Hauptmann Loses His Appeal From Death Sentence

Highest Court in New Jersey Upholds Death Sentence Conviction For Kidnap-Slaying of Lindbergh Baby

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 9.—(AP)—New Jersey's highest court condemned Bruno Richard Hauptmann today to the electric chair. By unanimous decision the 13 members of the Court of Errors and Appeals upheld the Bronx carpenter's conviction by a Flemington jury last February 13 for the murder of little Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., March 1, 1932.

One by one in a tense court room they said "No" to the arguments which Hauptmann's counsel had urged in making its appeal last June 20. The charge that Attorney General David T. Wilentz had gone far beyond his privilege in exhorting Hauptmann during the final summing up the high court held no grounds for review was created especially in the absence of objections at the time by Hauptmann's counsel. The court held also that Hauptmann had not been improperly treated in Wilentz's cross-examination "in the absence of objections." Hauptmann's counsel's contention that he state had changed its theory of how the crime was committed between the opening and the closing of the trial was no reason for reversing the lower court's decision, the court ruled. The decision was read by 73-year-old Justice Charles W. Parker.

As to the argument that Justice Thomas Trenchard who presided over the Flemington trial was unfair in his charge the high court said: "It is always the right, and often the duty of a trial judge to comment on the evidence and give the jury his impression of its weight and value."

Three courses, none affording any great hope for the prison-pale Bronx carpenter are now open for his attorneys.

1. Appeal to the board of pardons which could commute his sentence to life imprisonment. (Such appeals are rarely granted.)

2. Appeal for a new trial on the grounds that new evidence has been discovered since the first trial. (One of Hauptmann's lawyers said recently that such new evidence had been found.)

3. Appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's first words after hearing of the ruling of the Court of Errors and Appeals against him today were: "My God, what a fine anniversary present for Anna."—The Hauptmanns will have been married 10 years tomorrow.

Lloyd Fisher, chief counsel for the doomed man broke the news to Hauptmann in the death house of the state prison. He had been talking to Bruno before the decision was announced. A guard told him of the ruling on the way out and he immediately went back to tell Hauptmann.

"You have done your best, Lloyd, and I know some way some course will right this crime," Fisher quoted Hauptmann as saying. "I never did this and surely they will find that out before it's too late," Hauptmann added.

Fisher said he would confer with his associates and appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. He said he had no immediate plans concerning his initial step.

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 9.—Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell is in Chicago this week attending the annual convention of National Association of Motor Vehicle Commissioners in session there October 9, 10 and 11. He is accompanied by Dick McLaughlin, Director of the Motor Vehicle Bureau of the Department of Revenue.

CONGRESSMEN WILL SUPPORT ROOSEVELT

Georgia Delegation To Oppose Governor In Fight on Presidency

Atlanta, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Governor Eugene Talmadge, foe of the national administration, faces a fight from the members of the Georgia congressional delegation if he tries to win the state vote away from President Roosevelt in 1936.

Mentioned as a possible contestant for the Democratic presidential nomination against Mr. Roosevelt, Talmadge is now in the north pursuing his campaign against the president.

The Georgia delegation made plain its position on the Talmadge-Roosevelt issue yesterday at a meeting here at which it pledged its support to the president and expressed conviction that he would be renominated and re-elected. After the meeting at which the delegation laid plans for a welcome celebration for the president when he speaks here Thanksgiving week, individual members went even further in their expression of loyalty to Mr. Roosevelt.

KILLER COMES UP FOR TRIAL

Murderer of Chicago Bridegroom Will Plead Temporary Insanity

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Mandeville W. Zenge, iron mill worker, charged with the slaying of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, whose widow was Zenge's sweetheart.

The trial before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington promised findings over the 26-year-old defendant's guilt or innocence or over his reputed insanity.

