L. C. Arthur Instantly Killed By Rail Bus Early This Morning

FUNERAL BE HELD SUNDAY

Well Known Citizen Struck As He Attempted to Cross The Tracks Adjacent to Suburban Home Here

L. C. Arthur, 71, prominent Greenville citizen and for more than 30 years a member of the Pitt County Board of Education, was instantly killed when he was struck by the Norfolk-Southern westbound rail bus near his home about 8:30 o'clock this morning.

The accident occurred as Mr. Arthur attempted to cross the tracks to a nearby store. Mr. Arthur was said to have gone to the store for cigars and was walking along the side of the railroad tracks adjacent to his suburban home when the rail bus approached from behind him. The motorman of the rail bus stated that he sounded his horn but apparently Mr. Arthur did not hear it, or mistook it for an automobile on the nearby highway, and not seeing the oncoming rail bus attempted to cross the tracks just as it bore down on him from the rear. His body was hurled down an embankment beside the tracks, and death was said to have been instantaneous.

Funeral services will be held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church here at four o'clock Sunday afternoon followed by interment in the Episcopal cemetery. The services will be conducted by Dr. G. R. Coates, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of Eighth Street Christian Church, and Rev. R. C. Grady, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Louis Chesterfield Arthur was born in Bedford county, Virginia, the eldest son of James Louis and America Brown Arthur. January 5, 1864. He spent his boyhood and early manhood in Bedford county, Virginia. On October 5, 1892, at Leesville, Virginia, he was married to Miss Ellen Douglas Ficklen, of Buckingham county, Virginia. The family moved to Greenville in November, 1897, where Mr. Arthur was active in the insurance business until his health failed and he moved to his home in the suburbs and engaged actively in farming.

He has always been zealous in the cause of education and was a member of the Pitt County Board of Education, never having missed a meeting of this board since being elected a member thirty years ago. He was a member of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, and has served on the board of stewards of this church.

He is survived by his wife and five children: James Ficklen Arthur, and Robert Bruce Arthur, of this city; Mrs. Robert C. Vaughan, of Winston-Salem; Mrs. Bronfield Whitworth, of Fort Wright, Long Island, N. Y.; Mrs. W. W. Michaux, Jr., of Richmond, Va.; two granddaughters, Nancy Arthur Poindeux, of Richmond, Va.; Louis Arthur Michaux, of Richmond, Va.; Robert C. Vaughan and Stuart Ficklen Vaughan, of Winston-Salem; three brothers, James L. Arthur, of East Lynn, West Va.; Leo Arthur, of Altavista, Va.; and Hugh Arthur, of Leesville, Va.; five sisters: Mrs. F. G. Brooks, of Charlottesville, Va.; Mrs. M. A. Johnson, of Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. Gordon Black, of Kingsport, Tenn.; Mrs. Starke Jett, of Richmond, Va.; and Mrs. Roy Snyder, of Altavista, Va.

LEAF SALES HERE NEARLY 25 MILLION

More Than 5,000,000 Pounds Sold This Week for Average of $20.53

The best week of the present selling season was experienced on the Greenville tobacco market this week when an average price for the period from last Friday through yesterday's sales was $20.53 per hundred pounds.

Official figures on the day, week and season released this morning were as follows:

Sales yesterday 796,480 pounds for $16,387.99, an average of $20.57 per hundred.

Sales for the week 5,068,952 pounds for $104,756.44, an average of $20.53 per hundred.

Sales for the season 23,474,800 pounds for $441,984.31, an average of $18.81 per hundred.

Offerings today were again heavy with sales estimated to total around a million and a quarter pounds.

Price trends this morning were reported to be holding to the top levels of the past few days.

With the approach of October which is usually one of the best selling months from a price standpoint, warehousemen looked for still greater increases in the price situation beginning with next week.

Today's sales will bring the season's total poundage close to the 25,000,000 pounds mark.

Child Guidance Clinic Advocated By Duke Man

Durham, Sept. 27.—The general operation of child guidance clinics is the next important step in the development of an effective child welfare program, Dr. Mason Crum, of the Duke university faculty, declares in an article in the October number of Hygeia magazine, published by the American Medical Association.

"Some day," he writes, "we shall wake up to a realization of the extent of our bungling of childhood. Many are the crimes committed, unwittingly, in the name of childhood. The sins of adults against children are not fully understood or appreciated. Many children grow up like weeds, uncared for. Many are warped by the prejudice and narrowness of parents. x x x Most of us mean well, but we know so little x x x what we need to do now is to stop talking about child welfare and really do something about it."

AGREEMENT IN COAL STRIKE IS REACHED

Miners In All But Four Producing Areas To Resume Work Tuesday

Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—A peace pact that spells the end of the nation's soft coal strike in all but four producing districts was reached today. The miners will go back to work next Tuesday after being out since Monday morning. Union leaders and operators agreed in the early morning hours today to open a new wage contract giving the miners increases in pay for virtually all types of work.

The contract replacing the one which originally expired last April 1 will extend until April 1, 1937. Representatives of operators in Virginia and Hazard, Kentucky, districts refused to sign the new agreement until they received assurance that the mine owners in Tennessee and Harlan fields in Kentucky would sign.

John L. Lewis, president of United Mine Workers said the strike would be continued in those areas until the contract was signed. After expressing satisfaction with the new wage pact Lewis criticized the stand of the disliking producers who have been at loggerheads over the wage differentials for the competitive fields.

The new wage agreement, praised by President Roosevelt last night before he left for the west coast, provides for increased pay of 50 cents a day for day laborers nine cents a ton for the miners who dig and load the coal and a 10 per cent increase for yardage and deadwork—cleaning out the slate etc.

Meadows Delivers Welcome Address To Student Body

President Meadows in his address of welcome to the new students entering East Carolina Teachers College began by telling them he was sure the town would gladly extend to them a cordial welcome, not only the merchants and business people, but the churches, their ministers and Sunday School superintendents and the various civic organizations and other groups. Several of these are vitally interested in the college because of scholarships and loan funds they are contributing.

Dr. Meadows pointed out the beauty of the grounds, but would be theirs, and the buildings, especially the classrooms that would welcome them. He enumerated the opportunities that would be theirs, not only in their serious work, but socially.

The faculty of specially trained teachers is one of the finest faculties that could be assembled for this work, he believes. They are represented among them by undergraduates of 63 institutions and a number of graduate schools.

He called attention to the high class of the entertainments, the special formal dinners and other social affairs that help to make up the social and cultural life of the college.

The spirit of the school, which is distinctive, made up of the influence of the great men and women who have built the school. Each year something new is added and he feels that this is one of the great things that the college has to offer.

The campus activities were presented by the leaders of the various organizations at a meeting of the Freshmen last night.

Miss Morton, the Dean of Women, presented the College customs and regulations from the standpoint of home life.

A barbecue dinner on the campus was the special social feature of yesterday afternoon. A free moving picture this evening will bring "Freshman Week" to a close.

YOUTHS DRAW PRISON TERMS

Raleigh, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Terms of 25 to 30 years faced three Raleigh men, Coley Cain, Leroy Faison and Eddie Cobb today following their conviction in superior court here for possession of burglary tools.

The tools were found in a stolen car occupied by the youths.

In addition Cain drew eight years sentence on a storebreaking charge and Cobb got five years on the same charge. Cain and Cobb have served previous terms for store breaking and larceny, prison records showed.

Cobb had also been identified as being among the group of bandits who early this summer shot it out with a Greenville policeman following an attempted robbery there. In the Greenville gunbattle, Patrolman John Mobley of the Greenville police force was wounded.

