SEEK PLAN TO RAISE PRICES
OF POTATOESAAA Plan would Have Gov. Buy Surplus of This Year's Crop in West

Washington, Oct. 10. — (AP)—With difficulty over the compulsory tax control of potato production far from solved, an authoritative source disclosed today that the AAA is drafting a tentative plan to increase the price of the 1935 crop at once.

The tax control law effects only potatoes harvested after December 1, 1935 and consequently would apply first to next year's production. This law would place 3-4 cent a pound on all potatoes sold in excess of national allotments. The plan to increase present prices of potatoes, it was learned, called for present purchases of late potatoes by the government for relief distribution.

The purchasing program would be placed in effect in connection with a marketing agreement for western states. The marketing agreement would set up for producers in Nebraska, Colorado, Michigan, Wisconsin and other states in that area. The producers would agree to withhold from market potatoes classed as culls. Then the AAA would buy from each producer from 10 to 25 per cent of his crop for distribution through the federal surplus relief corporation. No estimate of the amount of potatoes which would be purchased under the program was available but it was reported that the AAA believed a sufficient quantity would be bought to increase the price of the balance of the crop from 15 to 22 cents a bushel.

This buying program in the western states together with the marketing agreement, it was said, would be expected to raise the price of all potatoes for the remainder of the year. With the surplus removed from the west, an official said the national demand sources for Maine and New England states potatoes or the late crop should be sufficient to result in general price increases.

Mrs. E. H. Foley, Jr.
Died This Morning

News was received here today announcing the death in Fayetteville of Mrs. E. H. Foley, Jr., former resident of this city. Mrs. Foley died at 4:30 o'clock this morning following an illness of several months.

Funeral services will be held in Fayetteville Methodist Church at 10:30 tomorrow morning and the body will be brought here for burial at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Greenwood cemetery. Services will be conducted by Dr. G. R. Combs, pastor of Jarvis Memorial church, here.

Mrs. Foley, before her marriage was Miss Elsie Mooneyhan, of Raleigh, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Mooneyhan. For several years after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Foley made their home in Fayetteville where he is cashier of Branch Banking and Trust Company. Mr. and Mrs. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Jones, and Miss Zelle Foley will leave this city early tomorrow morning to attend the funeral services in Fayetteville and return for interment here tomorrow afternoon.

MOTHER SEEKS IN VAIN TO KEEP BOY OFF ROAD

Smithfield, Oct. 10.—A mother's pleading with tears and sobs as she stood before the judge's desk with a three-week old baby in her arms was of no avail in saving her 19-year-old son from a road sentence. William McLamb of Elevation township had gone home drunk and when his father attempted to get him to bed quietly, the boy drew a knife on his father and cut his hand. When questioned by the judge about his reason for getting drunk, the boy replied that he "started drinking beer and just got too much."

The judge gave him a 90-day sentence and tried to impress upon him the seriousness of the offense of which he was guilty.

JUDGE COUNSELS AGAINST USELESS LITIGATION

Wilson, Oct. 10.—Issuing a warning to the people of Wilson county that the court are not to be used in all instances in settling disputes and urging that differences be kept out of the courts as much as possible, Judge D. P. Dickinson sentenced Joe Thigpen, 30 years of age, to four months on the roads and suspended judgment on the payment of costs and doctor's bills of Delmar Pearson whom Thigpen assaulted with a billiard ball the other night.

LEAF PRICES
SOME BETTER
YESTERDAY*Day's Sales on Local Market Averaged
$23.51 Per Hundred Pounds

The price situation on the Greenville tobacco market was better yesterday, though the offerings were much lighter than the day's total sales running less than half a million pounds. The day's average price was $23.51 per hundred pounds or 60 cents a hundred above the average price of Tuesday.

Official figures on yesterday's sales were 489,594 pounds for $115,089.20, an average of $23.51 per hundred.

Offerings were light again today with early sales indicating a continued rise in prices. Heavier sales were looked for again tomorrow as well as better prices. In past years October has always been considered the best months to market tobacco and warehousemen and growers expressed hope that this month's activities on the market would bring the season's price average close to the parity figure of 21 to 22 cents a pound.

Based on early estimates that the market here would sell a little over six million pounds for the season sales to date would indicate that already more than half the crop has been sold. The season's average price to date is between $19.50 and $20.00 per hundred pounds.

TIME IS GIVEN FOR NEW ACTION IN DAMAGE CASE

Edenton, Oct. 10.—The $100,000 damage suit brought by Miss Madree Pettus, local school teacher, against her neighbors, Mrs. R. P. Badham and the latter's son-in-law, T. C. Cox, Jr., came up before Judge William C. Harris at Washington, Monday, and a non-suit was allowed the defendants. The plaintiff was given 10 days in which to file a new action.

Miss Pettus claims in the papers to the action that last fall she accepted an invitation of the defendants to accompany them to a football game at Chapel Hill, and that on the way the automobile, which she alleged had been driven at a high rate of speed, swerved from the road and ran into a tree. She was seriously injured and was in a Greenville hospital for weeks, and the complaint sets forth has been incapacitated from work ever since.

ABANDONS HIS APPEAL, WILL SERVE SENTENCE

New Bern, Oct. 10.—Sherman Forrest of Jasper, surrendered to county authorities Tuesday, reporting that he had decided to begin at once his sentence in state's prison rather than take an appeal to the State Supreme Court on the Superior Court decision that convicted him of manslaughter in killing his father, J. E. Forrest, some months ago at their home. He claimed that he shot his father to protect his mother.

The young man was sentenced in September to serve from three to five years in the state penitentiary, and since then had been out under $5,000 bond, pending decision as to Delmar Pearson whom Thigpen assaulted with a billiard ball the other night.

Spending Seen As Big Issue In 1936 Politics*By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated

The financial policies of the Roosevelt administration, its vast spending operations and its unbalanced budgets, are becoming the center of a political attention claimed today by few other issues. The trend gives increasing weight to the predictions of many politicians that, in the end, the dollars-and-cents aspects of the situation in Washington will influence far more votes in 1936 than all the talk about economic theory and the constitution.

When the ordinary voter grapples with the constitutional issue, or tries to dissect and examine "the new economy" or "the more abundant life," he usually fetches up at last in a fog of argument and bewildering contradiction.

With money matters it is different. Many obscurities linger in the government's financial statements, but by and large anyone who can add and subtract is able to see whether the income is balancing or failing to balance the outgo, and draw his own conclusions.

Possibly it was in recognition of this fact that within a single week, Mr. Roosevelt issued his prediction that no heavier taxes would be necessary to liquidate the depression debts, and Mr. Hoover selected this same theme as the subject of a speech regarded everywhere as the most important he has delivered since he left the White House.

