REGAIN NATAL FROM REBELS

Bombs Are Dropped Over School of Aviation After Being Attacked by Rebels

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Loyal government troops forced the surrender of a rebel group of enlisted men at the aviation school here today then turned back for a charge against the third infantry regiment which had risen up against the government.

The rebellion which broke in northeast Brazil spread to the troops stationed in the Capital early today only a few hours before the government announced it had recaptured Natal, the capital of the state of Rio Grande do Norte, which rebels seized last Saturday.

A troop of sergeants and privates of battalion one stationed at Villa Militar in suburban Rio de Janeiro, attacked the aviation school early in the day.

Bombing planes immediately roared over the aviation school and dropped bombs. The school hangar caught fire. The punishment was enough and the rebels surrendered. The government aimed dominated the fresh rebel outbreak, but censorship was applied immediately.

Before the renewed outbreak dispatches said, civil corps of loyal vigilantes fought sedicious communist soldiers in the state of Rio Grande do Norte battling to put down the last remnant of the sanguinary northeast rebellion.

Capt. C. G. Bates Takes Over Duties of Salvation Army

Captain Galloway is Transferred to Special Work for North and South Carolina Division

Captain and Mrs. C. G. Bates have just recently taken charge of the work of The Salvation Army in Greenville. Captain Louise Galloway having been transferred to special work for the North and South Carolina division.

Captain Bates is a North Carolina man, his home being in Winston-Salem. A few years ago the Captain was in Greenville and assisted Captain Gunnar Mattson for a few months.

Captain Bates said today that he was well pleased with his appointment and feels sure that the work will advance this winter and many people will be contacted and assisted through the efforts of the organization.

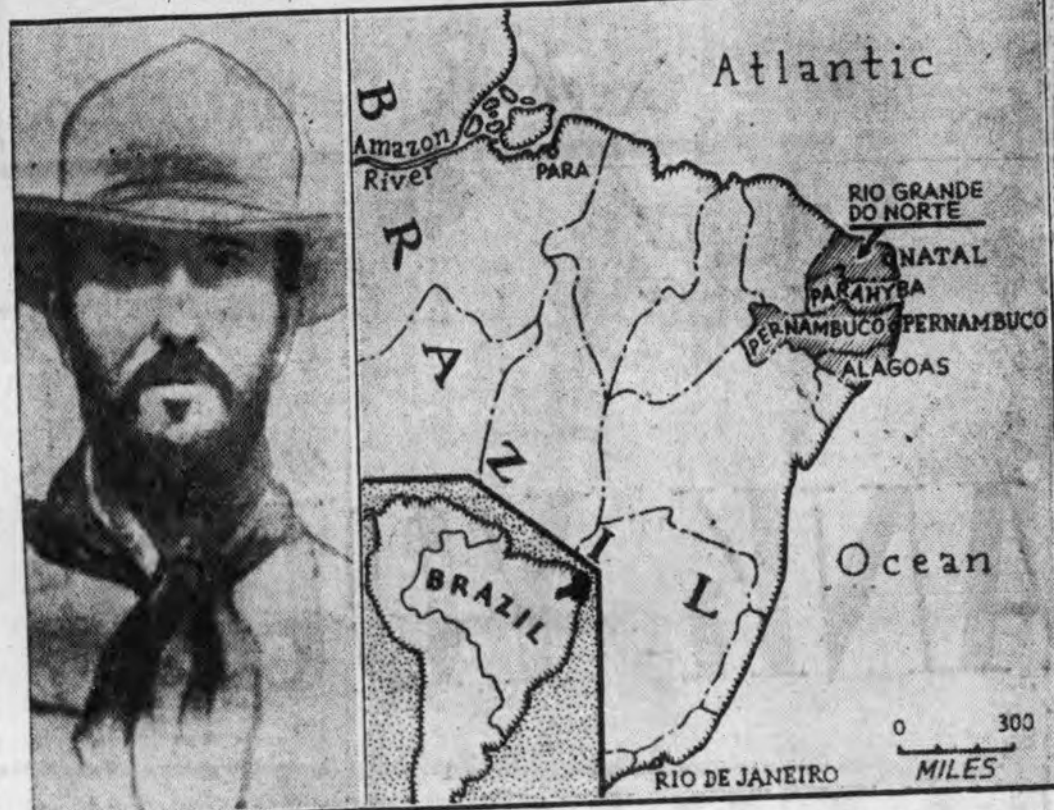

A special effort is being put forth this week by Major J. V. Breazeale of Rock Hill, S. C. and the local forces to secure funds for the needs of the Army in Pitt County. Two thousand and five hundred dollars is much needed to assist this cause.

Last year the people of Greenville responded to the appeal in a very satisfactory manner and Capt. Bates said the few contacts made this week gives him reason to believe that the full amount he is seeking for the Army will be contributed. Any person wishing to make a Thanksgiving offering should remember the Salvation Army.

Since the fund was raised last year many discouraged and deserving people have been assisted throughout this county, and the indications are that there will be greater demands upon local charity than ever this winter. The Federal Government is withdrawing as rapidly as possible from the field of direct relief and a generous response to the Army is more needed this year than at it has been in the past several years.

NEW FEARS IN AFRICAN WAR

Forceful Resistance
Might Be Expected
By Italy

(By Associated Press)

The eastern African conflict between Italy and Ethiopia engendered new European unrest today.

Sources close to the government of Premier Benito Mussolini said forceful resistance might be expected if the league of nations pressed for extension of sanctions against Italy.

Recalled were two statements as descriptive of the situation on the north side of the Mediterranean sea. One was that attributed to Mussolini only two days ago that the imposition of an oil embargo on Italy would "mean war." The other was that of Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, former United States Senator, who said six weeks ago after an interview with Il Duce, that Mussolini was convinced "England means war."

On the east African front, the Ethiopians reports denied in Rome—of victories on the southern front were followed today with a communiqué at Addis Ababa saying 1,000 Italians occupying Makale, on the northern front, retreated yesterday to Adigrat.

Italian advances were sharply contradictory. Ethiopians, they said, on the northern and southern fronts were putting up better but ineffective resistance to the fascist invaders.