Developments will be slow—developing.

NO MORE 'MONKEY BUSINESS'

Here's the answer for those who have been wondering what ever became of Prof. John Thomas Scopes, the young school teacher who was the defendant in the famous "monkey" trial at Dayton, Tenn., ten years ago. Refusing to comment on evolution, the teaching of which once brought him before the bar of justice, he is shown with his wife and two-year-old son at Houston, Tex., where he is employed by an oil company and lives a quiet life. Says Weed Growers Need Backbone To Boost Prices

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Sept. 27.—The tobacco farmers of the state will have the power to help themselves and thus increase prices if they will only stand together and cooperate, even if the Agriculture Adjustment Administration does not see how it can do anything more to help them.

Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, and chairman of the recent mass meeting of tobacco farmers to go to Washington to see what could be done to improve prices, said today following his return from the conference in Washington. For while prices are already improving, they will go still higher if the farmers will stand together and demand better prices, and turn their backs whenever a pile is bid in for less than they think it should bring, Dr. Poe said.

"A lot of the tobacco farmers have become panicky and have apparently slumped into a 'what's the use' attitude towards the present price situation, when they can really do a lot to help conditions merely by showing some backbone and refusing to sell their tobacco until they get a better price," Dr. Poe said. "I talked with several warehousemen in Washington Wednesday who told me that they had seen thousands of piles of good tobacco rotting in the streets."

MRS. B. STOCKS DIED TODAY

Funeral Services At Home Near Winterville Tomorrow Afternoon

Mrs. Blaney Stocks, age 52, died suddenly this morning at her home near Winterville. She had been in good health and death came as a distinct shock to her family and friends.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock from the late home by Rev. R. F. Pittman of Ayden and assisted by Rev. M. A. Woodard of Winterville. Free Will Baptist ministers. Burial will follow in Reedy Branch cemetery.

Mrs. Stocks was born and reared in Pitt county, was the daughter of the late Callis L. and Sude Vincent Little. She was a member of Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist church near Winterville and attended services regularly.

Besides her husband, Blaney Stocks she is survived by one son, Larry, one sister, Mrs. Lawrence Stocks, Winterville; two brothers, R. L. Little, Grimesland; Edward Little, Goldsboro.

Active pallbearers will be Dr. W. I. Wooten, Matthew Sermons, L. M. Dempsey, Oscar Rollins, E. L. McLawhorn, Lonnie Gurganus.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER

COMMANDER: Harold Ickes has accepted his setback in the works progress quarrel with a cheerfulness which surprises those who sensed his feeling of futility and bitterness before the Hyde Park conference. He acts as if he thought that the world, including Harry Hopkins, were his friend.

Insiders suspect that Mr. Ickes got an unadvertised promise out of the President in return for bowing gracefully out of the works progress picture. Mr. Roosevelt has ordered twelve federal agencies to mobilize their funds and blueprints in a drive to stimulate private and public construction of housing on a grand scale. It will be his answer to those who charge that this is a bone-dog administration.

Developments will be slow—developing.

U. S. ASKS FOR BRITISH VIEW NAVAL PARLEY

Asks For Views On Holding Conference Before End Of The Year

London, Sept. 27.—(AP)—The United States today asked formally for a clarification of British views on holding an international naval conference before the end of this year as required under the Washington naval treaty of 1922.

The conference between the American diplomats and foreign office officials on the subject of such a parley followed close on the heels of British press reports that the British government soon would advise the United States it was terminating the Washington treaty. This report, however, was emphatically denied in official quarters.

An authoritative source stated the belief that Great Britain soon would launch a new naval construction program to be kept strictly within the limits of the Washington treaty of 1922 however.

Washington, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Reading dispatches from London telling of Great Britain's reported plan of embarking on a large naval building program, observers here wondered whether such a step meant one of two things:

1. Kill off all chance of a new agreement in the near future to place limits on navies.

2. Hasten the calling of a conference in an attempt to reach an agreement and prevent wide open naval building competition in the future.

None would hazard a guess as to which of these two diametrically opposed results such a move would bring—if either.

Officials declined to comment on any phase of the situation pending receipt of formal word from London.

Supplementary Cotton Adjustment Payment Available

In making announcement of a 10 cent loan value on cotton for 1935, the Government also announced a plan by which signers of Cotton Acreage Reduction Contracts for 1934-35, who agree to sign the 1936 Contract when presented, may receive a supplementary Cotton Adjustment Payment sufficient to bring the price received for cotton up to 12 cents per pound, basis 7-3 middling.

Applications for this supplementary payment are to be made by the persons who made applications for the 1935 Bankhead allotment, on prescribed forms, and must be accompanied by Cotton Sales Certificates, also on prescribed forms. These forms have been requisitioned and are expected at the office of the County Agent in the near future, where they may be had by all Cotton Buyers on request.

Producers who expect to make application for this Adjustment Payment should see that the buyer furnishes them two copies of this Sales Certificate at the time the sale is made, one copy of which must accompany his application to the Washington office.

It is understood that producers who have not signed a 1934-35 Cotton Contract may make application also, but cannot receive payments until they have signed the 1936 contract and given evidence that they have complied with all its terms.

Under a recent ruling of the Department of Agriculture persons who desire to retain a portion of their crop for home use may have an amount not to exceed 110 pounds exempt from the Bankhead tax on presentation of a prescribed form at the gin, properly executed. The cotton so exempt may not be sold or traded for anything of value, but must be used in the household of the producer who makes the application for the tax exemption. The forms on which to make request may be had at the office of the County Agent.

Another Escaped Convict Captured

Elizabeth City, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Marvin Parker, one of the quartette of negro prisoners who escaped from Wauville prison camp Monday is in a hospital here today expected to live as a result of gunshot wounds received when he was captured last night in a wood about 14 miles from Hertford.

Captain J. M. Tully, camp superintendent, said early today he expected to capture the other two recaptured men within the next two days. He expressed the opinion that they were in the same wood into which the three fled when fired upon by searchers. Only Parker was struck.

One of the other convicts, Harry Ross was taken yesterday.

STORM HEADS TOWARD CUBA

Hurricane Off Nicaraguan Coast Moving Towards Islands Today

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 27.—(AP)—The southern coast of Cuba and the island of Jamaica were warned this morning to take precautions against the possible approach of a full blown hurricane in the Caribbean Sea.

After loitering off the coast of Nicaragua for a number of hours the storm was reported by the weather bureau to be moving toward the north or northeast with increasing rapidity. At 10 a. m. the position of the disturbance was given as about 225 miles northeast of Cape Gracias, Nicaragua. The direction of its movement was said by the weather bureau to be a continuation of the gradual recurve during the last 12 hours.

Expect Tobacco Sign-Up To Be Completed Soon

Raleigh, Sept. 27.—(AP)—E. Y. Floyd, in charge of the 1936 tobacco sign-up campaign in North Carolina said today he expected the drive to be virtually completed by October 10. He said the campaign is now about 50 to 60 per cent completed.

WAKE'S UNTRIED PASS DEFENSE TO GET BIG TEST

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. 27.—Wake Forest's pass defense is untried although they have already played one game. The reason is that Duke did not attempt a single forward during their meeting the other night, Coach Snavely pushing the Tar Heels off the field, which means the Deacons' pass defense will receive a big test this week. The Tar Heels are banking heavily on their air maneuvers.

