Self Government PowersAuthoritative Sources

SEEMS BLOCKEDNational Government Decision Involves Radical Changes for Chinese Provinces

Shanghai, Dec. 2.—(AP)—An unimpeachable source stated tonight that the Chinese National government has conceded North China far reaching powers of self government amounting to autonomy in all but name as a final move to block the secession of the Northern provinces from the Chinese Republic.

The National Government's decision involved a radical reorganization of the North China administration.

Besides granting broadened governmental powers, the National government program would sharply modify the operation of its measures in the Northern provinces and would accord the Northern administration a wide power of currency control.

It was understood these proposals were designed to meet the demands of the proposals of North China's autonomy movement.

Unrestricted Crop
Of Cotton In 1936
Would Lower PriceWhile AAA Program Has Improved Prices, Surplus Stock Has Not Been Entirely Eliminated

Raleigh, Dec. 2.—Unrestricted production of a bumper crop in the South next year would beat prices down to a ruinously low level, Dean I. O. Schaub of State College, declared today.

Although the cotton program has improved prices during the past few years, he said, it has not yet eliminated all the surplus stocks and an expansion of production would undo the gains that already have been made.

The yearly carry-over has been reduced from 13,000,000 to 9,000,000 bales, the dean pointed out, but it is still almost 5,000,000 bales above normal.

In view of the cheap foreign cotton now on world markets, and the fact that foreign countries have little money to spend in the United States, he added, there is no reason to expect a material increase in American cotton exports at present prices.

Neither can the growers reasonably expect a great increase in the consumption of cotton in this country.

With consumption remaining fairly constant, the dean continued, it appears that production must be kept in check if prices are to be kept at or near the present level.

In the weeks just ahead, the cotton growers are going to be asked to decide whether or not they wish to continue production control or whether they wish to grow an unrestricted crop and take their chances in the world markets.

Exports probably could be increased, Dean Schaub observed, if the growers should wish to lower the price to the point where it would meet foreign competition. But do they want to cut the price that low? he asked.

Condition Of Son
Injured By Mother Considered GraveInfection and Pneumonia Become Double Threat to 16-Year-Old Son of Wall Street Plunger

Santa Barbara, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Infection and pneumonia became a double threat today to the life of Jesse Livermore, Jr., 16-year-old son of the Wall Street plunger as his strength ebbed from bullet wounds suffered in a drunken quarrel with his mother.

An oxygen tent was used at frequent intervals to help breathing and a condition of "potential pneumonia" was reported by Dr. Neville Usher, attending physician.

While the youth's mother, Mrs. Dorothea Wendt Livermore, remained in semi-hysterical condition in her jail cell, her attorney mapped an "unloaded gun" defense.

The attorney, Harrison Ryan, said it was clear to him that the discharge of the gun was purely "accidental."

OIL EMBARGO
BIG SUBJECT
OF WAR TALKDiscussions of Peace Languish As Boycott
in ForegroundITALY'S THREATS ARE DISCUSSEDTwo-Fold Program is Discussed by British Cabinet in Regard to Sanctions

(By Associated Press)
The British Cabinet debated today the question of tightening the iron rings of sanctions imposed on Italy for initiating a war of occupation in Ethiopia.

Talk of peace in east Africa, the purpose of sanctions languished as British attention turned to an oil embargo to freeze that nation into submission to the will of her sister states in the league of nations.

A two-fold program was before the British leaders in the sanction drive:

1. Should an embargo on oil shipments to Italy be imposed at Geneva? Commentators little doubted the cabinet would approve the move and transmit its decision to the League.

If the embargo goes into effect and Italy makes good her threat of reprisals what course shall Britain pursue? Italy already has warned that oil sanctions will be regarded as an "unfriendly act."

Extreme uneasiness was evidenced in some British quarters.

A question tangent to the problem of an oil embargo presented itself to the British cabinet. It was hoped the United States would join in closing its market to Italy if the league institutes the embargo.

Emperor Haile Selassie, at the war front settled down to a military routine after a trip from his capital Addis Ababa.

Marked anxiety arose in Geneva over the swift succession of events considered there to be threatening the peace of Europe. Some league circles believed, however, an effective oil boycott would not only hasten the end of the war, but prevent Italy from complicating the European situation as well.

The Canadian government, meanwhile, disclaimed the initiative for the proposed oil embargo.

Judge I.M. Meekins
May Express Self
While At CapitalFederal Judge to Be in Raleigh Tomorrow and May Make Statement on Presidential Campaign

Raleigh, Dec. 2.—Federal Judge I. M. Meekins will be in Raleigh tomorrow and the presidential campaign will not be down.

The judge will get the Republican state convention endorsement for the presidency, but the post most sought for him by his friends will be the vice-presidency. He is regarded an ideal candidate for either wing of his party.

If the Republicans nominate Senator Borah there would be two dry and it is possible that the Republicans will watch the nation in mood to return to prohibition. Both men have made national reputation as campaigners and for the dry cause. There are signs that there is a national movement underway. If the Republicans should nominate two such stump speakers as Borah and Meekins it would be hard for the Democrats to match them. President Roosevelt is regarded a great campaigner and Vice President Jack Garner isn't bad.

