ITALY STANDS READY ATTACK BRITISH FLEET

Threat Seen If Sanctions Are Applied Against Italy

CRITICAL TURN
ECONOMIC WAR

Some Sources Predict
Even Another World
War If Oil Is Cut Off
From Italy

(By Associated Press)

Italy stands ready to attack the British Mediterranean fleet if an international oil embargo is declared against her, unofficial but responsible quarters in Rome said today.

The most critical turn in European affairs hinges on the Italo-Ethiopian conflict in East Africa since the start of Premier Mussolini's campaign of occupation found Great Britain, mainstay of the anti-fascist movement, adamant in a determination to force the embargo.

These sources predicted stiff resistance, perhaps another world war, should Italy be cut off from oil supplies by joint action of the nations subscribing to the league sanctions.

As word of this development issued from Rome, Premier Laval destroyed Mussolini's hopes for further postponement of league action on an oil embargo, informed sources said, by advising Cerruti that if the Italian dictator does anything "desperate" in the Mediterranean, France will stand unreservedly behind Britain.

France, ever hopeful of peace on the situation, saw possible production of new efforts to end the conflict.

From the war front in Africa (British) news agency quoted Ethiopian officials in Harar as saying their troops had recaptured Walwal, close to Italian Somali-land and scene of one of the border incidents which precipitated the conflict.

The Addis Ababa government confirmed dispatches to Rome saying Italian bombing squadrons had wrought destruction Dagah Bur, important fortress between Italy's southern armies and their major objective, Jijiga and Harar. An off Ethiopian communiqué added the bombers killed many women and children but no soldiers.

Increasing Pace In Retail Trade Report Reveals

Dunn and Bradstreet Says Business Extending Rather Abrupt in Some Branches of Trade

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—An increasing rapid pace in retail trade this week was reported today by Dunn and Bradstreet's weekly trade review.

Extending rather abruptly in some branches, the advantage trend of the week concerning retail distribution has the advantage of a widening call for winter merchants and the auspicious start of holiday gift buying," it was stated.

"The release of Christmas savings funds, now under way, has increased the interest in this division with purchasing already sufficiently heavy to bring substantial reorders in wholesales.

"The sustained increase in industrial activity has spread more confidence in coming developments.

"The upward trend in industrial activities started in September, continued unbroken this week, but increases from the level of the period immediately preceding were not significant."

China Clipper Lands In Manila Bay After Flight

First Load of Air Mail Ever to Cross Pacific Ocean Landed in Philippine Islands
on Schedule by Captain Musick

Manila, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The China Clipper swept to a landing on Manila Bay today, completing an 8,000 mile flight with the first load of air mail ever carried across the Pacific ocean.

While thousands of persons lining the shore and scores of boats in the harbor set up a din, the 25-ton transport circled the city a dozen times accompanied by army and navy planes and then settled down and taxied up to the landing float.

She landed at 3:30 p. m. (2:31 a. m., Friday EST) ending an epoch-making flight from Alameda, Calif., from which she took off a week ago.

On a rooftop nearby were Manuel Quezon, newly inaugurated president of the Philippine commonwealth, and Frank Murphy, United States high commissioner.

Amid the confusion a government mail boat pulled up beside the clipper, removing 1,400 pounds of air mail which was rushed to the Manila post office for delivery.

One letter from President Franklin D. Roosevelt to President Quezon, was brought ashore by Captain Musick for personal delivery to the Filipino leader.

Total flying time for the trip was 60 hours and four minutes, just four minutes over the time specified in the Pan-American Airways air mail charter.

Captain Musick had the clipper over Manila in plenty of time to put her down within the scheduled period. He had planned to land exactly on the minute, but the sudden appearance of numerous small craft on the bay caused him to act cautiously.

MOTHER HELD SHOOTING SON

Son of Prominent
Wall Street Man
Seriously Hurt

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 29.—(AP)—Jesse Livermore, Jr., 15, son of the famous Wall Street operator, was probably fatally wounded early today. Under-Sheriff Jack Ross said Livermore's mother fired the shot.

The mother was the divorced wife of Livermore, having married him in 1917. They were divorced in 1932. She later married J. Walker Walter Longcope and was divorced from him last year.

Ross said Livermore and his mother had been drinking. Mrs. Livermore was placed under arrest at the hospital with a guard at her bedside. She is still too intoxicated to talk. From what I learned in talking to her, the mother and her son became deranged in an argument over his drinking.

"Mrs. Livermore told the boy she would rather see him dead than to drink to excess. The boy then went to a closet, got a 22 rifle, handing it to her saying 'Well, here you are.' Mrs. Livermore took the rifle and fired."

The bullet entered the boy's chest. His condition is critical and it is doubtful if he will recover.

Final Services Held For Mrs. Vainwright

Mrs. Quennie Vainwright, 52, died at her home near the cotton mill Thursday afternoon at 5:05 o'clock, following a lengthy illness.

She was twice married, the first marriage to Richard Anderson of this county who died 15 years ago. She later married Alfred Vainwright, who died five years ago. Funeral services were conducted from the home this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by Rev. M. A. Woodward of Winterville. Interment was made in the Cannon graveyard near Winterville.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Atlas Coley, James Quennie Anderson, Lee, and Miss Anderson, all of Greenville; Mrs. Ened Brock of Goldsboro; John Anderson of Smithfield; Richard Anderson, Weldon; Tobie Anderson, Ayden; six brothers, Marcel, Sam, Ed, Amos, John and Will Stacey; three sisters, Mrs. John Cullifer, Mrs. Haywood Dail, Mrs. J. Shot And Beaten Girl's Body Found After Long Search

Deputy Sheriff Says Bullet Taken
From Body Similar to Those Fired
From Husband's Pistol

Twin Falls, Idaho, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The shot and beaten body of Mildred Hook, 22, sought since she was abducted last Saturday by Douglas Van Black, her former husband, was found in a railroad culvert near Berger, Idaho, today.

Deputy Sheriff Oris Cryder said a bullet which was taken from the Tacoma, Wash., girl's head, was similar to those fired from a pistol owned by Van Black who is held here on charges of murder in connection with the slaying of State Highway Patrolman Fontaine Cooper. Her head had been crushed by rocks.

REV. W. A. RYAN HEADS SERVICE

City Churches Unite
in Joint Thanksgiving
Services

At the Eighth Street Christian Church yesterday morning the annual Thanksgiving service, participated in by the various churches of the community, was conducted by the Rev. Wm. A. Ryan. Offering was received for the orphanages.

