DEATH OF LONG SHIFTS SCENE OF '36 DRAMA

Death of Louisianian
Removes Threat of Split in The Solid
South

By BYRON PRICE

(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

The great diversities of opinion over the political force of Huey Long live after him. Whatever was his actual national strength, party managers now must reappraise some 1936 possibilities.

Their conclusions necessarily await the passing of time. The Louisiana may have spoken from conviction of plots to kill him; but some colleagues did not take his apprehensions so seriously. In looking ahead, there was no mention in their views of anything so shocking and sudden as his removal by an assassin.

They were wondering, rather, how the extraordinary paradoxes surrounding Long's presidential aspirations could or would be resolved.

Undoubtedly, his bitterest and most numerous and powerful foes were in his own Democratic party whose leaders and program he condemned. Under ordinary circumstances, that would have been about the biggest discouragement any presidential candidate could have.

But that was not all. At the time of his death, many of the senator's warmest well-wishers were of all people members of that same "Wall Street" wing of politics which he had castigated on so many occasions in public and private.

"Will he really run?" had been asked hopefully, almost prayerfully, by old-line conservatives whenever Long's possible candidacy was mentioned. The hopes and prayers arose, of course, from no love of him, but from a possibility that he might split the left wing vote next year and so elect a conservative Republican.

Any consideration of the Long candidacy had to start from the fact that few of his own followers believed he had the slightest chance to be elected next year. He was counted nevertheless as the most likely rallying figure for a third party ticket.

Expectations were that if he tried for the nomination, he would collect some delegates who at most would raise controversy in the Democratic convention; and that if he then ran independently, he would cause Mr. Roosevelt to lose enough states to damage his prospects.

What many in the Long camp were thinking of was 1940. They counted on the leftward surge of public opinion—so continuous in recent years—to continue strongly whether the next administration was Democratic or Republican. It was that drift they hoped to capitalize.

If their expectations turned out, they figured Long would appear in the role of a sage and a prophet, who had cried in the wilderness in 1936, and established himself beforehand as the chosen leader for 1940.

While there was yet a chance for him to survive his bullet wounds, suggestions were heard that he would be able not only to appeal as a sage and a prophet but as an almost martyr—with consequent impression on public opinion.

The fact that most of the politicians questioned that line of reason did not appear to impress the Long strategists.

"What about actual 1936 prospects, before the assassination and now?"

Long dominated Louisiana and, despite contrary predictions of Chairman Farley, most political leaders doubted whether it could be taken from him next year. Confusion raises its head there now, anti-Long leaders saying the machine will disintegrate without its leader.

Outside the state, dispute over possibilities has given way to agreement that the greatest threat to a break in the solid south passed with Long. His political had named Mississippi, Arkansas and Georgia among states he likely would "carry." Democratic politicians translated that as meaning Long supporters hoped so to split the Democratic vote as to permit Republicans to win there.

Laura Ingalls Sets New Plane Speed Record

Here is petite Laura Ingalls as she arrived at New York after a record-breaking flight from Los Angeles. She made the trip in 13 hours, 34 minutes and 5 seconds, breaking the old record for women fliers set by Amelia Earhart. Had her radio compass been functioning, Miss Ingalls might have landed seven minutes earlier and tied the non-stop record for both men and women held by Frank Hawks. (Associated Press Photo.)

SLOT MACHINE CASES AGAIN TO BE HEARD

Four Pay-Off Slot
Machines Taken In
By Local Officers
Recently

The slot machine business in this county, disposed of some time ago when Judge Dink James in county court, ordered all illegal machines removed from the county, has come to the fore again with the seizure during the past few days by local officers of four of the "pay-off" type machines. The matter was supposed to have been heard in city court this morning but was postponed until Wednesday at the request of L. B. McCormick, alleged owner of the machines.

The officers got one of the machines from the James Cox filling station, two from the Golden Leaf filling station and one from the restaurant of Keel's warehouse on Dickinson Avenue. The machines are of the ball type and according to information contained a secret drawer from which the player received money when he made winning scores on the machine. One of the machines was played by an officer and he received pay-off from the machine, it was said. When the other machines were played it was found that the pay-off drawer had been locked. It was said that operators of the places in which some of the machines were placed continued to pay off after the secret drawer had been locked to prevent officers detecting the gambling features of the machine and for this reason the machines were taken up by the officers.

Some months ago similar machines were reported to be in operation in Ayden but when officers arrived on the scene the machine had been removed from service.

