The League of Nations Council today adopted a report declaring Italy had "resorted to war in disregard of the covenant." The vote was listed as unanimous. Adoption of the report immediately put into effect Article 16 providing application of sanctions against Italy. Italy voted "No" and Ethiopia "Yes" but neither vote was counted, for a member is not permitted to vote on a subject in which it is interested.

Addis Ababa, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Ethiopian sources disclosed today that Emperor Haile Selassie planned to lead an army of 120,000 fighters into the field against Italy within two weeks. This disclosure was made as rumors were circulating in the capital that Italy had proposed peace terms to the Emperor. One of the imperial advisers called the rumors "almost true" but declined further comment.

In Rome Italian officials said peace terms were furthered from their thoughts. An Italian minister said he was not informed of such a proposal.

It was stated that the Emperor's personal army would have as its backbone of his modernized imperial guards.

The Emperor was expected to take his course toward Dessie which lies strategically in the middle of the triangle formed by Addis Ababa, Adowa and Mount Mussa Ali. He was to proceed the first 30 miles from Addis Ababa on muleback and then go by automobile.

Paris, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Favorable French reply to the British request for military co-operation in the Mediterranean "under a condition of reciprocity" was made public by the French Foreign Minister today.

(By Associated Press)

To halt the Italian advance Emperor Haile Selassie massed his tribal warriors in the north and south of Ethiopia today coincident with the action of the committee of six of the council of the League of Nations in declaring Italy the aggressor. The committee reported Mussolini resorted to war in disregard of his obligations under the covenant of the League.

The council met to discuss the report and discuss imposition of sanctions against Italy, probably of an economic and financial nature at the outset. This decision followed completion of President Roosevelt's precedent—shattering neutrality policy of the United States. In addition to an embargo on munitions of warfare the president warned Americans if they traveled the ocean on Italian or Ethiopian ships they did so at their own risks. With these proclamations the president fulfilled his obligations under the recent congressional neutrality legislation. But he went further. He declared Americans who engage in transactions of any character with either Ethiopia or Italy do so at their own risk. This is a distinct reversal of American policy for in the past the United States always maintained the rights as neutrals to the freedom of the seas for commerce with belligerents.

The president's declaration—the first in which any official quarter has directly stated a state of war exists between Italy and Ethiopia—were happily received by League of Nations protagonists in Geneva. They looked upon the American aid as a form of sanction. In as (Continued on Page Four)

Twelve Persons Crash To Death In Airplane Wreck

Fast Eastbound Mail And Passenger Plane Crashes Into Hilltop Near Cheyenne Early Today

Late News Flashes

Six Killed

Cheyenne, Wyoming, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Twelve persons aboard an east-bound United Air Lines mail plane crashed to death about 15 miles west of Cheyenne early this morning, it was announced at the air line's office in Chicago at 7:30 a. m. The dead included nine passengers and Pilot H. A. Collier, of Salt Lake City, Co-Pilot Harold Batty, of Denver, and Miss Leona Mason, Salt Lake City, stewardess. The plane, on trip four which left Oakland, Calif., for New York City at 6:25 Sunday evening carried mail.

The air line offices said flares rushed to the vicinity of Silver Crown west of Cheyenne as soon as it was first reported about 2:30 a. m. that the plane was overdue.

"We flew our ships all night over the area but did not find the wreckage until after dawn," said one of the air line employees. Officers rushed to the scene by auto and began at once an investigation of the crash after the coroner Carl Worland had been notified, and started work extricating the 12 bodies from the tangled mass of debris.

The plane apparently struck the top of one hill, lost its propeller and engine and then bounced nose first against the top of another hill, said Bill Boare, assistant manager for the company at Cheyenne.

"We have been unable to determine the exact cause of the accident. The weather was excellent and it appeared Velsion had good flying speed," he said.

At Chicago, Harold Crary, vice president of the company said an investigation would be started immediately.

SEEK KILLER LITTLE GIRL

Seattle Officers Seek Fiend Who Killed Seven Year Old Girl After Attacking Her

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 7.—(AP)—A sordid killer who hanged seven-year-old Sally Kelley on a garage door, was hunted today by police, detectives, shotgun squads and volunteers. Investigating officers said the girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Kelley, was criminally attacked before she was slain last night. Coroner Otto H. Mittlestad, and Detective Captain Ernest Yorik attributed the killing to a degenerate.

Captain Yorik announced detectives had taken into custody for questioning a 51-year-old man. He did not disclose details of the arrest. The detectives had as their main clue a man's large handkerchief which was tightly knotted around Sally's neck and lashed to a metal door knob on a garage door when two policemen discovered her body.

