M. K. BLOUNT IS NAMED MAYOR BY ALDERMEN

To Fill the Unexpired Term of Late Mayor or Flanagan

TERM RUNS UNTIL JUNE 30th, 1937

Prominent Lawyer, Business Man and Former Legislator is Appointed

M. K. Blount, prominent Greenville lawyer, business man and former State Senator, was appointed mayor by the Board of Aldermen last night to fill the unexpired term of the late Mayor Roy C. Flanagan.

Mr. Flanagan died Friday, November 1, at the age of 62, from a heart attack. He had been mayor several years, having been elected without opposition for his last two terms.

Mayor Blount's term will run until June 30, 1937, the time Mr. Flanagan's term would have expired.

There had much discussion as to whether the appointed mayor would serve until then or only until the next city election, in May of next year. It was explained however, that Attorney General A. A. F. Sewell had ruled that the appointee would serve the regular term.

It was not known definitely when the new mayor would take over the active duties of the city's chief executive. H. H. Duncan has been serving as acting mayor since the death of Mr. Flanagan.

Mr. Blount's appointment came in the second ballot with a five to two count. The first ballot showed three votes for W. E. Hooker, one for Duncan and three for Blount.

The new mayor is well-known in business and political circles, not only in this city and county, but throughout the state. He served three terms as State Senator, from 1927 through 1931. He was succeeded to that office by the present Senator, Arthur B. Corey. At present he is a member of the law firm of Blount and James.

Mayor Blount has been engaged in the law profession in Greenville for many years. He is also connected with the Blount-Harvey department store and the M. O. Blount and Son store at Bethel.

Mr. Blount was born and reared in the Bethel vicinity, the son of M. O. Blount and the late Mrs. Florence Nelson Blount. He was educated at the public schools of Bethel, Randolph Macon college, Culver Military academy and the University of North Carolina. He married Miss Florence Taft. They have no children.

14 Million People Are Dependant on Cotton For Living

Eleven Million Are on the 2,200,000 Cotton Farms of the South and Southwest Sections

Raleigh, Nov. 20.—Cotton furnishes directly the livelihood of 14,500,000 people in the United States.

Eleven million of these people are on the 2,200,000 cotton farms of the South and Southwest, and they are dependent upon cotton for the greater part of their cash income.

Three million more are supported by cotton textile manufacturing. Another 500,000 are dependent upon the miscellaneous uses of raw cotton, its ginning, merchandising, and manufacturing.

But this is not the whole picture, said Dean I. O. Schaub of State College. Many more millions are affected by the merchandising of cotton products, the financing of the cotton crop, and the selling of commodities to cotton growers and manufacturers.

Thus it is obvious, he said, that the South's cotton crop is not sectional but national in its scope, and any program affecting the crop has far-reaching consequences over the country.

The objective of the cotton adjustment program, the dean said, is not to give certain farmers an unfair monopoly on cotton growing, but to adjust production to demand for the best interests of all concerned.

It is the AAA's contention, he continued, that a program for the benefit of the growers, who are in the vast majority, would in the long run be most profitable for the manufacturers and handlers.

A volume production system, as formerly practiced, often resulted in a double loss to the grower, for it not only depressed the price but also kept in cotton production land that could have been put into needed food and feed crops.

Japanese Foreign Office Blames Britain, America

Attributes Policies of Two Countries Cause Of Necessity For Internal Political Campaign To Sunder North China From Nanking Government

(By Associated Press)

The Japanese foreign office today attributed to the British and American policies in China the necessity for the internal political campaign to sunder North China from the government of Nanking.

The United States silver purchase policy has intensified China's economic troubles, the Tokyo government department explained. This and Great Britain's support of Nanking's currency reform were looked upon as spontaneous stimuli to the movement for autonomy in North China.

This authority also insisted North China's impending Declaration of self rule would not affect China's territorial status and hence the nine-power treaty guaranteeing China's sovereignty and territorial integrity can not be invoked.

Administration officials in Washington betrayed a deep concern over the events in North China however. American business firms have large holdings in the affected territory and there was much speculation in the American capital as to whether a note would be sent to Japan.

No such procedure was indicated by William Phillips, under secretary of state, following a discussion of Sino-Japanese developments with Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador. From Shanghai came reports of a growing restlessness of Japanese military authorities over what they feel is an impending conciliatory meeting between Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek, military head of the central Chinese government and Akira Arita Yoshi, Japanese ambassador to China.

GIRL SLAYER MAKES APPEAL

Edith Maxwell Convicted of Murdering Her Father

Wise, Va., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Edith Maxwell, 21-year-old comely mountain school teacher, looked today to further legal maneuvers to relieve the stigma of murder of her father placed on her last night by a jury of her mountain neighbors.

The girl, the prosecution charged with premeditated murder of her father because she objected to conforming to the strict code of conditions set up by him was convicted last night of first degree murder and sentenced to 25 years in prison.

The altercation which resulted in the death of the girl's father, Trigg Maxwell, blacksmith, climaxed a quarrel between the two when the girl returned home after midnight and the father remonstrated with her for keeping late hours.

Immediately after the verdict was returned defense counsel began preparing a written motion to set aside the verdict and grant a new trial. Judge H. A. W. Sken said he would allow several days for this motion.

W. W. Tolson, the convicted girl's uncle, and defense counsel said if the motion for a new trial is denied he would carry the case to the supreme court.

London, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Lord Jellicoe, British Admiral and an outstanding naval figure during the world war died today.

Death came to the admiral in his 76th year. He was born Dec. 5, 1859.

The immediate cause of death was illness he contracted November 11 during the Armistice Day ceremony at the Cenotaph.

New Scout Troop Formed Last Night at Fountain School

Seventeen Boys in Troop Being Sponsored by Fountain Junior Order of American Mechanics

Seventeen boys met at the industrial building of the Fountain High School last night and a Boy Scout Troop. The Troop is being sponsored by the Fountain Junior Order of American Mechanics.

The meeting opened with the allegiance to the flag given by the Troop and visitors. This was followed by a short business meeting in which a few of the boys who had not previously registered did so, and the boys selected three temporary Patrol Leaders and Patrol names.

After the business meeting the boys had 20 minutes of Patrol instruction in which time the boys learned the scout law and the scout motto. The Scoutmaster H. B. Mayo gave leadership to this working through the Patrol leaders.

The Patrol instruction period was followed by a game of things to do and things to touch with the Patrol. The Patrol was divided into two teams and the Wolf Patrol won this game. The next game played was a shoe relay. The Wolf Patrol also won this. The paper bag relay was the last of the games and was won by the Hawk Patrol. The meeting was closed by giving the Scout benediction by all present.