Ethiopian Holy City Captured
By The Italians*APPLICATIONS
FOR LICENSES
MAILED OUT*Lieut. Jones Gives
Information About
Securing Driver's License

With the state department mailing out drivers' license applications to every car owner in the state, Lieutenant Lester Jones, head of this highway patrol division, today issued a statement in which he advised all drivers who had already sent in an application to disregard the application just received in the mail or to pass it on to some other automobile operator who had not made application for a license. These applications were mailed out from Raleigh to make sure that every automobile owner would have the opportunity to file for a license but to make another application if you have already made one through the highway patrol office or some other source would cause a duplication and much confusion in the Raleigh office.

Enclosed with the applications from Raleigh, however, are pamphlets setting forth in brief the essential facts of the driver's license law and all operators are urged by Lieutenant Jones to give careful study to these facts.

Lieut. Jones likewise pointed out that in making applications many persons have filled out their names in full in the application and then have not signed their names at the bottom of the application. Be sure that your name and your signature are identical or the application will be returned, Lieut. Jones warned.

Licenses are already being mailed out from the Raleigh office and will be in the hands of drivers within the next few days. On all applications received before the end of this month the licenses will be issued free of charge but after that date there will be a charge of $1.00 per license and Lieut. Jones urged that applications be filed at once if the drivers wished to save the $1.00. The local office of the patrol has an ample supply of applications and have them notarized by the patrolmen without cost.

Officers Seek
Tobacco Thief

The sheriff's officers today were seeking a thief or thieves who 'last night stole around 200 pounds of ungraded tobacco from Paul Whitehurst on one of the J. L. Perkins farms near Sokes. Two pack houses on the farm were broken into by the thief or thieves but in each case the graded tobacco had already been moved to the residence preparatory to marketing and only the ungraded leaf was in the pack houses.

"As I now understand the situation, the Federal government will start collecting this payroll tax of 1 per cent on all payrolls in all the states, beginning January 1," Commissioner Fletcher said. "But the money collected from those states which do not have cooperative laws by that date will not get any of this credit. Instead, it will go into the national fund and be used in other states. But those states which pass cooperative laws, will get all of this money collected from the payroll tax by the Government returned to them to be used in building up unemployment insurance funds in those states. This payroll tax, incidentally, will be levied against all employers having eight or more employees."

While he did not have accurate figures available, Commissioner Fletcher estimated that the payroll subject to this tax amount to at least $200,000,000 a year in North Carolina, so that the Revenue from the tax of 1 per cent the first year would amount to at least $2,000,000.

League Of Nations
Members Discussing
Naval Blockade Of Italy As Means Of Halting War Against Ethiopians

Geneva, Oct. 10.—(AP)—An Italian spokesman told the Associated Press today "any naval blockade against Italy means war."

The spokesman said the Italian delegation probably would leave Geneva tomorrow although it was still awaiting orders.

Discussing the possibility that an ineffective economic boycott might lead to a blockade to make the sanction really effective, he said, "The Italian people do not fear economic sanction because Italy counts on getting necessities from Germany through Austria." He added "All can be obtained from some other nation which can send it to Italy through Germany." Italians are enraged and depressed over the assembly's overwhelming condemnation of Italy, the spokesman said.

"Why will the world not recognize Italy is stifling under death and needs to find an outlet?" he asked. "Why doesn't it realize it must remove causes of war and give Italy some great open spaces where Italians can breathe?"

The fall of Asium was announced officially by the Italian minister in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, communication with the north was cut off but officials said their forces had been ordered to withdraw with the precious relics from Asium before the Italian army advanced.

In the Assembly of the League of Nations silence pregnant with possibility of war on a scale many times larger than that in east Africa was like a symbol of sentiment among the major League members that Italy had started an unprovoked war against the empire of Emperor Haile Selassie.

There were discussions in the corridors but not yet brought into the open of a possible plan to establish a naval blockade against Italy in an effort to bring an end to the bloodshed of Italy's war for complete solution of its problem in Africa.

"Italy is convinced," Baron Pompeii Aloisi, head of the fascist delegation, said before a hushed chamber of League members, "that it is she who is interpreting the true spirit of the League which is synonymous with life against the letter of the League which is synonymous with death."

As the Italian forces, equipped with the most modern death dealing devices, burrowed southward through the ranks of Emperor Haile Selassie's black skinned warriors armed with spears and religious fanaticism, General Santini, commander of the northern army told the Associated Press:

"When we have Ethiopia there never will be another Italian who needs to immigrate to America's fertile land of the Black Empire."

Rome reports that the northern army had taken up an advance toward Haren, a strategic center south of Addis, and on a line of march into the interior. The right wing is driving on the salient where lies Asium. Bitter resistance, presumably with heavy losses in men though the dispatches did not recount the casualties, was encountered by the Italians at Edagahamus and Dedrasion on the left wing.

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The New York Evening Journal in a copyrighted story from Trenton, New Jersey, said today that Bruno Richard Hauptmann might yet save himself from the electric chair by confessing to the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby.

The Journal said "one of New Jersey's most powerful officers" had given this assurance.

The Journal's story was in the form of a letter to Hauptmann whose conviction for murder of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was upheld yesterday by the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals.

"Bruno Richard Hauptmann," the paper told the Bronx carpenter, "you may yet save yourself from the electric chair and earn $10,000 for yourself by confessing and giving the name of your accomplice in the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby. One of New Jersey's most powerful officers has pledged his solemn word to the Evening Journal he will save you. He has vowed he will pay you or your wife and child this sum from his personal fortune and guarantee you need not follow the searing path of the four men you have seen led and carried through the squealed screen door that separates you from life and death."

Landon, Stocky And 'Homespun', Takes Presidential Boom Calmly

Talk of Gov. Alf M. Landon's potentialities as G. O. P. presidential timber continues to spread in the middle west but to it all the Kansas chief executive just turns his broad grin and says nothing. At left, he is seen in his favorite garb, with an "old hat and mellow pipe", while Peggy Ann, his 18-year-old daughter, looks over his shoulder. At right is a recent picture in his office at the Kansas capitol, demonstrating what is meant by a broad grin.

Topeka, Kas. (AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon, who hears himself mentioned with increasing frequency as Republican presidential material, likes old hats, old shoes and a mellow pipe.

The governor himself is silent to all questions about his possible candidacy but the talk in political circles has spread beyond the realm of "favorite son" possibilities.

A stocky broad-shouldered man with a deliberate manner, Landon has about him undeniable "homespun" air that has made him a wide circle of friends. He admits he is no great speaker. He prefers a desk for his feet and a "loaded" pipe to public appearances. He doesn't like a hat unless it is a year or so old and prefers shoes "about the same age."

Secretary to Allen.
Landon came to Kansas in 1904. He was born in Middlesex, Pa., but lived most of his youth in Marietta, Ohio. His first interest in politics came in 1912 when he joined the liberal wing of the Republican party and was a "bull moose" along with several other prominent Kansans, including Henry J. Allen.

His first appearance in state politics was in 1922 as secretary to Governor Allen. Later he managed the campaign of Clyde M. Reed. By 1928, he was Republican state chairman and four years later became governor.

