Pope Pius sought postponement of sanction against Italy today, informed ecclesiastical sources said in Rome as anti-British rioting continued in Egypt.

Sources close to the Pope represented the Holy Father as still hoping League of Nations powers would delay imposition of trade
sanctions in the interest of world peace.

One Egyptian died before a police gun as a column of protesters marched on Cairo from the gun-

150 injured.

The riots started with a student celebration of "independence day"
carried through with a mass meeting and climaxed in the encounter with the marchers as the column
moved toward Cairo.

Teachers' Request to be Aired Friday Before Commission

Delegation to Request Five Days
Sick Leave With Pay to All
Teachers Who Become Ill

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Nov. 14.—A delegation of school teachers, headed by Miss Oma Lafferty, president of the North Carolina Association of Classroom Teachers, and Mrs. T.
W. Guthrie of Kinston, president of the North Carolina Education Association, will appear before the State School Commission here tomorrow to request it to grant five days sick leave with pay to all teachers who may become sick during the year. The 1935 general assembly wrote a provision into the School Machinery Act making it discretionary with the school commission to grant five days a year sick leave with pay, but did not make this provision mandatory.

This law was passed after the school appropriation has already been made and no provision was made in the appropriation for sick leave.

Several weeks ago, when the School Commission took up the question of sick leave for this school year, it was decided that there were not sufficient funds available for sick leave and that it hence could not grant it this year. The commission pointed out that the 20 per cent salary increase, together with the increases granted for increments and better certification, would cause expenditures to exceed the appropriation of $20,031,000
for this year and that it hence could not authorize the expenditure of some $300,000 for sick leave when it did not have the money. The commission did, however, express its approval of the sick leave provision.

But in every district meeting of the North Carolina Education Association held recently, there has been a storm of protest at the action of the school commission for its failure to authorize the sick leave for this year. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin, who is a member of the School Commission, has also been active in the agitation concerning sick leave, though there is no record that he opposed the action of the commission when it decided it could not grant this leave.

The only way the school commission can grant this sick leave, it is pointed out here, is for it to take the amount needed out of the total set aside for teachers' salaries and thus reduce salaries for the fiscal year.

Pernambuco, Brazil, Nov. 14.—
Miss Jean Batten, New Zealand
flier, passed high over this city on her England to Brazil flight today,
having covered 186 miles from Natal,
Brazil in one hour and 15 min-

Miss Batten who became the first woman pilot ever to fly the South Atlantic when she landed at Natal

Legislative Act Is Predicted To End Highway Squabble

Representatives Says He Will Introduce Bill In January

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)— Legislation to end the controversy over state highway control by having a new commissioner elected by the people was proposed today by Rep. J. P. Mozingo of Darlington.

Mozingo said he planned to introduce a bill to create a state highway commission of six to replace the old commission of 14 that Gov. Olin Johnston ousted by a military coup October 28.

He based his proposal to offer the measure at the session beginning next January 14 on grounds it would stem "the rising tide of factionalism over highway affairs and eliminate all possibility of 'ring
rule' of the road bureau."

All County Schools to Close Tomorrow For Teachers Meet

Teachers to Attend Annual Meeting of Education Association to Be Held at Kinston

D. H. Conley, Pitt county superintendent of schools, said today all county schools would close at noon tomorrow so that teachers could attend the annual meeting of the North Carolina Education association in the northeastern district in Kinston.

Prominent educators will address
the annual meeting Friday and Saturday. Sessions, beginning at 3
p. m. Friday, will be held in the auditorium of Granger high school.
At the head of the list of speakers will be Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Mrs. T. Wray Guthrie, of Kinston, president of the state association. Two dinners will be had Friday evening. Adjournment will be around noon Saturday.

The meeting will be the last but one of several district sessions over the State.

56 Stores Are Locat- ed in 17 "Wet" Counties

PROFIT ABOUT
25 PER CENT

If All Counties Had Stores Estimated
$1,250,000 Worth
Be Sold Monthly

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, Nov. 14.—The 56 legally operated liquor stores in 17 counties are now selling approximately $250,000 worth of liquor each month
according to the most recent figures made public by the various county Alcohol Beverage Control boards which operate the ABC stores.

On this basis, and assuming that this represents the gross sales in 20 instead of only 17 counties, gross sales in North Carolina, if liquor stores should be allowed in all of the 100 counties, would amount to $1,400,000 a year or $1,250,000 per month, it is pointed out. Since the net profit to the counties on most of these sales average about 25 per cent, the counties or the state would get a revenue of $3,600,000
a year from the legal sale of liquor, depending upon whether the revenue would go to the counties or to the state.

These figures, based on the actual receipts of the 56 liquor stores
now in operation in 17 counties, bear out the estimates made by Senator John Sprunt Hill of Durham author of the well-known Hill Liquor Control Bill which he introduced in the 1935 general assembly which would have permitted liquor stores in any counties that wanted them, but which the senate refused to pass. It later passed the two county liquor bills
under which these stores are now operating in 17 counties; but which make it impossible for any other counties to have liquor stores until

One In Hospital Following Wreck Late Yesterday

W. K. Oakley Suffered Abrasions
And Possibly Other Injuries, Companion Hurt Slightly

W. K. Oakley and a companion by the name of Vinson were injured in an automobile wreck late yesterday afternoon on the Washington highway about five miles from Greenville.

The two men were brought to Pitt General hospital, but Vinson was discharged soon after having been given first aid attention.

Oakley, however, was more seriously injured and remained in the hospital. Hospital attaches said he suffered abrasions about the head and possibly other injuries.

Highway Patrol headquarters here reported that the accident happened on a straight road. It was reported that the car ran off the highway and struck a telephone post.

