HOLD NEGRO FOR LARCENY

Dave Johnson Bound Over in City Court During Monday Morning Session

Dave Johnson, colored, charged with the larceny of tools from a man named Campbell here several days ago, was given preliminary hearing in city court this morning and bound over to the next sitting of county court under bond of $100.
He was unable to provide bail and was remanded to jail.
M. J. Loyd, appearing on a charge of driving drunk, was bound over to the next sitting of county court under bond of $100.
Oscar Evans was bound over to county court under bond of $200 on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. John Simpson, appearing on a similar charge, was also bound under bond of $200 for his appearance in county court.
There were three or four defendants given hearing on charges of drunkenness over the week-end. They were released on payment of cost.
The court confined most of its attention to the robbery charge against Richard Langley, colored, who was bound over to Superior court under bond.
The docket was light compared with usual Monday morning dockets, and work was completed shortly after 10 o'clock.

General Business Boost Reported For The World

New York, Aug. 12. (AP)—An almost general improvement in business conditions throughout the world during the past few months is shown in a current survey.
Each country has continued with unsettled problems. There has been spurs to industrial production and international trade in one country that have improved on a good scale.
Then other nations benefited by special circumstances.
Activities which some authorities believe due to national defense, preparations have boosted production and speeded general activities in some nations.
Other nations—such as the gold bloc—France, Holland and Switzerland—were reported by the national industrial conference board to have suffered decreased production in June while world production as a whole advanced during that month. For May the board reported international trade higher in terms of gold than any other previous month in 1934 but 4.2 per cent lower than the average for the final quarter of 1934.
It was, however, 1.2 per cent above May, 1934. Alfred T. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, in a report to stockholders on the first half of this year said: "The period in question was characterized both domestically and overseas by an improved trend of business which was generally well sustained." His firm launched a $50,000,000 expansion program.
As an indication of expanding activities in heavy industry the United States Department of Commerce reported exports of pressed iron and steel for the first six months of this year were higher than the first half of 1934 and larger than any other entire year since the World War.

FINAL RITES FOR BELOVED DOCTOR HELD

Masons in Charge of Funeral Services for Dr. Cecil Garrenton At Bethel

Funeral services for Dr. Cecil Garrenton, 52, beloved Bethel physician, town councillor and churchman, who died in a Rocky Mount hospital Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock, were conducted from the Bethel Baptist church, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, attended by one of the largest crowds ever to attend a final rite there.
Death followed a short illness from kidney trouble and was received with profound sorrow throughout the Bethel community where Dr. Garrenton had been actively engaged in the practice of his profession and in the religious and political life for a period of twenty years.
The service at the church was in charge of Rev. J. P. Harris, Baptist minister of Beaufort, a former pastor of the Bethel church. The burial service at the grave was in charge of the Bethel Masonic lodge and members of the Pitt County Medical society acted as honorary pall bearers.
Dr. Garrenton was a member of the board of Deacons of the Bethel Baptist church and town councillor for a number of years. He was also a member of the Pitt County Medical Society.
He was a native of Currituck county and received his medical training at the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia. After his internship he located in Bethel where he endeared himself to thousands of people of that and surrounding communities because of his sympathetic understanding of public problems and unremitting service to humanity.
He was also greatly interested in the educational development of the locality and took an active interest in movements looking to the expansion of learning in Bethel and other parts of the county.
He is survived by his wife, who before marriage was Miss Isabel Dunn, of Philadelphia, a son Dr. Connell Garrenton, a daughter, Mrs. W. C. Taylor, of Bethel, and two brothers and a sister of Norfolk, Va.

Banbury, Oxfordshire, England, Aug. 12. (AP)—Maddened by a domestic quarrel, Wilfred Gibbs, a blacksmith and expert marksman, opened fire with a rifle on a midnight bus last night and killed three persons. Then he committed suicide.
The victims, all passengers on the bus, were his wife; his sister-in-law, Iva Cora Goode and Thomas Messenger.
Another passenger, William Messenger, was wounded in the knee by the first bullet which also killed Mrs. Gibbs.
There were nine passengers on the bus.
The average University of Michigan student carries $2.98 in ready money, according to the student paper's campus survey.

Late News Flashes

Tobacco Sells Better.
(By Associated Press)
Reports of rising prices came from South Carolina and border belt markets today as tobacco auctions were resumed.
Dillon, S. C., reported the price average up approximately $3 a hundred, as compared with those of Friday, first day of 1935 sales, with some types showing exceptional gains. One lot of 2,428 pounds brought $32.10 per hundred during the early sales, while another lot of 5,200 pounds brought $29.50. Offerings remained heavy with an increase in the ratio of better grades reported.
Similarly increased prices were reported after early sales in Lumberton, where 400,000 pounds were on the floors.
Increased offerings of the poorer grades were reported at Chadbourn with prices from 6 to 45 cents and approximately 110,000 pounds on the floors.
The Fair Bluff market was generally stronger with about 100,000 pounds selling for from 10 to 40 cents. Increased prices for nearly all grades were indicated in early sales.
The Kingstree, S. C., market opened today with prices stronger than last week.
The estimated average price was 23 cents, with blocked sales reported. Satisfaction was expressed generally with the prevailing prices.

HEALTH HEAD URGES CHECK OF CHILDREN

Dr. Ennett Asks Attention to Pre-School Children of Pitt County

During the past spring, Dr. N. T. Ennett, health officer, conducted pre-school clinics throughout Pitt county, and found that many physical defects, such as teeth, diseased tonsils, eye-strain, etc., which always handicap children in their school work.
At that time, he urged the parents to have such defects corrected. He wishes again to remind all parents that no child should be permitted to enter school without having had a careful medical examination followed up by a correction of such defects as the physician may recommend as being necessary.
It is not fair to the child nor to the school to send your child to school handicapped with physical defects which may cause him to do inferior school work, resulting possibly in failure to make the grade.
In addition to the correction of physical defects, the children should be vaccinated against smallpox and diphtheria before entering school.
We understand that the proposed opening date for the Greenville City Schools is for September 9th, and that for the county schools September 12th. Therefore, if you will take your child to your family physician at once for a check-up, you will have time to get him ready to enter school in the best possible physical condition. We urge you to act at once.