His home is in Independence, where he lives in a rambling, white frame house. By profession, the governor is an attorney, a graduate of the University of Kansas law school, but more than 20 years ago he became interested in oil and has been an independent operator ever since. For many years he has been a leading figure in the industry in the Mid-continent field.

Father of Three.
He is the father of three children. Peggy Ann, 18, whose mother died in 1918, was his "official hostess" for years. He has two children by his later marriage, Nancy Jo, 3, and John Cobb, 2.
Landon is serving his second term. He won his first in spite of Democratic landslide which engulfed former Vice-President Curtis, on the national ticket with President Hoover.
Landon's boosters are gathering up the records of his acts in behalf of state economy as material for spreading the Landon boom.

They point to the "pay-as-you-go" drive which, under Landon's leadership, has reduced the per capita school cost 21 per cent; balanced the state books July 1 with an unencumbered cash balance of more than a million dollars; reduced the state and local governmental unit indebtedness $22,000,000 in 3 years; cut the assessed valuation of real estate approximately 17.5 per cent and reduced automobile license fees 50 per cent. The only new tax added has been an income tax. The state is one of the few without a sales tax.

'Reminiscences'
Landon, himself, leaves all the "pointing with pride" to his friends and sums up his governorship with these words:
"When I sit back in my old easy chair in years to come I'll console myself by saying that I was Governor when Kansas had the biggest bond scandal, its worst drought, hottest weather, the most terrible relief problems and most days of a legislature it ever had."

Foster Jittery At Preview Of 'Biggest Role'

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — Had you happened to sit near Preston Foster at the preview of "The Last Days of Pompeii" you would have seen two performances by Pres on Foster—the one on the screen, and the equally convincing imitation of an actor practically dying in his seat.

Most actors "suffer" at previews of their own pictures and Foster was more nervous than most. This was his biggest role in his biggest picture. He led the cast in bawling "With Preston Foster" stood alone on the screen after the title of the picture. That meant he was featured, if not starred. Most actors can give a good imitation of nervousness, but perspiration is not something one acts. Preston was wringing wet.

May Become Star

Probably now he will be a star, if the preview reaction means anything. He does not want it, because stardom means the top is reached—"and," he says, "after that there's only one direction to go. Down."

Be that as it may, here is Foster after nearly four years in pictures finally in the big limelight. How did he get there?
Well, he came out from the stage to duplicate a part in Edward G. Robinson's film, "Two Seconds." A few more pictures, and then he went to Fox for his "big opportunity." "The Man Who Dared," based on the life of the late Mayor Cermak of Chicago. "The Man Who Dared" was disappointing, not through Preston's fault, but it did him some good. He kept on getting fair parts.

In his fourth year, at his fourth studio, he got "The Last Days of Pompeii"—because his agent, when RKO sought an actor who could wave muscles and be convincing both as a young and an older man, dragged out Preston's earlier "big opportunity" and convinced them. This was "The Man Who Dared." An actor never knows when one picture is going to lead to another.

As He Sees Himself
Foster, a likable fellow, sizes up his own screen self modestly and correctly: "I know I haven't the kind of personality that knocks 'em cold. I think the fans haven't remembered me from one role to another—I hope that is mostly because I seldom looked alike in the various parts, but I don't know. That's why I have to concentrate on the acting."

Which may mean that Foster will be with us many a year yet. The actors who "concentrate on the acting" never have to worry about the fading of youthful personalities.

SPENDING SEEN AS BIG ISSUE IN '36 POLITICS

debts $30,723,000,000.
These are the basic figures from which all calculations must start. They mean that since 1926 (often referred to by economists as a "normal" year), the government will have gone more than $11,000,000,000 deeper into debt.

Presumably this debt will be still further increased before the depression ends. Presumably also the present tax rates, which Mr. Roosevelt says are sufficient, will yield considerably more in a year of full prosperity than the $1,470,000,000 estimated for the current year. Presumably, likewise, interest rates will go up with prosperity, so that the carrying charge on the debt will be appreciably more than the $745,000,000 of this year.

Making allowance for a favorable turn in all three of these undeterminable factors, and assuming that expenditures can be reduced to the pre-depression level of about $2,500,000,000 a year, it still seems certain that Mr. Roosevelt must have in mind spreading the payment of the accumulated debt over a very considerable period of years.

Although he did not allude directly to Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to pay out under present tax rates, it is obvious that Mr. Foster's speech was based on a premise that this would not be possible.

Even beyond that, the farrier President raises points of which much more undoubtedly will be heard during the campaign. He declares that much of the money dispensed by this administration has been spent unwisely, wastefully and in violation of the Democratic campaign promises of 1932.

So it appears that the spending issue, as it now shapes up for 1936, will embrace something more than a charge of unsound financing. Altogether, it promises to rate alongside the many-sided farm dispute as an issue of the very first rank.

To Help Farm Families To Get On Better Farms

Reflector Bureau.

St. Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Oct. 9.—Families living on land which cannot be made to yield a satisfactory living constitute one type of North Carolina farm family that will be served by the Resettlement Administration's program, it was explained at Resettlement's regional headquarters here today. At the same time, Homer

H. B. Mask, regional director of Rural Settlement, estimated that there are more than 50,000 farm families in this state that have a gross income of less than $400 a year.

The land that is taken out of production when families living in submarginal areas are assisted in moving to better farms will be used for forestry, recreation, grazing and wildlife protection.

"The small sum of $400 represents the annual gross income of 50,000 North Carolina farm families," Mr. Mask said. "This includes the value of what is used at home for food and feed as well as what is sold for cash. With such limited incomes, it is difficult for these farm families to buy the food items that are necessary for a healthy diet, and virtually impossible for them to acquire land of their own."
"It will be the policy of the Resettlement Administration, in extending aid to these people, to seek permanent rehabilitation of the borrowers, by establishing them on farms which, together with other available employment, will yield them income enough to make them with farming experience who are or were recently on relief rolls.

The eligible list also includes those who are in default in payment to a Federal Land Bank and are in danger of foreclosure and eviction, and those who are in default to the Farm Credit Administration or its agencies, or have been denied credit by it.

University's 142nd Birthday To Be Widely Celebrated

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 9.—University of North Carolina alumni groups from the coast to the mountains will be meeting this week and next in commemoration of the 142nd anniversary of the founding of the University.

October 12 is the University's birthday, but the customary exercises in Chapel Hill are to be held this year on Friday, October 11, as University Day itself falls on Saturday.

In addition to various meetings of North Carolina alumni within the state there have been planned meetings at many places outside the state as well, according to the Alumni Office here. Among those out-of-state places which have indicated that University Day celebrations will be held include: Baltimore, Boston, New York, Atlanta, New Orleans, Jacksonville, Tampa, San Francisco, and Los Angeles.

A feature of the annual exercises in Chapel Hill is the reading of telegrams and messages from alumni groups in many parts of the world. Last year for the first time the telegrams and messages were placed upon a huge bulletin board that was located at the center of the campus. The innovation will be continued this year.