SAY ITALY TO DELAY ACTION

England and France Negotiating Mutual Assistance Pact; League Might Appoint Neutral Commission

(By Associated Press)

Fears that the close of the rainy season now ended according to the calendar would bring immediate commencement of hostilities between Italy and Ethiopia were allayed today by an Italian government spokesman who said Italy would wait ten days or two weeks before taking action. A heavy down-pour of rain today interrupted the ceremonies of the Feast of Maskal—his celebration that marks the end of the rainy season in Ethiopia.

The League of Nations council which yesterday fixed a three months time limit against hostilities decided in principle to accept Emperor Haile Selassie's plea for a commission of neutral observers to watch over the Ethiopian frontiers. The Emperor suggested that the commission would be able to determine impartially which nation was the aggressor, promising it every co-operation.

Some British quarters decided the possibility of another cabinet meeting shortly to consider the new phase of international politics brought about by the present stage in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

French officials in Paris said Great Britain and France were negotiating for a mutual assistance agreement to cope with any European war threat. The suggestion of the pact was described as an outgrowth of the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia.

53 Japanese Sailors Lost In Maneuvers

Tokyo, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Japanese navy maneuvers in the northwest Pacific went ahead today despite a typhoon that claimed the lives of 53 officers and men.

An official naval communique said 27 men were swept overboard from the destroyer Yuguri, 24 from the destroyer Hatsurugi and one from the airplane carrier Hoshio. One officer was killed aboard the destroyer Matsuki and eight officers and enlisted men were injured seriously in the destroyer flotilla.

The destroyers were not caught unawares by the sudden rise of the seas, but carried out the program for the annual war games in the face of a 78-mile gale.

TAHITIANS ARE DIVIDED ON AESTHETICS OF THE CHINESE ELEMENT

Papeete, Tahiti.—(AP)—Old timers among French planters, artists and writers here are worried over the influx of Chinese into the romantic isle of Tahiti.

They complain that the Chinese, astute merchant and money lender, adds a false tone to the local color—so dear to artists and writers—and brings with him vulgar ideas of commerce.

"Once," grumbled an old-time colonist, resident in Tahiti for 25 years, "there were only 300 Chinese here. Now there are 3,000, or one-fifth of the population."

"They set up bazaars in Papeete's main street and their shrill cries disturb the serene, philosophic quiet that makes our island a heaven for seekers of beauty and rest."

Younger colonists scoff at the objections. They see in the Chinese invasion possibilities of bathtubs, toothbrushes and hot water for shaving.

French officials observe that the Chinese respects French holidays and even "takes the Bastille" with other French republicans on France Independence Day, July 14.

Far from believing in a "yellow peril," anthropologists say that infiltration of Chinese blood into Tahitian veins reinforces the Tahitian native, recently considered a dying race.

MANY CAPITOL ANECDOTES TOLD OF "JIM HAM" LEWIS NOW ILL IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington (AP)—Few members of the United States Senate have had such a store of personal anecdotes and stories built up around them as has the sartorially elegant "Jim Ham" Lewis of Illinois who is reported critically ill in Moscow.

Everything about him—from his deep resonant voice that so reminds one of a bass violin to his latest choice in waistcoats—has been made the subject of a story. He never seems to mind however. Even the jibes at his choice of wearing apparel don't bother him.

There's no relationship between statehood and what a man wears," he once observed.

Borah His Best Friend.

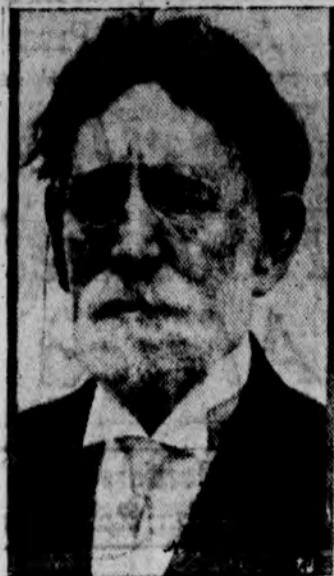

Perhaps his best friend in the Senate is Borah of Idaho. As far apart in their political philosophies as any two probably could be, they nevertheless have an abiding respect and admiration for each other.

Lewis once was asked why it was that he and Borah never clashed. The explanation, he said, dates back many years when the two were unknown young lawyers in the west. They found themselves once as opposing counsel in a lawsuit.

Lewis' client was a high-strung, excitable woman. During the course of his argument Borah said some rather harsh things about her. He so infuriated her at one point that she started out after Borah in court with an umbrella. She was frazzled away at his head when Lewis intervened. Forgetting that Lewis was defending her, she turned on him with the umbrella and almost thrashed the daylight out of him.

"We barely knew each other until that incident," says Lewis, "but the liking that good woman gave me and Bill Borah started a close personal friendship that has lasted through the years."

His Manner Courtly.
The courtliness of Senator Lewis

JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS

is proverbial around Washington. It is said of him that he couldn't let a street car pass him without doffing his hat, thinking perhaps some one was aboard he should speak to.

He is proud of the fact that he was the first ever to hold the position as Democratic whip of the senate. He took his duties in this post with great seriousness.

His associates recognize him as a master politician. Court verdicts testify to his ability as a lawyer. Votes have reflected the power of his oratory. Citations of his legal and historical works reflect his acumen.

Durham, N. C., Sept. 27.—With the arrival of South Carolina Gamecocks here today and the final workout on the two teams in Duke stadium, all was ready and waiting for their important Southern conference battle in the Blue Devil horseshoe tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Led by Wilburn Clary and Jack Derrenbacher, their two fast-stepping backs, the South Carolinians arrived here in good condition for the game and promising to give Duke everything it wants in tomorrow's clash. The Gamecocks were accompanied here by one of the largest followings ever to come to this city with a visiting team. Many more will follow from that state tomorrow by special train, bus and automobile.

The game sizes up as the crucial game for the Wademen who have been picked by conference coaches to take this year's championship. It will be the first Southern conference game in this section and holds equal ranking with the battle at Blacksburg, Va., between Clemson and V. P. I. Those are the only two conference games scheduled for tomorrow. Clemson and Duke meet here October 12. The Duke-South Carolina and Clemson-V. P. I. games will be about the only two in the conference territory this week in which the teams won't be playing "under wraps." All of these teams will have to pull out their heavy artillery.

Duke can expect plenty of passes tomorrow as a result of the Blue Devils' poor showing on defense against Wake Forest's aerial game last week. South Carolina used only four passes in defeating Erskine, keeping that department well covered but they will probably cut them loose tomorrow.

Duke supporters are looking to Ace Parker, one of the nation's ranking quarterbacks, Jack Alexander, Jule Ward, and Harwood Smith, Herbert Hudgins and Elmore Hackney to furnish the backfield fireworks. Parker and Smith got away for long jaunts against Wake Forest last week in the opener.

Duke will offer a new feature tomorrow in the huge electric time clock which has been installed by Western Union. The clock is an innovation in this section and will add greatly to the fans in erest in the game as they will be able to know exactly the time to go through out the contest.

WOMAN'S WEAK, NERVOUS CONDITION HELPED BY CARDUI

In thousands of cases where Cardui has been taken to help women overcome monthly discomfort, it has been reported to have been of valuable assistance.

"Before I began using Cardui, I was so weak that when I closed my eyes I felt like I was going to fall," writes Mrs. J. W. Harris, of Pelzer, S. C. "I was very nervous and had a pain in my side. At times I would have to go to bed. This made me more nervous as I had six children and there is always work on a farm. My mother had taken Cardui and told me to try it. I took six bottles, after which I was up and able to do all my work, washing and ironing. I have nothing but praise for Cardui."

