HUTSON SAYS LEAF PRICES ABOVE PARITY

Suggests Slower Marketing As Aid to Better Tobacco Averages

Washington, Sept. 25. — (AP) — Slowing up of marketing was proposed today by J. B. Hutson, farm administration tobacco chief, to representatives of North Carolina tobacco growers as a possible way to increase the 1935 flue-cured tobacco prices.

The delegation, headed by Governor Ehringhaus and Senator J. W. Bailey, protested that present flue-cured prices were too low. Hutson listened to a plan to regionalize parity for the crop put forward by President Roosevelt who had been asked to set up a $20,000,000 stabilizing fund to remove 100,000,000 pounds of flue-cured tobacco from the market at 20 cents a pound.

A committee composed of Dr. G. W. Forster, of North Carolina State College, Frank Parker, North Carolina agricultural statistician, and members of the flue-cured tobacco advisory committee was named to study whether it would be better to change the method of determining parity. The matter of parity was brought up when Hutson said prices were above the parity level.

After questions by Ehringhaus and Bailey as to what could be done to increase prices Hutson replied it was possible a slowing up of marketing and holding scrap from the warehouse floors might help. He estimated that through September 30 55,000,000 pounds or more of flue-cured tobacco would have been sold during any other past marketing period up to that time.

Hutson blames the protest against prices on the fact that flue-cured tobacco sold at forty per cent above parity last year.

Washington, Sept. 25. — (AP) — S. Clay Williams, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company board chairman, flatly denied today before a conference of growers' representatives that the downward trend of flue-cured prices was retaliation on the part of the manufacturers because the flue-cured processing tax was not removed.

Williams had just attributed this year's lower prices to inferior grades and shortened manufacturer's purchasing power because of continuation of the processing tax at 1.9 cents a pound. He explained that the manufacturers had anticipated elimination of the 4.2 cents a pound levy now in effect instead of a reduction which was ordered as of October 1.

Governor Ehringhaus of North Carolina, interrupted him to raise the point if the lower prices this year meant retaliation.

"There never has been a suggestion of retaliation," Williams answered angrily. "I am sorry you put that word into this conference."

Start Work on New Death House Soon

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Sept. 25. — Work on the remodeling of the "death house" at Central Prison here and the installation of the new gas-electric death chamber within it will start October 5, the State Highway and Public Works Commission notified Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus today. It was suggested to the Governor that if there were any executions scheduled between October 5 and November 20 that it would not be possible to carry them out since it will require at least six weeks to remodel the octagonal "death house" and install the new lethal gas chamber, which can also be used for electrocutions. As a result, it is expected that temporary reprieves will be granted to all those prisoners on "death row" which are now scheduled to be executed between October 5 and November 20.

At the present time, four men are scheduled to be electrocuted on October 4, the largest number ever slated to be executed in one day. Three of these are doomed to die for the same murder. Since the Governor has rarely permitted more than one execution on the same day, although in one case three men were executed the same day. Three of the four scheduled to die October 4 are white boys from Madison county — Orris Gunter, Robert Thomas and Arthur Gosnell — who murdered an aged country storekeeper and robbed him of about $70. The fourth is Robert Dunlop, negro, of Buncombe county, convicted of poisoning two women and a child. Commissioner of Prisons Edwin M. Gill declined to comment today on the cases of any of these four scheduled to be executed October 4, but the belief is that one or

MAKE EFFORT TO IDENTIFY WOMAN'S BODY

Husband of Missing Woman Held Pending Identification of Body

Waynesboro, Va., Sept. 25. — (AP) — W. T. Martin, of North Carolina, husband of a young woman Martin said disappeared in an automobile with a stranger while he was purchasing tobacco in Vanceboro, N. C. August 10, was placed in Augusta County Jail at Staunton last night pending further questioning as to her disappearance. It was learned today.

Questioned at length upon arrival here yesterday from North Carolina by officers, it was said he assured them that the body of the young woman found in the Neuse river near Kinston, N. C. was not that of his missing wife. Officers said, however, he had not seen the body which already has been buried.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lotts, parents of Mrs. Martin, left Augusta county at two o'clock this morning in company with Deputy Sheriff W. F. Coyner for Kinston where they will view the body found by Congressman Barden, of that state, lodged against a Neuse river bridge.

Authorities in North Carolina have said that identification of the body itself would be difficult because of its condition but that the woman's clothing was better preserved.

THREE ARRESTED FOR VIOLATION GAME LAWS

Cecil Jones, county game warden, today announced the arrest of J. C. Abernethy and Jack Allen yesterday for hunting squirrel out of season, and the arrest of J. M. Tripp of Wayne county, for fishing without license.

The defendants were fined in magistrate's court.

Little Optimism Over Leaf Pilgrimage to Washington

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Sept. 25. — Observers here are not very optimistic as to the results of the pilgrimage made to Washington today by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, Senator Josiah C. B. Bailey, several Congressmen and numerous tobacco farmers, in an effort to secure better tobacco prices. They doubt very much if officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture or of the AAA have undergone any material change of heart since the mass meeting of tobacco farmers here last Saturday when Chief J. B. Hutson of the tobacco division of the AAA indicated that he and most of the AAA officials in Washington believed the farmers were getting as good prices as could be expected.

"It is impossible to tell what will be the result of this trip to Washington, but unless sentiment has changed among AAA officials within the last few days, it does not appear that it will do much good," Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus said.

Captain Farmer Pleased With Patrol Force

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Sept. 25. — Hundreds of pitiful letters from highway patrol "pinchees" are pouring in on Captain Charles D. Farmer, commander of the State Highway Patrol as a result of the manner in which patrolmen have been "bearing down" in the enforcement of the motor vehicle laws recently. And these letters fairly make Captain Farmer beam.

"When we get lots of letters kicking about the highway patrol, we know the boys are on the job and out doing their duty," Captain Farmer said today. "But when the letters of complaint turn into letters of praise for the patrolman in certain sections, we immediately become suspicious, for it is almost impossible for an efficient law enforcement officer to become popular with the general public. So as long as the letters continue to pour in complaining because the patrolmen are enforcing the motor vehicle laws, we can be sure that the boys are carrying out their orders."

One irate farmer wrote a five-page letter of protest because he had been cited by a patrolman for not having a tail light after having been warned once before by a patrolman to have it fixed. The writer admitted he did not have a bulb in the tail light of his car but insisted that he did not need it because he did not drive much at night, anyway. He asked Captain Farmer to write a letter to the Judge, asking the Judge to dismiss the charges, although he admitted in his letter that he was guilty.