Jury Deliberates Fate Of Brothers On Assault Charge

Jury Deciding Flowers Case Apparently Deadlocked: Trial Completed at Morning Session

Raleigh, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A federal court jury was apparently deadlocked this afternoon, several hours after it took under deliberation the case in which Percy, Jimmy and Dick Flowers, brothers, are charged with assaulting E. A. Bennett, a federal investigator in Johnston county.

The all-day assault took place
last July 31, during raids by Federal agents near the home of the defendants.

Attorney's arguments and the Judge's charge took up the entire morning session of Federal court.
Bennett testified the three brothers attacked him with his own pistol. Constable Garland Jones, who was with Bennett, corroborated the agent's testimony.

68 PER CENT OF TOBACCO SOLD

Figures As of Nov. 1
Show State Average
Of 21 Cents

Raleigh, Nov. 14.—(AP)—It has been a most fortunate year in North Carolina so far as crop yields are concerned, the federal-state crop reporting service announced today and added: "In fact this state is looked upon, from outside as particularly recovered from the depression condition."

"Very good yields have been made with corn, small grain, cotton, tobacco, sorghum, early Irish potatoes and hay" the crop service said as of November 1.

Indicated production of tobacco,
the first of the month was 562,998-000 pounds, an increase of four per cent or 24,000,000 over the October estimate as growers realized the crop was heavier than had been expected. About 68 per cent of the crop had been marketed November 1 at an average of 21 cents, compared with 29 per cent last year for the period during when 78 per cent of the crop had been sold.

The vast fascist organization brought powerful pressure to bear
through the action to have employees of private firms follow the same schedules.

Fascist authorities said private organizations were responding quickly and in large numbers to the new order.

Merchant organization delegated representatives throughout Italy to help stabilize prices for principal commodities.

Officials said these efforts would be directed in some cases to keeping prices down and in others to raising prices to help vital industries through the emergency.

Amid active preparations for resisting sanctions officials pointed out that peace conversations with British and French representatives were proceeding.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington.
By RAY TUCKER
BITTEN: It isn't a topic which
New Dealers care to discuss candidly, but they make no secret among themselves of their hopes to displace unsympathetic federal judges with friends at court when Harding-Coolidge-Hoover men quit the bench. So imagine their chagrin when their first-born on the reorganized judiciary turns on them vicratic warhorse. He was a Collector of Internal Revenue under know all the right answers.

But now he denounces the administration's alleged tramping on human rights and unwarranted
delegation of executive authority.
He freed an indicted narcotic dealer because he thought the federal government besmirched its majesty in permitting agents to "make a $60 buy." To his mind this was entravement. He held unconstitutional the new law under which the handcuffs of alcohol ingredients—sugar, corn, molasses—must report on their sales. If upheld, his two ruin-tion's publicized war on the criminal and economic underworld.

School Board Opens Bids For PWA School Projects

Fourteen Schools In County To Get Benefits
From First PWA Project With The Federal Government Furnishing $106,893 Of The Funds

Bids for several Pitt county school projects were opened at a meeting of the Board of Education today and low bidders will be sent to State Public Works Administrator
H. G. Baily at Chapel Hill for approval.

The projects will be constructed with $106,893, or 45 per cent of the total cost, furnished by PWA as a grant. The remaining 55 per cent will be furnished by the county.

The work will be the first under PWA for the county and Pitt is one of the few counties in the eastern section of the state for which PWA school projects have been approved.

It was explained, however, that a number of Works Progress Administration projects are expected to get under way in the county.
The WPA proposals will be for beautification, drainage, painting and minor repairs, while the PWA project is for construction of buildings and additions to present buildings.

The various projects may be contracted for as a whole or may be broken up. It was indicated, however, the entire project will be contracted for, with some of the construction work possibly sub-let by the general contractor.

Included in the project for which bids were received today was construction work on the following
county schools:

Faebolus, white, addition to present building; Arthur, white, addition, including toilets and also sewer disposal plant and water supply; Falkland, white, addition and toilets including sewage, disposal
and water supply.

The Farmville and Grifton colored schools will get new buildings and smaller buildings will be built at the other following colored schools: Winterville, Garris, Holly
Hill, Broad Branch, Helen's Cross Roads, Whitehurst, Rock Springs,
Highsmith and Ellis.

Under provisions governing PWA projects, the President's requirements as to construction schedule and financial and engineering requirements must be met.

Any single person will not be allowed to work more than 30 hours
a week, although double shifts are permitted.

It is required that work on the projects must begin by December 15, and it was explained that a large percentage of the labor now employed on the tobacco markets
but who will be without work about the middle of December will be utilized in the program.

No definite time for completion of the work is laid down by the PWA and it was not known about when work on the school buildings would be completed.

While no official announcement
as to where the money the county is to provide would come from, it was a possibility that the profits from the sale of liquor would be applied to the county-furnished sum.
More than $20,000 has been realized by the county since the first liquor store was opened.

OLD CUSTOM IS DESERTED

Public Employees Aid
In Fighting
Sanctions

Rome, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Thousands of Italians broke a centuries-old custom today and gave up their luxurious two-hour lunch period in the fascist campaign to get sanctions.

Public employees of many classes
for the first time took only a half hour off at noon.

They hurried back to their offices,
ending their day's work at 4:30 p.
m. to save office light and heat—
part of Premier Mussolini's program of economies to counteract the restriction under League of Nations penalties for Italy's war in Ethiopia.

NEGROES FACE HEAVY CHARGE

Three Negro Men Be Tried For Capital
Offense

Three negroes will face first degree burglary charges at the next term of Pitt county Superior court as a result of having entered the home of James Nelson, 70-year-old white man and robbing him of a sum of money estimated at more than $300.

