EXPOSITION GETS START HERE TODAY

Greater Greenville
Fair Set Open Officially Tonight

RACES FEATURE OF EXPOSITION

Horse Racing on Program
for Thursday and Friday; Auto
Races Saturday

The 1935 Greater Greenville fair will be opened officially tonight at six o'clock on the old Pitt county fairgrounds.

N. G. Bartlett, secretary, announced today that ladies will be admitted free tonight and that Tuesday will be school children's day when they will be admitted free as guests of the fair association.

The remodeled agricultural and exhibit building has been put in good condition for the exhibition of the handwork of the various exhibitors.

Mrs. J. H. Randolph, who has been in the field for four weeks working up exhibits, reports good prospects in all departments. Mrs. R. A. Tyson, who is in charge of the women's department, states that the department will be in final shape Tuesday morning. Miss Mary Lou White, assistant to Secretary Bartlett, is in charge of details connected with the exposition and said this morning she expected everything to be in place by Tuesday.

With the tobacco season in full swing, indications are that the fair will be well attended.

Harness racing will be a feature of the Thursday and Friday programs. On Saturday Hankinson's automobile races will take to the newly built track.

The tobacco pageant Wednesday promises to be a revelation for tobacco growers. It will portray the tobacco industry from its beginning to the present time.

The pageant is being directed by Miss Edith Russell, producer and director of the Rhododendrum festival which is held annually in Asheville. About 400 people will take part in the pageant.

The Reflector carrier boys will be guests of the fair association tomorrow. The force will attend in a group.

The Kaus shows will be stationed on the midway. The show boasts a new feature in midway carnivals, featuring greyhounds. This is the first time such a feature has been shown in Greenville.

The loop-o-loop, a new ride sensation is also among the numerous vehicles in the show, which claims 12 rides and 13 shows. Another feature of the midway is Happy Sam 650-pound fat man.

Waldrop Appeals To Drive Workers To Make Report

Official of Boy Scout Fund Campaign Asks For Final Check

J. H. Waldrop, official of the drive to secure $1500 to carry on Boy Scout activities in Greenville during the ensuing year, appealed to campaign workers this morning to make their final reports in order that a check might be made.

Mr. Waldrop also appealed to the people of Greenville who have not already made a contribution to do so at once. At the last complete tabulation, the campaign was short by about $500. However, a sum of money has been collected since the tabulation was made.

At least $100 was known to have been secured for the campaign since the last report. There remains several workers to make their reports and it is hoped these will bring the amount up to the campaign goal.

Two Crops Apples During One Season

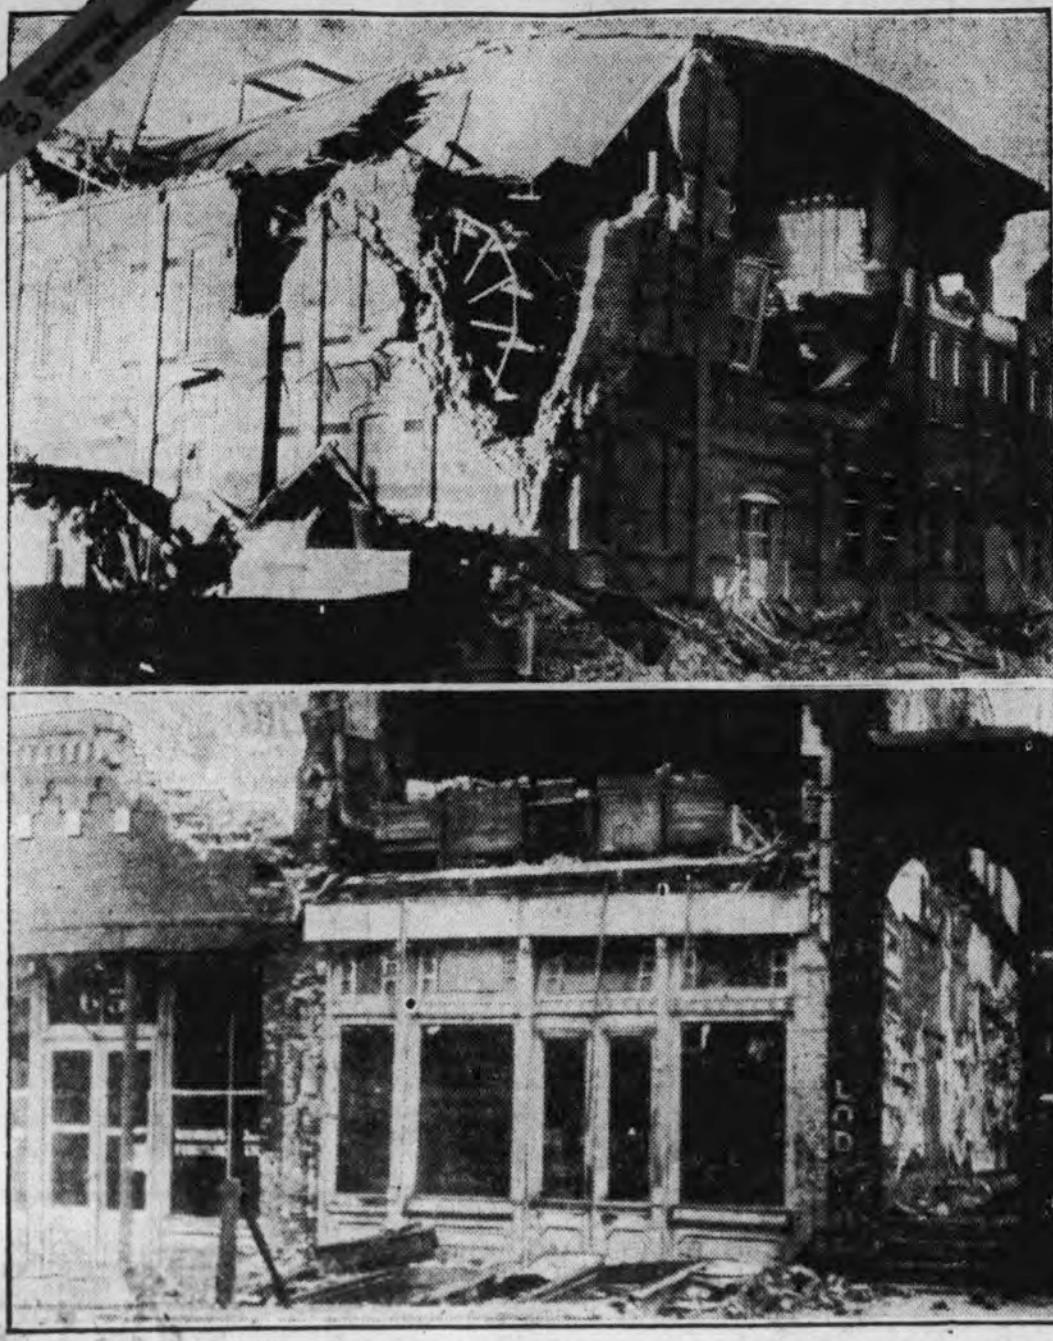

Mrs. Mary E. Moye, who lives southwest of Greenville between the Winterville and Farmville highways, Saturday brought to the office of The Reflector twigs from an apple tree bearing blooms and a number of small apples.

