No Hope Remain To Effect Peace In War Sections

Stalemate Reached in Conciliatory Efforts

ASK SANCTIONS IN FORCE TUESDAY

Proposals Thus Far Advanced By Italy Unacceptable to the League of Nations

London, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Authoritative sources said today that a stalemate had been reached in efforts to end the Italo-Ethiopian war and that there were no hopes for an early cessation of hostilities.

At the same time the treasury department ordered that Great Britain's financial sanctions against Italy be placed in operation next Tuesday.

The official treasury explanation said financial sanctions were being applied under article three of the League covenant, and refers to loans and credits, to or for the benefit of: 1. The government of any Italian territory; 2. And a person (not being a body corporate) of whatever nationality resident in such territory; 3. Any person wherever a resident being a body corporate under a law of any such territory.

Informed sources said that the progress of the peace negotiations of Premier Mussolini of Italy and Premier Laval of France had virtually broken down and there was little hope for them unless the Italians came forward with new proposals which will be acceptable to the League of Nations and Ethiopia.

These authorities' viewpoint was that the proposals thus far advanced by the Italians are unacceptable to the League, are regarded as unsatisfactory, have failed to impress Laval and meet with Emperor Haile Selassie's disapproval.

Emphasizing an official viewpoint that no progress has been made on the pathway of peace, informed sources declared that the League's program for sanctions against Italy would be carried on "absolutely as outlined" with no weakening and no delay.

Pitt County Has Many Students at College Here

Seventeen Per Cent of Total Enrollment at Local College are Resident of This County

Pitt County has 194 students enrolled at East Carolina Teachers College, 88 of whom are graduates of the Greenville High School. This means that a fraction over 17 per cent of the enrollment is from this county.

Ten states besides North Carolina are represented and 76 counties in this state. There are graduates from 306 high schools in the state.

The ten states are: Virginia, five; South Carolina, four; Pennsylvania, two; and the other seven with one each, Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky and Texas.

Johnson, with 55 students, comes second to Pitt, in the number from the counties, with Edgecombe holding third place, with 41. Northampton and Wayne have 28 each; Sampson, Wake and Lenoir, 34 each; Duplin, 33; Greene and Granville, 26 each; Franklin, 22; Bertie and Harnett, 21 each; and Nash, 20. Sixteen counties have between ten and twenty each and eighteen one each.

Mrs. Cohoon Given $3,250 Compromise

Elizabeth City, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Dr. S. M. Chaplin and Earl Cohoon, both of Columbia, agreed today to pay Mrs. Georgia P. Cohoon of Knoxville, Tenn., $3,250 and counsel for Mrs. Cohoon agreed to a retraction of charges she made against the defendants in a suit tried in federal court in which she charged the defendants with conspiring to get her to have an operation to prevent the birth of another heir to the estate of her late husband and Cohoon's father, A. J. Cohoon.

The jury awarded Mrs. Cohoon $2,500 when she filed the suit in federal court. A mistrial was declared last spring when a jury failed to agree on a verdict. She was suing for $100,000.

With the exception of Texas, no details of the projects were given. Officials said they would be announced next week. Values of projects approved by McCall today included: North Carolina, $1,548,510.

Money Approved For This State

Washington, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Comptroller General J. R. McCall today approved an additional $139,315,110 worth of WPA projects in 22 states.

Mr. Hopkins asked for it. Although his order to the engineer was never made public, it called on WPA field men to cooperate with the army "with particular regard to those obstacles and difficulties which are hampering the speedy development of the program."

That an admission Harry has never made publicly.

LEAF PRICES AVERAGE HIGH

Weed Sales Bring Official Average of $24.08 Here

Tobacco sales on the Greenville market yesterday totaled 1,087,310 pounds and netted growers a total of $261,833.23 for an official average of $24.08 per hundredweight.

The day's sales brought the season's offerings to $5,313,774. The amount paid farmers thus far this season amounts to $9,568,967.76. The official average for the season at the close of the market yesterday was $21.10.

With heavy sales anticipated next week, offerings are expected to surpass the 50,000,000 pound mark for the season.

It is estimated that the crop is about 75 per cent sold and on this basis the early estimate of 60,000,000 for the Greenville market is expected to be reached.

