PITT SENATOR
FOR SESSION
LEGISLATURECorey Says Special Meeting Needed to Enact LegislationEXPRESSES VIEWS
ON LIQUOR LAWSLocal Legislator Says
He Will Fight Any Move for State to Operate Stores

By SIDNEY L. GRIFFIN

Senator A. B. Corey of Pitt county today said he was in favor of a special session of the legislature and added he would be willing to sign a round-robin agreement not to tamper with the state's financial set-up.

The veteran legislator said he understood fear on the part of the governor and others on Capitol Hill in Raleigh that the legislature would open the revenue act was having much to do with the governor's failure to call the extra session to act on social legislation.

The recent session of Congress enacted social legislation providing for old-age pensions and other social benefits to be administered by the federal and state governments. It is the contention on the part of those seeking the extra session that in order for this state to share in the federal government's proposed social benefits, state statutes must be passed allocating funds for administering these benefits.

Senator Corey was emphatic in stating that if a session was called and the liquor situation was brought up, and it most likely would be, he would fight to the last ditch to prohibit the state from taking over the operation of the dispensaries, now operated and controlled by the various counties where the sale of whiskey is legal.

The senator said he would be willing to vote for any county to hold a referendum on those voting for the legal sale of liquor to be allowed to establish stores. He reiterated, however, that he would oppose any plan whereby the state would take the profits from the sale of the spirits. He pointed out that the state collects three per cent general sales tax and gets a right good sum from the counties already having liquor stores.

Fifty-five days from the date the first store was opened in Pitt county a gross business of $51,807.97 had been done. The state was paid $12,542.23 in sales taxes on the sales. In addition, the counties have to pay a chain store tax on each of the establishments over one operated.

The county made a net profit of $12,307.37 from the sale of liquor during the first 55 days the dispensaries were in operation.

Yesterday Nere Day, Onslow representative, predicted a special session of the legislature in the near future.

Senator Corey said he felt necessary social legislation could be enacted in a short while, but predicted that if a special meeting were called and the state's fiscal affairs were re-opened, the solons would be in Raleigh for another long session.

Four Cases Heard
In Police Court

Two offenders drew 30 day terms to the county roads, another was bound over to county court and a fourth was sent up to superior court by Mayor R. C. Flanagan, presiding over the mid-week session of police court here this morning.

Ben Chadwick, negro, was bound over to county court on a larceny charge growing out of the alleged theft of $50 from Florence Price, negro. The arrest was made or complaint by the woman yesterday morning.

W. E. Hasnight, white truck driver, was bound over to county court on a charge of reckless driving on the city streets.

James Oliver Davis, negro, was sentenced to the roads for 30 days for whipping his wife.

John Key Tyson, white, was sentenced to the roads for 30 days on a charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

The campaign, which will last only two days and probably be concluded at a victory breakfast Friday morning, got off to a good start last night when citizens interested in the movement met at the local high school library and made their pledges to the fund. Those present also agreed to get out and scour the city for pledges from other citizens of the city.

BRUNO'S APPEAL HEADED FOR SUPREME COURT

Egbert Rosecrans (left), only member of Bruno Hauptmann's counsel qualified to practice before the United States Supreme Court, has laid the ground work for appealing the death sentence of the convicted killer of the Lindbergh baby to that high tribunal. His first step was to obtain a stay of sentence while the life-and-death legal fight continues. Hauptmann is shown at the right and in the center is the Supreme Court building. DRUNKENNESS
ON INCREASEDrys Place Blame on Prohibition Repeal
and State Laws

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Newspaper accounts of increased drunkenness in Pitt, Nash, Wilson, Onslow and Pasquotank counties, where A. B. C. stores have been doing business some weeks, please the disconcerted drys who believe that repeal of the county statutes will be easy if there is a big increase in the evil effects of the liquor sold.

It is observed in reply by the wets that drunkenness has also increased in dry territory, that one of the biggest cities and counties in North Carolina showed last year nearly 100 per cent increase in the drinking offenses. But the drys rejoin that this was the result of national repeal last year and that in dry counties the greater frequency in drunks is the result of liquor legally sold in other counties and transported to the dry.

Any sort of research shows that fall stimulates drinking. The weather is pleasant and money is plentiful. But the wets have undertaken to show that liquor control in the counties will reduce the drunkenness, not to mention the better class of drink sold. The dry forces in Raleigh believe that the continued and easily noticeable increase in drinking will result in the repeal of all local measures should these be held valid by the courts.

Until Wilson county two weeks ago sent out figures showing a big upward trend in drunkenness the drys had felt that in all the counties there might be at least temporarily good behavior. Wets now interpret the arrests to mean that the officers are being brought to book. But the large number who are taken to the courts seems to mean also that many of them are not carrying their cargoes with credit to themselves.

Late News Flashes

Ask U. S. To Co-operate

Paris, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Officials disclosed today that France and Great Britain are asking Washington if the United States is willing to restrict imports from Italy in case a sanction is applied against Mussolini's fascist by the league.

The same authority also said the same question is being asked other powers including Germany, Japan and Brazil, not members of the league.

The attitude of the non-member countries sought because of the fact that Jugoslavia, Spain and other countries are regarded as opposed to the plan for a restriction on purchases from Italy.

More Drunken Drivers.
Raleigh, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Captain Charles D. Farmer of the State Highway Patrol, today reported arrests of 260 persons for drunken driving in North Carolina in September and commented there was a noticeable increase in the arrests last month.

