THOUSANDS AT THE
FUNERAL SERVICES
OF SENATOR LONG

Leaders Charge Assassination Was Result of Conspiracy; Battle Fronts Drawn For Fight to Control Political Power in Louisiana

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Leaders of the thousands who loved Huey Long proceeded today to bury the assassinated Senator and then to charge there was conspiracy in the slaying.

The Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, chosen to deliver the general oration, first called for a congressional investigation. He said last night that he believed the "disclosure of facts behind the killing would shake the nation."

Long's secretary Earl Christenbury expressed the conviction that the Senator's assassin, Dr. Carl Weiss, had been chosen by lot. "I believe they drew straws and Weiss lost," he declared.

The district attorney promised a thorough investigation.

Every state office in Louisiana was closed as the hour of the funeral approached but all was not quiet along the Louisiana political front. While two grave diggers spaded into the moist soil of a sunken garden adjacent to the skyscraper capitol Long had built, as thousands filed past his bier in the rounds of that capitol and other thousands swarmed into Baton Rouge for the funeral, friends and foes of the "dictator" drew up battle lines for control of the state.

NEEDY FARM FAMILIES MAY OBTAIN LOANS

Administration Will Seek to Aid Farm Families in Making Own Way

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—New regulations governing extension of rehabilitation loans provide that farm families now on relief or farm families which have exhausted credit sources in an attempt to keep off relief are eligible to apply to the Resettlement Administration for assistance.

Homer H. B. Mask, Regional Director who made public the new regulations, said Resettlement plans to expedite the rural rehabilitation program in North Carolina in an effort to remove farm families from relief rolls and help them to economic independence. Families to be aided will be selected on the basis of experience, character and ability to conduct farming operations.

"The purpose of these rehabilitation loans," said Mr. Mask, "is to provide employment and to assist farm families in making their own way. We are extending loans to families which satisfy the Resettlement Administration of their desire and ability to become self-supporting if given some small assistance in the form of a loan with which to carry on farming operations. Funds which the Resettlement Administration is advancing must be repaid."

It is expected that the extension of a loan will make it possible for these families to become self-supporting. In each county the farm and home demonstration agents are available to work out a sound management plan which will offer the best opportunity for profit. Loans will be extended only after all details covering the investment of money, and a plan of repayment, have been worked out.

If their individual farm plans require it, farmers will be financed with loans to purchase farm tools, livestock, feed, fertilizer, building material, and other needed equipment. When necessary, loans may also be utilized for the payment of land rent, farm labor and breeding fees, as well as for needed food and clothing.

Rehabilitation loans will be extended for terms possibly ranging from two to five years. Five percent interest will be charged.

BAD WEATHER
CUTS SALES OF TOBACCO

Slightly Over 600,000 Pounds Sold on Local Market Yesterday

Despite the wet weather yesterday's sales on the Greenville tobacco market were above the half million pounds mark with prices said by warehousemen to be a shade stronger than heretofore. Officials figures for the day's operations were 649,216 pounds sold for $121,569.29 averaging $18.73 per hundred pounds.

Despite rains yesterday and throughout the night today's offerings were estimated at three quarters of a million pounds. Local observers have expressed the belief that the bad weather of the past several days is one of the factors in holding down the price of the tobacco and warehousemen urged the growers to use extreme care in their grading and make every effort to keep their tobacco dry.

Community Passes
Full Day Without
Auto Accidents

There was a time when it was considered news when the man bit the dog but in the present day of one automobile wreck after another in every section of the state it is real news when a community passes 24 hours without a serious automobile accident.

That is just what has occurred in this community during the past 24 hours, following about three weeks in which highway patrolmen and city police were kept busy investigating one accident after another.

The highway patrol office this morning reported that no accident in this community had been reported to them within the past 24 hours and the same report came from the city police department.

Whether the weather was too bad for motorists to venture out or whether they have been just lucky is not known, but at that 24 hours without a serious accident is news.

TORCH SINGER
SHOT TO DEATH
EARLY TODAY

Found Dead at Farm Home of Pennsylvania Millionaire's Son

Downtown, Pa., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Evelyn Hoey, blond torch singer of Broadway and Paris, was found shot to death early today at the farm home of 29-year-old Henry H. Rogers, Jr., son of the late Standard Oil multi-millionaire. Rogers was brought here on a technical charge of suspicion of murder. Police said he had been drinking and that the tragedy followed a party at the farm home.

The death of the girl who popularized the song "What is this thing called love?" in the show "Fifty Million Frenchmen" in which she was co-featured with Betty Compston (Mrs. James Walker) was at first reported as suicide.

Rogers said there was an argument during the day and that the girl went upstairs alone. "We heard a shot," Rogers said, "and when we went upstairs we found her lying on the floor." A single bullet had entered the left side of the 25-year-old girl's head, passed completely through and imbedded itself in the wall.

ELECTRICITY
BE AVAILABLE

Administration Ready To Aid State In Plan For Rural Electrification

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—The Rural Electrification Administration in Washington, with the $100,000,000 at its disposal, stands ready and willing to assist North Carolina in every way possible to bring electricity, including electrical appliances, to the hundreds of thousands of people on farms and in rural sections which do not now have electricity available, according to Chairman Dudley Bagley of the N. C. Rural Electrification Authority, following his return from Washington Wednesday. For while he received a very cool reception there two or three weeks ago, he was received with open arms on this last trip. For when he and J. L. Horne, Jr., of Rocky Mount, a member of the Authority went there before, officials of the REA got North Carolina mixed up with South Carolina and thought they were from South Carolina, which at that time did not rate with the REA at all.

But on this last trip, when Bagley and Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus called on Rural Electrification Administrator Morris L. Cooke Tuesday afternoon, apologies were profuse and a happy time was had by all. As a result, when Bagley and Governor Ehringhaus got home, they not only had the promise of the fullest cooperation and assistance from the REA in the building of rural electric lines in North Carolina, but an order from Cooke to the FERA to proceed with the rural electrification surveys in the remaining counties in North Carolina so that accurate surveys may be had of all the 100 counties. Surveys had been completed in only 78 counties when Cooke several weeks ago halted all surveys. But when Bagley explained that it would help the state Authority a great deal if the surveys could be completed in the remaining 22 counties not yet surveyed, Cooke asked the FERA to proceed with and complete these surveys.

A new plan was also outlined to Chairman Bagley and Governor Ehringhaus for the formation of local corporations for the construction of power lines in rural sections where the existing utilities companies will not build them.