G. E. Travathan acted as scribe for the meeting and is one of the assistant Scoutmasters, and B. A. Pope, assistant Scoutmaster assisted in giving leadership to the games. The members of the Troop Committee, D. R. Mercer, Chairman, Dawson Jefferson and J. P. Kilbrew, acted as judges.

The officers of the Troop are: Troop Committee, D. R. Mercer, Chairman, Dawson Jefferson and J. P. Kilbrew, Scoutmaster R. B. Mayo, principal of Fountain High School, Assistant Scoutmasters G. E. Raleigh, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Carolina Power and Light Company of Raleigh has announced reduced rates to North and South Carolina consumers effective January 1, next.

The North Carolina public utilities commission announced the reduction would mean an annual saving of $600,000 to North Carolina consumers.

The saving to South Carolina consumers, mostly in the Pee Dee section of the state, was placed at $183,000 annually by the South Carolina public service commission.

The reduction followed a series of conferences between the Power Company officials and the Utilities Commission, regulating bodies of both states.

FIRE CHIEF MAKES PLEA

Asks Motorist to Park Five Minutes When Alarm Sounds

Following a fire on Evans street last night which did damages estimated at $15 to an automobile belonging to W. M. Jones, Chief George Gardner of the Greenville Fire department, today called on the citizens of the city to obey the laws concerning fires.

The fire department chief called attention to the law providing that all motorists pull over to the curb and park for five minutes following the sounding of the fire alarm.

He said that if the citizens would abide by this law it would enable the department to do a more efficient job as the firemen would be able to reach the blaze sooner.

Declaring that if the cars rush to the fire before the volunteer firemen could get there it would delay the men in spreading the hose and thereby give the blaze a chance to make headway, Chief Gardner called upon the people to cooperate with the department.

He added he did not wish to prohibit the people from going to the fire, but merely wanted them to cooperate and aid the firemen in their duties. He also asked that they keep a distance from the blaze so as not to hinder the firemen or endanger themselves.

The fire last night, Chief Gardner said, was started by a short circuit in the wiring. He said the only damage to the car was the wiring.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER CRUISES: The quarrel between savers and spenders at Washington has reached a stage where the participants barely nod at Cabinet meetings or cocktail parties. Headline hints don't describe the inner tautness. It may result—almost did—in Cabinet changes.

Secretary Morgenthau is the key figure. His secret ambition is to quit public life with a great reputation as a Secretary of the Treasury—another Hamilton. He has taken advantage of his role to summarize the Hopkins-Ickes theories of spending the nation and party back to prosperity. He warns that the administration can bring back good times only through economy.

A smashup was narrowly averted when the President issued sailing orders to the three musketeers.

Though Mr. Roosevelt has a deep affection for his young financial aide, he sent him to Spain to cool off. The President then kidnapped Messrs. Ickes and Hopkins for a long sea cruise. He didn't dare leave the three in Washington. But there may be another crisis in the making, as Mr. Morgenthau seems to be having his way in preliminary budget discussions.

LOVE: You can't see all the sleight-of-hand tricks but President Roosevelt is making passes these days to produce a magic substitute for AAA benefit payments. The idea seems to be to set up a just-as-good system before the Supreme Court judges the New Deal's most valuable asset.

CONTINUATION OF RELIEF PLAN RECOMMENDED

United States Congress of Mayors Make Suggestion TO ASK CONGRESS FOR MORE FUNDS

States Are Urged To Pass Legislation Necessary To Make Act Effective

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Continuation of the federal relief program through the next fiscal year was recommended today by the United States Conference of Mayors.

The mayors decided to petition Congress for additional appropriations for the fiscal year 1936-37 sufficient to meet a planned and comprehensive program for relief work and direct officials to meet the unemployment situation throughout the country for such a period.

They expressed appreciation and gratitude "for the part played in the relief program thus far by the Congress and President Roosevelt."

In another resolution the mayors urged that cities "take proper steps to insure adequate and proper cooperation and contributions from their own states" to support federal funds.

Prompt passage by every state legislation necessary to make the national social security act effective also was urged.

Roll Call Shows Gratifying Gains Officials Report

So Far Memberships Number 340 as Compared With Only 271 Last Year; Receipts Total $380

With reports from the workers incomplete the results of the local Red Cross Roll Call show a marked increase over last year's enrollment, officials reported today.

The results so far reported show the number of memberships for this year to be 340, as compared with 271 for last year. Receipts for this year are $383 as compared with $290 for last year. These figures represent the enrollment and receipts for Greenville only and do not include memberships received in other communities in the county.

With other reports to come in those in charge of the local campaign express confidence that the receipts will pass well beyond the $400 mark and the memberships will appreciably increase over the number so far reported. Rev. W. A. Ryan, local chairman, expressed pleasure at the work done by the canvassers and the generous response on the part of the Greenville people. While the number of memberships is still far below what it should be in view of Greenville's population, the increase over former years in most gratifying. While headquarters have been closed those wishing to enroll may still do so by communicating with the chairman, Wm. A. Ryan, 412 E. 8th Street, phone 545. The chairman also expressed his appreciation of the service rendered by Hill Home in providing space and Taft Furniture Co. for providing office equipment.

Four Convicts Make Escape From Polk Farm

Guard Overpowered by Quartet in Second Outbreak at Prison Camp Near Raleigh in Three Days

Raleigh, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Four convicts from the Camp Polk prison farm jumped from a moving truck onto a guard today, overpowering him and escaped in the second outbreak among prisoners of the farm in three days.

Bloodhounds and a posse of officers were seeking the escapes this afternoon. Monday four prisoners fled while a guard's back was turned but all were caught within several hours.

Escapes were Raymond Matthews, Robert Penny, Johnas Cockrell and Cracy Locklear.

The guard, L. S. Passer, was not injured as the four prisoners jumped on his back and overpowered him. The quartet took the guard's gun and held him and the truck driver at bay and drove off in the machine. The trail was found about a half mile away and bloodhounds were put on the trail there.

SEC. WALLACE SPEAKS ON AAA

Delivers Address Before Association Of Land Grant

Washington, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The philosophy that government power must be used for the welfare of all rather than any group was expounded today by Secretary Wallace.

Speaking before the association of land grant colleges and universities, Wallace said that in the past these powers, such as the tariff, have been used to benefit special groups.

The 48 states are a United States. The spirit and heart of the constitution is the declaration of intention to form a more perfect union, he said.

"We are trying to serve the general welfare. The individual special interest must cooperate in working out the problems facing the United States under present conditions," he said.

Admitting the AAA approach to the farm problem "was jerky" Wallace said farm leaders a year ago saw the necessity for a change as rapidly as possible. He held up the new 1936 corn-hog contracts as an example as an advance in AAA thinking, saying they aimed for greater local control and greater balance between corn and hogs and between producer and consumer.