Arrested in Chicago, the scene of the crime, after leaving a box office note, Zenge maintained his innocence through several days and nights of police interrogation. The theory the defense set forth in its petition recalled the intricate and subtle arguments employed in the famous Leopold and Loeb case and the legal and psychiatric battle over Walter Krauser and Russell Scott slaying of 1925. Criminal court history is expected to repeat itself in the fight over the question of the irresistible impulse of temporary insanity as a defense in capital cases.

Attend North Carolina League Of Municipalities

Mayor R. C. Flanagan, Chief of Police George Clark, City Clerk J. O. Duval, Superintendent of City Schools J. H. Rose, and Judge F. M. Wooten have returned from Greensboro where they attended a meeting of the North Carolina League of Municipalities held at Segefield Inn in that city.

At the concluding session yesterday afternoon, Mayor R. C. Flanagan was elected honorary vice-president of the League.

En route to Greenville Chief of Police Clark and Judge Wooten attended the East Carolina Firemen's Association in Kinston.

Bound Over For Drunken Driving

Only one case in city court was bound over to county court this morning when Mayor R. C. Flanagan found himself faced with a very small docket composed of a few drunks.

After disposing of the minor cases Mayor Flanagan bound Howard Smith, white man over to county court on a charge of drunken driving.

TWELVE DIE IN TRANSCONTINENTAL PLANE CRASH

The three members of the crew and one of the nine passengers who died are shown below, left to right: Vincent K. Butler, San Francisco lawyer; Leona Mason stewardess, of Kemmerer, Wyo.; Pilot H. A. The ship apparently struck one hilly and then "bounced" several hundred yards to another knoll where it crashed. (Associated Press Photos)

LEAF PRICES DRAW NEARER TO PARITY

Season Average Price Here is Drawing Close to 20 Cents Mark

With lighter sales yesterday less than a million pounds of leaf were disposed of on the Greenville tobacco market and the day's average was two cents below the high average price reached here Monday. Asked as to whether the lower average was because of lower prices, observers on the market stated that the Tuesday's sale contained carry over tobacco and a quantity of re-handled tobacco which reflected itself in the lower average price for the day. It was stated that prices on the fresh tobacco especially the better grades were equally as good as on Monday.

Official figures for yesterday's operations were 867,178 pounds sold for $198,674.42, a average of $22.91 per hundred. Yesterday's sales brought the season's average price to the $19.50 a hundred mark.

With the crop only about half sold, those in close touch with the market were of the opinion that the usual better prices through the month of October would bring the season's average here to the parity figure of 21 to 22 cents a pound.

Crawford Bond Is Raised To $1,000

Henry Crawford, driver of the automobile in which Miss Nina Hines, of Durham, was seriously injured when the car was wrecked near here last week, today had his bond increased from $200 to $1,000 when reports from the hospital were to the effect that the young woman's condition was not so good.

The young woman "a magazine girl" working the tobacco market, who gave her home as Durham, was injured when she took a ride during the noon recess of the tobacco market with Crawford, an employee of one of the local warehouses. The car, a high speed failed to take a curve on the Farmville highway just west of this city, overturned and crashed into a tree. The young woman received a fractured skull and a broken shoulder together with other injuries. Crawford was immediately placed in jail pending the outcome of the young woman's condition and later was released under $200 bond when given a preliminary hearing before Magistrate John Ivey Smith. In view of the turn for the worse in the young woman's condition, Judge Smith this morning ordered the bond raised.

Many Think Special Session Is Necessary

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Oct. 9.—A special session of the general assembly should be called not only to enact old age pensions and state-wide liquor legislation, but to again insert the nine basic food exemptions in the sales tax law, in the opinion of many visitors here from over the state who are in close contact with the people. If Governor J. C. B. Ewinghaus would call a special session and request it to confine its efforts to these three things, the prevailing belief is that it would finish up and go home in less than 20 days, that it would tend to make the Governor much more popular while at present most people agree he is becoming more unpopular. It would also remove both the liquor question and to a very large extent, the sales tax, from the forthcoming gubernatorial campaign, many observers believe.