CALL TROOPS FROM TROUBLE ZONE IN S. C.

Danger of Disorder At Abbeyville, Believed Dissipated Today

Sheriff F. C. McLane said today that national guardsmen called to duty over the week-end to avert possible mob violence at the county jail were demobilized this morning.
The officer stated troops of battery F, 115 Field Artillery, stationed at Abbeyville were withdrawn after he had expressed belief no disorder would develop as a result of an assault on a white man for which ten negroes are being held.
The prisoners will be kept at the county jail here, the sheriff stated.

PREPARE TO SEEK FUNDS FOR PAVING

City to File Application For Money For Ambitious Program Here

The time limit for filing petitions for paving in various sections of the city expired last Saturday night, and members of the Board of Aldermen turned their attention today to filing application for federal funds with which to carry out one of the most ambitious paving programs here in recent years.
J. O. Duval, city clerk, announced this morning that 15 petitions had been filed in his office up to Saturday night, requesting paving and curbing and gutter in the eastern and western sections of the city.
A survey of the projects was to be made this week, an estimate prepared, and these forwarded to the WPA at Raleigh for consideration. It had not been determined yet how much money would be sought by the city with which to carry out its program, but this probably will be ascertained the middle or latter part of the week before the application is made.
The fund is similar to those being awarded to other cities and counties of the country. Forty-five per cent is a direct grant and the remaining fifty-five per cent a loan. The aldermen at a meeting this Saturday to file their petitions, several being on hand at the time the action was taken.
Most of the program centers in the eastern part of the city in front of the college with two projects on Third and Fourth streets in the western part. One of the projects, probably the largest, calls for paving from Fifth street down Library street and around Chatham circle.
Several of the others call for paving and curbing and gutter on from one and two blocks on other streets of that area.
Property owners on each side of the street will be required to pay one-third of the cost of construction and the city will bear the remaining third along with responsibility of maintenance.
Mayor Flanagan said several days ago the application would be rushed as rapidly as possible and they hoped to be able to begin the program by the early fall so it will be completed before winter. The city has already been given the assurance of immediate co-operation on the part of state officials because of the splendid financial record established by the municipality the last several years, and especially during the depression when scores of other towns and cities were defaulting their obligations.