Social Calendar

FRIDAY
6:30 p. m.—The Kiwanis Club will meet in the Woman's Club building.

Reception Not To Be Held.
On account of the death of Mr. L. C. Arthur, the reception to have been given in the Woman's Club Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. James L. Little, will not be held.

Mrs. Paige In Hospital.
Friends of Mrs. Rillie J. Paige will be glad to learn that she is getting along nicely following an operation which she underwent in Pitt General Hospital.

Moore and Gardner Reunion.
The ninth annual reunion of the Churchwell Moore and Wyatt Gardner Club will be held Sunday, September 29th, at the old Timothy Church in Pitt county. The meeting will, as usual, be called to order at 11 o'clock by P. S. Moore, president. Following the business session there will be held the usual religious services.

At 12:30 o'clock the big family picnic dinner will be served on the grounds. All are urged to bring a well-filled basket.

All relatives of these two pioneer families of Pitt county are urged to attend this reunion.

Troop 36 Boy Scouts.
Members of Troop 36 Boy Scouts who wish to enter the Fire Prevention contest are asked to bring their lists of fire hazards and preventions to the meeting at 7:30 at the Rotary Club Saturday night. New patrol emblems and badges will be displayed.

Report Medical Inspection Of School Children

The health officer, Doc or Ennett, has just released a report of medical inspection work of the schools for last winter and spring. This report includes also data in regard to the pre-school work of last spring.

Doctor Ennett says that since all public health programs are based on education, it is his opinion that the public school is the logical place for the health officer to center a large part of his program. Not only can he reach the child, a formative period when his mind is receptive and easily molded, but the school organization itself, affords the health officer an opportunity of reaching a large number of people with the minimum amount of effort. According to the health officer, every public school should be a small health center carrying health education to the homes of its own community.

Doctor Ennett says he has found the superintendents of the schools, D. H. Conley and the County schools, and J. H. Rose, of the Greenville Schools in hearty accord with his efforts to put a real health program into each one of the schools.

The figures given below represent the examination of the 1st and 2nd grades and also the pre-school examinations. Doctor Ennett says it should be borne in mind that the prevalence of defects in school children varies with the age of the child. For instance, tonsils and adenoids are more common in early childhood, while eye-strain is more common in the older child.

Now only 35, Landis, who was teaching at Harvard, came to Washington with the Roosevelt administration. He wrote most of the securities act of 1933 which the Wall Street enemies conceded to be the most air-tight financial law ever passed. Although he helped write the amendments which made the act less onerous he kept the bill's "teeth" sharp on its long journey through congress.

In The Public Interest

His economic doctrine is not an absolute theory. In one speech he said the administration and business both were seeking the same ends on the markets, and that the only interference of the government was that which would make the markets fairer.

In essence, his associates say, he believes the capitalistic system may be preserved if it is operated in the public interest. This means supervision by the public, but not intrusion. He regards economic theory as a changing thing which must be worked out in detail for specific instances, not as a scientific system which may now be accurately described in generalities.

Forest Fire Loss Small In August

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Rel-igh, Sep. 27.—Forest fires for the month of August in counties organized for protection against the "Red Demon" was the lowest for months, with estimated damage estimated at only $4,593, according to a report today by the U. S. Forest Service of the Department of Conservation and Development.

Only 49 fires were recorded in the cooperating counties during the month. These burned over 1,785 acres of merchantable timber, second growth and open land.

Careless smokers were the largest source of fires reported during the month, being held responsible for 16 or approximately one-third of the total. Two of the fires originated from lightning and the rest were caused by human sources. Incendiaries were accused of setting three; four original from brush burning; 14 were from miscellaneous causes and 6 had unknown origins.

Fifty-six counties, the largest number ever to undertake protection against forest fires, are now cooperating with the State and Federal governments. The total of protected forest lands, amounting to approximately three-quarters of the timbered area of the state, is also the largest on record.

direction of W. C. McCormick, assistant State forester. In addition to the timberlands protected against fire in the cooperating counties, approximately 500,000 acres of land are contained in special private co-operative associations where more intensive control is carried on.

During the last several months, the warden forces in the various counties have been reorganized, new equipment has been provided, and more intensive instructions have been given to the field force.

During the Punic wars, the Lipari islands, north of Sicily, were a Chastinian naval station.

The response to this announcement and the acceptance of this famous Homespun has been even greater than we anticipated. Like other North Carolina products, the Chatham Homespun Suit is recognized as a leader the country over.

CHATHAM HOMESPUN

is a power-loomed duplication of Early American Homespun

After years of experimenting, the Chatham Manufacturing Company succeeded in exactly duplicating the famous Homespun that was made years ago in the North Carolina mountains on old-time looms. The same fine wool, the same weave, the same rich coloring, the same wonderful wear. The only difference is that it is woven on modern power looms instead of the old-time looms—which means a big saving in cost for you.

50 CENTS OUT OF $7.50

It takes a little less than three pounds of tobacco to make a thousand cigarettes. At present prices the grower receives a little over 50 cents for the tobacco in cigarettes that sell at retail for $7.50, of which the government receives $3.00 in stamp taxes in addition to other taxes derived from the industry. With the handlers, processors and the tax gatherers getting $7 out of the growers' tobacco crop for every 50 cents the growers receive it doesn't take much mathematical skill to figure why the grower stays on the farm while those up the line make millions out of the product that he slaves to produce from the soil. Some day the growers will wake up to the fact that they hold the situation in their own hands and could get living prices if they would join together and present a solid front in demanding, not exhorbitant prices, but fair prices for their product out of which others and the government make millions upon millions annually.

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily Barnes is about to divorce her husband, Edwin. Edwin is an estimable young man, but so opinionated and narrow that living with him is impossible for a normal person. Emily has gone to Morton Hall to visit Judith, her college roommate and sister of David Carroll, whom Emily has always remembered with warmth. But after the Carrolls lost their plantation, David disappeared into the wilds of Turkey. Emily does not know, but Judith has called David, that the plantation is again on the market.

Chapter 39 DOGS AND BRIDGE

"DO WE wear evening dresses for this Dan Raynor?" Emily asked from the depths of her closet. Judith swung her long legs over the arm of a chair. She was supervising Emily's toilet. "Heavens, no! He'll probably smell like saddle-soap and Glover's mangle cure. And even when he's dressed up he looks as if he'd put on his clothes in the dark and slid down a fireman's pole."

Emily shook with mirth. "You leave me all a flutter with the prospect. Then shall I wear riding boots and a sombrero?"

Judith considered. "Have you got something soft and floating and ineffably feminine? If you haven't you ought to have: you ought never to wear anything but sport clothes in the daytime and chiffons at night."

"I don't." She produced a beige chiffon, floor-length, with a deep yoke of cobwebby lace and long bell-shaped sleeves. "Will this do?"

"Perfect. I can hear the crash right now. I hope you've got a string of tiny pearls to go with it."

Emily laughed. "I have."

Judith grinned. "I wonder what made me think you needed looking after." She uncurled herself and rose. At the door she paused.

"I forgot to warn you that Dan is a widower and that he means no good by anyone. But I thought he'd be rather a relief after Edwin."

At the mention of Edwin her throat contracted. What was Edwin doing at this moment, she wondered: reading his paper, perhaps, in the oppressive Victorian solidity of his father's house? She resolutely closed the door of her memory on Edwin and smiled.