"Arrests show that a number of persons who have been purchasing liquor in wet counties and returning to dry counties."

TEACHERS IN MEETING SAT.County Teachers To Gather At College
For First Session

The first county-wide meeting of Pitt teachers will be held at Eastern Carolina Teachers College here Saturday morning. The session is scheduled to get underway at 10 o'clock and continue until after noon.

A feature of the program, announced by County Superintendent D. H. Conley, will be the discussion of an improvement program for the schools during the present session. Departmental work will be taken up with the various groups holding their individual discussions.

Miss Mattie Lee Eagles of the Farmville school is chairman of the high school group; Mrs. L. P. Ross of Ayden heads the grammar grades group; and Mrs. Luella Stancill of the Winterville school is chairman of the primary department teachers.

Superintendent Conley said he expected the departmental work to prove of much benefit to the teachers as each group will discuss its own problems and seek means of solving them.

The schools of the county completed their first month of the 1935-36 session last Thursday and the teachers received their pay checks for the period. Each teacher received a flat 20 per cent increase in additions to raises for increments and higher certificates, the state school commission having decided on his course after much wrangling over the increases. There are 187 white teachers in the county system, and the first month's payroll totaled $18,585. The county has seven more teachers than it did last year.

There are 138 negro teachers in the county and they received a total of $9,673.80 for their first month's work.

OUTLAW: No matter how hard the League of Nations cracks down, authentic diplomatic advice reports that Italy is prepared for a two-year war against the world. If Duce is supposed to have sailed away enough gold and raw materials to sustain for that period without commercial or financial reinforcements from the outside.

Mussolini's own gold supply and appropriation of foreign securities held by Italians give him a monetary basis totalling more than $1,000,000,000. Within his own dominions he has sufficient copper, cotton, oil, etc. to feed his war machine, and this does not allow for imports from Austria, Hungary, Germany and the Balkans.

But Italy's deep and gnawing fear is the effect of Great Britain's military and economic position at home. Mussolini cannot count on Britain's world influence, Greece, Spain and Portugal—Mediterranean Season's sales on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday reached near the thirty-seven million pound mark with the season's average price at $20.39 per hundred pounds. Including yesterday's sales, the local market has already paid out more than $7,500,000 this season. With expected sales of more than sixty million pounds on the market for the season and with prices continuing to increase, growers selling on the Greenville market this season will receive between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 for their crop.

Official figures on yesterday's market operations were 1,206,312 pounds, sold for $296,583.40, averaging $24.59 per hundred pounds.

Season's sales to date have been 36,949,302 pounds for $7,534,816.21, an average price of $20.39 per hundred.

The approach of the season's average price to the expected parity of 21 to 22 cents a pound has brought a more satisfactory attitude to growers who at the first of the season expressed much dissatisfaction at the low prices prevailing at that time.

With the crop not more than sixty per cent sold and with prices following an upward trend there are those who express the belief that the season's average will go above the 22 cents a pound mark.

Heavy sales are anticipated for the next few weeks or until the bulk of the crop has been disposed of.

Miss Mattie McGee
Dies In Georgia

News was received here this morning announcing the death of Miss Mattie McGee, at LaGrange, Ga.

Miss McGee was a sister of Miss Eunice McGee, member of the college faculty here and teacher of the third grade in the training school.

Miss Mattie McGee has visited her sister here on several occasions and was well known especially among those close to the college. She was one of the outstanding teachers in Georgia and represented LaGrange College at the inauguration of Dr. L. R. Meadows as president of the college here.

Miss Eunice McGee was called home Saturday on account of her sister's illness.

Development of the motorcar has placed too much emphasis on the luncheon basket, it was pointed out to the detriment of a "good hot meal of meat and vegetables at home."

Geneva, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Anthony Eden of England at a meeting of the Economic Sanctions committee of the League of Nations today gave energetic support to the proposal league of nations but nothing from Italy. No decision was reached by the committee.

The proposal, advanced by Britain, for a boycott by League Nations of purchases from Italy was also supported warmly by the Netherlands and Belgium. Rumania, Sweden, Russia and Turkey also favored it. Switzerland, however, advanced some question.

While pursuing barriers against Italy, delegates considered an offensive for peace which Premier Laval was reporting to be conducting in Paris.

Reliable sources said Laval contemplated an east African peace plan, with Italy to get Pitre, now occupied by Italy, and also gain a mandate over outlying Ethiopian regions.

League circles, generally however, believed any such program would be opposed by Great Britain and other powers, especially Russia. League officials also anticipated objection from Ethiopia to any cessation of territory.

RME SPOKESMAN SAYS
AWARE OF PEACE MOVE

Rome, Oct. 16.—(AP)—A government spokesman said today Italy was well aware of Premier Laval's efforts for peaceful settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, but doubted he would succeed.

Italian officials were in agreement with Premier Mussolini's determination to conquer Ethiopia, regardless.

As for the campaign in East Africa, it went ahead while officials said Italy's willingness to refrain from bombing Addis Ababa depended on Ethiopia. This answer was said to have been sent to diplomatic representatives in Ethiopia.

In view of the attitude of Great Britain, a spokesman said, the Italian government regards the possibility of there being any diplomatic solution acceptable to Italy as "remote."

Local Men Take
32-Pound Cero

After spending much of Monday and Tuesday fishing between Morhead and Cape Lookout, Judge Louis G. Cooper and Deputy County clerk E. F. Tucker late yesterday afternoon were displaying their catch on Evans street.