"I do not see how the Governor is going to be able to avoid calling a special session of the general assembly to pass additional liquor control legislation, to say nothing of old age pensions and possible revision of the sales tax law to reinstate the food exemptions," said former State Senator Larry I. Moore of New Bern, while here Tuesday. "I know that all of the counties in our section of the state which do not have liquor control and county liquor stores want to have them. And I am told by people from other sections of the state that there has been a great change of sentiment over the state as a whole, with the result that at least 50 other counties now want liquor stores. So as soon as the Supreme Court passes on the validity of the present county liquor control laws, there is going to be a tremendous demand from the other counties which want either similar laws or a state-wide control law. I am personally in favor of a state-wide control law but which will leave the counties about 50 per cent of the revenue from the liquor stores." While agreeing that there was already a very strong demand from almost all sections of the state for a state-wide liquor control law under which those counties who want to have liquor stores may have them, Thomas D. Warren of New Bern, who was here with Senator Moore, thought there was even greater need for revision of the sales tax section of the Revenue Act so as to restore the basic food exemptions.

"The 1935 general assembly made a tremendous mistake when it changed the sales tax law to include all foods," Warren said. "And now since it is becoming evident that the sales tax is going to yield several million dollars more than was at first estimated, the thing to do is to put the exemptions back in it and take the tax off the foods which were formerly exempt. If a special session should do that and then enact a state-wide liquor control law, I believe the state would still get all the money it needs to meet its budget and the people would certainly be better satisfied. It would also help to make the present administration much more popular than it now is."

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER

1938: Despite its novel experiments the administration now looks to home, sweet home to lead the nation into large-scale recovery. The spurt in housing construction, which totals almost three times that in 1934, is privately hailed by the planners as the dawn of the economic horizon.

It has stimulated numerous basic industries and furnished capacity employment for the building trades. Even the railroads are on the upgrade for carloadings are on the increase. Undiscovered schemes for financing vast building plans are under discussion, with the federal government furnishing credit or insurance of mortgages at extremely low rates. These will exceed the FHA program. All federal agencies engaged in promoting this kind of construction will be geared up.

Non-political economists cite the housing boom as fundamentally significant. They say the cycle of recovery always begins with increased construction, then hope over into heavy industries—steel, lumber, cement, railroads, machinery etc.—and next into a securities upswing. If they are right—and they point to the 1924-1929 phenomena

23 DEATHS IN THIS DISTRICT IN SEPTEMBER

Highway Patrol Report Shows 23 Killed And 138 Injured Last Month

Twenty-three persons in the 36 counties comprising this highway patrol division, met their deaths in highway accidents and 138 others received injuries during the month of September according to the monthly report issued from the headquarters of Lieutenant Lester Jones here today.

During the month 201 accidents in the division were investigated by the patrolmen and 747 arrests were made. Of the arrests made 733 were found guilty by the courts and given sentences totaling 178 months in addition to revocation of licenses of a large number of drunken or careless and reckless drivers. The arrests included 92 drunken drivers.

In addition to their activities in connection with accidents, patrolmen inspected nearly 2,500 vehicles, issued equipment tickets to 68 drivers, light tickets to 26 drivers and corrected lights on 2,333 vehicles. Court fines were extended in 253 cases and four stolen cars were recovered.

Jointly the patrolmen in the division rendered 13,800 hours of service during the month and traveled a distance of 110,523 miles.

Graham and Kitchen To Fight For Two Year Medical School

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 9.—Two-year medical schools meeting all valid requirements should not be closed, President Frank P. Graham of the University of North Carolina said here today.

Dr. Graham's statement was in response to questions as to his attitude with respect to the recent resolution of the council on medical education and hospitals of the American Medical Association to the effect the council would no longer publish a list of approved two-year medical schools.

The resolution threatens the existence of the medical schools at the University and Wake Forest in this State.

"There is a vital place in American higher education for the two-year medical school," President Graham said. "The case should be considered at the meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges in Toronto the last week in October."