As the general league of nations staff of experts assembled at Geneva to examine the general sanctions situation—the projected oil embargo against Italy—the British cabinet met to debate the question of including such an embargo in the penalties already assessed against Italy.

Observers commented that in this the British government faced what appeared to be one of the gravest decisions of the entire Italo-Ethiopian conflict. Authoritative sources said the question of cutting off oil shipments to Italy overshadowed all other developments presented for collective action and possibly provided a turning point in the career of the league of nations.

An Italian spokesman said the addition of oil and coal embargoes to the stern economic and financial penalties already applied would mean slow strangulation of the nation.

He added the longer Italy waited an attack by another European power, the weaker she would be at a critical moment; therefore it might be better to face a showdown while it still was fresh.

City, County and Business Firms to Cease Activities

CHURCHES HAVE SERVICES THURS.

Sportsmen to Take to Woods, Others To Football Games, and Some to Stay Home

The city of Greenville, along with the rest of the United States, prepared today for one of its chief holidays, Thanksgiving Day.

County and city offices, business establishments and practically the entire city populace will take a respite from their duties tomorrow to give thanks.

The annual Thanksgiving service of the Greenville churches, to be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Eighth Street Christian Church, is expected to attract one of the largest congregations of the year.

Rev. R. C. Grady, Jr., Presbyterian minister, will deliver the sermon.

The Thanksgiving service at St. Paul's Episcopal Church will be a celebration of the Holy Eucharist at 10 a. m.

The largest number of sportsmen of the year are expected to take to the woods in search of game. R. W. King, Pitt county warden, taking note of this, has called upon the hunters to exert extreme care in preventing forest fires.

At the close of business yesterday $9,832,376 pounds had been sold and brought a total of $12,619,646.06, for an average of $21.09.

FURTHER STEP ARE TALKED

Administration Officials Consider New Neutrality Moves

Washington, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Showered by a mixture of praise and criticism for the course they have taken on the Italian-Ethiopian conflict, high administration officials are considering a new step in the neutrality policy.

The move under study, it was indicated, is a system of quotas which would be clamped on exports of essential war materials, limiting the shipment of such things as oil, copper, scrap iron and steel to warring nations.

It is believed congress will be asked to provide such a system if the administration decides on it. The quotas probably would be designed to limit trade to belligerents to a normal volume.

At the same time, it is believed the administration seeks to avoid the extreme of cutting off all exports to fighting countries, a plan which Sen. Pope, (Idaho) will push in the next session of congress.

News Behind The News

WISDOM: The sure sign that President Roosevelt's ardent flirtation with Big Business represents a political rather than an economic policy is the fact that he has not yet been asked to do anything about it.

Twelve months ago such a word as "rightists" would have stirred a fluttering in the professional circles at Washington. There would have been some faint threats of resignation among the "brain trusters" on the official payroll. They would have knelt at the knees of their respective angels—Rex Tugwell and Felix Frankfurter—and asked if their New Deal para-

GOVERNOR MAY NAME BOARD LIQUOR STUDY

Executive Instructed By Legislature To Name Commission

MAY ACT WITHIN PRESENT WEEK

Generally Understood Governor Had Delayed Naming Board Until Court Ruled

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Nov. 27.—Governor Ehringhaus has indicated that he is in mood to name the commission to study liquor conditions in North Carolina and that he may have the names ready during the week.

The act creating the commission was the only state-wide measure that the general assembly of 1935 would pass. It killed two state control bills, one offered by Senator John Sprunt Hill of Durham, and Representative Nere Day, of Onslow. Failing to get a general bill Mr. Day tagged Onslow to the Pasquotank bill and the people voted for liquor stores. It has been pointed out that Governor Ehringhaus waited on the Supreme Court's decision, which never touched the constitutionality of these county acts, before moving toward the appointment of the commission.

Extreme doubt that there will be offered any test of the county acts is found anywhere. The counties which have the stores do not wish to stir up possible trouble for themselves and counties which do not have them are doubtful enough that the Supreme Court would declare the county acts unconstitutional. Only one county among the 17 which voted in the general assembly for liquor stores, has failed to hold an election. That unit is Franklin, and it is learned in Raleigh that Franklin expects to have an election as soon as there is official notice to the county that the Supreme Court has reversed Judge Clawson Williams in his restraining order which prevented Franklin's vote. The high court's decision meant that injunctive relief is not the remedy for the liquor situation. It was not alleged that any property rights were violated by the liquor stores and injunctions do not "lie" without such allegations.

The absolute uncertainty, therefore, of the legal status as to liquor stores, will hardly be cleared before a session of the general assembly can act upon these measures. Meanwhile, the liquor commission can be about its work of determining what has been the effect of the effort to control liquor sales by counties. Apparently there is more for the commission to study now than there was when it was created. The liquor stores add to its burdens. There are more issues involved now. There is no legal liquor involved then. North Carolina's dry habits could be contrasted with the wet customs of neighbor states. The impression was very general that both Virginia and South Carolina were behaving better than North Carolina was, and both had legal liquor. But since 17 counties now sell liquor (Continued on Page Six)

RESCUE MOVE CONSIDERED

Steps Preparatory to Possible Rescue of Ellsworth Taken

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Steps preparatory to a possible rescue for Lincoln Ellsworth and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon were in progress today aboard the base ship, the Wright Earp.

Ells and Hollick-Kenyon were last heard from at 10:48 a. m. (EST) Saturday while they were flying toward the Bay of Whales, former base of Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the Albatross.

Word of the rescue preparations was widespread in the New York Times and the North American newspaper Alliance as another day passed without word of the explorers' whereabouts.

"No word has been heard within the next day or so then it only remains to carry out the measures outlined by Mr. Ellsworth in a statement left at the West End in which the explorer outlined his program in the event of a forced landing and his inability to send communication," the message said.

SCOUT DRIVE SUCCESSFUL

More Than 3,000 Old Magazines Collected By Scouts

The Boy Scout Drive for magazines in Greenville was an overwhelming success, over 3,000 periodicals of the best type having been collected by the Boy Scouts of Greenville, for their Thanksgiving Good Turn, yesterday.

