SECOND TEST TO BE MADE ON GAS CHAMBER

First Experiment Described As Unsatisfactory

TO TIE VICTIM IN CHAMBER CHAIR

Dog Used in First Test Bound to Floor, But Animal in Next Test to Be in Chair

Raleigh, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Further tests of the new lethal gas chamber which is to replace the electric chair in legal execution in North Carolina will be made Monday or Tuesday.

Officials today continued to express disappointment with the first test made yesterday and Capus M. Waynick, chairman of the highway and Public Works Commission, said to two officers of the United States Public Health Service will be here Monday to witness the next try out.

In the next test the animal to be executed will be tied in the chair in the gas chamber instead of on the floor as was the dog put to death yesterday.

Waynick said "those of us who are responsible for preparing the chamber cannot prevent its use longer than time necessary to see if it is prepared as scientifically as possible. Use of the law now and all that we can do is to take every precaution against its employment before these safeguards are made."

Harnett Sheriff
Say No Arrests
In Slaying Case

Denies Reports He or His Officers Arrested Anyone in Henderson in Slaying of Mrs. Mason

Littlington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Sheriff W. E. Salmon, of Harnett county, this morning denied that he or his officers had arrested anyone in Henderson in connection with the investigation of the slaying of Mrs. P. H. Groome Mason, 34-year-old wife of a Pineview storekeeper.

Reports from Henderson were that three men, whose names were not stated, had been arrested here in the Mason case and one had been taken to the scene of the crime in Harnett county.

"I know nothing about it," Sheriff Salmon said. "I think somebody is pulling a big hoax in Henderson. None of my officers have been there. I have not been there and we haven't seen any prisoners from there."

The sheriff said he was still working intently on the case and that there might be new developments today.

MAN ARRESTED IN HOAX
IN MASON SLAYING CASE

Henderson, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Vance county officers today were investigating what Sheriff J. C. Bramlett said apparently was a strange hoax perpetrated by a man who told a federal agent who arrested two men here and had local police look them up.

The self-assumed federal agent, J. E. Caddell, could not be located today and his two prisoners, itinerant showmen, who were booked as Doc Cowan and J. E. Dungan, were freed by police after being held overnight.

Caddell told Dungan took Dungan and Cowan into custody here yesterday and carried them to police headquarters where he told an officer, who was a Federal agent and had arrested the men in connection with the slaying of Mrs. W. W. Mason, wife of a storekeeper at Pineview, Harnett county, Thursday.