President Graham and President Thurman Kitchen, of Wake Forest, have recently held conferences with regard to the presentation of the case for the two-year medical schools at the Toronto meeting. It is understood they are in agreement that the two-year medical schools should have a fair hearing in the merits of their cases.

President Graham and President Kitchen plan to attend the Toronto meeting in company with the deans of the medical schools. President Kitchen is the vice president of the National Association of American Medical Schools, which include 19 two-year medical schools. Some of these schools in other states as in North Carolina, it is said, have been filling a real social and medical need on a high specific plane. Dr. W. DeB. McNider, of the University Medical School, who will present one of the scientific papers at the Toronto meeting, will also participate in the presentation of the case.

FIRE WRECKS STORE HERE

Clothing Store Stock Complete Loss; Building Badly Damaged

Fire early this morning gutted the single story building on Evans street, occupied by Spencer's clothing store and William Size, custom tailor, with the stocks and equipment of both concerns a complete loss and with heavy damage to the building. The total loss was estimated to run from $5,000 to $6,000. The building was the property of Dr. W. I. Wooten.

When the fire was discovered about three o'clock this morning it had gained considerable headway and firemen did good work to confine it to the one store.

The clothing stock was valued at more than $4,000, a complete loss partially covered by insurance. The clothing and equipment of William Size, tailor, in the rear of the building was a total loss of several hundred dollars with no insurance. The loss to building and fixtures was estimated to run above $1,000, partially covered by insurance.

Electrification Authority Making Many Re-Surveys

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 9.—The Rural Electrification Authority is making a number of re-surveys in about 60 counties, in addition to the entirely new surveys being made in 16 western counties, it was announced today by Dudley Bagley, chairman of the Authority. These re-surveys are being made in all cases where lines already projected are found to have an estimated consumption of 2,400 kilowatt hours per mile per year. For while this consumption is not regarded as large enough to warrant the construction of a line, it is believed that these re-surveys may show an even larger estimated consumption, or that those alone the line may decide to use more appliances and thus increase the consumption enough to warrant the building of some of these lines.

Good progress towards the completion of the rural electrification line in Wilson county is also being made, Bagley said. This line will be completed and ready to serve its customers just a soon as some transformers are received and installed.

No Peace In Sight; Diplomatic Relations Ended; Ethiopians Are Confident They Will Win War From Italy

Geneva, Oct. 9.—(AP)—(Copyright by A. P.)—The League of Nations alignment favoring punishment of Italy for invading Ethiopia was broken today by Austria and Hungary. Baron Pflugi, of Austria, announced that his nation did not accept the report of the council's committee of six under which sanctions would be imposed upon Italy. The delegate from Hungary announced his country was not in position to endorse the conclusion of the League council which decided Italy had disregarded its covenant under the League of Nations.

The two announcements were made in the meeting of the League assembly which had been called to decide on what action might be taken against Italy for the war in East Africa.

Experts pointed out that the opposition of Austria and Hungary meant merely in event of a vote favoring sanctioning of Italy, that those two nations would be exempt from participating in whatever sanctions were decided upon.

(By Associated Press)

The League of Nations today undertook its gravest task in history, penalizing of Mussolini's fascist government for its aggression against Ethiopia. The delegates to the League assembly, essayed what they thought might be a new force for world peace, the mobilization of nations to carry out sanctions against the aggressor.

As the League debated punishment for the Italian government the Italians gave further evidence that peace at this time was not contemplated. The pretense of diplomatic cordiality between Rome and Addis Ababa was ended. The Italian foreign office authorized its minister to leave the Ethiopian capital. He had been asked to leave by Emperor Haile Selassie yesterday. The Ethiopian charge d'affaires in Rome was likewise asked to leave on the first boat.