Britain's StandAPPLICATIONS
ARE POURING IN

Department Officials Pleased At Interest In Drivers' License Law

Reflector Bureau.

Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Sept. 12.—Applications for the new drivers' licenses are being received by the Division of Highway Safety of the Department of Revenue at the rate of 10,000 to 15,000 a day. Director George Scott, of the accounting division said today. They are coming in so fast that the office force here is having difficulty in keeping up with them while the highway patrolmen in all sections of the state are being swamped with requests for application blanks from motorists.

"While we are being deluged with applications for drivers' licenses and having to work overtime to keep up with the thousands that are pouring in every day, we are delighted at the response the people are showing and the apparent enthusiasm for the new drivers' license law," Scott said. "The fact that hundreds of thousands of drivers are applying for their licenses almost two months before the deadline after which a penalty of $1 will be charged, indicates that the automobile drivers of the state favor the law and are doing their utmost to cooperate with the state in putting it into effect."

The belief is growing steadily that the psychological effect of the drivers' license law is going to do a great deal towards bringing about safer and safer driving with a corresponding reduction in accidents. For those who get drivers' licenses are not going to run the risk of losing them by being arrested or convicted.

SIMONS CASE
BEING HEARD
IN PITT COURT

Inquisition Case Begun Yesterday May Be Completed Late Today

The inquisition case of A. J. Simons was begun in civil court here yesterday morning and continued today, with prospects that it would take today's sessions of court to complete the case.

The case charging that Simons was mentally incompetent to look after the affairs of his farm was brought by his two sons and first heard before Clerk J. F. Harrington in June, at which time the jury decided in favor of the petitioners. Simons, claiming that he was competent to look after his own affairs, appealed the case to Superior court and the hearing was begun at the opening of yesterday's session of the court.

FUNDS: The Republican National Committee's balance sheet for the June-August quarter furnishes a tip on how the wealthy are reacting to recent New Deal policies. They bear out inside stories that in 1936 the GOP's cupboard will not be empty.

There appears to be a direct connection between the flow of GOP contributions and administration reverses. Although he passed the hat around wherever he could gain money, Chairman Fletcher collected only $308 from March to June 1. But in late May the Supreme Court forced the President to resort to remedial legislation even more radical than what had gone before. It antagonized the large interests and aroused hope among hitherto lethargic GOP leaders. Between them they raised $67,300 in June, July and August.

Several Powers Give Support to British Stand at League Council; "The Tide Seems to Have Turned," Says King of Kings

(By Associated Press)

Haile Selassie, of Ethiopia added his gratitude today for Great Britain's stand in the League of Nations to support the movement given that stand by a group of Europe's powerful small nations.

"The tide seems to have turned," said the King of Kings. "We face the future with renewed confidence."

Great Britain's opposition to an Italian conquest of Ethiopia was supported by representatives of the Netherlands, Belgium and Sweden, he latter apparently with the backing of Norway and Denmark. Representatives of these countries told the assembly at the League of Nations that they decried armed invasion and announced they stood firmly for the maintenance of League principles of non-aggression.

Their speeches were considered as confirming the British stand expressed yesterday by Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary. While these speeches were being made publicly, efforts continued among diplomats to reach an agreement with Italy on the method of procedure by which the threat of war might be evaded but favorable reports on the progress of these negotiations were lacking. Despite these peace efforts military preparations went forward in the Mediterranean area.

A foreign office spokesman stated "the Reich meeting during the convention party and in the convention city is further testimony that the party and the state are identical."

CITY WILL
PREVENTION

Fire Chief Announces Week of October 6 As Fire Prevention Week

Fire Chief George Gardner announces Fire Prevention Week for Greenville people, from October 6 to 13. Chief Gardner explains that Fire Prevention Week is the period set aside each year in America to remind people of the dangers of fire and to teach them how most fires can be prevented. Although almost all fire departments do fire prevention work every week during the year, they can best arouse their citizens to fire consciousness and do most effective work during Fire Prevention Week by carrying out a local educational campaign when national publicity is centered on it.

The President of the United States, governors of states, state fire marshals, city and town officers and fire chiefs—all make annual appeals for cooperation of all citizens to make every effort to prevent loss of life and property by fire.

Chief Gardner regrets to say that in the past ten years the number of dwelling house fires has increased 43 per cent in the United States, and nearly doubled in Canada. Last year nearly 7,000 people, half of whom were children, were killed in dwelling house fires.

"We are asking the people of Greenville to prepare now for another battle against the demon fire," he said.

Rome, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Well informed sources said today that Italy will go ahead with her Ethiopian campaign no matter what attitude France may adopt. GO TO RALEIGH
TO BRING BACK
TWO GUNMEN

Gangsters Captured in Raleigh Connected With Shooting of Officer Here

Chief of Police George A. Clark and Sheriff S. A. Whithurst left this morning for Raleigh to attempt to identify gunmen captured in that city Tuesday, as participants in the shooting here about two men ago in which officer Mobley of the local police force was seriously wounded. The fingerprints of one of the men held in Raleigh are said to check with the prints on the bandit's car deserted here after the gunbattle with the officer and Chief Clark was carrying with him today persons from this county who saw the bandits that night and who will attempt to identify others of those held in Raleigh as those taking part in the attempted robbery here.

Chief Clark stated that the fingerprints of William Jones checked with the prints here and that he would be brought back to this city and he was not certain whether Williams Andrews or Coley Cain or both would be returned along with Jones.

The attempted robbery here that resulted in the gun battle and the wounding of the officer had already been definitely traced to the "Tik" Proctor gang even before Proctor, an escaped convict was recently recaptured and returned to state prison.

When the bandits abandoned their car here one of them left his hat behind and this was later identified as belonging to Proctor when officers traced him to Burlington shortly before he was recaptured and returned to prison. The checking of the fingerprints definitely identifies Jones as another member of the gang that took part in the gun battle here and the officers hoped to identify the other members of the party through their trip to Raleigh today.

Members of the gang, also wanted by Wilson authorities, and the Wilson officers were reported to be in Raleigh also today to seek to establish identification of the gunmen.

TO TAKE OVER
RAILROAD JOB
NEXT WEEK

New Operating Manager of 'Mullet Line' To Arrive Middle of Week

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—The new general manager for the Atlantic and North Carolina railroad, better known as the "Mullet" line, will arrive here by the middle of next week to assume active charge of operating this railroad for the company in which the state of North Carolina owns 72 per cent of the stock. Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus announced today. The new manager of the road is H. P. Crowell of Belfast, Maine, and formerly operations manager of the Belfast and Moosehead Lake Railroad, a short independent line in Maine regarded as being one of the most prosperous and best managed short lines in the country. He wired Governor Ehringhaus yesterday that his resignation had been accepted and that he would arrive by the middle of next week.