Farmer Captures Dameron Slayer Near Gastonia

Campbell Starnes Held at Point of Gun by Arthur Pasour Until Officers Arrived at Scene

Gastonia, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Campbell Starnes, negro wanted for the slaying yesterday of deputy Sheriff W. A. Dameron, was captured early this afternoon by Arthur Pasour, a farmer who surprised the negro in the Sunnyside section near here.

Pasour reported he recognized the negro walking along the country.

The farmer, carrying a gun, hid behind a clump of bushes and as the negro passed reached out and held him at the point of his gun.

The negro dropped his own weapon. Pasour said he held the negro until arrival of officers whom he knew were in the immediate section.

Gastonia, Oct. 26.—(AP)—A posse today continued its hunt for Campbell Starnes, a negro who early yesterday shot and killed W. A. Campbell, a deputy sheriff, and fled into the nearby woods, armed with a shotgun and supply of ammunition.

Starnes was thought to have hidden in a wood near his home on the outskirts of Bessemer City, a few miles from here, after the shooting, but no trace of the fugitive was found as officers combed the area.

Deputy Dameron went to Starnes' home at 7:00 a. m., yesterday to serve him with a capias and return him to Superior court here for trial on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. The negro had been free on $200 bond on the charge.

C. J. Costner, Bessemer City policeman, went with the deputy. Costner appeared at the front door and Dameron went to the rear of the house. Starnes fired at the deputy as he opened the door, killing him instantly.

Costner went to the home of a nearby farmer for aid, but when he returned with others the negro had fled, apparently taking his shotgun with him.

ADDIS ABABA DESERTED BY COUNT VINCI

Italian Minister To Ethiopia Finally De- parts For Rome

LAST DIPLOMATIC THREADSBROKEN

Fascists Relte Ethio- pans Surrendering On Northern Front Clearing Sections

(By Associated Press)

The last diplomatic thread between Italy and Ethiopia was broken today.

Premier Mussolini's minister at Addis Ababa, Count Vinci Gigliucci, finally departed for home, more than two weeks after Emperor Haile Selassie asked him to pack his bags.

In spite of troop movements, war has not been declared. Neither country has made a formal declaration of hostilities—Mussolini apparently for political reasons, Haile Selassie because he is the defender.

The Italian count removed to Rome by way of Djibouti, French Somaliland. He refused to leave Addis Ababa until the last Italian consular agent from the interior was accounted for. The Addis Ababa representative at Rome already has been ordered home.

On the war front only sporadic bombing, propaganda and survey flights disturbed the camp routine, apparently in preparation for a renewed drive by the Italians toward interior Ethiopia.

Harar is the objective of both northern and southern Italian armies in an effort to link the Italian colonies of Eritrea and Somaliland.

Fascists related a steady stream of surrenders on the north front as Ethiopian chieftains and their followers gave themselves up to clear the territory just ahead of the Italian juggernaut.

Similar surrenders were reported to be taking place on the southern front and General Graziani advised Rome he had occupied Callafal, capital of the Shubeli region, and Gebel several days ago.

The government is endeavoring to get aid to the stricken area where the scant reports said thousands were homeless and crops destroyed.

Civil Term Ends; Criminal Court To Start Monday

Case of Elks Against Arnold Ends In Mistrial After Jury Fails to Agree After More Than 24 Hours

A week's term of civil court was climaxed last night with a mistrial in the case of W. C. Elks against W. H. Arnold in which the plaintiff sought to redeem a piece of property he is alleged to have deeded back to the defendant.

The jury received the case Thursday afternoon and at seven o'clock last night had been unable to agree and the case was declared a mistrial and will be tried over.

During the week a number of cases were settled without coming up for trial, others were disposed of in court, but a large number were not reached.

A week's term of civil court will begin Monday morning with Judge Walter L. Small who presided over the civil term, in the chair. Included in the docket is a large number of cases charging drunken driving.

Today is the final one of the week's fair which began Monday night. Large crowds had attended and today was no exception as the exposition each day and night, automobile races were held in the afternoon with a dozen or so professional drivers entered in the events.

Accordingly, the commission felt it could either build a new prison for women felons or set aside one or more prison camps for them, and still comply with the law. So at one time it planned to use the Cary Prison Farm, near the State Fair Grounds, as a prison camp for women felons, and use one or more smaller camps for women misdemeanants. But some of the lawyers members of the commission, as well as Charles Ross, counsel for the commission, thought it best to get a formal opinion and ruling from the Attorney General before proceeding any farther.