The Roman legions in northern Ethiopia occupied 3,000 square miles. They controlled Addis Ababa, although reports had said the Ethiopian warriors were making a counter attack on this metropolis of 3,000 persons. In this area the Italians were seeking to justify their claims they were carrying civilization to the Ethiopian people. Government leaders said the army was making every effort to restore regular civil life seeking to convince the tribesmen they would be better off under Italian colonial rule than under the rule of Haile Selassie. The Italian forces reported officially to Rome that it was a "quiet day" along the northern front but these same reports told of "most bloody fighting" yesterday in the capture of Edaghamus, southwest of Adigrat, another principal town in this area captured by the Italians in their drive on Addis. The Ethiopians denied that the town had been taken.

The Italians have hailed their gains as great victories but in Addis Ababa there was no concern felt for the occupation of the north. Addis was evacuated, the Ethiopians say, not captured. The evacuation of these towns was the first step in the Ethiopian campaign to fall back into the mountains and harass the invaders with rapid expeditions and night raids. In Addis Ababa there was not the slightest evidence that the natives feared the advance. They felt secure in the belief that Haile Selassie's forces would easily turn back the Italians when the campaign comes to the mountain fastnesses. But on every hand, however, there was fear of an aerial attack.

Wilson Infant Died Yesterday

Robert Lee, 3-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Wilson who reside a mile north of Greenville, passed away in Pitt General Hospital yesterday afternoon at four o'clock following an attack of pneumonia and colic. Funeral services were conducted this afternoon from the late home by Elder L. B. Manning, Free Will Baptist Minister. Burial followed in the family burial ground near Kings Cross Roads. THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG turn to normalcy, there are so many folks on the relief rolls. So for they haven't worked out a satisfying answer.

HOVAL: The GOP appears to have got the jump on the Democrats in winning the allegiance of a class of voters whose political behavior is always hard to predict—the women. How this unknown electoral quantity behaves in 1936 is certain to be an important factor.

Although the administration set out to woo the feminine voters, naming their representatives to many high offices, it has no held that advantage. In the actual practice of government Democratic women have been neglected and overruled many times. Their advice on policies and appointments has been disregarded. The Republicans are playing up this historic apple of discord.

Chairman Fletcher also named a smart woman as his new helpmate—
Mrs. Robert Lincoln Hoyal. Her regional conferences have brought out record-breaking crowds. Her explanation is that women want assurance of stability in the home, in society, in government. She says that they personify political experiments and fear that many administration moves threaten their security. She expects to win back a majority of the women who voted for the President in 1932—and she seems to know what she's talking about.

ESCAPE: Certain administration
advisers have devised a plan for tapering off huge relief expenditures through WPA and PWA. It will be presented to President Roosevelt when he returns to Washington. If he approves it will get the government out from under its annual $3,000,000,000 outlay.

The idea is to cut down the amount of money which the federal government will provide for local, non-federal projects. Instead of Washington providing 90 or 100 per cent of the funds, as Harry Hopkins does, the scheme is to advance
not more than 30 or 50 per cent.
Likewise the 45 per cent grant which Secretary Ickes gives would be cut to 30 or 25 per cent.

Insiders figure this system would have two effects. Local communities—cities, counties and states—
would be less eager to demand federal aid, and thereby slice federal expenditures. But the important point is that if the voters agree to shoulder the lion's share of the financial burden—which they probably would not—they cannot complain against federal extravagance.
It would also subject local governmental boards to the criticism which is now showered upon spending agencies at Washington. It's a slick way out.

CHANGES: Consumers' protests
against increasing prices don't disturb Dr. Walton Hamilton, who now handles this problem. He is making an investigation of production and marketing costs and they may throw an entirely new light on the problem of the high—or low
—cost of living.

Dr. Hamilton is investigating
many industries—ice, dresses, milk,
automobiles, electric appliances—
to determine how their marketing arrangements may be reorganized on a long-time basis. He is in no hurry to reduce current costs, for he is thinking of the future. He maintains that the prices of some things are too low and that consumers are receiving a subsidy which they don't deserve. In other fields he thinks prices are much too high, but only an exhaustive study will show why.