The case will come up in city court Wednesday but opinion was expressed by officials this morning that the matter would be carried to the superior court for final hearing.

Late News Flashes

Close Inquest.

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 16.—(AP)—Dr. Carl A. Weiss, Jr., assassin of Senator Huey P. Long, met his death from pistol wounds in his head, chest and abdomen, a coroner's jury decided today after hearing the bodyguard of the late senator testify to riddling his body with bullets.

The verdict read: "Dr. Carl A. Weiss, Jr., came to his death as a result of pistol wounds in his head, chest and abdomen, homicidal." Coroner T. C. Bird added, "That's all."

Last week the same jury held: "Senator Huey P. Long came to his death as a result of a gunshot wound homicidal."

District Attorney John Odum, who conducted the inquiry, said the inquest was closed as far as he was concerned but Attorney General Gaston L. Porter said he did not know whether he would pursue the inquiry.

WILL FIGHT NEW POTATO CONTROLLAW

American Liberty
League May Test
Constitutionality of Act

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The potato control system passed by the recent session of congress continued to arouse discussion today with the American Liberty League attacking it as "another step toward socialism."

The plan is aimed at control of production by assigning quotas to farmers and levying a tax on potatoes produced in excess of these quotas.

The Liberty League in its statement called it "another step in a system leading to methods of restriction of the private lives and business activities of our people wholly foreign to American institutions."

The League said the punitive tax was of questionable validity and declared the system would boost prices for a staple commodity on which the poorer classes was absolutely dependent.

It said the regulations would annoy both the producers and consumers and bootlegging would be unavoidable despite fines up to $1,000 and jail sentences up to one year.

Provision is made, the League stated, for an army of snooters, through persons who fail to tell if violations by their neighbors.

The League in declaring the act will attempt to benefit the large and commercial growers of potatoes but will harass several million small growers and burden the entire population. It took different view from that of A. E. Kacker, agricultural economist, whom the AAA has placed in charge of the potato contracts. Kacker recently said he believed a plan could be worked out to benefit the potato growers of the commercial sections without undue restraint on the small growers.

MIDDLE BELT LEAF MARKETS OPEN TUESDAY

State-Wide Protest
Meeting May Hinge
On Prices in Middle
Belt

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Tobacco sales will begin in nine more North Carolina markets centers tomorrow with the opening of the middle belt. In the belt are the markets of Durham, Henderson, Oxford, Aberdeen, Warrenton, Louisville, Fuquay Springs, Carthage and Sanford.

With 15 per cent more acreage than last year all the markets anticipated larger sales. Durham, the principal market in the belt, expected to handle thirty million pounds compared with twenty four million last year and the others looked for increased poundage.

The crop in the belt is described by agricultural experts as spotted but generally of good average. Prices paid for the leaf on the middle belt markets may be the determining factor in the movement for a statewide meeting of growers to protest prices. New bright belt growers meeting here last week decided to await the opening of the middle belt before deciding to hold such a meeting.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News.

Washington

By RAY TUCKER

POSSIBLE: If Republican high-crow would speak their inner thoughts these days it would be the political sensation of this topsy-turvy year. They would admit that the most discussed presidential possibilities are second-raters, and that the only two men who command enough popular imagination are Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and William Edgard Borah.

They still toy with the idea of dangling the offer of a nomination before Mr. Hughes' eyes. They see no reason why he should not step down from the high court—again—now that he has had his say about the New Deal. They don't worry over his age. In fact, they see some advantage in pitting a constitutional elder against the youngsters—the Cohens and Corcorans—of the New Deal.

Cou may hear more and more discussion of Mr. Hughes' availability. As for Mr. Borah, the professional don't like the cut of his jib.

NEGRO SHOT TO DEATH BY DEP. SHERIFF

Drew Gun on Deputy Sheriff Pierce and Officer Opened Fire
On Him

Harvey Grimes, negro, was shot to death by Deputy Sheriff Pignston Pierce early Sunday morning when the negro drew a gun on the officer when the officer attempted to question him.

About two o'clock Sunday morning Sheriff Whitehurst received a call from Jimmy Hardee's filling station about five miles from this city, that some drunken negroes were causing a disturbance at the station. Sheriff Whitehurst immediately notified Deputy Pierce to investigate the trouble, but when Pierce reached the scene the filling station operator had closed up because he stated the negroes were drunk and had guns and he was afraid of trouble. Just a short distance from the station the officer overtook Grimes along the highway and when he stopped him for questioning the negro reached for his gun. The officer ordered him to drop the weapon but instead he raised it to point it at the officer. At this moment the officer fired, dropping the negro in his tracks.