Accordingly, the commission is waiting for the forthcoming opinion by the Attorney General before proceeding with any of its plans for a separate prison for women felons, although it is agreed it can establish camps for short term women misdemeanants anywhere it desires.

MANY DROWN IN HURRICANE

Belated Reports Re- veal Hundreds Die in Caribbean

Port au Prince, Haiti.—(AP)—Reports reached here today that hundreds of persons were drowned in the island last week-end in torrential rains which accompanied the Caribbean hurricane.

The report said 96 bodies had been recovered at Jacmel, where the dead toll may reach 1,000. Communications with the entire peninsula have been cut off since Monday, roads are impassable and the news filtering in is carried over land with great difficulty by curiers.

An airplane stopped at the port at Jeremie yesterday afternoon and brought back reports of the flood ravages.

The government is endeavoring to get aid to the stricken area where the scant reports said thousands were homeless and crops destroyed.

Between 200 and 300 Children Guests of Sheriff Today at Greenville Fair

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst today took between 200 and 300 children of the city and county to the fair as guests of the sheriff, fair management and Kaus shows.

The children were admitted in the gate without charge and were taken on the various rides and saw the many shows at the exposition without charge.

Today is the final one of the week's fair which began Monday night. Large crowds had attended and today was no exception as the exposition each day and night, automobile races were held in the afternoon with a dozen or so professional drivers entered in the events.

LIEUT. JONES ASKS COURTS BACK PATROL

Justice Hindered By Congested Dockets, He Says

LOCAL COURTS BACK PATROL

Highway Division Head Speaks On Highway Safety At Kiwanis Meeting

Declaring that the congested dockets of the Superior courts in the state was one of the chief hindrances facing the highway patrol in bringing justice to traffic law violators, Lieut. Lester Jones, head of the eastern division of the patrol, last night said that enough criminal terms of court should be provided to bring immediate justice to defendants.

Lieut. Jones addressed the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Greenville Kiwanis club held at the Woman's Club.

The patrol head said the lower courts would pass judgment on a defendant, who then would appeal the case to the Superior courts. He explained that the dockets were so congested that it would be a long time before the case would be called and by the time it came up, in a number of instances, witnesses would have moved away or for some other reason would fail to appear and the case would be not pressed.

Jones said he was not familiar with the work of the civil terms of courts, but added, if it were possible, he would like to see some of the time devoted to civil cases turned over to the trying of criminal cases.

He had only praise for the lower courts and said he was getting the best cooperation from the local bar and also from the enforcement officers of Greenville and Pitt county.

Lieut. Jones cited statistics showing that there are more accidents in this state than in any other when compared to the amount of gasoline consumed. He said that Pennsylvania, which state uses more gasoline than any other, has an accident rate 33-1-3 per cent lower than that in North Carolina.

He added that he believed 90 per cent of all accidents were directly responsible to carelessness and said that he had never seen a case which he thought was suicide.

The policy of warning traffic violators and allowing them to go on has been abandoned and at present the officers are making arrests in each flagrant case of a violation, the patrolman said. He said the original plan proved unsatisfactory and now the officers were under orders to make arrests, regardless of who the violator might be. He added that being arrested on a traffic violation charge was not a blemish against the character of the one charged with breaking the law.

Some of the best citizens are subject to traffic violations, he added.

The meeting was started off with a report on the district convention held in Charleston, S. C., last week. A. A. Ellwanger told of visiting a store building with three large holes in it made by shots from cannons. He also related of seeing a church in which George Washington worshipped.

He was followed by Dave Moore who went in detail of the program of the district convention and explained it to his fellow Kiwanians.

Following the report of the delegates, the meeting was turned over to Rev. W. A. Ryan, who presented Lieut. Jones. Judge Dink Jones presided.

Visitors of the club were T. E. Bryan, teacher in the local schools; C. L. Russ, local business man; C. B. Rowlett, former member of the club, and Sidney L. Griffin, news editor of The Reflector.

Death Brings to Four Number Fatalities in Cumberland This Week and Sets Record for Year

Fayetteville, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Jackie Barefoot, three, died instantly this morning when he ran across a highway directly in the path of an oil truck driven by F. A. Martin. Witnesses described the accident as unavoidable on the part of the driver. Coroner W. C. Davis ordered an inquest for Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

The accident was the fourth traffic fatality of the week in Cumberland county and the 20th for the year, breaking the record of 19 established in 1934.

