permeated the boyhood of Greenville.

Citing the purpose of Scouting Mr. Thornton said the leaders are trying to train Scouts "to be boys that will not drift in the common place nor crack in the crisis." Illustrating this he told of a recent visit to an over-night camp of some local Scouts and how they provided with consideration for his enjoyment, which shows how the Boy Scout

But the Alabama member pits the dignity and prestige of the House against the unwanted presence of "Bennie" Cohen at conference sessions. The House has been snubbed too often by the Senate not to respond to that appeal. He also gave his colleagues the alibi that they were turning thumbs down on "Black Derby Bennie," and not on PDR. You can imagine how that impertinent issue will help at election time.

Department Summons Potential Officers to Prepare For War-Time Service

Rome, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The war department summoned all potential officers from home and abroad today as the populace aroused anew by Premier Mussolini's order constituting three new divisions acclaimed his Ethiopian policies.

All prospective officers of the classes of 1909 to 1914 (men born in those years) who have not completed officers training, were ordered by the war department to resume it by November 15. They will complete training by next May 15.

The order also applied to officers under 39 who still aspire to readmission to military service as well as officers who have left the service because of foreign residents.

The populace excitement was marked by turbulent demonstration at San Remo and Asti, headquarters of the constituted divisions of regulars and at Milan and surrounding communities from which recruits will be drawn.

The populace swarmed into the city, singing fascist hymns, waving banners and acclaiming Il Duce.

THREE LIQUOR PLANTS
RAIDED IN JOHNSTON

Smithfield, Aug. 6.—Three more distilling plants in the section where A. E. Bennett, federal officer, was wounded last Wednesday, were raided Monday afternoon by nine federal officers. Deputies J. A. Massey, N. D. Barbour and Constable R. D. Marler. One of these was a large steam outfit with an 800-gallon capacity still and a 20-horse boiler. This showed signs of having been used within the past few hours. The stills at the other plants had been removed but the mash left. One hundred and eight barrels of mash were found at the three places, but no whiskey.

DEAF, PARTLY BLIND, UP FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Hickory, Aug. 7.—When Roscoe Barrs, a totally deaf and partially blind young man of the Highland section, was arraigned before Judge Theodore F. Cummings of Hickory Recorder's court on a charge of a second offense of drunken driving, the magistrate frankly admitted that "it was a case demanding the wisdom of a Solomon."

Barrs presented a pathetic picture, and Judge Cummings was plainly moved by his physical condition. However, the court pointed out that society cannot permit anybody to imperil the lives of others along our highways—no matter how much a person might be swayed by sentiment.

Turning to the mother of Barrs Judge Cummings pronounced a sentence of four months on the roads against the defendant, with the provision that it was to be suspended if the deaf young man will immediately dispose of his automobile, pay the costs, and promise not to purchase another motor car.

Unusual Migration To City From Provinces Causes Action By Police

Berlin, Aug. 7.—(AP)—An official Nazi announcement proclaimed today that further "measures" would be taken to halt a stream of "undesirable element" especially Jews, from pouring into Berlin for refuge.

The announcement said measures already have been drawn up by Wolf Hendrick Von Heldorf, head of the Berlin police, and Julius Lipfert, anti-Semitic campaigns the refugees seek protection in the city, saying they have no place else to turn unless they leave the Reich.

No indication was given as to the precise nature of the steps to be taken. Driven from small towns by Nazi anti-Semitic campaigns the refugees seek protection in the city, saying they have no place else to turn unless they leave the Reich.

The board also met with the newly created ABC control board to discuss a system of disbursements. A system similar to that used by the county was decided upon. The board also heard a report of activities of the liquor stores which were thrown open slightly over a week ago, and although a definite report of sales was not made, the control board expressed themselves as highly pleased with first week's sales.

The board also met with the county audit with the auditor in charge of the new audit, in addition to discussing several phases of the tentative budget adopted several days ago. The budget is scheduled to be finally adopted in the near future as soon as a few changes have been worked out.