The Rev. Robert C. Grady, minister of the local Presbyterian church, delivered the sermon, basing his thoughts on the text, "Pick up the pieces that are left so that nothing may be wasted." Declaring that "we lull ourselves into a false sense of gratitude when we, as middle-classes and church people, pretend to have 'things' for which to be thankful while around us are hundreds — yes, millions, homeless, shivering, unwanted, uncared for," Mr. Grady held that though "Thanksgiving baskets may be a fine Christian gesture a just economic order would be a much more effective and Christian sacrifice to offer the Lord in behalf of His creation. To help a family one day a year and then leave that family to the mercy of an oppressive, unfair social system 364 days of the year — without our exercising our citizenship about the matter — is but pure social insanity!"

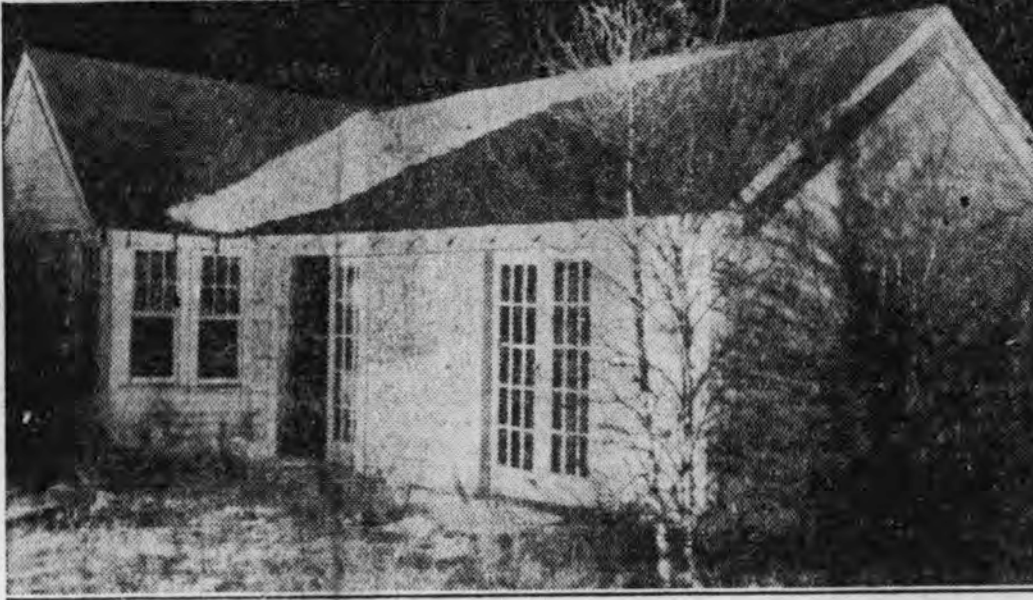

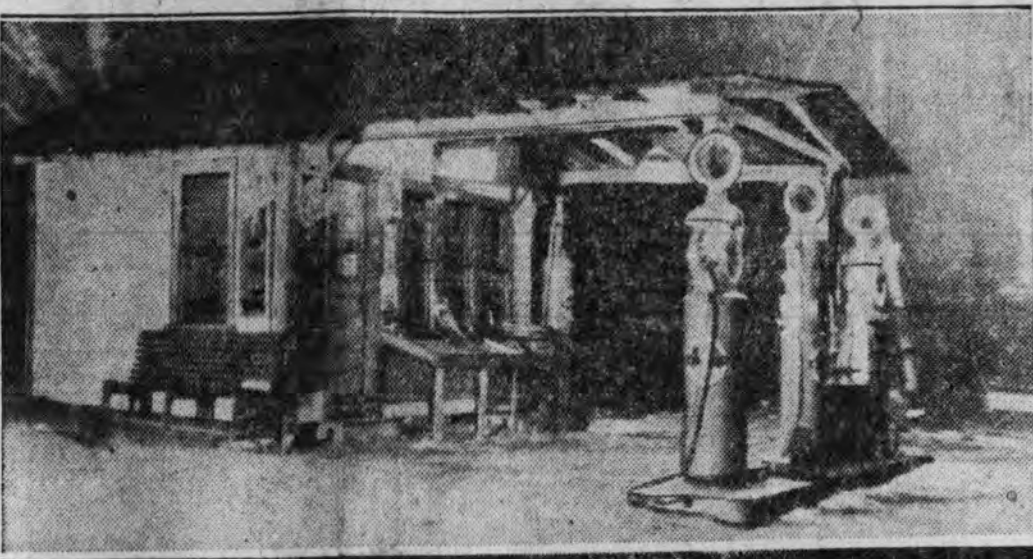

"In the first place," said the minister, "consider the spectacle of our current life — and see its thanklessness. Here we take a perspective in pessimism. Materially, we gain our panorama from the more costly-than-war in terms of human lives automobile smash-ups to the every-day smash-ups in terms of human personalities under conflicting and competing systems of life. Abroad — to the west, the east — we see the spectacle of the sorry bandaging of unemployment and a false prosperity under the physician's remedy of huge tax-supported armament programs."

Mr. Grady pointed out that "in our own country, mounting prosperity charts, business indexes of increased production, rises in prices and land values are but poor and false indications of recovery and progress so long as the basic human problem of unemployment and near-starvation remains for millions of our fellow-citizens."

Reviewing the realms of the intellectual, moral and spiritual, the minister pointed out the still further havoc loose in these fields. "Burning of Jewish masterpieces in Germany and suppression of peace propaganda in Japan is but balanced by the recent ruling of Comptroller General McCall declaring that all teachers in our nation's capital must sign a declaration that they have not taught or advocated communism or else they will find their pay checks missing. 'Morally,' free experimentation is the rage. 'Spiritually,' the minister said, 'the forces of evil pretty solidly lined up on one side. The forces of good pathetically divided on the other side — each interested in perpetuating its own denominational prestige with but a half-hearted and misdirected yearning to do something for another's soul!'"

"But, in the second place, perhaps we can turn to certain favorable things which are faintly emerging — certain 'pieces that are left.' 'Here, of course, we must take the long look and see cause for thanksgiving, not sin in any immediate present, but for future generations to come. If we had no other cause for thanksgiving that just this, this would be amply sufficient: gratitude that we do live in such an urgent, disturbing, challenging age! Reverting to the four fields of thought mentioned in 'the spectacle of our current life,' Mr. Grady held that, economically, there was emerging 'a clearer sense of the need of individual responsibility, recognition' (Continued on Page Six)

NEW EVIDENCE REPORTED IN HAUPTMANN CASE

Evidence which investigators believe may assist Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted kidnaper of the Lindbergh baby, was reported found in Massachusetts. The Boston Globe says Otis Wilbur's filling station (top), near Ashby, is headquarters for the investigators. Below is a bungalow in the woods near Ashby in which they claim to have discovered wood identical to that of the kidnap ladder, handwriting similar to the ransom notes, and bills which may be part of the ransom money. STILLS FOUND BY DEPUTIES

Officers Capture Two Men At Belvoir
Distillery

Expressing a determination to break up the illicit liquor ring in Belvoir township, Deputies Sheriff C. P. Pierce and J. H. Harris today reported they had captured two more stills in the vicinity.