The largest of the catch, a 32-pound cero, or king mackerel, was the object of much admiration by the many who viewed the fish. Judge Cooper caught the fish trolling. A total of five, three by Judge Cooper and two by Tucker, was taken. To Judge Cooper too went the honor of having caught the largest of the five. Several sheepshead were also caught.

COUNTY COURT
ENDS SESSIONDrunken Drivers Compose Large Number of Defendants

Pitt county court, Judge Dink James presiding, today completed two days of hearings, composed chiefly of drunken driving, illegal possession of liquor for sale and other charges.

More than 40 cases were disposed of during the two-day session. In addition a number were transferred to superior court for trial, the defendants having asked for trial by jury.

Matthews Crandall was sentenced to six months on the roads on an assault charge; Earl Fomes, fined $25 and costs and William (all found not guilty on charges of careless and reckless driving. The case grew out of a wreck Sunday night on the Farmville highway.

A case against Leslie Manning, charged with operating a public nuisance and having liquor for sale, was not pressed with leave. J. E. Russell, on a similar charge, was sentenced to six months on the roads. He appealed to superior court.

Steven Henry Joyner, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, had a six months sentence suspended upon payment of costs and two years of good behavior. Joe and Guy Sutton and Leon Turner, charged with illegal possession of liquor for sale, each were sentenced to the roads for six months. Therman Gregory, on a similar charge, was sentenced to the roads for 90 days. All four appealed to superior court.

R. P. Harrell, charged with drunken driving, was adjudged not guilty of the charge, but was adjudged guilty of reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs.

W. Carr Skaden was found not guilty on a charge of careless and reckless driving. Walter Leavell, charged with drunken driving, was adjudged not guilty as charged, but was held guilty of reckless driving and fined $50. Harris Coward, charged with Leavell with drunken driving, had his case transferred to juvenile court because he was under 16 years of age.

Clifton Shields was fined $50 and costs, had his license revoked for six months on drunken driving charges. In addition he received a 90-days suspended road sentence.

Grover Harris was acquitted on a charge of drunken driving.

Selassie Says Ethiopia Not Defeated On Any FrontDENIES REPORTS
PLAN OFFENSIVEOfficials Say Fascist
Forces To Be Trapped
In Mountain
Fastnesses

Addis Ababa, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie complained today at reports that Ethiopia had been defeated on any front.

Italian occupation of Addis Ababa and Aksum, he said, was without military significance, Ethiopia having withdrawn for reasons.

He said the Fascists were permitted to enter on the northern front; unopposed, no decisive battle had been fought and none would be until the Italians approach Ethiopia's real defensive position, in the towering mountains of the interior.

Government officials denying reports abroad that Ras Neidub was ordered to take the offensive on the southern Ogaden desert front, said: "An offensive on any front is contrary to all our carefully mapped out plans."

"If there is any offensive, the Italians must take the initiative. We can not afford to waste ammunition in the deserts of the lowlands."

The government authority rejoiced in belief the Italian army was slowly, but surely, falling into a trap.

Ethiopians said it would not be long before General Emilio De Bono's Fascist forces, jubilant over the "capture" of Addis Ababa and Aksum, find themselves lost in the ravines, and valleys and mountain fastnesses which form a bulwark of Emperor Haile Selassie's domain.

On all sides the comment was heard that once Italian forces reach the interior, Ras Seyoum, commander, would lose no time in carrying out Ethiopia's plan of attack.

VETERAN OF BOER WAR
MAKES ETHIOPIAN GAINS

Djibouti, French Somaliland, 5:50 p. m., Tuesday, Oct. 15.—(AP)—(delayed in transmission)—Ethiopian tribesmen, led by Col. Siwiank, the Dutch veteran of the Boer war, have invaded the Italian Somaliland and have reported an advance of 45 miles.

Col. Siwiank reported he and his men went into the Italian colony at Dola, near the Kenya frontier and captured the post. It was the same place the Italians claimed to have taken 10 days ago.

A second and larger force of Ethiopians are quartered over the Italian Somaliland frontier, midway between Peco and the Shabelle river, occupying Oddur about 60 miles south of the Ethiopian frontier.

Somali tribes were said to be joining the invaders in support of old grievances against Italy which intensified reports that non-combatants had suffered casualties by air bombardment raids.

CONTROL OF YELLOW RIVER
EMBROILS TWO PROVINCES

Nanking.—(AP)—Authorities of two provinces are fighting over what to do with the Yellow river, "China's Sorrow."

Shantung, half of which has been under water this summer, wants to divert the mighty current back into the channel through which it flowed before 1854, when it switched to its present outlet through Shantung.

This would fix everything, say the Shantung officials, for there would be no more floods in Shantung.

But the old channel runs through northern Kiangsu province, and authorities there complain the plan would send turbid floods every time the Yellow goes on a rampage.

Income Receipts Light
During First Quarter

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 16.—In the first quarterly report of taxes collected by the revenue department it is discovered that during that period, July, August and September, no incomes were reported in Allegheny, Brunswick, Camden, Caswell, Clay, Currituck, Dare, Gates, Madison, Pamlico, Perquimans, Tyrrell and Yadkin.

The absence of such collections may mean that these counties took too extensions. Even Forsyth which contributes tremendously to the income tribute, sent slightly more than $200,000 and Mecklenburg only a little more than $105,000. These counties had paid their incomes earlier.