EMACIATED YOUTH IS ACCUSED OF BURGLARY

Edenton, Aug. 7.—Earl Gregory is an emaciated negro youth just getting into his middle teens. He used to work for C. Y. Parrish, a nearby farmer. Of late he has been unable to get work of any sort. Poorly clothed and half starved from want of food he went to the Parrish house on Sunday to beg for "pats" as he put it. There was no one about. But Earl stuffed himself to suffocation and then drifted into Mr. Parrish's bedroom. He saw an old work shirt. He took it; also a pen knife, and went his way more satisfied with life. Monday Mr. Parrish learned of his losses and came to Edenton to relate them. He saw Earl, collared him, and turned him over to Chief of Police Helms. The boy is in jail charged with burglary.

WOMAN SHOT, PULLS BALL OUT OF SKULL

Scotland Neck, Aug. 7.—At a whoopee party which was lasting into the early morning hours Saturday night at the home of Frank Lawrence, colored, near town G. B. Richardson became enraged at a colored woman, Ethel Lawrence, and shot her in the head with a pistol. The bullet was embedded in the skull of the woman just above the eye and since it did not penetrate into the brain, she reached up, plucked it out and threw it on the floor.

Medical aid was given at a doctor's office and recovery is expected. Richardson escaped before officers appeared on the scene.

SMITH SEEKS
OF TARIFFS

Action Of Farmers To Test Validity Of Tariff Receives New Support

Washington, Aug. 7.—(AP)—The farmers threat to test the constitutionality of protective tariffs if the AAA processing taxes are invalidated by the Supreme Court drew a demand today from Senator Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina, for tariff modification.

However, Smith, an ardent opponent of the protective tariff, said he doubted a move to have it declared unconstitutional would get any where.

A farmers' cooperative association in Texas and Louisiana said recently it would file suit against the tariff if the processing taxes and consequent benefits to the farmers were outlawed. The association maintained the triple A is to farmers what the protective tariff is to industry.

"The tariff has been on duty so long the Supreme court may construe it to have become a common law," Smith said. "There may be so much involved that the supreme court may either evade the question or declare it a tariff by virtue of the law of the land."

Smith also expressed doubt as to the constitutionality of the processing taxes but asserted that so long as there was a tariff farmers were entitled to benefit payments.

Speaking of the processing taxes, he pointed out that the levy did not raise revenue but raised money for the benefit of a specific class without ever being appropriated.

"I am not opposing the benefit payments to farmers, nor am I opposing the principles that where farmers have suffered from the operation of a protective tariff that they are entitled as long as the tariff is operating to a remuneration to the extent of the amount they have to pay in tariffs."

"But I believe it ought to be unconstitutional. I advocated making a program of the general fund to help the farmers, and I still believe in this method of meeting the situation."

WOMAN TO SEEK
SENATE SEAT

Mrs. McKee of Jackson County Says She Will Be In Next Race For Assembly

Reflector Bureau.

Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—First certain senatorial announcement among the women who hope to occupy a desk in the 1937 general assembly comes from Mrs. Gertrude McKee, Jackson county, who represented that district in 1931.

Mrs. McKee has indicated to Raleigh newspaper men that her present mood is to run. She has the distinction of being the only woman who ever has been named to the senatorship, though several in various districts from time to time have been named. The Republicans have had one senatorial aspirant and the Democrats perhaps a dozen in as many years.

Mrs. McKee's senatorial experience here as a colleague of Senators Hallett S. Ward and Harry P. Grier had the strange effect of making those bitter foes of woman suffrage kinder toward that cause, but Senator McKee made political enemies even as men-senators have done. She was strong for some form of consumption tax at that season, but lost both of her battles. She probably will be an earnest defender of the present tax laws which were enacted by the 1933 assembly.

Women voters have had an opinion many years that the first woman to seek the lieutenant governorship would be Mrs. McKee, but she has not justified the guess with any announcement. She is a ready debater, a parliamentarian trained in the clubs of the state and likes her politics. She believes the rotation will work in her favor.