The second growth of the fruit in one season was credited to the warm weather experienced this fall.

WHERE EARTHQUAKE KILLED TWO IN MONTANA

These pictures show part of the ruins at Helena, Mont., where an earthquake killed two persons and caused damage estimated at $1,000,000. The terrific force of the quake shattered the walls of the National Biscuit company's warehouse (top). The bottom picture shows where Dave Harris, negro, was crushed to death when the earthquake caused an old combination opera house to collapse into Main street. (Associated Press Photos)

Health Institute Gets Started Here Many Present

Obstetric Institute Sponsored by State Health Dept. Holds First
Session Monday Afternoon

The Obstetric Institute sponsored by the State Board of Health held its first meeting this afternoon at the Rotary Club in Greenville.

Doctor J. R. McCord, Professor of Obstetrics at Emory University at Atlanta, Ga., is conducting the Institute. Many physicians from this section of the State are in attendance, and from the State Board of Health there are in attendance Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, Secretary and State Health Officer, Dr. G. M. Cooper, Director of the Division of Preventive Medicine, Dr. J. C. Knox, Director of the Division of Epidemiology and Dr. W. P. Richardson, Assistant Director of the Division of County Health Work.

The Institute will continue thru out the week, lectures being given from two o'clock to five o'clock every afternoon.

The Pitt County Medical Society was host to the visiting physicians at a luncheon at the Rotary Club today.

The Pitt County Medical Society and the Pitt County Health Department are cooperating with the State Board of Health in conducting this clinic, the clinic being one of the efforts of the State Department to reduce the high infant and maternal death rate in North Carolina.

News Behind The News

By Ray Tucker

TACTICS: Ruminations over Communism, a new Labor Party and craft unionism at the recent A. F. of L. convention sound more threatening than the inside story justifies. These clashes simply mark skillful skirmishing for position between William Green, president of the Federation, and John L. Lewis, head of the powerful United Mine Workers.

Mr. Lewis holds the key to the situation behind the scenes. He opposed formal denunciation of Communism, sympathized quietly with radicals' demand for an independent political party and hollered his Jovian head off for industrial versus craft organization. Mr. Green lined up against him on all three issues. But the real controversy is more deep-rooted.

Mr. Lewis recently suffered some losses from the activities of the craft unionists. John Frey of the Metal

HIGH COURT UNDERWAY

Pitt County Superior
Court Gets Started
Monday A. M.

A two weeks term of Pitt county Superior Court got underway here this morning with Judge Walter L. Small of Elizabeth City presiding. Cases disposed of at today's session included all suits against the Southern Dairies, Inc., which were non-suited, a case brought by Mrs. Addie Summerell against the Woodmen of the World which was also non-suited, and the granting of three divorces.

The non-suit of the 11 cases against the Southern Dairies brought an end to 13 suits filed against the dairy by residents of the Ayden community charging they were made sick by eating ice cream manufactured by the company. They contended the ice cream contained some foreign matter. At a previous session of Superior court two of the cases against the ice cream company had been heard and non-suited. Due to the fact that evidence for the plaintiffs was the same in all 13 of the cases, the 11 cases were disposed of this morning in short order.

Divorces were granted to the following: Fountain Weatherington from Brownie Worthington; Annie Williams from Tom Williams; Richard Wilson from Bessie Wilson. None of the divorce cases was contested.

Export Figures Show Increase in September

Commerce Department Reports Exports Increase 15 Per Cent, While Imports Decrease 4 Per Cent

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—United States exports in September were shown by Commerce department figures today to have increased 15 per cent over August, about usual between these two months. Imports declined four per cent, while usually the import drop is about one per cent from August to September.

Compared to September, 1934, exports last month were four per cent greater and imports 23 per cent greater.

September exports amounted to $198,189,000, against $172,194,000 in August, 1935, and $191,313,000 in September, 1934. Imports in September were $161,633,000, against $69,030,000 in August, 1935, and $131,658,000 in September, 1934.

Efforts Underway To Set Spud Prices

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Gingerly preparing for its efforts to increase the price the farmer gets for potatoes, the AAA sought to show today that the consumer would be better off if prices were "stabilized."

It issued a statement saying studies indicated that the consumer would pay lower prices for potatoes than he has average over a period of years in the past if prices were stabilized at a fair return to the growers.

PWA Project For College Is Given Final Approval

Plan Calls For Paving Driveways
and Also for Drainage Work on Campus of E. C. T. C.

Dr. L. R. Meadows, president of East Carolina Teachers college, said today that the project for paving the driveways and for drainage work on the campus of the college had been approved by Works Progress Administration authorities both in Raleigh and Washington.

Dr. Meadows made his statement following a trip to New Bern Saturday where he held a conference with the supervisor of this district and made final arrangements for this work to be done.

The project probably will not be started before December because at present there are not enough people on the relief rolls in eastern North Carolina to do the work of the various projects that have been approved, Dr. Meadows said.

FOREST FIRE DAMAGE SEPT. 1935 LOWEST

Report Shows Damage Of Only $631
Last Month

ONLY 15 FIRES
DURING PERIOD

Careless Smokers Are Still Most Destructive Agency Causing
Fires

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, Oct. 21.—Forest fire damages in North Carolina counties organized for the control of the "Red Demon" were the lowest for the month of September of any similar period for more than a year, according to a report of the Department of Conservation and Development.

The report showed total losses from forest fires for September at $631, the first time in more than a year that the destruction had dropped below $1,000.