"Thanks for the hint. I'll try to keep my affections under control."

Judith chuckled. "I won't lose sleep over that."

DAN RAYNOR was just what Judith had described. Although his clothes were beautifully cut, it was obvious that Dan wore them on sufferance.

But he looked interesting. Emily decided: tall and rangy, with a thin weather-beaten face that suggested that he had lived not wisely but too well.

There were deep lines at either side of his wide mouth, and a network of wrinkles at the corners of his eyes, but the eyes were dark and fine, and the smile he gave her revealed the most beautiful teeth she had ever seen.

He came straight to her and took both her hands, just as David had done so long ago. Was it a characteristic of these men? she wondered.

"Jude, you didn't warn me," he reproached her in a voice that was even softer and more slurred than Aubrey's.

Judith said calmly, "No, but I warned her."

He whirled on her in consternation. "The hell you did! What did you tell her?"

"That your intentions are strictly dishonorable."

He scowled at her and then smiled disarmingly at Emily. "The truth isn't in her," he said sweetly. "She's repeating vicious gossip."

Gus appeared with cocktails and Dan looked pained. "Do I have to drink those damn things?"

"Do you ever?" Aubrey asked calmly. He turned to Gus. "Bring the whiskey."

Dan's face cleared. "I thought maybe you expected me to be on my good behavior."

Judith said impudently. "I didn't know you had one," and Dan Raynor turned appealingly to Emily.

"You see? And I did want you to love me!"

She laughed. Dan was a very definite Southern type, and one with which she had had very little experience: a type that lived hard, drank hard, and loved easily and briefly.

"I'll try not to let them breed me."

Dinner was a gay and noisy affair. The conversation was reminiscent of Carrollton, and dealt with topics that were entirely foreign to her experience. Dave shoots for hounds; the impending field trials.

Aubrey was entering a young dog in the trials, an English setter that new hold the RFC can simply sue or shout for its money. They say their first opinion did not mean what the RFC thought it did.

But RFCer Jesse Jones is brandishing a bill which the Chicago firm submitted for its original opinion. It asked $500 "re stockholders' liability." The Jones boys were no protest against the stockholders. Besides being $500 in stock up as collateral, he cashed in $2500 (Editorial: It's a day of digging at Mr. Strawn, who is a was descended from a very fine dog of David's. The three of them discussed the dog technically and at length.

"Who's handling him for you?" Dan asked.

"Ed Parrish. He can get more out of a dog than anybody in the game."

Dan nodded. "Much competition this year?"

"If all the dogs that have been nominated are started there'll be plenty," Aubrey admitted. "But of course in a Derby it's hard to tell. Everett from Philadelphia is bringing his string, and so is Hudson. I haven't heard from the others."

Dan turned to Emily. "Ever seen a national field trial?"

"Neither a national nor any other kind," she confessed.

"You'll enjoy it. I'm putting in my bid now to take you."

She hesitated. "That's over a month away, isn't it? I won't be here that long, I'm afraid."

Judith frowned. "Don't be silly. Who says you won't?"

Emily smiled at her, and knowing Judith's determination decided not to argue it then.

"And in the meantime," Dan went on, "I think we'd better have a fox-hunt. Ladies don't fox-hunt down here, but Jude's not a lady, thank God. And we can corral one or two others like her. What about Saturday night?"

JUDITH laughed. "No grass under your feet, is there, Daniel?" Her glance flicked Emily for an instant, tenderly. "Emily's been ill, and I'm afraid she won't be equal to anything so strenuous for at least two weeks. But we'll have it later."

"Tell me about fox-hunts," Emily said. "I'm not sure I'd ever be equal to one."

"Oh, there's none of the fence and hedgehog stuff they have in merrie England," he reassured her. "We go out to my cabin for supper and get started about three in the morning. The big coon and the red fox walk just before day."

"And what do you do in the meantime?" she asked curiously.

"The low-lives play poker, and the others sleep around the fire."

"And there's a quaint old southern custom," Aubrey put in, "that the first person awake gets to kick coals in everybody else's face."

"Then I can't go," Emily said firmly. "I sleep too soundly."

Dan chuckled. "Don't you worry, honey."

Emily looked so dubious that the three of them laughed heartily at her apprehension.

They played bridge after dinner; duplicate contract at a tenth of a cent. Emily was uneasy; she sensed that their bridge would be a very different game from that of the Elston younger set.

"I'll be your partner," she told Dan. "If you'll let me pay my own losses. Because I'm pretty sure I'll throw you."

He merely looked at her; the most reproving and reproachful look she had ever seen. Under his unwavering eyes she felt herself flushing, slowly and hotly. He turned appealingly to Judith.

"Make her stop! I'll kiss her here and now if you don't."

Judith was sorting the duplicate boards. "I guess we can stand it if she can," she told him calmly.

Emily laughed helplessly. "All right. But you may lose your shirt." The argot of Morton Hall, she realized as she spoke, was insidious and contagious.

Dan was arranging pillows in her chair. "It wouldn't be the first time, sugar."

She had guessed right about the bridge. They played casually, with none of the hickering that characterized so many serious games, but it was evident that they respected the game as a beautiful and intricate thing.

"If you ever find you're broke," Dan told her warmly, "just let me know and we'll do this for a living."

"Not with us, you won't," Judith assured him. "Dan, my darling, it's time for you to go home."

He rose reluctantly. "Every time I begin to enjoy myself somebody makes me go home." He looked at Emily. "How about a ride tomorrow?"

She hesitated. "I rode today for the first time in nearly two years, and I have a suspicion that I won't be equal to it."

"Then we'll wait a day or two." He turned to Judith. "This is Thursday; have a dinner with me Saturday night."

"We'd love it."

"Fine. He took Emily's hand. 'I'll try to bear it until then.'"

Tomorrow, Judith makes plans for Emily.

way they did. Soviet officials could not afford to criticize the proceedings at home—no more than President Roosevelt could denounce the whippersnappers of a Democratic National Convention—but they have told our government to forget the soap-box stuff.

There's a comic side to the affair. Communist agitators are like lobbyists at Washington who telegraph their clients that they "had dinner last night with a Cabinet member" without making clear that they sat at the other end of a public dining room where the Cabinet member happened to be. They claim credit for every two-bit row in labor ranks.

"Bill" Bullit wised up Mr. Stalin to that stunt, and American communists may not be so popular in Soviet circles henceforth.

SMOKING: Jim Farley may cause trouble for the GOP in the 1936 campaign if he persists in his plan to trace each nickel of hostile campaign expenditures to its source. The national chairman charged that the GOP had formed a corporation behind which it hopes to conceal the names of givers. He was slightly misinformed. What he had in mind was the United Republican Finance Committee, which is passing the hat and splitting the proceeds three ways—to the New York State Committee, the National Committee and the Congressional Committee. It has raised more than $300,000 in a few months, but the names of individual contributors do not appear in the official report to the clerk of the House of Representatives.

Some of those names might provide the Democrats with political ammunition. So would the identity of donors to the American Liberty League, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers. It is Jim's game to smoke them out, if possible.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN
DEFINITION: New York sharp predicts that FDR is in for a worse headache than he may suspect: if a war develops between Italy and Ethiopia and he promulgates the embargo on munitions required by the recently enacted neutrality law. Take cotton and copper for instance. Of course they aren't munitions in the dictionary sense but if the same they would present quite a problem. If shipped to Ethiopia they would be merely pacific commodities—whereas Italy would certainly use them in the manufacture of war implements. Therefore they would help Italy in a military way but not her adversary. Therefore we would really be in neutral if we permitted free delivery to both nations.

