NEGRO GUNMAN PUT UNDER BOND OF $2,000

Edenton, Sept. 28.—Owing to the continued precarious condition of Joe Burke, negro, into whom three 38 calibre pistol balls were shot last Sunday night, Alfred Holley, negro, was put under $2,000 bond Thursday before being released from jail.

Burke was arrested Sunday night by onstant. Haste in the Evans church section charged with the theft of an automobile. As Haste and his captive were coming along Edenton they met Holley in another car. Burke is said to have leaped from the Haste vehicle and boarded that driven by Holley, and a fight ensued. Holley, Haste says, drew a revolver and fired three times. One bullet went through Burke's right arm, another through his left arm, and the third, the most serious wound, through the negro's body.

Haste rushed his wounded prisoner to Dr. J. A. Powell and Holley to the county jail.

I know how those things happen."

SEVELT HEADS WEST ON VACATION TOUR

Bound for the west on a vacation which some observers regard as having political significance in relation to the 1936 campaign, President Roosevelt is shown with a group of administration members on the observation platform of his train just before pulling out from Washington. Apparently he is telling Secretary of State Hull, ranking member of the government during his absence, to take good care of things. Left to right: Jesse Jones, R. F. C. chairman; Postmaster General Farley, Secretary of Commerce Roper, the President and Secretary Hull. Italian Cabinet Says Italy Will Not Break With League

NO FIGHT WITH GREAT BRITAIN

Cabinet Sharp in Its Rebuke of League of Nations Handling of Italo-Ethiopian Dispute

(By Associated Press)
The Italian Cabinet today declared that nation will not break with the League of Nations until the League itself assumes full responsibility for measures against Italy and made a sudden gesture of peace toward Great Britain.

"The Italian policy has no immediate nor remote aim which could injure Great Britain's interests," the ministers meeting with Premier Mussolini announced.

The cabinet, however, took sharp issue with the League of Nations procedure in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute and struck a new blow at Ethiopia alleging it lacked good faith.

Despite warning that grave events were impending the League assembly adjourned but is ready to meet instantly in event of an SOS call in any new Italo-Ethiopian emergency.

The League council sitting as a committee of 13 in private session submitted to Italy a request by Ethiopia for the dispatch of neutral observers to the Ethiopian frontiers. Emperor Haile Selassie had requested these observers fearing Italy might take advantage of a border incident as a pretext for the outbreak of hostilities. Apprehension in Great Britain and France was in some degree lessened, it was said, while in Germany mingled emotions greeted developments in the East African dispute.

The Suez canal company indicated its intention to keep the canal open regardless of what sanctions might be taken. Sanctions which would lead to the closing of the canal would seriously hamper Italy's movement of troops and war materials to its East African colonies. Ethiopian soldiers grew so frenzied in the military campaign marking the Festival of Maski that the Emperor provided the Italian minister with a special guard to prevent any assault or even an insult to the envoy.

Edenton, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Richard Dillard Dixon, wife of the local court clerk and eminent authority on the lore of the Albemarle, has been chosen official historian of the Edenton Ladies Auxiliary of the Edward G. Bond post, American Legion. Mrs. Dixon, a captain in the World War and to whom local Legionnaires come with all their documentary troubles, will no doubt find it necessary to be of any help to Mrs. Dixon, who has ever handed her own problems without recourse to others. She has been especially interested in Legion matters and has served her post in various capacities with the Edenton Auxiliary.

News Behind The News

Washington
By RAY TUCKER

RECOVERY. September was slightly disappointing to New Deal economists scanning the skies for signs of black billows of factory smoke. It maintained the momentum which got under way in late spring, all index figures revealing increased activity. But it did not rocket as hoped out by insiders. There are some compensations, however. While employment in the non-durable goods industries remained stationary at 940 possibly a bit above that, the heavy industries began to turn over, gaining perhaps 4 or 5 points in the July figure. Employment increases showed an increase in such key spots as iron and steel, lumber, plumbers' supplies, farm implements, and especially machine tools. The latter industry, a peculiarly sensitive barometer, was down to 7 on the chart in March of 1933. Now it stands at about 127, which is tops since the best years of the boom. It hit 186 in 1929.