THIEF ENTERS 6 HOMES HERE EARLY SUNDAY

Around $85 in Cash And Two Watches Missing; Police Busy Checking Loss

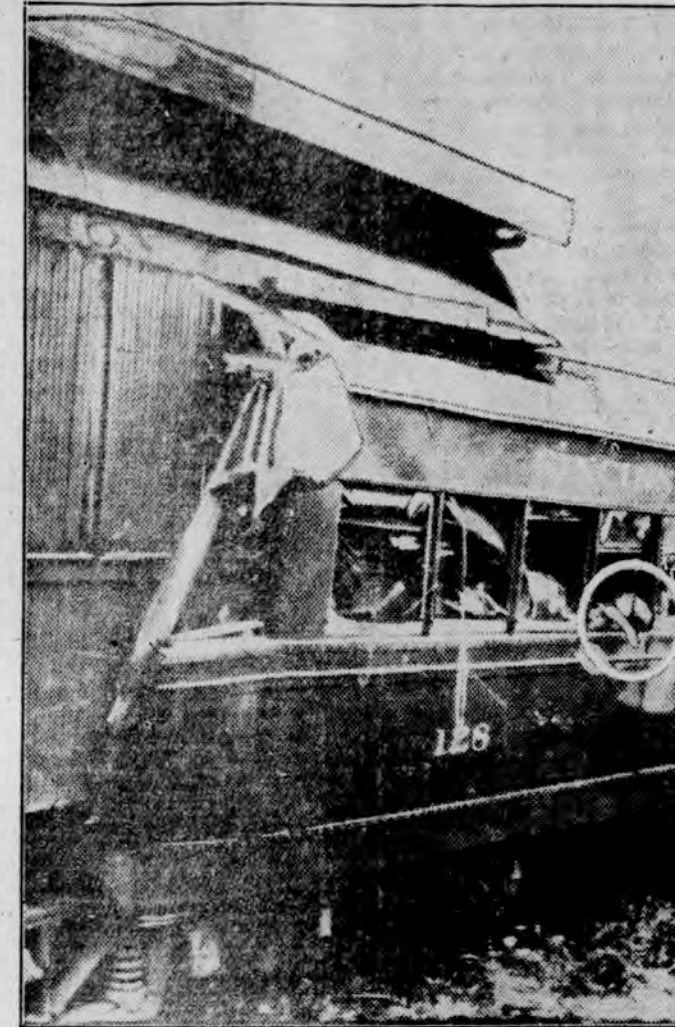

Police today were seeking a lone robber who Saturday night and early Sunday morning entered six residences here and made away with around $85 in cash, two watches and other articles.
Chief of Police George Clark said this morning the thief was believed to have entered homes at Wilson and Farmville the latter part of last week, making off with a considerable amount of goods and some money. In all places, the robber, described by the police head as an "itinerant" seemed to be searching for money and jewelry and did a considerable bit of plundering into household effects.
Homes entered here Saturday night were:
T. A. Person, E. G. Flanagan, Graham Flanagan, Mrs. Selma Carson Moore, L. B. Garrison and D. W. Hardee.
Although a complete check of missing goods had not been completed this morning, Chief Clark said the thief was reported to have obtained between $50 and $75 at the home of E. G. Flanagan.
Mrs. Moore reported the loss of a sum of money estimated at around $10. L. B. Garrison, a wrist watch, and D. W. Hardee, a watch.
The robber was reported unsuccessful at the homes of Graham Flanagan and Mr. Person.
Entrance was made by going through unlocked screen doors and releasing the catch on screen windows and doors with an ice pick. The robberies were believed between 3 o'clock and daybreak.
The same method of procedure was reported from Wilson and Farmville. Reports from Wilson indicated a considerable amount of cash and jewelry were obtained there, but at Farmville the thief was not so successful.
Places touched by the robber were fingerprinted by the police today and a widespread search was being conducted in an effort to apprehend the thief. Officers of surrounding cities have been warned to be on the lookout for him and hope was expressed he would fall into the police dragnet in the near future.

MARRIAGES IN PITT PICKUP

Eight Couples Granted Licenses to Wed Here During The Week-End

Interest in matrimony, which has been less active this summer than for any similar period in years, experienced a partial revival last Saturday when a total of eight couples obtained licenses to marry. It was revealed today by records in the office of Register of Deeds J. C. Gaskins.
They were the only licenses recorded here during the week, however, and the average for the week was similar to that of the previous week. As a usual thing, colored people have been doing most of the double-harness business during the summer, but Saturday found four white couples included among the batch.
From now on, with general improvement in the financial situation a foregone conclusion, the march to the altar is expected to show decidedly more life than any other time this year, and the climax will be reached around Thanksgiving and Christmas, unusually the height of the season for love to reach a happy culmination.
One of the couples obtaining licenses here Saturday requested that names be withheld from the press until later in the week.
The remainder of the applicants follow:
Williams King to Miss Clara Joyner, both of the Farmville community. LeRoy Stock to Miss Olive Sutton, Ayden; Jasper Lee Boyd to Miss Beatrice Rogers, both of Chatham township.
Colored—John Smith to Bessie Cherry, both of Greenville; David Braxton to Juvenile Coward Ayden; William Jordan to Mary Alice Bethel, and Joe James to Mary Brown, Greenville.
Weather records of Tomorrow, Nov., reveal that the town has had but 15 entirely cloudy days within 11 years.

NEGRO HELD ON N. Y. BUILDING TWO ROBBERY TRADE STRIKE CHARGES HERE BROKEN TODAY

Richard Langley Jailed After Second Robbery Attempt Saturday

New York, Aug. 12. (AP)—The strike of relief roll workers at the low cost housing project under construction by the Astro interests—one of the key spots in the fight of labor unions against the government's so-called "security wage" of $83.50 a month for skilled help—appeared to be broken today.
Elsewhere over New York and in other states organized labor carried on the fight. "Flying squadrons" traveled throughout the city seeking to pull workers off of federal financed construction jobs. The state building trades council and the state federation of labor in New Jersey stood solidly against accepting the $93.50 wage as did labor leaders in several Ohio cities.
At the Astor project it was said 365 skilled laborers were back at work this morning. This was the deadline set by General Hugh S. Johnson, Works Progress Administrator, who issued an ultimatum last week that the relief strikers return to work the first of the week. Johnson was not expected back until late today from Washington where he conferred with federal authorities who have backed up his edict.
The Astor project nominally employs some 400 workers in the skilled class. When the strike was called last week more than 150 refused to work. When the whistle blew today there was only a handful of workers who refused to punch the time clock.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Washington
By RAY TUCKER
SUSPICIONS OF certain anti-Nazi Congressmen are greatly investigated. They have had their Hitler and house and fed American competitors in the Olympic games at Berlin next year. They will holler against this form of propaganda if the reports are verified.
They have heard that the War Ministry and not Germany's athletic organizations, will look after foreign entries. Herr Hitler's military men are understood to have charge of construction of the Olympic village near Losberitz. When certain German military attaches expressed surprise on a recent inspection visit, it was explained that to the German mind the soldier and the athlete are identical.
This coincides with reports that Germany's athletic grounds are really army training squads. And several House members think they detect a deep, dark design in the arrangement for taking care of our milters, sprinters and high-jumpers.
OVERSIGHT: Toward the end of every session Congress gets an object lesson in the need for a "watchdog of the Treasury" like Comptroller General John R. McCarl.
The calendar at this period is cluttered with private bills for the reimbursement and relief of government officials who paid out funds later held to be illegal or unwarranted by the Comptroller General. Unless Congress authorized reimbursement, the money would have to be taken from the men's salaries or their bonding companies. Right now there are pending from only two departments—Treasury and War—measures requiring a $400,000 appropriation to square these accounts.