Another thing that the non-income paying counties could mean is that they have no incomes to pay. Nearly all these units are small.

Blocker In 1934, Ward Flashes As Runner This Year

Durham, Oct. 16.—Coach Wallace Wade said last year that Duke was losing a great running back when he was forced to shift Jule Ward to the blocking back post because there was none other for the position.

And this Ward boy, who hails from Galax, Va., just a few miles from the North Carolina line, has made that statement of Coach Wade's true—and how!

When the Duke mentor sent Ward to a running post on the first team at the start of fall practice, turning the blocking back post because of the blocking duties over to other candidates, the wise guys said that the lad would not last long at the job—that one of several sophomores would have that berth.

Now, not throwing off on the sophomores for they have been running great runs, it is definitely settled that Ward will continue at that job this season. And here's what settled it:

He has carried the ball 30 yards from the line of scrimmage, losses if any, deducted and not including yards gained returning kick-offs, punts or after receiving or intercepting forward passes. In that many times he has gained 321 yards an average of 10.7 yards each time he has toted the apple.

PLAQUE PLACED ON HOUSE OF LAWRENCE OF ARABIA

Southampton, Eng.—(AP)—The family of the late "Lawrence of Arabia," Alcraftsman T. E. Shaw as he was known after changing his name by deed poll, have had a memorial plaque placed on a tiny house here where he once lived.

The house is in a district favored by vaudeville actors. Shaw rented a back room.

His former landlady, Mrs. Fanny Hatcher, readily agreed to accept the gold lettered plaque which reads:

"In this house lived T. E. Shaw, Lawrence of Arabia; July, 1933—November, 1934."

-SPORT SLANTS

Ever since the curtain was raised down on the 1934 football season, the word has been passed along that Ohio State was going to be the team of 1935. In 1934, his first year at Columbus, Coach Francis Schmidt came through with a team that lost only one game and that a 14 to 13 upset which Illinois scored.

The promising 1935 edition of Buckeyes got off to a good start when they downed Kenucky, 19 to 6, before the greatest opening-day crowd in Ohio State's history. Kenucky is no setup for any team. Coach Chet Wynne has a fine team, and it was no secret that his boys journeyed to Columbus feeling mighty confident of upsetting Ohio State's football applecart.

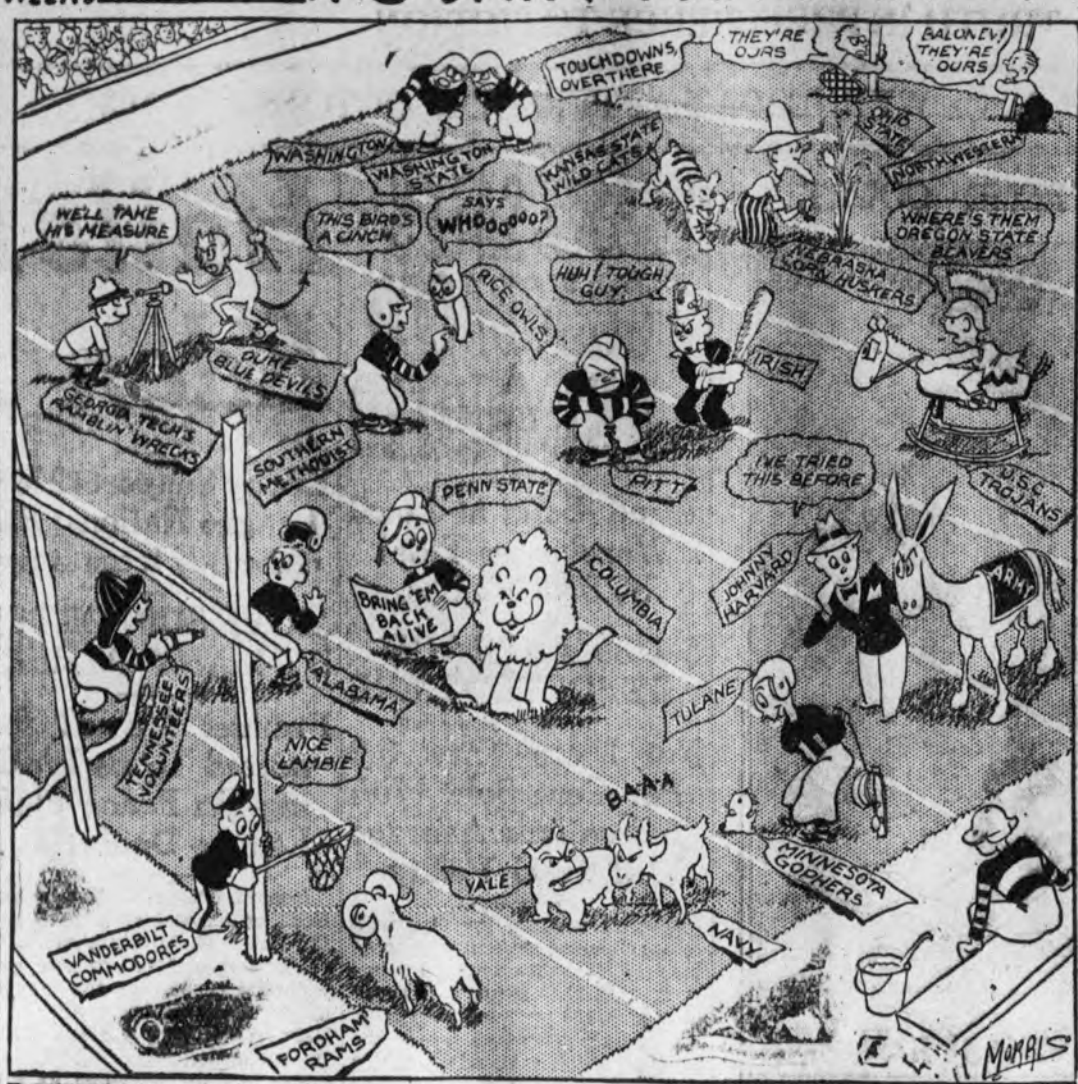

The Buckeyes aren't likely to face much stiffer opposition all season. The Rocky Road