Textiles and apparel for both sexes kept on the climb. Improvement in all these fields indicate that at last recovery is beginning to take hold, i. counts. The paralyzed giant of private capital may be waking up.

LAG. New Dealers knit their political brows over one drawback in all this improvement. It warns of problems which may persist in spite of fairly substantial recovery. Although industrial production has increased by 13.5 points in a year, employment has jumped less than 4 points in the same period, and total payrolls by only 7.8. What this means is that improved industrial efficiency permits fewer workers to turn out a larger volume of goods. Economists have guessed and second-guessed at the extent of this situation, with its hints of

CLUB NAMES DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

Kiwanians Enjoy Address By Dr. John Taft, of Evanston, Illinois

The Greenville Kiwanis Club met last night with President Dink James presiding. Club singing was led by H. A. McDougle. The following delegates and alternates were elected to the Carolina District Convention to be held in Charleston, S. C. October 16 to 18: J. C. Galloway, Dr. J. M. Barret, Dink James, D. C. Moore, Jr., O. P. Matthews, Claude D.-Ward.

The program was in charge of Joe Taft and was divided into two sections—Silly and Serious. The first section consisted of an "Amateur Night" program, the number of which were singing contests entered in by three quartets, the members of which were selected at random by the chairman of the program. The prize was awarded to quartette number one made up of Herman Duncan, Billy Ryan, Arthur Ellwanger, and Berry Bostic. Number two, Charlie Parsons, "Mug" Massey, George Woodward and G. V. Smith, was so had that Major Bowe's bell system had to be used to stop them before the second line could be rendered. Number three, Bill Bynum, "Twist" Matthews, Bennet Moseley and Ralph Deal made a fair showing. The attendance prize was given by Grady Bell and was awarded to George Woodward.

The serious part of the program was an address by Dr. John Taft of Evanston, Illinois, who spoke on "The Development of the Printing Press." Dr. Taft most interestingly and entertainingly told the story of the development of movable type by Johannes Gutenberg and the effects which this invention had upon the life of the world through making available to millions the information and education which had hitherto been available to only a few. The speaker referred to a former visit to Greenville forty-five years ago and made some interesting contrasts to the town of that day and the progressive city which he found today.

President James expressed the sympathy of the club for the family of Kiwanian J. Ficklen Arthur, whose father was accidentally killed yesterday morning.

The next meeting of the club will be on Tuesday, October 11th which will be the club's annual "Teachers Night." This is always one of the best and most popular programs of the year and it is promised that the entertainment this year will be "bigger and better" than ever. The committee in charge of arrangements, Mrs. R. A. Tyson, Jr., and Billy Ryan, are working hard to provide a fine evening's pleasure for their guests, the teachers of the Greenville schools.

Tropical Hurricane Sweeps Over Cuba; Heads Toward Florida

Visit To Capital Saves Parkway For This State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Sept. 28.—The park-to-park highway is going to be built in North Carolina and $4,500,000 is available now for immediate construction work, with the assurance that more will be made available as it is needed. But until three days ago the parkway was virtually doomed and scuttled by its enemies. And if Congressman Robert L. Doughton, Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, assisted by Senator Josiah W. Bailey and Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, had not gotten a whiff of what was in the wind and decided upon a bold move in an attempt to scotch it, the parkway would probably never have amounted to more than a line of stakes driven along the route of surveying parties.

The bold move which Chairman Waynick urged, and in which Doughton, Bailey and Ehringhaus concurred, was to take the whole parkway problem to the President, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior, that they wanted to Mr. Ickes first, and he was not only willing for the matter to be placed before the President, but told the North Carolina delegation that he had been wanting to do that very thing himself, but had not yet been able to get an opportunity. Congressman Doughton, conceded to have as much influence in Washington as any one called the President and made the engagement. He did all the talking, presented the difficulties with which the parkway was faced—especially the lack of funds—and the President almost immediately signed the order transferring $6,000,000 back to Mr. Ickes to be used in construction work in North Carolina and $1,500,000 in Virginia, with the proviso that unless Virginia can start using this within a given period, it will be reallocated to North Carolina. So the situation is all hotsy-totsy now.