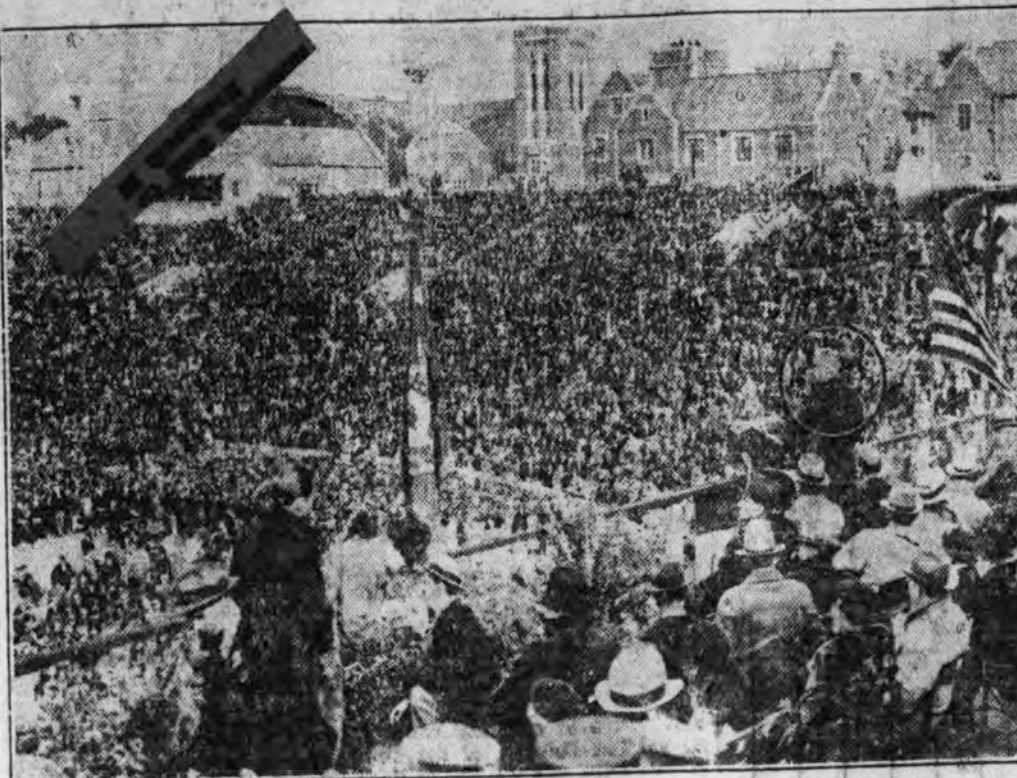

Before Cowan and Dungan were released Mason was brought here and the two men taken before him. He said he had never seen either before.

Brief Filed Says
New Deal Statutes
Are Illegal Acts

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Five charges of unconstitutionality were filed at the new deal's farm program in a brief filed with the supreme court today by the Hoosac state of Massachusetts.

The briefs filed in reply to the government's appeal of a circuit court decision holding the original AAA taxes invalid also agreed to a complete constitutional test of the AAA both as enacted and as amended last session in an effort to bolster it against continued attacks.

Chairmen Appointed For Tuberculosis Seal Sale

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett Named to Head Entire County

STAMPS BOOKS DISTRIBUTED

Seventy-five Per Cent of Money Derived From Sale to Be Retained in Community

The 1935 Tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale got underway as the week-end began and by next week will be in full swing.

The various chairmen for the county have been appointed and material and seals are being placed in the hands of the workers. Dr. N. Thomas Ennett has been chosen as county chairman and the following will have charge of the sales in their respective territories:

Arthur, Mrs. J. C. Smith; Ayden, Mrs. J. D. Cannon; Ballard's Crossroads, Mrs. Charles Tyson; Belvoir, Mrs. Elbert Parker; Bethel, Miss Daisy Lee Carson; Chocoma, Miss Frances Harvey; Falkland, Mrs. B. B. Tye; Farmville, Miss Tabitha DeVisconti; Fountain, Miss Nellie Owens; Greenville, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore; Grifton, Mrs. E. C. McCotter; Grimsland, J. L. Outlaw; Pactivus, Mrs. C. B. Paucher; Renston, Mrs. George Dail; Stokes, Mrs. Phronie Hawkins; Stokesboro, Mrs. Hugh Stokes; and Winterville, Mrs. A. D. McLawhorn.

Books of stamps already have been sent to a number of business firms with the request that they be affixed to their December statements. Other business firms will receive the stamps practically daily.

Dr. Ennett pointed out that the purchase of the seals was absolutely voluntary and no high-pressure salesmanship would be used to get citizens to buy the stickers. He added the people were familiar with the disposition of the money raised in the sales of the seals and wanted any purchases to be absolutely voluntary.

Seventy-five per cent of all money derived from the sales is kept in the immediate locality, 10 per cent goes to the state fund and five per cent to the National headquarters. A good part of the national funds are expended in sending speakers throughout the country to effort to aid in tubercular work, while the state furnishes free clinics and provides all material and seals to the various counties and communities. The seals which will be sold here are furnished free by the state organization.

The local funds are expended in supplementing county funds for sending people to the Sanatorium, buying milk for children in families where tuberculosis is in evidence, buying sputum cups for homes where the family is not able to purchase them, buying scales for schools to be used in nutrition programs and in other work tending to aid sufferers and prevent the spread of the disease.

Dr. Ennett said the present sale was showing some encouraging reports, and added that he hoped to surpass last year's sale which amounted to $888.70 in the county. The county chairman of the drive cited an experience which gave encouragement to the officials. He said that one day recently a man entered the county headquarters and asked for 1,000 seals, saying he probably would be back for more later. It developed that the man was interested in a particular case of tuberculosis in the county and said he felt that by selling the seals (Continued on Page Four)

Official Statement
Tuberculosis Seals

As the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal sale for this year got started, Mayor M. K. Blount today issued a proclamation calling upon the people of Greenville to support the campaign.