The Kentucky battle was just the thing to put Ohio State on the right track. The lads who have been entertaining national championship notions might just as well find out in the first contest as later on that the road to roses. Even if the Buckeyes do go through their schedule without defeat they will have a flock of trouble trying to convince a lot of folks of their right to the national championship.

Their schedule of Kentucky, Drake, Northwestern, Indiana, Notre Dame, Chicago, Illinois and Michigan is hardly of the caliber that would entitle them to claim any sort of title. Only if they manage to overwhelm their opponents with top-heavy scores will their claims to greatness receive serious consideration.

A pity Ohio State's opposition is not rated strong enough to test the Buckeyes to their limit for Schmidt has what may develop into a great team. His first string lineup is made up of six seniors and five juniors. Gomer Jones, the captain, is rated as one of the greatest centers ever developed at Ohio State. The guards, Karcher and Smith, and the tackles, Hamrick and Harare juniors. Wendt, end, also is a junior. The entire first string backfield is made up of seniors, with Pincura at quarter, Heekin and Boucher at halves, and Fisch at fullback. Another senior, Rees, is a regular end.

THIS WEEK'S PIGSKIN PANORAMA

One of the most popular players on the squad is 142-pound Tippy Dye. Dye is a clever field-general as well as a slippery ball carrier and accurate passer. Williams, Wasyluk, Betteridge, Kabealo and MacDonald are likely looking backfield candidates. Wasyluk is one of the best passers on the squad. Heekin, Kabealo, Boucher and Fisch are the outstanding punters.

If the Buckeyes do not know their football it will not be for lack of effort on Coach Schmidt's part. He holds winter practice sessions for five or six weeks in the gym and then takes up practice in the spring team works out twice daily for the two weeks prior to the beginning of classes and after that daily sessions are in order. Schmidt jams a lot of football knowledge down their throats, for he doubts that his boys can get too much of it. He, himself, breathes, eats and sleeps football. His interests outside of the game are nil.

The president then turned the meeting over to the program committee. Mrs. Frank Woolen, chairman of the program committee, then presented a most interesting paper on "Made in America." She told of the entire handicraft period of American history and showed how the furniture of the time grew out of the conditions of living.

Among the early craftsmen she dealt with Baron Stiegel and his work in glassware. She also told something of his love for music.

She described Paul Revere as a great silversmith and told of how in his father's shop he designed and made some of the fine pieces that are now seen in many museums throughout the country. She also vividly described Duncan Phyfe the great cabinet maker, and of how his career began when John Jacob Astor started buying his furniture.

Thomas Jefferson was described as the great architect. His home "Monticello" was pointed out as an expression of his art. She then told of the Cape Cod whalers and their early trading with the Indians, and the making of sandwich glass which started on Cape Cod by these whalers.

She then told of Currier and Ives, lithographers and their development of the early prints which have played such an important part in American history. She also told of John Rogers and his contribution in the work of sculpture. Following this most interesting paper each member was called upon for a current event.

Mrs. Hall assisted by Mrs. William Tyson, Mrs. Nelson, and Miss Jane Hall, served a delicious salad course.

So declares Russell Simpson, noted character actor, who enacts one of the principal roles of Fox Film's "Way Down East," coming Monday and Tuesday to the Pitt Theatre.

"The old plays," says Simpson, "were meaty with romance and humanity. They reflected real life and that is what the theatre-going public wishes to see and hear in the theatre."

INVESTING IN THE FUTURE

Today and tomorrow the citizens of Greenville are again being given the opportunity to contribute in a financial way to the Boy Scout work here for another year and it is to be hoped that every person called upon will do what he or she can to give support to this great piece of work.

The Boy Scout movement does not need explaining to the people of our community who have seen its workings here for the past year.
Proper training of boys is the safest and best way to make good citizens of them and this is just what the Boy Scout movement does in any community. A donation to the Boy Scout program is not a donation at all but an investment in the future citizenship of this community that will pay big dividends.
More Boy Scouts now means less criminals in the future, for records of penal institutions show that persons who have completed the course of Scouting in boyhood do not later become criminals.

We urge you to give liberally to this movement in order that the program might be continued here for another year.

ROAD SENTENCES FOR BOOTLEGGERS

Judge Dink James, in County Court yesterday, started things in the right direction when he meted out road sentences to bootleggers recently arrested by Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst. If the liquor control program is to accomplish the desired results of ridding our section of the evils of the bootleg industry the bootleggers must be dealt with by the courts when they are taken into custody.