It has not been decided yet where the operating offices will be located, but it is expected that the main offices will either be in Morehead City or Goldsboro, the western terminus of the 106 miles of line comprising the railroad. It is expected that Mr. Crowell will require from 30 to 60 days to build up his organization to the point where he can actually take over control and operation of the road from the Norfolk Southern which has been operating the road under a court order despite the fact that the state cancelled its lease more than a year ago.

Every effort will be made to build up an operating organization in the shortest time possible. The Governor said today, since he is very anxious to have the road operating under his own steam before the shipment of materials for the Morehead City Port Terminals and for the jetting for the channel are started. For the Norfolk Southern will continue to get whatever revenue the road earns as long as it operates it.

MORNING STAR

BY MARIAN SIMS

SYNOPSIS: Emily's revolt to ever, she had run away from Edwin Barnes on their wedding night, and had worked at advertising in Birmingham. But Edwin almost died of pneumonia, and Emily returned to him and resigned her bright dream of David Carroll at the same time. Now she is trying with all her might to be a "good wife," and not to dislike her husband's parents too much. It is a struggle.

Chapter 25
THE BARNES

TWO nights later they had supper with Mr. and Mrs. Barnes. It was their first meal there without the comforting presence of Frances and Jeffrey, and Emily approached it with misgivings. It was strange, she thought, how little real consideration you gave to your prospective parents-in-law before you were married. Actually they were frightfully important, not only in themselves, but for what they had contributed to your husband's character and background.

Like his wife, Mr. Barnes was plump and ruddy and reactionary. The list of things that Mrs. Barnes prided herself upon was exceeded only by the list of things that Mr. Barnes didn't believe in.

He didn't believe in bobbed hair, or dinner at night, or the theory of evolution.

Edwin looked appealingly at Emily.

In fact his credo, Emily thought irreverently, could probably be summed up in the words: "I believe in the Holy Catholic Church (in the Protestant sense, of course); the communion of saints; and the Barnes Grocery Company."

The dining-room was typical of Mr. Barnes. The furniture was oak, heavy and incredibly ugly. It had outlived one generation and would, if she should lack money or courage, outlive several more.

The china was rose-sprigged Haviland, and the heavy white damask smelled faintly of cedar. There was cold sliced lamb for supper, and mashed potatoes with rich gravy, and caramel cake and ice-cream.

After addressing a few perfunctory remarks to her Mr. Barnes talked to Edwin about business, while Mrs. Barnes discussed the presidential possibilities of the Woman's Auxiliary for the coming year.

Jeffrey Felton made it a rule never to discuss business at meals and Emily wondered why Mr. Barnes and Edwin, who had been together at the office all day, found it necessary to continue the topic at night.

She wanted Edwin to tell her about his business, but so far, steeped in his father's contempt for feminine intellect, he had been reticent. But meals, she had been taught to believe, were social affairs.

Mr. Barnes didn't think so. Meals were purely for the purpose of holding body and soul together, and you ate them and left the table. He didn't believe in dividing them into courses, or sitting over the crumbs when you'd finished.

Emily's defection had been a great blow to his pride, and only the most ardent entreaties from his wife had induced him to swallow the insult. They must do it, she insisted, for Edwin's sake: if he still loved her and wanted her (though Heaven only knew how he could) then they must make the best of it.

She laid great stress on Emily's breakdown, advancing the theory that illness had temporarily affected her mind. Such instances, she hastened to point out, had no connection with hereditary insanity; they were merely the result of illness.

POLITICS at random

BY BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

The private budgetary problems of a Texas congressman, recently eyed by the senate lobby investigators, throw some light on the old question whether politics is a profitable vocation financially.

In the end Mr. Barnes had relented, but he was actuated less by Christian forgiveness than by a recognition of the impracticable position the Feltons occupied in Elston. Of course the position of the Barnes family was equally good, but still—

"I wish we could prevail upon your mother to accept the office," Mrs. Barnes was saying. Actually she was wondering why they hadn't thought of offering it to her.

"I doubt if she'll do it," Emily said. "She was president three years ago, and she believes in rotation in office. Besides, she has so many irons in the fire!"

Lucy Barnes knew that. She didn't exactly believe in dissipating your energies in so many fields, possibly because there were so few fields in which she could dissipate hers.

"I suppose you'll be stepping into her shoes in a few years," Mr. Barnes flung a sentence into the midst of their conversation like a benevolent parent tossing candy to his children.

Edwin looked appealingly at her. He was aware of the hostility of his parents and painfully anxious for Emily to overcome it.

Emily smiled. "I don't know. Civic and religious activities are things that you can only escape by dying, once you've gotten into them."

SYNOPSIS: Emily has capitulated to Edwin's plan and on their wedding night, had gotten herself a job in Birmingham, and might have made a good advertising woman if Edwin had not conveniently developed pneumonia, and called for her. Now Emily is endeavoring to live with, and surprise, and conquer her husband's father and mother who are, by all accounts, a considerable case, she discovered.

CHANGING EDWIN

EDWIN was intensely interested in the house; in watching it take on character and charm in her hands. It wasn't a all the sort of house he had expected to have, and although he felt the difference he was unable to define them.

There was one minor crisis when she chose twin beds for their room. She didn't discuss it with Edwin beforehand, partly because Edwin hadn't yet learned to discuss intimate subjects without embarrassment, and partly because she knew without asking what his attitude would be.

She bought the beds, had them re-finished and set up. Then, with a feeling of impending combat, she showed them to him.

Edwin stopped short on the threshold of their bedroom and his mouth became a thin, straight line. She had never known before that his mouth could look so like his father's and the discovery alarmed her.

She talked rapidly to cover the silence.

"The fortunate thing about it was that I found one of them and didn't dare buy it until I could be sure of finding its mate, and two days later Mr. Deems called to say he'd located its twin."

"What an involved sentence," she thought, and realized that Edwin had not heard a word of it.

At last he said coldly: "You might have told me beforehand that you felt that way."

Her heart sank. "My dear, it isn't that I feel 'any way.' Twin beds mean comfort; half the people we know have them. In the end you'll admit I'm right."

He dropped the subject, but she realized that he was dreading the pursed mouth and raised eyebrows with which his mother would express her opinion of his bedroom.

