New State Is Indicated For 90 Million Chinese Adjacent To Manchukuo

Five Provinces Would Compose Independent Government

DATE SET FOR NEXT SATURDAY

Indications of New Government Come Simultaneously from Tokyo and Shanghai

(By Associated Press) From Tokyo and Shanghai came simultaneous indications today that 90,000,000 Chinese people would soon find themselves citizens of a new state virtually independent of China.

The new state would consist of the five provinces of China contiguous to Manchukuo, the Manchurian empire which Japan created in a military campaign three years ago.

Japanese newspapermen in the area reported to Tokyo that the declaration of independence among the Chinese with the national government at Nanking and is a popular manifestation of the people's will.

Chinese governmental officials, on the other hand, claim that the autonomy movement is a result of Japan aimed at increasing Japan's sphere of influence in the far East.

A spokesman for the Japanese embassy at Shanghai said for their part the continuance of present conditions, referring to a resurgence of anti-Japanese activities, were regarded by the Japanese as grave.

He said that Japanese troops were massing at Shanghai, that the city on the great wall but that they did not intend to invade north China.

Further, he said, foreign powers need have no fear that their interests and property in north China will be jeopardized.

He said he expected there would be greater Japanese commercial activity in the area as a result of its probable autonomy.

M. G. Mann, general manager of the FCX, attended a recent meeting of the local exchange and explained the workings of the organization to date.

HEAVY STORM ALONG COAST OF SEABOARD

Worst Northeaster in Years Roars Out to Sea from Coast

SHIPS BATTERED ON HEAVY SEAS

Property Damage Running Into Several Million Dollars In Storm

(By Associated Press) The worst northeaster in many years roared out of the sea today after pounding the north Atlantic coast with devastating fury from Cape Cod to Cape Hatteras.

Seaboard states from Maine to North Carolina suffered property damage running into several million dollars. The brunt of the storm was borne by the stretch from the Massachusetts cape down to the Virginia capes.

The freighter Florida reached safe anchorage in Hampton Roads accompanied by the coast guard cutter Sebaco. The ship was badly battered by the heavy seas during yesterday and last night.

The cutter then went to the aid of the Lillian E. Kerr, in trouble off Cape Henry with its shifting cargo.

The crippled freighter Hart Welton under convoy of the rescue ships, was proceeding safely toward Delaware breakerwater.

A sailor was washed to his death from the freighter by the waves that swept over the decks, wrecking the super-structure.

At least 25 persons were killed in automobile mishaps; five in New Jersey, 17 in Pennsylvania, and 3 in New York.

The high tides rolled ashore by the storm caused most of the property damage. The Jersey coast, playground of the east, was a dismal stretch of wreckage.

Sections of New York City's waterfront were inundated by a tide running five feet above normal.

NEW LETTING FOR PWA WORK

All Bids Submitted Last Week Too High

A re-letting of contracts for the construction of Public Works Administration projects at several Pitt county schools will be made on Friday, November 29.

Bids for the projects were received last week, but each of the bids called for the expenditure for much more money than is available for the work.

A PWA grant of $106,893 has been made by the federal government and this will represent 45 per cent of the total cost of the projects. The remainder of the money is to be furnished by the county.

Several contractors submitted bids for the work at the letting last week but not a one of the prices quoted was low enough to compare with the money available. Contractors bidding on the projects as a whole included T. A. Loving of Goldsboro, Good Construction Company of Charlotte, and Ervin West Construction Company of Greenville.

The projects include work on 14 colored and white schools in the county.

Alternate plans are to be submitted along with the original ones for the second letting and if the bids for the original plans are not low enough to be financed with the funds available, the alternate plans will be carried out.

It was explained, however, that none of the schools included in the original plans would be left out, but that reductions in the type of work at some of them would be made.

DOUGHBOYS' EDEN IS IN EAST PRUSSIA

Koenigsberg, Germany — (AP)—Soldiers are all the rage in East Prussia, especially in little garrison towns.

"The new army brings back prosperity," is a common phrase.

Mohrungen, a small town near here, expressed its joy over becoming a garrison again by offering $200 for the first wedding of a soldier with a town girl.

Young recruits are given ample chances to meet flaxen-haired local beauties at "maneuver ball festivals" and other "welcome dances."

Half Of Prison Inmates Violators Of Liquor Laws

NAME MAYOR TUES. NIGHT

Board of Aldermen To Name Successor Mayor Flanagan

A mayor to succeed the late Roy C. Flanagan will be named by the Board of Aldermen at its regular meeting tomorrow night.