Expected To Attack Italians Between Dolo and Makale

FRENCH, BRITISH HEADS CONFER

Informed Circles See Little Hope for Resumption of Peace Negotiations

Addis Ababa, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Bakala Ayela, commander of 1,000 of Ethiopian's best marksmen today successfully halted an Italian advance in the Radowa Hills inflicting heavy losses, it was reliably reported here.

Bakala Ayela, former Emperor Haile Selassie chief hunchman, was ordered several weeks ago to hold an important task in the hills at all cost.

(By Associated Press) Ethiopian warriors were reported marching to attack the Italian northern front between Dolo and Makale today after a sharp battle on the Southern front had caused casualties reported at more than 450 on both sides.

The Italian headquarters at Asmara received word that a column of Emperor Haile Selassie's soldiers was advancing toward Selco, eight miles below Makale, into territory in which the Italians had been consolidating their position.

Unofficial dispatches reaching Harar in Eastern Ethiopia said more than 150 native Somali troops were killed or wounded on the Italian side in the south, while Ethiopian casualties were unofficial put at more than 300.

In Paris an authoritative source stated France feels that settlement of the war depends on the fighting of a decisive battle between Italian and Ethiopian forces.

French Premier Pierre Laval, conferred with Sir George Russell Clerk, British ambassador, but informed circles said they saw little prospect of resumption of negotiations between British, French and Italian representatives until either Italian or Ethiopian is greatly weakened on the battlefield.

Haile Selassie who at first had been expected to go to the northern front when he left Addis Ababa yesterday by plane, was believed by observers today to be in the South.

Asmara reports said the Italian in this area were seeking Ras Seyoum, Ethiopian commander in the North.

Some aviators who took part in Monday's battle between Italian planes and Ethiopian land forces in which the Italian headquarters at Asmara claimed 2,000 Ethiopians were killed, said they saw Ras Seyoum fall from his horse, apparently shot. There not no other confirmation of this report.

The Ethiopian government announced it had no official knowledge of the reported killing of 2,000 of its troops. It stated 10 Ethiopians were killed and 30 wounded in an attack by Italian planes south of Makale Monday, and officials said they believed this was the battle to which the Italian announcement referred.

State Republicans To Be Instructed Support Meekins

Elizabeth City Newspaper Says Federal Judge To Be Supported for Nomination a Presidency

Elizabeth City, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Advance said in a story today that prominent Republicans in this section believed that the North Carolina delegation to the National Republican convention will go instructed to support Federal District Judge I. M. Meekins of Elizabeth City, for nomination to the presidency as a "favorite son."

"However," the newspaper says, "from that point on it was said the delegates will go uninstructed."

A prominent Republican was quoted as having said "he could have gotten the vice-presidency nomination any time during the last two or three campaigns."

They point out also that in 1924 Judge Meekins made the best run against the late former Governor A. W. MacLean that has been made by any Republican candidate in a long time.

Dr. Hudson Speaks To A. A. U. W.

The "tall" tales Dr. Palmer Hudson read at the A. A. U. W. meeting in the "Y" Hut on Monday evening are not philosophy, not history, and not folklore. They are all of them—and more. They give rigid classification; yet they defy the humorous aspects of the life of the people of antebellum Mississippi and of the surrounding region which should be Mississippi, though though it is not.

Those who heard this charming, informal program will not soon forget it. The big rustic room, the open fire, the appreciative audience, and the scholarly enthusiastic speaker made a happy combination.

Dr. Hudson began with a brief explanation of his interest in the preservation of the best of the humorous writings of the Old South and of his sources—almanacs, biographies, autobiographies, diaries, books of travel, letters, and other types of writing in state archives, university libraries, and the Library of Congress.

Before taking up any of the tales he read a part of the preface of his new book which may be called "Humor of the Deep Old South" or may change its title before the printing is finished. The plan of organization is the representation of occupational and character types. The sketches vary from the vigorously, honestly humorous through the odd and near-tragic to the ironic. The authors are, for the most part, not strongly literary; but they saved something that the literary world would not willingly let die.

The first tale read is an amusing account of the extraction of a tooth according to the Mississippi Patent Plan. A best was lost, because neither the neck nor the jawbone of the victim was broken; two mistakes were made, because the dentist pulled the wrong tooth, and the patient paid with a counterfeit bill.

The second tale, presenting state legislators indulging in an airing and marching in unsteady procession singing "Buffalo Bill," is from "Reminiscences of Old Mississippi," one of the sources of Stark Young's "So Red the Rose."

Other delightful tales were read. The hero of one is the politician Plummer, about whom this slogan was used: "Plummer for the People; the People for Plummer;" the hero of another is the much-quoted Private, John Allen. Especially amusing is the comic sermon, "The Harp of a Thousand Strings." This discourse, possessing a text said to be found between the first verse of the "Book of Generations and the last verse of the Book of Revelations," has been translated into many languages. Two letters and a sketch from the chapter entitled "The Ladies—God Bless 'Em," were read. The first letter was written by a girl to Jefferson Davis begging him to let her sweetheart come home to marry her and promising to send the new husband back to the army immediately. It is said that Davis wrote on the letter, "Let Jesus go!"

The last example of humorous narrative read, "Nebuchadnezzar," is by Irving Russell, the first Mississippi poet to appreciate the literary possibilities in negro life.

Dr. Hudson used as an epilogue to his program what will be the poem of his book. This is an original symbolic ballad outlining gracefully the history of antebellum Mississippi.

Noted Art Critic At College.

The public is invited to hear the illustrated talk to be given by Karl S. Bolander, the noted art critic, writer, and teacher, tomorrow morning in the Campus Building of the College at 11:30 o'clock.

Mr. Bolander has been in the state for several weeks making talks to the teachers at the district meetings which have been held two days each week for the past month, and to the schools.

He has with him a lot of interesting samples of handicraft he collected from the mountain section of the state which he has added to the material he uses in his demonstrations with his talks.

"Art As A Hobby," and "The Effect of Art Education on Life" are two of the subjects he has made so interesting that school superintendents after hearing his talk at their district meetings, flocked to him with invitations to their schools.

President Meadows said, after hearing him talk in Kinston last week, "There is not a dull minute in it," and immediately engaged him to speak at the College. Mr. Bolander illustrates his talks by showing pieces of handicraft he has collected.

Mr. Bolander is now president of the National Hobby Guild. He was president of the Fort Wayne Art School at the time Miss Ruth Bonnewitz, who has taught art in the College for several years, graduated. The Hobby Guild is for the purpose of giving help to those interested in art for fun, the study of art and artcraft as a recreation.

He will talk at the High School at 9:30 o'clock for the students of the High School and of the sixth and seventh grades, but there will not be room for others in that auditorium.