Two men, William Edmondson, white, and Levy Jones, negro, were arrested by the raiding officers. About 500 gallons of mash were destroyed and 10 gallons of whiskey confiscated by the officers in their raids.

Both men were taken at one still. The other distillery was not in operation when the officers raided it. The two were brought to jail here. It was said at the sheriff's office that the Belvoir section is one of the worst in the county for stills and a campaign has been waged against the illicit business for some time, several stills having been destroyed by officers.

News Behind The News

Washington
By RAY TUCKER

WEASLING: Doctor Townsend deals out political pep and paper in an office only two blocks down the street from GOP Chairman Henry Fletcher. One of these days the white-haired medico from California is going to pay a surprise call on the silver-haired politician from Pennsylvania.

The Townsends are anxious to learn what the GOP means to do about their disciple in Michigan, who spread-eagled a field of five candidates for a House nomination to win in an elderly walk. Mr. Fletcher has been huddling with his aides ever since the event but they get-togethers have produced only inner groans. Privately GHQ wants to support the Townsend founding, hoping to curry favor with the sexagenarian vote, but publicly they don't care to be led up with the movement.

Chairman Farley isn't chortling over Friend Henry's predicament, for Jim knows his turn to Townsend or not to Townsend will come soon. Insiders in both camps are scheming to weasel-word a 1936 plank that will please the $200-a-monthers without promising them a nickel. They have sent out a hurried call for the grammarians who framed the wet-dry planks from 1920 to 1930.

Wet Roads, Poor Visibility
Because Of
Rains and Heavy
Traffic Big Cause

A number of wrecks near Greenville over the holiday did much property damage and injured several persons slightly, but did not cause any serious injuries.

Probably the worst of the several accidents, caused chiefly by wet roads and poor vision because of rains, was one near Sunset Inn filling station, on the Farmville highway.

A car driven by M. J. Moye, en route with his family from Farmville to Williamston, was knocked from the highway by one driven by Carroll Modlin when the Modlin car ran off the road and swerved across the highway when it came upon the wreck. Another car, driven by a son of Henry Jones, swung across the road when it came upon the wreck. A fourth car, driven by George Brown hit the Jones car and knocked a woman occupant from the rear seat to the pavement. The jolt knocked the back door open and the woman fell from the rear seat. She was only slightly injured, however.

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst said the wrecks had been cleared from the highway, the Brown car having been parked on the shoulder of the road, when Elmore Edwards driving a truck belonging to Noah Williams ran into the Brown car and knocked it about 30 yards, en-

JAPS ACCUSED OF NEW MOVE

Chinese Officials Blame Japan For Autonomy Move

(By Associated Press)

A direct accusation that the Japanese army was in a large measure responsible for the north China autonomy movement was made today by the Chinese government.

Japan was reported at the same time to have made evasive answers to queries by representatives of the western nations — notably Great Britain — as to Japan's future plans in North China.

The Nanking government in a sharp note of protest said the movement for separation of North China from the central government was planned "by disgruntled elements acting in connivance with Japanese military officers," and asked the Tokyo government to halt such action of its army men.

Nanking also proposed to settle North China troubles by diplomatic action and in another note requested the Japanese to complete withdrawal from the important railway junction, Sengtai, which they seized early Wednesday.

In replying to foreign diplomatic queries, Japanese officials, it was learned, have denied responsibility for the separatist movement which they called "a China affair." At the same time a foreign office spokesman said that attempts to move Nanking troops northward to break up the autonomy movement will not be tolerated by Japan.

JAPANESE GOVERNMENT DENIES RESPONSIBILITY

London, Nov. 29.—(AP)—The Japanese government officially advised the British government tonight that it refused to accept responsibility for the developments in North China.

Authoritative sources said this viewpoint was advanced to A. F. H. Wiggin, the British charge d'affaires in a talk he had yesterday with the vice minister of the Japanese foreign office.

It was said that the vice minister declared Japan considered the move on the autonomy for North China to be entirely Chinese in character and wholly spontaneous.

The vice minister added Japan has an interest and was watching developments in China.

Dixie's Largest Crowd Hears Roosevelt In Atlanta

GOV. TALMADGE
IS NOT PRESENT

Chief Executive Reviews
Accomplishments of Administration

Atlanta, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Before perhaps the greatest gathering in Dixie, President Roosevelt today assured the nation of a decreasing deficit and reviewed his administration in comparison with "those fools paradise years before the crash came."

Mr. Roosevelt announced substantial achievements of the government to put 3,500,000 employables to work from the relief rolls by tomorrow.

In a lengthy speech which reviewed his administration in detail on the eve of the national campaign he concluded:

"As things stand today and in the light of a definite and continued economic improvement we have passed the peak of appropriating revenue without the imposition of new taxes and we can look forward with assurance to a decreasing deficit."

Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, a critic of the national administration, was not in attendance as thousands gathered for the president's "homecoming celebration." The government at his farm in Telfair county announced through a secretary that he was "hunting and farming—hunting for something to plant that doesn't have a processing tax on it."

The president was interrupted frequently by cheers. His reference to the increase in the price of cotton from about five cents to 17 cents a pound drew prolonged applause.

The president said, "The credit of the government is today higher than that of any other great nation."

Later in his speech there were cries "where is Gene?" but the president only smiled and continued on his address.

He said today "the total of all debts in the U. S. is lower than it was" less than three years ago and that on the "other side of the picture you and I know that the value of property of all kinds — farms, houses, automobiles, securities and every other kind of property has increased so greatly since 1933 that today we are once more in the black. We were insolvent; today we are solvent."

The crowd cheered and the president departed from his prepared speech and added:

"And we are going to stay solvent."

Lillington Man Is Retained in Jail Pending Inquest

W. W. Mason Jailed Awaiting Hearing
Into Death Wednesday Night
of His Wife

Lillington, Nov. 29.—(AP)—W. W. Mason, 52, storekeeper of Pineview, was held in jail here today awaiting a coroner's inquest Sunday into the death Wednesday night of his 34-year-old wife, who died of gunshot wounds.