But he was trying, however awkwardly, to contribute his share towards making the house a home. Like Emily, he was particularly interested in the garden, and suggested having Jarrett up from Birmingham to plan and plant it.

Emily disagreed. "Let me tell you my ideas first, and then if you don't like them we'll call in Jarrett."

They were in the garden then, or rather, the place where the garden would one day be, and Emily outlined her plans with gestures and quick sentences.

"Don't look at this wilderness," she begged. "Close your eyes and see the flowers. Will it do?"

He smiled at her. "Of course it will. I'd rather it would be your garden than Jarrett's anyhow."

Meals, too, required managing. The rules governing meals at Edwin's house were as laws of the Medes and Persians; you ate enormously at noon and were confronted with the remnants, more or less thinly disguised, at supper.

She planned light lunches and well-balanced dinners, but while Edwin enjoyed the dinners he still felt cheated at lunch, not realizing that the sum total was the same.

"You really ought not to eat a heavy meal and go right back to the office," she told him. "It's bad for you."

He looked doubtful. "I'll get used to it after a while, I guess."

SHE struggled hard to maintain conversation at the table, but there too his training was against her. Conversation in the Barnes household was a lost art; there was no give and take save as Mr. Barnes gave and Mrs. Barnes took.

Emily wondered with a stab of dread whether Edwin would expect as time went on to occupy the place in their household that Mr. Barnes occupied in his. She knew that she would never allow it, but she dreaded the struggle that might be involved in preventing it.

Very skillfully she drew him out to talk about business. Edwin's firm was an old, conservative house, but the clouds of national insolvency had gathered and already prophecies of extreme optimism were being issued by the hundreds.

The need for optimism, Jeffrey had confided to her, was in itself sufficiently alarming.

She discussed it impersonally at climbing politician meets people who can help him in many ways. And if he attends such functions he is expected to return the hospitality, which runs into money.

That is why so many men have felt that, from the financial side, it often is a case of being damned if you do spend, and damned if you don't.

"Drinks For The Boys"

One of the earliest political recollections of this writer concerns a county judge in Indiana, who announced for congress and quit in disgust a week later. He said he found he was expected to buy luncheons and "be up the drinks for the boys" at a perfectly ruinous rate.

Recently a senator was invited to his home state to make a speech he very much wanted to make. He wrote back that he simply could not afford to spend the $100 the trip would cost. Now he is left to worry what the refusal may have cost him in votes.

It is a familiar thing in Washington to find former high officials whose names once were household words, existing in near-poverty after years in the government service. Of course there are others who have formed contacts which continue to bring them a better-than-average living.

Actual graft is far scarcer in politics than the public seems to suppose. Few public officials would put out money to buy votes directly, and few ever have the experience of being offered bribes. That would be far too dangerous even if all politicians were crooked—which they are not.

The Political Star

an, and some others, are credited with having made sizable fortunes out of politics. That is true only with qualifications.

Most of Bryan's money came from lectures and writings, and wise investments. He had talents which could have been turned into dollars if he never had touched politics, although of course the prestige of his political career helped him to capitalize those talents.

Citizens the thing works the other way. Recently a rich man, at retirement age, wondered what to do with his remaining years. A friend said: "If you were no so tight with your spendings, I'd advise politics. But it will cost you plenty." The listener decided to try it. He made a campaign contribution. Now he is an ambassador, spending far more than his salary.

Few Presidents have been able to save much from the top governmental salary of them all—$75,000 a year. Many a politician, high and low, and no matter how rigidly honest, has learned with personal sorrow the truth of the old saw that it is money which makes the political marts go.

CONVICT WHITE MAN OF ATTACK ON NEGRO

Smithfield, Sept. 12.—Kirby L. Rose of Smithfield, prominent farmer, was found guilty in recorder's court Tuesday of assault upon James Smith, negro, who lives on his place, and fined $10 and costs. The case was appealed.

Mr. Rose with a number of other men, was out in the country Saturday night watching around a tobacco barn that had burned that afternoon to see whether any sparks would endanger the other nearby barns. About 12:30 he went to a well near the negro house and saw Smith, an old man, asleep on the porch and, he says, called him, telling him that it was too cold for him to sleep out there. As the negro raised up he grasped an axe that was near and started toward Mr. Rose who struck him upon the head with a stick, grabbing the axe and throwing it away. The negro continued coming toward him, he says, and he struck him again.

The car was badly wrecked.

Zirkelbach admitted stealing the car at Marsden, officers reported. He said he just wanted to go for a ride. The car was owned by the State Highway Department and was driven by George W. Croom of Washington, in his regular work for that department. Zirkelbach was taken to Washington by the Beaufort county sheriff for a hearing.

ROBBERS PILLAGE STORE IN CHOWAN COUNTY

Edenton, Sept. 12.—John Skinner, country storekeeper in the Yuopim section of Chowan county, has reported to Sheriff J. A. Bunch that his place of business was entered by robbers the other night and pretty well cleaned out. Mr. Skinner lives directly behind the store, but except for the rather persistent meowing of the family cat, which started in soon after he had gone to bed and kept up for an hour, he heard nothing. But in the morning he told the sheriff he found the back door of the place broken in and a quantity of smoked meats, flour, cigarettes and tobacco and canned goods had been stolen. In addition to securing the sheriff's aid, Mr. Skinner has posted a $25 reward for the arrest of the thieves and is trying to determine whether his cat is really a watch cat or not.

The permanent shaft will not be sunk through solid rock but through a deep sand stratum.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—(AP)—Democratic senators up for reelection in 1936—and there are 19 of them—already are concerning themselves with the problem of who shall be chosen chairman of the senate campaigns committee.

Senator "Jim Ham" Lewis holds the post at present, but since he is up for reelection next year his successor must be selected. Custom and the fact that an incumbent senator has his hands full with his own affairs make it imperative that he be replaced.

The choice probably won't be made until the senate reassembles in January, but Democratic leaders are looking over the field now for the best man.

The name of Senator Barkley of Kentucky is among those most frequently mentioned. The keynote of the Democratic national convention in 1936, elected by a majority of more than 180,000 vote in 1932, and acting majority leader of the senate in the absence of Robinson of Arkansas, the broad shouldered Kentuckian is favored by many for the post. Only the fact that he'll be needed more in the presidential campaign keeps him from being an almost unanimous choice.