Patrolmen are getting good results in their drive on car owners who have been operating their cars with Georgia instead of North Carolina licenses, Captain Farmer said. Unless the drivers of these cars can prove they are actual residents of Georgia, they are required to purchase North Carolina license tags. Most of them maintain they are traveling for some concern in Atlanta and thus entitled to use Georgia tags. But such excuses are not being accepted.

In the sixth century no Hellenic city could compare with Sybaris for wealth and splendor.

News Behind The News

Washington

By RAY TUCKER

PLOWMAN: A self-appointed inspection committee of business men stopped off at Topeka recently to look over Governor Alf Landon of Kansas—the 1935-model Coolidge who is touted as a GOP presidential candidate in 1936. They liked him.

They exchange confidences with Big Business buddies when they reached Washington and the directors' meeting of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce—and they reported as follows: Gov. Landon is a practical, hard-working man with no flourishes and ruffles. He has no flair or personality that would capture public interest or imagination. But he has done a tidy job of running the state's finances and squeezing a penny before he spends it, personally and officially.

He might be, they whispered, the

MOORESVILLE MILL STRIKE CONTINUES

Patrolmen Aid In Quelling Disturbance by Strikers Late Yesterday

Mooreville, Sept. 25. — (AP) — Peace, enforced by two scores of highway patrolmen and deputies, ruled the strike torn Mooreville cotton mill here today after an afternoon and night of fistfighting, demonstration and parades that landed four textile workers in jail on charges of affray.

37 patrolmen were rushed here during the night to augment deputies already stationed about the mill, after nearly 600 men, women and children staged a demonstration and parade late yesterday and after a number of fist fights between the active workers and strikers or sympathizers.

The mill, running a shift consolidated from night and day forces, continued operations today on the same schedule it had maintained since the strike was called Monday.

No one was seriously hurt in the affrays, police said. The men arrested are now free on bond.

The strike was called Monday by union leaders because of alleged discrimination against union men.

On full time the mill employed between 1,600 and 1,800 but recently operations have been curtailed and mill officials said the force now numbered about 600. Officials said this number was now at work as a full daylight force and that night work had been temporarily abandoned.

W. F. Summers, superintendent of the mill, said the parades threw bricks and stones at his home but no damage was done.

Pickets surrounded the mill in great numbers today and were very active in attempting to keep workers from entering the mill but patrolmen and deputies seemed a bulwark against any immediate trouble.

Union leaders announced a mass meeting would be held late today and said R. R. Lawrence, president of the state federation of labor would address the meeting.

LEAF SALES ARE LIGHTER HERE TODAY

981,834 Pounds Sold Yesterday for Average of $20.21 Per Hundred

The day's average price on the tobacco market here yesterday was below the high average established Monday but observers said that, included in yesterday's sales was a lot of carry-over and poorer grades of tobacco. The price on the new offerings and the better grades was said to be about the same as on Monday.

Official figures for yesterday's sales were 981,834 pounds for $198,442.37, an average price of $20.21 per hundred.

Offerings were light again today but first sales indicated a strengthening of prices over yesterday and comparing favorably with Monday's prices when the season's highest average, $21.38 per hundred was set up.

Late News Flashes

Asks Withdrawal Recognition

Municipal Auditorium, St. Louis, Sept. 25. — (AP) — The American Legion today asked the United States to withdraw its recognition of Soviet Russia. The delegates cheered as J. J. Twomey, of Massachusetts, chairman of the committee on Americanism, offered the resolution.

Cleveland was awarded the 1936 annual convention of the Legion. After commending the Legion for the national defense acts passed by the last congress, the convention adopted a report calling for a concentration of national defense methods. The resolution urged a standing army of 165,000 enlisted men with 14,000 officers, augmented by 210,000 national guardsmen and continuation of the officers training camps, CMTC and ROTC in the schools. A speedy navy on a parity with any in the world manned by 90,000 enlisted men and 15,000 officers and a new naval training ship were also recommended.

DEADLOCK IN COAL STRIKE

"No Progress" Is Reported from Conference of Negotiators Today

Washington, Sept. 25. — (AP) — The soft coal miners and operators remained deadlocked in their wage negotiations today as United Mine Workers continued the widespread strike they began Monday morning.

The negotiating committee gathered in another session this morning but there was no indication of an immediate break in the impasse.

"No progress," was reported by Van A. Blitner, Southern West Virginia president of the miners union, as he emerged from the conference room last night.

SAY COUNTY SYSTEM ONLY WAY TO PROTECT DRY COUNTIES

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Sept. 25. — The present county liquor control laws, under which some 50 liquor stores are now operating in 17 counties, offer the only means whereby counties may be assured of local self government and thus retain the right to say whether liquor shall or shall not be sold, it was being pointed out here today, the belief is growing stronger day by day that the State Supreme Court will uphold the constitutionality of the present county liquor laws when it finally hands down its opinion on the appeals now before it involving the constitutionality of these laws. A good many observers here are now expecting these county liquor laws to be upheld by a four-to-one decision by the court.

A good many people who formerly were bitterly opposed to the present county liquor control laws and who favored instead a state-wide liquor control law, as well as a good many prohibitionists, have now come around to the conclusion that the present county control or county option system of liquor control may be the best after all. For those who have heretofore favored a state-wide control and liquor stores plan now agree that such a system might tend to destroy local self government and result in the opening of liquor stores in counties and communities that are still "dry" and which do not want liquor stores. The "drys" are also beginning to realize this and to see that the only hope they have of keeping the entire state from becoming "wet" is for the Supreme Court to uphold the present county liquor laws, which permit each county to decide by a vote of the people within the county, whether it will have liquor stores or remain "dry" under the Turlington Act.

If the Supreme Court should hold the present county liquor laws unconstitutional, it would mean that the next general assembly would undoubtedly enact a state-wide liquor control and liquor stores (Continued on Page Three)

NO SESSION OF CIVIL COURT THIS MORNING

Sessions Halted Pending Outside Settlement of Bonding Company Case

Superior Court for the trial of civil cases marked time here this morning while attorneys endeavored to reach a compromise settlement in a suit of Dudley Reddick against the Great American Indemnity Company. The case was scheduled to come up for hearing in the court yesterday afternoon but would have been a long drawn out affair and taken probably two days of the courts time. Attorneys indicated that a compromise might be reached in the case so Judge W. C. Harris set today's session of court for two o'clock this afternoon at which time the attorneys could report their progress.

