Expect War To Break Out In Ethiopia In Few Weeks

REFUSE ITALY TO SEND ARMY INTO ETHIOPIA

Legations of Other Nations Struggle to Bring Peace; War Clouds Increase; Spokesmen Expect War To Begin As Soon As Rainy Season Is Over

Addis Ababa, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie today refused the Italian legation permission to bring colonial Italian troops into Ethiopia.

"Previously the Italian legation had asked permission to bring in a detachment of colonial soldiers and a special legation to guard just as the British and British colonial troops from India are assigned to foreign legation compounds.

While the legations of other nations are struggling at Geneva for peace, predictions were made here today even in official quarters that Italy would begin war within two weeks when the present rainy season ends.

One minister would not permit himself to be quoted as he expected war in 15 days.

Profound pessimism exists among the foreign diplomats. Provincial governors today ordered all foreigners in the interior of Ethiopia, including Americans, to come to the capital province for safety.

More Ethiopian troops and munitions were dispatched to the north frontier when Emperor Haile Selassie became alarmed by renewed movements of Italian troops along the border.

ROAD PATROL SWAMPED HERE

Applications for Driver's Licenses Piling In At High Rate of Speed

From the tobacco market, the office of the local highway patrol office was probably the busiest place in town today, and has been for the last week or more because of the demand for driver's licenses made mandatory by the last legislature.

Although no accurate estimate was available, it was said at the patrol office today that around 7,000 applications for licenses had been made since the beginning of the issuance of blanks Monday morning of last week.

Automobile owners from all sections of the county have flocked to the patrol office here daily and at times the place was packed to capacity. Patrolmen have given a considerable part of their time during the period to informing drivers how the applications should be filled out. However, they have had time to investigate a number of accidents in this and surrounding communities.

All owners of automobiles were urged to file applications by November 1. After that time a fee of $1 will be charged. All applications must be typed and presented to the highway patrol to be sent to Raleigh. Each application will be photographed and a photostatic copy will be returned to the owner.

Two classes of licenses are provided under the law passed at the last session of the legislature, one involving operators and the other chauffeurs.

No person, unless expressly exempt, will be allowed to operate a motor vehicle in the state without being licensed by the highway patrol.

LEAF SALES STILL HEAVY IN THIS CITY

Yesterday Saw One of the Largest Sales of the Season Registered Here

The Greenville tobacco market continues to pay out huge sums of money to farmers of this great bright leaf tobacco belt and the economic situation of the section is improving daily as a result.

The market yesterday handled one of the largest offerings of the season, the official report of K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales indicated today.

The report showed that 1,383,296 pounds of leaf was sold on the floors of the city's ten warehouses for which the farmers received a grand total of $264,387.19. The general market average was given as $19.03 a hundred pounds.

The sale was one of the largest of the season and consequently the farmers received as much money as any day since the market opened slightly over two weeks ago. The average price was also considered good.

The price situation was described as stronger yesterday with prices on numbers of grades moving up to above the figures prevailing when the market suspended work for the week last Friday.

There was approximately a half million pounds or more of leaf on the floors of the various warehouses today with indications that sales would be completed during the mid afternoon. Had it not been for rain which swept over the community last night sales would have been much heavier today. Barring continued rain the remainder of the day and tonight tobaccoists looked for heavier offerings tomorrow with Friday seeing another of the heaviest sales of the season in evidence.

Common tobacco continued to remain in the ascendancy yesterday despite appeals sent out by different agencies urging farmers to hold all tobacco off the market selling less than 6 cents a pound. This movement was started the first week of sales, but offerings here are still predominated by large quantities of common grades of tobacco.

It was hoped the week would see a pronounced improvement in the situation along with a continued boost of prices.

HIT BY AUTO, TURNAGE HURT

Local Man Suffers Painful Lacerations When Hit By Car Here Last Night

John Turnage, Third street resident, who was struck by an automobile on Dickinson avenue last night, was reported as getting along nicely at the local hospital today.

Turnage suffered head lacerations, bruises and shock when he was hit by a machine police said was driven by Tom Moore, resident of Gardner's Cross Roads.

Turnage was said to have stepped from the sidewalk directly in the path of Moore's car. Moore picked up the injured man and rushed him to the hospital for medical aid.

Although unconscious for an hour or so after the accident, hospital attaches said this morning Turnage was much improved and probably would be able to go home in a few days, barring complications.

The accident was declared to have been unavoidable and no action was taken against Moore, police reported.

TO REPORT ON LEAF SIGNUP IN CITY TODAY

Committeemen From All Sections of Pitt County To Meet At Farm Department

Committeemen in charge of the tobacco signup in this county were to meet at the office of the farm director here this afternoon to submit reports on their activities since the beginning of the drive here last Wednesday.

Announcing the gathering of the committeemen yesterday, E. F. Arnold, director of the farm department, said reports already received at his office were to the effect that over 95 percent of contracting growers in this county had already signed the new four year agreement with the government and the remainder were expected to sign before the end of the week.

Mr. Arnold said the five percent of the 2,800 contracters not signed represented absentee landlords and these were expected to be ready for sending to the federal department at Washington for final okay by the end of the week.

Chico township apparently led in the signup race, 400 of the total 440 contracts in that township, having been reported as signed up to Saturday night.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News.

Washington. By RAY TUCKER. FRICITION: Don't be surprised if Harold Ickes hops in an airplane for Hyde Park one of these days and hands President Roosevelt his resignation as PWA administrator. The erstwhile "strong man" of the Cabinet has been completely sidetracked by Harry Hopkins in the handling of work relief funds.

You can't obtain the figures at either office but in the last few weeks Mr. Hopkins has thrown out $500 PWA projects totaling about $400,000,000. So far Mr. Ickes has received only $120,000,000 from the four billion appropriation. Mr. Hopkins won't listen to Ickes' requests for money for hospitals, schools, tunnels, bridges, power plants. They don't put enough people to work. He has blocked 46 projects in Ickes' own state of Illinois and 75 in his Iowa with state. It is too late to revise these applications so that they can be approved before the September 12 deadline fixed by the President.

The political squawks are becoming faintly audible. Cities and states which have spent money in preparing blueprints and holding bond issue elections charge that they have been double-crossed. Labor, which gets the prevailing wage under the Ickes plan and only a subsistence allowance under bondholding, is rearing up again. Delegations of Governors, Senators and Mayors who complain to Mr. Ickes are politely referred to the other Harry.

Tobacco Sales Are Heavy On State Markets

Raleigh, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Block sales are becoming common on the North Carolina tobacco markets. Reports from Liberty yesterday said that market sold 1,000,000 pounds and still had 200,000 pounds left over.

DAMAGE SUIT HOLDS SWAY IN PITT COURT

C. L. Hemby Suing T. M. Gorman and Flanagan Buggy Co. For $10,000

The one-week term of civil Superior court which opened in this city yesterday, today was in the midst of one of the most hotly contested actions probably tried here in years.

It was the suit of C. L. Hemby against T. M. Gorman and John Flanagan Buggy Company of Greenville, in which the plaintiff is seeking damages for $10,000 as result of injuries allegedly sustained when his machine crashed into another machine owned by the John Flanagan Buggy Company and driven by Gorman, claimed to have been parked on the highway.

The action was started when court convened yesterday morning and probably will not go to the jury before late this afternoon. Hemby allegedly sustained a broken jaw and severe cuts and bruises in the accident which occurred on the Ayden-Kinston highway between Ayden and Grifton, in December, 1933.

It was stated that Gorman was convicted in county court sometime ago, but filed notice of appeal to Superior court. The action has not yet been heard.

Gorman contended he had not stopped on the highway, but was driving along at a low rate of speed with all lights on. He has set up a counter claim involving the same amount as that asked by the plaintiff, declaring he suffered similar damage from the crash.