A new minimum of fires, with only 15 occurring, was also reached during the month. Careless smokers continued as the most destructive agency for fires, being held responsible for seven of the 15 for September. Lumbering operations were said to have been the source of three, the next highest number; campers, hunters and fishermen were blamed with two. The other fires were divided among various causes.

In spite of hazardous conditions in various parts of the state, the burned over area was kept down to one of the smallest in years, only 288 acres being covered by flames.

With thousands of hunters in the field and with forests of the State in an extremely dry condition, W. C. McCormick, assistant state forester in charge of fire control, urges every person indulging in outdoor sports to exercise caution in the handling of matches, smokes, campfires and other forms of fire in grass and woodlands.

"One carelessly discarded match, cigar or cigarette, or campfire, he cautioned, may be the origin of a fire that will completely ruin a favorite hunting ground for several years in addition to destroying much wildlife and driving all birds and animals elsewhere. Good hunting, he continued, cannot be maintained if forest fires are permitted to destroy the natural naughts of game.

Junius H. Rose To Be Installed Legion Officer

Local Legionnaire to be Inducted
Into Office of Vice Commander
At Ceremonies in Raleigh

Junius H. Rose, prominent Greenville legionnaire and one of the newly elected vice commanders of the North Carolina American Legion, was one of the state officers slated to be installed at ceremonies in Raleigh tonight.

The installation ceremonies include a series of conferences, a parade and a barbecue dinner at Memorial auditorium in the state's capital.

The new officers will be installed at Hugh Morson high school auditorium. Joseph Daniels, Jr., of Raleigh will be inducted into the office of state commander to succeed Hubert E. Olive of Lexington.

Officers of the Legion Auxiliary also will be installed. Mrs. R. S. McClelland of Wilmington will succeed Mrs. M. H. Shumway of Lexington.

Among those attending the installation ceremonies from Greenville will be J. Hicks Corey, local post commander, A. B. Corey, S. M. Wolfolk, adjutant of the Greenville post, and C. W. Williams.

Bertie Man Bound Over By City Court

Media Mizelle of Bertie county today was bound over to County court under $100 on a charge of drunken driving as the aftermath of an automobile wreck last week.

Mizelle's automobile struck one belonging to C. W. Brown of Greenville, H. H. Duncan, mayor pro tem, heard the case this morning. He also disposed of a number of cases where the defendants were charged with drunkenness.

Trucks which become disabled on California highways at night must be guarded by flares or red lanterns 200 feet ahead and 200 feet behind the stalled vehicle.

New Peace Move Seen In European Capitals As League Outlaws War

Sanctions Interpreted
As Outlawing All
Wars

MUSSOLINI IS FIRST BE HIT

Date For Unleashing
Economic Boycott
Set For Oct. 31 If
War Is Not Halted

Geneva, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The new system of sanctions against Italy, devised swiftly to cut short the warfare in Ethiopia, was interpreted by League of Nations statesmen today as a world law calling for outlawry of war—all transgressors take notice.

The general view heard on all sides was that Premier Mussolini was the first victim of the command against war, but that the move went farther than that—the law laid down and the punishment provided striking at all aggressors.

Mussolini was given time to reflect. Unless his war in Ethiopia has been halted by October 31, League of Nations will fix the fateful date for unleashing an economic boycott against Italy.

The "Buy nothing" from Italy program, advanced by Anthony Eden of England, threatened by its repercussions to strangle Italian power to purchase abroad the raw materials essential.

This was but a part of the three-fold program pushed through after the indictment of Italy as the aggressor nation.

An arms embargo was clamped on Italy and lifted from Ethiopia. Financial sanctions adopted cut off Italian cash and credit abroad, and economic sanctions—the boycott and an embargo on exports of key products to Italy—were arranged.

E. C. T. C. Teacher Reports On Work At Raleigh Meet

Miss Agnes Worthington Says
Youth Administration Work to Be Carried Out

Plans for administering the National Youth Administration in the schools, including East Carolina Teachers college here, will follow the general plan in effect last year for work done by students under the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. Miss Agnes Waddington of the local college, reported today following her return from Raleigh where she attended a meeting at N. C. State college of representatives of the various schools in the state.

Much of the meeting was devoted to working out details of the plan and in preparation of reports to be sent to federal headquarters. R. S. Proctor, superintendent of the Craven county school system, is director of the work. A similar meeting was held in the western section of the state on Friday.

A sum amounting to $1,800 is allowed each month for students at East Carolina Teachers college, the money to be distributed among 130 students who have been assigned work under the federal project. The students were selected from a large number of applicants whose records were thoroughly investigated. Each student receiving aid is paid so much per hour, with a set maximum of hours each month.

Case Is Started To Test Bankhead Act By State Of Georgia

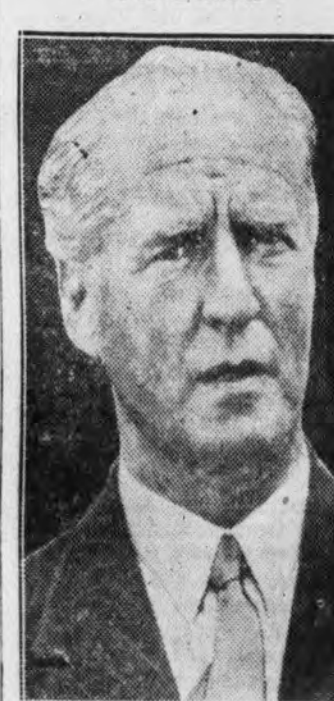

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today directed the United States to show by November 11 why Georgia should not be permitted to file a suit to test the constitutionality of the Bankhead cotton control act. A petition to file the suit has been presented in behalf of Gov. Talmadge of Georgia.

The Bankhead legislation aiming at cotton production control imposes a tax of 50 per cent of the market price of all cotton ginned above a fixed quota.

Talmadge seeks to prevent Secretary Morgenthau, Secretary Wallace and other officials from enforcing the tax provision of the act. The state of Georgia grows cotton on 100 acres in Baldwin county and on 60 acres in Talmadge where it has prison farms.

EARTH ROADS IN WAR ZONE

Communique Says
France Constructing
Roads to Railway

Addis Ababa, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government announced today that France is camouflaging the railroad between Djibouti, French Somaliland, and the Ethiopian frontier for protection from Italian bombs.