Tydings Also Mentioned
The youthful Senator Tydings of Maryland also is mentioned. Tydings already has demonstrated his ability for electing Democratic senators. He served as chairman in 1930 when the Democrats all but captured the senate. The fact, however, that he has served before and that he has been sharply critical of some parts of the "new deal" might cause him to be passed up.

Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming, in the opinion of many, is an ideal man for the job. First Assistant Postmaster General under "Big Jim" Farley before he entered the senate, and for years secretary to the late Senator Kendrick of Wyoming, O'Mahoney is well equipped for the duties of chairman. The fact that he comes from the west also is in his favor.

Democrats "Can't Lose"
Whoever is selected to head the campaigns committee, his task will be much easier than that of his predecessors. Whatever happens in '36, the Democrats can't lose control of the senate.

Of the 19 Democratic senators up for reelection, 11 are from the south, 6 from the west and 2 from the east. Even if the Republicans were to make a clean sweep—a feat politically impossible—they would still have only 44 seats to 50 for the Democrats.

There are 13 Republican seats at stake in '36, however, and it is on these the campaigns committee will concentrate. There are several Republicans up for reelection whose defeat would cause great rejoicing in the Democratic camp.

The political scalps of Schall of Minnesota, Hastings of Delaware, Dickinson of Iowa, and Borah of Idaho—to mention only a few—would cause the Democratic party to vote something akin to a medal of honor to the man who lifted them.

Dr. Graham Calls For Larger Farm Research Program

Willard, N. C., Sept. 12.—President Frank P. Graham of the University of North Carolina, speaking at a mass meeting of farmers at the State Coastal Experiment Station at Willard today, emphasized the need in the state for a larger agricultural research program.

"Agricultural research, never adequately supported in this state, has suffered heavily during the depression," he said. "There has never been a direct state appropriation to the research work of the central agricultural experiment station."

Dr. Graham pointed out that the indirect support of the Central Station through the fertilizer tax was reduced over sixty per cent.

"For a state, so basically agricultural as North Carolina," he said, "such a policy is economically and socially suicidal in its long run effects upon rural life in our state."

Declaring that the agricultural research in North Carolina has paid for itself many times over, Dr. Graham said that a larger investment in agricultural research would be "economic and social wisdom on the part of a people responsive to what they owe the farmers today and all the people of tomorrow."

"Agricultural research can improve the breeding and feeding of plants and animals, make war on plant diseases and pests, discover new plants and new values of old plants, emphasize the need of crop diversification and rotation, calls attention to the economic and social values of rural electrification and agricultural cooperation in production, credit, and marketing, and provides the factual basis for the needed alarm at the economic and social dangers of an increasing farm tenancy and a lopsided economic structure heavily loaded against agriculture."

Dr. Graham asserted that it was fallacious to claim that agriculture adjustment made unnecessary agricultural research.

"Research adds to the value of agriculture, however adjusted," he said.

Last Congress Saw Huey Long As "Big Show"

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Huey P. Long was the big show and all side attractions from the time he took congressional office so far as galleries of the United States senate were concerned.

During the last session Huey packed 'em in as none of the other 95 of his colleagues could. Not even Senator Borah of Idaho, for years the senate's chief attraction, could compete with the Louisiana "king-fish" when it came to showmanship.

Everything that Long did had a touch of the dramatic. Even his daily entrance to the chamber was staged. He never arrived on time for the convening of the session at noon. Usually every senator was in his seat and the business of the day well under way before he put in his appearance.

The two swinging doors at the entrance on the Republican side of the chamber would be thrust open and the figure of Long appear. With that swiftness, jaunty stride so characteristic of him he would walk to the dividing aisle, down to the front of the chamber and then cross over to his seat on the extreme left.

Everyone knew that it was Huey. An audible murmur would sweep through the galleries as the occupants craned their necks to get a good look at him.

Couldn't Stay Still
One of the most striking things about Long was his inability to keep still. He roamed over the chamber constantly, sitting here for a minute, then suddenly jumping up to dart off in another direction. He had a fondness for sitting on the Republican side and even would go over there to make speeches. This habit often occasioned jibes from his Democratic colleagues.

Senate doorkeepers declare that throughout the session Long was the first senator occupants of the gallery asked to be pointed out to them. They say that more people asked about Huey than all the other senators put together.

People lined the corridors on side the senate for hours when he was making a speech, waiting for an opportunity to get a seat. As soon as he had finished there was a concerted move to leave. So much confusion resulted on one occasion that Vice President Garner halted the session to observe:

"The show's over. Occupants of the galleries may now retire."

Ignored Senate Dignity
Long had few intimates, if any, among his senate colleagues, although he talked to nearly all of them as he roamed the floor. He even paused unsolicited to wisecrack at Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, and Pat Harrison of Mississippi—two of his bitterest political enemies.

The dignified atmosphere which prevails in the senate meant little to him. Once he entered the chamber with a pocket full of candy. Chewing vigorously, he passed from senator to senator, giving each a piece of candy. He was as generous to Republicans as he was to Democrats. Before very long he had senatorial jaws in all parts of the chamber working away at the candy.

His personal staff was devoted to him and loyal. Whatever others thought and said of "the boss," to them there was no other like him.

To see Huey conducting a filibuster was to realize just how resourceful the man was. During the last congress he engaged in three. One lasted for 15 1-2 hours.

He was one of the hardest-working men in Washington. He had one of the largest office suites in the capitol. His mail was enormous and 21 clerks were employed to discharge his senatorial and "share-the-wealth" business.

He was easily one of the best-dressed if not the best-dressed senator. His clothes were models of perfect tailoring. While not as flashy in his choice of suits and waistcoats as "Jim Jam" Lewis of Illinois, Huey liked plenty of color. Some of his shirts and cravats were the kind that dazzle.

YET WE COMPLAIN

Most all of us have heard the old saying, "I had no shoes and complained; until I saw a man with no feet." Quite true at least is the first part of this quotation with most of us, but even then do we really practice the latter part and cease our complaining when we realize just how much better off we are than thousands of persons about us and elsewhere.

Last night an automobile stopped in front of one of the tobacco warehouses in this city. The door of the car opened and there fell upon the sidewalk a roller skate from the car. Next, through his own efforts, there came from the car a man with no legs whatever, and with only one arm. His countenance was a pleasant one and upon reaching the sidewalk he quickly used his one arm to place his legless body on the roller skate and with his hand propelled himself a short distance from the car while his companion alighted. He then took his companion by the hand and as his companion pulled him along the sidewalk on his roller skate he conversed jovially and exchanged a pleasant greeting with bystanders on the sidewalk as he passed.