The defendants who appeared in court yesterday appealed their cases to the Superior Court, but it is to be hoped that the higher court will take no more lenient an attitude on the liquor question. The great majority of the people in this county voted for the present system of legalized liquor in order to do away with bootlegging, and now this same public opinion should back up the law enforcement officers and the courts in their efforts to break up bootlegging.

head grains, is the common bread grain of Ethiopia.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth has had the insolence of her relatives to contend with while trying to recover from the shock of the sudden death of her father and mother. Now her friends, Judge Kellogg, has told her the terrible truth—she is not only out of with an allowance of $100 monthly, but when the large Farnsworth estate is divided five years hence, she will not participate. For she is not Anne Farnsworth, after all.

Chapter 10

ANNE listened to Judge Kellogg tell her she was not the daughter of Luke and Lucinda Farnsworth in bewilderment.

"But I've always been their daughter," she murmured inanely. "Why Judge, Mrs. Harney was saying not less than an hour ago that she remembered mother coming home from the hospital with me."

"Yes, Anne," agreed the Judge. "Lucinda didn't know the difference, herself, then. If you'll remember what they've told you Lucinda became ill at Crescent City, while on a trip there with Luke. They rushed her to the hospital. Her baby was born there, and died. Your mother had died that same night at the time of your birth. Fearing this effect the truth would have upon Lucinda, you were given to her as her own and not until she had fully regained her Anne, but I've learned in my years on the bench that it's kinder to break things quickly. Sit down girl, think it over, I'll be back in a moment."

Anne sank into the chair. For a few moments she sat staring out of the window, looking down the narrow canyon of buildings to where the Willamette, a gray ribbon of water, wound along at the far end. The river was grey, the roofs of the buildings were grey, the rain clouds which hung low in the sky were grey. And the girl who looked out of the window felt as though she were steeped in a greyish mist of confused heartache.

"If I could cry, I'd feel better, not so smothery," she whispered. "I suppose I'm stunned now. Like I was that . . . that awful night. Soon I'll realize."

The thought was terrifying. She couldn't be a nobody. She jumped to her feet and sped to the next room where Judge Kellogg was staring out of the window.

"Judge—" she tried to control the hysterical note in her voice. "Judge, who am I?"

Ansel Kellogg turned, and he who had sat at the bar of justice sentencing men and women to life imprisonment or the noose, found it ly been confirmed in advance—but that could be arranged without upsetting anyone but Mr. Eccles. Mr. Morgenthau in this job would be a tower of strength to FDR—assuring administration of the Board's new powers in accordance with White House wishes.

Whatever happens Mr. Morgenthau will remain in the picture. New Yorkers familiar with the inside situation say that he and the President stand in a Jonathan and David relationship. He has proved himself loyal, dependable, an excellent executive and coordinator. He carries out policies entrusted to him faithfully and without going off at tangents of his own. In some respects he has taken Louis Howe's place as a White House balance wheel.

Keen observers say he also rates credit for recognizing his own limitations as a financial expert and naming assistants of high caliber and experience—such as Undersecretary Jeff Coolidge.

UNRUFFLED: Curiously — considering how sharply they have criticized him for inexperience — New Yorkers are not perturbed at the thought of Morgenthau heading the Federal Reserve.

This is partly because the Board — for all its broader powers under the banking act of 1935—still cannot dictate the policy of individual member banks. So the latter have no fear of being shoved out on a limb against their will. Bankers also remark that the Board would undoubtedly take orders from the administration anyway—so what difference does it make who is chairman?

The big banks are remarkably unruffled about the new act in general—though you won't catch any of them committing the faux pas of approving it in public. They feel it will still allow them to make neat profits when money rates and the demand for credit rise. The law may be a great triumph for the people over Wall Street—as many liberals claim—but Wall Street certainly isn't worrying.

They cite experiences with the Reconstruction Finance Mortgage Co.—a little known RFC subsidiary created to make mortgage loans at a time when nobody else would touch them with a ten-foot pole. Since the mortgage market loosened up a bit, they find they can get more liberal valuations at the same interest from insurance companies than they can from Jones. Moreover the latter insists on the right to a voice in the management of mortgaged properties to an extent private lenders never dream of. So the RFMC doesn't get much business—which is okay with its boss. He has plenty else to keep him busy.

The single line railway from Djibouti to Addis Ababa is 780 miles long.

when he scrutinized the logs of sample vessels. Ships supposed to make 13 knots an hour were barely making 10, and so on. More than a year ago he ordered a series of tests to determine whether the government was getting the speed it paid for. He got no action until he refused payment of $416,000 to a certain shipping company. Then WET: Senator Capper's prediction that prohibition is just around the corner does not strike the government's liquor poobahs as fantastic. They do not discuss publicly the troubles they are having with some of the nation's leading distillers and brewers.

Beer and liquor makers have made more than hay during the time when there was virtually no strength and had began asking queer questions, was she told the truth."

And suddenly Anne believed. Little unrelated things flashed out of her memory to confront her with their evidence.

She had told Harney, she never fainted. She didn't faint now. She stood up, gripped the chairback until her knuckles were white and her fingers ached. Those people. That man and woman whom she had loved . . . whom she still loved so deeply, over whom she had grieved so deeply. They were not her parents.

"I . . . I can't . . . can't quite believe it." Her voice was husky, labored. "It's so . . . so melodramatic, so fantastic. Things like that don't happen in life."

In a moment she would awaken. This was another of those terrible dreams which had haunted her since the night of the tragedy. There was a clock ticking slowly in the room. Like the clocks at school. Lucinda . . . Luke . . . but why hadn't they told her?

A MOMENT of rebellion swept over her. Why had they taken her to their hearts, poured their love and care over her with such lavishness, then withdrawn everything at a time like this?