Dr. Hamilton has sold his theory to many leading manufacturers and they have opened their books for his inspection. They don't seem to know any more about what things should cost—or why—than he does,
and they are willing to have him investigate. The outcome may be revolutionary changes in the price structure.

organizing a vigorous opposition to Senator Burton K. Wheeler's bill for public ownership of railroads.
They understand he is planning to press it to the limit when Congress

ed that for him by getting the com-

the hope is that the Senator will develop socialization of railroads as his major theme instead. Whether or not his bill passes it will attract

or earnings for the past ten years.
Their attitude toward the bill would be quite different if it were changed in this respect. But right wing observers tartly remark that nobody has ever accused Wheeler of being fair to invested capital.

CONFIDENT: Securities Exchange Commissioner Jim Landis' education is progressing. The utilities agreed to cooperate with him in the administration of the holding company law—and they are doing so—but he has discovered that their definition of cooperation is all their own.

A committee of utility executives
and lawyers has been named to work with the Commission in formulating rules for registration. But it has been instructed not to discuss any other topic with the Commission than this extremely limited
one. Moreover it is clearly specified that nothing the committee decides shall be binding either upon the industry as a whole or upon any individual company.

Mr. Landis is reported as something less than gratified. At the moment power leaders are more interested in the Baltimore test suit than in anything that is happening in Washington. Most of them express complete confidence that John W.
Davis will score a brilliant victory in their behalf. Neutral observers comment that it would be just too bad for them if their confidence weren't justified and Mr. Landis got a court-sanctioned opportunity to show them where they get off. It's a safe bet he'll not.

POWER: An eminent lawyer says that the legal profession is developing a sort of priesthood which takes the position that there must be no change in American law—that we have reached the point where we must stay despite our national origin as the greatest experiment of all time.

The American Liberty League is doing an efficient job of lining up lawyers all over the country—not directly for political purposes. The avowed object is an "interchange of views." The League maintains a legal information service from its headquarters.

The basic idea is to get a large number of non-corporation lawyers to agree in principle with a strong group of corporation lawyers already organized—thus lifting the curse from the pre-judging of New Deal legislation by corporate hired men before it is actually tested in the courts. If the League is successful in marshalling the profession on a broad-scale national basis it can exert a great deal of power. Lawyers are probably more influential politically in their own communities than any other professional or occupational group.

The object is to improve the technique of blind flying to a point where 100 per cent of all scheduled flights can be safely made in summer and 95 per cent in winter regardless of weather conditions. It is still a risky business to land a transport plane in fog—but engineers are convinced the danger can be eliminated.

Changes in design are also in sight which will enable planes to land in a flying position instead of in a virtual stall. This would also make blind landing much safer.

End of The Century Club.
The End of The Century Club held its first meeting of the fall Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. A. D. Frank.

Dahlias, roses and other beautiful flowers were used in decorating. Mrs. James Ficklen presented a most interesting paper on Queen Mary. The development of the simple, timid, unattractive girl of royalty into a stately, almost handsome, understanding queen, whom the people greatly respected and loved, was clearly pictured. Mrs. Ficklen's interpretation of Queen Mary's character and life was given with so much feeling and understanding, probably because on three different occasions she has seen the queen and had local gossip concerning the private lives of the royal family.

The guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Simpson and daughters of the club members, honoring Mrs. James Little.

The club members and guests were invited into the dining room, where Mrs. Leon Meadows, assisted by Mrs. R. J. Slay, Mrs. E. L. Henderson and Mrs. M. K. Fort, served a salad course.—Reported.

Season Tickets For Entertainments.
Season tickets will be sold for the entire program of entertainments to be offered by the entertainment committee to be given at East Carolina Teachers College.

A number of requests here come in from people in the community. A program for the entire year has been arranged with contracts signed for six major attractions, two each term. As the fund is increased by the receipts from each attraction, others will be added. The purchasers of season tickets will get tickets not only for the six entertainments at greatly reduced prices, but will also be admitted to any public entertainments that are sponsored by the college.