The magazines filled an entire room at the library. It was estimated more than 4,000 pounds of the periodicals were collected, and it was said that there remain other ones to gather.

K. T. Futrell, chairman of the Civic Service committee of the Boy Scouts expressed his appreciation to the citizens of Greenville, for their hearty cooperation with the Scouts in doing their Civic Good Turn, by collecting reading material for the various institutions of the county. The periodicals that were collected will be sorted and distributed through the supervision of the welfare office, and with the material on hand there will be enough to reach the rural schools, prison camp, old folks home, and many individual shut-ins.

The Scouts carried on the work in a real Scoutlike way. The town was divided by Troops and then the different Patrols took portions of the Troop district. Some of the boys did their collecting on bicycles some on ponies and some of the boys walked. They all knew how to sympathize with the mail carriers before the job was done.

Persons familiar with cases deserving these books may be of service by reporting this to the welfare office. Teachers desiring periodicals for use in class work will be welcome to a prison that will be granted upon request to the office.

Chinese Officials Waiver on Issue of Secession

PUBLIC IS TENSE OVER SITUATION

Railway Traffic Between Tientsin and Peiping Interrupted By Capture of Depot

Shanghai, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Japanese troops moved into north China by trainloads today while north Chinese leaders wavered on the issue of secession from the central nationalist government.

Troop trains carrying 3,000 Japanese soldiers and war equipment arrived at Tientsin from Chien-wangtao, port of Hopeh province, at Peiping, where the Japanese garrison was more than doubled in the last 24 hours. Col. Tan Takahashi, military attaché announced that the Seng Tai railway junction a few miles east of Peiping, had been seized.

Public nervousness over the increased military activities was intensified by news that the heavily laden troop trains were arriving at Tientsin.

Railway traffic between Tientsin and Peiping had been interrupted when a small detachment of Japanese troops from Tientsin swooped down on Sengtai and seized the depot.

The Japanese taking over a quantity of rolling stock and control of the Chinese military telephone service, first explained that the troops were only "holding excesses" and that the seizure of Sengtai depot was part of a military tactic.

Chinese forces, however, conjectured that the troops might be aimed at intimidating north China official into acceptance of the autonomy program and forestalling any Nanking efforts to suppress the campaign forcibly.

Major General Ishigaki, Japanese military attaché in Shanghai, in a communiqué issued today, had informed General Chen Yi, Nanking government official, that the Japanese army does not approve of Nanking's reported plans for alleviation of the north China crisis.

Lumpkin to increase the corporation franchise taxes and other indirect taxes, but that it eventually decided none of these plans were sound and workable, with the result that it finally retained the sales tax as the only means of raising the minimum amount of revenue needed for the states needs, two-thirds of which was needed for the support of the schools. For more than $20,000,000 a year of the present budget of about $30,500,000 goes for the support of the public schools and the general assembly decided that when it came to a question of removing the sales tax or of reducing the appropriation for the schools, that it preferred to keep the sales tax.

No one knows, of course, what the 1937 general assembly will do about either taxation or the schools. It is generally believed, however, that it will be asked to provide more revenue for the schools and other state activities than less revenue and it will be faced with the task of trying to get more money than less, regardless of who is elected Governor. Most of those here who have watched general assemblies come and go are also convinced that the 1937 assembly will follow in the footsteps of the 1935 assembly and retain the sales tax, either in whole or in part, before it will reduce the appropriation for schools and other state activities.

If it finds it cannot get enough additional revenue from other sources. Nor is it believed that the 1937 general assembly will dare to impose a state-wide property tax, after 15 years of freedom from that form of taxation.

An effort will undoubtedly be made to increase the corporation franchise taxes, the corporation income tax rate, exceeded only by the state of Oregon, or the combination franchise and income tax rate, exceeded only by Oregon. But even if all of these rates should be increased to equal the highest now levied in any state, it is not believed the yield would be enough to make up for the $10,000,000 a year brought in the sales tax.

THANK YOU, AMERICA,

for more than a Million cars in 1935

Once more, at this Thanksgiving season, Chevrolet wishes to express its hearty appreciation of the friendship which America has given to this company and its products in 1935 and throughout the past quarter-century.

This year Chevrolet has two very good reasons for saying, "Thank you, America."

One reason is that people have bought so many Chevrolet cars that production for the year will reach 1,040,000.

And the other reason is that they have placed a record number of orders for new 1936 Chevrolets during the first few weeks these beautiful new cars have been on display.

This is a double gift of friendship, representing, as it does, one of the biggest years in all Chevrolet history, and one of the most enthusiastic welcomes that any new automobile has ever received.

Chevrolet is indeed happy to say, "Thank you, America," and to pledge continued adherence to the manufacturing and service policies which have won and held this friendship.

State's Taxation System Seen As Campaign Issue

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, Nov. 25—North Carolina's taxation system is destined to become more of an issue than ever in the present campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor as a result of the new study of this system just completed and published by Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell, showing that the average property tax load per capita in North Carolina is less than in any of the other 48 states, while the corporation franchise and income taxes are among the highest in the United States, according to those who have read Maxwell's pamphlet comparing tax loads in North Carolina with taxes levied in other states.

While all Maxwell does in this comparative study of the state's tax structure as compared with other states is to present the facts and figures without drawing any conclusions, these facts and figures are going to have a great deal of bearing on the present gubernatorial campaign, most observers agree.

The study made by Commissioner Maxwell and just made public, does not deal with the sales tax at all, but is limited entirely to a study of property, franchise and income taxes. But by showing that North Carolina has the smallest per capita property tax of all the 48 states and that it ranks fourth from the top in corporation franchise taxes and second from the top in corporation income taxes, is regarded by most of the students of taxation here as indicating two things, as follows:

1. That the state cannot materially increase its corporation franchise, corporation income or combined corporation franchise and income much beyond their present high limits.

2. That if the state is to get any very great amount of net revenue, it will have to go back to a state-wide property tax, abandoned 14 years ago, when the 1921 general assembly abandoned all ad valorem taxation for state purposes.