The three negroes, Roosevelt Cox,
who was reared around Greenville, John Brown, Florida negro, who came here about the beginning of the tobacco season, and Charlie Edwards, who came from near Ayden, were bound over to Superior court without bond by John Ivey Smith, local magistrate.

Chief of Police George Clark said today the three negroes signed a written confession to the crime,
which is subject to punishment by death.

Nelson was said to be recovering from the result of a beating the three negroes gave him when he aroused up while the three were attempting to rob him.

Chief Clark said Cox was the leader of the group and that he knew that Nelson had a sum of money in the house.

A portion of the money was recovered, he entire sum had been divided between the three and Chief Clark said the negroes took officers to a tobacco barn where they said they divided the cash.

U.S. Cotton Exports Show Heavy Gains During Past Month

Greater During October Than Any

1934

Washington, Nov. 14.—(AP)—A census bureau report today showed that cotton exports during October totaling 711,664 bales were greater than in any month since January 1934 when 739,352 bales were shipped. Exports report showed that Great Britain had regained its position as the world's leading buyer of American cotton, a place held in recent months by Japan.

The United Kingdom imported during October 215,095 bales com-

Somewhere along the line, it was

Washington, Nov. 14.—(AP)—
President Roosevelt today signed a

The entire lower floor was tastefully decorated with vari-colored chrysanthemums and calendulas, where six tables were placed for bridge.

After several games, Mrs. R. G. Ruffin was given a box of cut flowers for high score, and Mrs. T. H. Boykin dainty aprons for low score.

The honorees were each remembered with attractive gifts.

The hostess assisted by her daughter, Mrs. W. I. Skinner of Williamston, and Miss Louise Golphin, served a delicious salad course with spiced tea.

Literature Department Meets.

The Literature Department of the Woman's Club met on Tuesday afternoon with Miss Frances Wah and Mrs. J. H. B. Moore at the home of the latter. Mrs. Charles Horne, the chairman, gracefully presided over the business session. The program topic, "Contemporary Poets," was in charge of Mrs. W. C. Harris. Her paper included the modern British poets, the American poets to be discussed at the following meeting. In her most feeling manner, Mrs. Harris gave a lucid interpretation to poets and poetry. The immortality of the poet was justified by his perpetuation of the truth. The poets under discussion were: Tagore, Rudyard Kipling, John Masefield, William Butler Yeats and George William Russell, better known as "A. E." Mrs. Harris' paper was ably read by Miss Johnnie Deaton, a student at East Carolina Teachers College.

At the conclusion of the program the hostesses served delectable refreshments.—Reported.

Entertain At Tea.

Outstanding among the attractive social affairs of the week was yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. S. T. White and Miss Helen Edwards, in their usual gracious manner, were charming hostesses at a tea, honoring Mrs. James T. Little, a recent bride, and Mrs. Lee A. Folger, Jr., of Henderson. Other honored guests were Mrs. Will Graves, Mrs. Ed Woodward and Mrs. Walter Woodward of Wilson, and Mrs. Leslie Yelverton of Goldsboro.

The home throughout was beautifully decorated in a profusion of chrysanthemums and roses and myriads of burning tapers. The halls were in yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, the drawing room and living room in yellow chrysanthemums, and the music room and dining room in pink chrysanthemums and roses.

Mrs. W. E. Hooker and Mrs. M. K. Fort were at the door to greet the guests on arrival, and Mrs. J. B. James introduced them to the receiving line which stood in the drawing room. In the receiving line with Mrs. White and Miss White, were Mrs. James T. Little, Mrs. J. L. Little, Mrs. Lee A. Folger, Jr., Mrs. R. M. Garrett, Mrs. Will Graves, Mrs. Ed Woodward, Mrs. Walter Woodward, Mrs. Leslie Yelverton and Mrs. J. L. Fleming. The honor guests and others in the receiving line were lovely coronations of pink chrysanthemums.

From the drawing room, Mrs. W. L. Best and Mrs. W. I. Wooten directed guests to the living room where they were greeted by Mrs. L. C. Skinner, Mrs. C. S. Forbes, Mrs. L. W. Gaylord, Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, Mrs. J. H. Boyd, Jr., Mrs. G. R. Combs and Mrs. James Ellison and Mrs. John Gorham of Washington.

Mrs. J. K. Brown and Mrs. C. M. Warren directed guests from the living room to the rear hall where they were registered by Mrs. Reid Perkins, Mrs. W. H. White, Mrs. C. A. White and Mrs. James Wooten. From the hall they were invited into the dining room by Mrs. M. L. Wright and Mrs. A. D. Frank, where they were greeted by Mrs. J. H. Moye. The dining room was especially pretty. The table was covered with Venetian lace and centered with a low silver bowl of briarcliff roses and pink chrysanthemums flanked by triple silver holders with pink tapers. Seated at opposite ends of the table, Mrs. Hortense F. Moye and Mrs. J. B. White poured tea, and were assisted in serving tea by Mrs. H. H. McCormack and Mrs. John Adams, Jr.

Mrs. Archie Suggs, Miss Elizabeth Skinner, Miss Frances Morton and Miss Mabel Glenn Best passed sandwiches, potato chips, cheese rings, cookies and salted nuts.

Mrs. K. B. Pace and Mrs. L. R. Meadows received in the music room and said good-bye to the four hundred guests who called during the tea hour.

Among those calling were a large number from Farmville, Tarboro, Kinston and Washington.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 10. The golden text was from Psalms 15: 1, 2, "Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson sermon was the following from the Bible: "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in the righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." (II Tim. 3:16-17).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Inspired writers interpret the Word spiritually, while the ordinary historian interprets it literally. Literally taken, the text is made to appear contradictory in some places, and divine Love, which blessed the earth and gave it to man for a possession, is represented as changeable. The literal meaning would imply that God withheld from man the opportunity to reform, lest man should improve it and become better; but this is not the nature of God, who is Love always—Love infinitely wise and altogether lovely, who seeketh not her own."