Yesterday morning the court began the hearing of a suit by W. C. Elks and wife against W. H. Arnold and wife in which the plaintiffs sought to recover land alleged to have been deeded to the Arnolds under duress. After the hearing had taken more than two hours of the court's time the case was ordered continued.

A verdict in favor of the defendants was ordered in the W. M. Evans will case following presentation of the plaintiff's evidence and notice of appeal was given. Evans died in 1911 and the executor died in 1912 and the case was brought to trial this year. The defense pleaded statute of limitations and the court upheld the plea and ordered the verdict.

A land case brought by L. H. Worthington against Frank Harris for recovery of land that Harris had bought in under deed of trust was settled by the plaintiff recovering the land upon payment to Harris of the sum of $1,250 the amount due Harris. The deed which Harris held on the land was declared voidable because he was the interested party to the deed of trust and made the purchase at the sale for what was termed a nominal price.

BOUND OVER ON CHARGES OF ROBBERY

Negro Sent to Higher Court for Eight Robberies Committed in This City

Arthur Johnson, local negro, known in colored circles as "Drug Store Clim," was today bound over to Superior Court under bond of $4,000 as a result of at least eight robberies he is alleged to have committed here within the past few weeks.

When Johnson was captured in Williamston Sunday after entering several business houses here Saturday night, officers recovered considerable stolen property. Since that time officers have traced and recovered six pistols stolen from the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company here; some watches stolen from Lautares store, dry goods and clothing store from Penney's store, Miss Lowe's store and the Perkins Company here. Stolen goods recovered at the time of the arrest included fountain pens from Home Building and Loan office and Lautares store, and one of the pistols stolen from the bank. The officers found four of the pistols in Williamston, one in Beaufort county, and one in New Bern. Johnson is alleged to have sold the weapons in these places.

Given preliminary hearing before Mayor Flanagan this morning the negro was bound over to higher court and placed in jail pending furnishing $4,000 bond.

LEAGUE IS PESSIMISTIC

Italy Declares It Will Not Be The First to Transfer Conflict to Europe

(By Associated Press)

Two striking developments in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute originated today in Rome and Addis Ababa the capitals of the two opposing nations.

The Italian government announced officially that Italy would never be the first to transfer the conflict to Europe. Almost simultaneously Emperor Haile Selassie asked the League of Nations to send a neutral commission to Ethiopia to determine who might be the aggressor in event of hostilities. The emperor said Ethiopia would abide by the findings of such a commission.

The Italian announcement included a communication from Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign minister, in which he said he was "particularly desirous of eliminating all useless misunderstandings" between Italy and Great Britain.

New pessimism was projected into Geneva by publication of the Italian official observations which included the charge that the League of Nations in its attempt to avert war had failed to take into consideration Italy's case against Ethiopia.

With the Ethiopian "festival of Mascal"—end of the rainy season—close at hand the situation grew tense on the border between the black empire and the Italian colonies of Somaliland and Eritrea.

Official Seek Clear Confusion In Tax Laws

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 25. — City and county tax collectors, attorneys, and accountants throughout the State are holding a series of District conferences this week with a view to clearing up the wide confusion regarding tax law and procedure.

The first meeting in the series, which was arranged by the Institute of Government, was held in Rocky Mount with 40 officials, representing 10 counties and 22 towns in attendance, and was pronounced a distinct success.

Burlington was host to the conference for the northwest central district yesterday. Meetings for the other six districts follow in Newton today (Court House, 12:30 p. m.), Gastonia Thursday (City Hall, 2 p. m.), Fayetteville next Tuesday, (Steve's Cafe, 1 p. m.), and Williamston next Wednesday (George Reynolds Hotel, 1 p. m.).

Henry Brandis, Jr., of the Institute staff, who is leading the discussion, has also been commissioned by the officials to prepare a guidebook analyzing the statutes, decisions, and Attorney General's ruling dealing with the problems involved in tax collection and enforcement, together with practical methods for dealing with them.

The district meetings are the outgrowth of a conference between a group of county and city attorneys and members of The Institute's staff with Attorney General A. A. P. Seawell, who was enthusiastic over the idea.

"The practical discussion of these laws and procedures in district meetings," said Mr. Seawell "will be productive in very valuable results in clarifying the existing confusion and in giving county and city attorneys and tax collectors officials the most valuable assistance in setting a uniform understanding of these problems at a time when it is most needed."

YEGGS TAKE $5,000 FROM BANK OF ASHE

Waco, Jefferson, Sept. 25. — (AP) — Yeggs cut into the safe of the Bank of Ashe, Asheville yesterday and escaped with a sum estimated by W. H. Wooten, the bank president, at $5,000.

An anatomical torch was used to cut a hole in the back of the safe about two and one-half feet from the top. The metal was still warm when the torch was discovered the robbery at 7 a. m.

Mr. Wooten said the bank had not been determined as bank officials have waiting the arrival of an insurance company agent to make a final check. The institution carried fire and burglary insurance.

HUEY LONG: Success Story Of A Louisiana Plowboy

No. 3

Huey Long's term in the U. S. senate began March 4, 1931, but his seat remained vacant 10 months while he engineered the election of his successor at Baton Rouge—Governor O. K. Allen. Long scorned the tradition that new senators should be seen and not heard. Before most newcomers had learned their way about capitol corridors, Huey was declaiming his "share-the-wealth" plan and denouncing his party's senate leader, Senator Joseph T. Robinson.

Early in 1932, Senator Long, with one of his habitually bold strokes upset another political custom. He had himself named Democratic national committeeman and took a flat-footed stand for Roosevelt before the convention started. A form arose at the convention in Chicago when the committee's credentials were questioned, but Long mustered sufficient strength to dispel the clouds and the Louisiana delegation was seated. It was the first victory of Roosevelt backers in the national convention.

With the tireless energy that characterized all of his activity, Long turned from the national convention to months of campaigning. He equipped a sound truck, printed thousands of pamphlets and struck into Arkansas to stump the state in behalf of Mrs. Hattie Caraway. He returned to Louisiana to wage a campaign for his friend, John Overton. He took his sound truck and bales of literature and headed for the Dakotas, there to wage a stump battle for Roosevelt.

Back home the muddy waters of revolt were spreading over the senator's empire. The legislature's huge tax program for 1932, covering the $29,000,000 expenditures of Huey's reign in 1931, locked the flood. Long battled the deluge until the climax came in January, 1933, when the opposition demanded a special session from Governor Allen. The militia was called out, there was rioting, but the smoke cleared to find Long more firmly entrenched than ever.