Judge Meekins has admitted that he appreciates the compliment that comes to him by these declarations. He has a lifetime federal position with retirement at 70 if he chooses to remain on the bench. But it is said by his friends that if he were nominated on the presidential ticket, he would follow the example of Chief Justice Hughes who left the bench to make the presidential race. The vice-presidency carries the presidency of the United States Senate and there may be a senatorial personnel in the next Congress which will make the vice-president's tie vote necessary more than once.

Judge Meekins is due here to pass upon some matters in chambers, but he is believed to be willing to say whether under any conditions he would entertain the notion of a place on the national ticket. It is believed he can get the vice-presidency without any effort on his own part.

A good pond of water should produce as many pounds of fish per acre as a pasture will produce pounds of beef, says L. A. Whitford of the University of North Carolina botany department.

Tobacco Adjustment Act
Is Not Before High CourtGirl Paper Carrier Big Help to Brother

Pretty, golden-haired, blue-eyed Betty Tyson may not be able to take her brother Vernon's place on the football field, but she is making a name for herself in substituting for him in carrying his paper route for The Reflector.

Nor does the young lady ask any favors of the other carriers, all boys, when it comes to her duties. However, all of the young boys being gentlemen, there are a few favors they insist on granting Betty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Tyson of 423 West Fourth Street.

The girl newspaper carrier has substituted for her brother on numerous occasions, and last summer while Brother Vernon was in camp saw to it that the subscribers received their paper on time each day.

Young Vernon also got to see several football games this fall through the courtesy of sister Betty.

Vernon is now absent from his duties of carrying The Reflector because of a leg injury he received last week on the football field.

John Davis, who is alleged to have stolen an automobile from the streets of Greenville, ran into several other cars and finally turning the vehicle over on the Beale highway, was bound over to high court this morning by Magistrate C. B. Rowlett.

On charges of larceny of an automobile the man was bound over to Superior court. On another charge of operating a vehicle while under the influence of whiskey, he was bound over to county court. Bond was set at $250.

Program

Declaring that there was some misunderstanding among the tobacco growers as to the effect of a possible adverse ruling by the United States Supreme court on cases involving the tobacco program, J. C. Lanier, executive secretary of the Tobacco Warehousemen's association, issued a statement today in regard to the possible effect of a ruling.

The official declared there was no case pending before the high national attacking the Kerr-Smith tobacco act nor the validity of the tobacco production adjustment contract.

Mr. Lanier was former tobacco expert with the AAA and later was administrator of the NRA order for the tobacco industry, and therefore is thoroughly conversant with all the phases of the industry.

I have been asked many times during the past several weeks what effect Supreme Court decisions will have upon our tobacco production adjustment program. Many growers are under the impression that an immediate adverse decision is expected, and that it will destroy the tobacco program. I believe that the following information will be at least interesting to tobacco farmers who are apprehensive regarding the fate of the program.

No case is pending at the present time in the Supreme Court of the United States attacking the validity of the tobacco production adjustment contract. This contract, which has been signed by most of the tobacco growers, is a mutual contract between the individual grower and the Secretary of Agriculture, and so far as I know, no question as to its validity has been raised in any court. It appears that the power to enter into such a contract is vested in the grower.

CORN PROGRAM IS MADE PUBLIC
BY AAA TODAYOfficials Emphasize
"Balance" Farming
Is AimNEW CONTRACTS
NOW IN EFFECTNote Taken of Consumers' Protest Because of High Prices of Hogs During Year

Washington, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Emphasizing that "balanced" farming is their aim, AAA officials made public today details of the 1936-37 contracts offered farmers for corn-hog control.

The contracts effective as of yesterday are designed to increase hog production by 30 per cent in 1936. A shortage of hogs has led to high prices, with protests from consumers.

Leading features of the contracts include:

1. Community and county control committees will make appraisal to determine a farmers "base" production of hogs and his base corn acreage.

2. The contracting farmer will be permitted to raise 100 per cent of the hog base.

3. He will be required to keep his corn acreage 10 to 30 per cent under his base acreage.

4. A producer will receive $1.25 benefit payment for each hog in his base for 1936.

5. Corn benefits will be at the rate of 35 cents a bushel for 1936.

Producers must grow at least 25 per cent of the base corn acreage to qualify for payment. 1936 payments are to be made in two installments, about August 1 and December 31.

A pro rata share of local administrative costs will be deducted from each producer as adjustment payments.

FOR PWA JOBSAll Proposals Submitted in First Letting Too High

Bids were being canvassed today for the erection of small school buildings and additions to old buildings in the county under a Public Works Administration project.

Contracts were let for the week several weeks ago, but all of the bids were higher than the money available would provide and a re-letting was ordered by the Board of Education.

Alternate plans requiring smaller expenditures were drawn up and contractors were asked to submit bids on both the original and alternate plans. It is doubtful any of the bids, which were asked as a whole or broken up, will be low enough to meet the original plans.