Both sides are represented by powerful legal talent. Scores of witnesses have been presented on both sides, and testimony was not expected to be completed until the late afternoon, making it problematical whether the case will go to the jury before late today or early tomorrow.

The calendar for the term contains approximately thirty or forty cases of more or less interest to the people of this section, but if two or three more actions like the present one are struck the number of cases disposed of by the end of the week will be conspicuous for their paucity. Judge Walter Small of Elizabeth City, is presiding over the term. He conducted a two week term of mixed court here week before last, making his first appearance here in five years.

MILLIS TELLS OF WATERWAY PROJECT HERE

Government Engineer Declares Impartial Survey Will Be Made Of Tar

Major Ralph Millis, of Wilmington, district government engineer assured a large gathering of Greenville citizens last night that the recently ordered survey of Tar river would be made and an impartial report based on the merits of the project would be assured.

In his brief talk Major Millis explained that the report must go through the district office, division office, the rivers and harbors board of engineers and finally through the chief engineer's office, each branch checking accurately on the report to assure its correctness and the worth of the project in dollars and cents as compared to the cost to the government.

Last night's meeting was attended by more than 50 interested citizens including representatives from Wilson who are likewise interested in waterway transportation between Greenville and Washington.

ENDORSE MOVE TO HALT SCRAP TOBACCO SALE

East Carolina Warehouse Governing Council Approves Movement

The Governing Council of the East Carolina Warehouse Voluntary Agreement Saturday night at a call meeting endorsed the movement to eliminate the sale of all tobacco at a price of less than six cents.

The Council voted to request all member warehouses to pass baskets of tobacco selling below six cents, and further requested that warehousemen advise growers not to offer for sale low-grade tobacco which if sold means an actual cash loss to the grower.

The Council offered, and unanimously adopted, the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, the sale of low-grade tobacco at a price of less than six cents in most cases means an actual loss to the grower; and

"WHEREAS, the placing of this low-grade tobacco in channels of trade tends to depress prices for better grades of tobacco; and

"WHEREAS, the Council is of the opinion that the elimination of this class of tobacco from the market will reduce this year's surplus and thereby tend to increase the prices for other grades of tobacco.

"NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Governing Council does hereby request all member warehouses not to sell on their warehouse floors any tobacco at a price of less than six cents per pound.

"BE IT RESOLVED FURTHER that the President of the East Carolina Warehouse Association be requested to call a meeting of the Association for the purpose of adopting such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this resolution."

W. S. Moye, Chairman, Governing Council.

ARREST TWO FOR SHOOTING OFFICER HERE

Man and Woman Taken Into Custody Near Garner For Wounding Mobley

Chief of Police George Clark returned last night from Goldsboro where he took part in the investigation leading up to the arrest of a man and woman sought in connection with the attempted robbery of two stores here two months ago and the shooting and wounding of Patrolman John Mobley.

Those arrested were Roy Henderson, of High Point, and a companion, Annie Bell Hight, 18, of Durham, daughter of T. H. Hight, a carpenter. They were captured near Garner as officers from three counties took part in their search.

They are also held in connection with the robbery of Hudson-Belt Department store at Raleigh.

Reports concerning the arrest, received today from Raleigh follow:

Raleigh police declined to discuss the case, Chief H. L. Pierce declaring "our investigation has not been completed." Meanwhile, as officers from three counties gathered in Goldsboro, where Henderson is reported as wanted on one charge, the two prisoners were being held incommunicado in separate jails here.

Henderson was in the city jail and his woman companion was taken to the county jail after first being booked at police headquarters.

Annie Hight, said Chief Pierce, is being held only "as a possible accessory."

Officer J. R. Mobley, of the Greenville police, was wounded seriously when he surprised robbers in the act of entering a store there. A blast of gunfire covered the robbers' escape and they later commandeered an automobile from a negro farmer. Henderson is suspected of taking part in this crime.

The High Point man, it was learned, is alleged to have been an associate of Worth (Tick) Proctor, notorious safecracker and robber who was recently recaptured at Greensboro after escaping from Caldonia Prison Farm.

Several months ago, robbers broke into a safe at the Hudson-Belt store here and looted it of several thousands of dollars in cash and jewelry. A few weeks later, a new safe in the store was robbed of a small amount. No clues to the identity of the robbers had been reported by police.

Henderson and his woman companion were taken into custody by Detectives Poole, Lowe and Foxworth and Constable Garland Jones. Last night, officers from Raleigh and Greenville went to Goldsboro to confer with police there concerning the case.

Mrs. Bertolet Passes Away At Reading, Penn.

Mrs. Charles Bertolet, 64, of Reading, Pa., died there this morning at 11:20 o'clock as result of a stroke of paralysis suffered last Monday, according to information reaching this city today.

She is the mother of Mrs. G. V. Smith of Greenville, and was well known here, having visited Mrs. Smith several times in recent years.

Funeral services will be conducted from the late home at Reading Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Smith, who left Monday of last week upon being notified of her mother's illness, was at the bedside when the end came. Mr. Smith will leave for Reading tonight.

FAMILY AND FRIENDS AT HIS BEDSIDE

"Kingfish" Succumbs to Bullet Wounds From Assassin's Gun; Leaves State Without "Dictator"; Leaders Confer; Body to Lie in State at Capitol; National Guards Form Honor Guard; Baton Rouge Mourns Death

Baton Rouge, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long, the farm youth who wanted to make "every man a king" and gained unprecedented power in Louisiana, died today, the victim of an assassin. He was 41 years old.

The self-styled "kingfish" and political "dictator" of Louisiana and possible presidential candidate next year, died at 4:06 a. m. (CST). His family and close political associates were at his bedside.

His death left his powerful political machine which controlled practically every office in the state without a directing hand. There is no dictator to take his place.

While his leaders held conferences to decide what steps to take the senator's death lent courage to his opponents who split into several factions, has aided Long's ascent to power.

There was sadness here, the seat of the Long government.

Friends and enemies alike expressed regret at his death, the sole topic of conversation in every Baton Rouge household.

Many intimates with the senator showed marks of tears.

HOLD LIQUOR MEN FOR COURT

Two Alleged Rum Runners Were Given Hearing At Washington Yesterday

James Lewis and Shady Williams, the latter colored, arrested by highway patrolmen Sunday after a 70-mile chase, and charged with driving drunk, careless and reckless driving, and possession of unpaid tax whiskey, were given preliminary hearing in Washington yesterday and bound over to the full term of criminal court under bond of $500 each.

They were transferred from the local jail to Washington by members of the highway patrol, who returned to Greenville during the afternoon.

Patrolmen said they started chasing the two men near Bethel and followed them through Belvoir township into the Conecote area before finally capturing them. Traveling in a high powered car the men were said to have attained a speed of around 80 miles an hour at times.

They allegedly carried five gallons of unpaid tax whiskey, which was also brought back to the city and held for evidence in the federal court.

Lewis and Williams were said to be residents of Belvoir township.

EAGLES TAKE COASTAL PLAIN LEAGUE FLAG

Ayden, Sept. 10.—Kinston rules the roost in Coastal Plain League baseball.

Bunn Hearn's proteges settled the league's long-drawn-out 1935 championship by defeating Ayden, 2-1, yesterday to gain their fourth victory in the finals of the play-off. Kinston took the required four victories while losing only one game to Ayden.

Harry Brownlee, who had pitched the Aces' lone win in the series, was the victim of yesterday's loss. He engaged Roger Taylor in an old-fashioned mound duel in which each allowed five hits. The decision went to the Kinstonian as a result of a two-run splash by the Eagles in the fifth.

With one out in the fifth, Greenberg walked Taylor filed to center, but Williams singled and Keller walked to fill the bases. Strayhorn then singled to drive in a pair of tallies. Patton walked, but Vick was set down on strikes.

Ayden had scored in the preceding inning—on a walk to Knowles, a sacrifice by Atkins, and a single by Otto Patrick.