Public drunkenness is on the increase in Greenville, around 15 cases being heard in mayor's court here this morning. According to Chief of Police George Clark the opening of the market with its employment of hundreds of laborers and, with our money in circulation has brought about the annual increase in drunkenness but this season, he says, there seems to be more public drunkenness than heretofore.

ITALY WARNS THE FRENCH

Says If France Casts
Aside Friendship It Can Never Be Regained; Three More
Nations Make Plea
For League Action

(By Associated Press)

Three small countries called upon the League of Nations to take definite steps toward preventing the conquest of another small country—the contemplated invasion of Ethiopia by Italy.

Panama and Haiti, of the new world sided with the Irish Free State in the demand for League action saying if the league cannot fulfill its responsibility it should admit its futility and unworthiness to exist as a peace organization.

General Alfred Namours, of Haiti, warned that "the colored people of the world are watching" and that "this season of colonial wars is closed."

Premier Eamon de Valera, of the Irish Free State declared it is the "final test of the league and all it stands for on any pretext, whatever, if we permit the sovereignty of even the weakest state among us to be unjustly taken away the whole foundation of the league will crumble into dust."

Galileo Solis, of Panama, said his nation's vote would always be for service to the cause of peace without the maintenance of which the league has no right to exist as a political institution.

As these statements were delivered before the assembly at Geneva, the authorized newspaper La Stampa, at Turin, told the Italian public and incidentally the French if France casts aside Italy's friendship over the Italo-Ethiopian conflict it will never regain it.

French authorities said in Paris they hoped to get Premier Mussolini, of Italy, to sign another pact guaranteeing Austria's independence before hostilities with Ethiopia.

DRUNK DRIVER INJURES FOUR

Newton Tyndall Jailed After Hurting
Four Negroes in Auto Wreck

Annie Richardson, Olivia Ward, Lee Ward and Charles Lee Ward, year and a half old baby, all negroes were injured Sunday afternoon when the car in which they were riding was wrecked by a car driven by Newton Tyndall, white man who is now in jail on a charge of driving while drunk. The accident occurred on the Cox Mill highway a short distance from this city after Tyndall had led Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst a chase through this city and out onto the highway.

The negroes were rushed to the hospital for medical aid and at first it was thought the baby had received a fractured skull but later reports were to the effect that there were no fractures and the child was resting well. The other three were only slightly injured.

Yesterday afternoon Sheriff Whitehurst received a telephone call that a car driven by a drunken man was enroute toward this city from Winterville and the sheriff proceeded to the intersection of the highways at the western edge of this city. When Tyndall rounded the curve at the Serve-U filling station at high speed and taking more than his share of the road the sheriff dropped in behind and then drove up beside the car to order him to halt. Recognizing the sheriff, Tyndall stepped on the gas and because of heavy traffic the sheriff dropped to the rear because he was afraid if he crowded Tyndall it might cause him to crash into some other car. On Dickinson avenue the sheriff again pulled up beside Tyndall in an effort to stop him but again dropped to the rear because of the heavy traffic. Tyndall passed through the city with the sheriff up pursuit, and went out on the Cox Mill highway. Upon reaching the edge of the city he stepped up to a speed of around 65 miles an hour with the sheriff in pursuit of the fleeing car that was swerving from one side of the road to the other. Just a short distance from the city a car approached the road from an intersection on the left. As the front wheels of the car touched the highway Tyndall's car swerved to the left, crashed into the front of the other car and locked together the two cars covered a distance of about 30 yards before coming to a stop. The negro occupants of the car that Tyndall struck were sown along the shoulder of the highway. Tyndall's car immediately caught fire and he was extricated from the car and the flames extinguished. The sheriff said that Tyndall was in a drunken condition and he was brought to this city and jailed.

The shooting occurred at the Turner hotel, corner of Clark and Fourteenth streets, where the girl was staying. Tucker was said to have been seen leaving the hotel immediately after the girl was shot in her room and he was later found in bed at his home nearby.

The girl was taken to the hospital with a bullet wound through her chest and her recovery is doubtful. Tucker and the girl were said to have been "keeping company" since she came to this city to work. The girl is said to have made no statement as to the shooting.

Negress Struck By Automobile

Janie Davis, negress, is in Pitt Community hospital, from injuries received Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile driven by B. Brown, of the Winterville section of the county. The accident occurred on the Winterville highway just beyond this city when the woman, walking the highway stepped in front of Brown's car while getting out of the way of a car approaching from the other direction.