It is further reported in Raleigh that Mrs. John B. Spilman of Pitt, and Mrs. Lily Morehead Mcbane of Rockingham counties will make the senatorial races in their districts. Mrs. Mcbane was twice a member of the lower house and in the 1934 primaries was a candidate for Congress, giving up the senatorial prospect then for the larger race. It would not surprise if there should be several she-senators in the 1937 legislature.

M'RAE WILL
GOVERNOR

Charlotte Man Confounds Prophets By Announcement He Will Run

Reflector Bureau.

Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 7.—Reaffirmation from Charlotte that John A. McRae is in reality going too far for the nomination for governor in the 1936 primary and that he is soon to get going seems to confound the prophets who saw in the McRae candidacy only a phase of opposition to Clyde R. Hoey.

Mr. McRae's managers are soon to be chosen, the story out of Charlotte says. Who will be the big chief is not known. It is expected that in Chatham county Walter D. Siler will assemble his strength and there seems to be an understanding that John W. Hinsdale will manage in Wake. Both are men of immense energy.

Mr. McRae recently took the Norfolk to Boston boat trip with the newspaper men, choosing to sail with the scribes rather than with the lawyers who go down to the sea in ships about 10 days hence. He caused many paper men to wonder, but he told them nothing about his candidacy. He did assure some of them that he isn't running just to make noise.

Mr. McRae has a declaration on the liquor question that is due before many moons. That issue will be emphasized out of all proportion next year, it seems, but the Mecklenburg Scotchman thinks the public is due an intelligent declaration on the subject. In time much express is to be forthcoming. For the present it appears that A. H. Graham of Hillsboro is to be the Wet candidate and Mr. Hoey the dry. Mr. McRae will not find the situation so simple and he will offer something midway between those extreme positions.

If he attaches to his county staffs Hinsdale and Siler there will be some work done. They know the art of shaking the bushes. And if opposition to the "Shelby Dynasty" is nominated in the bond, the two mentioned can very easily qualify.

Great Flow Of Money Expected In North And South Carolina Tomorrow

Florence, S. C., Aug. 7.—(AP)—The bacco "big money crop" of the Pee Dee section will go on sale in the 16 auction markets of the border belt tomorrow and such trade channels pulsed at quicker speed with an indicated crop of 74,100,000 pounds and the prices on Georgia markets holding forth hope of an average price above 20 cents a pound and the South Carolina crop of the golden weed will be worth in the neighborhood of $15,000,000. Last year's figures of J. Roy Jones, state commissioner of agriculture showed South Carolina raised 52,952,175 pounds which brought an average of $21.60 a hundred. The crop is larger this year because of increased acreage and on July 1 was estimated by J. O. Black, federal crop statistician at 74,100,000 pounds.

The South Carolina markets in the border belts are Loris, Conway, Darlington, Dillon, Kingstree, Lake City, Mullins, Pamlico, and Timmonsville.

Seven other markets across the border in North Carolina also will open with the South Carolina markets. They are Lumberton, Fairmont, Clarkton, Chadbourn, Fair Bluff, Tabor and Whiteville.

Liquor Sales In Martin

Williams, on Aug. 7.—The third liquor store to be opened in Martin county, Oak City, sold only $30 the first day it was opened, though receipts are expected to increase. The Williams store averaged for its first ten days about $165 while the average of the Robersonville store was a bit more than $100 per day.

DECLARE WAR ON WEEDS HERE

City Government To Indict All Persons With Weeds on Their Premises

An intensive campaign to rid Greenville of weeds was started by the city government today.

The announcement was made this morning by Chief of Police George Clark who declared that all persons who do not cut down rank growth of vegetation on their property would be prosecuted.

The action was taken after failure of a number of property owners to clear lots of weeds. A warning was issued during the first of the summer that all vacant lots must be kept clear of weeds, but the summer has almost passed and scores of lots in all parts of the city are filled with weeds several feet high.

Numbers of complaints of the condition have reached city officials the last several days, and a concerted campaign was decided upon to improve the situation.

The police head declared he had two men at work today checking on the weed-filled lots throughout the city and that as soon as their report is made warrants will be issued for the owners.