A nifty double play in the third cut short an Ayden threat. Wall walked and was advanced by Johnson's sacrifice. Douglass then hit to Keller, who threw to Greenberg to get the latter—and Greenberg rifled a perfect return throw to catch Wall at third.

Ayden's hopes rose and fell in a hurry in the sixth. Douglass, first up, doubled to right—but he was thrown out when he sought to stretch third on the hit. Garner retrieved the ball and threw to Greenberg, who made a perfect relay to Keller at third.

Each club was minus a couple of regulars. Keller, an outfielder, turned in a jam-up performance at third, accepting 11 chances.

The championship won yesterday is the first for Kinston although the Lenoir capital has had teams in professional or semi-professional ball for four decades.

Members of the Kinston team were entertained at a "fish-stew in a garden-party setting" upon their return to their home base yesterday afternoon.

State Squad Showing Up Mighty Good

College Station, Raleigh, Sept. 10.—After a week's practice, it is evident that sophomores are going to play more than an ordinary part in N. C. State's 1935 football campaign.

For instance, in the punting scrimmage held Saturday afternoon Hunk Anderson used four teams and three of the four backs doing the kicking were sophomores.

In the No. 1 backfield was Cowboy Robinson, the blond-haired speedster who is a cinch at left halfback. In the No. 2 it was Charlie Gadd, all-Southern high school quarterback from Charlotte. And in the No. 3 it was Eddie Entwistle, left half back.

At this stage of practice it looks as if Gadd or Joe Schwerdt, another sophomore, will be Anderson's No. 1 quarterback. Entwistle is the second choice for left halfback.

There are other sophomores in the backfield. Ren Hoek, big line cracker, is giving Joe Ryneska, monogram, a nip and tuck battle for the fullback job. Close behind in the fullback race are two more sophomores—Pete Kuzman, straight arm specialist, and Jake Mahoney.

Stanley Dreswick and Val Kareiva are getting calls at left halfback, and at right half Eddie Barlinski, star of the 1934 freshman team, is splitting the No. 1 assignment with Howard Bardea, monogram. Not to be counted out at right half are George Murphy and Tom Lawler, sophomores.

Rose Bowl Vets And 'Soph' Sensation Make Everything Rosy For Thornhill

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
San Francisco (AP)—Football champion in its own far western sector the last two seasons but a disappointing factor in New Year's day intersectional competition, Stanford University will seek coast and national honors in the forthcoming campaign with practically the same team as before.

The sophomore stars of 1933, who formed the nucleus of the team which brought Stanford its first Pacific coast conference title in their third year of varsity service.

Experienced reserves of the 1934 campaign and several brilliant recruits up from the freshmen team will be available to plug holes opened by graduation.

The outlook pleases C. E. (Tiny) Thornhill, smiling giant who produced championship eleven in his first two seasons as head coach.

"Not many changes this season," says Thornhill. "We'll miss Claude Calaway at tackle. The backfield should be stronger and more versatile. This boy Bill Paulman from last year's freshmen looks like the goods to me. He throws strikes with the football and should be the best punter we've had in a long while."

Here are three of the veterans who make an optimist of Stanford's Coach "Tiny" Thornhill. Left to right, they are Frank Alustiza, halfback; "Monk" Moscrip, end, and Bob (Bones) Hamilton, halfback.

Seniors Are No 'Swell Heads'

"I think our seniors will hold up. There are no swell heads in this gang. They really like to play the game and past performances don't make any difference."

"The two-wing back formation still looks the best to me. We'll throw plenty of passes and this season there is more reason to believe they will connect. Alabama passed us right out of the Pasadena Rose Bowl last New Year's day and we hope to have similar offensive tactics in the bag this fall. I think our running game will be as strong as any team's in the country. You might add I still haven't found any good reason why Columbia beat us in the Rose Bowl, January 1, 1934."

Grayson Is Spearhead Again

The tremendous ground-gaining power that has been Stanford's last two seasons will again center around all-America Fullback Bobby Grayson, Bob Hamilton, "Iron man" of the backfield, will be switched back.

from right to left half, and Frank Alustiza will be moved from quarterback to right half. This will make room for last year's freshman sensation, Paulman, and if the latter holds up his share of the burden at the master-minding station, Coach Thornhill believes his "beast-of-the-line" worries will be over.

The forward wall includes such veterans as Bob Reynolds, all-America tackle, and James (Monk) Moscrip, the end who won national acclaim in addition to experienced men in all positions except right tackle.

With Stanford generally favored to win the conference title again, Coach Thornhill looks for sternest opposition from Washington and the University of California. He believes Howard Jones will come up with a more powerful University of Southern California team than last year.

SPORT SLANTS

Walter A. Donovan, president of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners, is delighted with the progress made by that body at its recent meeting in Providence, R. I., towards presenting a united front in waging a common war against the evils which infest the racing game. With 16 or the 17 active states represented at the round-table discussions of mutual problems many important resolutions were passed.

The energetic Secretary of the Florida State Racing commission was particularly pleased to see the national association adopt the amended claiming rule as proposed by Commissioner John Sloan of New York, which says in regard to a claimed horse: "Nor shall it race elsewhere until after the close of the meeting at which it was claimed." The association further strengthened its action on claiming by including the names of claimed horses in the information it is exchanging through the clearing house of the secretary's office in Lexington, Ky.

Tighten Narcotic Ban

A uniform apprentice rule was recommended by the national association, limiting a jockey's apprenticeship to a year from the date of riding his first, winning mount or until such a time as he shall have ridden 40 winners.

Steps were taken toward establishing a central laboratory in Washington for the saliva tests, operated in full cooperation with the federal bureau of narcotics with the idea of eliminating the possibility of local and political influences as well as securing the advantages of continued development and experimentation.

The eagerness of the racing commissioners to cooperate fully, Donovan believes, will be reflected in greater confidence on the part of the public, which, after all, is the main-spring of racing. It is vital to the sport.

It would not be at all surprising to see photography used to determine close finishes at the Florida tracks this winter, for Donovan is completely sold on the "electric-eye" as a long step in the direction of sustaining public confidence.

Sweeping Light, battle scarred veteran of many a stirring turf battle, simply will not be counted out of the picture. The 6-year-old gelding recently captured the Lincoln Fields handicap.

Former Derby Hope

In 1932, in the stable of the late Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, Sweeping Light was well thought of as a Kentucky Derby prospect after having won the Champagne Stakes and finished second in the $50,000 Hopeful behind Tick On. A year later, flying the colors of Arthur Kram, he bobbed up as the victim of a cruel sponging at the Jamaica track.

Last winter Sweeping Light defeated Equipoise in the San Diego handicap at the Santa Anita track, Los Angeles, when the latter was getting ready for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. He set a new track record of 1:36 3-5 in defeating the great Whiney chestnut over the mile route.

By winning the Lincoln handicap, Sweeping Light added $5,000 to the winnings of R. O. Higdon, of Tulsa, Okla., his present owner, and once more proved equal to the task of rising to the heights.

We take the liberty of suggesting that they do so now, that they make sure of prompt delivery. . . . While the new Master De Luxe Chevrolet has captured public preference largely because of its advanced smartness and evident value, that preference is certain to increase rapidly as the remarkable performance of the car, and its great economy, become common knowledge. . . . NEW GLASSWARE AIMS AT SERVING MANY PURPOSES.
Double duty service ware is assuming an increasingly important place in present day household equipment.

In step with the times, glass manufacturers are showing a number of the new three or four-in-one dishes. Among the service pieces is an iced cocktail, tomato or fruit juice set, which can be broken down into salad plate, cream, soup and dessert cup.

For the hostess who desires the greatest possible amount of mileage out of her ice cubes there is a glass ice bar, replacing the metal ones of yesteryear, which can be filled with water and frozen in the drawer of an electric refrigerator. The bar will chill without diluting drinks and does not change flavor of the concoction.