It was when this storm was blowing to its climax that Senator Long injected a new note into the drama—the investigation of the alleged plot to assassinate him. At conclusion of the investigation, the senator claimed to have proved his point. As if he had a definite premonition of the way his life would end, Long throughout his career went heavily guarded. In Louisiana he sometimes marched with a squad of militia surrounding him. Always he had handpicked crack gunmen near him.

LOUIS ON WAY TO GOAL AS WORLD CHAMP

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—It looks like a non-stop flight to the top of the pugilistic heap for the Brown Bomber. There remained but one day not the slightest doubt about the two fisted Joe Louis, at least in the minds of the more than 90,000 onlookers who saw the 21-year-old Detroit negro on his bridal evening gown down the once magnificent Max Baer with a punching blow as deadly as machine gun fire.

Never wasting a blow and rarely slackening his punching pace that has had few equals in heavyweight history, Louis knocked out the former champion in the fourth round of what was to have been a 15-round match that revived all the glories of pugilism in its near million dollars at Yankee stadium.

It was a great heavyweight show but also one of the most one-sided top flight heavyweight matches since the great Tex Rickard died and the great Jack Dempsey retired.

Wolfpack Goes Through Last Scrimmage Today

College Station, Raleigh, Sept. 25.—The State College Wolfpack will scrimmage today for the last time this week before meeting Davidson Saturday night in Greensboro's Memorial Stadium.

The game, the first on State's schedule, will begin at 8 o'clock.

In today's scrimmage, the No. 1 and No. 2 teams will take turns at bucking a No. 3 club using Davidson plays. Coach Hunk Anderson said, "The Wolves have been looking at Davidson plays since Monday afternoon."

The Wildcats' pass offense has been studied more than any other part of Davidson's offense as Anderson believes Davidson will use the air quite frequently Saturday evening.

If the Wolves come out of today's scrimmage without injury, they will be in good shape for the Davidson game with the exception of Nick Hayden, monogram back, and Al

At The State Wednesday-Thursday

Edwards, regular right tackle, Hayden and Edwards have been on the shelf for more than a week with serious injuries.

Anderson hasn't made any definite announcements as to the eleven men he will start Saturday, but the club he uses today as the No. 1 team will probably get the call. It most likely will be: Max Cara and Jess Tatum, ends; E. V. Helms and Carl Goode, tackles; Captain Barnes Worth and Alex Regdon, guards; the brilliant Steve Sabol, center; Joe Schwerdt, quarterback; Cowboy Robinson and Eddie Berlinski, halfbacks, and Joe Ryenska, fullback.

Should Anderson start this team it will be the most inexperienced team ever to start a game for State. Only two men—Captain Worth and Sabol—were in the 1934 starting line-up.

Aerial Battie Foreseen In Coming Contest

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 25.—Carolina's first defense of its state football crown will more than likely turn out to be an air battle if what the Tar Heels have been doing in practice and what Wake Forest did in the Duke game are any indication.

The Tar Heels will enter the melee Saturday afternoon at 2:30 on Kenan turf as slight favorites, although everybody is expecting a hard tussle from the Demon Deacons. Coach Carl Snavely is leaving no stone unturned in getting ready for the Waiver proteges.

All this week the Tar Heels will be working on passing, both defense and offense. The Deacons showed last Saturday night that they possess a fancy aerial attack which clicks with an amazing regularity. The men backing up the Carolina line have been drilled overtime on the defense against such air maneuvers.

At the same time Coach Snavely has pushed work on his own passing attack. Don Jackson, Tom Burnette, Jim Hutchins and Dick Dashiell have been doing most of the passing this week and Crowell Little, providing he is back in shape for the Deacon clash, will do his share of the tossing.

SPORT SLANTS

Waning days of the pennant races afford the fans an opportunity to look over the more promising rookies who will make their bids for major league berths next spring. Unfamiliar names appear on the box scores. Contenders seek to bolster their forces as well as the trailing teams, with the result that the rookie crop is on preview.

Bill Terry was so impressed with Harry Gumbert, his new right-hander from Baltimore, that he took the long chance and started him in the opening game of the crucial series with the Chicago Cubs. The result was not what Terry hoped for. Gumbert started fairly well, but when the Cubs' sluggers found the range the rookie was shelved out.

The St. Louis Cardinals recalled Jim Winford, right hand pitcher, Pat Ankenman, shortstop, and Mike Ryba, pitcher and all-round star, from the Columbus Red Birds. All were ordered to St. Louis to be on hand in case of emergency. Ryba piloted the Red Birds while Ray Blades was under suspension recently.

CO-CAPT. MONTGOMERY BACK

Harry Montgomery, co-captain and field general of Carolina's football team, which meets Wake Forest at Chapel Hill Saturday, is a better player than his famous brother Cliff who led Columbia's Liens to Rose Bowl fame, according to the verdict of one New York sports columnist. The New York writer may have exaggerated a wee bit, but Harry is smart and fast and has the confidence of his team mates.

vided of course, that he shows more than the other candidates. Cooney set the pace in the American Association with a neat mark of .338.

In the American League the veteran Connie Mack has been a leader in trotting out his new talent, particularly his pitching prospects. First came Doyle, then Turbelle. Later Ferazli, a Swiss hurler, was tried out. They were followed by Eaves and Huckleberry. In desperation Connie has been willing to take a chance on anyone claiming to be a pitcher and possessing a glove.

Manager Joe McCarthy summoned Don Heffner, second baseman, and Nolan Richardson, shortstop from the Newark farm.

Scores National Recognition

The following article which will be of interest to Greenville people, was taken from the Gainesville, Florida, "Daily Sun." Mrs. Buchholz was formerly Miss Emma Hardee of this city:

"The 1935 edition of 'American Women,' the official Who's Who among American women, will be off the press this month.

"Mrs. Emmaline Buchholz, many friends will be glad to know that she has been singularly honored in that she becomes a part of the permanent of American women who have made unusual advances in the various fields. The position held by women in every phase of contemporary American life is unique in the world. They have entered every department of civic life and charitable work: education, government, commerce, industry, art, drama, music, literature, the professions, recreations, and other occupations which a century ago were the exclusive province of men. In many cases they have made unusual advancements in many special lines and have been accepted in practically every field of endeavor as the equal, and in cases, the superior of the male.