Weeds, he said, not only detract from the beauty of the city, but constitute a breeding place for mosquitoes. The mosquito situation has been reported as very bad in some sections due mainly to weeds, and no improvement will be possible until weeds have been cut down.

Mr. Clark urged people in all sections of the city to co-operate with the administration in its effort to eliminate weeds, and asked that steps be taken immediately to clear all lots of rank growth of vegetation as quickly as possible.

HURT IN BLAST, NOT
SHOT FROM AMBUSH

Hickory, Aug. 7.—An exploding dynamite cap was said by Sheriff O. D. Barrs to have caused the injuries suffered by Ray Huffman, aged 10, of the Providence Church community, who told officers that a shot from ambush Friday afternoon had blown off the thumb and two fingers from his right hand and caused painful leg injuries.

Sheriff Barrs made a thorough investigation of the story told by the lad, who said he was shot from ambush by an unknown assailant as he was returning to the home of an uncle with whom he resided in Bandy's Township, after an errand at Joel Huffman's store, and finally obtained from the boy a confession that his story of being shot from ambush was a falsehood.

Public Utility, the Social Security, the Omnibus Banking and the AAA bills had passed the House in jig-time. They were on their way to speedy enactment when the court sounded off. Then doubts arose, these measures were subjected to scrutiny for constitutional defects and revamped where necessary. Now more than two months later, they are still in conference and controversy—thanks to the Supreme Court. The Guffey Coal bill is not even out of committee. The NRA, of course, has washed up.

The legislative statement tells only half the story. Processors have begun a bombardment of the AAA through suits to recover taxes. The Republicans have dared to assume the offensive. Conservative Democrats have become unruly. And new tests of the New Deal's constitutionality start toward the Supreme Court each day.

AVIATION: The War Department has quietly taken steps to insure that there shall be no repetition of the fatalities which befell its fliers when they were called on to carry the air mail over mountains and through snowstorms.

On private calendar days House and Senate have passed a bill authorizing the department to investigate strategic areas for permanent Air Corps stations. Although carefully worded, the plan is to train aviators in cold weather and fog in Alaska and the Atlantic Northeast; in the mountainous regions of the Rocky Mountains; over long water jumps in the Caribbean.

Nobody mentioned the air mail fiasco during consideration of the measure. They didn't have to. It was passed without a dissenting voice or debate in both Houses. With its provision for establishment of training fields and depots on the continent and foreign possessions the measure marks belated recognition of the importance of aerial defense and offense in the next war.

SIZE: An undercover dispute between steel manufacturers and New Deal economists illustrates how far apart Big Business and the administration stand over the so-called rich tax bill. Both use the same figures to bolster contrary viewpoints.

In the July issue of "Steel Facts," the house organ of the Iron and Steel Institute, there appears a statement of the 1934 earnings of 154 steel companies. It shows that the smaller the corporation, the larger its earnings. Forty-eight companies with less than a $1,000,000 investment averaged earnings of 6.94 per cent. Six corporations with investments of more than $100,000,000 had losses averaging 0.09 per cent.

The manufacturers contend the report refutes presidential arguments that big business means excessive profits. The New Dealers emphasize over it as evidence that a breakup of industry through taxation will help rather than hurt individual corporations.

New York

BY JAMES McMULLIN
SCARE: Labor's drive for stricter federal supervision of industry hasn't yet borne fruit—but conservatives are decidedly nervous about it. Well-posted New Yorkers predict that a bill for this purpose will be one of the major issues at the next session of Congress. The ground-work is being carefully laid for legislation which would control business—not merely regulate it. Expert legal talent is working on the problem of how to make it constitutional.

Meanwhile there will be a few preliminary gestures. FDR is not supporting the licensing bill backed by the Federation of Labor or the textile bill—he can hardly afford any more iron in the fire—but neither is he opposing them. Insiders understand he wants to see how far they will get in Congress under their own steam.