Being among the bystanders who witnessed this occurrence the writer wondered just what would be the frame of mind of anyone in the group if his predicament were the same as that of this man who though crippled apparently to an extent that would make life not worth living, was conversing in a happy frame of mind and to him life seemed as dear as to any one of those able-bodied men.

Such an occurrence as this makes one stop to count his many blessings. But after all, are we as thankful as we should be for what we are and what we have?

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

had almost as good luck in raising funds, and so have local groups in various sections of the country. These figures have political significance, in Mr. Fletcher's opinion. They convince him that conservatives who supported Mr. Roosevelt out of dissatisfaction with Mr. Hoover are returning to the fold. Remembering the apparently rock-bottom vote of 15,000,000 in 1932, his ruddy face wears a smile.

EMPLOYMENT: Huey Long's array of bodyguards often brought amused smiles to the faces of his colleagues. They kidded the "Kingfish" about them in the cloakroom. Reporters rarely described them in their stories because it seemed too fantastic for serious treatment.

They sat in Senate galleries when he was in the chamber. They accompanied him through Congressional corridors and subways, jostling august personages aside now and then. They ate at a nearby table in the Senate restaurant. When Mr. Long visited friends in quiet suburbs they lounged on the porch, their hip pockets bulging and frightening his host. On windy nights they parked in the kitchen.

But his assassination has convinced a skeptical capital that the Senator wasn't simply indulging in the theatrical. While his gun men will hardly be received in the best circles they won't necessarily figure to be jobless.

CANADA: Career men in the State Department lifted their eyebrows when Secretary Hull gave out a 10-month-old exchange of notes between Ottawa and Washington on the subject of reducing tariffs on Canadian products. They recalled that this nation has requested the recall of foreign diplomats for attempting to influence domestic policies.

What happened is this: In order to placate Canadian farming groups who seek a market for their goods in this country, Premier Bennett sent Mr. Hull a strong demand for reductions last November. The document bore all the earmarks of a political platform, especially as his opponent Mackenzie King is popular in the farm areas. Mr. Hull promptly turned down the request. A few weeks ago Mr. Bennett asked permission to make public the exchange. But that would have embarrassed our Secretary of State, who constantly informs inquisitive American farmers that these tariff negotiations must be kept secret until consummated. It would not have looked well for Mr. Bennett to disclose information withheld from our own farmers. So Mr. Hull obliged by letting the Canadian eat out of the diplomatic pouch.

FROSTY: Harry Hopkins is having a hard time in staving off the pleas of many municipalities for funds with which to conduct routine operations. Although no information on these disputes has leaked out they have led to bitter altercations behind the doors. Some cities want money to engage extra police. Others would like Uncle Sam to pay the wages of street cleaners, firemen, bookkeepers. They argue that they have reached their debt limit through expenditures to relieve unemployment or that they have turned over their best collateral to the federal government.

Mr. Hopkins insists that he can't be expected to finance cities in their ordinary activities. He will put up the money for boondoggling, but he doesn't intend to play the role of Santa Claus permanently.

New York.
By JAMES McMULLIN
AIM: The second thoughts of conservative New Yorkers about President Roosevelt's intimation of a "breathing spell" for business are even more hostile than their first reactions. There's a tendency among anti-New Deal leaders to regard FDR's attitude as a sign of weakness. Men high in right wing councils favor redoubling the intensity of the campaign to discredit him. "We've got him on the run and we must keep him running." The critics who have heard and read so far as the piping of a flute to the full orchestra East that is on the way. All available talent will be mobilized to hammer home the idea that the entire New Deal is a colossal frost. Moreover the attacks will become more sharply personal—as witness the series of articles by ex-New Deal adviser James P. Warburg. The ultimate aim goes much further than the mere matter of defeating Mr. Roosevelt for re-election—it's to extirpate his whole "subversive" social and economic philosophy from the American consciousness and make the country safe again for "rugged individualism."

WORSE: Not all New York right wingers agree that this is a sensible program. An astute minority feels it is far too ambitious to be safe and has deadly boomerang possibilities. They call it a gross miscalculation of popular sentiment to figure that it can be reversed by such crude methods. They also doubt the wisdom of rejecting so blithely the olive branch proffered by the President. A keen observer—himself a leading conservative—puts it this way: "If it comes to a direct showdown next year between Roosevelt claiming that he has improved the state of the nation and business and financial interests claiming that he hasn't, the people are bound to believe the President. After all, most of us are better off than we were in '33—and no argument that we have progressed in spite of the New Deal and would have progressed further without it is going to carry much weight with the mass of voters."

"What's more, if we stick out our tongues whenever he tries to act

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS worse dose than we've swallowed to date."

MEAT: New York has a watchful eye on the battle between the American Federation of Labor and the Automotive Industrial Workers' Association—the latter backed by Father Coughlin—to line up unaffiliated workers in the automobile industry.

It isn't so long ago that Coughlin was wooing Federation support for his National Union of Social Justice. He succeeded in getting William Collins—AFL organizer—on the stage at his first National Union meeting in Detroit. But Collins' supporters didn't care much for that and there was bad feeling about it afterwards. This led to Coughlin's determination to build up a rival auto labor organization which would be responsible to the leadership and gum up the Federation's chances of getting anywhere in that industry.

The Automotive Industrial Workers' Association has grown swiftly in the past few months. Coughlin would have it go after the Wall Street bankers—"the real bosses of industry"—instead of trying to bargain with motor company officials. AFL leaders call this just plain silly and are bitter at the interference with their own membership campaign. But Coughlin is pleased at the progress he is making and so very much off the record—are the auto moguls and their financial contacts. Such internal divisions among the workers are meat for their pie.

CHEAPER: If Secretary Morgenthau tries to sustain the market for government securities by unpublishing purchases with federal agency funds—which insiders expect him to do—he may find a harder job than he anticipates. There are large quantities of government bonds overhanging the market—ready to be dumped for sale the minute it goes up. These offerings will tend largely to offset the Treasury's purchases.

It isn't that large investors have lost confidence in federal obligations. It's just that many of them figure they can sell now—keep the proceeds in cash for a while—and buy the same securities back substantially cheaper at a later date because of impending inflation.

MOBILIZED: New York State Republicans are taking this fall's campaign seriously. Only state assemblymen are to be elected—yet they have arranged for a glittering array of big-time party speakers. The list includes Governors Alfred

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The stock market cut its speed down appreciably today as profit taking cuts appeared in the upward price path.