Mason told officers two unidentified bandits held him up and killed his wife as she attempted to come to his aid. He said the bandits slugged him into unconsciousness and escaped with $14. Mrs. Mason was shot three times through the breast, abdomen and back.

Mason was held upon orders of Sheriff W. E. Salmon and Coroner J. S. McLean, after they had questioned the husband and inspected the scene of the woman's death. Mason told them lacerations on his head were caused by the bandits when they beat him with a gun butt.

EIGHT SCHOOLS REPRESENTED ON ALL-SOUTHERN CONFERENCE FOOTBALL TEAM

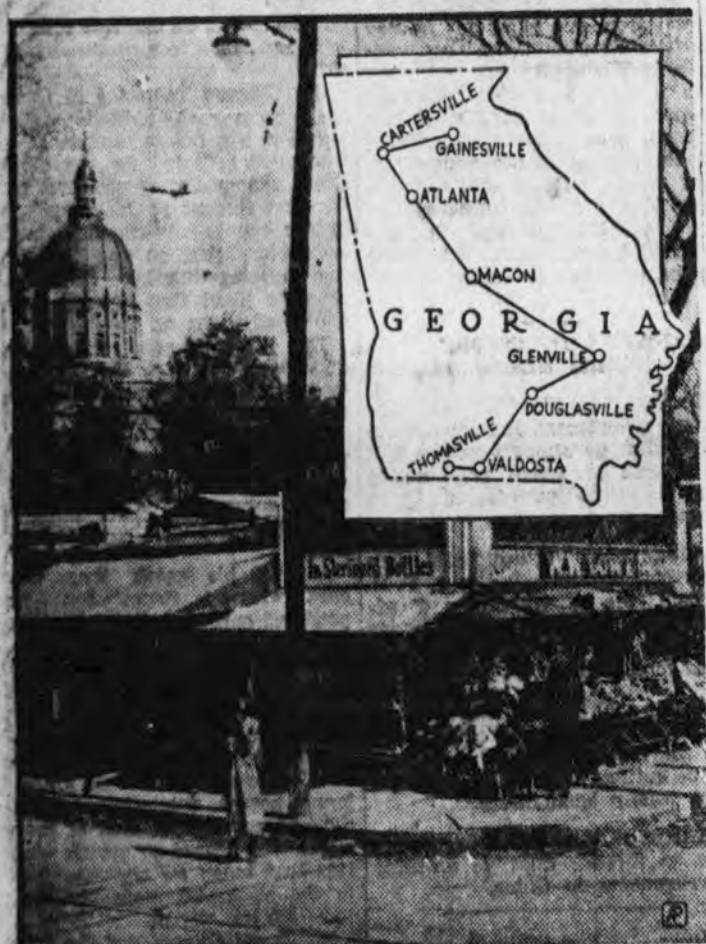

Eight of the ten top members are represented on The Associated Press all-Southern Conference football team for 1935. Duke's champion Blue Devils placed three, including their great quarterback, Clarence "Ace" Parker, and North Carolina's Tar Heels have two. Dick Park of North Carolina and Johnny Leys of Virginia won jobs at end. Hugo Bonino, husky Washington and Lee star, and Gus Durner of Duke, got the call at the tackles. Captain Jim Johnston of Duke and Jim Farley of V. M. I. earned the call at guards and Steve Sabol, North Carolina State, outpointed the field at center.

In the backfield Parker and Don Jackson, North Carolina's halfback sensation, led the balling by a great margin. Bill Guckeyson of Maryland was a big favorite for the other halfback job and Herman "Foots" Dickerson of V. P. I. won out at fullback after a nip and tuck fight with North Carolina's Jim Hutchins.

The line will scale about 198 abouts from tackle to tackle due to 233 pounds backed by Washington and Lee's Hugo Bonino while the backs will average 178 pounds. Every member of the quarter can kick, pass or run. Parker and Jackson, although neither a unanimous choice for first team honors, ran away with the poll. Each had 11 votes to his credit, far outdistancing the nearest competitors, Hugo Bonino and Dick Buck who polled 47. Associated Press Photos

STATE-CONTROLLED PUBLIC MARTS MAY BOOST GEORGIA FARM INCOME

In the shadow of the Georgia capitol is Atlanta's private and public market, one of the principal opponents of the state controlled market plan. The map shows how state operated markets located in eight cities practically will blanket the state with outlets for products of Georgia farms.

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—For the first time in the United States, a system of state farm markets under the complete control of the commissioner of agriculture will begin operation in Georgia January 1, 1936. Eight markets are being set up in key cities of the state to provide an outlet for farm produce. Three of these are ready for operation and work is under way on most of the others, but the entire system will not be doing business before the first of next year.

Under a bill passed by the last legislature, Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder will assume and commissions for the markets' use by the farmers, and he will be in general command of the system. The bill empowers him even to place embargoes on produce from other states if necessary to protect the Georgia market.

No money was provided to organize the system, however. In most instances the cities and counties are cooperating to provide land for the markets and labor to clear the market sites. They are also financing the erection of necessary buildings and sheds on the market property.

The income of Georgia farmers is expected to be increased greatly by this plan providing them with good market facilities where the buyer and seller can meet. Placed in the various sections of the state, the markets should increase the consumption of Georgia-raised products. The markets are being erected in Atlanta, Macon, Thomasville, Valdosta, Douglas, Gainesville, Carterville and Greenville.

A suit to prevent the erection of the markets was filed against Linder recently by operators of the Washington street public market in Atlanta. It attacked the constitutionality of the market act passed by the legislature on the grounds that it violates the constitutional mandate against the state of Georgia going into business.

"The state should not go into business for profit," Linder agreed, "and we are not going to operate these markets for a profit. They will be non-profit organizations for the mutual benefit of the farmer and the buyer, providing the buyer with good farm products and the farmer with a good profit from his labors. Only enough fees will be collected to operate the markets."

"The state is in business in a sense in a lot of things," State owned colleges compete with private schools, state operated asylums compete with private asylums, and the state bureau of markets competes with private business. Practically all Georgia farmers are for this plan of marketing. The only objection so far has come from those on the Atlanta public market.

do not have time to plan for marketing their products, Linder said. FRIDAY

10:00 p. m. to 2:00 a. m.—The Towne Club will give its first dance in the high school gymnasium.

Bridge Hostess.

Miss Louise Beery of Wilmington, and Mrs. W. H. Collier, Jr., of Norfolk, Va., were honor guests on Monday when Mrs. S. T. White was a charming bridge luncheon hostess at her home on Seventh street. Bridge was played at five tables, attractively appointed and placed in a setting of yellow chrysanthemums. At the conclusion of the game, a tempting three course luncheon was served. Mrs. N. S. Beard was winner of a double deck of bridge cards for high score, and Mrs. C. H. Edwards a fancy box of tissues for floating prize. The honor guests, Miss Beery and Mrs. Collier, were presented with silk hose. Mrs. Bernard Creswell of Hendersonville, was also remembered with hose.