Dramatist Charms Audience.

"The best thing Greenville and the college have had in many a day," was the verdict of the large audience who saw Cornelia Odis Skinner last night. She won her audience at the very first moment when she stepped forth as herself, a charming, handsome, young woman, and she kept it throughout the evening, no matter what character she presented.

Miss Skinner proved herself not only a great artist as an actress and a genius as a writer and producer, but also as a maker of programs. She opened her program with a humorous situation easy to follow and by stages advanced to more complex characters and situations. Her audience was ready to appreciate the play, which was made up of scenes in a sequence centering in the succession of the six queens of Henry VIII.

With the deft twist of a scarf, the donning of a smock or kimono, or the draping of a shawl, Miss Skinner, in the sight of the audience, was quickly changed into the characters that appeared in the modern situations. As the queens, she wore magnificent costumes—velvets, brocades, and cloth of gold—richly embroidered and glistening with jewels.

In her first number, as a young mother attempting the care of the baby for the first time on "The Nurse's Day Out," Miss Skinner conjured up the presence, not only of the baby, but of the frequently recalled nurse and the maid.

With a piece of black velvet tied around her neck and a shawl, she became the woman who had sat on "The Hotel Porch" of a New England resort every summer for twenty-five years, prying into the affairs of the guests and passing the gossip on.

"Home Work" in which a mother helps her 12-year-old son with his arithmetic lesson, substituted for "Being Presented," made a strong appeal to both college girls, especially those already nearing the teaching stage, and to parents. One mother was heard to remark that it was too real to be amusing, but she had not thought to "call George" to work the problem.

"Times Square" to those who know New York was an artistic presentation of city life seen at that busy point and, to all, was a series of realistic dramatic character sketches. This cross-section of city life was shown through eight women seen for a moment as they passed.

The historical notes on the program, which could be read in the intervals between the scenes while the music was going on, helped one greatly in understanding each of the six queens, "The Wives of Henry VIII."

The only stage setting that Miss Skinner used was drop curtain at the back, a chair, a table, or a throne-chair. The lighting effects aided without obtruding.

Ed Stalling and his ensemble played before the curtain went up, during the intermission, and in the intervals between the appearances of the queens.

Miss Skinner arrived late in the afternoon, having played in Danville the night before, and left immediately after the program to spend the night with friends in Tarboro. She will appear at Duke University tonight.

There were a great many people in the audience from out of town, among them parties from Goldsboro, New Bern, Tarboro and Rocky Mount.

The next big attraction at the college will be Amelia Earhart on January 15.

Special Book Week Program.

At 3:30 Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 20, an interesting program will be given in Sheppard Memorial Library auditorium for all children in the city schools who are in Grades 1, 2 and 3. Parents and teachers of these children are invited also. The program has been arranged by Mrs. Vance Perkins as a Junior Woman's Club feature for Book Week. Entertainment will be provided by Mrs. Burke Stancil and Miss Jane Hadley.

At this same hour certificates will be presented to children from these grades who did the required summer reading. The children whose names are given here will please be present at that time and all others.

Dr. McGinnis Speaks At College.

"I wouldn't trade it for any of the other colleges seen on the trip," is what Dr. H. J. McGinnis, registrar of East Carolina Teachers College said when he recently returned to the campus of the college after a two weeks' vacation in which he visited fourteen institutions in three states, Virginia, West Virginia and Ohio.

He and Mrs. McGinnis traveled two thousand miles without mishap, saw more relatives and old friends, and went to more interesting places in the two weeks than ever before in the same length of time. He postponed his vacation until after the registration of students was completed as he could not take a breathing spell until the students were all settled for the fall term. The summer months are his busiest months, especially the weeks just before the fall opening when members of the faculty are taking their vacations.

He attended the annual meeting of the State Educational Association at Charleston, West Va., and the Schoolmasters' banquet of the University of West Virginia, at which the new president of the university, Dr. C. S. Boucher, recently dean of the Arts and Science School of the University of Chicago, made his first public address since becoming president of the university.

He spent considerable time on the campus of this university. He saw a very interesting experiment being carried on in the integration of teaching, both in the university demonstration and high school and in the rural demonstration school. A class of about forty freshmen is taught by one well trained and experienced teacher in the demonstration high school as an experiment in integrated teaching. History, English, Mathematics, Science and other subjects are not being taught in the traditional manner as separate subjects, but they are introduced incidentally in the development of large projects covering periods of approximately six weeks. He says the State Teachers College at Farmville, Virginia, has the cleanest college plant he has ever seen. Everything about the plant—

Buildings, grounds, furniture, equipment, floors and decorations, such as pictures and tapestries—showed refreshing taste not usual in colleges and schools.

The president, Dr. J. A. Jarman, seemed to take a keen delight in showing him over this college. "Oh, that we might have such a swimming pool as he had constructed recently with 'New Deal' funds," was Dr. McGinnis' comment on this place. President Jarman bought for his college the birthplace of General Joseph E. Johnston and has converted it into a showplace and recreation center for the students and faculty of his college.

He was impressed by Monticello and the view from there he had of the University of Virginia.

To prove that he was taking a real vacation and all the time was not devoted to the highbrow scholastic and academic places, they stopped one night at the lumber camp of his brother-in-law, which he says, is like the places in which "the lion roareth and the whang-doodle mourneth for its first-born." He grew poetic while describing the scenery, saying, "the beauty of those towering mountains with their dense coating of magnificent forests and the clear streams flowing between is well worth any effort made to penetrate their fastnesses."