HERE ARE NEW IDEAS FOR TASTY SANDWICHES

If you give evening bridge parties and have exhausted your sandwich ideas perhaps some of these may prove delectable novelties.

Kipper herring mashed in its own oil and spread on thin strips of toast go well with an evening beverage. A sprinkling of vinegar and some peppers, ground, add just that necessary unusual and delicious flavor.

Or you might care to use peanut butter and to save it from being obvious and dull, cut a number of thin slices of cucumber and put one on each peanut butter covering, adding a dash of lime juice for flavoring. If you want your cucumber slices to look dressy use a fork around the edges to give them a frizzled look.

NEGRO YOUTH HELD IN THEFT

Louis Albert May To Face Hearing in Juvenile Court For Stealing Truck

Louis Albert May, 14-year-old negro youth, was held in jail here today on a charge of theft, awaiting action of juvenile court.

The negro was seized by officers yesterday after he allegedly stole a truck from a local tobacco warehouse, drove it to Farmville and then abandoned it and escaped after his return to Greenville. He was taken into custody yesterday morning and turned over to juvenile court for action because of his age.

Police said the negro stole an automobile here about a week ago and confessed following his arrest. Authorities had been unable to determine the identity of the thief until the negro told them he stole the car.

Owing to the fact that Judge Frank Harrington of juvenile court will have most of his time taken up with civil court this week the negro probably will not receive hearing until next week. In the meantime he will remain in jail for safe keeping.

FARMER DROPS DEAD ON FLOOR OF MARKET

Washington, N. C., Sept. 10.—M. G. Woodard, known throughout this section as "Tink Woodard," of Route 4, Washington fell dead yesterday at Knott's warehouse as he was approaching the scales preparatory to seeing his tobacco weighed and placed in a sack. Death resulted from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Woodard was a well known farmer of the Ford Road section and was born and reared in Beaufort county. He was a member of the Charitable Brotherhood and the Junior Order.

Funeral services will be held from the home Tuesday at 3 o'clock with interment taking place in the family burying ground. Pallbearers will be chosen from his brothers.

He is survived by his widow and four children, Alonzo G. Woodard, Emory Woodard, Mrs. Clarence Allgood and Miss Mary Woodard, all of near Washington.

ALLEGED ATTACKER BACK IN ROBESON

Fayetteville, Sept. 10.—(AP)—James Watson, Robeson county negro, charged with criminally assaulting a small white girl, was taken back to Robeson county for trial today after spending a week in Cumberland county jail to protect him from possible mob violence.

His presence in the Cumberland jail was made public until last night when officers from Robeson county came for him. He wore a bandage on his left arm where he had been peppered with birdshot while attempting to escape a Robeson county posse.

ENGLISH POSTMEN DON'T LIKE UNIFORMS

London—(AP)—It looks as though London's postmen never will be satisfied with their uniforms.

Some time ago the shape of the hat, which was rather like an inverted coal scuttle, was altered to that of an ordinary chamberlain's cap. The uniform also was revised and cut to a different pattern.

The latest complaint, made at a meeting of the National Association of Postmen, is that the material used in the new uniforms absorbs water and dust. In the words of one of the speakers, "In the old days the postman looked smart, if peculiar. Now he looks peculiar, and not smart."

Convict Flees, Electrocuted.

Nashville, Tenn.—(AP)—Charles Easley, negro, sentenced to serve 99 years, was electrocuted. But the state had nothing to do with it. Attempting to escape, he became entangled in high voltage wires in the prison power house and was killed.

Flags Of Truce Violated By Lions

Nairobi—(AP)—The white flag of peace has been tried on the lions in the northern frontier of Kenya but they refused to recognize it.

S. K. Dodge, from Little Rock, Ark., was on safari with 15 pack ponies. Every night he tethered them inside a circle of flapping white flags. He had been told that lions disliked the pennants, but late one night a lioness waited to windward, while her mate came down wind towards the ponies, driving them through the camp.

The white hunter of the party, who had no faith in white flags, appeared carrying a torch and a rifle, and as the light flashed on the eyes of the lioness he fired.

One pony had been killed, but the account was squared the following morning when the wounded lioness was shot.

SWIFT TRIP FROM TOKYO PLANNED FOR MANCHOUKUOANS

Tokyo—(AP)—Tokyo and Manchoukuo, capital of Manchoukuo, are to be put within 36 hours of each other by rail and boat if the plans of the ministry of railways and the South Manchuria Railway materialize.

These plans contemplate reducing the rail trip from Japan's capital to the port of Niigata on the Sea of Japan to five hours.

The boat from Niigata to the port of Rashin in Korea would make the trip in 24 hours instead of the two days at present required. This would be accomplished by placing 28-knot vessels on the run.

From Rashin on into the capital of Manchoukuo the S. M. R. would use Diesel engine electric trains capable of covering the 420 miles in seven hours.

REALTY ABOUT NORMAL HERE

Several Transactions Reported Here Past Week Maintain Average Movement

The realty movement continued fairly normal in Pitt county during the last several days and is expected to pick up considerably during the fall and winter months as people in cities and towns prepare for spring building programs.

Even transfers were indicated by records in the office of the register of deeds for the period the largest involving a sum of $4,000. The deal was for 60 acres of land from F. A. Elks and wife to L. A. Whitehurst.

The remainder of the transactions ranged all the way from $1 to $800.

With numbers of new homes already completed and others under construction, the housing situation in Greenville is still far from adequate and a number of new buildings are expected to be built during the early part of next year.

The demand for apartments is just as pronounced here as it has been in recent years and it is believed some of the new buildings now being contemplated will relieve the congestion in this connection.

The following transfers were reported here for the period:

Bank of Winterville to T. Roy Oglesby and wife 1 lot, $200.

Chas. T. Mumford and wife to J. E. Winslow, 1 lot, $150.

D. E. Oglesby and wife to Roxie Barrett, 1 lot, $800.

A delightful barbecue will be served.

Officers of the association urged that all magistrates of the county attend the session and take advantage of the opportunity to hear Judge Small in his first public appearance since his arrival in the city Monday morning.

FASCISTS TOLD BY MUSSOLINI TO 'MOBILIZE'

Two Million Men and 4,000,000 Youths Warned to be Ready For Service

Rome, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today ordered a nationwide one-day mobilization of all Fascist forces in Italy. The mobilization will test the nation's ability to bring troops to arms at a moment's notice. The order involved 2,000,000 members of the Fascist party and 650,000 young Fascists between 18 and 21. They will be accompanied by 4,000,000 Fascist boys.

The order set no date for the mobilization but announced that it would be proclaimed by sirens and church bells.

TO REPORT ON LEAF SIGNUP IN CITY TODAY

to a close tonight, Mr. Arnold said contracts probably would continue to roll into his office from absentee landlords until the end of the week. The farm head said his department was striving for a hundred percent signup as in past years and believed growers had been so impressed with the progress made under the government control plan that the ambition would be realized.

Pitt county the past two years has won the distinction of being the first county to complete its signup and the farm director said today he felt confident the same honor would be claimed by growers again this year.

The new contract calls for as much as 35 percent reduction of acreage if found necessary to decrease production and stimulate prices. Any farmer desiring to withdraw from the agreement, he said, will be able to do so by notifying the department in July prior to the next crop year.

In announcing the beginning of the signup several days ago, Mr. Arnold called to attention of the growers the benefits they had derived from co-operating with the government plan in recent years and said their fate was in their own hands in the present signup.

way here for a long time. It has previously been turned down by the former district engineer after which the board of review in Washington granted a review of the case. Following this review the board ordered a new survey of the project in order that additional information might be procured.

The project is being sponsored by the Eastern Carolina Association, the organization declaring that water transportation to Greenville would save residents of this section of the state upwards of a quarter of a million dollars annually in freight rates. Mrs. J. A. Spilman, executive vice chairman of the Tar River committee of the association, had charge of the arrangements for last night's meeting.