Tea For Mrs. Joyner.

On Wednesday afternoon from four until five o'clock, Mrs. Graham Flanagan was gracious hostess at an informal tea, honoring her mother, Mrs. O. L. Joyner, who recently returned from California.

The home was beautifully decorated in yellow chrysanthemums and red roses. Mrs. Flanagan poured tea from an attractively appointed tea table. Little Miss Joy Flanagan assisted her mother in passing cheese biscuits, pastries, sandwiches, nuts, stuffed dates and cakes.

A large number of Mrs. Joyner's intimate friends called during the tea hour.

Blue Devil Juniors Win.

The Blue Devil Juniors scored the second win this week over Scout Troop 30. The first game was a run-away for the Juniors by a score of 32-0, but the Scouts returned today with an exceedingly better team and lost a tight game by the score of 14-13. For the winners Gaylord and Furell made the most successful gains, mostly by line plunging.

For the losers, Tyson, Henderson and Bracey made the gains. Neither team scored until after the half. The losers scoring both of theirs in the third quarter and the winners scoring both of theirs in the fourth quarter, one being in the last forty seconds of play.

"The Towne Club."

"The Towne Club" a new dance club recently organized by young men in the city, will give its first dance this evening, from 10 until two o'clock in the high school gymnasium.

Music will be furnished by an outstanding orchestra. A number of out of town visitors are expected for the dance.

Robert Arthur Ill.

Friends of Robert Arthur will regret to learn that he is ill at his home, Glenn Arthur.

Birth Announcement.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Parker of Norfolk, Va., announce the birth of a daughter, Trilby Elizabeth. Mr. Parker is the brother of Mrs. E. F. Tapper of this city.

Honor Roll of Belvoir School.

The golden text of the lesson-lesson on "Thanksgiving" was as follows: "Offer unto God thanksgiving; and pay thy vows unto the most High." (Ps. 50:14).

One of the scriptural passages contained in the lesson-lesson was from the 23rd chapter of Matthew: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites for ye pay tithe and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy and faith: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone." The readings from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, included the following citation: "What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds. To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done."

Towards the close of the service a brief opportunity was given to those of the congregation who wished to express gratitude for healings received through Christian Science.

The service closed with the benediction from Jude 24-25.

No opinion is satisfactory. There apparently is no group action against Mr. Erwin whose supporters naturally enough come from the school teaching profession. It is well known that many of these teachers have felt that the state superintendent could have won more from the general assembly than he did at the last general assembly. The complaint was that he did not bet enough sick leave and that he accepted too low a salary increase. Mr. Alderman appears to favor bigger salaries.

But why Greene should furnish the opposition is not certain. There are other superintendents with a much larger constituency. History seems to reveal that Greene county generally is willing to send out a candidate if one is needed.

When Congressmen John H. Kerr in 1928 came out for Governor Al Smith for the Presidency the congressman declared his belief that 98 per cent of the objectors to Smith, if they were intellectually honest, would admit that religion was the basic objection to Smith. Judge Kerr was periodically abused and finally the Greene county superintendent of schools, H. J. Robertson, announced his candidacy against Judge Kerr. The primary found Mr. Robertson without support.

Mr. Alderman makes the point that he is a college graduate and refrains from any sales tax position. The observers think he has had good political training, whatever his limitations as a teacher.

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Loss Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diet, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.

All the blood in your body goes through this gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat.

This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So why not lose fat the easy way—without starvation diets or back-breaking, bending and rolling exercises? Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat.

The formula is in every box as you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmola today from druggists.

New York showmen, who have seen a lot of beautiful chorines come and go, agree Florine Callahan from Detroit is the prettiest girl in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1935. We haven't seen all of 'em. But just the same, we'll vote for Florine. (Associated Press Photo)

THESE SMART BEACH OUTFITS GO SOUTH FOR THE WINTER

HERE are two styles of beach wear introduced at the Miami Biltmore fashion show. The redingote, topping the play suit worn by the young woman at left, is expected to have wide popularity on Florida beaches this winter. The swim suit of black and white imported wool has an adjustable brassiere, split down the center to make it form-fitting.

Farmers to Decide Number Questions Relating to Lands

Among First Problems to Be Tackled is That of Estimating Probable Production of Crops

College Station, Raleigh, Nov. 29. The new county agricultural planning programs being launched in North Carolina will place a number of important questions squarely before farmers for consideration.

Among the first problems to be tackled, said Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College, will be that of estimating the probable production of crops in each county next year.

Such an estimate, he said, will give the farmers a better idea of whether crop adjustment should be continued in the future to assure them of a fair price for their commodities.

Later, then dean said, the farmers in each county will be asked to consider other matters relative to the development of local programs to meet the needs of different communities. Some of the later questions will be:

What crop systems are best adapted to conserve the soil resources of the county and at the same time make it possible for the farmers to secure a satisfactory income?

What would be the probable production of the principal crops if the recommended cropping systems are adopted?

What livestock production would best utilize the feed produced under the recommended crop system?

How much crop land, if any, should be retired from cultivation and seeded to permanent pasture or planted to timber?

Lady Took Cardui Says Pain Stopped

Many women who have taken Cardui have reported just such results as Mrs. Dow Parker (of Farmington, Mo.) describes below.

"I was weak and tired and did not feel like doing anything," she writes. "I had cramping spells. At times, I would be very nervous. The pain was mostly in my back and sides. I would just complain and not feel good. I heard several ladies speak of Cardui and my mother had taken it. I decided to try it. I took several bottles of Cardui. It helped the nervousness and the pain stopped. I felt just fine. I gained in weight and strength.

Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. (Adv.)

THE AMERICAN DISTILLING CO. PEKIN, ILL.

Is there land in the county suitable for forests, recreational areas, game refuges? What other possibilities are there for putting the land to a better use? Is it practical to relocate families now living on farms too small or too poor to remain in cultivation?

capitate a row within labor circles
that many disrupt the organization.

When Mr. Lewis charged at the Atlantic City convention that the
A. F. of L. had fallen down in obtaining labor legislation from Congress, President Green made no reply. But he sprinkled the formal report of the convention's proceedings with acerbic denial of the mine leader's indictment. Next day Mr. Lewis stomped into Mr.
Green's office to ask why he had not been answered on the floor. He declared angrily that an unfair advantage had been taken of him. Mr.
Green explained that he wasn't prepared to refute the charges on the convention floor. Then Lewis brusquely resigned.