Since the death of Mayor Flanagan H. H. Duncan has been serving as active mayor and his name has been prominently mentioned as a successor to the position. The names of a number of other prominent Greenville people have been brought forward as a possible mayor.

Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell has been asked to rule on whether the appointed mayor will serve until the next city election in May of next year or until the expiration of the present term, in 1937.

The attorney general said over long distance telephone this morning he was not ready to make a ruling, but would have one ready by tomorrow.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Aldermen asked the people of the city to make known their desire for a man to fill the city's number one office and backers of various candidates have actively supported their favorites.

The late Mr. Flanagan held the position for several years, having been elected to the place without opposition for the last two terms.

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Bureau, By J. C. BASKERVILLE

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—Almost half of the prisoners in jails in 57 of the 100 counties in North Carolina in August both before and after conviction, were for violations of the liquor laws, while almost two-thirds of those in these jails were on charges either directly or indirectly involving violation of the liquor laws, figures released today by Director R. Eugene Brown, director of institutions of the State Department of Public Welfare, indicate.

These figures do not segregate the 16 counties in which the sale of liquor, so that it is not possible to determine whether the proportion of those arrested and jailed for liquor law violations is greater or less in these so-called "wet" counties than in the "dry" counties. A study is now in progress which will segregate these counties. But according to those who made the present study, the proportion of persons arrested and jailed in the "wet" counties did not seem to be any greater than in the "dry" counties.

Out of 4,405 persons arrested and jailed in 57 counties in August, 2,100 were for liquor law violations. (Continued on Page Four)

News Behind The News

Washington, By RAY TUCKER STOPPED: Coordinator George Berry has apparently smothered several slantwise moves to revive the NRA in major industries—lumber, textile, automobile. His call for capital and labor to forego another Blue Eagle smashed several industrial incubators.

Many manufacturers have been propagandizing quietly for a limited form of federal regulation. They have covered up their activities but they have kept former Blue Eagles informed of their deliberations. Their last report hinted at partial success. What they hoped was to win over a majority in various industries and then force recalcitrants to come along.

TILT: Lawyers who try to extract fancy fees from Uncle Sam should keep a diary. Because he failed to note down the hours he spent on the case, the government is likely to refuse to pay. (Continued on Page Two)

HIGH COURT ALLOWS STATE TO BRING SUIT

Agrees Let Georgia Test Bankhead Cotton Act

FIRST REQUEST BY ANY STATE

Governor Talmadge Contends Act Is Unconstitutional; Government Protests

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Over the protest of the government the Supreme Court today agreed to let Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia file a suit attacking constitutionality of the Bankhead cotton production control act.

Talmadge has been a frequent critic of the administration.

This was the first request received by the high tribunal from a state seeking to start original action in the supreme court against new deal legislation. Usually cases are stated in lower courts and brought here on appeals.

Talmadge contended the law was "unconstitutional" and was rendering state of Georgia farmlands substantially worthless. It operates two prison farms which cotton is grown.

Georgia's petition which asked that the act be declared unconstitutional and that Secretary Morgenthau and other federal officials be enjoined from collecting the tax imposed on cotton produced in excess of a fixed quota has been opposed by Stanley Reed, the solicitor general.

Many Activities Being Carried on at Farm Offices

Large Amount of Tobacco Poundage Allotments Being Sold as Season Draws Near Close

Activities at the offices of E. F. Arnold, Pitt county farm agent, continues at a high pitch now with the end of the tobacco season drawing near.

Tobacco growers wishing to sell or buy poundage on tobacco control act cards swamp the offices daily and a large amount of cardage is being sold daily.

Last week $15,124.80 worth of allotments were sold.

It was explained that any grower selling tobacco poundage must appear at the offices of the county agent and have necessary papers signed before the transaction is considered complete.

Any grower, however, having allotments for more poundage than he has tobacco may sell the allotments at the rate of four cents per pound. The sales can be made, however, only to contract signers.

Any grower not having a contract must pay a third of the sales price of his tobacco to the federal government, the levy to be exacted by the warehouse making the purchase and forwarding it to the government.

Farmers also may turn in their contract cards for an adjustment by the federal government. This type of adjustment is not being participated in, however, as much as the plan of selling poundage. The county agent said this plan would be utilized more toward the close of the season.

Show True Spirit Of Cooperation In Dairy Blaze Here

W. U. McBroom Has Only Praise For Greenville and Pitt County Folks Following Fire

W. U. McBroom, a resident of this community for about three years, had only praise today for the people of Greenville and Pitt county following the destruction by fire of his machinery plant at his dairy on the Falkland road last week.