But if Chairman Waynick had not sensed what was in the wind just when he did—perhaps it was newspaperman's instinct—and had no; insisted on "appealing to Caesar" immediately, those who know the inside facts of the whole affair now agree that North Carolina's chances for ever getting more than a few miles of the parkway would today have been lost, probably forever. For those who have been following the course of the parkway in Washington, are now convinced that while Secretary Ickes was doing everything possible to speed it up, that there was a well-defined, if not deliberate, campaign under way in other Government departments to dilly-dally and delay the parkway plans as much as possible. There is also a strong belief that some Tennessee politics, as well as inter-departmental politics in Washington, had something to do with all this.

For while the money for the building of the parkway was under the control of Secretary Ickes as PWA Administrator, the actual construction work to be done by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, which is a division of the Department of Agriculture. The National Park Service was also to exercise general supervision over the parkway, which is a division of the Department of Interior, of which Ickes is the head. It is no secret that Ickes is probably the most unpopular department head in Washington and that there is intense jealousy between the various divisions of the Department of Agriculture and the Department of the Interior.

Still another factor that must be taken into consideration is that before the route of the parkway was definitely decided upon, Director Arno B. Cammerer of the National Park Service, and Director Thomas H. McDonald of the Bureau of Public Roads, recommended that the parkway be routed only as far as Blowing Rock in North Carolina, and then go over into Tennessee and on to the Great Smoky Mountain National Park through Tennessee. It must also be remembered that Secretary Ickes, with the approval of the President, overruled their suggestions and adopted the all-North Carolina route, along the crest of the Blue Ridge mountains, entering the National Park on the North Carolina side, through the Cherokee Indian reservation at Cherokee.

This action on the part of Ickes not only infuriated most of the Tennessee senators and congressmen, several of whom are understood to have remarked at the time

First Assembly At The College Held Yesterday

Having the members of the faculty sit on the stage and introducing them to the students was the innovation for the first assembly hour at East Carolina Teachers College.

Preliminary to the presentation Dr. Meadows gave some interesting facts about the faculty and paid a high tribute to the staff. Those on the stage yesterday morning were the teaching staff in the College classrooms, the deans, and the coaches. As they stood by departments, President Meadows introduced them one by one, calling the names and telling where each came from.

President Meadows read as the scripture lesson the "Remember Now Thy Creator" chapter. The students sang two hymns and Miss Nagle played a lovely piano solo. Every southern state is represented at least once in the faculty, and several northern states. More than fifty percent of the entire staff is from North Carolina, with about twenty-five percent of the teaching staff from this state.

The upper class students, both boys and girls had a meeting last night which was presided over by the president of the women's student government, Miss Ellen Jenkins, for the purpose of discussing the campus problems. The dean of women, Miss Morton, met with them and led the discussion.

Five Cases Heard In Police Court

Business was light in police court here this morning but those who faced Mayor R. C. Flanagan either went up to county court or to the roads.

Roy Stepp, white man, was bound over to county court on a charge of larceny. Henry O'Neil, negro, was bound over to county court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Oliver shot his wife here sometime ago and was for a while held with out bond while she was recovering from her wounds.

Two negro men and one woman were sent to the county roads on charges of disorderly conduct. Henry Moore drew 30 days on the roads. Dorsey Chambers 60 days and Agnes Chambers 30 days.

32 LOSE LIVES, 300 INJURED

Relief Workers Evacuate Southern Florida Areas as Storm Approaches; Gale Reaches 150 Miles Velocity

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28.—(AP)—32 persons were reported dead and 300 injured in Cuba and Jamaica in the wake of a tropical hurricane today as Miami and southern Florida covered under the first lashes from the storm approaching the east coast of Florida.

The Jacksonville weather bureau said the storm would probably strike near Miami late this afternoon or early tonight. An official warning at 2:30 p. m. said:

"Center of tropical storm at 1:00 p. m., approximately 120 to 140 miles south of Miami moving northward about 12 to 16 miles an hour, attended by shifting gales and hurricane winds near center. Storm center will pass near Miami early tonight."