The pupils and teachers from the Training School will hear him in the Campus Building at 11:30 o'clock, when the College faculty and students and the public in general will hear him.

Conference Meet Slated Saturday At Chapel Hill

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 20—Those sports followers who love to see a group of runners storm down the home stretch in a breath-taking finish after a long, grueling run over hill and dale, will find their heart's content at the Southern Conference cross country meet Saturday on the local 5-mile course.

A great fight for individual honors as well as team championship is expected for the annual barrier event. Teams from Carolina, Duke, State and several of the Virginia colleges will be on hand. The Tar Heels are defending champions, but Duke holds the role as favorite. Due beat Carolina 28-39 in the dual race to hand the Tar Heels their first barrier defeat since late in the 1932 season. In winning, the Blue Devils established themselves as favorites to cop the Conference crown.

Three men—all Old North Carolina—are expected to clash for individual honors. This trio includes Bill Morse of Duke, Graham Gammon of Carolina and Davis of State. Each has met the other this season. Morse is the only undefeated one. He beat Davis by one second and then beat Gammon by 200 yards. Gammon in turn decisively outran Davis. Morse will take the role as No. 1 man but will doubtless be pushed to the limit by both Gammon and Davis.

This hard fight for the individual championship may result in a new Southern Conference record. At present it is 26:28 minutes, set by Olsen Elliott of Carolina in 1926. Morse came within 20 seconds of this mark in the Carolina-Duke dual week. With both Gammon and Davis fighting and pushing Morse for first place, the winner may break the present record.

Carolina's defending team is decidedly weaker than the crew which represented the Blue and White last season. Missing are Ed McRae, Conference champion; Ed Waldrop, third place winner; Fab Haywood and Haywood Curlee.

The "Big Three" of the Tar Heels are Gammon, Captain Louis Conte and Bob Gardner. When those three have crossed the finished line, Tar Heel supporters begin praying. The rest of the squad is inexperienced and hampered with injuries. These include Kird, Daniels, Garland, Anderson, Goldman, Mark, Gove, Wakeley, Hairston and D'Ascenzo.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — Scenes reminiscent of the days when General Hugh Johnson's famous Blue Eagle was in full flight are expected in Washington during the first days of December.

The question of what is to be done with NRA, if anything, will be discussed on a wide front. On December 4, Secretary Rogers' business advisory council will meet at the commerce department. Five days later Major George L. Berry's council of industrial progress, expected to attract upwards of 3,000 labor and industrial leaders, will be launched in an effort to determine if something akin to the old NRA can be found. About the same time, members of the ways and means committee of the house and the finance committee of the senate will tackle the task of deciding whether what remains of the recovery administration with its 2,300 employees is to be allowed to remain or fade away completely at March.

Major Berry's CIP.

Of them all, however, Major Berry's CIP promises to attract the greatest attention. The former NRA official, head of the pressmen's union and now coordinator for industrial cooperation by presidential appointment, has everyone mystified as to what actually is going on. The story is told in some quarters that Berry, after NRA was invalidated by the supreme court, appealed to President Roosevelt to let him try his hand at reviving it. Since there was little to do after the disintegration of NRA and Berry was willing to serve the government without compensation, the President let him have his way.

The meeting of CIP on December 9 is to be conducted in highly practical fashion. There will be a general speeches. Then there will be a break-up of those present into industrial groups, each group choosing an employer representative and a labor representative to offer whatever viewpoint it can agree upon. A meeting of the council of these representatives—the CIP—

HOW WOMEN GET TWD-FOLD BENEFIT BY TAKING CARDUI

According to reports from thousands who have taken it, Cardui helps women in a two-fold manner, affording prompt relief of certain functional pains and strengthening the system by increasing the appetite and improving digestion.

"I like Cardui because it helped me," writes Mrs. Obie C. Rafferty, of Campbellsville, Ky. "I suffered pain and was nervous and needed strength. I have taken Cardui and have been benefited. I have taken it two or three times. I can tell when I am taking Cardui, that I have a much better appetite."

Before the next monthly upset, begin taking Cardui. Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

will then be had to try to decide on a course of action.

Stab In The Dark.

Cip might decide to ask congress for legislation continuing governmental machinery for some kind of code making. It might ask for modification of the anti-trust laws. Or it might decide on the complete demise of the recovery administration.

Labor is interested because NRA codes gave it a new lease on life. The uncertainty surrounding the constitutionality of the new labor relations law and the fact that voluntary trade agreements under the federal trade commission need not contain labor provisions, are other factors vital to labor's future.

Industry is interested because it still wants the power to get together to control production and prices as under NRA codes. Cip, many believe, is a stab in the

Common Sense about HEADACHE

Usually a headache is due to high nerve tension. At such times all you need is a little Capudine. This remedy is very effective because it quickly soothes tense nerves and eases pain.

Of course headache may come from more serious sources. Sometimes it may be an abscessed tooth, or some underlying cause which only your family physician can discover. Meanwhile, avoid suffering as much as you can by using Capudine.

Capudine contains no narcotics. It acts quickly and gently. Ask for either Capudine Liquid or Capudine Brand Tablets.

DON'T RUSH TO FIRES

There are evidently hundreds of Greenville citizens who think it is their duty to rush to the scene of a fire the minute a fire alarm sounds and this practice is proving to be a detriment to safety and a great hindrance to the members of the fire department. Fire Chief George Gardner today urged that this matter be brought to the attention of our citizens and that they be urged to stop their present practice of rushing to fires.

There is a law in Greenville that every vehicle must pull close to the curb and remain standing for five minutes after a fire alarm sounds to permit firemen and fire fighting equipment to move to the scene of the fire un-hampered, but instead a large number of our citizens step on the gas and rush to the fire only to be in the way of the firemen when they arrive. Even after the fire trucks have passed it is not safe for you to start in the direction of the fire until several minutes have elapsed because volunteer members of our fire department may be in various sections of the city when the alarm sounds and all streets should be kept clear of traffic to permit these firemen to reach the scene as speedily as possible. In some instances the fire fighting equipment has reached the scene of fires here to find traffic so congested that longer lines of hose had to be laid than would have otherwise been necessary, and this means loss of time on the part of firemen and less water pressure on the fire.

Of course most of our people are naturally curious the minute a fire alarm sounds and want to rush to the scene to see all there is to see, but in so doing you are hindering the fire department and causing greater fire loss as a result of this hindrance. The next time a fire alarm sounds use a little common sense and let the firemen get to the fire first, and then if you feel that you must go, be sure that upon your arrival at the scene you remain in the background and do not hinder the firemen in their efforts to put out the fire.