An official communique said France was constructing subsidiary earth roads leading to the railway so that armored cars and other equipment can be brought quickly in case of an attack from Italian military planes.

"This proves that France and Britain intend to impose their will on Italy in case sanctions are ineffective," the communique said. Emperor Haile Selassie announced that he has received several messages from Austrians in the Pirol district of Northern Italy. One of the writers said that if the Ethiopians took Pirol prisoners during the present war, all patriotic Pirolese hoped that the emperor would spare them because they were themselves victims of Italian oppression.

A belief that Premier Mussolini may try to initiate direct peace negotiations with Haile Selassie, using Vincel-Gighurci as an intermediary, strengthened today as the Italian minister remained here—11 days after his passport had been handed him.

Drunken Drivers Taken In County

Eastern Division of State Highway
Patrol Arrest Two for Driving
Drunk and Investigate Wrecks

The eastern division of the state highway patrol today reported the arrest of two Ayden men charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of whiskey.

Robert Moore, white, and James F. Bell, negro, were the two arrested. Both were lodged in jail immediately following their arrest. Bond was set at $200 in each case.

A number of minor wrecks were reported by the highway patrolmen. However, none of them caused any serious damage and no arrests were made. William Henry Smith, negro youth, complained that he was struck by an unidentified motorist who did not stop following the accident, which occurred on the Bethel road but within the city limits. William Henry suffered only minor injuries.

Water Well Supplies Oil
Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—A Tulsa refinery has found its water supply a profitable source of revenue. For economic reasons, the refinery drilled its own water wells to supply water needed in operating the refinery. One of the wells, which supplies 600 gallons of water a minute, sends up five barrels of oil a day with the water. The oil eventually will pay for drilling the well.

Authoritative Circles
Hint New Plans Are
Crystallizing

MOVES NOW IN
EARLIEST STAGES

Said Europe Might
Be On Threshold,
But Not Brink, Of Settling Dispute

London, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Authoritative circles dropped hints today that a new plan for peace in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict had begun to crystallize at Rome, Paris and London as a result of easing tension over the week-end.

These quarters emphasized that the moves were in the earliest stages and it would be erroneous to say anything definite had developed yet or any great optimism prevailed.

Informed circles showed great reluctance to discuss the subject. It was not impossible that some concrete lecture for relieving of military measures in the Mediterranean might be taken shortly, to be followed by definite peace talks.

They said Europe might be on the threshold—but certainly not on the brink—of working out a settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

Ruth Nichols Is Badly Injured As Plane Crashes

Famous Society Flier Receives Severe Injuries As Her Plane
Crashes; Pilot Also Hurt

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 21.—(AP)—Miss Ruth Nichols, one of America's ace air women, was critically injured and five of her employes hurt when a 20-passenger plane crashed and burned at Troy airport.

The luck that brought the record breaking society flier through two previous crashes in her career may or may not have been with her when a limb of a tree tore her from the plane just before it hit the ground.

The Troy New York flier and her pilot, Capt. Harry Hubblith of New York were rushed to Samaritan hospital, Troy, both badly injured. After administering treatment, doctors said Miss Nichols was most seriously hurt but possibly will live.

"We will know in a few days" said the attending physician. "She has fractured wrists and ankles, possibly internal injuries, lacerations of the face and a broken nose." She also has contusions of the face, burned hands and injuries to the legs. Capt. Hubblith had similar injuries, but not so serious.

The others leaped to safety as the plane hit the ground and their injuries were limited to contusions. They left the airport after receiving first aid treatment.

The big plane, which was starting to Florida, after making exhibition flights here had just taken off. Its left motor apparently failed, and it crashed through two trees. It struck the ground but side of the cabin was torn off as it hit a tree, and Miss Nichols was flung from the plane.

A party of relief workers found her stunned and bleeding in the wreckage. His hair was aflame as he was rescued.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Williams

Funeral services for Mrs. H. B. Williams of the Farmville community, mother of Mrs. P. A. Jordan, of this city, were conducted from the home near Farmville Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Williams died in the hospital here Friday afternoon as a result of pneumonia caused by injuries received Tuesday in an automobile accident eight miles west of Farmville.

Mrs. Williams with other members of the family and relatives were enroute to Raleigh to attend the state fair when the accident occurred. Mrs. Williams received an injury to her spinal column which brought about a paralytic condition and later pneumonia causing her death.

Her daughter, Miss Marjorie Williams, one of the other occupants of the car received a broken arm.

FIVE POINTS DANGEROUS

The traffic situation at Five Points is getting to the point that it needs attention if some serious accident at that point is to be prevented. With the increased traffic of late together with the apparent feeling on the part of many drivers that they must beat the other fellow across the intersection is causing many traffic jams in this busy section of the city and already there have been a series of minor accidents at the intersection. In the absence of traffic lights at the intersection the city should keep a traffic officer stationed in the center of Five Points, especially during the hours of heavy traffic and let no vehicle cross the intersection without a signal from the officer. We have been most fortunate that there have been no more serious accidents at Five Points but with the growing congestion there we see no reason why we should continue to trust to our luck when steps can be made to protect motorists and pedestrians who find it necessary to cross there.

NOT ACCIDENTS

We usually hear of our highway fatalities spoken of as accidental deaths but after all there are but few of them that can accurately be called accidents, the great majority being due to someone's deliberate carelessness or "cussedness." When a motorist ventures on the highways with a car without sufficient brakes and as a result of his inability to stop quick enough kills somebody it is not an accident but a deliberate act on the part of the motorist even though it probably had not been intended. When a motorist drives as fast on wet slippery pavement as he would on dry pavement, or when he drives fast on the wrong side of the road around curves or over hills where vision is obstructed, and as a result of so doing, kills or injures someone else or himself, it is not an accident but a deliberate act. When a motorist drives his or her car at speeds beyond all reason and safety and as a result kills or injures someone, it is not an accident. When a motorist fills his system with liquor and then steps into his automobile and takes to the highways and as a result kills or injures someone, it is not an accident but a deliberate act. The purely accidental deaths and injuries on our highways are very few in comparison with the total number of fatalities and injuries. When it is realized that in the great majority of so-called accidents somebody is really at fault and these offenders are dealt with by the courts for their carelessness or deliberate cussedness, then we will be making a start toward cutting the death toll on our highways.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth has learned that because her foster parents, Luke and Lucinda Farnsworth, have failed to adopt her, she will not inherit their large estate. Her "relatives" plan to drive her from the Farnsworth house, and Rob Crocker, her fiancé, has been surprisingly cool and uncommittal when she needed him most. But she hopes that tonight he will be himself.