These two conclusions inevitably lead to a third conclusion, which is that if the sales tax is to be removed and an equivalent amount of revenue derived from some other type of tax, that this new tax is much more likely to be a property tax than any material increase in the corporation income or corporation franchise taxes, it is maintained here. It is pointed out that the 1935 general assembly spent over four months here studying the various plans suggested by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald and W. L.

Play at College Hut

A most attractive play, "The Thankful Heart," was presented yesterday afternoon at the "Y" Hut by the Primary Club of the College, which is composed of the juniors and seniors majoring in primary education, and of which Miss DeLoree Smith is president.

In the play a little girl, Elsie, whose part was taken by Miss Catherine Wallace, is visited by the children of the "Spirit of Thanksgiving." Miss Frances Edgerton was the Spirit. Misses Margaret Peele, Pauline Hooker and Emma Avant Outterbridge represented the Greek, Roman and Hebrew maidens; Dolores James was Bob, the farmer's boy; Miss Louise Tuten, Mercy, a Puritan maid; and Tressie Auman, an Indian boy.

The program opened with "Harvest Home," sung by Martha Peele, and closed with all joining in the singing of the Thanksgiving song, "Over the River and Through the Wood."

Thanksgiving Recital

The musical organizations in the College combined with the piano department in presenting a very delightful Thanksgiving recital, which was given last night at 6:45 o'clock and lasted one hour. Two soloists contributed to the program also. Half of the program was made up of piano solos and the other half of the other features.

Miss Sara White Rhine, who has made quite a reputation as the College whistler, because of the flute-like quality of her tones, whistled "Narcissus." Jack Humphreys, whose baritone voice has been in demand for the student programs, sang two Irish songs, "Dura" and "Danny Boy."

The violin ensemble, under the direction of Miss Gorrell, with Clifton Crawford at the piano played two beautiful Brahms numbers, the Welsh Melody and a Valse.

The Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Kuykendall, sang with lovely tone and artistic finish, two numbers, "Auf Wiedersehn" and "Clouds."

The orchestra, with Miss Thomas as the conductor, and Miss Nola Walters at the piano, played the final numbers.

Miss Elizabeth Tolson opened the program with Chopin's "Polonaise." The other three pianists played numbers that were especially bright, light and delicate: Miss Grace Freeman, "Northern Lights," by Torjussen; Miss Persaline O'Brian, "A Sketch" by Dubois; and Miss Nola Walters, "Arabesque," by Debussy.

Poems To Be Published

The following article, which will be published in the December issue of the "Poetry Review," is by Mrs. Mary J. Jones, Secretary.

Beaver Dam Grange Meets

On Monday night, Nov. 25, the Beaver Dam Grange held a call meeting for the election of officers and other business matters.

Before the meeting the Grange gave an oyster stew for the members. The teachers from Arthur school were invited.

The officers for 1936 are as follows: Master, O. M. McLawhorn; secretary, Mary Jo Jones; lecturer, Mrs. E. M. Tyson; overseer, Lula Raspberry; assistant steward, Flanagan Tyson; lady assistant steward, Mrs. M. H. Smith; chaplain, Elbert Tyson, Jr.; steward, James Wilkerson; gate keeper, Fred Carraway; treasurer, P. S. Raspberry; Ceres, Mrs. Lizzie Willoughby; Pomona, Mrs. J. F. Young; Flora, Mrs. O. M.

be of interest to Greenville people

was taken in part from the Elizabeth City Daily Advance:

A group of poems entitled "Flameless," by Eva Berry Harris (Mrs. W. C. Harris) will appear soon in a new anthology, "Contemporary American Women Poets." More than a year has been spent in the preparation of this tremendous anthology; thousands of manuscripts and scores of books have been read in the editor's search for the finest poetry written by women in America today. No expense, time and labor have been spared to make this comprehensive volume worthy to be classed among the best of all time. Review copies will be sent to over two hundred publications in this country as well as in England and Canada. An extensive publicity and advertising campaign is being planned by the publishers and there is no question, according to them, that this unusual volume will command interest far and wide.

Only such work as will unquestionably command the best critical and aesthetic attention was selected for this anthology. It will contain works of the outstanding women poets of America, such as Edna St. Vincent Millay, Anna Hempstead Branch, Frances Frost, Lucia Trent, Margaret Widdemer, Mary Carolyn Davies, Grace Stone Coats, Miriam Allen de Ford, Josephine Janssen, Fanny Heaslip Lea, Louise Driscoll, Helen Welshimer, Grace Noll Crowell, Louise Bogan, Lola Ridge, Ruth Comfort Mitchell, Margaret E. Langster and others, which is proof of the book's high standard.

The publication of the book it is projected, will mean the presentation of many lesser known, but no less distinguished poets who deserve

attention and for whom inclusion in "Contemporary American Women Poets" will mean the beginning of a fine reputation.

Other poems by Mrs. Harris will appear at an early date in the Ad Astra publications and forthcoming volumes of the Gallatin Press that published three of her lyrics a year ago in "American Lyric Poetry." A member of the North Carolina Poetry Society and the Poetry Society of America, already Mrs. Harris' work has appeared in two anthologies and for two years and a half she has been an accepted contributor to the "North Carolina Poetry Review," "Literary America," "Poetry World," and other magazines. She expects to bring her verse into a volume next year which probably will be entitled "Picker of Berries."

BLACK-DRAUGHT HELPED SO MANY

At the first warning symptoms of constipation, take purely vegetable Black-Draught for the prompt relief so many say it brings them.

"I take Black-Draught for biliousness and constipation," writes Mrs. Helen M. Williams, of Waco, Texas. "Sometimes I have head-aches from this trouble or feel dull and sluggish, and I feel this way until I take Black-Draught and get the impurities out of my system, after which I feel worlds better."

The writer of the above statement has taken Black-Draught, when needed, since she was a child. "Black-Draught, to my mother, was a family medicine," said Mrs. Williams.

acted more important business than sending souvenir letters to Honolulu delegates on the first trans-Atlantic airmail flight.