The meeting was held at the Woman's club where a beautiful supper was served by the ladies of the club after which Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, accompanied by Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr., rendered two vocal solos which were greatly enjoyed.

F. C. Harding, toastmaster, after introducing the out-of-town guests called on Senator M. K. Blount and Judge F. M. Wooten, both of whom made brief talks in which they presented the facts upon which this section of the state was basing its request that the government provide sufficient channel to make available water transportation between this city and Washington.

Attending the meeting with Major Millis was Mr. Merritt, senior government engineer.

The Rotary club attended this meeting in place of its regular meeting scheduled for last night.

Huey Long, a national figure is dead, and yet we have heard no expression of sorrow today at his passing. Despite all the publicity and notoriety Long had received we have never considered him a factor in the national scheme of things, but from reports from his own state his will was law and opposition to him was almost equal to destroying one's chances of a livelihood. Such a figure was no doubt a menace to his own state, but again we say that it is regrettable that it took murder to remove him from power.

KEEP THE COMMON TOBACCO OFF THE MARKET

The movement by the governing council of the tobacco warehouse voluntary code agreement urging that growers not offer for sale any tobacco that will bring less than six cents, and urging warehousemen to pass any baskets that do not bring six cents a pound or better, is a step toward better prices. The growers lose money on tobacco sold at less than six cents and by withholding this common tobacco from the market they will certainly cut down the poundage of the offerings to the extent that the balance offered should bring an increased price to more than offset what the growers would have received for the common grades withheld from the market.

Of course the new contracts are now being signed and next year's crop will probably be much smaller than the present one, but if the growers want a good price for the tobacco they are now selling it must come about by cutting the present offerings by removing from the market all the tobacco under six cents a pound, and when we say remove it from the market we don't mean to put it into scrap to be sold later. We mean to destroy it and put it back on the land to help enrich the soil.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily has run away from Edwin Barnes on their wedding night, and after surviving a nervous breakdown with the help of Dr. Worde, gets a job in Birmingham and, aided by her friend Charlotte, makes good. But her managing mother, Frances Felton, writes that Edwin is seriously ill with pneumonia, and forces Emily to return to him. Emily does, and realizes that now, at last, she must endure Edwin and forget David Carroll.

Chapter 24

NEW HOME

Emily came to the hospital twice a day at first, and stayed an hour each time; then gradually her visits lengthened. Two weeks later she had Edwin moved to her own home, to the room that had been hers. His happiness was almost too great to bear.

She wrote to Charlotte as soon as the die was cast, very briefly and casually, because she didn't dare tell herself go. But Charlotte understood, and answered the letter at once.

Emily, darling:
The cards do seem to be stacked against you, and you're probably doing the only thing possible. The only thing for you, that is, I'm not sure it would be for myself, or for anyone else. But then I can't imagine myself with any man excepting his heart for me! On one thing, though, I shall never let you rest, I shall let it get you: matrimony, I mean—domesticity. Don't let your mind atrophy because you have got a mild, Emily, and a darn good one! Remember that the world isn't bordered by a white picket fence. I'm shipping your stuff and enclosing your pay-check. Frame the check and put it in a prominent place; let it be your ensign of battle. And say "Hi" to Charlotte.

The letter filled her with an unbearable yearning for Charlotte, for the heartening influence of Charlotte, and the keenness of her mind that was as stimulating as an electric vibrator. But she questioned the advice it contained.

The little house was sweet: a New England cottage of white clapboard, with a white picket fence and a flagstone walk and big fat boxwoods at the door. There was to be a garden at the back: so far Edwin had gotten no farther than a pond with gold and silver fish.

He hadn't offered it for sale after all; it had been built for Emily, and it seemed incredible that Emily wouldn't one day live in it with him. Now his faith had been justified, and he moved in a rosy haze.

Emily worked frantically, because she had learned in Birmingham that if you worked very hard you were usually too tired to think after you went to bed.

She couldn't furnish the house and plant her garden at the same time, and while her heart was with the garden, there was very little that could be done with it until fall, so she concentrated upon immediate necessities, such as chairs and tables and rugs.

Frances dropped in often "to offer suggestions," secure in the conviction that her wider experience and mature taste were indispensable to the furnishings of Emily's home. She dropped in this morning.

"I notice in the paper that Kairallah is having a marvelous sale of Orientals," she announced.

Emily was hanging curtains. She adjusted the folds of a drape and stepped back to consider the effect. "Is he?"

"Yes," Frances cocked her bird-like head. "The gathers are a little thick under your right hand. I thought we might go down tomorrow and see them."

Emily continued to arrange the drape. It was a sunny chintz, with little Valentine bouquets on an apple-green ground.

"But I'm not interested in Orientals, darling. In the first place I couldn't afford them, and in the second they don't go with a New England cottage."

"But you won't always live in a cottage, and Orientals last a lifetime. Besides, your father and I wanted to help you get them."

Emily smiled at her. "Bless you both!" She couldn't tell her mother that the frosty elegance of the Felton home was just what she wanted to avoid.

"I'll get the cheaper ones now, and by the time they're worn out perhaps I'll be ready for the other ones. Give me a rain-check on them."

"What are you planning to have?" Frances's tone implied that whatever it was, it was probably impractical.

"Plain taupe for the big ones, and a few small hooked ones where they'll do the most good. Aunt Mandy's making me some braided ones for the bedrooms."

"Aunt Mandy!"

"Yes, I was over there one day years ago for the laundry and she was working on the cunningest rug

I ever saw. I made up my mind then that if I ever had a house she'd do me some. She's tickled to death over doing 'em."

Frances came as near smiling as it is possible for a perfect lady to come. "I hoped you'd have Brownie do your house instead of picking up things helterskelter as you're doing."

Emily twinkled wickedly at her. "Do you know why I didn't? Because whenever you go into one of his houses someone always trills, 'Oh, I know Brownie did this; it looks exactly like him!' I don't want my house to look like Brownie's; I want it to look like—like Emily Barnes." She stumbled over the last word.

Her mother shrugged delicately, thereby disclaiming all responsibility for the very probable gaucheries of her daughter's completed home. Emily came down from her perch to survey the finished drapery.

The door-knocker sounded and Emily sighed as she went to answer it. There ought to be a law, she thought rebelliously, against morning callers.

The caller was her mother-in-law, and Emily's heart sank. Mrs. Barnes would never approve of the new draperies; they didn't look "serviceable" enough. But she smiled gaily.

"Come in. You're just in time to pass judgment."

MRS. BARNES looked gratified. She was a plump, rather dowdy little woman who had "let herself go" considerably more than Frances Felton had, and prided herself upon it.

In fact, Lucy Barnes prided herself upon a great many things. Upon the fact, for example, that Mr. Barnes was her lord and master instead of her companion; that he told her what to believe, and paid all the household accounts because "women had no head for figures"; that she had completely forgiven Emily for having behaved so disgracefully towards Edwin; that she had her clothes made at home because the materials in ready-made dresses were so shoddy nowadays.

"In time to pass judgment on what?" she asked brightly.

"The living-room draperies," Emily led the way to the room.

Mrs. Barnes, having greeted Frances with excessive cordiality, stood back to observe the apple-green chintzes. "Won't they fade?"

"No," Emily assured her. "They're sunfast."

Mrs. Barnes looked disappointed. Her own draperies were dark red and had been in use, with the exception of the summer months, for twelve years. In June they were taken down and cleaned, and in September they were put back. They were very durable curtains.

"They're very bright and cheerful," she conceded.

"They're very well suited to this type of house, I think," Frances stated.

Emily wanted to laugh. Whatever misgivings Frances might have about her daughter's taste would never be communicated to an outsider. Frances also prided herself.

Mrs. Barnes sat down in the frailest Heppelwhite chair. "Don't let me stop you; I can only stay a minute."