New Prison For Women Awaiting Legal Action

Plans Held Up Pending Attorney General's Ruling

"STATE PRISON" TERM DEBATED

Present Plans Call For Building of Two Or More Camps for Women Prisoners

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 26.—Plans for a new prison for women or for two or three prison camps for women prisoners, are being held up by a legal technicality, Chairman Capus M. Wayne of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, of which the prison division is a unit, revealed today.

These plans will have to remain in suspension until Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell and Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus interpret the present law for the Highway Commission.

The law says that all women convicted of felonies must be confined in the State Prison here in Raleigh. But this particular law was written and enacted before the present state-wide prison system was created and perfected, and when the Central Prison here, now used largely as a clearing house to which all those convicted of felonies are first sent, and then later distributed to the various prison camps, was the State Prison. The Highway Commission is now taking the position that the term "State Prison" designates any prison camp within the prison system and that it now has the right to send prisoners, male or female, to any unit in the system and still comply with the law.

Accordingly, the commission felt it could either build a new prison for women felons or set aside one or more prison camps for them, and still comply with the law. So at one time it planned to use the Cary Prison Farm, near the State Fair Grounds, as a prison camp for women felons, and use one or more smaller camps for women misdemeanants. But some of the lawyers members of the commission, as well as Charles Ross, counsel for the commission, thought it best to get a formal opinion and ruling from the Attorney General before proceeding any farther.

Accordingly, the commission is waiting for the forthcoming opinion by the Attorney General before proceeding with any of its plans for a separate prison for women felons, although it is agreed it can establish camps for short term women misdemeanants anywhere it desires.

HIGH COURAGE
by Jeanne Bowman
Chapter 19
NEW NAME
"SLEEP well," Anne said, folded the pillow into a hump, thumped it and lay down again. A fresh rain storm was blowing up. It pattered on the roof like the feet of tiny mice. It reminded her of a camping trip she had taken with Luke and Lucinda, years before. They had stopped at a cabin in the hills and after they had retired, a pack rat and his family had scamped back and forth across the thin roof. The rain had a honey, comforting sound. Tecla was pretty when she smiled. She had dimples, high in her cheeks. John Neuman's eyes were so blue, sailor blue. He had nice hands, firm and strong, and such broad shoulders. Wasn't there a song about rain on the roof? No need to worry now, or think. She slept.

The storm had blown over.

Once she awakened, heard foot steps tiptoeing past the door, heard the far away rattle of stove lids and from the open window caught the fragrance of wood smoke, as the wind whisked it into the room. A child's laugh sounded, to be hushed abruptly. When she opened her eyes again, an oblong of sunlight lay across the plain pine floor, like a yellow rug.

She arose and went to the window and looked out. The storm had blown over. Below, the roofs of Union Town were steaming in the warmth of the early spring sun. Beyond, the bay and the far waters of the Pacific were glinting, tossing foam-capped waves.

The wind was chill, so Anne closed the window. She pawed through her bag for a robe and had thought it when Milna rapped at the door.

"Coffee," she announced, coming in with a tin tray in her hand.

"Thank you, Milna," Anne smiled at her then, pouring cold water into a china bowl, gasped as she rinsed her face in it. She thought of Yvonne and the warm bathroom; thought of her again as she brushed her long hair, honey-brown in the sunlight.

"Gee, you'd be pretty if you cut that off and got you a permanent," offered Milna. "I'd never know yourself, and then she blushed, 'I don't mean you're not pretty now, but you'd look like a doll like Joan Crawford, maybe.'"

"NEVER know my 12 repeated Anne, that's her idea."

She crawled into bed and accepted the tray, and as she sipped the hot black liquid, Milna talked.

"We've got a name for you," she said.

"A name for me?" questioned Anne, and then she remembered "What's it?"

"Your name, Milna said, hugging her knees as she sat at the other end of the bed, 'it's MIMI. Like Mimi."

"MIMI?" Anne repeated.

"That's it," Milna said.

"MIMI?" Anne repeated.

"That's it," Milna said.

"MIMI?" Anne repeated.

"That's it," Milna said.

tatorship — with Louis Ward's assistance — and that would have laid him too obviously open to the charge of Hitlerism.