He attended the annual meeting of the State Educational Association at Charleston, West Va., and the Schoolmasters' banquet of the University of West Virginia, at which the new president of the university, Dr. C. HIGH COURAGE

Chapter 35
ACCUSATION
"YOU say you were in the boat with the Sorki brothers," said the sheriff. "Why were you in that boat?"
"John Neuman sent the boys after me when he found the fishermen were determined to take the law into their own hands. He thought that I might appeal to them in the name of Luke Farnsworth, as his daughter."
"You're not his daughter," snapped Tom Farley.
"Will you let me take care of this, Farley?" roared the sheriff. "I think you'd better get out in the other office, before I . . . well you'd better go."
"You can't put me out of here, I'm an attorney."
"And you're not on this case. The other room."
As the door closed behind him, the sheriff turned again to Anne. "Continue, please."
"We saw the men leaving in their boats and followed in ours, taking a final chance to reach them."
"You say ours?"
"I own a third interest."
"You were not in that boat when it put back to port." The chief made this statement.
"No," she agreed. "I've tried all along to protect my identity. When I realized I was too late to help, I only wanted to go back to the peace of being just Nikki. The boys took me to Hunter's wharf, and I walked back to town."
"If you were so eager to protect your identity, why did you come to the sheriff's office and give yourself up?"
"Give myself up?" she repeated. "You don't understand. Miss, she's the boys' sister, told me they were being held because a gun had been found in the boat. I knew they couldn't have fired that shot, because Orvi was still at the engine and George at the wheel, when . . . must I repeat that?" she begged.
"I'm afraid so. Tell me exactly what happened."
Anne told him of someone calling her name, of something whirling past her head, of seeing Lee Farnsworth fall even as she turned to look at him.
"I remember a boat bumping into ours and then hearing a thud," she recounted. "I believe whoever did the shooting threw the gun into our boat then."
"And you came down here to free them with your testimony, was that it?" he asked.
"Yes, and please may we all go home now? The shock of Uncle Lee's death is almost more than I can stand. He was the only one in the family who was good to me."
Anne felt that if she couldn't reach the privacy of her room, she would break before these men who eyed her so accusingly, so silently accusing.
"Miss Nikki," there was tolerance in the sheriff's voice, sympathy even, "where did you get the gun?"
"What gun?" she asked.
"Perhaps the boys had it and you didn't know about it," he surmised.
"You mean—" she paused in consternation, "you mean you don't believe what I've just told you?"
HE shook his head. "Sorry, my girl, but the easiest thing for all of us is for you to come clean; tell the whole truth; get it off your mind. You'll suffer if you don't."
Anne surveyed him pityingly. "I've told you the whole truth," she said calmly.
"You've told me your version. I knew from questioning the Sorki brothers that they were protecting someone. I didn't realize it was a girl. Yes, Harry," as the deputy came to the door a slip of yellow paper in his hand.
The sheriff took the slip, studied it and looked at Anne. Where before there had been pity, there was now only stern condemnation.
"One more question, Miss Nikki," he said, and his voice was cold and metallic. "Why did you carry your father's gun away from 123 Portland home, when you left?"
"I didn't carry any gun away with me," countered Anne's wonder.
"Miss Nikki," he pointed to the slip of yellow paper. "The gun which is the shot that killed Lee Farnsworth is registered to Luke Farnsworth."

Internal Revenue Commissioner Helvering.
Under this learned theory of delegation of power Cabinet members and Commissioners would have to become copiers.
ELEDRS: Dr. F. E. Townsend has quietly settled in Washington to flog Congress into line for his old age pensions plan at the session. The dynamic, engaging California claims a majority of the next House will vote for his $200-a-month subsidy to 40-year-olds. He got 56 votes at the last session.
The Townsends have been going strong in the West. But now they plan to penetrate the Middle West and the East. They are bringing local pressure on individual Congressmen regardless of political affiliation. In 1936 he says his gang will endorse the party which underwrites a platform declaration in favor of his program. Claims he has millions of backers, though he hesitates on numerical or political details.
Dr. Townsend resents charges that his is an old age pension movement. He says it is an economic plan for stimulating consumption and therefore production. His weekly newspaper gloats because the 7,000 delegates to their recent Chicago convention didn't require the attention of a nurse or a physician. "although Dr. Townsend was present every moment." That seems to prove it's an economic rather than an elderly crusade. But the Weekly teems with ads for cures of rheumatism, indigestion, baldness, loss of teeth and lumbago.
AIR: "Gene" Vidal has quietly revised his campaign for promoting the manufacture and sale of small, cheap planes. The federal aeronautical director emphasizes safety and simplicity of operation instead of low cost.
Despite official secrecy, Vidal is sticking tenaciously to his everyman-an-aviator program. The second experimental plane was delivered to the Commerce Department last week. Engineers are flying both ships almost 24 hours a day to discover new ways of simplifying costs and operation.
Vidal has received aid from private manufacturers in lieu of missing government funds. An unnamed Detroit firm has promised that when he hits upon a model suitable to popular fancy, it will guarantee to turn out bodies at the rate of one every fourteen minutes. They will be stamped into shape as many automobiles are now. Once that stage is reached Vidal figures, he won't have to worry about volume production and chain store prices.