HIGH COURAGE

by Jeanne Bowman

SYNOPSIS: With dramatic audacious Ansel Kellogg, Anne Farnsworth's oldest and best friend, bursts into the midst of her trial for the murder of her foster uncle, Lee Farnsworth, and takes complete charge of her defense. Anne's freedom and good name depend on the outcome of the trial. Even her fortune hangs on the same peg.
Now Judge Kellogg is proving by the former Farnsworth butler that Anne did not know the weapon which killed Farnsworth in her possession at the time of the shooting.

Chapter 40
BOMBHELL

WHEN did you last see this revolver?" Kellogg went on.
"The day after Miss Anne left, sir," said Jones. "We were that worried over her going away by herself, that we got to thinking would she do away with herself having been treated so bad. I went upstairs and looked for the revolver, the only firearm in the house. It was still there."

"Did you at any time touch it, disturb it, take it away, send it to Miss Farnsworth, or to your knowledge did any of the other servants send it to her?"

"No sir we did not. We didn't know where to reach her had we ever thought of it."

"That will be all."

The next witness was Mrs. J. C.
Irving, whom Anne identified as the

"I will now prove that it has been in the custody of another person.
I will call Jake Sampson."

There was a commotion at the door, then two deputies appeared, a small man between them. He was forced to his place on the stand and sworn in.

"Your name," snapped Kellogg.

"J-Jake, J-Jake Sampson," answered the man, his gaze seeking the ceiling as if there was someone in the courtroom he did not wish to see.

"Your occupation?"

"Gunsmith."

"Have you a store, if so what do you sell?"

"Everything to do with shooting; shells, guns, cartridges, good stock."

He was boasting now, becoming confident he wouldn't be hurt. Then I clean guns and—

"Ever see this before?"

Judge Kellogg thrust exhibit A towards him.

"Betcha life I have. I sold that Luke way back in 1919. It's a peach—"

"Just a minute Mr. Sampson.
We're not questioning your wares.
Have you seen it recently?"

Jake Sampson wet his lips nervously. "Y-yes," he stammered.

"When?"

"Evening of August 3rd a man brought it in to be cleaned and woman at the service station located near the foot of the Clatsop Ridge grade. She told of seeing Anne, on the night of March tenth. She said she had been a talkative nancy, telling the young lady about the spot on the ridge where the Farnsworth car had gone over the cliff, and that not until a young man had told her who the girl was, had she realized she had been talking to Anne Farnsworth.

"That will be all," droned Ansel Kellogg. "Call John Neuman."

John Neuman, Anne's heart seemed to stand still. John Neuman.
Then he was here. How had the judge found him? Or had he found the judge?

He strode into the court room, sat down. He looked at Anne, smiled at her, and in the love and kindness of that smile she found her whole world righted. How handsome and clean-cut he looked, how different from Rob Crocker. No lines of selfishness no—but the judge was questioning him.

"YES, I know Anne Farnsworth," he declared, and enumerated the times he had met her prior to the night on Clatsop ridge.

"Are you in a position to say whether or not she has returned to Portland since that time?"

"I know she has not and can call any number of witnesses to prove this."

He then corroborated Anne's testimony concerning her reason for being at the fasttrap the night of the murder, concluding with an explanation of her landing at the far end of town.

"I knew Miss Farnsworth had never been treated fairly by the remaining members of her family and I knew that should she be found near the scene of the shooting, I would be involved. Therefore, I told the Sorki boys to take her somewhere along the beach and let her make her way back into town from
there."

"Your honor, and gentlemen of the jury," said Ansel Kellogg at the conclusion of John's testimony, "I have attempted to prove through these witnesses that the gun which fired the shot that killed Lee Farnsworth was never in the possession of the defendant."

tain. A reputation of the NRA crackdown might prove fatal. Moreover, Mr. Roosevelt can't prepare his 1937 budget on time if the decision is delayed for several months.
Financially and politically, the benefit payments figure too heavily in all 1936 plans to be left to judicial chance.

Though flowering slowly, the new scheme contemplates payment of farmers out of relief funds. Legalists believe the President has authority to use the money as he pleases. There is also private talk of utilizing the provision permitting

Thirty-two automatic."

"Is that man in this court room?"
asked Kellogg.

THERE was a moment of tense silence then, "Yes," the voice came faintly, "over there." He pointed towards the group at the district attorney's table. Seated there was Rob Crocker and Tom Farley.

Anne sat frozen, incredulous. Intent upon her own innocence, she had only vaguely wondered who had been guilty. Her illness, which had cast an opaque screen over the events of that night, was partly responsible for this. Now she stared as Sampson pointed a grimy finger at the two men.

"Stand up please," ordered Kellogg.

Crocker stood up, thin lipped, angry, defiant.

"That's him," the man declared.

"You're excused Sampson," said Kellogg, "unless the district attorney wants you."

Anne glanced at the district attorney. He wore a baffled look, and shook his head, at which sign Sampson scurried from the room.

"I will now call Charlie White Deer."

The squat figure of a chinook was brought in. The man, visibly frightened, shrank from the quick gaze of eyes from every part of the court room.

"White Deer," began Kellogg kindly, "where were you on the night of August 3rd?"

"At... at bootleg fish trap."

"Were you alone?"

"Yes."

"Did you see the defendant; see this young lady?" He pointed to Anne. The answer was "yes."

"Did you see her fire a shot at Lee Farnsworth, the man who was killed?"

Surprisingly, there was no objection from the district attorney. He was listening avidly.

"No," said the Indian emphatically.

"Could you have seen her do it?
I mean where was your boat in relation to hers?"

The trial reaches a dramatic climax, tomorrow.

versely against a pet presidential project. Bystanding, you would have had reason to suspect that Mr.
Roosevelt would award the Pulitzer prize to this New Deal publisher if he could.

So long as economic conditions continue to improve New Dealers won't worry over what their enemies say in public interviews and at their conventions. They figure that every knock now may turn into a political boost in November of 1936. They're polishing off the presidential suggestion that he welcomes a contest between the 'haves' and the 'have nots.'

VICTORY: Treasury agents who know their stuff are snickering over the concession to Canadian whiskey interests in the Hull-Mc-Kenzie tariff treaty. They whisper that all the profits won't go over the border.

Canadian manufacturers distilled a special brand of liquor on the eve of repeal. The booze was flavored to please the American palate under a semi-official promise that it would be allowed to flow into the United States under a preferential duty. It isn't popular at our good neighbors' celebration of American-no-Canadian unity. But days dragged along without any move to keep the promise.

Certain New York interests are said to have bought millions of gallons at a fairly cheap price. It is understood that some of the American investors were bootleggers in the bad old days. But Teetotaler Hull can't be expected to know that.

PROVEN: Administrationites are secretly pleased that a New Deal banker was not elected as second vice president of the bankers association. They aren't shedding any tears over the financiers' rebuff to the man who is now running the Eccles banks.