The principal speaker at the celebration here, which will begin at 10:30 o'clock with the academic procession forming in front of the South Building, will be President Frank P. Graham, who at the request of students and faculty, will deliver the address which was so widely acclaimed at the Williams-town Institute in August. The topic is "Can Democracy Survive in the Modern World?"

Spanish Dancer Here October 21st.
Only three nations possess the secret of rhythm, and America is one of these, says La Argentina, the great Spanish dancer, who will appear at East Carolina Teachers College on the evening of October 21. Her own country for centuries has been noted for its beautiful, picturesque dances, and it has been the chief purpose of the artist's life to revive the dance lore of Spain. She seems to have caught the spirit of each age and mood and expresses them in dances.

Dancing, music and costumes are all perfectly harmonized so that the audience gets the three-fold impression blended as one. The result is that the eye is delighted with both color and design of the dress and the glory of motion in the rhythm of the dance, and the ear with the rhythm of the music.

The greatest dancer in the world, an artist that has thrilled audiences in London, Paris, New York, as well as cities in her own Spain, and all the other great art centers of the world, does not appear only in great cities. She is on a coast to coast tour this fall and Greenville is fortunate in having secured one of the earliest dates in her schedule.

The six big attractions scheduled for the season and for which contracts have been signed, represent the best that can be secured. The six are: Cornelia Otis Skinner, the great dramatic artist; the greatest aviatrix of them all, Amelia Earhart; the greatest group of singers, the Siberian Singers; the most successful of the little theatre troupes, the Hedgerow Players; and the largest and most ambitious marionette show, Sue Hastings' marionettes.

If the public shows appreciation of these by attending them, the fund will be increased so that other attractions will be inserted in the program. The season ticket offered the public includes admission not only to these but to all other public entertainments the Entertainment Committee sponsors. Miss Elizabeth Ferguson will have charge of the season tickets, which may be secured through her or at the place where tickets are placed on sale.

MERIT BADGE For The WEEK

To obtain the Merit Badge for Firemanship, a Scout must:

1. Describe in his own words, the contrast between fire as man's servant (under control), and that same fire as man's enemy (beyond control). From actual incidents, or from what he knows personally or has read, describe the loss and other harm which resulted from lack of proper fire protection both in the case of a home and a community. Give statistics indicating the average yearly loss of life and property due to fire.

2. Demonstrate or submit sketches illustrating two of the following:
(A) Proper building of camp fire with relation to inflammable material both around and under place where fire is laid;
(B) How to extinguish a camp fire;

(C) Three practical methods of forest fire prevention;
(D) Three simple methods of forest fire fighting where elaborate equipment is not available.

3. (A) Give three most common causes of fire in the home, other than careless use and storage of gasoline, and tell how each may be guarded against or prevented.
(B) What precautions should be taken for safe use and storage of gasoline and other inflammable liquids.

(C) Submit practical plan of action for the safe escape of the whole household, including himself, in case of fire at night; such plan to include:
(A) Diagram of the floors on which family sleeps and of the floors below, if any;
(B) Detail of how he would rouse the family and direct their escape;
(C) List of fire protection equipment necessary in his home, depending upon whether he lives in urban or rural community.

4. Conduct at least one fire drill in his Troop meeting place, personally.

5. Demons rate:
(A) How to light and discard a match safely;
(B) With another Scout as subject, what to do in case latter's clothes become ignited, both where blanket or rug is available, and where no such aid is available;
(C) With several other Scouts, formation of a "bucket brigade";
(D) How to make a satisfactory fire pail from a No. 10 can;
(E) What he would do if caught in a room filled with chemical fumes or smoke;
(F) How to extinguish fire under hood of automobile.

6. (A) Explain at least two causes which are likely to result in spontaneous combustion and how it may be prevented in each case;
(B) Three ways of turning in a fire alarm, citing best local method and giving exact location and nearest fire alarm to his home, Troop meeting place, and place of employment or school;
(C) Principles underlying at least three types of fire extinguishers and how to operate each;
(D) Precautions and measures he would take to rescue animals from a burning stable.

On Friday, October 18th, Mr. Brockwell from Raleigh will present a number of Greenville Scouts this badge in the High School Chapel.

Roosevelt Again Turns Spotlight On The Treasury

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Political insiders here who keep their ears to the ground are convinced that the position of the U. S. treasury has and will continue to be for some time now the problem uppermost in the mind of President Roosevelt.

Since the beginning of his administration it has been a matter of common knowledge that while first William H. Woodin and then Henry Morgenthau, Jr., held the portfolio of secretary of the treasury, F. D. R. himself has been the actual head.

Developments during the last few weeks indicate the White House is giving fresh thought to the treasury.

Insiders point to three in particular:

1. The President's declaration on September 6 that his reform program now is "substantially completed";

2. His intimation on September 25 that the government will ask no successor to NRA and no new control over business;

3. His statement on September 30 that the next budget will show a sharp reduction of "emergency" expenditures.

No Accident
Informed circles in Washington believe it was no accident that these three statements emanated from the White House within the space of one month. They are taken to mean the President is convinced the whole future hinges on a financial recovery and such statements were made for the purpose of reassuring business.

While the President's ascension that the budget for next year is being prepared with a decline of "emergency expenditures" in view, observers in Washington were quick to point to several things which easily might upset the financial apple cart.

For one thing there is the spectre of immediate payment of the veterans' bonus. This proposition, involving a possible outlay of some two billion dollars, rests squarely on the doorstep of the administration. The coming session of congress must dispose of it one way or the other.

Then, too, White House calculations for the coming fiscal year take for granted that the AAA processing tax will be upheld by the supreme court. The President frankly admits if the court rules this tax unconstitutional some method must be found to finance the existing contracts the government has with farmers.

Any attempt on the part of the President to spare federal expenditures and to apply larger revenues toward bringing the budget in balance, undoubtedly will meet with a ready response from congress.

Representative Woodrum of Virginia, influential member of the house appropriations committee which controls the government's purse strings, was quick to endorse the President's idea.

NICE MARITAL NEST EGG FOR THRIFTY GLOUCESTER

London — (AP) — The Duke of Gloucester, when he marries November 6, is expected to be better off financially than any of King George's younger sons.

When he marries he will have, as do his brothers, the Duke of York, and the Duke of Kent, an income of $125,000. Up to now he has had a royal bachelor allowance of 10,000 pounds, or about $50,000.

He never has maintained an establishment, living modestly as an officer with various regiments, so he is believed to have saved considerable part of his allowance.

Ethiopian horses are numerous, but only about 14 hands high.

Royal Couple Hire Maid.

MALARIA
Speedy Relief of Chills and Fever

Don't let Malaria tear you apart with its racking chills and burning fever. Trust to no home-made or mere makeshift remedies. Take the medicine prepared especially for Malaria—Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic gives real relief from Malaria because it's a scientific combination of tasteless quinine and tonic iron. The quinine kills the Malarial infection in the blood. The iron builds up the system and helps fortify against further attack. At the first sign of any attack of Malaria take Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. Better still take it regularly during the Malaria season to ward off the disease. Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is absolutely harmless and tastes good.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic now comes in two sizes, 50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2 1/2 times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money. Get bottle today at any drugstore.