McBroom expressed thanks to the local fire department, city officials, other dairymen and his customers.

People of the neighborhood took over the bottling of milk on his dairy and other dairies assisted in the delivery. The dairies called and offered to bottle the milk, hardware stores and supply houses offered to deliver pails and other necessary equipment.

Women of the community of the Greenville dairy farm called at the place and milked the cows on the morning of the fire.

The dairymen declared he had never in all his life seen such an example of cooperation in time of need.

League Boycott Applied Against Duce at Midnight

FASCIST COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT

Certain Countries Delay Application of Sanctions But Britain Goes Ahead

(By Associated Press) Benito Mussolini's undeclared war in Ethiopia met world opposition today as the league of nations economic sanctions were applied against Italy.

At midnight the program whereby 51 league members agreed to prevent importation of Italian goods and to stop exporting certain raw material to Italy went into effect.

Italy, having already made previous arrangements to combat the penalties for its invasion in east Africa, which the league has termed "aggressive" displayed its "implacable resistance" to the sanctions in a showing of banners throughout the nation.

It has promised to treat other nations as they treated Italy.

The fascist grand council, which Saturday denounced the sanctions, was to meet again tonight to study details of Italy's fight against them and it was said in informed quarters to consider peace proposals raised in diplomatic contacts.

Italian troops guarded the British embassy in Rome and the headquarters of other sanctionists; country's youths began demonstrations denouncing the sanctions.

The delay in application of the sanction by certain countries was expected because of legal difficulties. The Spanish government had not yet published its decree making the economic penalties effective while the exact time of enforcement by France was in doubt.

Austria, Hungary and Albania, all members of the league of nations did not enforce the economic sanctions against Italy. Bulgaria had not made clear its position.

Germany, now outside the league, had embargoed foodstuffs and certain raw materials to all nations, all nations, although these did not include coal, one of Germany's principal exports to Italy. The Reich said its embargoes were due to home necessity.

The whole British empire was cooperating in economic penalties against Italy following out Britain's leadership of the move at Geneva.

The United States, while not joining in the league program, had declared an embargo on arms to both belligerents and had warned Americans that if they carry on business with either nation or travel on belligerent ships they were acting at their own risk.

CRACK TRAIN IS DERAILED

Five Cars of Crescent Limited Leave The Track; No Deaths

Reidsville, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Five cars of the Southern Railway's all-pullman express, the Crescent Limited were derailed by a broken track near here early today.

First reports said none was injured.

The case was a part of the limits first section en route from New Orleans to New York officials said they were derailed apparently by a split rail caused by a sudden stop in temperature. The air condition slipped, comprising a part of the road's finest equipment, careened to the edge of the roadbed but hung over without overturning.

Negro Bound Over In Police Court For Stealing Car

Two Others Ordered Held For County Court on Charges of Illegally Selling Whiskey

Jesse Williams was bound over to county court under bond of $200 in Mayor's court this morning on a charge of stealing an automobile belonging to another Pitt county negro from the streets of Greenville.

Robert Belcher and Jim Allen, both negroes, were ordered held for county court on charges of illegally selling whiskey. Both made bond.

Amos Wooten, another negro, was bound over for careless and reckless driving. Bond was set at $100, but had not been made this afternoon and the man was remanded to jail.

Hint Court Action On Treaty Between U. S. and Canada

Case to Test Constitutionality of Pact Hinted by Representatives of Lumber Industry

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Court action to test constitutionality of the law under which the new Canadian-American trade treaty was negotiated was hinted today by representatives of the lumber industry.

The 80 per cent slash which the treaty provided industries of Canadian lumber was described by officials of the national lumber manufacturers association as "paralyzing to the general economy of important parts of the country" and a "threat of disaster to wage earners" in those sections.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

SYNOPSIS: Anne Farnsworth is in a bind for the murder of her uncle, Lyle Farnsworth, who is the only one of her "relatives" who has been kind to her since the accidental death of her father. Anne, who lives alone, Farnsworth, who her most bitter enemy, Tom Farley,
is opposing the district attorney.
The letter is coming up his case against Anne, at the beginning of the trial which may result in a sentence of death being pronounced against an innocent girl.

Chapter 35 TECLA'S STORY

ANNE had come down to Astoria,
the district attorney charged,
and once there set about fomenting trouble among the people working for her late foster father's fisheries.
When her uncle had gone out to investigate one of the many groundless charges, that a "bootleg" trap
was working with the Farnsworth canneries, she had followed and had shot him down.