The Mayor's statement follows:

"Whereas, the Christmas holiday season is approaching and with it comes the thought of the joy and satisfaction which come from our ability to make others happy, and

"Whereas, for many years there has been conducted by the Nation, the State, the County and the City of Greenville an Annual Sale of Christmas Seals, the proceeds of which are used in combatting the Great White Plague, tuberculosis, and

"Whereas, according to statistics, tuberculosis is still the leading cause of death in the United States between the ages of 15 and 45, the very period when life is at its best,

"Now therefore, I, M. K. Blount, Mayor of the City of Greenville, do hereby call upon the citizens of this city to cordially and generously support the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale this year to the end that we may check the ravages of tuberculosis among the people of this City, County, State and Nation."

CLAIMS BRUNO IS INNOCENT

Spiritual Adviser Says Hauptmann Not Guilty

Trenton, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann has convinced his new spiritual adviser that he is innocent of the Lindbergh baby kidnapping and murder.

After a death house interview with Hauptmann yesterday the Rev. John Matheson, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, Trenton, reported that he "practically asked Hauptmann to confess if he were guilty."

The clergyman said he felt Hauptmann's cell convinced of the condemned man's innocence. Hauptmann, he said, "is a gentleman and a child of God—and a child of God does not lie."

Extend Appeal Drive
Of Salvation Army

The Salvation Army Appeal will be extended into next week, Captain Bates said today that many of the people who contribute to the fund each year have not been seen. And some are out of the City. "A very generous spirit has been shown this week and the results are very satisfactory," he added.

It is hoped a few days' more work will bring the total up to that of last year, and a Tax Day will be conducted on Saturday, December 7. All persons interested in the work of The Salvation Army who have not been solicited may get in touch with Captain C. G. Bates or phone 761 and make your contribution.

NEGRO HELD ON MANY COUNTS

Charged With Stealing Car and Hitting Other Vehicles

A negro man, said by highway patrolmen to have been drunk, stole an automobile from the streets of Greenville yesterday afternoon, hit several cars before he made his way out of the city and then turned the vehicle over near Pactivus.

The negro, John Davis, was taken in custody by patrolmen at the home of another negro near the scene where he wrecked the automobile, which had been stolen from J. Oscar Stokes who lives about five miles from the city.

The negro, after stealing the car, drove around the streets for some time, hitting several cars. One of the vehicles struck was driven by a Mr. Manning, who suffered an injury to his left arm.

Highway patrolmen were given a description of the negro and after finding the abandoned, wrecked car, started a search for the driver. He was arrested and will face charges of stealing an automobile, driving drunk, hit-and-run driving and possibly other counts highway patrol headquarters said.

New Orleans, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Judge Rufus E. Foster of the Fifth District Federal Circuit Court of Appeals, here today issued a decree staying collection of tobacco processing taxes pending the termination of the constitutionality of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration Act by the United States Supreme Court.

The collection was stayed on a petition of three New Orleans firms sued to obtain an injunction against collection of the taxes.

POTATO ACT

AAA Officials Work Hurriedly On Final Plans

ALLOTMENTS TO BE MADE

Committees in Several States Already Working on Individual Quotas

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—AAA officials worked hurriedly today completing preparations for the new potato production control law which will be in effect at midnight tonight.

The drastic control law passed at the last session of congress provides for a tax of three-fourths of a cent a pound on all potatoes harvested after December 1 and sold in excess of allotments.

An allotment of 226,600,000 bushels was fixed by the AAA on November 1. Officials said grower committees in Florida, Louisiana, Texas and California now are working on individual allotments. Work on such allotments will be begun in other states as rapidly as possible.

AAA officials expressed belief the national allotment was large enough to cover the amount of potatoes sold in a year and that new persons would be required to pay taxes.

Franklin To Vote
on Liquor Program
Last of December

No Efforts Be Made to Open Stores Before January

Raleigh, Nov. 30.—Franklin county has set December 23 for its ABC store election and announcement has been made that if the vote is favorable to county control there will be no effort to open any liquor store before the end of the year.

It was considered wise not to set the election far enough in advance of the county's liquor trade. It is agreed that the county will lose a pile of money by delaying the opening, but the controllers did not wish to begin with the doings of Christmas drunks. Franklin always has had locally manufactured liquor enough to supply a heavy trade, it is said.