The Connery licensing bill has no chance for final enactment this year. But it's quite possible that this measure will be passed by the

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie is worried out of mind. She loves Rex Moore and he loves her, yet she is engaged to Mark Albery and he is engaged to Wanda Steele. Albery is usually yellow, and wishes Moore were out of the way enough to try to cause him to have a plane accident. And Laurie's sister Gladys is running around with the light-minded Jimmy Dallas, and is lying about it. Albery is explaining to Rex how "silly" he is that the young fyer escaped.

Chapter 43

ALIBI

"My dear fellow, how dreadful!" said Albery. "You appal me! I'm all in a tremble. Forgive me, if I don't sound quite reasonable. What an escape! We must go into this at once. Why, you might have been killed! You would have been but for your parachute."

"And think that Laurie was going up with you! It's like a bad dream. I can't take it in. You must go thoroughly into it at once. I'm bound to go to Berlin tonight. Shant be able to see you, though I'd give anything to stay."

"Please go into the whole matter. I give you full powers. I'll tell them they're to give you every facility. You must cross-examine every single man on the staff. What a mercy you are safe!"

"Oh, what a nuisance! I'm just going home, and I have no 'phone there. When do you expect her?"

"I don't quite know. She went out with Beau—to the pictures, I think."

"Well, give her a message from me. I want her to come to my place tomorrow for the day and to spend the night. Tell her Mr. Mortimer from Sydney is over here and has asked us to dine and do a show."

"Yes, Mrs. Moore."

Nelly's voice sounded rather queer to Laurie.

"Tell her it's very important. She'll remember Mr. Mortimer. He was very kind to us in Australia."

"Yes, Mrs. Moore, I'll tell her, when she comes back."

Decidedly, Nelly's voice was queer. All Laurie's fears about Glad rushed in on her like a wave, sweeping her mentally off her feet. For a moment her voice failed her; her heart seemed to rise into her throat and stifle her. When she went on speaking, Nelly had evidently left the telephone.

INSTINCT told Laurie that something was wrong. On one of her irresistible impulses she rang up the number of Jimmy Dallas's chambers in St. James'. A man's voice, not his, answered her.

"You're a very wicked girl!" insisted Laurie.

"I guess it would take a lot to kill me," said Rex Moore.

And again that ghastly grin distorted Albery's face. He went on talking for several minutes, but afterwards he could not remember a word that he had said.

Only one sentence of Rex Moore's remained in his mind.

"Please don't tell Laurie, Mr. Albery. I've kept it absolutely dark here. We mustn't let anything come out—on account of the new fuel, you know. Of course, it must have been a mistake."

But to Albery's distracted ears it had seemed that the airman's voice was full of deadly meaning.

Laurie spent four days of almost complete solitude.

Albery was detained in Berlin. She did her routine work at the office. Albery had deputed her to look after his correspondence, and she communicated with him by telephone twice every day.

But, on the Monday after Albery's departure, Mr. Mortimer, his colleague from Australia, called on Laurie in her office. This was the good Samaritan who had come to her rescue in Sydney.

She gave him tea in her office. Albery had obviously told him that she and Rex Moore were separated, but he was very tactful. Possibly Albery had hinted that he was going to marry her himself after the divorce. At any rate, Mr. Mortimer was very friendly indeed. He asked most kindly after her sister, and seemed deeply interested in her career, and invited them both to dine with him the next evening and go to a show.

Laurie accepted with pleasure. Mr. Mortimer was so kind. Gladys would love that. She was so fond of restaurants and theatres.

When Mr. Mortimer had gone, she rang up Nelly Park's home in Streatham.

"This is Laurie Moore speaking," she said, as Nelly answered. "How are you all? I want to speak to Glad. Will you call her?"

There was a quite perceptible pause, and then Nelly said:

"Glad isn't in just now, Mrs. Moore."

"Can I speak to Mr. James Dallas, please?" she asked.

"I am sorry, Madam, Mr. Dallas is not in London at present."

"Where is he?"

"I am afraid I cannot tell you, Madam. Mr. Dallas left no address."

In a few moments Laurie was out of the office.

She hailed a taxi and told the man to drive to Nelly's home in Streatham. Hours seemed to pass, although the man made very good going.