"Hurricane warnings displayed from West Palm Beach to Key West and storm warnings elsewhere from Charleston, S. C., to Tarpon Springs, Fla. If storm continues its present course hurricane warnings will be extended north of Palm Beach to Melbourne within the next two hours. Precaution should be taken against high tides on the East Florida coast. Caution: advise vessels off the southeast coast of Florida."

Naval headquarters at Havana announced the cruiser, Biente di May now in Cienfuegos harbor reported 30 dead and 300 injured there. The announcement added 1,000 houses were destroyed in Cienfuegos, Santa Clara province, and that the town of Casilda was destroyed by high seas.

Kingston, Jamaica, reported two dead and damage to the banana crop estimated at $2,500,000. Jamaica was raked last night by the tail end of the hurricane. The damage to roads and bridges was estimated at $200,000. Torrential rains flooded the roads. The hurricane cut a swath 150 miles wide through three Cuban provinces and then roared into the sea from the northern Cuban coast observers said, to endanger the Florida coast.

The British steamship Wanderer wireless to Port Lauderdale just before one o'clock it was around at Point Del Birri off the southern coast of Cuba. The message was intercepted by the coast guard base at Port Lauderdale. It was not a distress signal. The ship merely reported it was around. The master said he was emptying his ballast tanks.

All through the Florida keys precautions were taken. Early this afternoon gusty and increasing winds and driving rains in Miami brought a foretaste of the storm. Key West, southernmost city in the United States which has weathered many storms was prepared for the coming of the hurricane.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28.—(AP)—Roaring through Cuba a tropical hurricane brought apprehension today to Florida from Key West to West Palm Beach. No loss of life has so far been reported. At 9 a. m. today the Helen observatory at Havana announced the hurricane was leaving the northern coast of Cuba near Varian traveling north or northeast and will be dangerous this afternoon or tomorrow morning in the eastern part of Florida and the Florida canal.

It was the second September storm threat for Florida. Not quite four weeks ago on Labor Day winds pounded ton, of water over the Florida keys laying them waste and killing more than 400. Today FERA and Red Cross relief workers who were in the storm areas cleaning up after the disaster, evacuated to places of safety.

As it screamed across Cuba the tropical storm from the Caribbean emptied the island coast cities in its path and cut off news from many sections. Swept by driving rains Havana was isolated from the rest of Cuba beyond a line just east of Colon, Mantanzas province and northeast of Cienfuegos. Santa Clara province. The city of Havana was filled with hundreds of frightened refugees who poured into the city on special trains. The approach of the storm was very violent, officials of the national observatory said. LOUIS CHESTERFIELD ARTHUR

News of the tragic death of L. C. Arthur here yesterday brought shock and grief to his numerous friends throughout this county. During nearly forty years of residence here Mr. Arthur had taken an active part in religious and civic affairs of the community and there were few in Pitt County who did not know him personally and for whom he did not have a friendly greeting at every meeting. He was the kind of man that helped to make a community a better and more pleasant place in which to live and his thirty year of service as a member of the County Board of Education has meant much to the system of schools in this county.

A BAD WAY TO START

Of late it has been quite noticeable that there are several small children who make a practice of begging every passerby on the street for nickels. Whether these children are begging on their own or whether they are being put up to it by others who are profiting by it, we do not know, but we do know that these small children should not be begging on the streets. If they are in need there are authorized sources from which they can receive help and certainly they should not be permitted to start life with the belief that all is needed to get money is to go out on the street and beg for it. Some of these children apparently are not more than six to eight years old. This situation should be investigated.

and a stop put to the practice for professional begging is certainly a bad career for a small tot to be started on.