Federal Reserve Board Governor Eccles isn't as popular at Washington as he was in the feverish days.
He was the original apostle of the spending program which more conservative advisers, notably Secretary Morgenthau and RFC-er Jones, would like to curtail. A victory for an Eccles man would have made life almost unbearable for his rivals in the inner financial circles.

Mr. Jones has a reason all his own for rejoicing. The election of an anti-New Deal candidate may spike the contention that he dominates the 7,000 institutions in which the RFC has bought stock. There had been suggestions that the election was "fixed" because of so many banks' tieup with the federal till.
Now the Texan can put on a "holier than the suspects" air. He has.

NEW YORK

CANNY: The election of Orval W. Adams of Utah as second vice president of the American Bankers Association—to become president in 1937—was intended as a declaration of war on the New Deal. Mr.
Adams' keynote address—delivered just a couple of days before a bitter subsurface contest resulted in his choice—was the most savagely outspoken criticism of the administration from a banking source since FDR took office.

The uneasy truce of the past year exploded at the very moment New Deal emissaries were extending tentative olive branches. Despite diplomatic denials by president Robert V. Fleming and others that the convention's action had any "political significance," it will be a case of no holds barred and no quarter given from here on.

Wall Street played a canny role in the political checker game that put Adams in the king row. His candidacy was openly promoted by smaller institutions outside the metropolis. The New Yorkers had no yen for E. G. Bennett—Marriner Eccles' man Friday who was officially designated for the post by the nominating committee—but indicated preference for a moderate easterner, certainly not pro-Roosevelt but not too obviously anti, as against the Utah firebrand. Nevertheless, when the showdown came they fell in line behind the "bush-league" insurgents without an argument.

REAL: This doesn't mean that
New York financial men unanimously approve the convention's overt belligerence. Some of them still feel it would have been wiser to have been more subtle. They are a bit leery about reprisals—which they expect but whose nature they cannot foresee.

One factor should not be overlooked. There is no further banking legislation in sight. That's the main reason the anti-New Dealers were emboldened to kick over the traces. But some far-sighted bankers point out that softening amendments to the Banking Act of 1933—which they hoped to engineer in a couple of years—will now be out of the question if Roosevelt is reelected.

Regardless of disagreements as to methods and personalities, there is a private feeling of satisfaction in financial circles that the A. B. A. did take a positive stand. One banker puts it: "For once in our history we quit pussyfooting and expressed our real sentiments. It's good to get repressions off your chest."

OFF: Exceptionally informed
New Yorkers prophesy that Frank Walker will get the Postmaster Generalship when Jim Farley quits to devote all his energies to the '36 campaign. They also figure that Walker will merely be keeping the seat warm for its present occupant and will step aside gracefully if and when genial Jim decides he wants to boss the mails again.

Talk of transferring Dan Roper to the Postoffice job has subsided.
Dan is needed where he is. He has learned the technique of patting business on the back and telling it not to worry. A newcomer unfamiliar with the ropes might botch that important chore.

On several occasions the grapevine has reported that Thomas J.
Watson of International Business Machines was slated to succeed Roper in the Commerce post. The latest dope is that this idea is all off—although it would have been a ten strike from the angle of regaining business confidence. Shrewd observers remark that perhaps Mr.
Watson's important customers objected to his giving the New Deal a hand.

RETIRING: Secretary Roper's
Business Advisory and Planning Council is scheduled to meet on December 4. The session is likely to be stormy.

After several months of meditation a number of the Council's more influential members have about decided it is futile to hope that the group can perform any useful function. Instead of endorsing them, the "breathing spell" policy has only convinced them the more that the administration wants the Council merely as a front for political purposes.

So wholesale resignations are likely unless Roper does an exceptional selling job in December.
Those who are planning to retire are "big names." They admit that the President can find other (and lesser) men to take their places if he chooses—but frankly believe that a Council so constituted would not command confidence in business circles because it would lack prestige and would not be representative of "true business leadership." The "lick Roosevelt" movement has many ramifications.

SORRY: New York sharps have a hunch that the steel companies are going to wish they hadn't brought up that little matter of a $21,000 order for German steel on the $62,000,000 Tri-Borough Bridge project before Secretary Ickes and the Federal Trade Commission get through with them.

The steel code has held up remarkably well since the NRA died —some people think altogether too well. The government isn't the only customer to complain about identical bids from several different manufacturers. It's known that the Trade Commission would love to hang somebody's scalp on its belt with an anti-trust prosecution —and the steel giants would make impressive trophies.

Mayor LaGuardia is also reported to be sorry already that he horn-ed in on the argument. New York has a large German population and insiders say it has been expressing disapproval of the Mayor's kibitzing in no uncertain terms.

SIDE LIGHTS: The 13th of November was a lucky day for stockholders. It produced the longest list of special, extra and increased dividends in many moons. . . .
Some New Deal sympathizers here were privately delighted with election results. . . . They might have been much worse.—Copyright Mc-Clure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Two things are certain... The thermometer is going down any night now... And Conoco Germ Processed Oil is not going down off your cylinder walls all night long!
NOR ALL WINTER LONG.

Never this winter need you risk dry, un-lubricated, ruinous warm-ups, caused by oil that loafs in the crankcase. Instead, the patented Conoco Germ Process puts your winter protection up on the job, all through the engine, before you ever toe the starter.

You can understand why... You know what a blotter does. The inside of your engine does something like that with Germ Processed Oil. This alloyed oil merges into the metal and stays... gives you the famous reserve Hidden Quart, that's actually been known to save many an engine with the crankcase all empty!

But you'll like your own proof best: 1st—dragless winter starts, easy on the battery. 2nd—an oil level that stays up and stays up. And 3rd—the summer-like feel of your engine, kept from rubbing its life away by the Hidden Quart PLUS the extra high film durability of Germ Processed Oil.

Particularly if your car has the newest type bearings, remember that road tests show Germ Processed Oil far ahead of straight mineral oils in keeping the wear out of any type of bearing—copper-lead, high-lead, cadmium-alloy, or conventional babbitt bearings.

High School Team To Close Season Here Next Friday

The Greenville High School will close its football season when it meets New Bern High School Friday in the Third Street Stadium.

Thus far, this year the Greensies have had hard luck. Their first game which was thought to be scheduled with West Edgecombe was called off and they opened their season with Morehead City. This game ended in a 0-0 tie. On the next game, the locals beat Kinston, 13-7. The game with Ayden was called off also.

Wilson, the first Class A team to be played this year, won over the Greensies by a large score. The Rocky Mount game was called off on account of the Mayor's death. Against Washington and Tarboro, they had plenty of bad breaks; Washington won by one point, and the Tarboro game ended in a 13-13 tie.