"Need for a permanent record of these women and their achievement is obvious. Serving that purpose, 'American Women' is compiled and edited by Durward Howes. Biographies of hundreds of distinguished women will appear on the pages of this book, including such names as Jane Adams, Grace Abbott, Cecilia Beas, Martha McClesney Berry, Mrs. Edward Booth, Evangeline Booth, Gellie McDowell Boman, Willa Catha, Carrie Chapman Catt, Edna Woolman Chase, Ada Louise Comstock, Kathryn Cornell, Amelia Earhart, Jary Garden, Isabella Selmes Greenway, Fannie Hurst, Helen Hull Jacobs, Helen Adams Keller, Anne Morrow Lindbergh.

"Mrs. Buchholz' creative painting and pioneer work in Florida art organizations, which began in 1917, bring national recognition to her and places her name with those of women who have attained. She has been awarded several first and second prizes for portraits and landscapes in highly competitive contests. Her one-man-show has been on circuit two years. At the same time her work has been an exhibition in Northern galleries.

"Mrs. Buchholz has served on art juries and been guest speaker at clubs in the state. She was founder of the Florida Federation of Art, its organizing president and is now honorary president and life member of the Florida Federation of Art. She is also founder of the Gainesville Little Theatre, co-founder of the Gainesville Association of Fine Arts, and was its second president for two years. In 1933 Mrs. Buchholz founded the Gainesville Art Gallery.

White Is Host To Chevrolet Organization

As a result of the large increase in sales of Chevrolet cars and trucks during the month of August, J. J. White, president of the White Chevrolet Company, had as dinner guests Tuesday evening at the Woman's Club, the entire selling organization of the White Chevrolet Company of Greenville, and the B. & W. Chevrolet Company of Farmville, to express his appreciation of their marvelous sales performance.

Attending the dinner, in addition to the selling organization, were the wives of all the salesmen.

Mr. White expressed his appreciation for the loyalty and cooperation which his organization has displayed at all times, and announced that a tremendous sales campaign commencing September 24th and running up to and including October 15th, would be launched during the evening program. Looking forward during the next thirty days, Mr. White explained that business conditions appeared to be very bright indeed, and that the sales of Chevrolets should show a material increase. Several short talks were made by members of the White Chevrolet Company and the B. & W. Chevrolet Company expressing their appreciation for having the opportunity to participate in the evening's entertainment, and, forecasting increases in the sale of Chevrolets in their territory.

Judd Smith, branch manager of General Motors Acceptance Corporation of Raleigh, was present at the dinner and expressed on behalf of G. M. A. C. his appreciation of the business the Greenville and Farmville dealers contributed to the branch volume. T. J. McCarty, district manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company with headquarters in Greenville, congratulated the selling organizations for the wonderful job they did in the month of August, and also thanked them for the sales which he anticipated would result through their efforts during the next thirty days.

The tremendous sales drive sponsored by Mr. White for the Greenville and Farmville Chevrolet organizations, starting September 24 and ending at midnight on October 15th, was outlined by E. C. Atkinson, sales promotion manager of Chevrolet Motor Co. of Charlotte. It was pointed out that this sales campaign was very unique in character and the first time that it had ever been sponsored by a Chevrolet dealer in the United States. Mr. Atkinson stated that the big purpose, other than that of entertaining, in requesting the ladies to be present, was to realize that they would be the backbone around which the sales campaign would be built. The efforts the wives of the salesmen put forth in encouraging their husbands to make more sales during this campaign than ever before, would in a large measure determine the success of the sales drive. For the first time in history, it was explained, the wives of the salesmen would benefit directly through the medium of prizes offered for the sales accomplishments of their husbands, as in the past all such prizes have been offered directly to the men themselves. The prizes awarded would be based around the unusual feature known as the Dress-Up Campaign, whereas the sale of new and used cars will count a certain number of points and entitle the wives of the salesmen to receive certain wearing apparel. Provided the salesman sells a sufficient number of new and used cars during the campaign to total the necessary number of points, his wife will be the receiver of an entire outfit from head to foot. In the event the salesman fails to sell a sufficient number of cars to secure the entire outfit of wearing apparel, only those garments won will be presented to the salesman's wife.

In an effort to add interest to the drive, a party will be staged at the end of the campaign on October 15th, which will be attended by all the salesman's wives, and each of them will wear to the party only those pieces of wearing apparel which have been presented to them as a result of the number of sales made by their husbands. It was pointed out that the spirit and fun of the party would be in having the agreement of all the ladies to wear exactly what their husbands had won for them to the party—nothing more, nothing less. It was specifically stated that the party would be for the ladies only, and no men would be present. Such a sales program, stated Mr. Atkinson, would undoubtedly be of great interest to the salesmen and their wives, and one which should encourage the best efforts of the entire Greenville and Farmville Chevrolet selling organizations towards making additional sales.

Approximately 85 persons attended the dinner and towards the end of the meeting a number of prizes awarded the ladies by Mr. White. The distribution of the prizes was conducted by W. W. Lee.

law, since this would be the only way these counties which want to continue to have liquor stores can have them, and experienced political observer said here today. "For if the counties are denied the right to operate county liquor stores under the present law, they will then be forced to adopt a state-wide liquor stores and liquor control law as the next best plan. There is no doubt that there would be a majority in the next general assembly for such a plan, since almost all of the present 'dry' counties contiguous to these counties which now have liquor stores have observed the experiment in their neighboring counties and decided they would like to have liquor stores, too.

"But under a state-wide liquor control set-up, the state ABC board could decide to open stores even in counties that might not want them, with the result that even those counties which want to remain dry could not do so. As a result, the only way the Supreme court can assure the 'dry' counties which want to remain 'dry' of being able to do so and protect them against having liquor stores established in them, regardless of whether they want them or not, is for it to uphold the present county liquor control laws.

Since the Supreme Court has always held that the general assembly might pass special legislation for counties that wanted it, exempting those counties which did not want it, the belief is growing that the Supreme Court will uphold the present county liquor laws.

For these county liquor laws, do nothing more than exempt certain counties from the old Turlington Act after the people in the counties vote for such exemption. These laws would have been equally constitutional—perhaps even more so—if they had exempted these counties without a vote of the people. At any rate, it is agreed by most lawyers and laymen alike that the county liquor laws are in full accordance with the principle of local self government and that for years the general assembly has been passing similar laws, few of which have ever been questioned as to their constitutionality.

It is also agreed that many of the "drys" have begun to wake up to the situation and to hope now that the Supreme Court will hold these laws constitutional, since they see that if it does not the minority of "dry" counties which still want to prohibit the sale of liquor may have liquor stores forced on them.