THINK THIS OVER

Reader's Digest carries
the following squib: A highway sign in Texas reads,
"This is God's Country—Don't Drive Like Hell."
Without any effort at propriety, have you ever stopped to think just how much like "HELL" some people drive? There are few people who would take a gun and kill someone for material gain, no matter how great
the gain might appear to be,
and still there are thousands of motorists who will take chances on killing themselves and others for the sake of gaining a few seconds on the road or gaining advantage of front position
over some other motorists.

The wording of this highway sign might have been intended as a wise-crack
but certainly it carries food for thought. It is all God's country and certainly those who deliberately take chances of killing someone on the highways are candidates for hell, for the Ten Commandments include
"Thou Shalt Not Kill."

Another difficulty lies in the fact that all contracts must be cleared

December 15. It isn't probable that any real start can be made now,

pigeon-holed for a long while.

Roosevelt has promised to leave business and industry alone if they abide by code standards—which also means if they carry the reemployment load—his advisers are cooking up several new dishes. They intend to be ready for any new emergency.

Financial and industrial experts are making a real study of the possibilities that lie in formation of a National Emergency Council. The idea has been advanced again and again, but it made no headway
while NRA seemed to offer a substitute control of industry. Senator Bulkeley of Ohio introduced an NEC measure at the last session to which nobody paid much heed. It provides for a council to study and solve, if possible, some of industry's worst problems.

Now it develops that several sets of government sharks are exploring the plan in some detail. In addition, there are other industrial checks
and changes being surveyed by

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth
feels an atmosphere of foreboding in everything connected with the mysterious trip she has made from Portland to Astoria with her father and mother. Now Luke Farnsworth is leaving down the line to his relatives and Rob Crocker, his right hand man whom Anne is engaged to marry. Anne is leaving much about the operation of the Farnsworth fish canneries—her father opposes buying fish from the men who live there, for one thing.

Chapter Six HARSH WORDS

"DAD," interposed Anne, "why don't you approve of buying from the traps? There must be a reason."

"I feel there is a reason, though others may not agree with me. This view is purely personal, but as long as I own the canneries, I want it respected."

"Traps are usually owned by individuals; but their haul is many times that of the individual fisherman. I feel their wanton catch, compared with that of the fisherman who has spent his life on the waters earning his particular profession, is not fair play."

"I won't stand for it!" Luke Farnsworth's voice boomed out. He waited a moment for this to sink in, then went on, "Lee, you know my views.
It's up to you, here on the ground,

them against our canneries. Naturally, as an employee, and a future
son-in-law, he's interested."

Anne clung to her father's arm.
For once she agreed with Farley. It explained Rob's feeling towards Neuman on the wharves—and yet,
what was there in what her father had said to arouse such anger in Rob?

"Daddy," she looked up at him,
"please, I love you both so much."
Farnsworth looked down and the grim lines of his face relaxed. "You love us both," he repeated, "all right.
Goodnight Rob, Tom, thanks for the car, Lee. Come on Anne, see mother and me out to the car."

UCINDA was waiting and the three hurried through the rain to the shelter of the car. "Don't like to leave you troubled, like this Anne-child," Farnsworth said, "you'll have to trust your old dad a little longer. We'll talk more about this when you reach home, and remember Anne, say nothing to the others
about Teela's visit."

"I won't, and Dad," she confided,
"I do trust you, and your judgment,
even above Rob's."

"Thanks dear, that sounds good to an old man."

"Oh, I wish you'd take me with you," she cried in sudden panic, as al" critics, he would like to know whether they want, to see the transportation system kept as a "going concern." He also recalls that Wall Street and railroad critics rushed to him for assistance when they needed it and didn't balk at his terms. Says he won't budge an inch.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN
PEACE: War developments are panning out exactly according to informed New York predictions (reported here before Mussolini cut loose). If Duce now has his military triumphs to crow about. The Ethiops put up just enough resistance to enable him to stage a good show. Adowa is avenged—now for a compromise settlement with Britain camouflaged as the fruits of victory.

Both England and Italy are understood to be anxious to reach an agreement. France will naturally do everything possible to help it along and restore a strong allied front against Germany. England will be glad to help if Duce solve his economic and colonial problems if only he will tone down on the Roman Empire stuff. As for Mussolini, he can talk all he likes about the Italian people having the courage to stand up under the League's economic sanctions—but these wouldn't help his difficult domestic situation, at all. Further deprivations might lead to an explosion—and he knows it. So he is expected to welcome an excuse to get out from under the penalties—and to escape from the complex military problems that have Italian army officials so hot and bothered.

Well-posted observers see the only serious obstacle to an agreement in the possibility that England or Italy may still try to play stiff a game of poker. Of course, what Ethiopia thinks about peace
terms doesn't count unless the British decide to back her to the limit—
which is very unlikely. There's better than an even chance that a mutually agreeable formula will be found to kill the specter of a general war.

DETERENT: A hidden factor in the European tangle that carries much weight behind the scenes is the communist menace. Communists and other radicals have been pushing the idea of League sanctions applied to Italy for all their worth.

Their strategy is simple. Italy is the outstanding fascist state. If economic pressure can force an end to fascism there it would discredit fascist movements elsewhere—and thus facilitate the progress of communism as an alternative.

New York learns that the radical undercurrent is causing a good deal of nervousness in official circles all over Europe—and is one of the chief deterrents from war. Probably no European government—with the possible exception of England—
could withstand a series of economic or military reverses without inviting a left wing coup.

MENACE: Germany continues to play a cagy game. New York insiders are impressed by her latest move in giving a secret pledge to Britain not to start anything—in Austria or elsewhere—while—in the Italian crisis remains acute. Naturally the British government is gratified by the promise—which further the Nazi campaign to make sure that Britain remains friendly—or at least neutral—when Hitler is ready to strike on the continent. The Germans appear to be profiting from the diplomatic mistakes they made in 1914.

The best posted financial observers are convinced that Hitler—no Mussolini—is the real menace to European peace. He won't strike
this year—and probably not in 1936
—because he isn't ready. But a full-blown war of German origin is predicted in from two to four years
unless a German internal revolution intervenes.

HOLE: New York City's plan to take over the privately-owned transit lines for a gross price of about $432,000,000 will be more of a boon to the security holders of I. R. T., B. M. T. and Manhattan Elevated than to the city's taxpayers.

Not that the price is excessive.
Efforts by interested parties to jo-key it up were thwarted and experts agree that the final valuation is pretty fair all around. But the subways won't show a profit any quicker under municipal ownership than under private—in fact the operating deficit is likely to mount.
A fare increase is still rated the only way to get the lines out of the red—and that hurdle will probably be higher than ever when politicians have direct responsibility.