The girl's grandmother Mrs. Alfred Coolidge, called police after Sally disappeared from the hallway of an apartment house where she was staying. Four hours later officers investigating garages behind the apartment, building opened one of the doors and the body, knees touching the ground, came into view.

NERVE: Some Democratic lawyer lobbyists have killed the goose that laid their golden eggs—namely, their supposed friendship and influence in the Roosevelt administration.

The immediate cause of the President's flareup behind the scenes is the dual role which Arthur Mullen of Nebraska played in connection with several public power projects in his state. Mr. Mullen, Roosevelt floor manager at Chicago, asked a fat fee for "legal" services in obtaining federal funds for two public power schemes. Then he right-wheeled and opposed federal subsidies to two other public plants. Publicly and politically, however, he gave the impression that he favored all four undertakings.

But when the showdown came he rushed to the White House and begged Mr. Roosevelt not to approve the two projects he was engaged to block. Mixing law and politics, Mr.

After establishing new high price levels for the season last week the Greenville tobacco market began another week today with heavy offerings and early sales indicating that today's average price would be higher than any so far during the present season.

The season's total sales through last week stood close to the 30,000,000 pounds mark. It is estimated that the Greenville market this season will sell better than 60,000,000 pounds with growers who sell on this market receiving between 12 and 14 millions dollars for their sales.

Scott Likely To Be Candidate For Agri. Commissioner

Raleigh, Oct. 7.—W. Kerr Scott of Alamance county, Master of the North Carolina Grange, is seriously considering becoming a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Commissioner of Agriculture, opposing the present incumbent, Commissioner W. A. Graham, according to reports reaching here. Scott has become very well known over the state in recent years as head of the Grange and is conceded to be popular with both farmers and business men.

But if Scott does decide to oppose Graham, he will be taking on a man who has been in the state for many years, and who is conceded to be one of the ablest political strategists in the state and probably one of the most difficult of present elective state officials to dislodge.

Pitt County Man Dies In Auto-Train Crash

INJURED IN AUTO WRECK

Drunken Driver Is Jailed After Causing Accident Near Here Last Night

Mrs. Lula Fomes was rushed to Pitt Community hospital here shortly after 10 o'clock last night suffering severe cuts about the face and head and J. W. Stokes, white man of the Ayden community, was jailed on a drunken driving charge as result of an accident that occurred on the Farmville highway about five miles west of this city.

Mrs. Fomes was riding in a car driven by David Seymour when the car was struck by the car driven by Stokes. The force of the collision threw Mrs. Fomes headfirst into the windshield and she received painful cuts about the face and head.

Highway patrolmen investigating the accident learned that Stokes had been taking far too much of the road and had just forced one car off the highway before striking the Seymour car.

Highway patrolmen today were investigating an accident on the Fountain highway Saturday. Making their rounds, of the highways Saturday night they came upon two wrecked cars on the Fountain highway but both cars were abandoned and no information as to the wreck was available. The officers today were checking up on the collision.

No County Court Here Tomorrow

No session of county court will be held here tomorrow this week's hearing being postponed until October 15. Judge Dunk James announced this morning.

This week's session of the court was postponed because of the sitting in the Supreme Court in Raleigh and the necessity of Judge James' and several other local attorneys attending that court.

Because there was no court week before last, the sessions during the week just passed was a heavy one including about 60 cases. With no court this week it is probable that the docket next week will be another heavy one.

Fire Prevention Week, with the kind of weather we are having now, comes at a good time, for with the fires being kindled for the first time this season in the homes and business houses and industrial plants persons should take precautions lest they start a fire that will prove disastrous. Check over your furnace and all flues carefully before you start your fires and also clean up the summer's accumulation of rubbish on the premises before the fires are started. Just because your flues and furnace or stoves were in perfect condition when you stopped using them last spring is no reason why they should not be carefully inspected now for much can happen during the idle summer months that can cause a fire now. This week is Fire Prevention Week, when every citizen should learn about and practice fire prevention.

President Roosevelt was certainly right in losing no time in invoking the embargoes provided in the "Neutrality Act" passed by the last Congress to keep us out of any foreign war. It is true that war in Africa has not been officially declared, but it is plain that despite the lack of official declaration, there is war and our President was right in taking quick action. Our experience in the late World War should convince us that it is better to lose some business in the way of munitions and war supplies than to have our nation dragged into another war.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Mr. Roosevelt once denounced "lawyer-jobbers" but it did not freeze them. They are entertained by Cabinet members, and the appearance of their names in society columns alongside those of administration bigwigs makes fine advertising. It brings business. Another prominent Democratic lawyer—J. Bruce Kremer of Montana—is now abroad with Attorney General Cummings.