It was Nelly who opened the door of the little suburban house. Nelly, pale-faced and black-haired, the very opposite of the radiant Gladys, started back with a little squeal, like a scared rabbit.

Laurie gave her no time to collect herself.

"Where is Glad? I don't believe what you told me over the 'phone."

"She is out, Mrs. Moore—really!"

"I'll wait 'till she comes back, then. Are your people at home?"

"Only dad. He's got a class. Nelly looked as if she wanted to shut the front door in Laurie's face.

"Take me somewhere where we can talk," Laurie commanded.

"You've got to tell me the truth. I know Glad isn't staying with you."

"Oh, Mrs. Moore, how can you say such a thing?" The girl was a bad actress. She led Laurie into the front sitting-room, and there were tears in her eyes.

"It's no good lying to me, Nelly," Laurie said quietly. "I know there's something wrong. You've been helping Glad to keep things from me. Where's Glad?"

"I don't know," whimpered Nelly in a last frantic effort of loyalty.

"You do know and you're going to tell me. You're a very wicked girl."

"Oh, no, Mrs. Moore!" Nelly's voice was now choked with sobs.

"I'm scared to death and frightfully worried. But Glad made me swear I wouldn't tell. And you know how she is, how mad she gets if you cross her, and how she always has her own way."

TREND: The textile bill hasn't had nearly the public attention it rates. In some respects it is the most drastic proposal for government supervision of private enterprise ever offered.

The measure is sponsored by the United Textile Workers—a very strong union. It would establish sweeping federal control of textile mill output and would clamp rigorous restrictions on excess production.

Of course it includes liberal labor provisions—more detailed than usual. Man hours and work load would be subject to strict limitations. The bill will get nowhere at present—but it represents a significant legislative trend and will undoubtedly be revived later with probably a better chance for passage.

CONTENTED: Farmers who have been getting AAA benefits need not be uneasy about legal actions to avoid payment of processing taxes or for recovery of those already paid. They will get their dough regardless. New York sources say the only question the administration is bothering about is how—not whether.

A proposal was made some weeks ago to pay these benefits out of work relief appropriations. Or the Treasury's general fund might be drawn upon for the purpose. But either of these alternatives would cramp administration spending plans in other directions and informed New Yorkers understand that New Deal advisers are racking their brains for some other solution.

One scheme that is being considered would be a break for the silvers. It would consist of buying the metal more rapidly in order to cash in on the seigniorage. The book-keeping profit from such operations could be used to keep the farmers contented and thus strengthen FDR's chances for a repeat victory in 1936.

SAFE: A vital point has been overlooked in most discussions of whether the Supreme Court will dump AAA in the ashcan this fall. The cases to come before the Court in 1935 all originated before the new AAA amendments were enacted. That means there will be nothing final about the forthcoming decisions—no matter how they turn out. If the New Dealers are defeated they can simply say the rules have been changed—so what?

Conclusive Court tests of the new powers about to be conferred on the Secretary of Agriculture will be almost impossible before eighteen months. That will be after the '36 election—so AAA is safe until the voters have a chance to confirm or reject New Deal policies.

SPEEDED: One of the best features of the present mercantile situation is the absence of large inventories. Stores and fabricators are not handicapped by surplus stocks. Department of Commerce figures—based on 1923-25 figures as normal—show that manufactured goods inventories are now about 102 per cent of normal as against 120 per cent a year ago.

Footstocks were 85 per cent of normal in the middle of 1934—now they are 75 per cent. Iron and steel have dropped from 105 per cent to substantially normal—textiles from 160 per cent to only 120 per cent. Leather and non-ferrous metal inventories are virtually unchanged and rubber stocks have risen slightly.

The general decline in inventories should speed up recovery considerably as consumer demand increases.

BROAD: The Business Advisory and Planning Council is laying low these days but it's still in existence. After all the threats to dissolve it and leave the New Deal flat unless FDR paid more attention to its advice only a few members have dropped out. Those who remain still feel they will have a chance to function usefully as the only right wing group to which the President pays any attention—even though he hasn't exactly embraced their advice in recent months.