Jim looked into reports that Sinclair radicals, Townsendsites and left-wing labor elements were rolling up enough strength to split off California, Oregon and Washington
from his beloved PDR. In a normal election these three states would be allotted to Roosevelt by GOP doctors. But next year even a phony third-party candidate might run strong if he swallowed political prescriptions compounded of production for use and pensions
for the aged.

These three states may elect the next President, as California did in 1916. The Republicans bank on 200 electoral votes in territory between the Atlantic Coast and the Mississippi River. They concede most of the farm states to the Democrats. But if they can pick up the 35 electoral votes beyond the Rockies they may have one of Hollywood's movie chances for the White House.

CHARTING: The government
brief upholding the AAA in the Supreme Court is a remarkable document. Though FDR may lose the case, his lawyers have framed a farm platform for 1936.

AAA lawyers admit that they profited from the sorrowful experience of NRA defenders before the court. Instead of relying solely on legal technicalities, they defy the court to strike down an experiment which has, so they claim, benefited agriculture, industry, Wall Street and the nation at large. The brief bulges with charts which set forth the decline in bank suspensions, the increase in farm prices, the industrial improvement and rise in land values supposed to have resulted from AAA.

It was Justice Brandeis who tipped them off to this strategy. Last year he informed government lawyers that the court knows the law
but would like to be enlightened on the economic results of New Deal experimentation. There is more enlightenment than law in the AAA brief.

PROPOSAL: "Home Sweet Home"
—A Fireside for Every Family—is the sentimental title of a handsomely upstuffed, gold-stamped program for housing expansion
submitted confidentially to President Roosevelt by the Committee for Economic Recovery. It fits in with the undercover scheme for reviving the lagging railroad and construction industries, though Mr.
Roosevelt may not accept its premises.

The home-sweet-homers proposed revolutionary changes. They suggest that Uncle Sam restrict building efforts to the low-cost field. They urge that FHA underwrite mortgages in the moderate-cost group, leaving construction of homes above $10,000 to private industry. They want mortgage interest cut to 4-1/2 per cent and all real estate fees sharply reduced.
They advocate construction of 750-000 homes annually for the next ten years.

Circulated mysteriously, the probably has caused terrific talk at Washington, for it is supposed to have the backing of Ray Moley, the original "brain trust."

PROMOTION: When fight promoters arrange a match between a champion and a second-rater, they stage a build-up for the underdog as to attract the customers. That's what the administration is doing for Dan Roper at the present time.

Washington has always regarded the Secretary of Commerce as an old-fashioned neck-tied politician.
It saw no reason why he should be included in the Roosevelt Cabinet.
It snickered at his awkward moves to make it appear that there were

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett has come down the sunny Palva river to Propionaire to see what he can do to hurry a shipment of needed equipment for the engineering job he and his father are supervising. The unstable native government is he suspects playing tricks with him. Drake of the National Coffee Company tries to help, but can do little. Terry is a tough youngster, who usually takes what he wants, when he wants it.

Chapter Two ADVENTURE

TERRY had been around. Nearing twenty-eight, he had before he was twenty encircled most of the globe.

He had seen native gangs sweat their hearts out to raise a railroad trestle in the Andes. His life he'd once entrusted to a battered Ford car, fleeing across a desert three jumps and a wheeze ahead of a yelling throng of marauding Riffs in Morocco.

He had witnessed the death of his father's best friend and one of the most able and undaunted engineers that ever battled the forces of Nature to a standstill, Sam Colton, knifed by a heat-and-drink-maddened peon in Mexico.

The crowd left him alone. After one or two had approached him, they realized the tall hard figure at the bar was there to drink and nothing else. Propionaire liquor helped to speed the time to his departure.

He felt like getting royally plattered, but that wouldn't be so good. Of course, it would be nice to fade into oblivion and wake up just before the Dutch steamer cleared for the capital—he wouldn't have to stand here and think how his father had looked when he left.

The scene stayed with him even yet—the tall man at the water's edge beside the launch arguing with him, ordering him to get action from the coffee company's head office in the capital, the sun rising behind that jungle world, his father's eyes—

Sure, Dad was the boss, but it had been hard to leave him there at that leaden river with the sulky Chalkis all around him.

Abruptly he had another drink. Speed up time, try to forget this inaction. Again he dallied with the idea of getting drunk. No, might get into a tangle with the police and end up being held incommunicado for three days like the time he and Bucky Corrigan had landed in jail after that All Saint's Day riot in Juarez.

Grand fight that. He wondered what had happened to Corrigan.

Terry Willett lounged at the bar.

And to begin with, as is most logical that he, like everything else, should have a beginning, he was born in China.

It had been Colton's death that shocked tight-mouthed, rangy Lawrence Willett into the man he had been before Vic Willett had smiled—and died, while a Chinese maidervant rose from her knees with a small bundle of humanity that its father could not see.

He became the maestro for his son—waving the baton of forgetfulness of a mass of auburn hair, a pair of fine grey-green eyes, a light laugh, by spurning an executive's chair and leaving behind him bridges, dams, and roads in all parts of the world, but never Memory.

How could he, when the boy who kept pace with him had Vic's red-dish-golden hair and her eyes?

And then—
Sam Colton had been sent back to the States for burial. The friend of both, a second father to Terry.

"Terry," Lawrence Willett said abruptly, "let's go home."

But it was too late. Terry had rolled a cigarette and stuck it between his thin lips.
"Home?" he said ironically, his lean tanned face darkening. "You can head for the States if you want to, Dad, but I'm going to stick around and see that the louse who knifed Sam gets all that's coming to him."

And he had. That had been five years ago.

THE "Coliseo" was crowded tonight. Terry Willett lounged at the bar and moodily surveyed his surroundings, a cigarette drooping from a corner of his mouth, one hand idly toying with a glass before him.

The place left him cold. The men there were a conglomeration of foreigners, natives, sailors, and tough rowdies from the engine rooms of the ships in the harbor, dancing, drinking, singing lustily, while a women orchestra played from a balcony overlooking the floor and scores of other women circled around among the tables, dodging away from grasping hands, smiling at insults.

and the White House. They were a conspicuous failure. But now "Uncle Dan" has come into his own. He is making conservative political promises to business and industry which Mr. Roosevelt dare not make on his own responsibility. Dan is blowing life into the "breathing spell."