Judge Kellogg motioned to the pasteboard cup of water he had drawn from the cooler and placed before her. She looked at it stupidly. He picked it up and thrust it into her hands. "Better drink," he insisted.

If she could only deny it in her heart, but she couldn't. Childhood. Visitors meeting her for the first time.

"Doesn't resemble either one of you," they'd say.

And she would rush to a mirror to study her reflection, searching for one similar feature. She'd tried to resemble one or the other, so hard.

She remembered how, unable to copy Lucinda's small-boned gracefulness, she had taken to standing, feet apart, hands clasped behind her back, chin out, like Luke, and how they'd laughed, and Lucinda had cried a little at the ludicrous little figure she'd made.

"Sorry I had to tell you like this almost impossible to speak. He looked at the modishly clad girl, at the white face dominated by the wide-set dark eyes and darker brows, at the brave uplift of the chin.

"We'll find out . . . somehow," he promised.

"That means you don't know," she declared. "Please won't you tell me everything? It's going to be easier to know the truth than face any more uncertainty like this."

"Let's go back and sit down," he suggested and, arm about her shoulder, he directed her to the inner room.

"Judge, wouldn't adoption papers tell about my parents?"

"They would Anne, if there were any papers. It was due to their absence that I learned as much as I did. The Westport attorney, Clive Burton's his name, telephoned me last night. He knew I had acted for Farnsworth at times, and thought I might be able to locate the papers or some record of their having been drawn up."

"Burton said that Farley insisted there had been no papers drawn. He said your mother had come into the hospital as an emergency case, unconscious, alone. She died the same night. Farley was just beginning his law practice at Crescent City, where, all of this took place. Luke sent for him, their first meeting by the way, but as your mother didn't regain consciousness, there was nothing he could do." He paused at the quick gasp which came from Anne.

"That's it . . . that's what Tom Farley has known about me. Judge Kellogg that man hates me."

"I don't think he's over-running with love for anyone, excepting Tom Farley," Kellogg replied.

Anne's eyes were wide, calm now. She nodded. "I understand. If he can prove I'm not adopted, then I won't be able to ask for my share of the estate."

Kellogg nodded. "That seems to be the idea. If he would only be content to stop there."

"What do you mean?"

"He's planned further persecution, Anne. That's why I said I must see you before anyone else."

Hitlerites To Herd 200,000 Girls In New Compulsory Labor Camps

By A. D. STEFFERUD

BERLIN (AP)—To house the 200,000 girls who must in 1937 begin their labor service, 6,000 new camps will be needed.

Of these, 4,000 will be especially constructed for them; the others will be pre-empted.

The problem is the most important of several that must be solved before the Nazis' big plan of placing compulsory labor service for women on a parity with that for men is started.

It's Like Conscription

Provisions must be made for releasing all young women of certain age groups for their jobs. Women leaders must be trained. Work must be made available on farms, and the financial question answered.

The project resembles conscription for the young women, aged 17 to 25, will relinquish their positions and serve six months in farm or homestead communities, helping farm mothers doing bucolic chores and engaging in social welfare work.

The men's labor service, which went into effect on a compulsory basis October 1, embraces farm, highway, canal and similar work. For young men this is a prerequisite to military service and lay employment.

Make Jobs For Oldsters

Nazi leaders stress the importance of hard work and community life in camps to the inculcation of national socialist ideals, but admit that it also plays a part in the employment drive by making jobs available for older persons.

Official labor offices are now providing for 80 per cent of the 10,000 girls in the "voluntary" labor service, but Nazi leaders say that the state will have to bear the costs of the compulsory arrangement.

To young men, meanwhile, the offer is made that those who have previously been in the labor camps may become group leaders after October 1, at a daily wage of 20 to 30 cents.

Simultaneously newspapers are paying greater attention to what they call "the birth of a new culture" in the workers' camps.

They declare that recreation among the boys and girls takes the form of sculpture, singing, instrumental music, painting and, a new form, the speaking chorus, all of which is "deep significance to the people's well-being."

The prosperity of the eastern Sudan and Egypt is largely dependent on the Ethiopian rainfall.

Compulsory labor service for German girls between the ages of 17 and 25 has been decreed by the Nazi regime and thousands of them already live in camps, whence they go out "by the day" to help farmers' wives with the chores, tend babies or do social welfare work. This country college student, who specialized in biology, seems to enjoy the sensation of splitting wood.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Democratic leaders of the senate laughed up their sleeves at the statement of William B. Hodges, treasurer of the Republican national committee from 1921-28, that he did not favor his party "fighting merely for the return to power" in 1936.

There's hardly any need for him to concern himself over such a proposition, they say, for a mathematical impossibility for G. O. P. to gain complete control of the government next year.

Suppose there is a complete swing from the "new deal" in 1936 and the Republicans capture both the presidency and the house of representatives. The Democrats still will control the senate, can't possibly be dislodged before 1941, and many believe it will be 1943 before their grip can be shaken loose.

This means, unless the Democrats in the senate are split hopelessly, that they would have at least a veto power over legislation and can control the confirmation of nominations and ratification of treaties—two highly important prerogatives of that body.

Political Arithmetic

In 1936, nineteen seats now held by Democrats and 13 by Republicans will be contested.

Of the 19 Democratic seats at stake, however, 12 are from the south or border states with the chances now against the Republicans gaining any of them. Political statisticians figure nothing short of a landslide in their favor can justify Republican hopes of picking up more than three or four seats in '36 now held by Democrats.