The Council in general is taking a recess until October 1—but a special committee on taxation is busy preparing a report for the President's guidance. It's a safe bet that it will be in favor of a nice broad tax base that will include just about everybody.

ROTES HEAR OF SCOUT WORK

does not drift in the common place. Then he related an incident of a Buffalo Scout of Low school ability who through bravery and Scout training was a real hero in rescuing a man from a burning home, showing how the Scout is trained not to crack in the crisis.

"What boys need to meet modern civilization in initiative, vision, keen observation, judgment, and cooperation with other people—the will to do and the way to do it. All information on this subject available indicates that the best training for this comes from out-of-door camping experience. That is one thing Scouting trains boys in. It teaches boys to feel at home in the woods. The boys are taught by the men in Greenville who act as counselors.

"Scouting is dramatized for the boys by the uniforms, patriotism program and moral part. Scouters—the men who serve on the various Scout committees—understand this program but they seem to ask why so much organization."

Briefly Mr. Thornton cleared this by likening Scout organization to the school organization: the paid executive is the superintendent who is trained and does the supervising, the Commissioner is the principal and sees to it that it is all working out and does the ironing out of rough spots, the Scout Masters are the teachers, and like the schools parent-teachers association there is the troop committee which serves in the same capacity. The large number of men involved is partly due to the fact that none give full times so the jobs are divided up to lighten the load on each.

Professor ReBarker outlined how Scouting had grown from three interested men to a sizeable organization all over the county. First, the rally in October when the Greenville work was begun. The subsequent rural institute which resulted in troops in Bethel, Stokes, Grifton and Arden. There are now nine troops in Pitt County and one Cub Pack of youngsters too young to be Scouts. Also there is one negro troop. We are sending ten white boys and one colored boy to the National Jamboree in Washington, C.

"Why Scouting? Find men and boys go to town right after supper and then we wonder what is wrong with the home going to town with nothing to do is a fine place to get into trouble. Scouting gives the boys something to do. If we as adults will let the leadership to point the way and transmit the enthusiasm in Scouting, we can make it go over."

"Already Scouting has placed responsibility more than the church and Sunday school. Boys have assumed responsibility and have done things. The trouble is we do not have enough leadership to take care of the groups when they are got together. Parents have lost interest. This throws the responsibility upon us. It is serious business this crop of kids. We need to place responsibility on the boys to train them for citizenship and Scouting does that. Scouting establishes ideals. One does not hear boys talk of ideals and aims today."

Dr. Drury B. Armistead, diagnostician and internist of Pitt Community hospital, was a guest of the club. The attendance prize given by Roy Campbell was won by Steve Wilkerson. In the absence of W. W. Lee, the president, Lawrence Stroud the vice president, presided. Wyatt Brown was in charge of the program as chairman of the Community Service Committee.

LOCALS BLANK TARBORO 5-0; AYDEN TODAY

After Tarboro had broken his five game winning streak Monday, Guy Williams, one of the Greens' premier hurlers, returned to the mound against the cellarites yesterday and blanked them by the comfortable margin of 5 to 0.

While the visitors obtained a total of six hits off Williams' delivery, the blows were so well scattered that they couldn't be converted into runs.

As Williams was getting revenge, his teammates pounded out four hits off of Sharpe and took advantage of three Tarboro miscues to make them count for a total of five tallies. Manager Olin Perritt relieved Sharpe in the sixth and hurled hitless ball the rest of the route.

A walk, error, outfield fly and Ambler's triple counted for two of the Greens' tallies in the fifth. In the sixth Wagner walked and Farley singled. Both tallied when Hutskamp's single was error by Bassin in the center garden. Hutskamp, who came to rest on the third corner, later tallied on a passed ball.

Chumbris, Tarboro shortstop was the shining light of the visitors' defense, accepting a total of nine difficult chances without a bobbie.

With exception of one bobbie, which didn't endanger the checking station to the slightest extent, Greenville played their usual fine game, making up for the six errors chalked up against them in the Tarboro victory the day before.