Franklin came under the county acts introduced by Rep. Webb of Pasquotank, but Judge Clawson Williams enjoined the election on the ground that the act was unconstitutional passed in that it required. Then it was held to be special and local legislation.

The Supreme Court reversed Judge Williams, but did not pass on the constitutionality of the act. It held the injunction to have been premature and left the validity of the act unsettled. Franklin county half-way agreed to furnish a test case for the courts, but seems to have none. A liquor store will help.

If somebody is indicted for selling or possessing liquor and the local act is pleaded the constitutionality of the measure may be determined. The county hopes to be ready with its book by the first of the year, but most of the farmers' tobacco money will have been spent by that date. Still, other counties less favored seem to be making fair profits with their new business.

WOMAN ADMITS SHOOTING SON

Mrs. Livemore Says She Shot Son While "Unstrung"

Santa Barbara, Calif., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothea Wentz Livemore was quoted by officers today as saying she shot her 15-year-old son, probably fatally, while "unstrung" by a letter from her former husband, Jesse Livemore, Wall Street operator.

A 22 calibre bullet near his spine, the son, Jesse Livemore, Jr., was being kept alive by an artificial lung. Surgeons prepared for an emergency as a last resort.

In the same hospital Mrs. Livemore was questioned by District Attorney Perry Heckendorf and Under Sheriff Jack Ross.

She said she told them a letter from the elder Livemore on Thanksgiving Day had "upset" her. "I didn't intend to kill my son. My son just dared me to do it. That is all, and I guess I did it."

She was held on a technical charge of suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon.

The elder Livemore neared his son's bedside today after a dash by airplane and motor car from St. Louis.

District Attorney Heckendorf said he would ask Livemore to sign complaints charging the 38-year-old mother with assault with intent to kill.

"If the boy dies she will be charged with murder," he declared.

Between spells of unconsciousness, the youth attempted to absolve his mother from blame, whispering, "she didn't mean to hurt me. It was my fault. I guess. It was an accident."

Balks at Making Signed Confession, But Freely Tells Associated Press Writer He Killed Wife

Twin Falls, Idaho, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Douglas Van Vlack said his plight today upon his slain ex-wife's father, Joseph Hooks, mystery fiction writer who in turn blamed G-Men for failure to prevent his daughter's death.

Deputy Sheriff Oris Cryder and Police Chief A. C. Parker said the former university of Washington student admitted killing pretty Mildred Hooks after discovery of her body in a culvert, the head battered and bullet-pierced.

Van Vlack, balked at making a signed confession to Prosecutor Edward Babcock, but talked freely of the slaying to E. L. Beasley, associated Press staff writer.

"Yes, I killed her," Van Vlack told Beasley.

"She knew before she left Tacoma," where Van Vlack kidnapped her last Saturday, "what was coming to her. I told her father before I took her that if he did not leave us alone, I'd kill her, that is why I did it."

Asked why he killed State Patrolman Fontaine Copper who attempted to halt him, he replied: "I don't know I guess I lost my head then. I knew it would all end like this a long time ago. And I did it because I told her father I would."

ARE ARRAYED

To Present "Legal Struggle of The Century"

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The United States Steel Corporation and the Union Pacific Railroad today applied to the Securities Commission for exemption from registration under the holding company act on the ground that they are not utility holding companies.

The companies moved under a provision of the law exempting industrial and other corporations who are engaged only to a small extent in the utilities business.

The application had little significance to the fight of the major utility holding companies against the act under which most big systems already have refused to register.

The applications apparently were prepared prior to a new rule announced yesterday giving blanket automatic exemption without the necessity even of filing papers by such companies and to intra-state utility holding companies.

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Most of the nation's top-rank utility systems stood firmly arrayed today for the "legal struggle of the century" against the new deal holding companies.

Before the deadline for registering under the act arrives at midnight tomorrow other companies are expected to join the fight, refusing to register with the securities commission and asking the courts to prevent the government from enforcing the act.

Registration is the first step in administration of the new law which seeks to limit the sway of some holding companies, eliminate others and regulate those left in existence. The embattled companies charge the act unconstitutional.