"I was through anyhow. I'm glad of an excuse to stop."

Frances rose. "I must send William for your father, so I'd better go." She considered offering to drop Mrs. Barnes at home and decided that it would save too much of speeding the parting guest.

Mr. Barnes didn't believe in chauffeurs, and during business hours, Mrs. Barnes walked. "If you and Edwin haven't any plans," she added, "I hope you'll come to dinner to-night."

Emily sighed with relief. Her maid had been out for two days and she was rapidly coming to the conclusion that her domestic accomplishments weren't meant to include cooking.

"We'll be charmed. In addition to the company the idea of eating food I haven't prepared is entrancing."

When Frances had gone Lucy Barnes said resignedly: "I'd dropped by to ask you to supper with us to-night, but of course we can't offer the inducements that Frances can."

Emily wanted very badly to kick over a table, and was suddenly ashamed of herself. "I'm so sorry I didn't know! And if you think you haven't any inducements, just extend another invitation and see how quickly we accept it!"

She took her mother-in-law's plump arm. "Come and see the chest of drawers I had Turner do over for me."

(Copyright, 1935, by Marian Sims)

But tomorrow, the inevitable dinner with the Barnes girl is through with it.

He often refers to the way in which Wall Street has become resigned to, if not enthusiastic about, the Securities Exchange legislation as administered by Chairman Kenned. business, are beginning to cooperate with TVA and REA. The bankers have swallowed the recent revision of the banking system without choking. These things convince him that business can carry on under the New Deal at the same old stand.

Insiders feel that the public missed the most significant point in his pronouncement. He blamed Congress for not broadening the taxation base as proposed by young Bob La Follette. He emphasized the increasing volume and burden of invisible taxes. Between the lines you can find a hint that he favors heavier taxes on the little fellow to pay off the national debt—but not until after the 1936 elections.

ORIENT: It now develops that the famous textile report has pleased nobody. Which explains Secretary Roper's statement in his congratulatory letter to the Cabinet committee that "You did as well as you could under the circumstances."

New England manufacturers, who forced the official investigation through their complaints against the processing tax and Japanese imports, are boycotting the committee's proposals. They refuse to adopt the suggestion that they tax themselves to lease or buy out uneconomic producing units in their territory. As a result, the report that was to solve all the problems of this harassed industry becomes just another public document.

The committee's only recommendation pleasing to the industry was the proposal that they negotiate a gentleman's agreement with Japan on imports of cheap textiles. But Free Trader Hull is taking his time about that, and he has the support of the President, who once laughed off complaint that oriental competition was a serious menace to domestic manufacturers.

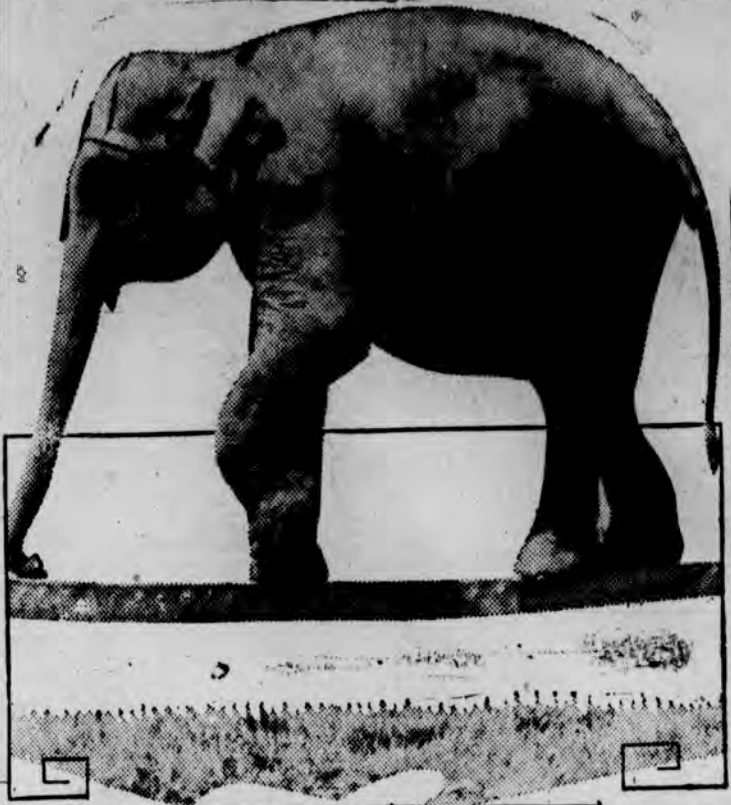

CLOTURE: Elliott Roosevelt's decision to quit Texas politics revives a question which important Democratic politicians don't like to discuss publicly. But it has caused them a great deal of misgiving.

The political activity of the President's family has brought many protests and warnings to Democratic headquarters—to both the men's and women's divisions. If the party strategists spoke their inner thoughts they would suggest that Mr. Roosevelt and the boys—Elliott and James—leave all politics to the head of the family. So many people think a woman's place is in the home that they write to Washington—and the papers—about it.

On the other hand there are many women who admire Mrs. Roosevelt for her tremendous interest in civic questions. These who note her influence in effecting appointments of concern to her sex approve her activities. But the "nays" seem to have it. You will see and hear less of the other members of the royal family from now on.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
RECEPTION: Financial New York's zest for the new issues offered by the Treasury in exchange for the final billion and a quarter dollar installment of called Fourth Liberties was decidedly weaker than published reports indicated. The conversion will be adequately successful—but more because of the Treasury's cagey strategy than because of investors' enthusiasm.

CHILDREN MAY SAVE ON CIRCUS TICKETS

Children of Greenville and vicinity have become excited over the fact, that Barnett Bros.' big three-ring circus will exhibit here Friday afternoon and evening, September 13.

Announcement that a circus is coming to town is usually good news enough for any boy or girl, but here is something of even greater interest to the kiddies.

Children of readers of the Daily Reflector will be able to see the entire performance at a greatly reduced price through special arrangements which were made with Barnett Bros.

All the children have to do is clip a coupon which will appear in this newspaper tomorrow, take it to the circus with 15 cents and they will be admitted to see the entire performance.

The publishers of the Daily Reflector feel that every boy and girl should see a circus, so they have taken this opportunity to make it possible for a greater number to see the elephants, camels, lions, acrobats, clowns and other thrills of the big show.

One of the features of the circus which always appeals to the youngsters, is the performance of Della, a baby elephant. Della is pictured above walking a tight wire, and she is said to be the only pachyderm in America capable of performing this difficult feat.

The street parade at noon is another event of circus day which holds a great deal of interest for the children.

from the last previous issue of 20-2 year 2 7-8 per cent bonds. New York is a trifle irked about this subtle device and the bonds may not go so well—even for conversion—unless the general market for federal securities is given a push by the Treasury. It undoubtedly will be in case of need.

DOWNTOWN: The New York garment center strike of shipping clerks and push boys shows indications of radical inspiration and leadership. The strike has been marked by violence—generally playful rather than sullen—displaying a spectacular ingenuity typical of communist organizers and agitators.

The projected stunt of stripping a non-striking floor girl publicly for the benefit of the sound news reels was just the sort of bright promotional idea they would have.

The setup of the garment industry is such that little can be accomplished by the strike except sabotage. Informed observers believe that the main object—again characteristic of communist tactics. They don't care so much about winning strikes as they do about raising as big a ruckus as possible.

If disturbances of the sort continue—which is quite likely—insiders predict the result will be to drive the garment industry away from New York. This would sharply accentuate the persistent downward trend in the city's importance as an industrial center.