Feeling between the two is much more bitter than reports indicate.
Mr. Green is too mild a leader for the aggressive, bushy-browed Lewis.
Friends are striving to patch up a truce lest the feud weaken labor's power in future industrial conflicts.

WEAK: Democratic women are secretly upset over the way their political household is being conducted. But they can't break into the news about their domestic difficulties because the object of their displeasure happens to be Mrs.
Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Mrs. R." as they call her, really heads the woman's division of the Democratic National Committee.
No chairman has been named since Mollie Dewson's resignation more than a year ago. Although Mrs.
Roosevelt influences every decision regarding appointments and policies affecting women, there is nobody to perform the heavy chores of lining up the woman vote for 1936. It is admittedly the field where the administration is weakest.

GOP canvasses report a tremendous ac in FDR's popularity among the women. The Republicans have set out to capture the home-and-mother vote by emphasizing the New Deal's supposed threat to security. It's the theme of all opposition appeals to the ladies.

PROOF: If Uncle Sam could confiscate certain letters from AAA processors to their lawyers at Washington, he could save himself millions of dollars. Since the Supreme Court's side-slip at these levies in the rice case manufacturers are taking huge gulps of anti-
New Deal tonic.

Anticipating victory in their legal sortie against the AAA the processors who have paid taxes are wondering how they can get their money back. So they are besieging legal representatives at the capital with requests for advice. The latter point out that if the AAA is upset judicially the processors may have to seek refunds before the U.
S. Court of Claims, which is notoriously pro-government.

The lawyers also explain that the potential petitioners for refunds must show that they absorbed the tax, passing it on neither to the producer nor the consumer. In most instances the processor breaks down and admit that they sloughed off
the levy on the farmer or buyer.
AAA economists are preparing charts to demonstrate that the public paid the bill.

SHIPPING: Ed McGrady, the administration's trouble-shooter in industrial disputes, is packing his bag again.

Although barely noted, a dangerous longshoremen's strike threatens on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Despite contacts with the operators, dock workers in these regions are refusing to load or unload vessels from territory where fellow-laborers are on strike—British Vancouver and the Gulf ports.
They have refused to abide by rulings of arbitrators that they must carry out their agreements.
McGrady prophesied such a tie-

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett has come down the yellow Polva River to Proprietary to get action on a much needed shipment of equipment for his engineering project upstream. His father is staying with the job, fighting fever and moody moods. Terry suspects double dealing on the part of the unstable native government. Now he is killing time in the "Coliseo," waiting for the Dutch tramp steamer which will take him to the capital city to see a man get slapped.

Chapter Three FAST FIGHT

WILLETT jumped off the bar. He knew how Portuguese fought.
And that other man had looked positively sick, too woozy to do anything about it, except help himself get killed. Besides, he was a white man.

Enough of an excuse for Willett
anytime to get moving.

"Uh uh," he said quietly, stepping between them. He turned from the Portuguese. "Beat it, kid."

That was a hot one—calling that tough "kid." He didn't look like a kid and yet the impression remained.
Perhaps it was the trembling of his lips.

The other passed a shaking hand
across his brow.

"I want to see it through."

"Yeah?" said Terry. "Beat it like I told you before it's too late."

you, Willett? For God's sake, sit me down some place."

"SORRY to have been so much bother," Speede said. "Too much knew—lousy stuff, Willett—makes absinthe seem like carbonated water.
How you, Willett?"

Terry clasped his hands across his stomach and leaned back in his chair, staring at Speede intently.
Kana, eh? Getting drunk for three cents on that "white eyed" poison.
Speede must be breaking up.

Must be? As he sat here in the comparative privacy of the Santini Hotel bar, Terry could understand why he hadn't recognized Tommy Speede immediately. The grin alone hadn't changed.

"How'd you happen to land in the Coliseo?" he demanded.
"Just walkin' the streets," Speede said dreamily. "Walkin' around and bumped into the door. Hell of a place.
Isn't it? The whole country is a hell of a place. Have a drink?"

"Why don't you get out of these parts?" Terry asked steadily.
"Haven't you had enough?"
Speede suddenly laughed.

"Enough? More than enough. I hate every lousy tree in this country.
And as for rocks—say, Willett, have you ever thought about rocks? You blast and sweat and strain to pulverize a rock and then what have

Instinct and action were twins of his brain.

"Look out!" yelled the other.
He hadn't been worried. Terry may not have been looking at the Portuguese, but he had kept his shadow in the corner of his eye. He didn't bother to waste time turning his head. Instinct and action were twins of his brain. He ducked immediately and the fist of the Portuguese grazed the top of his head.

He spun around, jaw set in ridges.
His fist connected with the point of a chin. There were yells. There were oaths. There was a man going down.
When Willett hit that was usually the next thing to happen.

A crowd surged around them. The reputation of the Coliseo was that the first knife wins. The Portuguese was being jabbered at by his mates.
He got up and Terry, waiting for him with a tight little curve to his lips, knocked him kicking again.

He knew what was next. He knew it as his foe got up on one knee, wiping his bloody mouth with one hand,
the other creeping inside his coat, and Willett didn't wait. Hurling the table to one side, he seized a chair and jumped forward.

The man whose fight had been taken right out of his hands watched,
his teeth gnawing his knuckles.
There was a crash, a scream, and Terry stepped back.

Quickly he surveyed the crowd,
then grabbing him by the elbow, he hurried the white man through the milling throng and out into the cool night air. The man leaned back against the wall and stared at him.
"You killed him," he nearly whispered.

"Doubt it," said Terry shortly.
"Just draped his thick skull with a few unconscious thoughts. If you think I'm going to be an assistant in a knife-throwing act, you're crazy."

The other was still staring at him,
his eyes slowly widening.

"Willett! Aren't you Willett?"
The exclamation was vibrant with sudden recognition.

Terry regarded him thoughtfully.
"Would you mind telling me just what the hell you are?" he demanded.
"I nearly got my throat cut trying to find out."

"Speede—Tommy Speede, How

you got? A nice big hole. And then you blast and sweat and strain some more to fill in the hole with what do you think?—rocket rocks!"
He laughed again and waved an arm at the waiter.

WILLETT bit his lip. Seeing Tommy Speede brought back memories of Bucky Corrigan, Spider Hance, Jack Curlee, and others. He remembered now the Tommy Speede of those days two years ago who had been sent down by a big American engineering firm as "rock" man to join the construction outfit blasting a road from Pontefice to Jaurez.

That Jaurez job had been a tough
one and Speede with his fresh cheeks, his Irish grin, and college degree had certainly received a baptism of fire.