QUANDARY: Although his friends doubt that Cordell Hull will try to return to the Senate next year—there are practical difficulties—they have sensed that he has been unhappy as Secretary of State. And it isn't only that he longs for the life of a legislator. Mr. Hull has been unable to bring any of his pet policies to fruition. Unsettled world conditions have stymied him in negotiating reciprocal tariff treaties on a grand scale. Except for Belgium, we have got nowhere with the larger nations. He can't take the preliminary steps to enlargement of world trade—currency stabilization. Congress paid no heed to his cautious words against hastily written munitions legislation. The swish of the big stick as President Roosevelt cracked down on Russia did not make a pleasant sound in his ears. With dictators bossing a large portion of the globe, Mr. Hull is too much of a gentleman to run things in our diplomatic dugout.

SNARL: Mariner S. Eccles is a brash young man. Although the young Utah banker has not been confirmed as chairman of the reorganized Federal Reserve Board, he is tempting the anger of the formidable Carter Glass. Before the Senator left Washington he hinted that Mr. Eccles was on probation and should watch his step. Now the Reserve Governor has dared to change completely the content of the Federal Reserve Bulletin. He has transformed it from a factual document into an organ expressing opinions and drawing conclusions. In the September issue he praises the new banking setup as giving the central board more power over the reserve system. He apparently means to use every bit of it.

BRIGHT: The AAA-ers have quietly built up a political machine which disproves the old adage that you can't organize the farmers in their own behalf or against alien interests. It consists of thousands of local and federal officials scattered throughout the land and of beneficiaries of farm payments. Whenever Washington wants a blast from the farm belt it simply sends a message by wire or letter or phone to organizers and agents in the field. Overnight the response pours in as ordered. The boys have used it several times, but the most illustrious victim was Daniel Roper. When the Cabinet member seemed to listen sympathetically to textilers' suggestions that the processing tax be condemned in the Cabinet committee report, he was swamped with protests. He rubbed his chin and allowed he never knew the tax was so popular. The final report praised it fulsomely. The farmers have learned a lesson from this kind of regimentation. They have always known that Washington responds most speedily to threats. Now they know how to organize and whereas they are simply imitating the A. F. of L., the American Legion, Associated Gas & Electric, Father Coughlin, the tariff lobby and other special pleaders. They've joined the literary society late but they've caught on to all the tricks.

STAGY: The coal strike that began at midnight last Sunday had some unique features. It has been remarkably good-natured because neither side was genuinely wrought up about the wage disagreement.

which ostensibly caused it. Both the unions and the operators regarded it chiefly as a swell opportunity to window-dress their respective woes for the benefit of public opinion before the Board created by the Guffey bill starts its job of regulating the industry.

Informed New Yorkers say that John Lewis of the United Mine Workers wasn't really keen for the strike. But he found that mere passage of the Guffey bill didn't make him as much of a hero to his followers as he had expected. Left wing elements among the miners kept clamoring for action—so he gave it to them. He then lay himself open to new radical attacks from within his organization. He worked up a fine show of indignation at the obstinate refusal of the operators to grant his wage demands—and astutely maneuvered them into a position where they would have to take the blame if negotiations broke down—but behind the scenes he has been more the director of a dramatic spectacle than the hot-blooded crusader.

The operators for their part didn't care much whether school kept or not. They didn't deliberately inspire the strike—but neither did they object to it. They had plenty of coal above ground—not to have to worry for a while. When the walkout did come they seized upon the union demands as a useful screen on which to flash a vivid picture of their pitiful plight—crushed between the competitive millstones of fuel oil and natural gas. The whole affair has been conducted with more of an eye on the headlines than on the actual terms of settlement. The strike will not spread to other industries because its background is too stogy to inspire emulation.

Religious Education Week.
Religious Education Week in the Eighth Street Christian Church will begin with Promotion Day exercises in the Bible School tomorrow at 9:45 a. m., and close on Sunday, October 6th, with the Rally Day services. Two special features of this year's program will be visitation in the homes by school representatives and invitations to all parents to meet with the teachers on October 9th for conference that there may be built up in the church a group of informed parents and teachers who will be able to intelligently plan the work of the church school.