RIPOSTE Controller General McCarl has just discovered that his political godfather—George W. Norris—outsmarted him at the far end of the recent Congressional session. Originally Mr. McCarl claimed the right to investigate all TVA expenditures and to charge the cost of the accounting to the Senator's pet project. It amounts to thousands of dollars a year. But Mr. Norris pointed out that TVA generates many activities besides power—food control, soil erosion, navigation and fertilizer experiments. He persuaded Congress that TVA should finance only the inquiry into its power phases, and that Mr. McCarl should pay for the other investigations out of his own appropriation. It was the Senator's way of retaliating for what he regards as an attempt by his erstwhile pupil to sabotage TVA.

She didn't promise to shovel coal . . .

It's difficult to picture her as she looked that day—shoveling coal into a basement furnace or boiler. Few men care to have their wives stoking a fire—few wives care to do it.

Now they don't have to! A Fairbanks-Morse Automatic Stoker will relieve you and your family of the distasteful labor of tending fires. You fill the hopper at night and then can leave the next morning with the assurance that your family will enjoy a comfortable fire in the house all day long without giving thought to the furnace.

And not only this greater convenience of living is yours, but a positive saving on your fuel bills—often as much as 45%. Even better means less waste of coal . . . And this Fairbanks-Morse Stoker will use cheaper grades of fuel than you could use otherwise.

One of our experienced heating men, without obligation on your part, will be pleased to tell you all about this Fairbanks-Morse Stoker. And explain the convenient automatic control which enables you to have the stoker while paying from income.

TOGETHER—If you believe Neville Chamberlain—British Chancellor of the Exchequer—international monetary stabilization is impossible at present because Britain won't play. But informed New Yorkers discount his vehement insistence to this effect. They point out that Chamberlain rested his case against stabilization on two factors which are admittedly vital—that leading currencies are now out of equilibrium with each other and that stabilization would lead to serious and perhaps dangerous political repercussions.

The first dig is directed in part at the United States and what the British call our undervalued dollar—but even more at the French and the stubborn way in which they cling to the gold standard. The French problem is not hard to solve. It can be safely assumed that Laval is ready to devalue the franc the moment he has definite assurance that the United States and England will stabilize promptly in terms of the franc's new level. As for the dollar, we may be able to persuade even Mr. Chamberlain that it would be smarter to reach an agreement on dollar-pound relations than indulge in a currency war.

The political objection is more difficult to surmount. The French peasants are bitterly opposed to devaluation and there's always the chance that they might get nasty about it. Over here we have the Committee for the Nation and other inflationist groups—strongly represented in Congress—who don't like the idea of stabilization and might seek to retaliate on its sponsors. In England the situation is even more ticklish. The forces opposed to devaluation with gold are stronger politically than they are in this country and their sentiments are no; to be taken lightly by government officials. But New York insiders still believe some stabilization formula will be found. It's the first time in years that the United States and France have pulled together against Britain—and the British don't quite know what to make of it.

DEALERS: It begins to look as if the Securities Exchange Commission may get into a lot of hot water by its attempt to have the Investment Bankers Association take over the job of policing over-the-counter dealers.

Naturally the Commission has no appetite for the job. There are infinite complications and New York rates it sound sense that Jim Ladd and his associates should want to spend a long time studying them before promulgating regulations. Heavy moves would be essential to breed trouble.

But it's one thing to postpone action of a chore until you are fully prepared to handle it and quite another to delegate it to someone else. However much the I. B. A. may wish to help it has no enforcement authority under the law—nor can the SEC give it any. Reconciliation over the commodities are already in a mood to challenge the Commission's powers over them on constitutional ground. They would be even more ready to defy the court, even such an unofficial body as the I. B. A., to tell them what they can and cannot do. Furthermore they would have a much better chance to win their argument in the Supreme Court if any attempt at second-hand regulation were made.

STRENGTH: There's no cause to get agitated about recent weakness in the stock market. Wall Street's clearly say that the buying from April 15 to mid-August was exceptionally strong. Purchases were largely people of means looking for long term investments and prices gained momentum on their orders. They weren't the type to frighten easily and there are no indications that they have participated in the selling wave.

But since about August 15 there has been a change. Big-time traders decided future prosperity had been discounted enough—and quit buying. They were replaced by a bunch of amateurs and semi-pros trying belatedly to jump on the bull market bandwagon. They are the kind of customers who quiver at the slightest rumor—and they've done a lot of quivering lately. But their skittishness does not impair the fundamental strength of the market.