But he needs a build-up. Instead of a delegate-collecting politician, he must be pictured as a distinguished economist. That's why Lambert Sinclair, ace publicist since Liberty Loan days, has been recalled to the capital to write Mr. Roper's speeches.

New York
By JAMES A. CLEIN

OVERBID: New Yorkers comment that Chairman Jim Landis of the Securities Exchange Commission "may be unfamiliar with the wiles of Wall Street—but he certainly knows his vegetables when it comes to public relations. Even conservatives (except for those in the utility industry) admit that he is a bull's eye with his apparent, just minute, interest. His aim is to let holding companies qualify their registrations as void
if the courts should hold that they had waived their constitutional rights by registering knocked out

as the only reasonable objection to registration.

It really wasn't as much of a concession as it looked. It merely re-stated the position Landis had already taken. But it leaves the holding groups which fail to register strictly on the defensive. It will be morally up to them to explain in terms of something besides legal technicalities why they could not see their way clear to comply with such an innocuous provision of the law.

Most of the larger groups are too deeply committed to a policy of non-registration to back down now.
But insiders say that some of them are uneasily wondering whether they haven't overbid their hand.

FINAL: John J. Pelley is under fire from his own constituents as head of the Association of American Railroads. A number of rail leaders are privately grumbling at his penchant for quarreling with Washington agencies. Lack of constructive achievement under his leadership is proclaimed.

The Association was planned primarily as an agency to represent all railroads in fostering better public relations and establishing useful legislative contacts. Pelley was chosen to run it largely because of his reputation as a diplomat. He hasn't lived up to it. A few months ago he was vehemently demanding that Railroad Coordinator Joe Eastman be fired and his job be abolished. Most rail men figure that Eastman is the one man connected with the administration who really understands their problems and is willing and able to help them. Just recently Pelley got in Dutch again by flaying the Interstate Commerce Commission's proposed investigation of the New Haven bankruptcy (Pelley used to be president of the New Haven) as "shocking" and "ridiculous." That view the present New Haven management seems conspicuously not to share. Members of the Association can't see how it profits them to have their spokesman calling the
I. C. C. names.

Nor was Pelley able to do anything about blocking Senate authorization of the Wheeler committee to investigate railroad finances or repassage of the rail pension act after the original measure had been thrown out by the courts. A New Yorker important in the rail world privately remarks: "Are we paying that bird $60,000 a year to get us in a worse jam than ever?" The Association is sponsoring and steering the legal test of the new rail pension law. Insiders understand its success or failure will be taken as a final measure of Pelley's usefulness. His five-year contract may complicate matters if they try to ease him out.

SENSATION: Betting is 7 to 3
in informed New York quarters that France will be off the gold standard before December 15—actually if not officially. Such a move has been rumored many times before—but experts cannot see how the Laval government can withstand the terrific internal pressure of deflation
any longer.

The best-posted sources also understand that Laval is on a much hotter spot than is realized outside of France as a result of the recent riot in Limoges where several deaths resulted from an encounter between the Croix de Feu and an-

This incident was minimized in foreign dispatches by the unobru-sive French censorship. But the leftist parties are plenty worked up and accuse Laval of secretly fostering the Fascist movement. They are trying to smoke him into taking a definite stand for or against the Croix de Feu. You can expect sensational news from France any day
now.

VIRTUE: Tammany is about to stage an exhibition of self-control.
The sudden death of Aldermanic
President Bernard Deutsch gives it dominance of the New York City Board of Estimate. Substantial patronage is in reach now and the Tiger is achingly hungry. But orders have come down the line not to grab. It wouldn't do to stir up voters' memories now when capture of the whole city administration is in sight.

No matter how it hurts, Tammany will continue to cultivate restraint, and the appearance of virtue. Tammany Comptroller Frank J. Taylor has given a remarkable exhibition of cooperation with a Fusion Mayor ever since he took office. The new President of the Board of Aldermen—Timothy Sullivan—will do the same. After all, the promised land isn't so far away.

FRUIT: Organizations connected with the liberal youth movement—
such as the American Youth Congress—were delighted with Fairfield Osborn's resignation as New York State Director of the National Youth Administration. It focussed attention on a point they have been trying to prove all along—that the whole project is a politically inspired and sterile device to kid young people into thinking that something is being done for them.
Already the resignation has a bourne fruit in one direction. Hitherto student workers have been paid nothing. N.Y.A. funds have been held up in Comptroller McCarl's

office. Since Osborn quit McCarl has released the first $10,000,000 to be paid out under the act.

MORE DELAY IN TANNER TRIAL

Judge Meekins Asked To Dismiss Liquidating Agents

Raleigh, Nov. 27.—Another delay in deciding the case of Mrs. Annie Tanner of Durham against the American Tobacco Company and others, in which complaint in the federal courts receivership is sought for the assets of the old First National Bank, is announced.

The Tanner case was heard on briefs, arguments and affidavits two weeks ago and yesterday Judge I. M. Meekins heard further debate. He has been asked to dismiss liquidating agents C. B. Sherman and W. K. Rand, who, allegations set forth, are stockholders in the Depositors National Bank which has succeeded by reorganization of the First National Bank. There is no attack on the new bank, but it has been made a party defendant in action which W. B. Guthrie deposes is brought in the interest of 1,500 depositors in the old First National.

At the first hearing before Judge Meekins he was asked to make an order that an auditor be named to ascertain the assets remaining in the hands of the liquidating trustees. The receiver of the First National was C. H. Dixon. He retired in 1933. Attorneys Guthrie and Guthrie declare that he handled the receivership in a highly satisfactory and efficient way. They ask the court to make an order giving the plaintiffs an opportunity to see what assets Mr. Dixon turned over the liquidating trustees.

Judge Meekins continued the case yesterday afternoon awaiting upon some agreement as to the facts. He will return here December 10, to make his decision. When he declared that Mr. Guthrie would not forfeit any right to go into the state courts to ask a receivership Mr. Guthrie said he preferred to remain in the federal courts.