Chapter 14 ROB'S VISIT

BUT if she was to see Rob tonight she must relax or she'd look wretched.

Anne lay on the sofa and waited for sleep. She had slept only fitfully since that first dreadful night. Now she dozed, tossed, dozed again.

When she awakened the storm had stopped. She arose, went to the wide window and looked out. The sun had broken through the western clouds and was sending the last shafts of light east, to where Mt. Hood's snow-covered peak gleamed lemon-yellow. She looked down at the city roofs, shining with their late drenching at the curving line of the river, visible here and there where the wharves were low.

And then she looked down at her own yard which sloped to a ravine, and caught sight of a familiar car on the driveway which rimmed the ravine. Rob's car. He was there and she had left orders not to be disturbed.

He hadn't waited to telephone. He had rushed to her. Quickly she brushed her hair, wound it in pin-wheels over her ears, slipped into a grey dinner frock and hurried out on the long balcony which circled the hall. Rob was just leaving. She started to call to him, but noticed he was talking to her uncle.

Anne stepped to the railing, then caught sight of Sharlee. She couldn't call with that girl listening avidly to every word.

"I am sure you can explain this to Anne."

The girl on the balcony straightened. Was he leaving without having seen her?

"I feel like a rotter about it, but Mr. Farnsworth, it's better to be honest. It's as though I'd fallen in love with one person, then found that person didn't exist. Understand?"

Lee Farnsworth nodded his head, heavily. "Reckon you mean you felt knowin' her blood kin, you'd know her. Not knowin' them made her strange-like."

"That's it. That's it exactly. Tell her I'll write her as soon as I reach Chicago, and when I return I'll look her up and we'll know whether or not it's best to go on."

He was going away; going to Chicago and he wasn't taking her. He was leaving her to face everything alone. He was going without even saying goodbye.

"Rob," she whispered the name in an incredulous tone. "Rob!" she mumbled the heart-broken cry with her hands as Sharlee stepped forward, passed an arm possessively through Rob's, and went with him through the door.

ANNE stepped back into the shadows of the upper hall. She heard the door click, heard Lee Farnsworth go into the library, and heard the clink of brass as he pulled the portieres to. She felt cold, numb, wondered if she had strength enough to reach her room, to turn the key in the door.

"Miss Anne!" Yvonne, who had slipped into an ell of the upper hall when Anne came out on the balcony, rushed forward. "Oh, Miss Anne."

Later Anne remembered being propelled into her room, Yvonne rubbing her feet. Mrs. Harney bustling in to hold her head and smooth the hair back from her brow, Buttons standing inside the closed door alternately insisting that Maggie go below and complete dinner preparations, or asking Harney if there wasn't something, anything, he could do.

"You're coming home with us, huh?" Mrs. Harney, informed her. "Buttons and I've talked it over. Between us we've money enough for one of those little chicken ranches out beyond Mt. Hood, so we're marryin' and we'll look after you."

And when the others had gone below, Yvonne came forward with her suggestion. "I did not tell you, Miss Anne, but Loretta D'Orsay, she it is who is cousin to my papa, has asked me to come to Hollywood. She says I can quickly find work for her. We'll go. I will work for her until she and the way to make you the — of you Yvonne, but I couldn't let you do that. I'm glad, though, that your cousin can help you find a nice position."

Even Maggie lumbered up after dinner was safely served. She brought with her a thumbled brown bank book, showing the sum total of her savings. "Yours to use, Miss Anne. I'd never had him if Mister Luke hadn't started this. My sister Nora's a widow and that anxious for me to be livin' with her these past few years, so I won't be needin' it."

Warned by their love and relieved to find each one with a ready haven, Anne faced the realization of Rob Crocker's actions. She could have forgiven him anything but having discussed his feeling for her with another person, and before Sharlee. The burning humility of that was something she couldn't overlook. And he wouldn't face her; couldn't face her. He wasn't man enough.

"I should be glad I've found him out in time. He said 'It's better to be honest.' Well, I can be honest too. He fell in love with the heir to Luke Farnsworth fortune and when he found I wasn't the heir . . . oh Rob—"

She had been staying at the window, looking down on the city, misted with twilight, sparkling with night lights. Now she swung around into the room. "I've got to get out of here. I can't stand it any longer."

There was a light knock at the door. She opened it and found Buttons, a truly comical look of concern on his face.

"Mrs. Farnsworth says you are to come down and have dinner with the others; that there are to be no more meals sent up here. But Miss Anne, if you want them they'll be served here."

"I don't, Buttons. I couldn't eat another meal here. I'm going out. When Yvonne finishes her dinner have her come up, will you?"

AS SOON as Buttons closed the door, Anne went to her desk. She'd need her bank book. Yvonne could burn her personal letters and save the few receipts she had filed there; Harney would have the most important ones. There were notes to pen to her six best friends, girls who were to have been her bridesmaids. She owed it to them to tell them what had happened.

Brief notes they were, and Anne wrote them with her lips set in a firm, straight line—"And I am only the foster daughter of Luke and Lucinda Farnsworth, and as such, do not share in the will. Under the circumstances I have decided to break my engagement with Robert Crocker. Forgive the brevity of this, I will write you later when I know more of my future."

Yvonne came in and Anne turned to her. "Pack my overnight bag, and one of the larger ones. A couple of street dresses and hats and lingerie. Then my trunks, and Yvonne, there are several evening frocks you've admired; keep those for yourself. Better get them out of the house tonight."

Anne dressed in a warm street suit, then sat down to write her last note, this time to Judge Kellogg. In her moment of longing to escape she had decided upon her course.

Dear Judge: I'm slipping away from here tonight, but please do not worry about me. I feel my old nurse, Tecla Borel, of Antioch, going to see me and I am depending upon you to keep my whereabouts a secret. You are the only person left whom I can trust.

Please send for my trunks and keep them with the boxes you have told Harney to pack. The list of trunks and the keys are enclosed. I will send for them as soon as I know where I will settle.