The woman was walking toward Greenville on the left side of the highway and Frank Worthington was driving in the direction of Winterville. Instead of stepping out of the road to the left to get out of the way of Worthington's car the woman crossed the road and in so doing stepped in front of the Brown car traveling toward Greenville. Brown stopped and picked up the woman and rushed her to the hospital here where it was said her injuries were not thought to be serious.

A short Court of Honor was held just before the camp fire program, at which 6 merit badges and one life Scout rank were awarded to Greenville boys. Vernon Tyson is the new Life Scout.

LICENSE LAW EXPECTED TO CUT ACCIDENTS

Drivers Will Find It Easier to Lose License Than to Obtain Them

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—The state-wide drivers' license law is going to be effective in reducing accidents and in bringing about better observance of the highway laws because of the ease with which it may be suspended or revoked, rather than because of the ease with which it may be obtained, it was pointed out today by Assistant Commissioner of Revenue M. C. S. Noble, Jr., who is supervising the issuance of the new drivers' licenses.

Any one who can speak and read English, who has been driving a car for more than one year and who has never been convicted of a traffic violation or involved in a serious accident, may get a driver's license free of charge. Chauffeurs and drivers of commercial motor vehicles are required to pay $2 for their licenses.

But it is almost as easy for a driver to lose his or her driving license as it is to get it, Noble pointed out, since licenses can be suspended by the Department of Revenue, upon the recommendation of a highway patrolman, for seven specific causes. The licenses can be revoked for a year and the holders denied the use of their cars, if car owners, for the length of time for seven other offenses. The result is that drivers are going to have to watch their driving in order to keep the licenses which are now being given away so freely.

The seven causes for which drivers' licenses can be suspended by the Department of Revenue, as set out in Section 11 of the Drivers' License Law, are as follows:

1. If the driver commits any act

reckless driving while engaged in the illegal transportation of intoxicants for the purpose of sale.

Since drivers fear the loss of the right to drive their cars more than almost anything else—much more than fines—the belief is that the ease with which licenses may be suspended or revoked is going to be a very powerful means of bringing about more careful driving, Dr. Noble said.

2. If the driver is involved in any accident resulting in the death or personal injury of another or in serious property damage in which the accident is obviously the result of the negligence of such driver.

3. If the driver is habitually reckless and negligent.

4. If the driver is incompetent; to drive a motor vehicle.

5. If the driver has permitted unlawful or fraudulent use of his or her driver's license.

6. If the driver has committed an offense in another state, which if committed in this state, would be grounds for suspending or revoking the license.

7. If the driver has been convicted of illegal transportation of intoxicating liquors.

"This list of violations for which a driver's license may be suspended indicates that the Department has very wide powers in the suspension of licenses and that it will pay those drivers who want to continue to have the right to drive to be careful and observe the law," Noble said.

The violations and causes for which the revocation of drivers' license is mandatory by the Department, following conviction for these violations, are as follows:

1. Manslaughter or negligent homicide resulting from the operation of a motor vehicle.

2. Driving a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor or of a narcotic drug.

3. Any felony in the commission of which a motor vehicle is used.

4. Failure to stop and render aid as required under the law of the state, in the event of a motor vehicle accident.

5. Perjury or the making of a false affidavit under oath under this law or any other law relating to the ownership of motor vehicles.

6. Conviction or forfeiture of bail not vacated, upon two charges of reckless driving committed within a period of 12 months.

7. Conviction or forfeiture of bail not vacated, upon one charge of

WAYNICK IS HOPEFUL FOR BRIDGE PLANS

Is More Hopeful For Program As Result of WPA Developments

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Sept. 16.—Possibilities for carrying out the ambitious bridge building program of the State Highway and Public Works Commission with Federal aid will amount to a total of about $3,000,000, is regarded as some brighter as a result of developments in Washington which indicate that hereafter the state will probably get more funds from the WPA than the PWA. Chairman Capus M. Waynick said here today. This program includes three large bridges, one across Pamlico sound, one across the Alligator river and one across the Roanoke river. The third across the Roanoke river, East lake in Dare county, is the first of the three. It is to be built on the west side of the river, where the least accessible section of the state.