The only financial gain to the city in the transaction lies in the projected interest saving—charges that must be paid before the city gets any return from the lines. The proposed new bonds—bearing coupons from 4 per cent to 4 3-4 per cent—can probably be floated successfully if they can be made tax exempt. But there's no guarantee that they can—there are knotty legal questions involved. If not, they will flop and the city will be deeper in the hole than before.

UNTIMELY: The Chase Bank's deposits almost hit the two billion dollar mark in its third quarter statement and the National City crossed a billion and a half. But these spectacular gains were not due to any deliberate campaign to build deposits. They were the fortuitous result of the government spending program and about as welcome as snow in July.

They were especially untimely in one respect. Federal deposit insurance premiums for the year will be based on average October deposits.
So the banks will have to pay
through the nose for their fine showing. Some of the big fellows are quietly throwing out their less profitable depositors wholesale—in order to get as low an October figure as possible. If he said depositors don't like being given the bum's rush that's their hard luck.

Anne found Rob and Sharlee dancing.

"You're handing me the best of things down here. I can't seem to learn who are the recorders of these traps. If you're not smart enough to find out, I'll bring someone down here who can."

"And you, Rob, even in Portland were in a position to know to whom the firm's money was going. Check that end immediately I work with men who go out in boats and I will not tolerate any deviation from this plan. That's all."

He arose, but Anne noticed Rob was on his feet, facing her father eyes narrowed in anger.

Anne stood by helplessly as Crocker spoke. "You got that cock
and bull story from John Neuman,"
he stated belligerently.

"I did no such thing," Farnsworth retorted. "Tom there was in my office
while I talked to John. I didn't know Tom was there. He kept his presence suspiciously quiet. I'm glad now that he did because he can prove Neuman refused to talk; insisted he had no proof of any of the trouble
you said had brought you down from Portland."

And then as an added shot, "Neuman isn't the kind of a man to condemn another without proof."

"Meaning I am?" demanded
Crocker.

LUKE FARNSWORTH stared at Rob as if he were only now seeing him for the first time. "I don't know,"
he answered frankly. "are you?"

"Mr. Farnsworth," Rob's voice was trembling. "I appreciate the fact that you are my employer, the father of the girl I'm going to marry, but no man can talk to me like that."

"Like what?" asked Farnsworth calmly.

"Like I had—" Rob, quiet down. Tom Farley was beside the younger man, "get hold of yourself. Overlook this Luke the boy's upset, he's had a tough day."

"You see, Luke, we folks who've worked around Astoria within the last five years know Neuman. The Finn's think he wears a halo and wings because he has a college education and a knack of getting along with big business men. Rob, here, knows his influence over the fishermen and he suspects him of playing wind and rain rushed in fury against the windows of the car. "Dad you will be careful."

"Silly girl," her mother chided,
"imagine telling an Oregonian to beware of the rain. I'll telephone you in the morning, you're to stay on here, I brought your bags up with me."

Anne kissed them both, clung to them, releasing her hold reluctantly, then at her mother's warning not to spot her gown, rushed back through the rain to the veranda.

She saw her mother's profile, as her father switched on the ignition,
saw her father's firm chin as he bent forward to release the brake. Rain drenched shrubbery sprang into individual shapes as the headlights silvered the darkness. The car moved on until only the ruby tail light twinkled behind like a malevolent eye.

Anne stood a moment listening to the receding sound of the motor. A waiting wind tore in from the water, then faded to a soft rustle among the fir. "Ghosts of dead ships swishing
their seaweed shrouds," thought Anne, and shuddered. "I'm getting morbid," she whispered, "better talk to Rob."

She went into the house to find Rob and Sharlee again dancing to radio music. She encountered Milna Sorki, putting on her coat in the side hall.

"Milna, if you'll wait, Rob and I will drive you home."

Rob seemed more than willing to go, and diplomatically persuaded Sharlee not to accompany them.

They made the drive quickly.
Milna shyly answering questions asked by Anne. Rob concentrating his attention upon driving in the storm. Down through town they went, then over the hill which forms a barrier between Astoria and the Finnish settlement of Union Town.
Depositing Milna at the foot of a long staircase, Rob drove off down the highway to a spot where they could park and watch the rush of storm-tossed waves, boiling in on the sands.

in a all sorts of trouble. His difficulties make sweet news to certain some twinges of jealousy at the

The Texan first antagonized ad-

SPORT SLANTS

It is quite generally known that two things are expected of the football coach at the University of Nebraska. First of all the Cornhuskers must win the Big Six conference championship and come up with at least one player of all-America calibre.

If the 28-7 trimming Coach Dana Xenophon Bible's lads handed Chicago in the season's curtain raiser can be taken as an indication of their power, the Cornhuskers are likely to have the conference championship wrapped up before the season gets far under way. I is a bit early to be nominating all-America candidates but Lloyd Cardwell looks like a better than fair bet for a place on the mythical eleven. He did some fancy ball carrying in scoring three touchdowns against Chicago.

The Cornhuskers were a pretty fair sophomore team last season and evidently Coach Bible has succeeded in moulding the same group into a club that will give any team it meets an interesting afternoon of football.

Slow Motion 'Clinic'
Bible was responsible for the introduction of an innovation which enabled him and his staff to take their football machine apart for clinical examination weekly, make readjustments and put it back together. The taking apart was accomplished by slow motion pictures developed to a high degree of perfection by Dr. Bert L. Hooper, chairman of prethetics in the college of dentistry.

Dr. Hooper was drafted as head cameraman three years ago by the coaching staff because he dabbled in amateur movies. He promptly discarded the orthodox camera tripod and substituted one of his own invention, a sort of gun-sight affair which permits a constant view of the entire gridiron and allows the camera to follow the flight of the ball.

The cost of the film was rather high, $45 to $75 per game. Each game requires 1,000 to 1,200 feet of celluloid. But the resourceful athletic department, headed by Bible made the movies almost a self liquidating liability by throwing in a few good crowd shots, between halves stunts, bands and the like, and opening the presentations to the public at the modest charge of a dime per person.

Players Sometimes Wince
Whereas Nebraska's rabid gridiron fans flock to the showings in large numbers, the players are sometimes reluctant to go into the theatre. The minute disclosures of the camera's eye turn up tactical flaws that might have escaped detection from the stands or bench. Monday morning a preview is given for the coaches. The public is bidden in the noon. Many of them have seen the game but they receive many surprises at the movies. At four o'clock the squad and the coaches view the pictures before practice.

"Dressed up" with titles, close-ups of players, local color, crowd shots, etc., the films are used to keep Nebraska football-minded. They are shown in Lincoln and all over the state at luncheon and civic club meetings, boy scout gatherings and before church organizations.

Blue Devils To Face Greatest Test Saturday

Durham, Oct. 10.—Duke University's Blue Devils are facing their biggest test of the season Saturday and fight can bring them through it safely.