Enclosed, also, is the ring Robert Crocker gave me. Please return it to him for me. I have not seen him to talk to since I told him what you told me. However, I overheard him tell Uncle Lee that he was going to Chicago and we would discuss whether or not marriage was advisable upon his return. This will relieve him of the Chicago trip. I thought he loved me. It seems it was Luke Farnsworth's heir he loved.

Do not worry about me, Judge. I will promise to do nothing definite without first consulting you. I also promise to do nothing that Luke and Lucinda would be ashamed to have me do.

Sincerely, Anne.

"Yvonne," she turned from her desk, "please take this box, which contains a letter to Judge Kellogg, to his home as soon as I leave the house. I want these other letters mailed special delivery."

"In this envelope is a check which will cover your fare to Hollywood and give you enough to live on until your cousin finds work for you. Send me your address through Judge Kellogg."

ried and satisfied ranks of organized labor's jobholders. The printing trade, for instance, has eleven different types of workers each organized into a different union. That means eleven sets of officers, officials, organizers, etc. Under the Lewis system there would be only one headquarters and one group of paid officials. Naturally, these now on the payroll oppose this stab at industrial bureaucracy.

The march of events seems to favor Lewis. As industry becomes more and more specialized through inventions and the New Deal's re-classification, the financial cost of maintaining craft unions may become unbearable. But the most significant feature is that in order to win this battle the Lewis faction may ally themselves even more closely with the anti-Green radicals. Beneath the superficial clash is a more basic struggle between two personalities—Lewis and Green—and two antagonistic factions. It's just like politics.

AUDIT: Although Ivan Kreuger committed suicide almost two years ago New Deal economic detectives are investigating in Europe the match king's financial affairs. Robert H. Jackson, Internal Revenue counsel, is investigating American banks' holdings of Kreuger stock to discover how much loss they suffered—and when. It may make a great difference in the amount of income tax they must pay to Uncle Sam. It is understood that many banks, each wrote off their losses at a time when it would be the most profitable, although the facts may not justify their bookkeeping.

Joseph C. Kennedy, ex-Securities Exchange Commission chairman, is looking into the methods by which millions in Kreuger stock were sold in this country. Thousands of people lost money because of high-pressure methods utilized in distributing dubious issues on this side of the water. And William A. Stansler, erstwhile assistant to Attorney General Cummings, is burrowing into the legal aspects of these involved and costly transactions.

DENIED: Several hundred corporations have asked the Securities Exchange Commission to keep confidential their reports on the salaries which they pay to management officials. In most instances they offer the formal reason that publication might hurt the feelings of stockholders and employees.

But in private conferences with SEC officials they furnish another excuse. They explain that they anticipate recovery within the next year, and therefore a fierce competition between great corporations—as has occurred in the steel industry—for able executives. They fear that publication of their salary schedule will tip off competitors that worth while captains of industry are purchasable for a comparatively small increase. Thus the bigger companies would gobble up the best men.

The explanation sounds plausible. But in franker moments the protesting industrialists admit that they know to a dime what their rivals are paying for executive service. Though it's slow work disposing of these confidential requests the SEC has not yet found a case where it thought that there was a good reason for concealing the facts.

OPPOSITION: Democratic workers defend any discrimination by charging that Republican officials will not cooperate wholeheartedly in relief work. They say they must appoint people who are in sympathy with the underlying objectives. State directors tell of instances where GOP chiefs in towns and counties refuse to accept the money or material allocated to them for relief of local unemployed. Washington has reports that the work-relief program has bogged down in many areas because of this kind of stubborn opposition.

Bi-partisan observers think the controversy significant because it offers new proof that the methods of relief as well as the amount of money expended will constitute a major issue of the 1936 campaign.

NEW YORK

mild minimum as long as he's in power.

New Yorkers with excellent French contacts say that—although Laval is sharply criticized for some phases of his domestic policy—he is warmly supported by the great majority of his countrymen in his determination to avoid commitments which would make France the tail of England's kite. The last thing they want is to go to war in defense of the British Empire. So don't take these "authoritative rumors" from London too seriously.

RISK: Meanwhile Britain persists in her poker game with Mussolini—but the best posted sources say she is holding a no-bid-tail flush. Italy's hand is no wordier either—but she can count on it pretty safely that Britain's bellicose gestures are bluff.

In the first place, England isn't physically ready for war. Experts estimate it would take a year and a half to two years of intensive preparation to reach adequate military efficiency.

Dr. Meadows in Rocky Mount

Dr. L. R. Meadows was the speaker yesterday afternoon at a union meeting of the Philathea and Baraca classes from all the churches in Rocky Mount, which was held at the Arlington Street Baptist church.

This was the forty-fifth anniversary of these two Sunday School movements in Rocky Mount.

Dr. Meadows took as his topic "Preparation and Service," using as the two key words, "Come" and "Go." In reviewing the great work the Philathea and Baraca classes have done, he called the roll of great leaders who were influenced by them or were leaders in the work. John Rockefeller, Jr., and Pat Neff were two he mentioned.

Speaks To Scouts.

At the weekly meeting of Troop 30 Boy Scouts on Saturday night at the Rotary building, Mr. Brooks spoke to the boys on physical development. Mr. Brooks is also merit badge examiner on the merit badge for physical development.

The meeting was made up of the routine troop reports, announcements, talk, patrol meetings, and games. J. Hicks Corey and Charles Howard joined the troop at the last meeting and are now members of the Fox patrol.

The Scouts owe a vote of thanks to the North Side Lumber Company and to Garrison Evans Lumber Company for the lumber that was contributed by them which is to be made into tables for the use of the troop. It was announced that the Washington Boy Scouts have extended an invitation for the Greenville Scouts to camp at Camp Leach with them the Friday and Saturday following Thanksgiving. This invitation will be accepted.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Doctrine of Atonement," was the subject of the lesson sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist on Sunday, October 20.

The golden text was from II Cor. 5:20. "We are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson sermon was the following from the Bible: "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the brokenhearted, to preach deliverance to the captive, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised. Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him; and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them. And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ the Son of God. And he rebuked them, saying, They knew that he was Christ." (Luke 4:18, 40, 41).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Our Master taught us no mere theory, doctrine, or belief. It was the divine Principle of all real being which he taught and practiced. His proof of Christianity was no form or system of religion and worship, but Christian Science, working out the harmony of Life and Love. Jesus sent a message to John the Baptist, which was intended to prove beyond a question that the Christ had come: 'Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached.' In other words: Tell John what the demonstration of divine power is, and he will at once perceive that God is the power in the Messianic work."