PEACEFUL: Political sharps rate it highly significant that Sen. or Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma—arch-apostle of inflation—should announce publicly at this time that he intends to support Roosevelt and will try to induce Father Coughlin to do the same. Thomas has a large following among those who feel that monetary measures are the best recovery prescription.

Comment runs that he must know stabilization is in the wind. By committing himself to FDR now he virtually abandons in advance the idea of making a serious political issue of it. If other inflationists follow his example the transition to a definite stable money policy may be unexpectedly peaceful.

Ryan Is Vesper Service Speaker

Rev. W. A. Ryan, pastor of the Eighth Street Christian Church, led the vesper services of the College Y. W. C. A. last night, taking as his subject, "Preparation for the Changes of Life." He stressed the necessity on the part of college students to keep their minds open so as to be ready to meet changes that are constantly taking place. As educational methods and thoughts will continue to go through changes, one must be able to make adjustments. He contrasted the teacher who could not adjust herself to these changes with the one who is adaptable, showing how one is a failure and the other a success. He called attention to the changes in religious thought that now are attracting so much attention and showed how one should be able to readjust himself or herself to new aspects of religion and still hold on to his or her faith.

The special music was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. J. A. McIver and R. E. Bolling sang a very beautiful duet. "He Was Nailed to the Cross." At the opening of the services Miss Lane played a violin solo accompanied by Miss Nola Walters. Miss Katharine Wallace had charge of the services, reading the scripture lesson.

Three More Teachers At The College Here

Two new teachers and one recalled, arrived over the week-end and are this morning meeting classes in East Carolina Teachers College.

Dr. Claude Simpson, who comes directly from Harvard University, completed his work for his Ph. D. degree last week. He was elected to the position in the English department of the College some time ago but was granted permission to complete his work at Harvard before beginning his work here, so that would make him only a few days late.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Simpson are from Texas. He holds his A. B. degree from the Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas. They are for the present staying with Dr. and Mrs. Slay, on Eighth street.

Miss Jessie Mack, who taught in the Science Department last year, taking the place of Miss Catherine Cassidy, who had a year's leave of absence, has been recalled for a permanent position in the department. She holds her M. A. Degree from Columbia University.

DARDEN POINTS OUT DANGERS OF BAD WIRING

Local Electrical Inspector Urges House Wives to Help Prevent Fires

In connection with Fire Prevention Week here this week W. A. Bill Darden, local electrical inspector, announced a campaign to prevent needless fires caused by faulty wiring and other defects and bad practices in connection with electrical appliances in the average American home.

The safety campaign, said Inspector Darden will be devoted, in a large measure, to presenting to the public information relating to the dangers, which lie in the use of "handyman" wiring, defective devices and uninspected electrical installations.

Inspector Darden pointed out that the electrical inspection bureau intends to intensify campaign against the misuse of electric service, he stated some of the following facts relating to Safeguarding Electric Service in the Home:

"In all of the misuses of electrical service which are likely to cause fire and injury in the home, office and factory, there is no greater menace than the use of frayed or dangerously made electric cord. Hundreds upon thousands of housewives, daily, flirt with accident and fire in operations with cords which belong in the rubbish heap.

"Without any purpose, save to safeguard electric service in the home, the National Board of Fire Underwriters has authorized the use on approved electrical cords of a small band which certifies that the cord bearing it has been properly manufactured and inspected for safety.

"To make the public 'cord and wiring conscious', to influence the buyer to insist on approved safe cord and other devices, is one of the major purposes of the fire prevention campaign.

"Observance of a few simple rules by the user of electrical appliances will have the effect of automatically cutting down the annual toll of fires and casualties. These rules, which center around appliance cord, are the following:

"Cords should never be run over radiators or steam pipes. Dampness and contact with metal are dangers when this is done. Never run cords under rugs where they are sure to become worn too quickly. Do not place cords in door jams, where the danger of fire is present. Do not disconnect appliances by pulling on their cord, this loosens the connections and often leads to trouble. Never use cords as substitutes for permanent and properly installed wiring.

"Never leave heating appliances connected when not in use. Examine cords regularly for bare spots which are a constant source of fire hazards; replace worn cords at once as a measure of protection to yourself and those living or working with you. Insist on approved cord bearing the inspection label of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

All reliable manufacturers of cord affix the label to their products.