He was still seared. He wasn't coming out of it. Why didn't he get out of the country before it was too late?
He was a sick man; they're all sick
when they dose themselves with kana.

"Easy," Terry advised. "Take it slow."
Speede abruptly pulled himself
together and the uncontrolled tone in his voice was lacking when he spoke again.

"Surprised to see you, Terry," he said. "What are you doing around here?"

Terry lit a cigarette.
"Working up the river," he said
non-committally. "Dad's with me on the job."

"Your old man still in harness,
eh?" Speede queried. "Swell rent, your old man. Living proof that engineers can be white men. I don't see how he keeps on beating this game. I can't and you can't either—you'll see."

"Never mind about me," said Willett. "How about you? Why don't you drag out? They ought to give you a leave of absence."

"They?" Speede repeated tone-lessly. "There isn't any 'they.' I resigned after the Jaurez job. And my mother back in the States wants me to come along home. She's an old lady, Willett—I don't think I'll see her again if I don't go now."

feel confident of stronger support
inside the Federation than has yet become apparent. His plea for industrial as against craft unions was voted down at the Atlantic City convention—but the jury was packed to some extent. Informed New Yorkers say that Lewis is denigrating the white hope of the younger element in the Federation who are fed up with "old forgerism" and crave action—including many members of unions theoretically opposed to his policies. He may not—as he says—be aiming at the preside-

the old guard is well entrenched

ALIBI: Wall Street brokers think
Federal Reserve Chairman Marriner
Eccles is a great man. He certainly gave their business a boost with his bullish prophecies and his inference that the government was not going to butt in and spoil the stock market party.

But some disinterested cynics are mean enough to carp about his enthusiasm. They recall Andy Mel-lon's ill-timed assurance of the prophet's mantle and remark that the speculative flames are plenty hot already without benefit of official fanning. They do concede that Marriner has a much better chance than Andy had of looking like an oracle six months or a year later. They also note that Eccles has neatly staked a New Deal claim for gratitude from those whose market activities bring profits and comment that this should certainly put him in right at the White House.

From another angle Eccles would seem to be indulging in a buck-passing contest with Chairman Jim Landis of the Securities Exchange Commission and President Charles R. Gay of the New York Stock Exchange. The two latter gentlemen made it clear several weeks ago
that if the boom ends up in a bust
it won't be the fault of their agencies, but that of the Federal Reserve System for failing to keep credit expansion under control. The Federal Reserve Chief replies in effect that the banks can't be blame-ed if this happens because very little of the current speculation is being financed by banks. Everybody now appears to be covered by an advance alibi except those who may be so unfortunate as to get nipped if and when the market finally hits that much-predicted toboggan.

INTEREST: A large number of bankers would like to see the Federal Reserve Board juggle its reserve requirements at once—even to the extent of cutting down the $3-$4,000,000,000 in excess reserves to a measly $1,000,000,000. Not only would this provide a more conservative base for credit expansion and thus forestall the possibility of extravagant credit inflation—it would also relieve them of these mountainous excess reserves for which they can't find any possible use.

But the Federal Reserve Board
and other Washington officials have dreadfully suspicious natures.
New York learns they harbor the unworthy thought—which might not be so far off the mark at that
—that bankers favor such a move
because it would give them an excuse to hoist interest rates, which wouldn't jibe at all with New Deal policy. This is one of the main reasons why reserve requirements
will not be raised at present, though they may be later.

Another reason is that—even though it were carefully explained that $1,000,000,000 in excess reserves was ample to cover the needs of business expansion—the psychological effect would be every likely to dampen recovery sentiment. Anti-New Dealers could be counted on to make the most of it.

DOWN: Administration critics are laughing up their sleeves at Secretary Hull's predicament. Financial sharps claim that the British out-smarted him as a veteran quarterback outsmarts a green defense.

When he tried to embargo oil shipments to Italy under the guise of furthering our neutrality policy
he obviously expected the League of Nations to follow suit. But the British shrewdly arranged to have the League postpone action on this war material which is so vital to Mussolini.

Result: The British are still free
to make a profit selling their own oil to Italy while our producers are shut out unless Mr. Hull reverses his stand. He must be prepared either to look foolish or get into some very heated arguments with American oil concerns. Also Italian wrath is transferred to some extent from Eng'land to ourselves.
Ribald commentators call it "Hull-Downing Street diplomacy—accent
on the Hull-down."

MANY PERMITS ARE REVOKED

Licenses Are Taken From Drunken Drivers on Highways

Reflector Bureau, St. Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Nov. 29.—Revocations of license for drunken driving of automobiles have exceeded in the first four weeks the entire year's record of any previous time.
The revenue commissioner's office makes public each revocation and the publicity feature is regarded very salutary in bringing about the desired improvement. These privileges taken away continue over 12 months and there are harsh penalties for violation of the revocations. There is an imposing list of these drunkards at least once a week.
The courts dealing with these offenders had a hard time with public sentiment locally expressed, but there is no way out now. A drunk driver gets his driving privilege taken away and there is no help for him if the court convict him.
It has been observed that the counties which have liquor stores have been furnishing the biggest number of these drunkards. That is explained by the circumstances that the drivers drive to the store, get their liquor and lose control of themselves returning to dry territory. The latest batch of drunken drivers reversed the order. The dry counties had a big majority of these offenders.
There is a further explanation, too, in the renewed activity of the enforcing officers. The liquor store counties and towns are anxious that bad advertising of their stores be kept at a minimum, consequently when a drunk driver is found he is arrested and made to appear in court. He is punished and his license taken away.
The revenue department believes that sober drivers would cut the deaths on the highways sharply below their present unconsciously high level.

James' Candidacy Against Hancock Causing Comment

Voters Wonder What Effect It Is to Have On Congressman's Decision to Run for Senate Post
Reflector Bureau, St. Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Nov. 29.—People are asking if the candidacy of Allison James, Winston-Salem druggist, for congress against Frank W. Hancock who is reputed to be on the point of declining himself against Senator J. W. Bailey, will precipitate a decision or suspend one.
Mr. Hancock has been quoted as having said that if he were elected he would run against Mr. Bailey. The story was brought to Raleigh by one of Mr. Hancock's constituents, a neighbor in general quite friendly to Mr. Hancock. It was said that the congressman hoped for somebody else as candidate against Bailey, but getting nobody is determined to make the race.
Mr. James, who has been a member of the General Assembly, is definitely committed and it appears that he will race Mr. Hancock no matter what the congressman does. Mr. James is a Bailey man. Should the representative from the fifth congressional district enter the senatorial race the Forsyth druggist would have a big jump in a contest with such a vote as Forsyth can poll. And even with Mr. Hancock running the pharmacist could count in a big majority, it is said.
Lots of the wide ones here believe that in the end Mr. Hancock will decide to stay in Congress and see Mr. Roosevelt through. Senator Bailey has found himself in occasional disagreement with the President, but is regarded as a Roosevelt champion. Mr. Bailey voted against the bonus with Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Hancock voted for the adjusted compensation against Mr. Roosevelt.
And Senator Bailey is getting something of the Simmons hold on the public, a following that is strong without the personal element entering that support.