It is expected that all organization work, personnel and equipment will be in readiness by October 6th. Several additional instructors have been secured for the coming year. The Christian Church has recently appointed a Committee on Religious Education, made up of the heads of the various departments of the church work. This committee plans and provides a full educational program for all departments of the church. The program for the coming week is the first of a number of plans for the year, which include special lecture courses, discussion groups, messages from visiting ministers and other features included in this plan for the unification and coordination of the educational work of the church.

NEW DIRECTOR FOR FESTIVAL WORK

Lewis S. Bullock will succeed Fred Allen, last year's director, who resigned for a position in New York. Mr. Bullock was director of Section I of the N. C. M. F. A. This year he will direct the music movement in Goldsboro, Mt. Olive, Ayden, Snow Hill, Farmville and Greenville.

ers in every part of the state. The purpose of these conferences is to give training and practical help to the grade teachers and club women who are in charge of the Music Appreciation contests, which include all school children of the state and finals of which are held in Raleigh in the spring of each year.

Saturday has been selected as the day for the conferences, hoping that the school teachers in each district will be able to attend.

Mrs. Grace VanDyke Moore of Greensboro, has given much thought to the planning of these programs, and will preach at each conference. Miss Hattie Parrott, of Raleigh, is representing the Public Instruction department and assisting in the carrying forward of details. Methods of teaching various phases of music appreciation, type lessons, learning suitable songs for use in the course of study offered in the schools and learning to teach them will be the main features of study in each program.

that the parkway would "never be built beyond Blowing Rock in North Carolina," but to have ranked Messrs. Cammerer and McDonald as well, since it disregarded their suggestions. Quite a number of observers, believe that the Bureau of Public Roads and National Park Service chiefs recommended the routing they did because it would keep the congressional delegations from Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee satisfied and friendly towards future appropriations for these bureaus. Some also believe that since Cammerer and McDonald were the heads of their respective bureaus before Ickes appeared on the scene in Washington, they figured they would still be there after he passes out of the picture, so that if they could delay the construction of the parkway long enough, they could re-route it according to their original recommendations and thus regain the good will and support of the Tennessee Congressional delegation.

At any rate, it is generally conceded that there has been more sympathy than anything else towards the parkway in the Bureau of Public Roads and in the National Park Service for the past year or more. There are also indications that the reason a large portion of the $16,000,000 originally set aside for the parkway was transferred to the Emergency Relief Administration, was done because the Bureau of Public Roads indicated it would not be in a position to use any of this money for many months. There are also indications that whenever Secretary Ickes sought to speed up operations on the part of the Bureau of Public Roads, that its officials replied that it did not have funds available to do more than it was doing, which consisted in maintaining three small survey parties on the proposed route.

This situation, in part, was placed before President Roosevelt by Congressman Doughton, Chairman Wayne and others in Washington Wednesday, with the result that the President transferred $6,000,000 back to the parkway immediately with instructions to Secretary Ickes to push it as rapidly as possible—and with the intimation that more money would be forthcoming as rapidly as it is needed. This means, of course, that the Bureau of Public Roads will no longer be able to use the alibi it has been using and that it will have to get busy, whether it wants to or not. The fact that Secretary Ickes also agreed to start work on three main segments of the parkway route at the same time, in spite of disapproval from the roads bureau, is also an advantage for "Farmer Bob" Doughton and North Carolina.

Pear Mince.

The following recipe is one used by Mrs. Dink James of Greenville. Try it this fall.
1 peck of unpeeled pears (quarter); 2 lbs. seeded raisins; 5 lbs. medium brown sugar.
Grind pears and raisins. (Do not use the liquid that falls from the food chopper. Mix in sugar, 1 cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon cloves, 2 teaspoons allspice, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and 1 teaspoon nutmeg. Cook slowly for two hours (stirring frequently).
For pies flavor with wine or butter. This mixture is also good as a sandwich filling when nuts are added.

Garden Notes

The following garden notes were prepared by E. B. Morrow, state specialist in horticulture.

Crops To Plant This Month

Kale gives a welcome change from collards and turnip greens, so keep up succession plantings until late in the month, especially in the eastern part of the state. The two types most generally grown are Siberian and Green Curled Scotch. Siberian kale is quite hardy, usually withstanding rather severe freezing. The Curled Scotch varieties are not quite so hardy, but they are more attractive in appearance and are considered to be of better quality by some gardeners.