JONES SPEAKS AT SERVICE AT PITT THEATRE

Baltimore Minister Raps Whiskey and Gossip in Forceful Sermon

Rev. H. Frederick Jones, of Baltimore, former pastor of Memorial Baptist church here, delivered the sermon at the union service at Pitt theatre last night.
Mr. Jones, who is spending several days here with relatives, spoke at Immanuel Baptist church yesterday morning and was heard by a crowd that packed the auditorium to capacity in spite of the fact that this is the season of small congregations due to the influx of local people to out-of-town resorts and other places.
The union services, sponsored by the Ministerial Association, are scheduled to close August 25 with Rev. J. R. Feltz delivering the final sermon. Next Sunday evening Rev. J. A. McIver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, is scheduled to preach.
Rev. Worth Wicker, rec'd of St. Paul's Episcopal church, was scheduled to deliver the sermon last night but he was out of the city, and C. O. Horne, who was in charge of the service, called on Rev. J. H. McIver, to pinch-hit in his place.
Saying Mr. Jones in the congregation, Mr. McIver called on him to speak. The invitation was accepted immediately and the small crowd heard what was described as one of the most forceful sermons of the series.
Mr. Jones' sermon centered around Christ and the Inner Circle, showing the important part which Christ's death on the Cross has played in the life of human kind. He said that in spite of the indifference of the world to the power of Christ, the Inner Circle was as ready to serve him today as it was back in those eventful days preceding the Crucifixion and Resurrection, two of the most significant periods in biblical history.
The speaker also paid attention to the dangers of whiskey and gossip, asserting both are doing more toward undermining the foundation of civilization than anything he could imagine. He spoke of the unhappy homes and broken hearts resulting from excessive drinking of whiskey, and scored those who confine most of their time to gossiping about others.
In speaking of the danger of gossip, he told of one of his own experiences which proved conclusively that most of the tale-bearers don't wait for confirmation of a story, but pass it on to others regardless of its authenticity.
No special music featured the service, but congregational singing was as good as any other service of the series and formed an appropriate setting for the inspirational sermon.
Members of the Ministerial Association appealed today for large attendance at the two remaining services as an evidence of appreciation for the work of those actively taking part in the services.

HOOVER RAPS THE NEW DEAL

Former President's Attack Believed Beginning of Republican Drive

Washington, Aug. 12. (AP)—Herbert Hoover's challenge to President Roosevelt to inform the people openly and precisely just what the constitution contained was regarded today as a major step in the Republican drive for a "knock down and drag out" fight on constitutional issues in 1936.
Stopping at Chicago on a trip, the former President hit at the New Deal last night in a statement accusing the administration of "dictatorial" demands, of trampling on primary liberties of the people and of invading states rights.

straightened out this situation only up to December, 1933. Confidential advice is that the sums will run into the millions when the accounts of the New Dealers are scrutinized.
During their first year they forgot that Mr. McCarl was alive.

DISCOVERIES: Mr. McCarl
watches every penny. It makes no difference to him whether the account involved is 53 cents or $135-000. "The principle is the same," he replies when you point out that he often collects less than he spends on collecting.

Perhaps the most unusual case involved legalization of $63,000 payment resulting from a system of padding payrolls and forged checks
on a Department of Agriculture job at Tallulah, La. It was eight years before the Treasury discovered that a field official had been certifying
the salaries of fictitious employees and forging their signatures. In that time 3,000 checks were made out to the fakers.

Another strange arrangement was the payment of 100 pension checks to the daughter of an old soldier after he had died. The pensioner died in 1911 but his little girl collected $2,048 through 1932. She explained that she thought she was entitled to it as next of kin to the deceased warrior. That happens lots of times.

AGEING: Good news for toppers!
Liquor stocks are rapidly overhauling consumption. The distillers, in a mad, competitive scramble to score up aged liquor for the flimsy trade, are still laying aside 10,000-000 gallons of whiskey a month. In six weeks there will be more than 200,000,000 gallons of two-year-old spirits in stock. With an annual consumption of about 50,000,000 gallons, that will be plenty, and prices for good stuff should drop to $2 a quart.

Two-year-old liquor, according to government experts, will match the bottled-in-bond of pre-prohibition days. If you remember back that far, the labels used to say "bottled for four summers." It meant what it said—"summers"—for there was almost no ageing in the wintertime. The storehouses were frigid.
Now they are artificially heated, and two years ageing equals the heat of
"four summers."

SCHEME: Administration experts don't favor the O'Mahoney bill for setting up a new NRA through federal incorporation of industries.
They have studied that possibility carefully but have discarded it because it presents too many administrative difficulties.

"They have what they think is a smarter scheme. The idea is to persuade states to require corporations doing business within their boundaries to take out a charter. These would provide for acceptance of code prices, wages, hours and working conditions. There would, of course, be many conflicts and discrepancies to harass the incorporated industries.

Then, if the scheme works out
as planned, corporations would beg for a uniform, federal incorporation statute. The administration would,
of course, graciously acquiesce.

HALTED: Though no New Dealer,
Senator Copeland recently introduced a measure to create a national planning board. It might have slid through the Senate except that GOP leader McNary objected
on behalf of an unnamed and absent Senator.

Subsequently Mr. Copeland studied the measure, which had been handed to him by Secretary Ickes.
The New York Senator assumed that the bill simply provided for a survey of "natural resources." But he noted a deft phrase which permitted the proposed board to plan for the development of "other resources." That would have opened the door to the kind of economic and social planning to which Mr.
Copeland objects.

Then he discovered that the unknown objector was Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. "It looks to me," said Mr. Vandenberg, "like a plan to coordinate the planners."

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

Chapter 47

ACCIDENT

REX MOORE came into the little salon. In his grey eyes was a glint of satisfaction.

He ordered food, and a bottle of champagne. With the quick response of the French to all culinary emergencies, it was soon brought. Hot soup and cold chicken.

Gladys took some soup and a glass of wine, and almost immediately afterwards fell asleep on the couch.
Rex Moore and Laurie said very little.

"I gave that young cur a sound
thrashing," he said. "I don't think he'll forget it."

"How did you come to meet Glad?" she asked.
"I followed you, Laurie. As soon as the car turned the corner, I got out. I couldn't let you go off like that, alone. I saw you go into this hotel. They told me at the office that you had called on Mr. Dallas. I—well, I guessed something was up.
So I walked up and down outside,
and then came across this poor child."

"Thank God, you were there!" she said aloud.
And then, in an immense revulsion of feeling, she spoke soundlessly to her inmost heart.

"I love him! I love him! He is the finest man in the world—the only man in the world. How can I go on living? How can I?"

Laurie and Gladys came back to London by train and boat.

Rex Moore flew back alone.

A shock awaited him when he reached the Chelsea flat. He found a message to say that Mrs. Steele had been in a motor accident and was seriously injured. They had rung up from a nursing home to say that Mrs. Steele was asking for him.
She wanted to see him very urgently.