The game with New Bern will make only 6 games on schedule this year, 2 ties, 2 defeats, and they hope to make it 2 wins by a victory over New Bern. Quite a number of the Greensies will be playing their last game of their High School career. They are: L. G. Hamilton, guard, George Laureates, end, Harry Rountree, center, Pete Brewer, fullback; Berrie Elles, quarterback; Joseph Haden, end, and Louis Wilkerson, end. These boys have turned in a nice piece of work and deserve your attendance at this last game.

Duke And State, Twice Defeated, Fine Teams Yet

Durham, Nov. 20.—When Duke and State clash in their twelfth annual battle in Raleigh Saturday, it will be a meeting of two good teams.

It is interesting to note the fact that both have been defeated twice. With the exception of Duke's showing against Georgia Tech, the Blue Devils and the Wolves have both made good showings against the teams that defeated them. State ranked well with both Georgia and Carolina in statistics and were beaten by slight errors. Duke out-played Auburn in figures, making one mistake which cost them the ball game.

Since they started relations in 1924, Duke and State have offered great football games with the Wolves having a 6-5 edge in victories. State won the first four games, 14-0, 13-0, and 26-0, and 20-12, then Duke took three in a row, 14-12, 19-12, and 18-0. State won the next two, 14-0 and 6-0; with Duke getting the last pair, 7-0 and 32-0.

Blue Devil teams of 1927, 1931, and 1932 were victims of upset. The fine Duke shown of 1927 was rated as a favorite to cop the game that year but they were nosed out by two extra points after one of the greatest games ever seen in the state. That contest attracted 24,000 to Hanes field here.

Great Linesmen To See Action At State Saturday

Raleigh, Nov. 20.—North Carolina State has turned out some great lines and linemen since 1900, but the front wall Coach Hunk Anderson will send against Duke University here Saturday afternoon in Riddick Stadium is the best the school has had.

From end to end, Coach Anderson has developed a great array of stars. At the start of the season, Anderson expected to have his biggest worry with the line, but the impressive record the forwards have made shows just how well Anderson has handled his line work.

In eight games, State's opponents have gained a net total of 477 yards on ground plays for an average of little more than 59 yards a game, and have had only 230 passes for an average of little more than 28 yards a game. Furthermore, opponents have made only 46 first downs, including those made by running, passing and penalties.

No team in the Southern Conference can boast such a record. It will, however, be subjected to its most severe test Saturday against Duke. The Blue Devils have, perhaps, the best balanced team in the Southern Conference and will be favored to take State, but State's forwards will be at their best, and as Hunk Anderson says, will be in there fighting every second in hopes of scoring an upset.

SPORT SLANTS

Spanish way will hardly press the leading oney winners in turf history nor will the B. B. Stables stout-hearted old gelding win undying fame by scoring in famous stake races, but right now there is not a more popular player racing in this broad land.

Son consistent is Spanish Way that thousands of race-goers have dubbed him Old Honesty. Only two or three times in the past two seasons has he been out of the money. And this despite the fact that he goes to the post frequently. This season alone he has started more than 20 times. In 14 races Spanish Way was first under the wire.

One thing you can depend on is that the old patched-up gelding is always giving the very best that is in him.

"Old Honesty" Has Courage
When Spanish Way stepped up to try his racing luck in Yorktown

Crash Kills Singer

Handicap at Empire City late in October, it looked as though he was about to move out of the plater class. The gelding cut out the pace until the field came into the stretch and looked like a winner until Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Good Harvest, under a powerful ride by Sammy Renick, challenged. Spanish Way held on doggedly, but Good Harvest had a bit too much in reserve and managed to win by a head. The time, 1:51 4-5 for the mile and a furlong, indicated that there is plenty of speed left in the old boy yet.

Horses like Discovery, King Saxton, Sation, Below Zero, and Omaha undoubtedly possess more class than Old Honesty but the old trouper doesn't have to take a back seat for any thoroughbred where consistency and courage is concerned.

The most consistent winner of all American iron horses was Exterminator, another gelding. "Old Bones," as Exterminator was affectionately called, went to the post about 100 times and scored 50 victories. Kingston, too, was a most consistent winner whose record shows 89 victories in 138 races.

There were plenty of other war-horses which brought cheer to the form players of the past. Rascald scored 70 times in 130 starts while King Crab was first under the wire 85 times in 310 trips to the starting post.

Tintagel's Consistent
My Dandy was one of the sturdiest American thoroughbreds to race in recent years. In 170 races he scored 46 victories as well as 40 second and 23 thirds.

Display, Discovery's sire, was in the money 75 times in 103 races. Discovery, the 1935 handicap champion, inherits much of his sire's speed and staying power. The star of Alfred G. Vanderbilt's string has been in the money consistently this year in addition to the long string of victories he scored in rich stake races. Even when he was asked to carry back-breaking loads against lightly weighted fields, Discovery seldom failed to show courage and honesty.

Tintagel, winner of the Belmont Futurity and likely winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby, was seldom out of the money this year despite the fact that he had a "ailing" of easing up when nearing the finish. He showed the courage and speed of a real thoroughbred in the Belmont Futurity, however.

Flowers' Call Geny
Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—Flowers, and not football, will be the professional career of Willie Geny, Vanderbilt's captain and end.

After talking with several pro graders and coaches who highly recommended the game, Geny says now that he plans to enter his family's floral business here.

Like almost everything else the North Carolina Tar heels tried in their game with Duke at Durham, N. C., this end run by Don Jackson (arrow), Carolina halfback, ended in disaster. As was the case throughout the game, a whole covey of Blue Devils was right on top of him just about the time he got started. Don fumbled the ball and Alexander recovered for Duke. NEW PRISON FOR WOMEN

Location for New Division Not Yet Located

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Nov. 20.—The 130 or more women prisoners convicted of felonies who heretofore have been confined in the Central Prison here, will not be returned there, but will have a separate prison of their own. Chairman Capus M. Wayne of the State Highway and Public Works Commission said today.

While it has not yet been definitely determined where the new prison for women felons will be located, it is now known that the highway department has authority to set up a separate prison, since the Attorney General has ruled to that effect. Some months ago the women prisoners in the Central Prison here were removed to one of the Wake County prison camps so that the women's quarters in the prison could be fire-proofed and remodeled. They are still in this camp.

The fact that the morale of the women prisoners improved almost immediately when they were removed from the Central Prison to the prison camp, where they could get more sunshine and fresh air, and that they did more and better work, was largely responsible for originating the idea of a separate prison for women. At first it was feared that the law might stand in the way, since it specified that women felons must be confined "in the State Prison." But the Attorney General has held that the term "State Prison" may mean any unit in the state prison system.