She had used Luke Farnsworth's gun, stolen from the house when she ran away from it. She had thought to throw it away but it had become entangled in a fish net, and did not clear the boat and drop into the river as she had intended.

She had forced the Sorki brothers, whom she had helped purchase the boat she used, into landing her at an isolated pier, and had sneaked home.

Upon hearing they had been arrested for the crime, she had depended upon her former prestige as Anne Farnsworth to try to free them.
All of these things he would prove,
he said.

Lenholm outlined his defense, and it was pitifully weak. Anne realized how slim a chance she would have of being found not guilty.

Wearily she listened as the State presented its case. Each line of evidence seemed a cord, binding her to a verdict of murder in the first degree.

She returned to jail that night, worn in body and spirit. What chance had she against the hatred of the men condemning her? Perhaps it would be better, as they had suggested, to plead guilty and receive an intermediate sentence.

If only John . . . but she had searched the court room. John wasn't there.

Days sped along and then came the words, "The State rests." Lenholm had little to offer save the word of the Sorki brothers. He passed these quickly and called Anne to the stand. She heard the name "Nikki Nielsen" and arose.

The expanse of rug from chair to witness stand stretched before her as fluid as water.

"Miss Nikki," prompted the attorney.

Anne caught sight of Charlotte Farnsworth's triumphant expression, and chin up, walked steadily to the chair.

She looked out on the sea of faces,
noticed newspaper reporters watching her intently, and then she saw Tecla, little Tecla, sitting bravely in the front row smiling, the high dimples wet with tears.

Anne relaxed and turned to Len-holm.

"Your name is Anne Farnsworth,"
he asked.

"I object," burst from the district attorney. "There is nothing to prove this girl is other than Nikki Nielsen
as charged."

"Your name please," Lenholm requested.

Anne was silent.

"Young lady," the judge leaned over, "what is your name?"

"As far as I know, it is Anne Farnsworth."

"This is most irregular, this young woman is charged under the name of Nikki Nielsen. She gives her name
as Anne Farnsworth."

"YOUR honor," explained the district attorney, "we have used the name Nikki Nielsen as an expendient, the girl is nameless."

"She is not!" The words spat out across the court room like an electric shock. She has the name, I give the proof."

Tecla Sorki had darted to the railing which divided the court from the audience. Anne watched her dig deep in the bag she held.

"Your honor," Lenholm was up,
before the bar, "may I ask for a recess? It is possible this woman, who was the childhood nurse of the defendant, has information vital to our case."

"Five minutes," agreed the judge,
and to the jurors, "You will remain
in your seats."

The five minutes were scarcely necessary. Lenholm, his face slightly returned, excused Anne from the witness chair and asked that Tecla Sorki be sworn in as a witness.

vice, services.

The client received plenty of letters daily but not a cent in return. So the company dumped the lobbyist's correspondence on a former New Deal lawyer's desk and asked him to analyze it. The batch of padlock tips turned out to be departmental handouts which had been retyped
by no trespassing by a $20-a-week stenographer. The lobbyist doesn't know yet why he lost the account.

AGREEMENT: New York sources
in close touch with Europe are convinced that the stage is now set for a grand reconciliation scene between Britain and Italy. Political exigencies no longer operate to compel the British government to register continuous indignation about Italian aggression.

Mussolini for his part had bitten off enough of Ethiopia to enable him to paint a gaudy picture of triumph for the folks at home. Moreover he is understood to be eager to start negotiations for a settlement before the application of sanctions makes it appear that he has been forced to do so.

It's taken for granted that the territory now occupied by Italian troops will be handed over to Italy.
But insiders believe the agreement will include at least a nominal payment by Italy to Ethiopia as a consideration for the cessation of its land.

HAPPY: Even a theoretical payment to Haile Selassie—and it certainly would be theoretical unless Britain advanced the money—would make the transfer of territory an act of purchase (and therefore of high-principled justice) and not of armed rape.

It wouldn't hurt Mussolini's prestige—he could tell his people that he was getting rich and valuable provinces for a song as the reward of a victorious campaign. Haile Selassie in turn could make it plain to his subjects that he was merely consummating the sale of some worthless wastes—in no way prejudicial to Ethiopia national honor—
as a handsome price.

Diplomacy of this brand would clear everyone's conscience and leave everyone technically satisfied.

SENSIBLE: You might think that the bitter blast against the New Deal by Orval Adams at the American Bankers Association convention—demanding that the banks
take the extreme step of embargoing federal credit in order to force
the federal government to economize—was inspired by Wall Street.
It wasn't.