ITALY AND ETHIOPIA:

Story Of A Long-Brewing Conflict

No. 2

In February, 1917, four years after the death of Menelik II, the throne of Ethiopia fell to the joint occupancy of Ras Tafari (now Haile Selassie) and his great aunt, Queen Zauditu, a daughter of Menelik. The victor of Adowa had designated his grandson, Lij Yassu, as his successor, but the latter intrigued with the dervishes of the Sudan, including the notorious "Mad Mullah," and was excommunicated by the national Coptic Christian church. The "rases" or feudal barons of the country, thereupon deposed him and established the dual rule. Lij Yassu took to the hills, vowing vengeance.

Four years of tribal warfare followed the coronation of Tafari and Zauditu, ending with the capture of Lij Yassu. Tafari thereafter pursued the policies of Menelik. He kept his country as the only territory in Africa that was neutral in the World war and on September 28, 1923, won admission to the League of Nations. This step was taken after he had decreed death to slave traders and the gradual emancipation of the numerous serfs in his feudal land. The aim was to end slave raids across the borders of neighboring Italian, French and British possessions.

Ras Tafari, as regent of Ethiopia, visited Europe in 1924. He was accompanied by a retinue of rates and attendants and spent five months in the old world. He was received with high honors at Rome, where he was welcomed both as a sovereign and as son of Ras Makonnen, the able diplomat of Menelik II. King Victor Emmanuel, Premier Mussolini and Pope Pius received him and he was accorded similar attention in Paris by Pres. Millerand and in London by King George. The length of his trip was deemed significant of the stability which he had established in his country.

On August 2, 1928, Italy and Ethiopia signed a treaty of "perpetual friendship." It provided for the arbitration of all disputes between the two countries and for the creation of the African monarchy of a free zone in the past of Asaba, Eritrea, together with construction of a motor highway thence to Addis Ababa. This happy occasion was the outgrowth of an official visit the previous year to the Ethiopian capital by the Duke of Abruzzi, a return for the state journey with Ras Tafari had made to Europe in 1924. But the pact's projects languished, each side blaming the other for delays.

Ras Tafari became Emperor Haile Selassie, "King of Kings of Ethiopia, Conquering Lion of Judah, Elect of God," on November 2, 1930. At the coronation were princes and special envoys from many foreign capitals. The ceremonies were staged seven months after the death of Queen Zauditu had left Tafari alone on the throne. Crowned with him was his wife, Walzato Menen, a great-granddaughter of Menelik II. Their children trace through both parents to Sahale Selassie who reigned 1795-1847 and generally is recognized in Ethiopia as a descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba.

STATE SEEKS RECOGNITION FROM WPA-PWA

Delegation to Go to Washington Tomorrow to Ask for More Consideration

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Sept. 9.—If the administration in Washington, from President Roosevelt on down, has not yet heard that North Carolina is very displeased at the treatment it has received from the Public Works Administration and the Works Progress Administration, it will find this out tomorrow. For Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and Senator Josiah W. Bailey are going to leave here tonight for Washington, where they will join Congressman Robert L. Doughton tomorrow morning at Senator Bailey's office where they will perfect their plans to lay North Carolina's protest before the powers-that-be. Indications are that they may go directly to President Roosevelt for a frank, heart-to-heart discussion of the situation before attempting to see either PWA Administrator Harold L. Hicks or WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

MOVEMENT TO ALTAR SLOW

Only 12 Couples Obtain Licenses to Marry in County During Past Week

Only minor interest apparently was shown in marriage in Pitt county during the past week, and records in the office of the registrar of deeds today showed that only 12 persons obtained licenses to wed here during the period.

For the first time in several months white couples led the preliminary pilgrimage to the altar. Usually colored people are in the ascendency, leading by a count of three to one the most of the time. With the coming of winter, business is expected to show a pronounced jump in this particular field of activity, and employees in the register of deeds office were turning their attention to preparations to receive the boost of business.

In recent years the march to the altar has been very pronounced around Thanksgiving and Christmas and if the victims of Cupid's darts run true to form, the same will be the case this year.

With economic conditions much improved this year it is probable more marriages will be recorded here than any recent year, although last year saw all recent marks shattered.

Those receiving licenses to wed during the week were:

- Wilbur L. Craft to Miss Mary Page, Beaufort.
- Carroll Humbler to Miss Hilda Manning, Ayden.
- Barney Mills to Miss Ruth Williams, Chicod.
- Harry Griffin to Miss Mary Bryan Ayden.
- R. L. Goodall to Miss Helen House, Bethel.
- Roy Alexander to Miss Lottie Cobern, Carolina.
- Warren Caldwell to Miss Matilda Earl, Rose, Winterville.
- Robert Moorman, Columbia, S. C. to Miss Elizabeth Howard, Tarboro, Coler.
- Herbert Brooks to Liddle Moore, Fountain.

'Rain' Brings Out The Actress In Sally Rand

With Eye On 'Lady Macbeth' and 'Mary Of Scotland' She Drops Fans And Bubble

By HARRY E. FARNHAM

Skowhegan, Maine (AP)—Sally Rand's fan dance is not her only attribute to stage success—she has dramatic ability.

A. H. Van Buren, director of the Lakewood Players here, says the petite, blue-eyed dancer has "inherent dramatic talent" and the perseverance that makes for mastery of difficult roles.

Foregoing vaudeville engagements to learn the role of Sadie Thompson in "Rain" and appear in her first summer theatre work, the determined young lady who hopes for a dramatic career not only acquired that exacting part but did it in less than a week.

Doesn't Mind Working.

"She is the most indefatigable person I've ever encountered in the theatre," said Van Buren. "She could work four after hours without stopping. No one without inherent dramatic talent could have learned the role of Sadie Thompson and given a performance with only five complete rehearsals."

Visitors who sought Sally at her Lakewood cottage after her premiere found her not. An hour later she was discovered on the Lakewood stage rehearsing her lines.

"It is the sort of part you could act for six months and still find new things to do," she explained.

'Good Company'

Members of the Lakewood theatre colony found her affable and "good company." They looked with favor on her serious ambition to become a dramatic actress.

To the blonde and smiling girl whose ability to put the right fan in the right place at the right time raised eyebrows of some and shouts of acclaim from others, her dancing "is a means, not an end" toward her ambition to play in the legitimate drama.

"My appearance in 'Rain' was an experiment," she said. "It has proved a happy experiment."

Now she wants to play "Mary of Scotland" or "Lady Macbeth." She says it with a peculiarly wistful smile, as if she were poking fun at herself.

Started in Stock.

Such an ambition, she adds, "seems as funny as if Helen Hayes wanted to be a fan dancer." "Rain" was not the dancer's first venture with the drama. She started in a Kansas City stock company, was a Baby Wampus star in the silent picture days of 1927 and was a featured player a few seasons ago in "The World Beyond."

MARTIN ENDS SERVICES ON SCHOOL BODY

Executive Secretary of Commission Completes Almost Eight Years of Work

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Sept. 9.—LeRoy Martin is serving his last day as executive secretary of the State School Commission. When he walks out of his office for the last time this afternoon he will have completed almost eight years of continuous service as the executive head of either the Board of Equalization and its successor, the State School Commission. During this eight years Martin has seen many changes take place in the state school system and has played a vital part in bringing about many of these changes. The greatest change, of course, has been the transition from a school system supported almost entirely by the counties and subdivisions from local property taxes, into a state-wide, state-supported school system without any local property taxes except to supplement state funds.

The biggest job Martin has had to perform during the eight years he has been in charge of the business end of running the schools for the State School Commission is really nothing more than a budget bureau for the public schools—was the operation of the schools the past two years on an appropriation of only $16,000,000 a year, most people here agree. Per back in 1923-24, when the state was contributing only $3,250,000 a year to the public schools, the total cost of operating the schools amounted to $28,500,000, of which $25,250,000 came from local taxes on property. In addition, most of the schools back in 1923-24 were only six months term schools while for the past two years all schools have had an eight months term. But for the past two years, in spite of the inadequate appropriation, Martin and the School Commission have had the distinction of keeping every school open for the entire eight months and of paying the teachers in full, thus making North Carolina the only state in the union in which not a single school closed for lack of funds.