He drove immediately to the address, and saw from the face of the woman who received him that Wanda must be very ill indeed.

"There is no hope," the matron said. "She is barely conscious. A spinal injury. If she lived, she would be a cripple."

In silence he stole into the room,
and looked down with sad, self-re-proachful eyes at the grey face on the pillows.

He thought she was unconscious,
and did not speak.

"She is slipping away," the matrou whispered. "Say something to her. She wanted so much to see you."

"Wanda!" he said gently. "Wanda,
dear, I am here!"

It took a perceptible time, but his voice reached her and brought her back literally for a few seconds
from the other side.

She opened her eyes; she tried to move.

"Rex, darling!" It was a thread of a voice, wandering, uncertain. It hardly seemed to come from the woman on the bed.

He tried to stammer out conventional sayings about getting better;
but his voice broke.

Then a smile flickered over her face. Her lips moved. He bent down, and that whisper, hovering between two worlds, came to his ears.

"I want you to be happy. I want you to have—to have—"

But it was too much. She was already too far away.

The eager lips dropped apart. The matron motioned him away and bent over the bed.

Wanda Steele, who had saved his life, who had given him back his eyesight, who had loved him with a strong woman's tenacious passion,
was no more.

He gave her his last homage and his first true caress, as he bent reverently and kissed her forehead.

ALBERRY had returned to London
on the same day as Laurie.

When she was called into his room
on the following morning, she found him his usual suave, impassive self.
But there was something in his manner that warned her. He spoke smoothly, but she seemed to see the whip in his hand.

"I got your message in Berlin,"
he said. "I am sorry about your sister. How is she?"

"She is getting on all right, thank
you."

"How did you go to Paris?"

She was startled, but her instinct was always to tell the truth, and she answered frankly:

"Rex Moore took me by air."

"You had given me your word of honor not to see him again."

"I couldn't help myself. I had to."

What does that "other resource"
mean? Mr. Copeland couldn't explain and he won't press the bill until he finds out what's in Harold's mind.

THREAT: International money
brokers continue worried about the weakening European gold bloc. Fact that the tense Holland situation had been relieved is not regarded as of sustaining nature. The move for devaluation of the guilder is strong and continues to grow. It has the endorsement of wealthy Amsterdam interests. Even the colonies are kicking.

Should Holland devalue it would unsettle other gold bloc countries.
Earlier this year Switzerland barely missed devaluation. The vote was almost even. France is in a precarious condition as is. Trouble could break out most any time. October has been set as the deadline.

WINNER: Al Smith is particularly
interested in the spoils between
New York City Park Commissioner
Moses and General Johnson, Works
Bureau Administrator for New York City. Mr. Moses was in the lightning when he reduced to advance one of the orders handed down

get there as quickly as possible. It was very urgent."

"You did not tell anybody that you were going to Paris. My people here thought you were at home."

"I wired to Mr. Mortimer from Paris. He had asked me to dine with him."

"That's how I found out you were in Paris. Mortimer told me. Laurie, you're not telling me the truth.
That's not only unkind, but untrue."

"I am telling you the truth," she felt a furious resentment against him. It was a foreboding of what was to come. She had sold herself to this man with the unbreakable Oriental face, and always the whip in his hand. She could not call her soul her own. She was a slave. "Are you going to get together with Moore every time my back is turned?" he asked in that silky voice that stabbed like a stiletto. "Do you want to call our bargain off?"

"No—no!" she said. What was there behind his eyes that gave his words such a sinister meaning? On the face of it, he was in the right.
She had given him her word and broken it. And she could not explain.
She felt actually that she would rather die than explain. But their bargain—that was another matter.
That meant Rex Moore's career,
which was his life.

"I HAVE settled my business," he went on, and now he was the smiling, ardent-eyed lover on the point of achieving his desire. "So there is nothing to wait for. I am going to take a holiday, entirely away from business. I have a place in France, not far from Paris. We will go over and be married there,
and then we will tour through Spain
for our honeymoon."

"And when I have to come back here, you will stay in some quiet little place and I will come over every week-end. Mortimer is going to work things when he gets back to Australia. I can trust him. He will wangle it so that we can announce that you have divorced Rex Moore
down there, where you were married."

"So you see, it's all fixed up. Get ready to leave London in the middle of next week. Don't bother about anything in the way of clothes. You can do your shopping in Paris. I shall have to go over a few days before to arrange about the wedding.
Laurie! Laurie! My lovely girl!"

His voice changed to passionate exultation. He took her in his arms.
She was caught in the merciless spokes of the wheel of life. She was helpless. She could only submit.

Next week she would be Mark Alberty's wife. And she would be over for her.

Wanda Steele was buried in England, according to her wishes, and the cabled confirmation of her nearest relative, a brother in New York.

After the funeral, Rex Moore learned the meaning of those last words that she had breathed.

A member of a firm of solicitors
that had been acting for her, who,
besides himself, her maid, and her chauffeur, were the only mourners, drove him back from the little country churchyard of the village that her family had originally come from,
and asked him to come into his office.

Here he revealed the fact that Mrs. Steele had made a trust that the very day before her accident, in which she had left him nearly the whole of her property in California,
and securities that would bring him
in a very comfortable income.

Everything was in perfect order,
the lawyer assured him. He had exchanged cables with Mrs. Steele's men of business in California and with her brother. There could be no question about the validity of the will.

Rex Moore went out, dazed, into the hot July afternoon. He felt humbled, so unworthy of the dead woman's great love.

He walked swiftly through the streets; not only a free, but a rich man.

The next day an even greater blessing was bestowed on Rex Moore. On paying a visit to the famous eye specialist, he was told by the great man:

"I can find no more trace of the trouble. Mr. Moore, I am happy to pronounce you completely cured."