Tennessee's automobile license plates next year will be designed against an outline of the state's map.

COLLEGE NEWS

Freshmen registered in a steady stream today at East Carolina Teachers College and tomorrow the old seniors will register. Everything is so well organized that registration will be completed by the end of the day tomorrow and classes will begin Friday morning.

All the members of the faculty were in place today, after having been scattered throughout the country for vacations or for work. There are only two new members of the faculty here for the opening.

Miss Lucille Norton, who will have charge of the Physical Education Department, has her B. S. and A. M. degrees from Peabody College and has had experience in teaching, coming straight from the summer school of East Tennessee Teachers College, at Johnson City. She is from Nashville.

Miss Marjorie Patchell, of Denton, Texas, takes the place in the art department of Miss Ruth Bonowitz, who has a year's leave of absence for travel and study. Miss Patchell spent last year doing graduate work at Columbia University, from which institution she received her M. A. Degree. She taught in the past summer in North Texas State Teachers' College, at Denton, and formerly taught in the Stephen F. Austin Teachers' College.

Miss Catherine Cassidy, after a year's leave of absence spent in graduate study at Western Reserve University, has returned to her place in the Science Department. She made an extended trip into New England late in the summer.

Miss Bowen, secretary of the Appointment Bureau, has not been able to leave her desk for a vacation either.

M. L. Wright conducted a travel-study course in Government and Sociology between terms. Forty students spent about three weeks studying these subjects first-hand in New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

Mr. Cummings, after spending some time in Trenton, Tenn., came back by way of Chicago, Fort Wayne, Pittsburgh and Washington. Mr. Picklesimer did graduate work at Peabody, taking a little vacation in Kentucky. Dr. Hayes enjoyed life on his father's farm, near Clermont, Georgia. Dr. Adams and Dr. ReBarker were in the North Carolina mountains for some time. Mr. Deal, after an illness, recuperated at Atlantic Beach, Messrs. Henderson, Hollar, Fort, the Spillmans and Dr. Slay made their homes in Greenville headquarters during their vacation.

Miss Holtzclaw studied at Chicago University and Miss Kuykendall studied at Columbia University. WOMAN'S WEAK, NERVOUS CONDITION HELPED BY CARDUI
In thousands of cases where Cardui has been taken to help women overcome monthly discomfort, it has been reported to have been of valuable assistance. "Before I began using Cardui, I was so weak that when I closed my eyes I felt like I was going to fall," writes Mrs. J. W. Harris, of Pelzer, S. C. "I was very nervous and had a pain in my side. At times I would have to go to bed. This made me more nervous as I had six children and there is always work on a farm. My mother had taken Cardui and told me to try it. I took six bottles, after which I was up and able to do all my work, washing and ironing. I have nothing but praise for Cardui." Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

York City. While its Washington office distributes pamphlets assailing the New Deal, the New York managers will launch an attack with speakers, magazine articles and private meetings. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce will cover another sector with three great sectional conventions and, almost daily denunciations by President Harper Sibley. Their song will be that the people should place their trust for a full dinner pail in business rather than political leaders. Silas S. Brown, Chicago attorney, pulls the levers.
With the troops taking to the trenches already, political experts anticipate the most bitter presidential campaign since the Bryan-McKinley brawl in 1896. The 1928 Hoover-Smith duel won't match the 1936 affair, according to the prophets. For next year's battle will be a pocketbook malice.

JOKER: After two years of fame the Republicans anticipate a larger campaign fund than they had when Hill Hays collected $3,000,000 to elect Warren G. Harding. GOP collectors received word this week that a leading automobile maker once friendly to the President has offered to contribute $1,000,000—count 'em—to the opposition. What's more, he has guaranteed that two friends—one a banker, the other a manufacturer—will come across with the same amount. These, of course, are purely political contributions. They don't take into account the funds which the American Liberty League, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers will spend to defeat Mr. Roosevelt or—choice half-loaf—to elect an unsympathetic House of Representatives.
But the New Dealers have a trick up their sleeve that was never used before. They may require supposedly non-political organizations to file their contributions and expenditures with the clerk of the House of Representatives. That's a counter-thrust which free spenders must count on.

APPEAL: A certain philosophical, peace-inclined Cabinet member—you can guess who it is—may soon deliver the most sensational speech the world has heard on the eve of possible war profits to the nation addressed. Whether he begs American farmers to place peace ahead of profits may depend upon President Roosevelt.
If he follows his advisers' suggestions, he will urge the producers of wheat and cotton and hogs to subscribe wholeheartedly to the crusade to keep the United States out of a possible world war. He will ask them to forego high prices which may result from foreign demands, especially as it appears that their products may not be placed on the embargo list. In short, he will suggest sacrifices which no growers have ever made before.
The speech has been outlined but not written. It delivered and adhered to it may have more effect than all the abortive peace pacts and courts and leagues. It might make new history.

REASON: The administration has never proclaimed its anti-trust policy in so many words since the Supreme Court's abrogation of the NRA. At that time President Roosevelt painted the blackest possible picture, intimating that the lid would be clamped down on mergers, elimination of wastefully competing services and similar cooperative benefits.
That turns out to be a passing and momentary phase. In discussing changes in the Pittsburgh-plus system of basing steel prices John Dickinson has let the corporation cat out of his briefcase. The Assistant Attorney General explained in technical verbiage that the anti-trust statutes will be enforced only when winking at them hurts the public definitely and damagingly. They will not be invoked to block advantageous industrial consolidations.

Thus Mr. Dickinson sets up a new and progressive "rule of reason." He proclaims in effect that certain corporation actions in themselves violate of the letter of the law may be held to be in the public interest. He talks just like John Garfield, Sargent and William Mitchell. You may not remember them, but they were Attorney General under Messrs. Coolidge and Hoover.

BENEFACTORY: Bystanders need not be surprised if Herbert Hoover comes out at the proper time—which would still be some months ahead—for Colonel Frank Knox. Well-posted sources figure that will be the logical outcome of his activity in trying to line up state delegations.
The more so as the ex-President mops up in advance the fewer favorite sons will crop up at convention time to complicate matters. Moreover the bloc of Hoover delegates—while very unlikely to be strong enough to force the ex-President's nomination—will quite probably suffice to turn the tide in favor of any candidate to whom they are switched.
This would give Mr. Hoover at least the satisfaction—since he can't be named himself—of virtually

SYNOPSIS: Emily Felton has at last taken steps to divorce the terrifyingly upright Edwin Barges, whose five honesty is overbalanced by his mental ineptness. Emily has won her father and mother to her side, has found herself either the heroine of her home town or her decision, and has gone to visit her school friend, Judith, at Morton Hall, her husband's plantation. There is a little pain in the visit, however, because Judith's brilliant brother, David, is the man Emily first loved.