The first artist to appear will be La Argentina, the world famous Spanish dancer, who will give a program of the best she has to offer on the evening of October 21.

The November attractions will be Cornelia Otis Skinner, in one of her unique and brilliant dramatic programs. The committee intends to announce a December attraction also.

one of the courses in the Home Economics Department, but that it should be an elective open to any student who wished to take it.

The result is that a one-point course, which meets once a week, and which has incorporated in it the suggestions that come from the students themselves, is being given and has enrollment of about one hundred. Each week a different topic is presented by some member of the faculty.

Among the topics are these: The History of Manners; General Etiquette Rules; Informal and Formal Affairs; Correct Dress and Social Intercourse through Writing; Conduct in Various Situations, such as in public places, public gatherings and on the campus will be discussed at some of the meetings. Developing a Pleasing Personality is the final topic in the course.

The question box method is used for getting specific cases before the class and for stimulating class discussion.

Ainsley-Tapper.
A simple but interesting marriage took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Tapper on Saturday, September 21, at 7:30 o'clock, when Miss Margaret Leone Tapper became the bride of Charlie Ernest Ainsley of Creswell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. R. Combs, pastor of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The ceremony took place in the presence of a few close friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride and groom entered together, unattended. The bride wore a lovely suit of navy blue crepe and taffeta with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds and baby breath tied with silver ribbon.

Mrs. Ainsley is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Tapper. Mr. Ainsley is the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ainsley of Creswell. At present he holds a position as assistant leader of the CCC camp at Swan Quarter.

At present the young couple are making their home with the bride's parents on East Fifth street, Hodges' apartments.

Immediately following the ceremony a buffet supper was given in honor of the couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tapper.

In the center of the table was a lovely bowl of white and pink gladioli and zinnias.

The guests were received and bade farewell by Miss Minna Tapper, sister of the bride, and Miss Margaret Collins, of Ayden.

SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth cannot help feeling uneasy, partly because of her father's sudden and mysterious decision to visit his Astoria plant, partly because the attitude of her fiancé, Rob Crocker, and especially because she has found her father deeply interested in what Tech Sorka, Anne's old nurse, is telling him. Now Anne is going with Rob to dinner with relatives whom she cordially detests.

Chapter Five
HAPPY FAMILY

THE drive was short. The car soon moved up the shrub-lined driveway to the house where Anne had spent the early years of her life and upon which she now looked with affectionate interest.

Sharlee was at the door to meet them, bracelets, necklaces, dangling earrings and curls fluttering and jangling with her animation.

"Where's your mother?" demanded Mrs. Charlotte Farnsworth, appearing from an inner room, her perpetual look of discontent more deeply etched on her almost masculine features than ever.

Anne explained that she had been detained by her father, who was late in getting in from the cannery.

"Lee got in early enough," Mrs. Farnsworth countered. "I don't see which they soon realized she could not answer.

Nor did they gain more satisfaction from the arrival of the Luke Farnsworths.

"Going on business," was Luke's terse reply to the storm of queries, and with that, they had to be satisfied.

The dinner wasn't a pleasant affair. Luke, obviously upset over something, paid scant attention to the remarks addressed to him, and Lucinda, trying to defend or mediate, seemed as distraught as he. Anne, observing them, was uncomfortable, and when she caught an occasional glimpse of Rob, seated on the same side of the table but below her, she found he was studying her parents with a grim, suspicious air.

Only Sharlee seemed at ease. Sharlee and Milna, Sharlee's high laugh echoed above the monotone of talk and occasionally her rapid staccato chatter caused the others to pause and listen.

Anne won her aunt's displeasure by conversing with Milna as she served, and was relieved when the dinner was over and they were allowed to repair to the living room.

"Anne," Luke Farnsworth beckoned, "and boys, Lee, Tom and you, Rob. I want to talk to you all in the library."