Laurie defies Alberty, too.

It is estimated that about 100,000,000
of American equities are held in foreign countries. According to international security experts, devaluation would result in a massive movement of domestic equities. It will be a shock that could not be named. Foreign equities are now American equities and as a protection against possible devaluation
through devaluation.

WINNER: Al Smith is particularly
interested in the spoils between
New York City Park Commissioner
Moses and General Johnson, Works
Bureau Administrator for New York City. Mr. Moses was in the
lightning when he reduced to advance one of the orders handed down
by Secretary Ickes and the Tri-B. ough Bridge project. Moses will not take gift from anybody. In that matter he came out a clean winner.

Tammany leaders are certain Moses will again be a winner—and Tammany Hall does not like Roose-vel, by a long shot. Al Smith would like to see Moses put FDR in his place no matter how it is done. It would be used for American Liberty League circular material.

BEHIE: Some financial men say there has been no inflation of any kind. It is pointed out that currency circulation has declined in the last two years. Other interests disagree. They cite the following as an example: In the 12 months ending August 1st the value of listed
New York Stock Exchange securities increased over $8,100,000,000
while brokers' loans declined $155-000,000. "In the realm of money, surface appearances are not always to be trusted for they belie the real facts." Only Secretary Morgenthau can answer this one.

DISTURBED: The threatened strike of moving picture operators in New York City is potential danger. The Moving Picture Operators Union Local 308 is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. It is highly regarded by the
A. F. of L. All theatrical A. F. of L. units are closely banded. As a group it is one of the most powerful labor organizations in the country.

There is an unwritten law that if one unit goes on strike all do likewise sympathy. That is one reason why theatrical labor trouble is not over witnessed. This time Local R-K-O and a few others are taking a chance on a showdown. A strike in New York would not only darken moving picture houses throughout the nation but would put a cap to all the motion picture industry—this includes production as well.

Theatrical informed interests
say the government receives millions of dollars in taxes out of the picture industry. A shutdown for even a few days would hurt an money source. Secretary of Labor Perkins
has been very slow to show any interest
in the situation. It has a bit unlikely that she will have very much on
the line should the strike become an
actuality.

SEATTLE: Corporate bonds wondering if it would be wise to split up the Washington state bonds into smaller units. The new tax law has been passed. There is no doubt in the mind of the bondholders that the state will have to raise money to pay the bonds. It is a bit unlikely that the state will have very much on the line should the strike become an
actuality.

PORTUGUESE: When the Peace
head of the Bethlehem Steel Co.
General, passed Public Works Administrator Ickes for devaluation the London steel should be bought at 15 per cent in cost could be saved
other corporate officials. London steel bonds in approval. New York Secretary Ickes answered Mr. Ickes in no graceful manner. These same corporate officials are satisfied with the proverb "Silence is Golden."

Through his official word, Secretary Ickes discovered that the Bethlehem Steel Co. had been bought in Cuba and Chile. Ickes
has been very slow to show any interest
in the situation. It has a bit un-
likely that she will have very much on
the line should the strike become an
actuality.

DRIVE: Secretary of the Treasury, Morgenthau's recent move for will come—Chinese money—has been too seriously banking interests although they are on guard.

Slaviansky Chorus Pleases Audience.
One of the most delightful programs of the summer was given at the college Friday afternoon by the well-trained group of native Russian artists, Madame Slaviansky's Chorus.

An enthusiastic audience gave hearty approval to the whole performance and added extra zest to their applause of the interpretations of "Dixie," the Southland's own folk song, and "Love's Old Sweet Song," and showed special delight in the song based on Aesop's fable in the song "The Ox and the Frog," with the youngest member of the company, George Miska, the 12-year-old adopted son of Madame Slaviansky, singing the solo parts.

The masterful singing in such numbers as "The Whisper of the Steppes Grasses," "Song from the Snow Maiden," and "Stepan Rasin and the Persian Princess," the Balalaika playing, and the spirited Russian dances gave great pleasure and insight into native Russian music.

Madame Slaviansky, whose father organized the chorus 77 years ago, sang, directed, and accompanied the group on the piano with equal ease. Aristocratic and great in personality, Madame Slaviansky could be recognized at once as a musician by the response of the group to her directing, and the training displayed by their singing.

"We have no voices except those Madame Slaviansky has developed," was the comment of one of the musicians.

With the performers was Mlle Slaviansky, daughter of the director, and accompanist and soprano soloist, whose ability in both accomplishments was at once apparent. Her solo numbers gained prolonged applause, as did the one sung with the tenor and announcer, Feodor Grossor. Mr. Grossor introduced most of the folk songs with a short summary of the story in each, his clear English being quite noticeable in comparison with the Russian accents of his compatriots. This excellent English is explained by his having been taught by English tutors and by his now being the tutor of George Miska.

The others who composed the company, all of whom showed high artistic talent and ability, were Misses Leota Alsonova, soprano, and Olga Holilova, alto; John Boontek, basso profunda; Valodia Socklofsky, baritone, and Robert Hopsonoff, basso. The last named member has been with the chorus forty-nine years and is now 72 years old, but in voice and appearance is still young.

This group of artists came from this group of artists came from to Greenville from Chicago. While in North Carolina they will give concerts in several cities, among them Wilson, Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

SCIENCE REVIVES MONKEY FROZEN STIFF 5 DAYS

Testing his theory that malignant organisms can be killed by freezing, Dr. Ralph Willard, gland researcher of Hollywood, Calif., froze a monkey until it was stiff, let it lie in a below-zero ice chest for five days and then revived it. Dr. Willard is shown at the left with the monkey frozen hard as stone. At the right he is playing with the little beast after it was resuscitated, apparently none the worse for the experience. LOCALS DROP HOMER SPREE TO AYDENTES

Greenville and Ayden Coastal League players evidently thought yesterday was "home run day" as they banged out a total of eight circuit drives at Ayden in the play-off of 8 game cancelled July 10. Ayden finally won by the score of 10 to 7.