La Argentina Here This Evening

The Spanish celebrity, La Argentina, the world's greatest dancer and her staff arrived in private cars yesterday afternoon coming from Lynchburg, and are at the Proctor Hotel.

While she is spending the day in rehearsal, or doing her exercises, her stage manager and electrician are busy getting everything in readiness for her performance in the Campus Building of the College at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Her mistress of the wardrobe began early in the day pressing the ten magnificent costumes she will wear tonight. Some of these are fresh for this season and have been worn only once before. In Lynchburg Saturday night, where she opened her sixth season in America. The embroidery on one costume is over a hundred years old. This is the one she wears in the peasant dance from the province of Toledo, "Lagaterana". The one she wore in the picture that appeared last week she will wear tonight in the dance "Madrid, 1890."

Sixteen days ago Argentina sailed from Rio de Janeiro, was on shipboard about two weeks, landed in New York, and started immediately on her American tour.

This is her first visit to North Carolina and her second to the South. While she hates to ride in airplanes or trains, or to take long trips in automobiles, and would like to walk from place to place; she was greatly interested in the country she passed through yesterday coming here. The tobacco warehouses and cotton fields in this section were novelties to her. The only time she ever takes a vacation is when she is on shipboard, and even then she is creating new dances. She lives, and thinks dancing, and it is as natural to her as breathing.

At the close of her visit to Buenos Ayres, where she had given fourteen performances, she gave a special dance she created as a farewell for two years to the country in which she was born and from which she takes her name. She received such an ovation that night that there were more people outside the theatre than inside. They protested so against her plans not to return next season that there was a riot that it took the mounted police to quiet. While she will not make another trip to South America for two years, she will be in North America again next year.

Those who hold season tickets for entertainments at East Carolina Teachers College must show these and get their reserved seat tickets from the one in charge of the box sheet.

Poll By Farmers On AAA Policies Seen As Crucial

Nationwide Referendum on What Corn and Hog Growers Want to be Held on October 26.

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington, Oct. 21.—(AP)—The administration is "going to the country" on October 26 in a nationwide referendum to determine whether corn and hog growers want continued the adjustment program for those commodities.

An adverse vote, officials say, would throw production wide open. Unlike other major crops, corn and hogs are grown so widely that elections will be held in every state in the union. Farmers who have not participated in the adjustment program will be eligible to vote along with the contract-signers. Government sources estimate there are more than 4,500,000 corn and hog growers in the country and that more than 3,000,000 of these are engaged in production on a commercial scale.

The referendum attended as it is by European war scares and the emerging prospect of coincident great new foreign markets, is frankly regarded by AAA executives as the most crucial they have held, on the theory that if farmers ever are likely to demand heavier production this is the time.

Both Secretary Wallace and AAA administrator Davis, however, have publicly exhibited concern lest farmers seek again the huge production of the World War days—a production which Davis says brought a "moment of false prosperity and then brought 1921 and the long ghost march of the years that led up to the dark days of 1932 and 1933."

This election, upon which depends the future of a program that has poured more than $300,000,000 into farmers' pockets in rental and benefit payments, will be conducted by secret ballot, not to be signed by the voter. He will be asked to answer yes or no to the question: "Do you favor a corn-hog adjustment program to follow the 1935 program which expires November 30, 1935?"—and to signify whether he is a cooperating grower. Polling places, to be established at community centers, will be open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m.

Hundreds of thousands of leaflets entitled, "Shall corn-hog adjustment continue?" will be distributed. These leaflets bear a table saying corn was 32 cents a bushel in 1932-33 and 82 cents a bushel in 1934-35; that hogs were $3.36 per hundred pounds in 1932-33 and $7.10 per hundred pounds in 1934-35.

SOUTH CAROLINA POLITICS LURES EX-SERVICE MEN

Columbia, S. C., (AP)—The Marine corps and the navy are "represented" in South Carolina politics.

Capt. Louis C. Richardson of Anderson, U. S. N., retired, was appointed to the state highway commission by Gov. Olin Johnston.

Col. William C. Hardee of Dillon, U. S. Marine corps, retired, has launched a campaign for the United States senate seat now held by James F. Byrnes.

DESIGNERS FASHION A NEW SLEEVE

London (AP)—One of the new styles for a three-quarter length sleeve has the seam at the top instead of under the arm. This seam is left unstitched about the elbow where the sleeves gains in fullness and the edges are caught together at the cuff by two buttons.

COINS TOSSED TO DIVERS' FORM HONOLULU TREASURE

Honolulu, (AP)—Silver treasure, perhaps several thousand dollars of it, lies at the bottom of Honolulu harbor.

It's in dimes, quarters, half dollars and even a few silver dollars tossed overboard from the decks of liners to Hawaiian diving boys who swarm alongside.

Thousands of coins are tossed to the boys each year by incoming tourists, it is estimated, and not all are recovered.

Quick Relief for Chills and Fever and Other Effects of Malarial

Don't put up with the suffering of Malaria—the teeth-chattering chills and the burning fever. Get rid of Malaria by getting the infection out of your system. That's what Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic does—destroys and drives out the infection. At the same time, it builds up your system against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic contains quinine which kills the infection in the blood. It also contains iron which builds up the blood and helps it overcome the effects of Malaria as well as fortify against re-infection. These are the effects you want for COMPLETE relief. NEGRO SCOUTS ARE HONORED

Local Troop Wins Second Place In Annual Council Rally

Greenville Colored Boy Scout Troop won second highest honors at the first annual Boy Scout Rally, for Colored Scouts, of the East Carolina Council in which 95 Scouts and Scouters participated held at Tarboro Saturday.

The events opened with an inspection of all the Troops taking part. After this one boy from each participating Troop gave a one minute oration telling how the Boy Scout organization was brought to America, relating the incident of William D. Boyce's visit in London where a boy came to him and offered assistance in finding a difficult address in the dense London fog.

When Boyce offered the boy the customary tip, the boy refused to take it saying that he was a Scout and that Scouts did not accept tips for services. Boyce was so astonished by this that he asked the boy to tell him about the Scouts. The Scout did so and then offered to take Boyce to the office of the Boy Scouts of England where the visitor met the founder of the Boy Scouts Movement, Lord Baden-Powell. Boyce was so impressed that he gathered all available information and brought it back to America. On February 8 of the following year Boyce and others interested in boys and citizenship formally incorporated the Boy Scouts of America.