Chapter 27
CARROLLTON ONCE MORE
JUDITH grinned adoringly at young David. "His mother's sunny disposition," she chuckled. "Come on up and get the Alabama sand out of your ears."
While Emily bathed and changed, Judith lay flat on her back on a chaise longue and chattered incessantly.
She was incredibly unchanged; in appearance she looked the same mature and self-sufficient eighteen that she had been almost eight years ago. Suddenly she raised herself on one arm and looked keenly at Emily.
"Of course it's none of my business and I know I shouldn't ask, but I can't stand the strain any longer. Emily darling, you were so very vague in your letter; is this break permanent?"

"The sooner I get used to it, the better."
Emily nodded slowly. "Very." Judith collapsed on the couch and blinked at the ceiling. "Thank God! I knew it couldn't work and I'd been horribly afraid you were the kind who would grin and bear it to the bitter end."
"I might have," she confessed, "if I hadn't found out accidentally that he was doing the same thing. Not grinning, because he isn't that sort, but bearing it."
"Tell me about it," Judith commanded.
Emily told her, taking scrupulous care to recount her own share in the failure. Judith brushed that carelessly aside.
"I know; I know. You were just as much to blame as he was, but I'd have cast you off if you hadn't been." Her eyes sparkled. "This is better than I dared to hope. Now you can stay on indefinitely and we can have a gorgeous time!"
Emily protested laughingly. "We can't do everything your tone implies. I'm in a delicate position, remember."
"Not down here, you aren't. It's a position that this outfit will thoroughly understand and sympathize with."
"But do they have to know anything about it?" she asked in consternation. "I thought we wouldn't even mention it."
Judith scowled at her. "Have you, or have you not, left your husband? And if they know it in Elston it will leak down here sooner or later, so you may as well be brazen about it."
SHE sighed. "All right, I suppose the sooner I get used to it the better off I'll be."
Judith rose. "Dorinda will unpack the trunk and the rest of those things. Come on down and let me show you to Aubrey."
Emily had been prepared to like Aubrey Morton for Judith's sake, but she had reckoned without Judith's unerring instinct for people.
Aubrey was fatish, as Judith had said, with glasses and not much hair. He was barely as tall as Judith and was obviously ten or twelve years older, but you knew immediately that he was just the sort of man Judith should have married.
Behind the glasses his eyes were ly deciding who the nominee is to be. While he hasn't committed himself as to whom he will favor, Knox is rated the most likely beneficiary. Hoover never did have much use for Senators (such as Dickinson or Vandenberg), he wants to be sure the candidate is safely conservative, and it's known he thinks Knox is "all right."

DETERMINED: New York right wingers are casting about for some new and effective solution to the problem of how to beat Roosevelt. Huey Long's death shot a big hole in their campaign plan that needs to be filled. They haven't much faith in Hearst's Jefferson Democrats or any other conservative third party as an instrument to alienate enough Democratic votes to assure a GOP victory. Nor do they relish the prospect of a straight two party Republican-Roosevelt contest. There's always the chance that the mass of voters might not be as Constitution-minded as they would like.
One suggestion is being given a lot of consideration by backstage planners. It involves building up Budget Director Lew Douglas as a serious opponent of FDR for the

The Treasury was obviously supporting the government bond market in the early stages of the current—and final—Fourth Liberty bond conversion—and financial circles naturally expected that support to be maintained until the conversion was completed. But not so. Recent softening of prices indicates plainly that Uncle Sam's agencies have stepped out of the picture and are letting nature take its course.
New York observers can figure this out only on the basis that the Treasury wants to test the natural price levels for its securities when the stimulus of government buying orders is withdrawn. If that was the European contacts get a new slant on the Anglo-Italian-Ethiopian crisis which makes the outlook for peace more promising than current headlines would indicate.

They hear that France—desperately anxious to prevent Anglo-Italian hostilities—has engineered a proposal with which Britain is in accord to be offered to Mussolini after he has avenged the Adowa defeat. It would involve large credits to Italy from both French and English sources to exploit Ethiopian concessions in exchange for Il Duce's toning down his Mediterranean ambitions.
The plan hasn't been broached publicly yet because both French and English statesmen are reconciled to Mussolini's attitude that he must have one great military victory to wipe the Adowa blot from Italy's escutcheon. But once he has that victory he can afford to accept concessions—especially if they are dressed up to look like the fruits of military triumph. His face would be saved and his African expedition justified. Il Duce hasn't committed himself—but France and England are privately hopeful. After all, large credits would ease his domestic problems a lot.

Wars May Come But Ethiopia's 'Toy Railroad' Chugs Along On Same Semi-Weekly Schedule

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

Paris (AP)—War or no war, Ethiopia's only railroad plans to operate its two regular passenger trains a week, with stops overnight, its through boat trains whenever there is a boat at Djibouti, and freight trains as the traffic justifies.

Rail's dispute with Ethiopia up to now has made little difference to the French-owned line, which has not even had its carloadings increased by the munitions shipments, officials say.

They hope hostilities will not disrupt a traffic which has suffered already from the depression.

The dinky little trains of the narrow-gauge line between Djibouti and Addis Ababa might rival Europe's famous Orient Express, or an American transcontinental limited, for adventure, picturesqueness and glamor were it along the hard-worn routes of tourist travel.

Daylight Safety Factor.

Except for the through boat-trains which cover the 486 miles of the line's entire length in 27 to 33 hours during the dry season, it takes three days to make the journey, for daylight is an important safety factor on the Ethiopian line.

Wild tribes have been known to steal the ties from under the rails and the tropical torrents sometimes wash out track or dump boulders on it. Hence the regular passenger trains stop before sunrise.

Some indication of the adventure of railroad travel in Ethiopia, as the trains crawl through desert and mountains, climbing 7,900 feet to Addis Ababa, is afforded by the time table, available in Paris headquarters.

Guns Stop At Frontier

Travelers are warned by the time tables that guns are likely to be seized by the Ethiopian customs agents at Dire Dawa, the first overnight stop, for the importation of arms and ammunition is strictly forbidden without written permission of the government. This is more important than it seems, since big game hunting is the principal attraction the railroad has had to offer tourists.