Each club accounted for enough homers for three or four ordinary games and fans who like to see plenty of stick work had their fondest dream fulfilled yesterday. Ayden registered five of the long-range blows and Greenville three.

The day before Greenville had defeated Tarboro to the tune of 7 to 6 in one of the hardest-fought battles seen here this season. Ace Parker again grabbed the limelight with the bat with a home run in the seventh to score Wagner, who had doubled, ahead of him.

The big left-gardener also accounted for a double and single. He was responsible for a total of four of Greenville's runs. Chumbris with a double and two singles lead the visitors.

Taking front rank in Greenville's attack on two Ayden pitchers, Beall and Upchurch, was no other than Chubby Dean, hard-hitting outfielder and pitcher, who chalked up a home run, a double and two singles out of five trips to the plate. Ace Parker, who has displayed a penchant for home runs this year, racked up a homer and a single, along with Ty Wagner, another one of the leader's effective users of the willow.

Knowles continued to lead the home run attack for Ayden, cracking out two for the third consecutive game and running his season's total for the last five games to eight. He also accounted for a double in his four trips to the rubber.

Other Ayden big stick users were Atkins, with a homer and a single, Tatum, with a triple and single, and Douglass with a homer. Beall, pitcher, imported from somewhere in the region of Washington City by the indomitable "Doc" Smith, also accounted for a circuit clot.

Upchurch, who came to Beall's rescue in early stages of the game, was credited with the victory—his fifteenth of the season.

May went to the relief of Williams following an early offensive by the Aces. Both were credited with yielding twelve hits while their teammates were pounding out thirteen—an unlucky number—off the two Ayden moundsmen.

The Aydenites were credited with two errors and the league-leaders three.

The victory threw the Aces in a tie with Snow Hill for second place as Kingston defeated the Greene county boys.

Today found Greenville playing at New Bern to make up for the loss at Ayden yesterday. Tomorrow the New Berners will appear here.

After the loss to the Aces yesterday the Greenville club is expected to annex five straight games to make up for the loss and add to their lead at the pinnacle of the standing of clubs. For the last several weeks they have established a record for this type of playing, and it is one of the reasons they are so comfortably located at the league apex.

However, with the season coming to a close August 24, every club will battle determinedly for a place in the semi-finals preceding the championship series. Even those near the bottom of the column have a chance of going into the semi-finals and the battle from now on is going to be a precarious one for some of the fastest playing seen on the circuit this season—and thousands of fans who have supported the various clubs have already seen the best performance in years.

Magazine Copies Window Displays Of Local Concern

Billy Nisbet, window decorator of Blount-Harvey Co., local department store, who has come in for considerable recognition for his displays in recent months, received additional notice in August editions of "Knitted Outwear Age" and the "Dry Good Merchants Trade Journal," both publications being devoted to the advancement of the mercantile field.

The Dry Goods Journal reproduced as a front page cover design a recent silk display by young Nisbet, revealing a woman dressed in the latest creation from the nation's leading style center. The picture was also accompanied by a brief coaxed article referring to the display, declaring the window showing here quiet "in order."

The Knitted Outwear Age carried on page 53 an article and two pictures dealing with Blount-Harvey displays, one featuring two ladies in beach pajamas and bathing suits, and the other revealing the "Beach Club" department devoted exclusively to wearing apparel for seashore visitors.

The caption for the article was "Small Town Retailer Finds Special Helps in Beachwear Sales."

Young Nisbet has received considerable attention from leading trade magazines in recent years. He is considered one of the leading window dressers of the section and is fully deserving of the recognition he has received.

KINSTON BEATS SNOW HILL

Kinston, Aug. 12.—The Eagles defeated Snow Hill 4-3 in a hard-fought game yesterday. The visitors pulled three double plays, the locals two.

Kinston scored two runs in the third inning when Taylor singled and Greenberg homered.

They added one in the fourth when Keller singled and went to second on Morgan's bunt, the pitcher fielding the ball, trying for Keller at second and failing to get him; Patton sacrificed and Keller scored on Stonebreaker's fly to center.

The visitors evened the count in the sixth and seventh. In the sixth Chock doubled and scored on Griffith's walk. In the seventh Parmelee walked, Parrish singled, M-Paden sacrificed, Williams singled, scoring Parmelee, and Parrish scored on a passed ball. In the first Roger Taylor had walked three Snow Hill batters to fill the bases but there was no scoring. In the eighth the visitors filled the bases before a man was down but failed to score.

The home team won in the eighth, when Joyce singled, Irwin sacrificed, Morgan singled and the third baseman errored Stonebreaker's roller to let Joyce score.

A break hit was one by Morgan, Kinston outfielder, into shortstop's shirt. Had short been a little slower "fielding" it Morgan could have stretched it into a double.

The score: R H E
Snow Hill 000 001 200-3 8 2
Kinston 002 100 014-4 9 0
McPadden and Parrish: Taylor Joyce and Strayhorn.

Washington developments apparently still were secondary as a market influence to economic happenings. Gains furnished no stimulus for equities the majority showing a heavy tone. Cotton drifted lower. Bonds were steady to firm. Foreign exchanges improved.

The late stock tone was firm. Transfers 2,500,000 shares.

Publishers Threaten To Wreck Book System

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Aug. 12.—The principal reason the various textbook publishers have been dilly-dallying and stalling for time from week to week in their negotiations with the new state Textbook Purchase and Rental Commission, is that while they would not lose any money if they agreed to the new contract, the commission wants here in the state, they fear they might lose money in all the other states where they have contracts by being required to reduce their prices for books in them it was learned from an authoritative source here today. For all of the textbook publishing companies have clauses in their contracts whereby they agree to reduce their prices in all of the states in which they sell textbooks if they reduce the prices in any one.