On the contrary, New York bankers were sore about it. Some of them frankly called it the dumbest piece of public relations they had seen in years. They point out that if the banks did have the power implied by Adams to control government policies—which they have not—it would be the height of stupidity to admit it publicly, because it would then certainly be taken away from them at the earliest opportunity.

They also wonder what Mr. Adams thinks would happen to their huge existing investments in government securities if they were so short-sighted as to refuse to buy any more. The idea in general is rated as sensible as yellow "down with Hitler" on a Berlin boulevard.

BOOTLEG TOBACCO UNDERMINING THE TOBACCO PROGRAM

Millions of pounds of tobacco
have been thrown on the scrap pile in Pitt county this year, possibly more than ever in the history of the tobacco industry. Several reasons are responsible. First, poor quality; second, the low prices on the poorer grades; and third, an effort on the part of the contract
signers to stay within their contract poundage.

If all of the tobacco in the county had been placed on the market at prices which prevailed we would not have gotten a fifteen cents average. It was not the high prices of tobacco which brought us up to the so-called parity price, but the elimination process used by the farmers.

The AAA should have some feeling and consideration for the farmers whose tobacco was of such poor quality it could not be sold. There was practically the same expense attached to the production of this scrap tobacco as the better grades.
There has been an honest effort on the part of our farmers to cooperate with the AAA.

There are, however, a few selfish individuals who are willing to undermine the tobacco program for selfish purposes.

These people will bunched take these millions of pounds of tobacco which was designed to bring 20 cents, and put the same on the market at one cent a pound, thereby defeating the purposes and benefits of the program.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines
you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion.
Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion,
which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm
is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle.
Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

was seen overtured recently near the Pitt Gin in Farmville, which apparently was making its way by night to a market in Farmville. It is the common report of reliable citizens that trucks run on night schedule to collect the farmers' tobacco scrap.

In my opinion there are three guilty parties in every sale of scrap tobacco that is not sold openly on the warehouse floor: First, the contract signer; second, the scrap dealer; and third, the tobacco company or concern that buys this scrap.
There is no objection to the selling

The Department stands ready—I appeal to the good citizens of our county that we at once act to prevent the illicit sale of scrap tobacco which is demoralizing the tobacco program.

Upon entering, each one was impressed with a profusion of cut flowers and shaded lights.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. L. Kilgo had charge of the meeting.

A very interesting program "What We Find in England," was given by Mrs. L. C. Skinner. Going back to the time when the Romans left it, 410, up to the present time, how much of beauty, culture, nobility, spirituality is found—after reviewing much of the history of England, we learned that the "King James revision of the Bible" and "Pillgrims Progress" grew from such a background.

The many writers, Carlyle, Dickens, George Eliot, Thackeray, Gladstone and others enough to stagger one's mind. Many characteristics of King George were told: looking back over the turbulent quarter of a century, during which the fifth of the Georges has shared the trials and sufferings of the nation. Along with this subject, Mrs. Skinner told many interesting things of a later writer and quoted many of his sayings, taken from "Towards Democracy"—how he felt for humanity—he always wrote of the beautiful in his heart—for God was the keynote of Carpenter's life and work.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Mrs. R. C. Deal, Mrs. Milton White, Mrs. Lee Hamrah and Mrs. Curtis Perkins were the guests of the afternoon.

After a spicy discussion of England, each one was invited into the dining room to partake of a very tempting salad course with hot coffee. The club adjourned to meet next with Mrs. Charles Forbes.

Mr. Potts Speaks at Vesper Service
Rev. J. R. Potts in his talk at the College Y. W. C. A. vesper service last night, used as his theme the idea of echoes as suggested in the phrase the "Sounding again of the Mountains," which was in his text. Just as echoes today have their origin in the past so will today be echoed in the future, and Judgment Day, he believes, will be an echo of all days. "Eternity itself is only an echo of time," he said. "The hardest thing in the world is to stop an echo," he concluded, "and God is the only one who understands the sounding again of the Mountains."

When the ministers were recently introduced to the students, Mr. Potts spoke of as Greenville's minister as "a free lance minister."

Miss Edna Earle Perry sang a solo.

Dr. Hudson To Speak To A. A. U. W.

Those who are interested in the humorous stories, native songs, and folk material of the Old South are invited to hear Dr. Hudson's lecture.

First Church of Christ, Scientist

"Mortals and Immortals," was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 17, 1935.