An embargo would seem to be indicated. But can you imagine the political reaction in the South if cotton exports were forbidden and the world price soared—which it, quite possible—to 20 cents a pound or thereabouts? The same would apply to western states—where copper mining is a leading industry. If sales of the red metal to belligerents were forbidden.

However, the President has more loopholes than Congress perhaps intended to leave him. It is in his power to say whether or not a war is a war. He could postpone his proclamation that a state of war exists indefinitely if he chooses, thereby postponing the necessity for a definition of what constituted munitions.

AFRAID: There is still talk in the privacy of high industrial circles as to whether it is possible and desirable to sabotage recovery a bit in 1935 as a move to help defeat Roosevelt. Those who think it a good idea contend that even a slight reversal of the recovery trend next spring and summer would discourage people without doing any serious damage and would stimulate popular demand for a change.

Enthusiasm for this plan is far from general. That means a thousand to one shot against its working—even if it's tried—because it couldn't be worked except by the concerted action of a great many important corporations. In a way FDR holds axes back-to-back. If recovery continues he will reap the credit. If it doesn't he can blame it on recalcitrant conservatives and the nation will probably believe him.

Also economic forces for recovery have been launched which would be very difficult to check. There's a growing tendency—even among hard-boiled right wingers—to forget about the political aspects of business improvement and simply take the profits that are in sight. One New York conservative puts it: "I am afraid we are going to have a boom next year which will just bust insure Roosevelt's reelection. But it looks as if he will probably be reelected anyway—so what's the use of worrying about it."

BROKERS: Despite the rising market of the past two months, a majority of brokerage houses will be fortunate to break even in 1935. The big wire houses with irrefutable expense items are the worst off. Most of the largest ones operated at a loss for the first half of this year. A good many houses are privately worrying about whether they will ever see daylight again.

Federal legislation though not the Securities Exchange Commission itself is bitterly blamed. The new margin requirements restrict trading and the rules against pyramiding of profits puts a very damp blanket on speculative activity.

Then there are these damned questionnaires. An informed source estimates that it costs the average stock exchange member house more than $100 a week to answer them. It seems a trifling sum—but an item of five thousand a year makes a painful dent in the purses of most brokers nowadays.

CIRCUS: Financial New York fails to enthuse about plans for the mammoth world's fair scheduled for this city in 1939. Critics remark that it will undoubtedly boost real estate values in the borough of Queens—and of course it will help hotels and merchants temporarily—but they can't see any gains commensurate with the effort and expense.

AL SMITH ATTACKS COMMUNISM

Former Governor Alfreed E. Smith of New York is shown as he addressed 43,000 pilgrims attending the National Eucharistic Congress in Cleveland stadium, telling them "the way to unify society is by communismism, not communism." The former presidential candidate's explanation of his religious beliefs drew long applause. (Associated Press Photo)

Basically the affair is a promotional stunt designed to check the persistent and alarming decline in the city's population and purchasing power. But financial circles contend that the same purpose could be achieved more cheaply and effectively—though less picturesquely—by the simple expedient of reducing the tax burden that has driven industry to other pastures. You hear it said that you can't cure slow starvation with a circus.

SLOW: There is a sharp difference of opinion among New York banks as to whether their investments in federal securities should be continued to short term stuff or whether long term bonds should be given a play.

The first school of thought holds that it's risky to load up with long term obligations that might be subject to considerable depreciation if the national debt continues to expand. The other has no such qualms.

STATE MAY GET SIX MILLIONS FOR PARKWAY

Transfer of Funds Back to PWA Makes State's Chances Better

By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, Sept. 27.—North Carolina has been assured of getting at least $6,000,000 worth of the projected $16,000,000 park-to-park highway as the result of the order signed by President Roosevelt transferring that amount back to the Public Works Administration to be used for the parkway, formerly transferred to the Relief Administration. But whether the state will ever get more than this $6,000,000 and whether the parkway will ever be entirely completed, is something which only the future can foretell. It is now privately conceded here.

The state has really been very fortunate in salvaging as much as this $6,000,000 for the parkway, since many believe that some kind of politics—smelling strongly of the Tennessee variety—had entered into the transfer of this money from the PWA to the ERA and WPA, where it would undoubtedly have been used for "boondoggling" instead of for construction of the parkway. And had it not been for the personal interest which President Roosevelt has taken in this parkway, and the similar interest which Congressman Robert L. Doughton and Senator Josiah W. Bailey have taken in it, the parkway would now probably be little more than a dream that had faded. But when Doughton and Bailey, together with Chairman Capus M. Wayne of the Highway and Public Works Commission, Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and other began to get an inkling of what might happen, they decided to take the matter direct to the President. This is what they did in Washington Wednesday. And when they left the White House, they had the President's written order for the transfer back to the PWA of the $6,000,000, which will now be avail-had recovered from its fright at the first crime, another girl was found murdered in similar circumstances. Although police, this time, watched the funeral and questioned several strangers, the strangler wrote his letter to the police the next day proving he had been at the cemetery. With his third crime, the 'Strasbourg strangler" became more daring. He called police to tell them where they might find the body of his victim. This time it was an 11-year-old boy who sold chestnuts on the street and was known to nearly everyone in the city. Again, despite precautions, the murderer attended the funeral.

The FORGOTTEN MAN is remembered at last!

Julius Kessler ... Dean of Distillers ... gives Bill Corum the inside story of a "New Deal" in Low-Priced Whiskies! ...

SPORTS WRITER deals in thrills. Seeing them and recounting them is his business. But he must get the bang himself before he can make others feel it. I got one out of this interview with Julius Kessler, 80-year-old dean of distillers.

A Remarkable Man

Mr. Kessler is a remarkable man. He's made and sold more whiskies than any man in history. He probably knows more about whiskies than any other living man. We talked about the honey days of the Gay Nineties, when eating and drinking were among the fine arts. Then Mr. Kessler gave me some spot news.

Here's the News:

After nearly two years of patient tasting and testing, Kessler has at last perfected a whiskey formula that gives smoothness—mellowness—palatability in a low-priced whiskey.

"I had in mind," said Kessler, "the man who was forgotten in the rush to market whiskey after repeal. It is this forgotten man that I have remembered."

Which is exactly what Julius Kessler has done. I tasted his whiskey. I could tell. He's putting a really fine drink of whiskey within the reach of everyman's pocketbook.

But how about you tasting them and seeing for yourself. Then you'll know. And this I know, the Forgotten Man has been remembered at last.

Yours for thrills,

Bill Corum

able for construction work on the park-to-park highway.

Since Secretary Ickes has already approved the suggestion made by Governor Ehringhaus and Chairman Wayne to start construction work on three segments of the parkway at the same time, it is now believed that machinery will be set in motion as soon as possible to get the dirt flying on these three sections as soon as possible. It is also estimated that this $6,000,000, together with what has already been allotted for use on the parkway, will just about be enough to complete these three sections.

It is also being pointed out here that if Secretary Ickes goes ahead with his announced plans to start work on these three sections within the near future, that the state will be assured of a direct highway leading from the Virginia line on through to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, even if the other links are never completed, since present state highways can be used to connect up these three segments. For at the present time there are excellent state highways, which though not quite as direct as the proposed parkway route, can still be used as connecting links between the three proposed segments. The three sections which it is now hoped will be built, and if possible, all at the same time, are as follows:

1. The section extending from the Virginia state line near S. A. R. in Allegheny county, southwest to Blowing Rock.

2. The section starting at the intersection with Route 104 at Buck Creek Gap in Fancy county until it intersects with the Scenic Highway Loop a few miles from Asheville.