REV. W. A. BYAN HEADS MEETING

nizing that each of us is his brother's keeper and not his brother's exploiter or despoiler." "Again, the growing recognition that only upon the right to search for bed-rock truth will intellectual freedom ever be gained. I consider," said the preacher, "the greatest safeguard for the intellectual freedom of the pulpit and the greatest compliment to those of you who sit in the pews that here in Greenville your ministers are allowed to speak their convictions—in an attempt to apply principles proceeding from Him who is the Truth—upon urgent, even controversial matters, your ministers realizing that you are large-minded enough to allow them the same exercise of freedom of speech and conviction as is allowed you."
"Morally, this much is emerging: the recognition that the ages do pronounce the verdict of either good or bad upon certain acts and practices." In the realm of religion, the minister held that the favorable principle appearing here was:

Jack and Joe Rollo, famous radio headliners, featured in "Just Foolin'" stage show which plays the 10th Saturday.

"the blessing of creative, cooperative, adventurous," he illustrating this by present moves toward church unity and the call of the churches of this country for "consolidation to assert itself in face of possible encroachments of a neo-authoritarian state—in matters of loyalty between Christ and Caesar, between the Master and Mars."
The sermon concluded with the thought that behind all these favorable factors—among others—was the steadily growing recognition of "God's justice—in dealing with individuals as well as nations—alongside of God's providential care. Justice stern enough to warn us against wasting and misusing our blessings and direct them instead to their proper, useful, redemptive functionings."

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 29.—(AP)—After a fairly resistant two hours, a heavy selling wave hit the stock market today and leading issues dropped one to around three points.
Grave apprehension over the foreign situation was said to have been felt.
Renewed tension between Italy and Great Britain over the oil embargo controversy served to cause uneasiness in bullish quarters. It was feared if the two nations should go to war world economic conditions would be dealt a severe blow.
The late tone was heavy. Sales approximated 2,300,000 shares.

Hitler 'Forgotten Man' As Mussolini Takes Spotlight

By ROGER D. GREENE

LONDON (AP).—Almost overnight, amid the storm racing over Europe from the Italo-Ethiopian war, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler has become a silent dictator—ominously silent, according to warnings voiced by Winston Churchill.
Today, unchallenged, Mussolini holds the stage. The world spotlight, so long focused on Berlin, has turned to Rome.
Hitler has dropped out. A shadowy figure offstage in the new drama that has seen the nations leagued against Mussolini, as they were allied against Kaiser Wilhelm two decades ago. Hitler has become virtually the "forgotten man" of Europe.

British Head Hitler's Aide
Yes Britain uneasily wonders "when he will become the 'big noise' again—and while the German dictator's name seldom figures in the headlines, yet display is given to the words of one of his aides, General von Epp, governor of Bavaria. Discussing the core-spot question of Germany's lost colonies, General von Epp was quoted as saying: "Der Fuehrer is examining the question. He will do what is necessary when the time is ripe."
Perhaps by coincidence, shortly after the statement was published Winston Churchill side-tracked the main issue of the foreign affairs debate in the house of commons to shatter the challenge.
"The whole population of Germany is being trained, from childhood up, to war. All Germany is an armed camp. The German industries are mobilized for war to an extent ours were not mobilized even a year after the great war started."

Voices Sober Warning
"The Italo-Ethiopian conflict," he warned, will solemn emphasis, "is a very small matter indeed compared to the dangers I have just described."
Members of parliament fumed

Germany, 'Awake' To 'March'
Bremen, Germany (AP).—"Germany, march on!" is to be the new Nazi battle cry, members of the party's training camps are being told, because the nation has aroused itself and the old slogan "Germany awake!" which once roared from the brown shirts, is out-moded.

while Church spoke. "Why doesn't he get on with the main business?" a back-bencher was heard to say. "Nobody cares about Hitler now. He's quiet. Mussolini and sanctions are the big dangers."

But others, in addition to Churchill, feel not so easy in their minds about this "quiet" bystander in the turbulent no-man's-land of the European family of nations.
"The most significant thing in the hearing of Europe today is the silence of Germany," says A. G. Gardiner, a noted commentator on foreign affairs.
"It is as important, for us to know what Hitler is thinking as it is to know what Mussolini is doing. Hitler watches and waits, while Germany's former foes quarrel and the fate of the League of Nations hangs in the balance."

"Sword Sharpened in Peace"
If the League is sabotaged, he will be left with a disrupted Europe, filled with bitter resentments which will supersede the memories of the World War and make his friendship the most formidable asset on the continent.
"If, on the other hand, the League pulls through and the covenant stands, his policy of rigid detachment will serve him equally well."
"All this is apparent to Hitler, as he sharpens his sword in peace and makes Germany's military supremacy unassailable whatever happens."

Faced with these warnings, and noting, too, the candid admission of General Goering, in a speech at Breslau, that Germany is arming "day and night, working in three shifts," Britons are wondering how long Hitler will remain silent—remembering the high hum of Zeppelins, over London and the dark days of 1917 when German submarines, sinking foodships at a rate of two a day, brought England to short rations.

THANKSGIVING ACCIDENTS CAUSE PROPERTY DAMAGE

dangerous several bystanders. The sheriff said Edwards admitted he was driving about 40 miles an hour on the wet roads and on a curve.
Several of the occupants of the automobiles received minor injuries, but none was hurt seriously, Sheriff Whitehurst explained.
In another wreck Marion Heath of Grimsland hit a car driven by Joe Suraci of Wilson on the Washington road between Washington and Grimsland. Highway patrolmen who investigated the wreck, said occupants of the Heath car contended the Suraci car was parked on the highway, while Suraci says this was not the case. Both cars were damaged, but no one was hurt.
Three automobiles participated in a wreck on the Winterville-Ayden road last night. Leo Vinters of Ayden, on his way to Greenville, was reported by Highway Patrolmen who investigated the wreck, to have been driving at a rapid rate of speed and struck a car driven by Thurman Phillips of Ayden. The Vinters car then swerved and struck one driven by Robert King