Sharlee was at the door to meet them.

HE waited until the men were seated and Anne perched on his chair, then he began. She listened with growing wonder at his obvious displeasure.

"Anne," he said, "I'm sorry I haven't taught you something about the business which provides you with your livelihood. You'd understand better what I'm about to speak of to the boys. However—" he turned to them, "I'm not pleased with the way things are being handled down here."

"You all know my views on fish traps. You know I'll consent to buy from them only after the supply offered by the fishermen has been exhausted. And yet I come down here and learn that you are working with the trap owners, giving them preference over the fishermen."

"Now, Anne, this is the way things are handled among the cannery men. Each cannery either owns its own boats which are used by specific groups of fishermen, or they cater to groups who serve them and no one else. These fishermen depend upon the canneries to buy their haul, as much as the canneries depend upon the fishermen."

"The Farnsworth Fisheries have always dealt with the Pina. I lived among these people as a boy and learned to appreciate their integrity and dependability."

"I've prided myself upon matching these qualities."

"Now, Anne, there are certain seasons when the run of fish is greater than others. There are also closed seasons, a time allowed the fish to pass unmolested up the river to their spawning grounds. During this closed season, the fishermen mend their nets and their boats, and our canneries put the equipment into perfect running order."

"We are nearing a closed season. During the past few years there has been a shortage of fish, and everything points to a record spring run. The spring run, you see, is the greatest of the year."

"Sometimes, during a record run, the canneries are over-taxed."

Functional pains and nervousness at monthly periods often go away when better nourishment has been provided. Cardui relieves certain pains, increases the appetite and improves digestion. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

SAY MCDONALD PROGRESSING IN CAMPAIGN

Anti-Sales Tax Leader Believed To Be Making Friends In Many Sections

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 9.—Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, the Winston-Salem college professor now seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor, is continuing to make good progress in every section of the state he has visited—and even in some he has not, according to reports heard here. Dr. McDonald was here Monday to attend the funeral of Dr. S. E. Douglass, a member of the 1935 general assembly who was killed here Saturday night in an automobile accident. Dr. Douglass was a supporter of McDonald for Governor and his death is regarded as a glow to McDonald here in Wake county and Raleigh.

For the past three or four weeks McDonald has been spending most of his time campaigning in the Piedmont and west and has been making some very substantial progress, according to most reports. At one time it was reported that he had secured the backing of one of the strong factions in Buncombe county and that if Clyde R. Hoey and Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham did not look out, he would carry Buncombe. But more recent reports from Buncombe, while conceding McDonald some real strength there, are to the effect that Graham now seems to be in the lead.

It is conceded by almost every one that McDonald is running on a popular platform and that his opposition to the sales tax is winning many followers. A former member of the general assembly from an eastern county, who does not even know McDonald, said that while McDonald had not even been in his county, he had a large following there because of his opposition to the sales tax. He predicted that unless a special session of the general assembly was called to put the exemptions back in the sales tax that McDonald would undoubtedly throw the race for Governor into a second primary.

"Any man running on the platform McDonald is running on would be dangerous, even if he were dumb and ignorant," this man said. "But from what I hear of McDonald, he is neither dumb nor ignorant, in which case he is a very dangerous candidate."

Goldbrick Looted From Paris Bank.

Paris—(AP)—Robbers who stole the contents of a Paris bank window shouldn't appreciate the truth of the old adage that all that glitters is not gold. Cutting through a metal shutter at night, the thieves took from the window what appeared to be a large ingot of gold, yellow and shining. Bank officials told the police the next day that the loot was gilded copper.

DETROIT HAILS CHAMPIONSHIP

Delirious with joy, Detroit let loose with a noisy, all-night celebration when the Tigers won the World Series after trying 40 years or so. Ticker tape and papers, torn to bits, were thrown by the tens and gave the downtown district the appearance of a midwinter blizzard, as this picture testifies. (Associated Press Photo)