3. The section starting at Wagon Road Gap in Transylvania county, where it intersects with State Route 284, southwest of Mt. Pisgah, to its intersection with State Route 10, about half way between Waynesville and Sylva.

These three segments are regarded as the most essential, as well as the most scenic, along the entire route of the parkway, and are through sections of the mountains not now traversed by any state highways. Between these segments, however, are sections of state highways which may now be used by driving a few additional miles. They are not as scenic, perhaps, but afford fairly direct routes. So if these three sections of the parkway can be built now, it will be possible for tourists to follow the general route of the parkway from the Virginia line to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, even though the other sections are not built until later.

Strasbourg Killer Attends Funerals But Eludes Police

Strasbourg, France (AP)—The police net around "the Strasbourg strangler," France's most dreaded criminal, is slowly tightening.

Authorities, pushed by a frightened public, have worked for three years to catch the daring murderer who signed his crimes and even attended the funerals of his victims.

Slayer Taun's Police

The shadow of the unknown hand first fell on the old Alsatian city in February, 1932. A rapist, trudging along the old Schlitzheim fortifications, cast the flickering light of his lantern on the nude body of a young girl. She had been strangled.

The day after her funeral, police received a letter boasting that the writer had committed the crime and had attended the burial service. Details that he gave left no doubt in the minds of the police he had been there.

MAILING OUR FLAG TO THE MASTHEAD

—In the largest single self-contained motor car factory in the world, thousands of veteran Buick workmen have focused for two years on perfecting four new series of phenomenal automobiles, and now they offer them to the public in full confidence that they dramatically verify the traditional Buick pledge: "When better automobiles are built, Buick will build them."

ONE LOOK AT THESE PHENOMENAL FOUR AND YOU'LL SAY

"BUICK'S THE BUY!"

TWO years ago Buick deliberately leveled its sights on 1936.

It coolly set its aim on bringing to market for that year a line of motor cars that would startle the world.

It purposed to do that, not by freak or superficial design, not by skimping quality to make a price, but by sheer merit as expressed in automobile beauty, value, ability.

It submits to you now the eminently satisfying results of that fruitful two years of concentrated endeavor.

Here are four separate series of sensational new Buick cars—cars called phenomenal by experts in the trade who previewed them.

Each is a feast to the eye schooled in mature modern styling, as you can see.

Each has under the smooth flowing planes and surfaces of its smart exterior, the solid, tough, durable, beautifully engineered chassis that underwrites Buick dependability.

And each offers you from the stepped-up power of its big thrifty valve-in-head eight-cylinder engine such safe, thrilling performance as you have never known.

These cars are big cars every one—built to almost lavish dimensions of body room and head clearance—yet they handle with the fingertip lightness of small cars.

They are literally breath-taking in power and speed and take-off, yet under their new tiptoe hydraulics and easy-steering knee-action they are almost as manageable as a telephone.

They are thew and sinewed by that quality which springs from Buick's third of a century of manufacturing experience, advantaged by $14,500,000 worth of new tools, dies and factory re-equipment devised for these cars alone.

These things are so true and so obvious that everywhere you will soon hear the motor-wise saying, "BUICK'S THE BUY!"

SAYS FARMERS NEED BACK-BONE TO BOOST TOBACCO PRICES

bacco sold for prices much less than it was worth, merely because the farmers were willing to take the lower prices rather than turn their tags. They assured me that if the farmers will stand firm and cooperate and turn their tags on piles which do not bring the prices they think they should, there is no doubt but that they can force prices up. These warehousemen were convinced that prices would advance as soon as the farmers stood firm and refused to sell at just any price. They also pointed out that as long as the buyers could get it at lower prices, they would of course pay just as little as possible.

Dr. Poe is convinced that a lot of the talk about the tobacco crop being excessive this year is nothing more than propaganda and pointed out that if the crop should amount to 800,000,000 pounds this year, as some maintain it will, that the production would have to exceed all former records of pounds per acre ever registered. He very seriously doubts if the crop, when it is all marketed, will amount to as much as 745,000,000 pounds, the amount now estimated as the probable yield of this year's crop.

"I cannot help but feel that there has been a lot of talk about an excessive crop that has not been warranted by the actual figures or on talk has helped to depress prices so far," Dr. Poe said. "The real dition of the crop and that this facts are that the crop is not excessive—I feel sure it will be considerably less than the estimated yield of 745,000,000 pounds. It is also a significant fact that cigarette consumption is increasing. Consumption of manufactured cigarettes in July, the most recent month for which figures are available, was 15.7 per cent ahead of consumption in July, 1934 and there is every reason to believe that this consumption of cigarettes is going to increase. This means that the manufacturers are going to need more cigarette tobacco this fall."

Tobacco prices are already better this week than last and are due to go still higher, since the figures show that prices usually are about 23 per cent higher in October than in September, Dr. Poe said. And these prices will increase still more if the farmers will work together to help themselves, unless all past tobacco history fails to repeat itself.

"Instead of fighting their real friends in the AAA, tobacco farmers can best help themselves by fighting for their rights from the tobacco buying interests," Dr. Poe said. "If they will market their tobacco as slowly as possible, keep their scrap tobacco off the market entirely and turn their tags on sales where it is apparent there is no competition in the buying, they will find they will not need any more help from the AAA."

"Except for government loans on tobacco, the main remedies advocated in the tobacco mass meetings are already here or now on the way, such as the completion of the acreage reduction sign-up campaign, elimination of scrap, a declaration of a reduction in the 1936 crop, and so forth. In my opinion most of the trouble so far has come from too rapid selling of this year's crop and from unfounded reports of over-production. If the tobacco farmers will only use their heads from now on, they won't need any more help from the AAA."

Seely To Remain As Member Of Utilities Body

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Sept. 27.—Fred L. Seely has not resigned from the State Utilities Commission as one of the two Associate Commissioners, nor has there been any serious rift between Associate Commissioner Seely, Commissioner Stanley Winborne and Associate Commissioner Frank W. Hanft. For in spite of the story which appeared in The News and Observer here Thursday to the effect that Seely had resigned and that the cause of his resignation was the action of the other two commissioners in overruling him in the recent bus line case, Associate Commissioner Seely yesterday told Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus that he was not resigning and that he would remain on as a member of the Utilities Commission.

It was learned that for almost a year now Seely has been talking of resigning as Associate Utilities Commissioner, largely because he felt he was being kept so busy by his other business interests that he was not able to devote the time he thought he should be the Utilities Commission. And while he disagreed with Commissioner Winborne and Associate Commissioner Hanft in the Atlantic Greyhound-Carolina Coach Company bus case, this was not a major factor in his desire to retire from the commission, it is generally understood here.

Considerable prominence was given at the time to Mr. Seely's statement in his dissenting opinion in the bus case to the fact that the Carolina Coach Company was a "Wall Street company" and this was again brought into the story of his purported resignation. But the facts are that the Carolina Coach Company is entirely a North Carolina corporation and subject to complete control in North Carolina, although the stock of the company is owned by the United Gas Company of Ohio. The only possible connection which any Wall Street interests might have with the Carolina Coach Company is that some of the stock in the United Gas Company is owned by Stone and Webster, a Boston holding company well known in Wall Street financial circles.