Recent events have caused an about face in pre-game dope and now it is the Blue Devils making a stand against Clemson instead of vice versa.

The dropping from the squad of three outstanding players and the additional possibility that neither Ace Parker, great quarterback, nor Joe Cardwell, tackle, will be able to play due to injuries, have put Duke's stock at a new low for the season.

About the biggest break Duke could get would be for Parker and Cardwell to go back to their posts in good condition but it is now doubtful whether they will be able to play and they certainly will not be in the best of shape.

The three men dropped from the squad—Frank Liana, veteran end; Ike Eakins, sophomore center; and Joe Brunansky, sophomore tackle—are just out of it for certain this week and may be through for good.

The remaining members of the squad are determined to "carry on" and must be admired for their courage. They are working hard in their great effort to win their fourth straight victory over the season and it is a general feeling that, with Parker and Cardwell able to play, the Blue Devils would still be able to "go."

At best, Duke will present a "patched" lineup. Honey Hackney and Dick McAninch have been running in Parker's post this week and to take care of an end shortage Coach Wallace Wade has shifted Sammy Gardner, 5-foot 7-inch 164-pounder, to a flank post. There is nothing definite as to how the line will be.

Hopes are still high at Duke. There is a lot of confidence in this year's team and the students and followers feel that the Blue Devils will win if fight will win for them.

World's Newest Circus in This Section

Above (left to right) are pictured Jess Adkins and Zack Terrell, managers of Cole Brothers Circus, which plays Goldsboro tomorrow and Rocky Mount Saturday. Following the Rocky Mount performance, the circus will make a short tour of Virginia cities returning to this section of North Carolina within the next two or three weeks with Greenville included in its schedule.

The whole circus loving nation has welcomed a new and different show, one that's all new and novel features, combined with independence that makes a real American circus "A Circus" Cole Brothers—Clyde Beatty's Circus is just that, the world's greatest amusement enterprise with all the stars of spang, eland and features from all over the world. The managers of the Cole Brothers circus are well known in the Carolinas. Jess Adkins who for years managed the original "John Robinson Circus" and later piloted "Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus" to fame and made those two shows the talk of the nation, is one of the managers. The other, Zack Terrell, who made the "Bells-Floto Circus" famous and made Tom Mix the most talked of circus star of all movie celebrities, is also manager of several other great shows is the other manager. These two men have brought from Europe the "Cole Brothers Circus" and have secured the greatest star of all times as the leading feature, Clyde Beatty and his Lions and Tigers. Beatty's name is the household word of every boy and girl and the idol of movie fans. Beatty stands without an equal and Cole Brothers have surrounded him with an array of stars that has justly earned the title of the finest circus on the globe. Mr. Adkins and Mr. Terrell have spared no expense in making this gigantic circus one to be remembered always. Stars from Europe and far off India, China and Japan as well as the pick of American show world have been engaged with Cole Brothers Circus. Many new and novel creations have been introduced, courteous treatment, politeness and comfort for the patrons is paramount with this circus. It is a new and different show from any other circus on the road. An independent circus, not in the trust, but a southern show owned and operated by southern gentlemen for southern people. Press and public have acclaimed the Cole Brothers Circus the finest and most interesting circus of all times. Three all solid trains, 1,000 people, 550 head of horses, five herds of elephants and the first real street parade in over a decade will be seen when the great Cole Brothers—Clyde Beatty Circus come to Eastern Carolina.

North Carolina games, which are now on sale at the Duke athletic office, are going fast and officials wish to advise those who want good seats to get their orders in immediately.

No games in Duke athletic history have created such interest. Advance sales for both contests have already broken all records. Of course, there are a large number of good seats left, but they are going fast.

The Duke-Tennessee game is the big Home-coming event with a parade and numerous other outstanding features planned. The Duke-Carolina game needs no introduction.

Greenies To Play Kinston Friday

Tomorrow afternoon the local gridironers play Kinston on the local field. With no injuries among the lineup the starting team will probably be the same as last Friday. The whole squad looked better this week than they have looked any other week since the season started.

Yesterday the team went over all their plays in a high scrimmage especially their aerial attack. Last season the locals completely swamped Kinston with a passing attack and are anxious to beat them again. Kinston is supposed to have a heavier team than they had last year and are going to give the locals a tough battle.

The high school band will be on hand to furnish music as they did for the Morehead game.

Carolina's Conference Debut Very Likely To Be An Aerial Battle

Chapel Hill, N. C., Oct. 9.—North Carolina makes its 1935 debut in the Southern Conference Saturday when it clashes with the powerful Maryland Terps in Baltimore.

Both teams are rated among the leaders of the loop. Barring a tie one of the two top-notchers will be eliminated from the Conference picture when the final whistle blows.

Carolina's fate is literally "hanging in the air." Maryland possesses a crack air attack and should this week, Carolina may find its nemesis in the Terrapins.

Bill Guckeyson is ranked among the best passers in the South, and adds to his duties running and punting as well as first-rate defensive play. He averaged 46 yards on punts against V. P. I. His passing is what the Tar-Heels are being drilled against by Coach Carl Snively and his assistants.

Against the Gobblers Maryland completed four passes for 64 yards. Their lateral attack said to be about the best in Dixie, completed 7 out of 7 tries for a total gain of 57 yards. A lateral netted the only touchdown.

Guckeyson is the man for the Tar Heels to watch. But should "Big Bill" not come through as expected, the Terps have numerous other backs to call upon. Coleman Headley is quarterback and one of the fastest runners in the country. He is a track man, and one of the few 1:55 half milers. Ed Daly, fullback, and George Sachs, halfback, complete the staffing backfield. Leading subs are Charlie Ellinger, Jack Stonebraker, John Gormley and Charlie Yaeger.

TRAINING SCHOOL ALL STARS DEFEAT 3RD ST. ALL STARS
The Trainers won another football game Wednesday, October 9, from the Third Street boys.

Both the Trainers and Third Street have a very good team. However, some of the Third Street boys were absent from the game yesterday.

Rowe made the only touchdown for Third Street. Warren, James and Captain Stafford were scorers for the Trainers. Rowe also made a line plunge for about 5 yards for a touchdown for the losers. Warren set sail for about 25 yards; James 5 yards and Stafford for a field run on the kickoff in the third quarter for the Trainers. Everybody on both sides played a very good game and showed good sportsmanship. They will clash again soon.

The lineup for the Trainers is as follows:
T. T. Cox, re; R. Cox, rt; Scot, ag; O. Clark, e; Ellis, lg; E. Clark, lt; Warren, le; James, qb; G. Clark, lb; Ellis, fb; Stafford, rdb.