After the orations the Scouts had a picnic spread. The Tarboro Scouts acting as host, furnished lemonade for all present.

The events of the afternoon were signaling, Scout pace, knot tying, compass relay, Scout Law spelling, and presentation of awards to all Troops scoring over 100 points. Four Troops won the highest score with 140 points. Troop 31 of Greenville won second highest with 115 points. Troop 45 of Tarboro, and Troop 7 of Wilson tied with 100 points each.

Troop 31 of Greenville was under the leadership of Scoutmaster W. H. Davenport, professor in the Fleming Street school. His Troop was the only one at the rally with 100 per cent attendance, the Scouts are: William Evans, Robert Telle, Melvin Williams, Willie Telle, Percy Daniels, Charles Easton, Joseph Godette, Joseph Wiggins, John Greene, James Brown, Robert Shivers, and Vernon Williams.

Teachers Prepare To Meet Cadets From Oak Ridge

Several Changes in Lineup Expected to be Seen as Local College Prepares For Game

The East Carolina Teachers college football team today prepared for another week of hard practice in preparation for Saturday's game with Oak Ridge.

The game with Oak Ridge will be the second of the season for the Teachers, and will be the first time the locals have played at home.

Coch Matis said he was a bit more optimistic over his team than he was earlier in the season. He said he felt the team had shown much improvement in blocking and tackling. He said also the line would be much stronger, indicating there probably would be some changes. The coach expressed satisfaction with the present lineup of his backfield and said it probably would remain intact.

Johnson probably will be shifted to his old position in the line at tackle and Ridenhour will take the center position. Davis is slated for a chance at one of the end positions.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, one lower to one higher, with steadier Liverpool cables offset by hedge selling.

December worked up from 10.80 to 10.85 and May from 10.86 to 10.88 with active months 2 to 4 points net higher at the end of the first half hour.

At midday December was ruling at about 10.82 and May 10.85 for about net unchanged to one point lower.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Industrial favorites led by the motorists spurred to new highs for the year today.

An avalanche of buying orders swamped the ticker tape during the early proceedings, and gains of one to two or more points were numerous. Rumors of impending peace proceedings acted as a stimulant while the growth of economic optimism kept bullish forces optimistic.

Securities prices in London and Paris pointed substantially higher.

The market moved at an active pace with a firm tone in late trading.

Transfers approximated 2,600,000 shares.

TOURISTS AD HIGHWAY FUND

Highway Officials See Enlarged Revenue from Tourist

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 21.—The tour of North and South Carolina now in progress by some 50 or more travel bureau executives and AAA club tour directors, which entered North Carolina again last night at Wilmington and is now proceeding through the eastern part of the state, is going to be productive in bringing a greatly enlarged tourist business to North Carolina, Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the State Highway and Public Works Commission said today.

This increase of the state, sponsored by the Carolina Motor Club and The Carolinas, Inc., of which Coleman W. Roberts of Charlotte is the head, is going from Wilmington to Elizabeth City today, with stops in New Bern and Edenton. Tomorrow the party will proceed down "the banks" from Elizabeth City to Manteo and Roanoke Island by way of Kitty Hawk, where the Wright Memorial is located, and Nags Head. Wednesday the party will come inland from Elizabeth City to Raleigh, spending the night here. Thursday it will visit Southern Pines and Pinehurst and go on into Charlotte Friday, where the tour will end. The tour started a week ago this morning in Greensboro, and spent four days in the mountain sections of the state, where the party of travel experts, representing more than 15,000 travel and tour directors throughout the United States and Europe, were astounded at the scenic wonders of the Blue Ridge and Great Smoky Mountains. The latter part of last week was spent in visiting the resorts of South Carolina, including Aiken, Charleston and Myrtle Beach.

"The reports I have had from those who have accompanied this tour part of the way are that its members have been more than pleased and delighted with what they have seen and that they and their organizations will be the means of sending hundreds of thousands of people to North Carolina who have never been here before," Chairman Waynick said.

"This will mean that hundreds of thousands of additional dollars will be spent in the state by tourists."

Sheriff's Office Has Very Quiet Weekend

In contrast to last week-end, Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst today reported that neither he nor any of his officers made any arrests over this week-end.

From last Saturday night to Monday morning nearly a score of law violators, most of them on liquor charges, were arrested by the members of the sheriff's office.

Legislator Dies Heart Disease In S. Carolina

W. C. Hamrick, Who Served in Both North and South Carolina Legislatures Dies After Illness

Gaffney, S. C., Oct. 21.—(AP)—W. C. Hamrick, 75, banker, educator, textile operator and former legislator in both North Carolina and South Carolina, died early today after an extended illness.

He had been confined to his home for the past six months with heart trouble. He was 75 years old last June.

Hamrick served two terms in the South Carolina senate, retiring last year. In 1889 he was a representative from Cleveland county, North Carolina.

MAKES AN HONEST PROPOSITION

* I do hereby solemnly swear to make no charge if I do not faithfully fulfill every word embodied in this statement. I will tell you just what you want to know about friends, enemies, or rivals; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false; how to gain the love of one you most desire; control or influence the action of anyone, even though miles away. I further guarantee and promise to make you no charge unless you find me superior to any analyst ever consulted. There is no hope so fond or wish so great that I cannot accomplish for you.

* I guarantee success where others fail.

* I give you never-failing advice upon all matters of life, such as love, courtship, marriage, divorce, law suits, speculations and transactions of all kinds. I never fail to reunite the separated, cause speedy and happy marriages, overcome enemies, rivals, lovers' quarrels, evil habits, stumbling blocks and bad luck of all kinds.

* I lift you out of your sorrow and trouble and start you on the path to happiness and prosperity. There is no heart so sad or home so dreary that I cannot bring sunshine to; in fact, no matter what may be your hope, fear or ambition, I do guarantee to tell it all before you utter a word to me, and after I am finished if you are not absolutely satisfied and if I do not faithfully fulfill every word and claim above, then you pay not a penny, and I do herewith sign my name to this statement.

...but, after all is said and done, it's the cigarette itself that counts

...the question is, does it suit you?

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you...you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident...

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobaccos to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos.

Outstanding .. for mildness .. for better taste