The Golden Text was from II Corinthians 5:4. "We that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened; not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Let us therefore, as many as are perfect, be thus minded; and if in anything ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you. Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing." (Phil. 3:13-16).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "We must form perfect models in thought and look at them continually, or we shall never carve them out in grand and noble lives. Let unselfishness, mercy, justice, health, holiness, love—the kingdom of heaven—reign within us, and in disease, and death will diminish until they finally disappear." (Page 248).

Small Percentage Of Cotton Tenants Turned from Land

Survey Finds That More Tenants Able to Rent Land Under Cotton Adjustment Contracts

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—Fewer than one percent of the tenants on cotton farms have been turned off their land, or lowered in status, in violation of cotton adjustment contracts.

This was the finding of a survey conducted in 53 representative counties of 11 cotton States, said Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College.

The survey also showed that under the program more tenants have been able to rent land for farming than before. This year there were 14.8 percent more cotton tenants than in 1932.

More than two thirds of the tenants were allowed to produce food and feed crops for themselves on fields withdrawn from cotton cultivation, the dean added.

The survey, conducted by the AAA in cooperation with relief agencies, is one of the most comprehensive studies made of the tenancy situation, the dean continued.

"The survey shows definitely that in the counties covered, there was no increase in the relief load as a result of the cotton program."

"It is true that a few tenants here and there have been displaced from the land," Dean Schaub pointed out, "but for every family turned off since the program started there have been several tenant families going back onto farms."

"The farm tenancy problem in the South is old, and serious. Something must be done about it. The cotton program did not create the problem, nor has it solved the problem, but I have decidedly improved the condition of most tenants on cotton farms."

Public Schools Big Issue In Gubernatorial Race

Reflector Bureau, "Sir Walter Hotel."

By J. C. BASKERVILLE.

Raleigh, Nov. 16.—The question of public school support and maintenance is going to be the big issue in the 1936 gubernatorial campaign, rather than the sales tax, the liquor question or the various other issues that may arise, according to most observers here. Accordingly, opinion is more and more to the effect that the candidate for Governor who advocates the most sound and sane program for the public schools of the state, one that will appeal to the taxpayers and patrons as well as to the teachers, will be the one who will win the nomination.

There are several reasons for this belief. One of the foremost reasons being advanced is that at the present time more than 66 per cent of all the state's general fund revenue is spent in support of the public schools, so if any material increase in cost of the schools is made a corresponding increase in taxes must be made to yield the revenue necessary. Out of the present general fund budget of $30,500,000 for this fiscal year, more than $20,000,000 will go to support the public schools, almost $5,000,000 for debt service, leaving only about $4,500,000 for all other state activities and institutions.

Still another reason indicating that the public schools and the size of the appropriation for them for the next two years will be the principal issue in the gubernatorial campaign, is the fact that almost the only contest of any seriousness that developed in the 1935 general assembly was over the needs of the schools and the size of the school appropriation. The school forces started out by insisting that $25,000,000 was the minimum needed, then dropped down to $22,000,000 and finally compromised—or at least acquiesced—at $20,000,000 the first year and $20,900,000 the second year, after the general assembly spent four months trying to find more money, finally deciding this was all it could find.

Present indications are that if business and economic conditions continue to improve, or that if they do not become any worse than they now are, the 1937 general assembly can appropriate from $22,000,000 to $25,000,000 a year for the public schools without imposing any additional taxes or without increasing the present taxes, provided all of the present taxes, including the sales tax, are retained, according to most observers here. But if an effort is made either to increase the appropriation for schools above $23,000,000 a year, or to decrease any of the present taxes, some new taxes will have to be imposed or present taxes increased, it is generally agreed.

One candidate for Governor is already advocating increased expenditures for schools, but at the same time is advocating the complete repeal of the sales tax, which is now supplying 33 per cent of all the general fund revenue and 50 per cent of the cost of the schools. All of the other three leading candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor are advocating adequate support for the schools. But the candidate or candidates who advocate an increase in school expenditures sufficient to compel the levying of additional taxes or the increasing of present taxes, while assured of the support of the educational organizations and a large portion of the teacher vote, will run the risk of arousing the opposition of the taxpayers. For while most people want to improve the schools and increase the pay of the teachers as rapidly as possible, they do not want to see taxes increased or new taxes levied. And there are only 23,000 school teachers—and 7,000 of these are colored—while 497,657 Democrats voted in the 1932 election. And in spite of the reputed political power of the teachers, superintendents, principals and their organization, the North Carolina Education Association, many observers here seriously doubt if their influence is enough to hold the balance of power among these 497,000 Democratic voters. They have not been able to elect a majority of the members of the last two general assemblies, nor have they been able to get their objectives in either house of these two sessions.