The case has had tremendous interest in Durham where the old bank had so long and illustrious a career under General Julian S. Carr and later W. J. Holloway, presidents. Out of this wreck in 1933 came the new Depositors National which has had an even greater success. But there is quite a stir up now.

Boy Scout Troop Is Organized In West Greenville

A new Boy Scout Troop was organized for the boys of the West Greenville district last night at the West Greenville school. The Withlacooche Tribe No. 35 of the Order of Redmen, in Greenville is the sponsoring, or parent institution of this Troop.

The boys of the West Greenville School have been asking for the privilege of having a Boy Scout Troop for over a year and when this was brought to the attention of the Redmen they felt that it was an opportunity to do a real civil service and he Sachem of the Local Tribe, James A. Henson had it brought before the Tribe by one of the Scout leaders and it was voted on that night that the organization sponsor the Troop for the boys in the West Greenville area. The Tribe appointed as Troop Committee: J. Hicks Corey, Insurance man, as chairman, A. A. Ellwanger, Funeral home, L. S. Spence, Florest, and A. B. Corey, lawyer. Harry (Phoebe) Smith is the Scoutmaster and A. H. Windham is the Assistant Scoutmaster.

The first meeting was held last night at the West Greenville school auditorium at seven o'clock. The meeting was opened with the Scout Oath, Scout Sign, and Scout Salute. After a short business period Patrol instruction was given consisting of the teaching of elementary signaling, after this period the two temporary Patrols had their competitive games.

The 50's present last night were: John Joyner, Clarence Carawan, Floyd Williams, J. B. Morris, Henry Paul, Earl Bray, and Raymond Lee.

College Station, Raleigh, Nov. 27.—North Carolina State's Wolfpack will take its final practice of the season this afternoon and tonight at 9:05 will entrain for its trip to Washington where tomorrow it meets Catholic University in a Thanksgiving Day game.

TO SING SWAN SONG THANKSGIVING

Nine University of North Carolina football players will sing their swan song when the Tar Heels and Cavaliers clash at Chapel Hill on Thanksgiving Day at 2 o'clock in the annual Turkey Day classic.

All seniors and all lettermen, these nine men, who are pictured above, will be fighting their last gridiron battle for one of the greatest football teams ever to wear Carolina colors.

During their three years on the varsity each has carved quite a niche for himself. Six of the nine are regular first stringers, while the other three are reserves who have turned in fine performances.

Don Jackson has been the most illustrious of the group this season.

He has already been chosen on the All-South teams of Coach Harry Mehre of Georgia and of Harry Grayson of the NEA Service. Tom Evins made Grayson's third team, while Snyder, Montgomery, and Daniel received honorable mention. The game will mark the 40th meeting of the Tar Heels and Cavaliers.

ON PITT SCREEN!

Merle Oberon with Fredric March in "The Dark Angel" are at the Pitt Thursday and Friday.

Teachers' Season Close With Win Over Louisburg

Louisburg, Nov. 27.—East Carolina Teachers' College scored in the second and final periods Tuesday to defeat Louisburg College Trojans, 13-0.

Each touchdown came on the end of a 30-yard advance, with Gibson doing the scoring.

The visitors made the first scoring advance with ground plays, but in the second a pair of passes set the stage for Gibson to do his second scoring act via line plunges.

The Trojans will play again Thursday, meeting the independent Elizabeth City Cardinals at Elizabeth City.

Gibson and Cunningham shared honors in the E. C. T. C. backfield yesterday with Jordan pacing the linemen. Tuter was the backfield star for the Trojans, and Hawkins Chandler and Early led the line.

The visitors led in first downs, 11 to 3.

School Men Seek Source Behind A. B. Aldermans Race

Raleigh, Nov. 27.—Federal Judge I. M. Meekins isn't saying he is and he isn't saying he isn't considering the presidential proposals which have appeared in the papers recently.

The Judge was here yesterday and he will be here again next week on court matters. There is no hiding the fact that he is in the national eye. The recent declaration of Senator William E. Borah that he would veto the Wagner-Costigan federal anti-lynching bill, if elected President and the issue were submitted to him, fits finely into a scheme that would include Judge Meekins on the presidential ticket.

Williamston Plays Oxford Tomorrow

The third annual Thanksgiving Day game between Williamston and Oxford will be played on the former's gridiron tomorrow as the feature football game in this immediate section.

Oxford won the classic in 1933, but Williamston came back strong the following year and tied up the count. Much interest is being shown in the third and deciding for the present, tilt.

As a feature of the game, the Williamston concert band will give a concert at two o'clock, immediately preceding the game.

publicans is to get Southern Democrats interested in the old ways of government, state's rights, which have suffered a great slump during the Roosevelt regime. With two nominees thoroughly unacceptable to the N. A. A. C. P. the Republican party then go after the Southern who has remained outside the Republican party largely on account of the negro.

Should there develop strong sentiment for Judge Meekins the N. A. A. C. P. undoubtedly would go on the war-path for him and since the Democrats stand in 1936 to get that vote the advertising which Judge Meekins would receive by the association's abuse would be sufficient to nominate and elect him, many Republicans believe. The Judge is very popular with the Democrats whose help the conservative Republicans greatly need.

Headache

"Inside Facts" that may help you...

The first step toward relieving simple headache is to understand its cause. Pain is the cry of over-taxed nerves for rest. And when we realize that the nerves spread throughout every part of the body (see head diagram) we understand how serious a nervous disturbance can be.

In selecting a remedy for headache, periodic pains, and other nerve pain, use one that soothes the tense nerves. Capudine is ideally suited for simple headache, neuralgia, pain, rheumatic, or periodic pain because it relieves high nerve tension and brings welcome relaxation. No narcotics or opiates. Ask for Capudine Liquid or Capudine Brand Tablets.

lie U has the best team it has had in a long while.

The team has won seven of eight games this fall and last spring in a practice game with the Navy, beat the Academy, 47-0. The team also defeated Maryland in a practice game early in September.