Martin first went with the Board of Equalization as its executive secretary in 1927, after the board had been created by the 1927 general assembly to supervise the distribution of the $3,250,000 a year which it set aside as state aid for the public schools. At that time, this fund was to be used as a tax reduction fund, especially in the smaller counties where school taxes had already reached a peak and where the people were unable to pay any more taxes. A portion of the fund was also set aside to help the schools employ better trained teachers by paying the difference between what they had been paying and the cost of employing teachers with better certificates. As a result of this encouragement and financial assistance from the state, the training of teachers has increased from an average of only 1-2 years of college training in 1927 to an average of 3-4 years of college training at present.

Because the public, the school people and especially the taxpayers had become so pleased with the manner in which the school tax reduction fund or "equalization fund" was being administered by the Board of Equalization, the 1929 general assembly increased the fund to $6,500,000 a year for the next two years in order to further reduce school taxes in the various counties and school districts and to help maintain the extended term in those districts which had established an eight months term. This $6,500,000 a year made it possible for

Dick Powell, most popular of singing screen stars, is one of the 12 star cast supporting beautiful Marion Davies in "Page Miss Glory," her first Cosmopolitan picture for Warner Bros., coming to the Pitt Wednesday and Thursday.

Martin and the Board of Equalization to bring about a reduction in school taxes that averaged about 20 cents on the $100 valuation for the years 1929-30 and 1930-31. And after the depression hit in 1930, it proved a real life-saver, since at least 600 or 700 extended term schools would have had to close at the end of the six months term if it had not been for this fund.

Truck Accident Fatal To Youth

Raleigh, Sept. 9.—Archie Watkins, 18, son of Mrs. T. L. Watkins, of 229 North Salisbury Street, was injured fatally early yesterday morning between Bryson City and Sylva when a truck in which he was returning to a CCC camp was wrecked.

Watkins, member of a CCC camp near Bryson City, died in a Sylva hospital, it was reported here. A number of other CCC boys were said to have been injured in the wreck, details of which were unavailable here. The boys were said to have been returning to the camp after a trip to Sylva.

The body will arrive here this morning at 8:50 o'clock. Funeral services will be held at Caraleigh Baptist Church at 3 o'clock, with Rev. C. H. Morris of Wake Forest and Rev. R. E. Atkins, local Baptist minister, officiating. Interment will be in the family cemetery at Melbourne.

ANZAC GALLIPOLI VETERANS DISCOVER OLD PEP'S GONE

Melbourne—(AP)—Twenty years have taken their toll of the Australian soldiers who fought in the bullet-swept trenches of Gallipoli in the great war. The old wind isn't what it was in those days, and the legs revolt. With that in mind, the Returned Soldiers' League changed the route of the Anzac Day march up to Melbourne's war shrine. Previously the ex-soldiers had trudged up a long incline, leading straight for the shrine, but this year they will tackle it by a circuitous route. The decision was reached after several heartfelt addresses by men who said they barely made the top last year.

Jews Must Quit School in Germany

Prussian Minister of Education Orders Jews to Study in Special Schools

Berlin, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Bernard Rust, Prussian commissioner for culture and education, decreed today that Jewish school children from 6 to 14 must get out of all German schools by Easter, 1936. Special public schools restricted to Jews will be opened, however. Rust stated that the decree was "carrying" out an old national socialist (Nazi) demand.

The decree said all lower schools Volks Schulen would be free on non-Aryans after Easter at which time public schools will be started for Jewish children to supplement the private schools already existing. However, a community must have at least 20 Jewish children before a special school is created.

artillery, Louisiana national guards, from New Orleans under Captain Edward T. Benesch, were ordered here as a guard of honor. Later a company of infantry here was given a like assignment.

The 14th artillery men had been held in the New Orleans barracks as a precautionary measure after Long was wounded.

The senator was shot by Dr. C. A. Weiss, Jr., Baton Rouge eye specialist as Long walked along a corridor after leaving the House of Representatives Sunday night during a special session. Dr. Weiss, an opponent of Long's policies, immediately was filled with bullets by Long's bodyguard.

"I want to live," Long was quoted as saying by Seymour Weiss, a close friend and treasurer of Long's political organization. Weiss said Long had been unconscious since near midnight and he could not remember the last thing he said while conscious.

"Yes, yes," broke in Governor I. K. Allen, Long's childhood friend, and political lieutenant.

"The last thing he said when he was still conscious was 'I wonder what will happen to my poor University boys.'"

Long had been a product of the Louisiana State University and has led the cadet band and cheered the football teams from the side lines. Afterward with tears in his eyes Governor Allen issued the following statement:

"This marks with the death of Huey Long the passing of the greatest builder of economics in the history of Louisiana in 225 years. It also marks the passing of the greatest hero for the coming rights of all the people in America. His name will exist and be remembered in the annals of the State of Louisiana and all America."

Earl J. Christberry, Long secretary, said the senator's body would lie in state in the ornate $500,000 skyscraper capital building constructed when Long was governor.

It was announced that a committee composed of Governor Allen, Christberry and Earl Long, a brother of the senator, would meet in the governor's office at 10 a. m. today to complete funeral arrangements.

At the bedside of the senator when he died were Mrs. Long and their three children, other members of the family and personages high in political circles.

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady five to 14 higher in response to steeper Liverpool cables and on trade buying.

Reports of rain in the South likely further to delay the movement previously contributed to the readiness of the market which was up to 1051 for October and 1066 for May shortly after the opening on about 8 to 10 net higher. Offerings were light and prices held generally steady. At midday October was selling around 1051 and May 1066 or about 9 to 13 points net higher.

Futures closed very steady 9 to 14 higher. Spots steady.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 10.—(AP)—The stock market spent much of its time today demonstrating its ability to skid around sharp turns without piling up in the ditch.

Profit takers were in the majority during the early part of the proceedings and prices of some of the recent outstanding gainers stepped back fractions to around a point or so.

Brokers had expected a sizeable technical correction and were either disappointed or pleased that it proved of minor proportions. The activity was not pronounced.

Grains held to a restricted groove. Bonds generally were no more than steady and leading foreign exchanges were a bit better in terms of the dollar.

The late tide was heavy.

Late News Flashes

Apparently thrown into a panic when a telephone operator hurried in a fire alarm on learning a robbery was in progress, the bandits came out of the bank shooting with machine guns and rifles.

Miss Sanderlin who came to Mars Hill only yesterday, was in a drug store when the alarm was turned in. She ran out as the bandits left the bank and was hit by a shot.

Governor in Washington.

Washington, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Governor Ehringhaus and other North Carolina high officials formulated plans here today protesting the PWA allotments to that state and immediately made ready to present the protest later today to Harry L. Hopkins, PWA administrator.

The governor, Senator Bailey, Representative R. L. Doughton, Administrator H. E. Baily, and Clyde A. Erwin, state superintendent of education, gathered in Senator Bailey's office to plan the presentation of claims that North Carolina is not getting its proportionate share of federal funds.

Doughton said many "worth-while projects are being rejected and we want to find out why. We want to find out where we stand and what we must do to get the proper share of the funds for our state."

Capital Grieves Long's Death

Washington, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Both friends and opponents of Senator Huey P. Long today expressed regret at his passing and joined in denouncing the assassination.

His death removed one of the largest questionmarks from the 1936 presidential race. Official Washington expected he would be an independent candidate.

Calls for law enforcement and order in governmental affairs were widespread.

"It is seriously disturbing to learn of a resort to unlawful violence as a political weapon anywhere in America," Secretary Morgenthau said.

"Detestable" was the word used by Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska to describe the slaying.

"It is intolerable and unthinkable and outrageous to all decency when people have the ballot and could have given the senator a supreme test by that means without a few weeks without resorting to taking up instruments of murder," Senator Norris said.