So rather than run the risk of having to reduce the prices for their textbooks in other states, most of the book publishers are standing pat and refusing to make any concession in North Carolina, although they would undoubtedly sell more books here and in the long run make a larger profit on their sales in North Carolina than in the past, it is generally agreed. In taking this attitude they are also endangering the establishment of the rental textbook system as the general assembly intended with the result that thousands of children will not be able to have textbooks this fall unless they again purchase them outright at a cost three times as great as the cost of the rental textbooks.

There is still a bare possibility that the text book publishers may decide to relent and cooperate with the state and the textbook commission so that some of the basal books may be rented this year in most of the schools. But it is generally agreed here that the textbook publishers will have to do an about-face in double-quick time and show a decidedly different attitude than they have for the past several months, if anything like a statewide rental system is set up for this school year. For while the textbook publishers have been courteous and polite and pleasant, they have remained adamant to any of the suggestions or pleadings of the textbook commission that they change their contracts and give the state slightly better prices than are designated in the old retail sales contracts.

The rental textbook commission maintains that since these textbooks are no longer to be sold at retail, since they no longer have to be distributed to local retail dealers and since the publishers will no longer have to ship on consignment or worry about collections, that they should be willing to make entirely new contracts with the state rental textbook commission. For it points out that under the new rental system the publishers will sell more books, they will be paid in cash and not have to wait for their money. For surveys made by the textbook commission show that almost twice as many books will be needed this first year, at least as have been sold at retail in the past.

The textbook publishers concede all these facts, but point to the reciprocal contracts with other states and the clauses which specify that if the prices of books covered by these contracts are reduced in any one state, they must be reduced in all the states, and then refuse to budge. They also maintain that the state of North Carolina is still bound by the old retail sales contracts negotiated in previous years.

Georgia Average $2126.

Valdosta, Ga., Aug. 12.—(AP)—Georgia tobacco growers last week sold 27,733,743 pounds of the leaf valued at $6,039,891.81, Garland Bagley, statistician for the State Department of Agriculture, announced today.

The pound average price was $21.26.

Today's report was based on figures from all but three warehouses in the state. For the corresponding week of 1934 the department said sales were 15,247,175 pounds at an average of $20.45.

Kinston Man Shot

Kinston, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Barney Anderson, about 31, was in a critical condition today after being shot in the abdomen last night in a cafeteria here.

Police said Anderson and Eunice Pickett were a rugging for possession of a pistol when it discharged and apparently there was no violence involved.

Italy Orders More Men to Arms

Rome, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Orders issued today indicated the mobilization of an Italian force of 500,000 men for war maneuvers in north Italy August 24, bringing the total Italian army to a strength approaching 1,000,000 men.

Today's orders varied from the usual formula in that they failed to state the date upon which the mobilized men could return to their homes.

Press Constitutional Issues

Washington, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The administration and Republican leaders pressed forward today in a struggle over constitutional issues in 1936, Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, sharply answered former president Herbert Hoover's demand that the administration reversal what constitutional changes the party had in line. He said one Roosevelt objective "clear from the beginning" was to "overcome the drastic effect of Hoover's policies."

Congressional, a house committee at last approved the Guffey bill to set up a "little NRA" for the soft coal industry.

Another development that may have echoes in the conflict to come was a tide of Democratic protests in both house and senate against the revamped tax bill.

Robinson commented that increased levies on small incomes which the senate finance committee wrote into the house measure were not justified at this time. Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee said the senate bill does not even strike the trail "started by the president in a recent special message."

A prolongation of the session as result of this controversy was predicted freely.

At a White House luncheon the president and Speaker Byrns had an opportunity to go over the whole legislative situation. In the senate the Republicans opened an attack

Merchants See SALES INCREASE

New York, Aug. 12.—(AP)—The National Retail Dry Goods Association announced tonight that a canvass of more than a score of the country's leading merchants showed an average increase of from 10 to 15 per cent in sales volume was looked for this fall.

"Merchants seem generally of the opinion," said Channing E. Switzer, managing director, "that the long, steady upward march of retail business since the summer of 1933 will be continued this fall."

Abundant crops, the government works relief program, and the credit-extending activities of the Federal Housing Administration were cited as national auguries, while local developments included the opening of new factories and reduced unemployment.

RIVERS OF OHIO REcede SLOWLY

Zanesville, Ohio, Aug. 12.—(AP)—Weary valley residents of Eastern Ohio watched rivers go down slowly today following another of the summer's downpours of rain.

The recent damage to crops, highways, public and private property amounted to an unofficially estimated $6,000,000. In some places water still covered rich bottom lands.

The Muskingum river at Zanesville fell slowly after rising slightly Saturday afternoon and evening. Observers said the crest had been reached unless there is another heavy rain.

County and city officials awaited a further fall of the water before setting relief workers to the task of cleaning up debris left by the river's rampage of nearly a week.

Massillon residents breathed easier as they saw the Tuscarawas river recede after rising 20 inches last night because of 1.92 inches of rain in less than an hour.

year. The first time he was gone a month. He did not get out of North Carolina. The second time he was gone four or five months. He went over much of the United States, with a circus.

He came home for Christmas and told his parents he was through roaming. But by March 1 the wanderlust had him "mervous as a cat," so he strolled off. His parents have not heard from him since.

Gaylor, Sr., said today that the boy is "able to take care of himself, is smart as I could wish and is stronger than most men. I am no worrying. His mother is, I hope he will write."

Incidentally, he supposes Louis, Jr., is taking in a larger territory this time. He may be touring the world, even.