The two principal obstacles which must be overcome are the limit on the completion of all WPA projects within a year from the date they are started, and the other requirement that there must be adequate relief labor in the vicinity of the projects. Highway engineers are hoping, however, to convince the WPA engineers that these projects can be completed within a year's time. They also are going to offer to build camps for the construction crews and to transport relief laborers to these camps from other sections if the supply of relief labor is not adequate in the counties immediately surrounding these projects.

There are still some very definite obstacles, but we are going to do everything possible to remove them and make the construction of these bridges possible," Waynick said. "We feel that in addition to supplying a large amount of work for former relief clients that the building of these bridges will be of permanent and lasting value to the entire state, as well as to the immediate section in which they will be located."

The highway department is willing to put as much as $1,500,000 into these three projects, which will be the approximate cost of the materials. If the WPA will supply the labor, which will amount to about the same sum, making a total cost of about $3,000,000.

Snively To Give Hard Scrimmages to Boys This Week

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 16.—A series of hard, long scrimmages will feature the third week of practice at the North Carolina football camp. Two workouts will be held daily until classwork starts Friday.

Coach Snively has been given a week longer than three of the other Big Five coaches to get the team in shape for the opening battle. The Tar Heel mentor has drilled fundamentals completely the first two weeks, and now will turn his attention to polishing up the offensive drive.

Coach Snively has expressed his disappointment in some of the sophomores, but the fine showing of several other first year men deserves nothing but praise. Andy Bershak and Johnnie Sniscak lead the sophomore parade on the first string lineup.

Bershak shows great promise in developing into one of the best ends in the state, and holds a good chance of beating both Buck McCarn and Bill Moore out of the post where they made their letters. Sniscak has been put on the spot, being given the assignment at George Barclay's old place at guard and backing up the line.

All those on the injured list are expected to be back in the lineup tomorrow. Tom Evans and Jim Hutchins have taken easy work all week, as well as Abe Gordon, sophomore. Buck McCarn, who did not report until Friday due to a short illness, will take only light drills the first of the week.

Blue Devils Get Down to Serious Business Today

Durham, N. C., Sept. 16.—Duke's Blue Devils went on the one-practice-a-day shift this afternoon as they settled down to the serious business of getting everything ready for the opening game with Wake Forest in Greensboro Saturday night.

Where the past two weeks have been spent in conditioning and working hard on those fundamentals of blocking and tackling, the Blue Devils will now look to such things as their plays, with plenty of blackboard drills, and such details which have not been stressed as timing, cadence, going down under kick-offs—those things which play prominent parts in the games.

The team lined up today just as it has for the past two weeks with a couple of exceptions. Jim Boling has replaced Joe Cardwell, out due to a mysterious stomach ailment, and Sam McCaskill has edged out Jim Boyd for the blocking back post. McCaskill stepped in to the job when Boyd was out a day or two with a slight injury and has been able to keep it although Boyd has returned to work.

With McCaskill in the backfield are Ace Parker, Jule Ward and Jack Alexander. Ward will be used at a running back post this season after a year at the blocking job. Ed West and Dick Talliaferro continue at the ends; Captain Jim Johnston and Gus Durner at guards; Jack Henne-mier, the midget, at center; and Joe Brunansky, the lone sophomore on the first team at the tackles with Boling.

The second team is a sophomore aggregation with nine first-year men on that club. Frank Liana and Tim Power, 1934 lettermen are at one end and one guard with Sophomores Carl Hartness, end, Woody Lipscomb and Charlie Fischer, tackles; Willard Earney, guard, Ike Eakins, center, Elmore Hackney, Herbert Hudgins, Sam Gardner and Harwood Smith, backs, filling the other jobs.

Baton Rouge parish court house was charged with feeling as the audience was divided between backers of the Long political machine and those opposed to the senator's regime.

The first dramatic touch came when Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, organizer of the senator's "Share the Wealth" society, refused to answer questions when he was called as a witness, calling District Attorney Odom a "murder plotter."

"I want to say," Smith said, "I respect your court but I want to say this district attorney has been named in the murder plot conspiracy. I refuse to respect him. I refuse to be questioned. When a man who has not shared in the conspiracy, asks me questions I will answer them. I worship my hero."

District Attorney Odom rose. "I care nothing for his opinion of me or my acts but if he or anybody else says I engaged in any plot to kill Senator Huey P. Long he is a plain, willful, malicious liar," he declared. Mere applause sounded.

Smith was then excused from the witness stand.

The room held half a dozen of Long's former bodyguards and they came to their feet during the scene between Smith and Odom. The district attorney's agents who were there in number likewise were on their feet.

The tension was broken when the district attorney laughed and called the next witness to the stand.