The Atlantic Greyhound Lines, however, is a Delaware corporation of national-wide scope, with direct Wall Street sponsorship and hence no subject to as close state control and regulation as the Carolina Coach Company, it was pointed out here by Commissioner Winborne.

Davidson And State To Clash Tomorrow Night

Greensboro, Sept. 27. — Football teams of State and Davidson Colleges will arrive here tomorrow morning for their Big Five game tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Greensboro's Memorial Stadium.

Coach Hunt Anderson will bring three full teams from Raleigh, and Coach Doc Newton will bring a like squad from Davidson. It will be the first game for Anderson's Wolfpack, and the second for Newton's Wildcats. Davidson defeated Elon, 7-0, last Saturday.

A capacity crowd of some 12,000 fans is expected to watch the game. A like crowd saw State score a 7-0 victory over Davidson here last year.

State's fast backs will give Davidson's fine line a thorough testing tomorrow night. Davidson has the heaviest and the best line in years, and State's backs, although most of them sophomores without experience, are the speediest in a long, long while.

The Davidson line will average better than 180 pounds to the man and that is heavy for Davidson. And the Cats have experience to go with their weight. The starting forwards will be Cole Windham and Ycurg, ends; Freeman and Cathey, tackles; Dick Johnson and McClung, guards; and Wood Burns, centers.

State's speedy backs include Cowboy Robinson, Eddie Berlinski, Joe Ryneska, Howard Barnes, Charlie Gadd, and Eddie Entwistle. Robinson, the sophomore left halfback whom fans are waiting to see, is the fastest. He will start at left halfback with Joe Ryneska, full; Joe Schwartz, quarter, and possibly Barnes, right half. Berlinski may get the call over Barnes, however.

Ryneska will probably be the most powerful fullback in the State. He is the lightest State has had in 10 years, weighing only 180 pounds as compared to Ray Rex, 215 pounds, line crasher of the past three years. Davidson's backfield is expected to be composed of Paul Pittman, quarter; Midget Verble and Ed Armfield, halfbacks, and Fred Dennis, fullback.

State's line will be led by Captain Barnes, worth, right guard, and Steve Sabol, great center. It will be completed with Max Cara and Jess Tatum, ends; E. V. Helms and Carl Good, tackles, and Alex Regan, left guard.

Andy Bershak is one of the two sophomores to make the North Carolina first string eleven. His fine play at end has netted him the job over Lettermen Buck McCann and Bill Moore, who played jam-up ball last fall. Bershak started on the fresh team last year and stepped into the varsity going strong. He is fast and smart. He charges fast, on defense and specializes in catching the enemy balloters from behind as they plug the opposite side of the Carolina line. He covers under punts in great style and can snag passes. This sophomore streak will bear attention this fall.

Carolina Opens Title Defense Against Deacons

Chapel Hill, Sept. 27. — Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 either Babe Daniel or Tex Edens will send his right toe into a brand new pigskin and this kickoff will launch Carolina's first defense of its Big Five football championship.

The battle between the Tar Heels and the Demon Deacons holds all appearances of being a real nip-and-tuck scrap. Coach Snavely and the Carolina players are expecting no set-up from Kitchin, Reinhardt, Edens, Shore and company. Over time work has kept Tar Heels busy in preparing for the Deacons who gave the powerful Dukes such a fight.

Indications point to quite a large crowd, which is the 30th of the series between the Tar Heels and Deacons dating from 1888. Advance sale of reserved seats has been brisk. Regardless of rain the Kenan turf will be in tip-top condition for the game. A large, heavy canvas, which covers the entire playing field, is in readiness for use in case of rain before game time.

This game tomorrow will give Carolina followers the last chance to witness the Tar Heels at home until the last week in October, exactly one month away. For the next three weeks they battle Tennessee, Maryland and Davidson away from home. The Carolina-Deacon game in the afternoon and the State-Davidson battle at night will afford football enthusiasts the great opportunity to see four of the Big Five teams in action all within one day. And also the Tar Heel-Baptist tilt is the last Big Five game to be played in the day-time for two weeks.

Grid lovers who get great and unending enjoyment from a brilliant, passing game will find such comfort at the Carolina-Deacon scrap. Two of the best pass tossers in the south will hook up in a personal duel, Walt Kitchin and Don Jackson.

Two of the best ends in the state will match wits and power right across from each other in the line. They are Bert Shore of Wake Forest and Dick Buck. Two sophomores will battle at the other side of the line when Forest Glass of the Deacons lines up against Andy Bershak.

The Tar Heels will outweigh the Demon Deacons by about 5 pounds per man, the whole advantage being obtained in the line. Both back fields stack up even, although the Wake Forest quartet is the more evenly balanced with Edens at 220 and Kitchin, Warren and Allen at 175 each. Montgomery weighs only 158 for the Tar Heels, Jackson at 178, Snyder at 190 and Hutchins at 203.

Probable starting lineups:

Carolina	Pos.	Wake Forest
Buck	I. e.	Shore
Trimpey	I. t.	Swan
Sniscak	I. t.	Rogers
Daniel	I. e.	Reinhardt
Joyce	I. e.	Bullard
Evins	I. t.	Hooks or Wagner
Bershak	I. e.	Glass
Snyder	I. t.	Kitchin

Montgomery I. h. Warren
Jackson I. h. Edens
Hutchins I. h. Allen

HALF DOZEN SIX-FOOTERS IN NORTH CAROLINA LINE

Chapel Hill, N. C., Sept. — Every man in the Carolina line is a six-footer, except one guard. Buck, Evins, and Trimpey stand to 6 feet 2 while Bershak, Sniscak and Daniel top 6 feet even. Joyce is the man who stands under the coveted measure with a measly 5 feet 9. The Wake Forest line which the Tar Heel meet Saturday in a Big Five tilt possesses four six-footers.

error of Kentucky, joined Governor Ruby Laffoon today in refusing to take part in a conference with President Roosevelt aboard the president's special train at Cincinnati, Ohio, this afternoon. Only Lt. Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler, victor in the bitter democratic gubernatorial primary, accepted the White House invitation. While the invitation did not state the purpose of the conference party spokesmen here who declined to be quoted, considered it a move to reconcile factional differences on the eve of the formal opening of the democratic campaign tomorrow.

Rhea, who was supported in the primary by Governor Laffoon has not overestimated Chandlee on his victory.

In a sharply worded reply to the invitation Rhea said:

"I am very much grieved not to be able to comply with any request of the president. However, in declining this invitation I feel justified by reason of the fact because of representations made to the White House by one Robert W. Rineham (the president's secretary) and others concerned in the situation in Kentucky and my friendship and that of Governor Laffoon the doors of the White House have been closed to me and my friends for the past several months. And this notwithstanding both you and Postmaster General Parley knew and Mr. Parley publicly stated it was through my work and influence that Kentucky instructed for the president in his race for the Democratic nomination in 1922. It is also conceded by all well informed people that he could not have been nominated at Chicago without the vote of Kentucky. It is not my desire to break down or lower the barrier thus raised against me at the White

CAPES SWEEP TO THE FORE IN WINTER FASHION SALONS

Capes appear in both the day and evening white mode. This one of heavy black silk patterned with silver and red scrolls is designed like a royal mantle and falls to the floor in full folds. The front is cut like a waistcoat, buttoned to the waistline and belted in black antelope. Model by Lelong.

House but I assure you there is no individual or group of persons, whether democrats or chronic bores (such as your Kentucky contingent) who can swerve me from my love and devotion to the principles of the Democratic party."