Ten major systems are among those which have so far filed suit against the government; another big system is on the receiving end of a government suit; some 40 actions have been brought in federal courts in many cities.

Major systems yet to be heard from include Niagara Hudson of New York, Associated Gas and Electric company and Columbia and Electric Company.

The ten systems were: United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia; Consolidated Gas Co. of New York, Commonwealth and Southern, American Waterworks and Electric Company, Gas and Electric Company, United Corporation, Stone and Webster, Inc., North American Company, Cities Service Co., United Light and Power Company.

Pierce and Harris Take Two Distilleries in Pactivus Township Wednesday Afternoon

Deputies C. P. Pierce and J. H. Harris added two more stills to their capture yesterday when they found two illicit distilleries in Pactivus township.

No one was arrested at either still, however. Neither of the stills was in operation when the officers closed in on them.

Earlier in the week the two officers captured two stills in Belvoir township. A white man and a negro were taken in custody at one of them, but the other was not in operation.

Only yesterday sheriff's deputies said they were going to try to break up the illegal whiskey making in the county. Their efforts have been centered chiefly in Belvoir township, described by them as the worst in the county.

ITALIANS PLAN ON WAR FRONT

New Fascist Commander to Initiate Fresh Conquests, Says News Agency

With Emperor Haile Selassie at Dessale, Ethiopia, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie came to this internal city to receive a welcome today. He plans to make this city military headquarters so that he may personally direct the war against the Italians.

Accompanying the Emperor on the trip from Addis Ababa was a host of retainers and chiefs.

Yesterday he told his subjects at Debre Birhan:

"I am now going to the northern front to establish headquarters at Dessale. It is necessary I will go farther, joining the warriors in the trenches."

"I have already visited the southern front where I found the spirit of the soldiers excellent."

France-British collaboration has eased international tension in the Mediterranean sea, informed sources in London said today.

Talk of a crisis in the relation of Great Britain and Italy over the question of an oil embargo on the fascist domain by the league of nations simmered down to the heels of France's frank warning to Italy against any unprovoked attack on the British Mediterranean fleet.

One commentator referred to Mussolini's "change of tune," but on the war front new evidence cropped up to support the belief the Italian Premier intended pushing his campaign of occupation in Ethiopia to a swift conclusion.

From the war front came word that the new Italian commander in chief, General Badoglio, who replaced General De Bono, would initiate fresh conquests of Ethiopian territory.

A Reuters (British) news agency dispatch from the Ethiopian town of Jijiga, one of the goals of the Italian Somaliland army, quoted the commander of the area as saying Italian operations have been limited to air maneuvers since November 12.

On that date a communique reported the battle of Anale occurred "which ended in complete defeat of the enemy."

Maxwell Is Urged
2 Different Ways
In McDonald Scrap

Some Leaders Want Him to Ignore Candidate for Governor, While Others Encourage Him

Raleigh, Nov. 30.—Revenue Commissioner Allen J. Maxwell is being advised to ignore Dr. Ralph W. McDonald and Revenue Commissioner Maxwell is being begged to keep on hammering at Dr. McDonald.

Some of the leaders perceive in Dr. McDonald's campaign a great danger to party success and to the business of the state quite a menace. Most of Mr. Maxwell's friends who wish him if possible to annihilate Mr. McDonald desire that he expose to the public the errors in Dr. McDonald's figures. The commissioner is his best in that realm.

But other friends of Mr. Maxwell feel that any sort of notice that Dr. McDonald gets will help him and particularly if he can associate the administration with that aggression. The current opinion is that Dr. McDonald has made progress and that adverse advertising will help him because it gives him the right to say the state officials are against him. Lieutenant Governor R. T. Fountain made good work of that condition, but nobody yet has arisen to class McDonald with Mr. Fountain as a campaigner.

Besides, Dr. McDonald is much more of a "radical" than Mr. Fountain ever was. And no opponent of the Forsyth man likes to feel that he will generate any such strength as Fountain did.

Mr. Maxwell, therefore, finds himself listening to contradictory counsels. No matter how "jam up" the commissioner makes his statistical case he will have advertised a young man who needs all possible publicity and will get a good deal of it, no matter what state representative's vote to give it to him.