Practical politicians no longer bother much about the Radio Priest. They feel that his race is run — though his fiery talks will continue to attract a following. One by one his pet theories on money and finance are falling by the wayside. Senator Thomas of Oklahoma — his former bellwether on silver — has parted company with him on that theory. A shrewd New Yorker remarks that Coughlin is in the same plight as the GOP — business recovery is cutting down the demand for his brand of cough syrup.

BLAME: Insiders understand that FDR is fully prepared to answer the charge that there has been no worthwhile gain in employment by citing facts to prove that business itself is largely at fault.

For instance, he has figures compiled to show that department stores in several large cities added materially to their staffs when NRA came into being in order to comply with maximum hour requirements. They have announced no change in policy since the Blue Eagle died — but have in fact lengthened hours in such a way as to remove extra help from their payrolls. Similar contraction of employment from the New Deal peak can also be easily demonstrated among hotels and restaurants.

Factories aren't quite as good a target for a counter-attack. Many industries are still sticking fairly close to code conditions. Others — notably the motor industry — really have hired a lot of extra hands to meet increased production quotas. Detroit is a boom town again. But even among the manufacturers enough "horrible examples" can be found — who are handling a large volume of business with the same old payroll (or a smaller one) — to convey the idea to the public that the blame shouldn't be laid on the New Deal's doorstep.

DOUBT: New York insiders learn that Washington is not planning any immediate move to halt the rise in stock and commodity prices — despite mounting protests from consumers. The only attack on the high cost of living in sight will take the form of more vigorous prosecution of the anti-trust laws — which will have about as much effect on prices as trying to bail out the ocean with a hair-net.

A clue to the administration attitude will be found in this forthcoming AAA campaign to prove that high farm prices really help city dwellers. It will be based on the familiar argument that the more money farmers get for their products the more city-made goods they can buy and therefore the greater urban prosperity.

The logic may be irrefutable — but observers doubt that it will convince housewives who have to pay and pay.

PRIVATE: Building construction is gradually gaining momentum. Informal sources estimate that about 200,000 new family dwelling units will be erected in 1936 as against 100,000 this year.

This would still be far below par. Normal construction is figured at about 500,000 a year. Some experts say it should go as high as 750,000 to compensate for the slackness of the past few years. A full-blown building boom is predicted for 1937 or 1938.

A significant angle is the government's evident intention to retire gradually from the building

RESUME OF FAIR BY LOCAL MAN
By ED HEARNE
For the benefit of those who were unable to attend the Greater Greenville Fair this season we will give a short resume of what they missed. Perhaps the exhibit most in evidence was the display of "Corn"—the crowd was anxious to pick up this "prize corn" and place it on numbers until someone yelled "Bingo."

The largest exhibit was that of "Hamp and Flax"—and each pile had something underneath to make folks pay money to see.

The "Pickle" exhibit was not as extensive as had been expected, considering the number of ABC stores that are now operating in this section of the state.

The "Horses" would have been more apt to have been awarded fine ribbons had they had a fresh coat of paint, and it would surely have helped the looks of the merry-go-round.

Of course at every fair one expects a lot of free samples, and the free acts were the best exhibits of the entire aggregation—and the grandest thing about the grandstand was that it collapsed before it was filled with humanity.

There was a scarcity of "Hams," probably due to the high price of meat, and it would have been acceptable as a carnival—but who wants to pay 35c at the gate to see a carnival?

So let's recall the famous "V" of Lincoln and not be in the "N" exhibit next year. "You can't fool all the people all the time."

To be serious, the two or three real exhibits deserve a great deal of praise, but Pitt county can fill an immense auditorium with prize winning products and have amusements for a sideline.

Anyway the weather was fair.

SALE OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY
Under and by virtue of the authority conferred upon us in a Decree of Trust executed by Erastus Cannon and wife, Bettie Cannon, on the 21st day of October, 1924, and recorded in Book M-15, page 62, we will on Saturday, the 9th day of November, 1935, 12 o'clock noon at the Courthouse door in Pitt County, Greenville, N. Home Demonstration Clubs

The Winterville club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Nan Loy Tucker. Falkland met with Mrs. F. H. Wildman Tuesday night.

Chico met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. E. E. Moore. Annual reports and election of officers received first attention at our meetings this week. It is very necessary that both be done at an early date.