MAYOR FIDDLES TO 'SAVE' CITY

to their case. For another, the northern mines really welcome the law as their hope of offsetting the competitive advantage which the South enjoys because of a lower wage scale.
At the important Pennsylvania companies but one have already signed up. The exception is Andy Mellon's Pittsburgh Coal—always a lone wolf. But Andy is on both sides of the fence—as his Kopper's outfit lost no time hopping on the bandwagon. Insiders estimate that corporations representing between 65 and 70 per cent of total bituminous tonnage mined will eventually register without an argument.
Shrewd observers figure that coal—as a commodity produced intrastate and largely used by interstate carriers (over which the federal government admittedly has jurisdiction)—offers the best possible legal test of federal power to regulate industry under the Constitution as it stands.
Burden: Desperate financial conditions in the states stand in the way of any plan to shift the relief problem to their shoulders. Lawmakers are forced to have regard for the situation in their respective states when passing upon any program that Roosevelt may propose.
The states have more than $1,000,000,000 due them in delinquent taxes—and no method has been found to collect. More than half of Florida's acreage is delinquent. Interest charges on old bond issues are piling up, making sales taxes and other impositions necessary.
New York figures is a safe bet that lawmakers will balk at allowing the President to shove off any added burdens on their respective state. Their home folks feel they are overtaxed already—and are saying so.
WARDED: Financial men foresee that this parlous situation in the states will complicate FDR's budget-making no end. If he could transfer relief to the states he would be able to show a marked reduction in federal emergency appropriations.
He could then present an encouraging prospect of budget-balancing, in view of increased revenues and proposed retrenchments. Last January he said: "This business of federal relief must stop." That remark was applauded by lawmakers who now squirm when they realize that stopping it would mean a heavier load upon their debt-ridden states.
The easiest way out is to continue federal borrowing. Legislators can then go home and assure their constituents that they wanted off added taxes which would have loomed as high as the Rockies.

CITY TRAFFIC LAWS TO BE ENFORCED
The one hour parking signs recently placed on the light posts on Evans street are certainly in plain view and there is no excuse for any person parking a car in the business section not knowing that one hour is the time limit. Unless this regulation is complied with some motorists are going to find themselves in the city court paying for their disobedience of the traffic rule. Not only are the city authorities going to enforce the no parking ordinance but word has gone out that the police are going to see to it that all traffic laws of this city are going to be enforced rigidly.
Beginning tomorrow, this paper will present a series of articles covering all the traffic laws of the city in order that the public might familiarize themselves with the traffic laws. These traffic laws should be known by all motorists now, but after they are again brought to their attention ignorance of the law will not be accepted by the city court as an excuse for traffic law violations.
Even if you feel that you already know all the traffic laws of this city we urge you to watch for them in this paper, read them carefully and then endeavor at all times to obey them. Such action on your part will make our city a safer place in which to live and might also save you the embarrassment of being called into court.

ANNE looked at the floor, which was buckling beneath her feet. She looked up once to see the plump woman spring into action, brush the deputy aside. She caught Anne in her arms.
"No-e-e-er, faint," stammered Anne, with shivering dignity. She looked at the matron who seemed grating about at one side of her, at the white bars which whirled around. It reminded her of a composite picture on the motion picture screen.
"Tech-tech-tech," said the matron between her teeth, propelling her towards one of the small cubicles. "Soaking wet," she added.
"Well, let's book her and get it over," suggested Harry.
"Book her my eye," retorted the matron, "I'm going to get the child to bed."
Anne shuddered violently. "Cold," she managed between chattering teeth.
"Open that door, Harry."
Anne stepped over the grating at the bottom of the door, saw a white cot and sank onto it.
"Harry," the matron was still snapping orders, "take this key, go to my locker and bring that brown wool robe. Then put a teakettle of water to heat on the gas plate."
"I've got to get back."
"Do what I tell you."
"Oh, all right."
Anne sat dazed as the woman stooped over, pulled off her white sneakers, her stockings, loosened her slacks, pulled them off, slipped a plain white gown over her head, then wrapped her in the brown robe Harry brought her.
The matron was gone a few moments, then returned with a hot water bottle for Anne's feet, and a steaming glass of hot lemonade for her to drink.
Anne's teeth chattered against the edge of the glass until she feared she might break it, but she tried until it was drained, and then she was allowed to sink back, fatigue racking her bones like physical blows.
Dimly she tried to follow the events of the evening. She was in jail. That was funny. She, Anne Farnsworth, No. Nikki Nielsen was in jail. Wouldn't Aunt Charlotte and Sharlee gloat? But, no Uncle Lee was dead, someone shot him.
She heard her name mentioned. "Anne Farnsworth. She's traveling under Nikki Nielsen, but the sheriff says he figures the other's her legal one."
There was the scratch of pen on paper.
"Hold far investigation," Harry prompted.
Across the scratch of the pen which seemed intolerable to Anne's nerves.
"No charge yet. District Attorney's calling the grand jury in the morning, and by the time they're through she'll be held for the murder of Lee Farnsworth."
Anne was flushed with sudden energy.

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
MASTER: New Yorkers in close with Washington interpret Secretary Cordell Hull's advocacy of closer cooperation with the League of Nations as designed primarily for Italian consumption. They point out that Hull knows his Senate too well to have any illusions that that august body would confer any such powers on the administration as would be necessary to carry out such a policy. Besides, the popular will is clearly on record against any intervention in European affairs.
But Italy isn't likely to realize the inherent weakness in Hull's position. After all, he occupies the highest post in the United States government directly concerned with foreign affairs. Inferentially at least he reflects the views of the President. In his present harassed economic position, Mussolini may well forget what an earlier Senatoid to Woodrow Wilson's foreign policy and notice only that a responsible American official implies a possible future course of action which might have serious consequences for Italy. His reaction to this might help to influence him into paths of greater discretion. If it does, keen observers figure that Hull will have achieved his purpose of chilling an aggressor nation's zest for war without committing the United States to lift so much as a military or economic finger.
Comment runs that in that case he would certainly rate as a true M. D.—Master of Diplomacy. New York was amused by the timing of his speech when Senators Nye and Wheeler—most ardent Senatorial advocates of strict neutrality—were busy with other matters in the far-away Philippines and therefore unlikely to jump him for it.