Guy Williams was very resentful when the cellarites blasted him from the box the day before, and was said to have asked to be permitted to pitch yesterday's game. So when the cellarites arrived, Guy unleashed some of the finest pitching seen here this season and walked off the diamond with enough revenge to last him until somebody else comes along and breaks one of his precious winning streaks.

No member of the local club obtained more than one hit. Ambler's drive for three bases was the longest of the game.

Today found the league leaders playing in Ayden. After having been taken by the Greens last Saturday, the Aydenites went into the game today with blood in their eyes and planned, to launch one of the most spectacular offensives seen there this season. They will play in Greenville tomorrow.

SNOW HILL WINS
Snow Hill, Aug. 7.—Snow Hill eased into second place by a half-game margin over Kinston—as a result of a 5-3 victory over New Bern yesterday while the Kinstonians were losing to Goldsboro.

Bobby McFadden pitched the locals' triumph over the Bears, and he turned in a six hit performance. Emmett Ferebee's double and two errors gave the Bruins two runs in the third, but the rest of the way their only scoring was Lefty Kennel's homer in the seventh.

Manager Walker's locals won in the seventh after Kennel's homer had tied the count. Cheek doubled, after Pettie had fanned. Griffin walked and Neuman drew life on an error. Cheek scoring. Parnielee fanned but Perry walked to fill the sacks, and then Andreoli forced in a run by walking Parrish.

Perry, with three for three, and Parrish, with two for two, led Snow Hill. Cheek hit two doubles to bat .400. Ralph Williams featured afield. No visitor made more than one hit.

GOLDSBORO WINS

Kinston, Aug. 7.—Goldsboro handed Kinston's patched-up outfit an 8-5 licking yesterday. The home club attempted one of its ninth inning rallies, but this one was checked after two runs had been scored.

The Bugs got half their runs in the second. Lambeth's single and walks to Herring and Dalrymple filled the bases. Rand singled to left, and three runs counted when the ball got through Keller. Rand counted a bit later when Greenberg errored a throw to third.

Farmer, a pinch-hitter, started the Eagles' rally in the ninth. He singled. Greenberg walked, and Harris tripled to score both. Harris was caught at the plate when he sought to score when the throw-in got away from the catcher.

'Chubby' Dean's Charley Horse Causes Inactivity

"Chubby" Dean, hard-hitting Greenville pitcher and outfielder, has gone to his home in Mount Airy for a rest and to recover from a Charley Horse which has been giving him considerable trouble of late.

Chubby will be out of the lineup four days, it was stated by the club manager, today, but is expected to be back in the lineup the latter part of the week.

Dean had a bad arm a considerable part of last year, but returned to old time form during the latter part of the season and was one of the hurlers who took part in Greenville's victory over Kinston in the championship series.

COLLECTIONS OF N. C. TAXES REFLECT GAIN

State Collected $517,000 More First Three Days of August Than For 1934

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Aug. 6.—North Carolina collected the first three days of August $517,000 more than the entire month of August 1934 produced.

For the eighth month of the calendar and the second of the fiscal year, the revenue division collected last August $1,814,200. Up to Saturday night, the last available figures, there had been received $2,331,811.63 or $517,000 more in three days than was collected in August 1934. Every sign about the revenue officers looks to a record-breaker for this month. The hope sales tax pick-up is due in its entirety. It may produce close to a million.

The revenue offices do not pretend that the entire credit is theirs but they are getting a much greater percentage of what is due than they have been able to collect in many years. Business conditions are somewhat improved, but the state is in its full month. Still the collections come in. The improved methods for receiving and accounting are given some praise.

Incidentally there is a new sales tax ruling. Hitherto if the monthly sales tax amounted to less than $10 the individual merchant was permitted to make his report quarterly. There is now a uniform minimum penalty of one dollar on all returns not made by the fifteenth of each month. And it becomes effective with August 15.

All the dependable signs are in the direction of a huge sales tax gain for July, which gets into the August reports. The full use of the exemptionless articles and the levy on meals at hotels, cafes and the like will show in those statistics. The state looks to be heading toward its largest modern surplus.