On the other hand, Democrats hope to capture some of the 13 seats now held by the Republicans. Only Norris of Nebraska is certain of not having a fight on his hands. Couzens of Michigan may, in the opinion of many, escape a serious contest because of support he gave the "new deal." The others, however, will be marked men for Democratic strategists.

Would Take Upheaval

Consider the congressional elections of 1938—the terms of 27 Democratic senators and five Republicans will be at stake since their terms expire on January 3, 1939.

Democratic strategists consider 11 of the 27 are virtually attack-proof. That being so, were the Republicans to gain all the rest, they still would lack a senate majority.

Nothing short of a great political upheaval in the 1936 campaign, followed by further upheaval against them in 1938, and again in 1940, will drive the Democrats from their stronghold on the senate side of the capital before January 3, 1941.

Washington—Politicians in Washington who watched President F. D. Roosevelt's western trip from the time he boarded the train at the Union station here until he embarked on U. S. S. Houston were struck by two things:

First, Mr. Roosevelt, as he got farther and farther west, gained confidence. In his speech at Fremont, Neb., he seemed to be feeling his way; but at San Diego there was a decided note of old-time exuberance in his tone.

And, second, with budget statements and the like, the astute manner in which he avoided one of the most pressing and ticklish problems of the moment—the soldiers' bonus.

There was much said undercover in Washington as to why Mr. Roosevelt delayed his trip west until the American Legion convention in St. Louis was over. The real explanation can be provided only by F. D. R. himself.

"Bonus Action Certain"

Some idea, however, as to how the politicians and others politically minded in the capital think on the subject may be had in a statement made by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma in New York just before he left for the west to attend a silver conference at Salt Lake City:

"Next year is a campaign year. There is a bloc of 4,500,000 soldiers to be dealt with, and, just applying political psychology, you can figure there is no power under Heaven that can defeat the bonus bill. Mr. Roosevelt may veto it in order to let it be passed over his veto, to save his face. But a bill will be enacted—either to raise the bonus money with bonds or to print new currency."

Possible Reasons

Mr. Roosevelt's silence on the bonus from Washington to San Diego may mean:

(1) He is convinced recovery is here, and that the federal government is about to reach the place where it can at least take the first steps toward the goal of curtailing emergency expenditures. That being true, there is no need for spending two billion dollars or more to pay the bonus.

(2) It was good politics. The Republicans from Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, on down the line have been crying incessantly that we must "Balance the budget." G. O. P. has ambitions in '36, just as have the Democrats. Payment of the veterans' bonus requiring an outlay of two billions, would make it difficult to balance any kind of a budget. Mr. Roosevelt knows that and probably has suspicions the Republicans know it too well. He can count on the Republicans then to abide with whatever decision he might make in the matter.

Activities of Prison Division Show at State Fair

Reflector Bureau, State Fair, Raleigh, Oct. 16.—At the State Fair now in mid-week is an exhibit by the prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission showing the huge food output of the several farms and camps.

In a condensed report of the prison activities it is recorded that the average number of prisoners is 6,496 and the average number of employees 1,008. There are 32 newly constructed fire-proof camps, 50 portable and wooden camps and seven camps leased from the counties. There are 8,650 prisoners on an average monthly basis employed in road work and 2,848 engaged in farming, camp duties and in hospitals. The number of meals served daily is 28,458. The per capita daily cost the food, clothing, medicine, hospitalization and guarding is 58 and three-tenths cents.

The prison camp farms have produced 35,771 bushels of corn, 64,878 green eggs of corn served the prisoners, 2,525 bushels of oats, 21,866 bushels of sweet potatoes, 673 bushels of wheat, 7,500 gallons of syrup, 25,355 bushels of Irish potatoes, 294,449 quarts of canned vegetables and 438,925 pounds of pork.

The Cary prison farm near Raleigh raised 2,150 bushels of wheat, 4,000 of oats, 7,500 of corn, 37,222 quarts of vegetables, 3,000 bushels of sweet and 3,500 of Irish potatoes, 2,500 gallons of syrup and 50,000 pounds of pork.

The Caledonia farm has yielded 39,740 bushels of wheat, 3,689 of barley, 3,545 of rye, 3,225 of oats, 13,853 of Irish potatoes, 60,000 of corn, 3,000 bags of peanuts, 16,000 gallons of sorghum, 20,000 bushels of sweet potatoes, 30,793 quarts of canned vegetables, 175,000 pounds of pork and 450 bales of cotton. The state went in for cotton in mighty small way. It was working with the federal government in an effort to make the triple A work effectively.

The activities indicate what Governor Bingham has promised—that the prison is making its way and that the state roads feel the effect of this good business management.

December later sold up to 10.91 and May to 11.04 making net gains of 9 to 11 points. At midday the market was within a few points of these figures.

Futures closed barely steady, unchanged to two points higher; spots steady, middling 11.25.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Heavy profit taking put only a temporary damper in today's stock market, rails and several specialties getting behind strong support.

The flood of offerings of industrial climbers caused the ticker tape to drop behind floor transactions. Selling dried up later and early declines were parried or wiped out.

A number of new highs were scored.

The final dealings were marked by a mixture of gains and losses, some as much as a point or two. Transactions approximated 2,200,000 shares.

All of the cases were discontinued because the law fails to provide any punishment for buyers of the scrap without first purchasing the $1,000 license provided in the law. State attorneys contend it is a misdemeanor at common law.