STATE'S WPA QUOTA OVER $8,650,000

Coan Assured That Figure Announced Yesterday Is Not Top For State

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Oct. 10.—North Carolina will get much more from the Works Progress Administration than the $8,650,000 which, according to some press reports from Washington yesterday, was all this state was slated to get. George W. Coan, Jr., state WPA Administrator said today after conferring with WPA officials in Washington by long distance telephone. He was assured by Colonel Lawrence Westbrook, assistant to Administrator Harry L. Hopkins who has not yet returned to Washington, that the figures of $8,650,000 were "neither official nor final" and that North Carolina would get as much as is needed to carry on its WPA program. Mr. Coan still is convinced that his organization can count on at least $20,000,000 from the WPA and believes that it may get as much as $27,000,000 before the WPA program is completed.

"I was almost dumfounded when I read the report saying that $8,650,000 would be all North Carolina would get from the National WPA," Mr. Coan said. "For we had been assured of a minimum of $19,950,000 at the outset, while a few weeks ago Mr. Hopkins assured Senator Bailey, Congressman Doughton and Governor Ehringhaus that North Carolina still had at least $30,000,000 coming to it from the WPA and WPA. The further fact that more than $9,000,000 worth of WPA projects had already been approved in Washington for North Carolina and assurances that others would be approved as rapidly as possible, made it impossible for me to believe that this report was correct. I was of course delighted when I got Colonel Westbrook by telephone, and he told me that the report was incorrect and that we could continue to count on getting much more. As a result, I still feel sure we will eventually receive between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 for WPA projects in North Carolina."

The minimum estimated of $17,750,000 for WPA work in this state was based on an expectancy of having only 30,000 relief workers for whom jobs had to be provided at an average of not more than $575 per man per year. But to date almost 100,000 former relief clients have been registered with the National Reemployment Service in the state in order to be eligible for WPA jobs and of this number, more than 53,000 have already been certified as being eligible for WPA work. As a result, the amount needed to supply work for these 53,000 jobs who have already been investigated and certified as eligible will require much nearer $25,000,000 than $17,750,000, it is pointed out. In fact, in order to provide jobs for 53,000 former relief clients at $575 a year, a total of $30,475,000 would be required. But since the per-man-year cost on many of the projects is less than $575, it is believed that it may be possible to provide the number of jobs needed with only $25,000,000.

But if the promise of Hopkins as made to Governor Ehringhaus, Senator Bailey and Congressman Doughton holds good, namely that the state will still get $30,000,000 in both WPA and WPA funds, the state should still receive about $27,000,000 in WPA funds, since the total allotted North Carolina from the WPA is only a little more than $25,000,000.

SWISS FEEL NAZI HAND; OFFICIALS DEBATE ACTION

Berne, Switzerland, (AP)—Active German Nazi organizations in Switzerland are worrying the authorities. Pressure is brought to bear on German residents, particularly in the Canton of Berne, official investigators reported.

Another problem has been raised by the new reich military service law, which enables Germans to become Swiss and remain German at the same time.

To prevent this double nationality, modifications of the naturalization laws are being worked out by Swiss legal experts.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The stock market had a touch of boom time today as prices whirled up one to two or more points over a broad front.

The buying spasm occurred shortly after the opening and was attributed partly to the speech last night by President Charles R. Gray of the New York Stock Exchange, in warning of possibilities of drastic inflation. For a few minutes the ticker tape dropped behind the floor and the demand lullied but the major leaders held around their tops.

Wheat helped a little by rallying a cent or more a bushel. Cotton was a bit backward. Rail bonds improved but U. S. government securities sagged. Foreign exchanges were quiet.

The late stock tone was strong. Transactions approximated 1,900,000 shares.

Victim of Sadist

Criminally assaulted, Sally Jean Kelley, 7-year-old Seattle girl, was found hanging by a man's handkerchief in a garage near her grandmother's house. Four men were held for questioning and two others were sought as rewards to help the capture of her slayer. (Associated Press Photo).

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady unchanged to three lower on disappointing Liverpool cables and under southern selling. Prices held fairly steady during the first hour with December selling at 10.96 and the general list within a point or two either way of yesterday's closing. The market sagged off to 10.92 for December and 11.02 for May later in the morning with active months showing net losses of three to six points.

$662,672.51 IN BENEFITS SINCE JULY 1

North Carolina Farmers Got $14,732,147.51 AAA Benefits Last Year

College Station, Raleigh, Oct. 10.—AAA benefit payments to North Carolina farmers during the month of July amounted to $662,672.51, according to the first tabulation of payments for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1935.

The payments, as announced from the office of Dean J. O. Schaub, of State College, director of the crop adjustment programs in this State, were distributed as follows:

Cotton growers $427,263.07, tobacco growers $201,443.18, corn-hog producers $32,611.88, and wheat growers $1,354.38.

In addition to the benefit payments, many growers also received pay for serving as county and community committeemen to help with the local administration of the crop adjustment programs.

The exact amount of their pay was not known at the dean's office, but he said they received the greater portion of the $86,906.52 allocated for administering the programs.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, Dean Schaub pointed out, the total AAA rental and benefit payments to North Carolina growers cooperating in the adjustment programs totaled $14,732,147.51.

These payments, together with the increased prices received for farm commodities, swelled the total North Carolina farm income to $266,449,000 in 1934, as compared with $194,390,000 for 1933 and $104,362,000 for 1932.

Warned Again

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A new warning that Americans who deal with Italy or Ethiopia in any way whatsoever do so at their own risk came today from Secretary Hull. American foreign traders are debating the effect of this statement in his recent statement when he proclaimed it illegal to export arms, munitions and implements of war to either nation.

"I desire it to be understood that any of our people who voluntarily engage in transactions of any character with either of the belligerents do so at their own risk," Hull was asked about the published report some exporters would ignore that warning in so far as it concerns materials and dealings not directly embargoed. He replied the President's language was clear and its indications plain. The President's statement, Hull said, was an official pronouncement based on a definite policy for keeping the country from being drawn into the African conflict or any other through any activities of American citizens.

Strike Imminent

Galveston, Texas, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Only a "miraculous" can prevent the strike of 5,000 longshoremen at Texas Ports and Lake Charles, La., tomorrow at 8 a. m. M. J. Dwyer, district president of the International Longshoremen's Association said today.

WPA Workers Strike

Huntsville, Ala., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Six hundred and fifty workers employed on WPA projects in Madison county went on strike today demanding a 116 hour work month and 27 cents an hour. The workers presented their demand to R. W. Scudder, WPA area supervisor through a committee which said the demands were for the same hour and pay scale recently granted workers in Walker county after a strike there.

Cotton Mill Strike

Spartanburg, S. C., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Pickets patrolled the rate of the Fairmont Cotton Mill here today, following a walkout of the second shift last night. Strike leader, said the second shift struck 100 per cent as a protest against the mill's employment policy. The mill was said to employ 107 workers.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Erases Happy Relief Of Pain
Many sufferers relieve nagging back ache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.
The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 2 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.
If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.
Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Lean Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diet, Harsh, Exhausting Sells or Working, Irritating, Habit-Forming Laxatives
There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.
Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way.
Marmole Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with methods that are hard, futile or depend on harmful, health-sapping salts and laxatives for their action. Start the Marmole treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmole today from druggists.