Acting under the had sold 601,000 pounds of sugar within a few months, and they suspected it didn't all go to sweeten new commodity act the field supervisor demanded that he file a list of the purchasers so that the government could ascertain whether the sugar was legally consumed. The grocer refused.
Although the jury convicted the grocer, Judge Hamilton immediately set aside the verdict with a four-page, star-spangled opinion. Funny part of it is that two New York jurists—Hand and Moscovitz—have upheld the law. Judge Hamilton made a great point of the fact that the field supervisor demanded the sales report, whereas he contended that Congress vested this authority only in Secretary Morgenthau or

GESTURE: Financial insiders credit Germany with a clever maneuver last week in her announcement—even though it was subsequently denied—that she would refuse to ship arms to Italy and would ban purchases of war materials to be resold to Italy at a profit.
There are two excellent reasons why she won't sell war materials to Italy. One is that she needs all of these she can get for her own purposes. The other is that Italy has practically nothing to use for money. Germany has no more desire to extend credit to Italy than we have. Nor does she wish to become a dumping ground for Italian commodities—so payment in kind is out of the question.
Naturally she doesn't mention these points out loud. So she gets credit for a moral gesture that cannot help but appeal to Britain—and one of the cardinal points in Hitler's foreign policy is to make sure that Britain stays neutral when Germany is ready to step out.

TEST: The legal principles set forth in Judge Coleman's adverse decision on the holding company law would—if upheld—automatically invalidate the Guffey Coal Act. But the coal companies will not follow the example of their utility brethren and refrain en masse from registering under the new code. For one thing, they aren't at all sure that the same reasoning does apply

State Crop Yields Shown Have National Average

November 1 Figures Favorable To North Carolina

PRICES RECEIVED BELOW PARITY

Largest and Most Valuable Crop In State is Tobacco; Good Grain Yields

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Nov. 14.—Crop yields in North Carolina were 15 per cent above the national average on November 1, according to the report issued today by State-Federal Crop Reporting Service of the State Department of Agriculture.

Unusually good yields have been made this fall in corn, small grains, cotton, tobacco, sorghum, early Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes and hays, the report points out.

Prices for these farm products have not been quite up to parity when compared with the prices farmers are having to pay for the things they must buy, yet they are much better than they have been for several years, the report says.

The largest and most valuable crop, of course, is the tobacco crop, concerning which the report says: "North Carolina has created a sensation with its tobacco crop of 562,998,000 pounds as compared with 417,975,000 last year. Growers objected to the Government's demand that the acreage be increased this year so as to lower last year's prices to nearer the previously reckoned parity price. This year the farmers not only increased the tobacco acreage heavily (from 844,000 to 877,000 acres) but planted it in narrower rows and with more kills to the row. More fertilizer was used and more leaves left on the plants. In fact, many fields were not 'topped' at all. The increase of 41 per cent in the yield of the cured tobacco this year over 1934 is hence not surprising. The average price for tobacco on November 1 was 21 cents as compared with 29 cents in November, 1934, while sales are 18 per cent ahead of this same period last year."

An adequate supply of almost all food crops is evident and much canning of fruits and vegetables has been done. The corn crop is larger than last year, and will yield about 49,528,000 bushels. Peanuts and soy beans also show increased yields. There were no freezes up to Nov. 1 and the weather has been ideal for harvesting crops and for the planting of small grains, the report said.

which chooses Presidents, there are 531 votes. Of this total, the southern group has 135, the eastern 151, and the western 245. A majority, or 266, is required to elect.

It is apparent that no one of the three sections can elect a President by itself, but that any two of them combining solidly or even with some losses, can make up the requisite 266.

A further important element is the fact that the southern group, with few exceptions, has been solidly Democratic ever since the present party alignments began. Republican hopes of carrying these states in 1936 are almost non-existent.

That still may be the outcome, yet the Democratic vote cast in the East in the 1935 election offers an interesting temptation. In New York the Democratic popular vote represented a majority of 400,000, and in New Jersey it almost equaled that of the Republicans.

New York alone has 45 electoral votes, or more than the combined voting power of the ten smallest western states. New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts together have 16. The South, plus these four eastern states, plus one or two western or border states, could elect a President.

This compilation is presented here merely as an interesting mathematical possibility. What will be done about it remains to be seen.

Most calculators recognize three general sections—the East, the West and the South. Some add a fourth—the Midwest—but its limits are hard to define and usually the Midwestern states are incorporated under the general heading of the West.

In the southern group are included customarily the 12 states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

In the eastern group are Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Vermont. Roughly, this is the territory east of Ohio and north to the Potomac river.

In the western group lie all the others, from Ohio to the west coast including for the purposes of this classification the border states of West Virginia, Kentucky and Missouri.

These are the three grand divisions of American politics.

Farmers Are Urged To Keep Their Seed In Arid Quarters

College Station, Raleigh, Nov. 14.—"Keep your seed corn in a dry place over the winter," is the timely suggestion made by P. H. Kime, plant breeding agronomist at State College.

Every year much valuable seed corn is lost as a result of improper storing. In consequence, many growers have to plant seed that produces inferior crops the following season.

The selected seed ears should be placed in a dry, well ventilated room. The air should circulate freely around each ear, and rodents should be kept away from the corn.

A satisfactory hanger may be made with woven wire and two-by-four uprights. The wire should have meshes just large enough to permit the ears to pass through easily.

The two-by-fours should be erected a suitable distance apart. Fasten a length of the woven wire to each side of the uprights, so that the complete rack looks like a double wire fence.