Buying in the metals and scattered specialties tended to offset to some extent selling flurries in various issues that have been registering new years' highs almost daily. The trend during the greater part of the session could be called little better than irregular.

Grains were of no help to stocks. Cotton was a trifle easier. Bonds were mixed. Foreign exchanges held a fractional range. The late tone was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,800,000 shares.

Late News Flashes

but upon counsel from Governor Ehringhaus retracted the "Sold out" assertion.
The farmers came from the Wen-farmers. He then counseled that if they hold a statewide protest meeting that it be delayed until the middle belt opens Tuesday so as many protesting people as possible can be assembled if prices do not get better. The governor said he would do all that he could and would attend any further meetings called.

A committee consisting of Williams, Johnathan Daniels, of Raleigh, Walter Dean and W. G. Averett of the Wendell section and H. L. Phipps of Johnston county was named to meet here Thursday at two o'clock to consider calling a statewide protest meeting to which Secretary Wallace will be invited.

L. P. Britt of Wendell, arose to urge that no action be taken until the weather cleared up, as he said he believed the weather conditions were enforcing tobacco prices. He could hardly finish his remark due to hisses, boos and cries of "Sit down!"

Other farmers who assailed prices were applauded.

DYNAMITE THROWER

JAILED IN BURLINGTON

Burlington, Sept. 12.—After he was seen to throw several sticks of dynamite, fuse and caps from a freight train near Gibsonville early yesterday, a white man who gave his name as Claude Wilcox, 32, of Gastonia, was arrested and lodged in jail at Gibsonville.

Local officers were notified by telephone that the man probably could be located here, but later it was learned that he left the train at Elon College and doubled back to Gibsonville where Chief C. C. Shepherd picked him up.

Officer Pete Davis of the municipal police and Deputy Ed Hansley left city hall in search of the man, but found he had been taken. They continued on to Gibsonville to view the prisoner.

Wilcox said he had come into possession of the dynamite at Alta Vista, Va. He stated also that he was on his way to a point in Alabama county where he expected to join a road construction crew. He is being held for further investigation having failed to satisfy officers about his explosives.

TOBACCO EXPORTS

RISE AT WILMINGTON

Wilmington, Sept. 12.—Approximately four and a half million pounds of Eastern Carolina tobacco was shipped to English ports Monday aboard the British steamers Creissick and Yorkmoor, bringing the total for the season to approximately 15 million pounds.

The larger of the two vessels, the Creissick, carried away 3,514 hogsheads. The Yorkmoor cleared for Liverpool.

The export tobacco business is rapidly becoming one of the largest along the water front and shipping officials anticipate that shipments this season to United Kingdom seaports will reach the 35 million mark.

Fornes claimed that Singleton also drew a shotgun on him when he failed to leave the filling station as rapidly as ordered. The gun was not shot. He also alleges that he was robbed there of $8.

Motor Club Has Driver License Applications

Applications for state automobile driver's license have been received at the local office of the Carolina Motor Club and are now available for distribution to the public, according to Mrs. N. C. Brooks, manager of the office.

The blanks must be carefully filled out and notarized by a notary public or witnessed by some member of the State Highway Patrol. Drivers who file application prior to November 1 are not required to pay a fee for the driver's license, and may secure same if they can satisfactorily answer the various questions on the application.

The driver's license law is effective November 1 and those who apply for license after that date must undergo an examination and pay a fee of $1. Licenses are good until revoked for cause.

Chauffeurs, including drivers of city trucks, must pay a fee of $2. This license expires June 30, 1936, and must be renewed each year at a cost of $2.

Mrs. Brooks pointed out that the applications must be filled out on a typewriter or printed in blue or black ink. Extreme care should be used in filling out the applications, it was said, as a photostat will be made of the original application and this photostated card returned to the applicant by the Highway Safety Division of the Department of Revenue.

Applications must be filed by every member of a family that drives a car and by any driver regardless of whether he or she owns a motor vehicle. The local office of the Carolina Motor Club is located at L. O. Gross Musty Store, near State Theatre.

violated for any of the offenses for which licenses may be revoked. Licenses may be suspended for eight specific causes and revoked entirely for seven specific violations.

Application blanks will be mailed out Monday to the 450,000 automobile owners registered with the license bureau, and additional blanks are going to be sent out to automobile dealers, filling stations, motor clubs, police stations and sheriffs offices. To date 1,000,000 application blanks have been printed and another order for 500,000 more has just been placed.

The machines for photographing the application blanks, which will make the actual drivers' licenses, are here but will not be ready for operation until September 23.

TO TAKE OVER RAILROAD

War Department will build 3,000 feet of granite jetties on each side of Beaufort Inlet to protect the channel and keep it open and that all of this granite would have to be hauled to Morehead City over the "Mullet" railroad. Accordingly a very strong effort will be made to get the road under actual operation by Crowell and the company before the shipment of these thousands of tons of granite is started. The only time the road ever paid a dividend on its common stock was when it hauled the granite for the Cape Lookout breakwater, the Governor said today.

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL LEADS REVIVAL SERVICES

Kinston, Sept. 12.—A revival near La Grange proceeded today as though nothing had happened. Rev.

J. W. Norris conducted services for a week or so, then left to fill an engagement in another county. The revival was going over big and it would have been a shame, said persons interested in it, to let it terminate because there was no preacher. Fifteen-year-old Mary Esther Crandall took up where Evangelist Norris left off. She had had experience in the pulpit. Lay leaders said she "filled Mr. Norris' shoes most acceptably" and was expected to draw large congregations the remainder of the week.

EXPECTS POSTPONEMENT OF STATLER WILL CASE

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—J. M. Broughton, counsel for the Statler interests, said yesterday it is "extremely doubtful" that the suit involving the contest of the will of Elva Statler Davidson will be tried at Carthage this month. There are 54 cases docketed ahead of the Statler case for the two-weeks civil term of Superior Court beginning at Carthage Monday.

BY BEACH CORPORATION

Raleigh, Sept. 12.—The Atlantic Beach Hotel Corporation has sold its retail electric power lines to the Tidewater Power Company and its telephone system to the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co., the State Utilities Commission announced yesterday.

The sale voids a commission order issued during the summer, requiring the corporation to show cause why it should not list with the commission its retail power rates. Stanley Winborne, Utilities Commissioner, said the corporation was selling current at retail to cottage owners at the beach.