Accordingly, it is maintained by many of the more experienced political observers here that the candidate for Governor who adopts a sound and sane school policy is the most likely to be nominated. Such a policy, it is maintained, is one which will promise a gradual increase in salaries for teachers and other objects, possibly even a twelve grade school system, but which will not require the levying of new taxes or any increase in present taxes. Some candidates, of course, may advocate a nine months, state-supported school term, the restoration of salaries to the pre-1930 levels, and all of the other things which the teachers and their spokesmen want. But these things cannot be provided without additional taxes, it is maintained.

But a school program calling for another 5 per cent increase in teachers salaries beginning for the school year of 1936-37—salaries will be boosted another 5 per cent next year, giving a 25 per cent increase over 1933 levels—together with the addition of a twelfth grade, can be financed without the levying of any new taxes, it is maintained by most observers here. It is also maintained in most circles that there is no state-wide demand for a state-supported universal nine months school term, and that most of the agitation for the longer term is coming from the teachers themselves, in order to provide an additional monthly pay check, rather than from the school patrons. The opinion is also growing that those communities which really want a nine months school term, should levy supplemental taxes locally for the longer term, rather than expect the state to provide it.

Hence it is that the prevailing opinion in most circles now is that the school question is going to become the dominant question in the campaign for Governor and that the candidate who can adopt the program that has the largest appeal to the voters and taxpayers, regardless of what the school forces may think of it, will be the one nominated.

BLACK-DRAUGHT AND GOOD HEALTH YEAR AFTER YEAR

"I have never had a bad sick spell and for years I have taken Black-Draught for the least symptom of upset stomach or sluggish feeling," writes Mr. W. F. Pulliam, of Gatewood, Mo. "I am a very hearty eater and sometimes I eat too much. If I feel uncomfortable, I just take a small dose of Black-Draught and soon feel all right. I feel I owe my good health to use of this reliable vegetable medicine, Black-Draught."

Where constipation is at the bottom of such troubles as Mr. Pulliam mentions, take a good laxative. Thousands of men and women have given Black-Draught credit for having helped them to avoid serious development of constipation troubles.—(Adv.)

MAY ISSUE DIRECTORY

Chamber of Commerce Endorses City Directory

Charles W. Miller, filed representative for the Southern Directory Company who is in Greenville making a preliminary survey for the possible issuance of a city directory, said today the proposal was meeting favorable reaction on all sides.

He reported that the local Chamber of Commerce had endorsed the proposal and that the merchants of the city were sanctioning the plan.

Greenville has not had a directory for several years, but indications are the present survey will show the people of the city desire one and will support the issuance of the publication.

Miller said work on the directory would begin with a short time if the survey proves successful.

135 were jailed on charges of either being drunk, driving while drunk or for violation of the state liquor laws, such as selling or transporting liquor. The figures for these offenses are as follows: drunk, 1,587; driving while drunk, 185; violating liquor laws (bootlegged) 363.

But in addition to this number of persons arrested and actually jailed, there were 652 persons jailed for robbery, burglary or larceny, $47 for assault and $4 for non-support, neglect or abandonment, a total of 1,253. While the jail records do not show that any of these jailed on these charges were drunk or had been drinking when the offenses for which they were committed and jailed were committed, most officers and welfare workers agree that a majority of those arrested for robbery, burglary, larceny, non-support, neglect, and so forth, usually are partially drunk, fortify themselves with a drink or two with drugs, or are habitual alcoholics and that most of these crime can therefore be partially attributed to liquor. Consequently if the 2,135 who were jailed for being drunk, driving while drunk or for violation of the liquor laws, are added to the 1,253 who committed crimes traceable to the use of liquor or drugs, the total is 3,388 or more than three-fourths of the total number jailed. This leaves only 1,117 of the 4,495 in jail in the 57 counties included in this survey in August who committed crime not either directly or indirectly connected with liquor.

The number jailed on charges not already enumerated — and it is admitted that many of these undoubtedly could be traced to liquor — are as follows: homicide, 62; rape, 17; forgery, 20; carrying concealed weapons, 22; sex crimes, 108; disorderly conduct, vagrancy, hobnobbing, committing nuisances, 167; violating traffic laws, 75; offenses not listed, 536.

When these 4,495 are divided into races and sexes, the results are as follows: white males, 2,275; white females, 195; negro males, 1,609; negro females, 282. These figures show that almost twice as many white men than negro men were jailed in these 57 counties in August, but that almost twice as many negro women than white women were jailed. Forty four Indians, 43 male and one female, were also jailed during this month.