Upon arriving at Djibouti, the passenger for Addis Ababa finds a boat-train awaiting him—there is a boat about once a week or he may wait for one of the regular trains leaving Tuesdays and Saturdays. These are made up of one car divided into first and second-class compartments and three or four third-class cars, with wooden seats in which travel the noisy natives.

Black porters put the passenger's baggage aboard the train at Djibouti at 5:30 a. m. and the trains start chugging, groaning and clattering from the Red Sea coast across the scorching desert to Dire Dawa, where it arrives at 6:10 p. m. to put up for the night.

Sleep on Buffet Cots

The traveler sleeps on a cot in the hot station buffet until time to start at 8:25 a. m. the second day's zigzagging climb to Awash. Arriving at Awash at 5:55 p. m., he again sleeps in the station buffet until he resumes his trip at 6:30 a. m. on the third morning to arrive finally at Addis Ababa at 4:30 in the afternoon.

Freight Just Now and Then.

Thus traveled 115,000 passengers last year, of whom 108,000 were white swathed natives in third class. For them the fare between Djibouti and Addis Ababa is $5.57, but for the European in second class it is $18.98 and the deluxe traveler in first class pays $39.10.

Freight trains, which take five days for the one-way trip, are made up only when enough goods accumulate to warrant the trip. There has been a slight increase in freight traffic this year, officials say, and perhaps this indicates the movement of war materials.

But the foreign embargoes against Ethiopia have, the officials assert, deprived the railroad of any heavy munitions traffic it might have expected.

A neutral railway operating a narrow gauge line into the heart of a war-torn country, may be the anomaly presented in Ethiopia. Officials of the French-owned line from Addis Ababa to Djibouti, Red Sea port in French Somaliland, have announced that they intend to keep trains moving even if Italy attacks the African Kingdom. The illustration shows passengers aboard the "European" white car" of the semi-weekly passenger train and Somali porters handling baggage at the frontier.

Negro Schools Doing Good Work

The negro schools of this city are in full swing and they are recognizing the responsibility that is theirs to the children and the taxpayers. We are this session emphasizing Carpentry, Brickwork, Painting, Plumbing and Electrical work and chair caning.

The courses pursued in the years that have passed have proven helpful, but school administrators everywhere are striving further to advance the interests of present day boys and girls by giving them instruction in those things that will fit them for earning a livelihood.

From a three-room wooden structure our school has grown into two modern buildings with thirty rooms and an auditorium.

The progress of school white or black is due largely to the types or type of superintendents, principals and teachers, who contact the taxpayers and make friends for the school. The men, who composed the City School Board were representative of our best white citizenship, and lead by far-sighted men, like Governor Jarvis, a close personal friend of the lamented Aycock, Hon. F. C. Harding, G. Edward Harris, Edward Graham Flanagan and James L. Little, businessmen and bankers.

The negro schools beginning in this city October 7, 1903, emphasized Labor with hands. We have through the efforts of our worthy superintendent, Prof. J. H. Rose placed in operation an Industrial Department with C. G. Mabry, director that will prove far reaching and helpful to the negro boys of our community. The real need of the negro of today is substantial aid in preparing the boys for living a useful life; one that will elevate his standards of living. The negro people through the years have made progress in cultivating pleasant relationship and by this means gain for themselves proper recognition without whining or complaint.

Ethiopia An 'Old Style' Monarchy

Chiefs Wield Great Power, And Priests Are Influential

By CHARLES NORMAN (Associated Press Staff Writer)

The Ethiopian empire is an old-fashioned absolute monarchy, whose provincial chieftains—called "Dejasmachtes" or generals, colorful in their headgear of lions' manes—wield great local power.

A road has to be built. A member of the royal family picks up a stone. Courtiers follow his example. The local chieftains fall in line. Soon thousands of Ethiopians are transporting stones, removing boulders, and the road begins to take shape.

The land over which Haile Selassie reigns as King of Kings comprises some 3,500,000 Abyssinians and 6,000,000 Gallas. The rest of the population, variously estimated at around 12,000,000, are Danakils and Somalis, tribes Menelik II conquered and subdued.

Less 'Worse' Case.

The religion of the black empire is Coptic Christianity. It is said when Menelik conquered the Gallas, the inhabitants had to become Christians "lest worse befall them." The process was swift—immersion in the nearest stream and circumcision. The Gallas are a pastoral people.

The Ethiopians are not missionaries, however, and do not welcome the emissaries of other sects. Moslems, Jews and others practice their religion without molestation.

Ethiopia's New Year's day falls on September 11.

Many Races

Abyssinia, comprising one-third of Ethiopia's territory, comes from the ancient "Habesh," meaning a "mixture," because so many races have joined to form the population.

The races of the country represent a multiplicity of languages and dialects. Old Ethiopian manuscripts are full of traditional tales of trust from J. F. Davenport and wife, Blanche F. Davenport, under date of April 15th, 1929, to the undersigned as trustee and recorded in book Z-17, page 406 of the Pitt County Registry, with full powers of sale therein contained upon default in the payment of the indebtedness therein secured and default having been made and other conditions of the trust having been violated, the undersigned trustee will offer at public sale to the highest bidder for cash before the court house door of Pitt County on Monday, September 23rd, 1935 at twelve (12) o'clock, Noon the following described parcel of real estate:

and folk lore while have not reached the civilized world because of the total lack of printing presses. Much of Ethiopian literature, jealously guarded by the priesthood, is based on ancient miracles that befell the country's saints. One is the "Kebra Nagast," another "The Washington, Sept. 24—Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the North Carolina State Highway and Public Works Commission, Congressman R. L. Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Chief Location Engineer R. Getty Browning, are here today to confer with Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes with regard to the status of the park-to-park skyway. This skyway which will connect the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia with the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Western North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee, while proposed more than two years ago, has progressed very slowly and at the present time only 12.5 miles are actually under construction in North Carolina. The leaves of Turkish tobacco are strung one by one like beads (see how it is done in the picture). After the leaves are strung they are packed in bales (see picture)—sometimes as many as 80,000 leaves to the bale.

We have on hand at all times for CHESTERFIELD cigarettes upwards of 350,000 bales of Turkish tobacco...

The pleasing aroma and flavor of Turkish tobacco is almost necessary if you want a good cigarette.

Turkish tobacco is more costly when you take into account that you have to pay 35c a pound duty, but we have to have it to blend with our mild ripe home-grown tobaccos.

It helps make Chesterfields milder, it helps give them better taste. Just try them.

Outstanding .. for mildness .. for better taste