But the Maxwell contributors are supported enough to observations of the newspaper men that Dr. McDonald has been making headway (Continued on Page Four) country. It's another move to clean up federal undertakings before campaign time—and a surprising change of front. For unlike WPA booth-dogging, Harold Ickes' more permanent investments were supposed to be beyond political reproach.

But FDR has heard strange whisperings. On some jobs Uncle Sam is being gyped badly. He is paying so much per yard for excavation of 150,000 yards of material being charged for 30,000 yards.
Local agencies and contractors are conspiring to cheat the federal government if rumors buzzing around the White House are substantiated.
So Mr. Roosevelt has drafted J.
D. Ross as head of a secret squad of investigation. Mr. Ross used to lead Mr. Ickes' power division but was named to the Securities Exchange Commission when the holding company bill was enacted. As former manager of the Seattle light plant, he knows the game from the cellar to the high line.

ALIBI: The inside story of the purchase of German steel for PWA projects indicates that certain administrators are playing a dangerous game. They seem to think they can win more votes by charging "collusion" against the steel manufacturers than they may lose by alienating anti-Nazi elements—
Jewish and Catholic voters.
When the contracts were awarded to German firms, protests from A. F. of L. groups poured into Senator Perkins' department. Her representatives laid the matter before Chairman Farley and Public Works Commissioner McElroy. Then
Ed. McGrady, Assistant Secretary of Labor, presented a memo to Secretary McIntyre, who looked it to the President. There were unofficial assurances that it would be straightened out. It was not.
All this happened several weeks before the news got out. Apparently, nobody made a move to halt the award. Though an independent fellow, Mr. Ickes would have intervened if FDR insisted. Now the only Roosevelt-Ickes alibi is that diplomatic firms ganged together to gouge the government.

HUGHES: The Supreme Court still snubs all efforts of radio interests to put them on the air when they approve or upset the New Deal
"experiments." The President, Congress and Cabinet members have submitted to the broadcasters, but the court stands 6 to 3 against radio publicity.

Chief Justice Hughes heads the anti-radio majority. He feels it would lower the dignity of the nation's highest judicial tribunal if it catered to the airwaves. They lugged at every inside wire to gain permission to broadcast the dollar devaluation decision, but they couldn't reach the Hughes wire.
Now they are aiming to report the court's December 16th hearing of the AAA argument.

But their chances of success are slight. The court has opened up sufficiently to furnish facilities for newspaper reporters, including tables and pneumatic tubes, but it hasn't got around to talking into microphones.

the wonders of TVA were expounded the natives crowded the court-that lawyers, jury and spectators could be on hand to hear the promise of cheap juice. Stores were closed

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett has come to Greenville to see what is doing an important shipment of equipment for the engineering project he and his father are putting through on the "Colosseum" when he sees a Portuguese attack a chap he is sure is American. After laying out the Portuguese, Terry takes the Americans to a hotel and finds he is Tommy Speede, an old acquaintance who is on his way to come back to her in the States.

Chapter Four

BITTER LOVE

"Well, what's stopping you?" Tommy Speede's head nodded mechanically over his glass. An orchestra in a place down the street was playing the air with stringed cadence.

A carriage rolled through the street, the "clap-clap" of the horse's hoofs seemingly in time with the strains of the music that drifted through the night air.

"Maria," said Speede dully. "Remember Maria?"

Terry's eyes narrowed. Speede must be out of his head. When the camp broke up the women went back to their villages—what was Speede talking about?

"I thought I'd like to take her back to the States with me, Terry," Speede was saying. "But I can't. Why, she's lost even in this city. Rewildered, afraid, unhappy—she hates to wear so many clothes any-back in the States. I was almost engaged to one once. A girl of what mother would call 'my class.' I love Maria. I tell you, but if I ever went back to the States, I'd ditch Maria like the dirtiest swine who ever walked—Maria and my kid."

Terry released himself from the grasp of the other's fingers. Queer duck, Tommy Speede, this former fresh-cheeked, laughing kid with his college degree.

Caught with tropical kana and some naive ideas of love and duty. Staying here and signing his death warrant over a brown-skinned native. Well, some beat the game and some didn't.

Kiss and ride on! Speede couldn't. That came from being "soft." Speede was right—nobody had ever heard of Terry Willett being soft. Look what it got you—look at Tommy Speede.