Corn Cargo Travels Far

Texas City, Ark. (AP)—Part of a cargo of South African corn which arrived here from Antwerp has been shipped back to Holland. Falling prices were given as the reason for the unusual transaction. The American price for corn was 98 cents a bushel when the cargo arrived, but a subsequent drop made it unprofitable to pay a tariff of 25 cents a bushel and sell the cereal at the prevailing market.

Ficklen, founder, and for many years operator of the plant. Mr. Ficklen for years has been one of the outstanding members of the tobacco industry and his enterprising spirit has taken a prominent part in development

Charlotte, Sept. 12.—(AP)—William Walden, of Concord, listed on police records as having drunk poison in a rooming house here Monday, died early yesterday.

Walden was taken to a hospital Monday, but was removed to jail yesterday when apparently on the road to recovery. Last night he became desperately ill again and was being taken to the hospital again in an ambulance when he died.

COAN SENDS WPA PROJECTS WASHINGTON

$100,000,000 Worth
Of Projects For This State Are Now On File

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL
Raleigh, Sept. 12.—More than 2,000 projects aggregating fully $100,000,000, of which $75,000,000 is expected to be Federal funds, will be in Washington tonight ready for consideration by the Works Progress Administration and Administrator Harry L. Hopkins when the clock strikes midnight, the deadline for the submission of new projects by the 48 states. State WPA Administrator George W. Coan said this afternoon. This batch of projects represents virtually all of the projects which have been submitted by the eight district directors in North Carolina to Administrator Coan, since only a handful of projects were rejected or changed before being sent on to Washington. "In planning these projects, we have tried to keep in mind that primary purpose of the entire WPA program is to provide employment for the unemployed and especially for all those who have been on relief and who are able to work," Coan said. "Also, since 75 per cent of the relief labor and those still unemployed are classed as unskilled labor, it has been necessary to plan projects which can be carried to completion with unskilled labor. It has also been necessary to take into consideration the number on relief capable of being employed on WPA projects in every county and community and to reduce the size of the projects where the relief load has been light and the unemployment rate low."

What will be the fate of these projects when they come up for action in Washington can only be conjectured and Coan does not expect that all of the $100,000,000 worth of projects will be approved. But he is more confident than ever that at least $40,000,000 worth of projects will be approved for North Carolina, or rather that projects calling for a total expenditure of $60,000,000 of which $40,000,000 will of the total cost of the project. The reason Coan feels so sure that North Carolina will get at least $40,000,000 more of Federal funds in North Carolina is because WPA Administrator Hopkins assured the delegation which conferred with him in Washington Tuesday that the state could count on getting at least that much more. Since then Coan has had a direct communication from Hopkins verifying that figure, it is understood.

It is expected, however, that included in the total of $40,000,000 which the state has been assured it will get an additional Federal money that some will go towards Public Works Administration projects still pending in Washington but not yet acted upon. For while approval of all WPA and PWA projects is being suspended temporarily in Washington, evidently in an effort to clear up the difference between WPA Administrator Hopkins and determine who will have the final say-so, it was indicated by Hopkins to the North Carolina delegation there Tuesday that approval of a good many pending WPA projects could be expected. The belief here is that two-thirds of the $40,000,000 will probably go to WPA projects, because of their lower per-man-year cost, making it possible to employ more workers per project. The other third will accordingly be allotted to PWA projects where the per-man-year cost is higher but where the permanent value of the project great enough to outweigh the employment factor. Following the visit of Ickes to Hyde Park yesterday for a conference with President Roosevelt, a showdown between Ickes and Hopkins and a clearer definition of the authority of each is the expenditure of relief funds is expected. The prevailing belief in Washington is that Hopkins will win out and that sooner or later the President will put Hopkins in charge of both the PWA and WPA programs. As soon as this happens it is expected that Hopkins will lose no time in breaking the present log-jam holding back the progress of both programs. For Hopkins has already earned a reputation for being able to work fast and get results in a very short

A STURDY, masculine looking cloth which in appearance and performance duplicates the hand-woven fabrics of the North Carolina mountaineers. In the old days they spun the yarns and wove the cloth for their own clothes in their isolated cottages. The cloth had to be strong to stand the wear they gave it. It happened to be beautiful, too, as many primitive products are. Now, they are available in ready-to-wear clothing at a moderate price—

Duke Frosh Week Begins

Durham, Sept. 12.—Arrival of a large class of freshmen today marked the beginning of Duke University's 84th year as a degree-conferring institution.

Tonight assemblies were to be held on the university and Woman's college campus, with Dean A. K. Manchester and Dean Alice M. Baldwin the first to welcome the new first-year students.

During the next few days the frosh will be sent through a busy program of placement tests, physical examinations, and general entrance routine. Mixers, socials, and entertainments are also on the program.

The formal opening of the university is set for 11 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 18. Upperclassmen will begin classes the following day, and graduate students will register next week-end.

University officials and student leaders will speak to the new men's and women's freshman classes at evening assemblies during the frosh week program.

On Sunday morning a special service will be held in the university chapel, with President W. P. Few presiding and Dr. Malcolm McDermott, of the law school, speaking.

The university has added a number of persons to the instructional staff, several buildings have been redecorated and remodeled, grounds have been beautified, and other provisions made to care for the academic and the physical side of the university's operation during the new session.

Halfback Dashiell Attempts Comeback

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 12.—Dick Dashiell, one of the leading backfield candidates of the North Carolina squad, will be attempting a sort of comeback this season.

Dashiell is now playing on the No. 2 backfield arrangement, calling signals from the half back post. But if he keeps on improving, he will be right in the fight for a first string position. He is certain to see plenty of action during the current season.

This youngster, who is the son of Dr. J. F. Dashiell, head of the University Department of Psychology, started off his college grid career with a bang, going great guns on the 1933 freshmen eleven. He was slipped into the starting lineup for the opening game with Wake Forest last year, and young Dashiell came through.

In that Deacon game, his first with the varsity, Dashiell made the old Carolina fans think of none other than little Johnnie Branch, that famous Old Man River of '29 and other years. "Slippery Dick" ran wild in that opening game, his feature maneuver being a 650-yard return of one of Tex Edens' punts through a field jammed with would-be tacklers.

But something seemed to be lacking in Dashiell throughout the rest of the season. He just could not get going.

He has shown he can run, in broken field especially. He can pass, and punting is a specialty. He is no mean field general. With these assets, this home town fellow should go some this fall.

He is not picked to break into the starting lineup, because Harry Montgomery and Don Jackson seem to be fixed in the halfback posts. But Dashiell will play a lot, and when he does get in, this slippery young fellow will bear watching.