"Inspector Darden laid stress on the 'handyman' about the house, the amateur electrical expert who never thinks of calling in anyone but himself when minor electrical troubles occur in the house. This species of home sapiens, said the speaker, is a constant menace to himself, his family and his neighbors. His little 'doodads', such as bridging fuses in the house system, have caused more fire engines to roll to residential fires than can be counted accurately.

Bailey Scores In Stand On Potato Control

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Oct. 7.—Senator Josiah W. Bailey scored again with the farmers in eastern North Carolina, especially the potato farmers, as a result of the vigorous stand he took in the potato meeting at Washington last week in favor of putting the law into effect and in which he and Congressman Lindsay C. Warren, author of the potato control act, made one or two of the AAA underlings crawl back into their holes, according to most opinion here. Reports from the eastern counties, where potatoes are extensively raised, indicate that Bailey rates better there now than in many months.

The fact that Senator Bailey stood shoulder to shoulder with Congressman Warren in battling the AAA underlings, Wallace and the AAA underlings, who had announced the orderings which even try to do not intend to enforce the potato control act, is also regarded as ending possibility that Warren might become a candidate for the senate against Bailey. Instead, most observers here now agree that Warren will support Bailey instead of oppose him.

Reynolds To Become Tired Of Questions

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Oct. 7.—Senator Robert R. "Our Bob" Reynolds, who was so "very tired" following the completion of his 9,000 miles trip around the United States in 30 days supposedly on only $100 per person, that he could not discuss the trip on his return to Washington, is going to become still more tired answering questions—or dodging questions—as to whether he actually made the trip on $100 per person. Most of those here who know "Our Bob" are convinced. For while it is agreed that the talk of making the trip in the automobile trailer on $100 per person was fine baloney before the trip started and while it was still in progress, there are very few here who gave any idea that "Our Bob" and his party of three made the trip on much less than $300.

One New York publication chronicled the fact that when "Our Bob" and his party stopped in New York and parked their car and trailer in Central Park for the night—they were later told to move by the police—that a rain came up and the Junior Senator and his companions moved to a New York Hotel for the balance of the night. This same publication also related that when the press photographers visited the trailer pullman, bedroom and kitchenette, that "Our Bob" hurriedly draped a towel about his rather expensive middle, wiped the dust from an "evidently unused frying pan" and nosed holding the frying pan, containing an imaginary egg over an unlighted stove.

From these and other facts gleaned here and there, it is being generally surmised that if the Junior Senator and his party stayed in hotels and did not use the cooking utensils and equipment in their trailer home, that they undoubtedly spent more than $100 each on their ballroom tour.

Now that "Our Bob" has returned from his Chamber of Commerce junkie around the country, there is talk that he may become a candidate for the Vice Presidency. But most people here regard it as nothing more than talk—just some more Chamber of Commerce talk.

CHICKENS WITHOUT GIZZARD GET ALONG JUST AS WELL

Washington (API)—Scientists of the U. S. department of agriculture removed the gizzards from several chickens.

Results: The chickens, not along just about as well on ground corn as did a flock of chickens with whole digestive apparatus.

Conclusion: The chicken's gizzard does practically none of the work of digestion where fine feed is used.

Grady Covers 84 Counties In Campaign

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Oct. 7.—Senator Paul D. Grady of Henry, Johnston county, has already been in 84 of the 100 counties in the state "feeling out" sentiment with regard to his candidacy for Lieutenant Governor, he said while passing through here today. He expects to visit the remaining 16 counties within the next ten days. The only section he has not yet visited is the northeastern part of the state, comprising the First and Second Congressional districts.

Senator Grady was a member of the State Senate in both 1933 and 1935 and was president pro tempore of the senate in this last session. He is one of the three announced candidates for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor, the other two being State Senator W. P. Horton of Pittsboro, Chatham county and former State Senator George McNeill of Fayetteville, Cumberland county. Senator Grady is the only one of the three candidates running on an anti-sales tax platform.

For the past ten days Senator Grady has spent most of his time in the group of southeastern counties immediately surrounding Robeson county and he has found the reaction to his candidacy to be excellent, he said.

SANCTIONS AGAINST ITALY

much as Ethiopia has been a merchant marine the effect of the policy falls upon Italy. In Ethiopia the first of the war—without the aid of a declaration of war on either side—was in the making. Aduwa had fallen. The main Italian army of 75,000 men on the northern front occupied the northern metropolis yesterday. While consolidating their position about Aduwa—on the plateau along the rim of a vast mountainous area—the Italians were prepared to meet the main column of Emperor Haile Selassie's army. The Ethiopians were some 20 miles away. The battle may come at Makale, 20 miles south and east of Aduwa.