The 4,495 prisoners are also classified by ages as well as races, this classification showing that more of both sexes and races between the ages of 21 and 30 were arrested and jailed than in any other age group. The age classification, ages, sexes and races, is as follows:

Age under	White Male	White Female	Negro Male	Negro Female
15	20	4	35	4
15-16	14	4	13	3
16-18	63	10	90	20
18-21	231	33	148	56
21-30	711	82	522	87
30-40	552	28	390	59
40-50	298	12	131	16
50-60	127	9	49	5
60-70	34	1	13	0

Emergency Period In Agriculture Is Drawing To Close

District Farm Agent Says Farmers Must Choose Between Individualism and Cooperation

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—The emergency period in agriculture is drawing to a close, and farmers are rearing the cross roads where they must choose between individualism and cooperation.

The choice is up to the farmers themselves, said E. W. Gaither, district farm agent at State College. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is willing with a program of cooperation, he continued, but it has no desire to force upon farmers any program they do not want.

Both individualism and cooperation have their advantage and disadvantages. Gaither pointed out. The question is under which policy will there be the most advantages and the fewer disadvantages.

Under the old individualistic system, each farmer is relatively free to produce as much as he can of any crop that will grow on his farm. Likewise, he is free to sell his products to whomever will buy, and for whatever he can get.

But with millions of farmers following the same policy, Gaither asked, will they be able to sell all their production? Will they be able to secure good prices for their commodities?

Production in this country can easily outstrip all local demand, he stated, and foreign countries are not buying the American surplus like they used to.

Under a cooperative program, each farmer is asked to consider the welfare of his fellows, but at the same time they are considering his welfare. All are working together.

By adjusting production to demand, each can be reasonably sure of receiving a fair price for his products. Cut-throat competition is to some extent eliminated.

A well managed program of cooperation also encourages balanced farming, crop rotation, and living at home, Gaither observed.

Expect Large Crowd For Teachers' Game Here On Saturday

One of the largest crowds to ever attend a football game in Eastern Carolina is expected on Saturday, Nov. 23, when Coach Kidd Brewer's Appalachian State Teachers College team meet Eastern Carolina College Teachers College on College Field.

This is Coach Brewer's initial appearance in East Carolina since he became head coach at Appalachian. His aggregation is headed by Captain Trippany, a triple-threat quarterback. Although meeting for the first time as coaches, Brewer and Mathis are both old foes on the gridiron. Both of these men were on the All-State teams of 1931.

Although the East Carolina Teachers have had a good season thus far they face the hardest game of their schedule Saturday. Appalachian has defeated East Carolina in the two games previously played.

The East Carolina Teachers came out of Friday's game with no serious injuries and by Saturday Coach Mathis hopes to have his team in top physical condition. This game is the last home game of the current season. Only two men are to be lost by graduation this year, giving Coach Doc Mathis a good foundation for next year's squad. The game will be played at two-thirty at College Field.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The stock market started with a rush today but put on the brakes before any real runaway could develop.

The new Canadian treaty apparently brought buying in elected groups while reduction profit taking in others. The ticker tape failed to keep step with dealing shortly after the wheat blocks of several thousand shares were transferred at gains of a fraction to a profit or so.

Many highs for the past four years were registered. The trading volume dwindled.

The late tone was slightly irregular. Transfers approximately 3,000,000 shares.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL VERY GOOD WORK

(By C. M. Epps)

Citizens of the county of Pitt should know that an excellent work is in progress at the Grimesland County Training School (colored) under the direction of Prof. C. E. Setzer, vocational teacher.

This school through the efforts of the late Prof. S. B. Underwood received a donation years ago of approximately $4,000 — my lamented friend, Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes, donated land and under a number of principals' efforts have been made to build up a strong institution of usefulness. Prof. Fitzgerald like his predecessor, Supt. Underwood and the late L. C. Arthur, did what they could with the means in hand to make it Pitt county's key institution for vocational training with elementary education.

stitution of usefulness. Prof. Fitzgerald like his predecessor, Supt. Underwood and the late L. C. Arthur, did what they could with the means in hand to make it Pitt county's key institution for vocational training with elementary education.

The success in gardening, poultry raising and the inspiration the neighborhood farmers have received through this school, should commend it and the faculty to Supt. Conley, Pitt citizens, and the educational authorities of the county. Its vegetables and poultry are on our market and a fine race relation exists.