According to Bob Warren, State's freshman coach who has scouted the Flying Cardinals in several games, the Cardinals compose the best team he has seen this season. "They have two unusually fine backs in Maurice Carroll and Williams Adamatis, 180 pound half-backs," Warren says.

State's fine backs, led by Howard Bards, Cowboy Robinson, Eddie Berlinski, and "Jumping Joe" Ryneska, will attempt to out play these two youngsters tomorrow and if they do they will have to play as brilliantly as they did Saturday against Duke. Bards will seek in particular to maintain his record of not having been out-kicked this season. He also will show the Washington players how to block as he is one of the hardest blockers in the Southern Conference.

Catholic U's power does not end in the backfield as it has the largest and perhaps the most powerful line to face State this year. It is paced by Captain Ed Karpowich, 21 pound tackle. Against him State will offer its star tackle, Vince Farrar. Farrar will be assisted by such brilliant State linemen as Steve Sobol, center Captain Barnes Worth, guard, and Mac Carr, end.

there is an opportunity to contrast dry ways in North Carolina with wet ways. The disagreement is as violent as it ever was. But greatly increased drunkenness is charged by the dries who have the highway killings, the revocation of drivers' licenses for drunkenness, and the police court records to offer in support of their belief that control hasn't been trolled. The commission which goes into that study can learn whether the greater number of arrests for drunkenness means more debauchery or greater official vigilance. There is a pretty general agreement that the officers in the wet areas are making arrests.

nis football classic slated this year for Chapel Hill, a large number of Greenville people are making plans to take in the game. Others are planning to go to Wake Forest to see the smaller members of the Big Five, Davidson and Wake Forest. Still others plan to take in high school football games including the annual tilt between Williamson and Oxford on the former's gridiron. T. V. Walker and R. E. Corbett, local theatre managers, have announced they have made plans to take care of the largest crowds of the year. Thanksgiving is considered the biggest day of the year for theatres here. The Pitt Theatre has booked "The Dark Angel" with Frederic March, Merle Oberon and Herbert Marshall. The State has scheduled "The Great Lester and His Mystic Maidens," a stage show and on the screen will be shown William Haines in "The Marines Are Coming."

While perhaps the greatest number of citizens will engage in some form of activity during the day, there are hundreds who will remain at the firesides with their families, spending the day of rest from the hustle and bustle of the week's activities. Too many will leave the city to visit friends and relatives, and many out-of-the-city visitors will come here to spend the holiday. Normal work will be resumed on Friday. However, there are many who will continue enjoying the holiday throughout the week-end. The county and city schools and East Carolina Teachers College will cease classes until Monday.

Fewer But Fatter Turkeys This Year Awaiting Descent Of Thanksgiving Ax

WASHINGTON (AP).—Thanksgiving Day's ancient concomitant—the turkey—is fatter, for the annual national sacrifice, than last year, but his numbers are sharply smaller.

Government estimates put turkey production for this year at about 15,000,000, against 17,250,000 for last year and 18,740,000 for 1933. Notwithstanding these melancholy statistics, the agriculture department offers encouragement that there'll be enough of both white and dark meat to go around. Namely, that gobblers and hens waiting for the 1935 ax, average considerably heavier than they did last year. The reason is that in 1934 the drought, with its shortage of feeds, compelled farmers to market some pretty skinny specimens, neither so mature nor so rounded as might have been wished.

Where Production Slipped The sharpest production decrease this year was reported for the leading producing area, the south central states, where numbers are down, says the department, about 23 per cent, due principally to a short crop in Texas. In the east north central states the reduction is put at 9 per cent; in the west north central states at 14 per cent; in the far western states about 5 per cent. The north Atlantic division about held its own; and only the south Atlantic division stands out with an increase, and that is little enough—about 2 per cent. The two biggest producing states, Texas and North Dakota, are estimated to be 33 per cent below last year in turkey turnout.

Long-time records indicate some 80 per cent of all Uncle Sam's turkeys are raised west of the Mississippi river—a long way from their earliest home in New England, a home made precarious by the blunders of the early settlers seeking Thanksgiving fare two centuries ago. Today this formerly wild bird is raised in some sections on a gigantic scale, some western farms having flocks numbering more than 5,000. The south central states lead all the rest in production, followed closely by the far western and west north central areas.

Prices Higher. Government officials decline to make estimates as to percentage production by sections, but OFFICIAL computations from unofficial figures for the south central area show 28 per cent of all production, about 26 per cent apiece to the far west and north central sections, and the other 20 per cent well scattered over the country. Along with the relative shortage this year in supply, came higher prices. Farm prices for turkeys, the latest available, were about 16 cents a pound, against 127 about 16 cents a pound, in 1934. Not only at the same time in 1934, but even chickens—the usual Thanksgiving substitute in many a family—were plentiful. Marketings have been unusually low.

Maxwell's Debate Seen As Aiding Anti-McDonalds

Raleigh, Nov. 27.—Revenue Commissioner Allen J. Maxwell's debate with Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor pleases the anti-McDonaldites who perceive in the commissioner the iron writing man who will make reply every time he is prodded. The candidacy of Dr. McDonald has not been taken so seriously in hereabouts as it deserves to be, in the opinion of many observers, whose appraisal of the McDonald whose appraisal of the McDonald whose appraisal of the McDonald...

Mr. McDonald's experience in the general assembly works both ways. In estimating tax yields he has the advantage of what he saw in the assembly, but he is embarrassed by having to confess that he could not impress his views upon his co-workers. Revenue Commissioner Maxwell bandies statistics with the best of them and Dr. McDonald, the psychologist, will have a hard time beating the Maxwell figures. So long as he is minded to write Mr. Maxwell will be encouraged to use his pen. He is near enough in authority to give dignity to the argument and it is certain that whatever Mr. Maxwell's powers as com-

Government experts estimate the turkey crop this year at 15,000,000, far under the number raised last year and the year before. The reduction, however, has a brighter side for the gobblers and their flocks will be much fatter. Agriculture department officials decline to estimate the crop by sections but unofficial estimates indicate that the 28 per cent of the turkeys are raised in the south central states; 26 per cent in the north central; 26 per cent in the western and 20 per cent east of the Mississippi.