An installation ceremony will be a part of the achievement program—both present officers and new will be in this. Some club members fail to realize the importance of making their reports. Not many would have accomplished a great deal along all the subjects in the report blanks—but certainly some things have been done and no one else can report them for you. Give yourself credit for what you have done no matter how little it might be.

4-H Clubs

Belvoir and Pictious 4-H clubs met this week. Fifty-two girls and their leaders Misses Ella Lee Lewis and Gertie Lee Mayo were present at Belvoir. At Pictious there were 32 club girls, one visitor and the two leaders, Misses Julia Carson and Evelyn Baker.

Garden School

The Home Agent attended the Garden School in Raleigh Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. Raleigh has 200 active members in their Garden club. A splendid program was enjoyed. Several exhibits had been arranged. One thing—very timely—was urged by every speaker. Do not burn your leaves—save them and put them back into your soil. Make a Compost Pile back of some of your taller shrubs. Put down five stakes and surround this with wire fencing raising it one foot off the ground so you can remove well rotted leaves from the bottom and spread over your garden. Don't

The Passing Years Make 'The Kid' A Man And Jackie Coogan, 21 Today, Gets Fortune

By ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood, Oct. 26.—(AP)—"The Kid," today (October 26), reached man's estate.

Jackie Coogan, now six feet all, today is celebrating his twenty-first birthday. With this date, he comes into possession of a large fortune he made as a child actor, mostly in the days of silent films.

How much that fortune is depends on who is venturing an estimate, but it has been variously reported from $500,000 up to three times that amount.

Allowance To Continue. His mother, Mrs. Lillian Coogan, president of Jackie Coogan Productions, Inc., has intimated no sudden change will occur in her son's financial status as a result of his coming of age. He now receives a monthly allowance—amount, secret. He is at present a senior at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Jackie took the road to fame 16 years ago as the child companion of Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid." His antics as the winsome little ragamuffin who trailed the comedian in that picture through the vicissitudes of screen poverty won the hearts of movie-goers and the praise of critics.

Thereafter his name was an asset to any film in which he appeared, and his earnings grew. He played many roles in the silents, and with the coming of the talkies captured the coveted title role in Mark Twain's immortal story of boyhood, "Tom Sawyer."

No Marriage. As for his future, his mother says no definite plans have been made. She thinks he would be "moderately" successful in any business he undertook, and even suggested law to make his life as normal as possible.

Marriage? Mrs. Coogan says Jackie hasn't given it a thought. Jackie has ambitions to be a director of motion pictures some day. One of the courses he is taking is "photoplay appreciation."

His father was killed in an automobile accident several months ago. Both he and Mrs. Coogan tried to make his life as normal as possible.

Political Situation Uncertain in State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILLE

Raleigh, Oct. 26.—The political situation in North Carolina at the present time looks much like measles or chicken pox. Anything else—very spotty. Some are so worried at the outlook that they are fearful it may become even more spotty and turn into something more serious, like political smallpox. But at the present time, most of the observers here are convinced that whatever the new political rash is that seems to have gotten a foothold in the state, it is nothing more serious than measles or chicken pox. But in some sections it is agreed that those afflicted with the new rash are very red and bumpy.

The principal cause of this rash or spottiness over the state seems to be none other than Dr. Ralph McDonald, the Winston-Salem pedagogue who has forsaken school teaching for politics and is now a candidate for governor. At first the old line politicians were inclined to regard the youthful former college professor as a sort of political pirate who would soon become engulfed in the strange waters upon which he was attempting to set sail. Accordingly it seems they decided to ignore him and engulf him with silence, in the expectation that they would be able to freeze him out right at the start. But McDonald seems to have become a veritable Popeye the Sailor, with all of Popeye's luck at turning everything to his own advantage—and with a political wallop just about as convincing from Popeye's tattooed right arm. It also seems that McDonald has much of Popeye's ability to take hard knocks, in that the harder his opponents hit out at him, the faster and harder is his come-back. The old timers can't understand it and it has them worried.

One of the most recent reports heard here is that Wilson county has gone overwhelmingly for McDonald and that he would carry the county six to one. If the primary were to be held this week, another report is that Buncombe county is likely to go to McDonald, though the opposition forces vigorously deny this report. But if McDonald should get Buncombe county, what about the rest of the counties in the Eleventh district? For it has been a rule for many years, with few exceptions, that as goes Buncombe, so goes the western part of the state, which so far has been conceded as the principal stronghold of Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby. Yes, the friends and supporters of Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham are also claiming Buncombe county for Graham and predicting that he will get just as many, if not more votes, in the western counties as McDonald or Hoey will get.