"Keep your head screwed on, Tommy," he ordered gruffly. "Maria doesn't expect anything. For God's sake, go back to the States before you're shipped back. And stay there."

Young Tommy Speede looked at Fox was bored stiff at the Polo Ball.

How can I take her home? People wouldn't understand—my mother and sisters wouldn't. Maria's only a native."

"Haven't you sent her home yet?" Terry demanded. "And what do you mean—you won't go back to the States because of her? Say, if she makes any trouble—"

"Willett!" Speede was on his feet, swaying a little, his lip trembling, the queer note back in his voice. "Maria's got a child. My kid—"

Terry groaned. Speede had evidently changed only outwardly. He hadn't learned a damn thing—still a little boy saying his prayers at night.

"Think it's the first time something like this has happened?" he said sardonically. "These women expect it—they expect to go back to their villages in the end—it's only an interlude in their lives. Quit acting like a dummy; the world hasn't started with you."

"I don't care," Speede said feverishly. "What others have done. I love Maria; don't you understand? But you don't know anything about those things, Willett. You're a fighter, I saw you go after a man tonight. I've never heard of you being soft—how could you know? But—I married Maria! In a church! With a padre and everything."

WILLETT pushed him back into his chair. "All right," he said kindly. "I didn't know. But don't get excited. First thing you ought to do is lay off the kana. Then take your leave of absence, go home and see your family, and afterwards come back to your Maria if you want her that bad. Hell, it's perfectly simple."

Speede shook his head slowly from side to side.

"I've thought of that. I've thought of a million things. But I can't go back. I'm afraid, afraid—"

His eyes were burning with the kana as he caught Terry by the wrist.

"I'm afraid," he repeated jerkily. "I was at the capital just before I came here. I saw European women there, Terry, European and American too, high heels and slim waists, beautiful, laughing, and fresh.

"I know lots of girls like that and tomorrow Fox finds the girl."

him with eyes that seemed unable to focus. "I can't," he said doggedly. "I can't and I won't and be damned to you all."

On the way to his hotel later Willett paused and viewed the big warehouses rising from the water's edge while that omnipresent smell of stagnant sea foam polluted the warm breeze that blew up from the harbor.

But his thoughts were not of coffee as he surveyed the warehouses and the lights of the freighters riding at anchor. He was thinking of young Tommy Speede and the grin he had brought into a construction camp on the Pontecillas-Juarez Road. His face twisted wryly.

"Dead in six months," he muttered. "And because of a woman."

GEORGE FOX of the American Foreign Service held a position that, on the surface, could have been filled by any one of a hundred young men whom the State Department sends out every year to start that hallowed and diplomatic calling, "a diplomatic career."

He wore his clothes with easy athletic distinction, knew most of the right answers, and possessed, when he chose, a most excellent poker face.

But he was bored stiff at the Legation Club Polo Ball even before the affair began.

Fox grunted. Enough material there for fifty tea-drinking harmless young squirts of attachés.

Captain Dent, the military attaché of the American Embassy, dropped a hand on his shoulder.

"If you're looking for the same person I am, George," he said with a grin, "don't bother. She has completely disappeared. And from what I hear of her she may bob up anywhere from Mexico City to Sao Paulo. Her mother tells me she started for Tuxedo Park one time and then turned up on ball from Hinsdale, Illinois, where she'd outraged some landing statute by setting her plane down on a golf course."

JEAN BATTEN, SAFE, AWAITS HELP

Forced down within 36 miles of Rio de Janeiro, pretty Jean Batten sits underneath the wing of her plane at Praia Seca, Brazil, awaiting help. The 25-year-old daring New Zealand aviatrix made a non-stop flight across the south Atlantic, and then fell while en route from Natal to Rio de Janeiro. (Associated Press Photo)

But alas, however skillful and convincing the missionaries, it seems unlikely that their efforts will lead anywhere. Even officials who are impressed by their reasoning point out that after all the holding company act is law unless and until the Supreme Court finally rules otherwise and the administration could hardly declare it null and void even if it wanted to.

RIDDLE: New York shrews say the attempt to enforce the Guffey Act by providing that holders of government contracts shall buy coal only from companies which have signed up for the new code will breed more headaches in Washington than the collective Sunday hargover of all the football crowds in the country.