Present indications are that the Camp Polk Prison Farm will probably be converted into the prison for women felons and that a new prison on this same farm, but several miles distant, will be built for the male prisoners needed to cultivate the farm. If this is done, the Camp Polk plant will probably be remodeled to provide individual cells for the women prisoners, so that they can be separated. The various prison industries in which the women are engaged, such as the clothing factory, the laundry, tailoring and shop and so forth, will also be moved to the new women's prison. The old women's wing of the Central Prison is now being remodeled to house additional male prisoners.

Seedlings Ready to Plant Areas of Eroded Forests

Six Million Seedlings in Nursery Operated by Forestry Division of Department of Conservation

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Nov. 20.—Approximately six million seedlings in the nursery operated by the forestry division of the department of conservation and development, are now ready for planting, according to J. S. Holmes, State Forester.

The Soil Conservation Service of the Federal Government will withdraw 1,500,000 of these seedlings to reforest huge areas of eroded land in the Piedmont section of the state in cooperation with landowners. Fifty thousand loblolly seedlings will be furnished the Duke Forest for experimental work conducted jointly by Duke University and the State Forestry Service. Other withdrawals will be made by the Agricultural Extension Service for distribution to county agents; for the North Carolina State College Forest, and for planting on areas that come under the supervision of the Department of Conservation and Development. All black walnut seedlings are to be distributed among the various 4-H clubs through out the state.

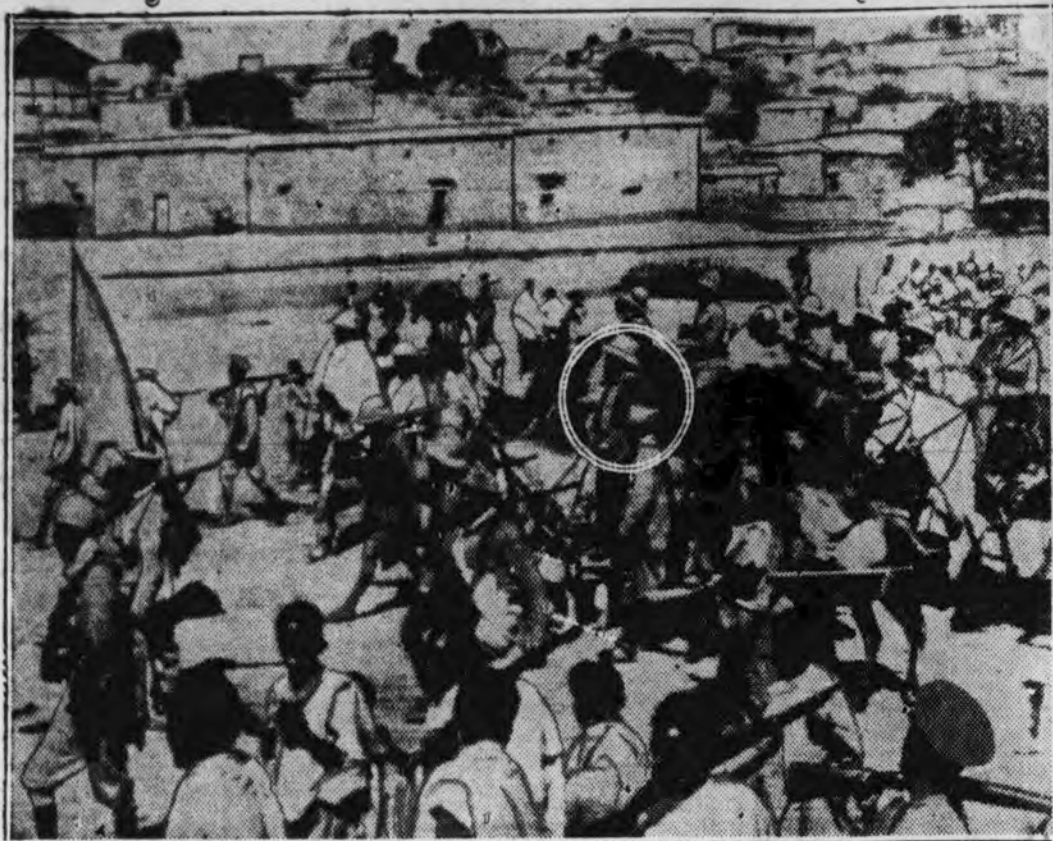

Although it is expected that additional plants will be taken by Federal agencies, such as the Reclamation Administration, the U. S. Forest Service and the Soil Conservation and Service, all of which cooperate with the State Forestry Service, there will remain approximately 3,000,000 seedlings for public purchase by private landowners. Many tobacco growers in North Carolina are now forced to buy wood with which to grow their tobacco crops. In a section at one time covered with an abundance of timber, landowners can expect nothing less than a further and more marked shortage to result. This lower yield is bound to affect the economic welfare of thousands of farm families living in the regions so denuded of growing forests. Foremost of the ill, he stated, will be the necessity of purchasing wood for the various farm purposes.

Since it takes the annual growth on three to six acres of forest land to cure each acre of tobacco, Mr. Holmes declared that for a ten acre crop the farmer should have at least thirty acres of thrifty, growing woodland for tobacco curing alone.

of Revenue, making the sixth such license revoked for drunken driving within the past ten days. The license revoked today was that of Leona Jefferson, Pinetown, Beaufort county. She was convicted of driving while drunk in the Recorder's court in Washington, N. C., county seat of Beaufort county. The Judge revoked her driver's license for a period of six months. But the Department of Revenue revoked it for one year, since the law makes it mandatory for the department to revoke a driver's license for one year upon conviction of drunken driving and regardless of the penalty imposed by the court.

New York Cotton

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, unchanged to three higher on Liverpool sales offered by liquidation. By the end of the first hour active months were 6 to 10 points net higher with December selling at 11.89 and May 11.59 or within 8 to 13 points of last week's highs. The advance extended to 11.90 for December and 11.60 for May, making net gains of 6 to 11 points on active months with near positions relatively firm on covering and trade buying. At midday the market was quiet, although prices held within a point or two on most positions. Futures closed steady 12 higher to 3 lower; spot steady; middling 12.35.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Heavy profit taking jolted the market in spots today but the list as a whole managed to hold its ground. The ticker tape was frequently pressed by the furious trading. Nearly 2,000,000 shares changed hands in the first two hours. Some brokers, bullish for the long end, said that they had their "fingers crossed" for the moment. It was also thought that the Federal Reserve and SEC might try to tone the brakes. The late tone was irregular. Sales approximated 3,700,000 shares.

Need for musicians for the German army led to establishment of that country's "First Public School for Military Music" at Bueckeburg.

The Grenadines are a chain of about 600 islets in the Windward Islands, West Indies. Cotton and cattle are the chief exports.