Mustard is an old favorite which should not be neglected. It may be planted as late as the third or fourth week in the month in eastern sections. Fordhook Fancy and Southern curled are two of the leading varieties.

Spinach is too often neglected in the average farm garden. Despite the fact that it is very tender when cooked, spinach is quite hardy. Plants which have reached a size of 2 or 3 inches in diameter will withstand severe freezing, especially if protected enough to prevent heat.

Better Music For Leisure Hours

"Better music for leisure hours" is the slogan for the Music Department of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. Roderic W. Sanders of Clayton, is chairman.

The Promotion Fund, a division of the Music Department, with Mrs. A. S. Kennickell, Jr., chairman, is advancing this slogan by helping to finance three music conferences that are being sponsored by the Public School Music Department of Woman's College, Greensboro, and the State Department of Public Instruction. These are to be held at the following places: Asheville, September 28; Greensboro, October 5; Greenville, October 12; being spaced so as to be accessible to the working. A light mulch of strawy manure will afford protection and at the same time furnish nutrient materials.

For early green onions next spring plant sets any time during the month. Good varieties are Waltham Pearl, Yellow Potato, and Silver-skin. For a crop of large bulbs next summer, many gardeners sow the seeds in outdoor beds early in October and transplant to the garden or field in late winter or early spring. In the colder sections the beds will need some protection and the transplanting should be delayed until danger of hard freezes is over.

Home Vegetable Storage

If home grown vegetables are to keep best, the storage requirements of the different crops should be kept in mind. Sweet potatoes and pumpkins, for example, keep best at storage temperature of about 50 degrees and in moderately dry atmosphere. These conditions are best supplied in a sweet potato curing and storage house. Sweet potatoes must be dug before the roots are damaged by frost if they are to keep well. Handle the potatoes at digging time almost as carefully as you would eggs. Cuts and bruises offer favorable conditions for the entrance of rots or molds.

Cabbage, celery, beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips and Irish potatoes keep best at cool temperatures and in a moderately moist atmosphere. Such common forms of storage as pits, hills and cellars are adapted to the keeping of these crops. The temperature should be kept slightly above freezing, and ventilation should be carefully attended to. The air in the storage hill or cellar should be moist enough to prevent shriveling but dry enough to check the development of rot.

Onions and other bulbous crops keep best at cool temperatures and in a relatively dry atmosphere. The onions usually keep best if stored in slatted crates in order to provide for better ventilation. The temperature should be kept just above freezing. Losses from rots and shrinkage are generally high if the bulbs are kept for any length of time under damp, moist conditions.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Alcohol, motors and a few scattered specialties accounted for prices in today's brief session of the stock market. Traders exhibited more than usual caution and dullness was the rule throughout. Many issues were unchanged. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 500,000 shares.
The special urge was seemingly dormant so far as the major leading equities were concerned. Commodities offered little assistance to stocks. Grains were inclined to slip and cotton backed and filled. Bonds were listless although U. S. Government securities were a bit improved. Various gold currencies edged higher in foreign exchange dealings.

Cuba last night the storm was marked by high winds and heavy rainstorms in Camaguary province. With communications out, there was no report from that area.
At 8 a. m. the Jacksonville weather bureau ordered hurricane warnings between Key West and West Palm Beach.
Special trains carried more than 1,500 refugees from Santa Cruz del Sur into Havana during the night. These people, men, women and children, had fled before the pounding sea rumbled the arrival of the destructive wind.
Reports from Cuba said the towns of Jucaro Cifalda and Tunastanzas, Trinidad, had been evacuated last night.
Winds of 150 miles velocity swept over Jamaica early today with a reported destruction of 35 per cent of the ripening banana crop. Shipping in Cuban waters was paralyzed. Fears were expressed for the safety of fishermen. Air lines operating between Havana and Guantanamo had cancelled their schedules. Pan-American air service between Havana and Miami operated through yesterday.