If the ears are stored in a dry, well ventilated room, they will become sufficiently dry before being injured by severe freezes. Sometimes it may be advisable to warm the storage room to facilitate the curing, but be careful not to raise the temperature above that in a comfortable living room.

Too high a temperature will lower the germination power of the seed, particularly when the ears are full of moisture. Kime warned.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Buying forces overran the stock market today, sweeping prices for gains of one to three points or more.

Bullish fervor centered on steel, rails and specialties and numerous new highs for the past four years or longer were recorded.

The session was one of the fastest in many months. Blocs of several thousand shares frequently changed hands and the ticker tape at intervals fell several minutes behind the floor transactions.

The late stock tone was strong. Transfers approximated 3,800,000 shares.

Mexico and U. S. United For War On Insect Pests

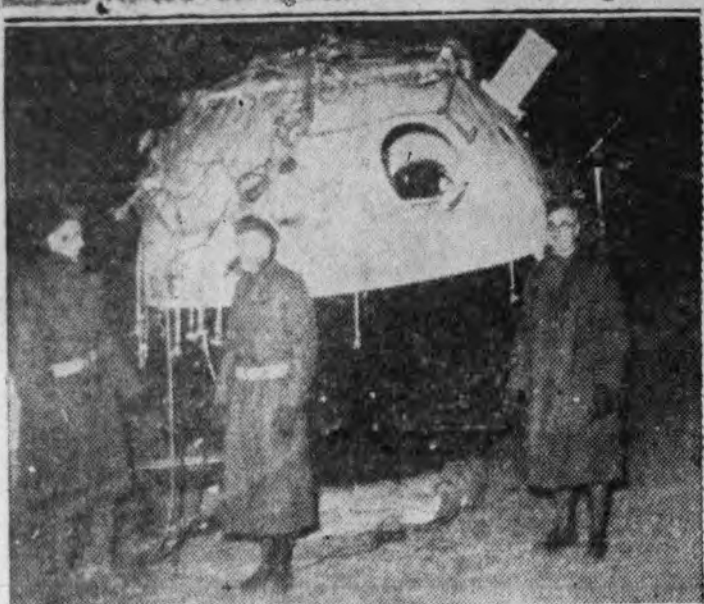

Harlingen, Tex. (AP)—The United States and Mexico are joining in a more intensive war against insect pests common to both countries as a result of the first international plant quarantine conference held here.

Eradication of the Mexican fruit fly, which sometimes infests orchards of the Lower Rio Grande valley, and of the pink boll worm were the chief topics discussed.

F. A. Hoidal of Harlingen, in charge of the Mexican fruit fly quarantine in the valley, presided over the meeting. Dr. Antonio Damp, entomologist with the Mexican government; Prof. Leopoldo de la Barra, chief of the department of plant protection of the ministry of agriculture; Ing. Octavio Gomez del Campo, chief of the pink boll worm eradication work in Mexico; E. R. Sasser, in charge of foreign plant quarantine work for the U. S. department of agriculture; Dr. A. C. Baker, U. S. entomologist making studies of the fruit fly near Mexico City; and R. E. McDonald, San Antonio, in charge of the pink boll worm eradication in the United States, were among those in attendance.

Rev. Henry Melvin Delivers Sermon On Christianity

What is and what is not a Christian? Rev. Henry Melvin preached on what is and what is not a Christian last night in the revival meeting at the Free Will Baptist church to a large audience. Using Acts 11:26 as a text.

After special music by the local male quartette Mr. Melvin sang "The Heart that was broken for me." The preacher said in part "the name Christian has been so abused, to the extent that anything from a horse thief, to the fellow in the slums, passes under the sacred name of Christian. It is noble to clean but being clean does not go far enough."

When we see our morality placed side by side with the righteousness of Jesus Christ how poor and feeble they appear. Just joining the church is not enough. Nicodemus was a member of the church but when he came to Christ his heart was black and he had to be born again. Paul was also a member of the church and was going on a mission of the church but he met God in the road and found he needed one thing.

"Sincerity is not all. Unless our sincerity measures up to the requirements of God we fail. I was on a train some months ago and a man was on the same train but his ticket was over another road; he had to get off you see being sincere did not make him right. Sincerity alone does not make us a Christian."

"Christian means Christ like. A true Christian must have his heart cleansed by the blood of Christ applied through faith by the Holy Spirit. Is there a consciousness in your heart that any day God reached down in your life and changed your very being?"

"Are you trusting in your good works, your church membership, or the like; or have you gone down to old fashioned repentance and have you forsaken your sins?"

"The simple act of faith will completely transform your heart and life into heavenly likeness. Are your sins covered by the blood of Jesus Christ? Will you in faith plunge beneath the atoning blood and forever settle the question?"

"I have in a reasonable way tried to help you see your own condition. Your condition as it is what will be your response?"

$250,000 WORTH OF LIQUOR SOLD MONTHLY IN THIS STATE

the next general assembly meets in 1937. When his bill was under consideration, Senator Hill stated that on the basis of reliable estimates he had made, about $15,000,000 worth of liquor was being purchased and consumed annually in North Carolina. He pointed out that this business at that time was entirely in the hands of the bootleggers and that the state was getting no return whatever on this tremendous turnover. By setting up state liquor control board, so that the state would get the profit from its sale, the state would be able to get at least $2,000,000 a year additional revenue. He did not contend that the state liquor stores would decrease drinking, although he did not think it would increase the use of liquor. But he did contend that state liquor stores, under strict state control, would very largely eliminate the bootlegger and that the state would get the business which the bootleggers had been getting and which they are still getting.

quor which they formerly spent for food and clothing. The proponents of the stores, however, maintain that the people in these counties are now only buying openly from the county stores what they formerly bought secretly from the bootleggers, so that no more money is being spent for liquor now than in the past.