Take the railroads as a sample. Does the fact that they carry Uncle Sam's mail bring them within the scope of this ruling? If so, what are the roads which run chiefly through territory served by coal companies which are fighting the Guffey Act (such as Virginia and West Virginia) going to do about it? Can they be forced to buy coal from distant mines on pain of not being allowed to haul mail? And if they don't haul it, who will?

The roads of course contend that the space they rent to the Postoffice Department is merely incidental to their main business of carrying passengers and freight, and that therefore the ruling can't possibly apply to them. On the other hand, the railroads are the most important group of coal consumers.

gressmen will declare for extending the embargo to include essential war materials. But what are they? Powerful coal, copper, oil and cotton interests with friends in the Senate will fight to exclude their products from the classification and keep the blacklist down to lipstick and linoleum. Combinations of Democrats and Republicans are fearful of too close cooperation with the League of Nations and will balk at giving the President unlimited discretion to decide these matters.

Then there's the angle of merchant ships. The recent neutrality resolution gives FDR no authority to embargo them. Legally they are free to carry any cargoes to Italy and Ethiopia except arms, ammunition and implements of war. Of course indirect pressure to discourage such traffic can be—and is—applied to shipping concerns who owe the government money for building ships to concerns holding ocean mail contracts, and to all Shipping Board vessels. But actually there can be no effective embargo unless and until Congress extends the President's powers.

ARISTOCRATIC SCION HELD FOR KILLING FATHER

Arrested on a charge of murder, Herbert Stanley (left), 55, scion of an old southern family, was quoted by authorities as confessing he killed his 81-year-old father in the ancient Stanley mansion (above) near Trenton, N. C. Officers said he told them he shot the aged man with buckshot "because he mistreated me and my stepmother," a woman of 55 whom the son wanted to marry.

New York Cotton

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady three to five lower.

Trading was moderately active with considerable hedging and scattered liquidation after the call which was absorbed within a comparatively narrow range by trade buying and covering. Houses with foreign connection had orders both ways but seemed to be selling more than buying.

The close was barely steady 6 to 10 lower spot quiet, middling 12.15.

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Some of the rail aviation and metal issues edged forward in today's brief session, but there was no rush for any groups.

Developments both at home and abroad seemed to have new indications, and many traders adjourned to the sidelines. The close was steady sales approximately 700,000 shares.

Wall street apparently felt better over the European crisis which threatened Friday although it is still realized there is dynamite present.

Overnight study of the President's speech did not result in any marked stir either way. Opinion differed as to whether the administration will be able to cut the national deficit to any great extent.

Although Defeated Once Tar Heels Had Great Year

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 30.—Winning eight of nine games and scoring 270 points to 44 for their opponents, the University of North Carolina's 1935 football team, which ended its season Thanksgiving with a 61-0 victory over their traditional rivals from Virginia, will doubtless go down in the records as one of the greatest gridiron outfits ever produced in the Old North State.

In the national spotlight throughout the season, the 1935 Tar Heels turned in the best record since 1929 when the boys had year lost only to Georgia while piling up 346 points.

The Tar Heel team of 1935 was undefeated, and on five occasions, including this year, Carolina has completed a season with only one defeat. These five years were 1892, 1914, 1922, 1928 and 1935.

The grand total of 270 points compiled by the 1935 team combined is the third highest in the annals of the University. The 1914 team, winning 10 games and losing one, scored 359 points and the 1929 outfit winning 9 games and losing 1, scored 346 points. Previous to this season, the 1922 eleven had possessed the third position in points scored with 201 points.

The Tar Heels, under the tutelage of Coach Carl Snavely for the second straight year, started the season with a bang and continued this double-barrel shooting of opponents through seven straight weeks. Wake Forest, Tennessee, Maryland, Davidson, Georgia Tech, North Carolina State and Virginia Military Institute fell in order. After Duke had halted the winning streak, the Tar Heels came back on Thanksgiving to administer to Virginia its worst beating by a Southern team in the Cavaliers' football history.

The Tar Heels of 1935 were noted for their superb team work, their coordination in completing complicated and fancy plays, their alertness of making the breaks and then taking advantage of them. Without a doubt, they were one of