But even the opponents of McDonald and those backing the other candidates agree for the most part that this former school teacher who seems to have become metamorphosed into a powerful political Popeye—though he is admittedly better looking than the ungainly sailor—is making unusually progress in his campaign. It is generally agreed, of course, that one of the reasons for this progress is the popularity of his program, which calls for lopping off the sales tax and the $10,000,000 a year in revenue it is now yielding, at the same time promising to increase salaries for school teachers and all other state employees. And while state employees, especially school teachers, are not supposed to take

More Prison Industries Desired By Highway Head

WAYNICK VISITS VIRGINIA PRISON

Observations Made After Investigating Conditions at Neighboring State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Oct. 26.—Chairman Capus M. Waynick of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, after having inspected the Virginia State Prison in Richmond, returned here convinced of two things he said today.

One is that more prison industries are needed in the Central Prison here in order to provide more varied employment for prisoners and to improve morale. The other is that all the prison guards and officials in North Carolina should wear uniforms as they are required to in Virginia.

Chairman Waynick was accompanied on his trip to the Virginia prison by Acting Director Oscar Pitts of the N. C. prison division who is in full agreement with regard to more prison industries and the uniforming of all prison officials and guards.

"I could not help but be impressed with the better spirit and better morale in the Virginia prison, which prison officials there attribute very largely to the varied prison industries," Waynick said. "There are about 1,000 men in the Virginia prison an every one employed. I watched them at their work and they seemed to take the same pride in it as if they were working for wages. There were no prisoners loafing around with nothing to do. They all were busy and a majority of them seemed satisfied. I am hoping we can get some more varied industries for the Central Prison here where those who are not able to work on the roads can be given suitable employment."

It was also pointed out by both Chairman Waynick and Prison Director Pitts that a variety of prison here makes it possible for the prison to train men and teach them a trade or craft by means of which they can earn a living and become independent after leaving prison.

In Virginia, all prison guards and officials are required to wear uniforms, and this has been found valuable in increasing the respect of

AT THE BATTLE OF ADIGRAT

LUMPKIN DUE TO ANNOUNCE

Announcement By Franklin Man Expected Shortly

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Oct. 26.—What has become of Willie Lee Lumpkin of Lenoir, Franklin county, and his friends for two months or more his friends and backers have been predicting that he would announce his candidacy "within the next few weeks" but so far no announcement has been forthcoming. The latest report is that Lumpkin positively will be a candidate and that he will announce his candidacy very soon after November 1.

A good many here are still skeptical, however, and inclined to doubt if the fiery young lawyer from Lenoir, who was so closely hyped with Dr. Ralph W. McDonald in the last general assembly in their cooperative fight on the sales tax, will actually get into the contest. Two months ago almost all of the political observers here were convinced that Lumpkin would be a candidate and that if he ran he would win the nomination. Six weeks ago most of these same ones believed he would run, but were not so sure he would be top man. Now only a few still think he will get into the race, and these are doubtful as to whether he can win the nomination. For most of the observers here now are inclined to think Lumpkin has passed his peak and already waited too long to get into the race.

For while Lumpkin has been dilly-dallying and trying to make up his mind whether to seek the nomination or not, the other three candidates—Senator W. P. Horton of Pittsboro, Chatham county, Senator Paul D. Grady of Kenly, Johnston county and former Senator George McNeill of Fayetteville, Cumberland county—have not been losing any time, according to reports reaching here. Senator Horton has built up a strong following in many parts of the state, especially in the Piedmont and west, most observers agree. His friends and supporters are already predicting he will win the nomination.

Senator Grady has already been in every one of the 100 counties in the state and is conceded to have built up a strong following in many of these. He and his friends are confident he will win the nomination. McNeill has also been busy and most observers think he will get more votes than at first appeared likely. So many doubt if it will be worth while for Lumpkin to run.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 26.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady unchanged to five higher on trade buying of near months and some southern hedge selling of the distant positions.

Offerings increased somewhat after the call with hedging a little more active and prices sagged slightly. December sold down from 10.95 and 10.90 and May from 11.00 to 10.95, making the market about net unchanged to five lower.

Futures closed steady one higher to five lower. Spots steady; middling 11.30.