Low bidders are expected to be compiled this afternoon. The successful bidder will be submitted to State PWA headquarters in Chapel Hill for approval.

Approximately 14 schools in the county are included in the project. According to PWA regulations work must begin on the project by December 15.

Addis Ababa, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Combined Ethiopian armies, totaling 400,000 men, were reported today as ready to attack the Italian forces in northern Ethiopia perhaps at dawn tomorrow.

This concern of warriors was indicated in reports reaching Addis Ababa from the north front.

It was said that Emperor Haile Selassie now in Dessale was believed to be preparing to go to the front to meet his two lieutenants in the field Ras Seyoum and Ras Kassa.

Their combined forces then would attack the Italian in trench along the Makale-Antalo line.

North Carolina Officers Keeping In Close Touch With Developments In Georgia and South Carolina

Atlanta, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Atlanta detectives Leo Noblik and J. J. Chesler today reported a man who shot his way to freedom here recently, last night escaped capture by five South Carolina deputy sheriffs as detectives identified him as Dwight Beard, a fugitive life term convict from North Carolina.

The detectives said the man engaged the South Carolina officers in gun play as he fled a trap set for him on the old Buncombe road in Greenville, S. C.

They reported a shot-riddled and bloody coat picked up by the South Carolina deputies, indicating the man had been wounded.

The officers said more than 60 burglar charges faced the man at St. Paul. They described him as a "society bandit" and said he used another name there.

Raleigh, Dec. 2.—(AP)—North Carolina penal authorities were keeping in close touch with efforts being made to apprehend Dwight Beard, who escaped from state's prison here August 27 while serving a life sentence for murder.

The life sentence came through a commutation when Governor E. B. Rouse was in office. The man, a former student at North Carolina State College and Y. M. C. A. worker here, was under sentence of death for the murder of Augustus Bouras at Valdese during a holdup.

Greenville, S. C., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Sheriff B. B. Smith today denied that a man identified by detectives in Atlanta as Dwight Beard, North Carolina convict, engaged officers here last night in a gun battle, but said Greenville deputies did fire at the man who escaped and that he "had heard nothing" more about him from the officers.

J. C. Bright, 22-year-old bridegroom of five days, was crushed to death about six o'clock this morning when the left front wheel of a N. B. C. motor line truck he was driving came off near Grimesland, and threw the truck in the ditch on the side of the road.

The trailer smashed into the cab crushing Bright's left shoulder and laung, causing his instant death.

B. J. H. Ellington, local manager of the line, said that it appeared that Bright had attempted to keep the truck under control after the wheel broke, but the wheel came off. The machine left the shoulder of the highway after going about 50 yards, causing the driver to smash into the rear of the cab.

Bright was married last Wednesday.

Preparations are being made here for the presentation of "The Eaves Droppers", a musical comedy to be presented Thursday night, December 12, in the High School auditorium under the auspices of the Pitt post of the American Legion.

The cast of the comedy will be composed of nine men and a chorus of girls. The skit will impersonate a group of cowboys and the background will be laid in Western United States territory.

The comedy has been presented in a number of the larger cities of the state and was widely proclaimed. Members of the cast have been heard on various broadcast programs.

TOBACCO ADJUSTMENT ACT NOT BEFORE HIGH COURT

tract on a voluntary basis clearly exists. Should the entire taxing features of the present program be swept away by adverse court decisions, the tobacco control program can continue successfully as long as the growers continue to support the program by signing contracts to limit acreage and production. Only the disaffection of a substantial number of growers can defeat the program, regardless of what happens to the taxing phases in the courts.

No case is pending in the Supreme Court of the United States attacking the validity of the Kerr-Smith Tobacco Tax Act. This is the Act which taxes the sale of tobacco by non-signers, and which was passed for the purpose of preventing non-signers from destroying the program by increasing production. A case involving the validity of the Kerr-Smith Tax Act was instituted in the United States District Court in Kentucky. This case is known as the Penn case. At the hearing before Federal Judge Dawson in Kentucky, the Judge held that the Act was unconstitutional. The Government appealed the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, where it is still pending. After the Circuit Court of Appeals passes upon the case, it will then probably be appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States. It is improbable that a final decision will be handed down by the Supreme Court on this particular point before the fall of 1936. In the meantime, the tax is being collected, but in some cases the Court has ordered the money held by the Court until the case is finally decided.

Several other cases have been brought in various tobacco-growing states involving the validity of the Kerr-Smith Act. The Greensboro, North Carolina, case was dismissed by Judge Hayes, as were cases brought before Judge Meekin. Therefore, at the present time the Kerr-Smith Tax Act is in full force and effect. All farmers who are non-signers must pay the tax. It is highly improbable that any change will occur within a year at least. It should be understood that at the present time there is no case pending in the Supreme Court involving the validity of the tax on the production of non-signers.

Cases are pending in the United States Supreme Court involving the validity of the processing taxes which are collected from the manufacturers. This tax does not affect the production adjustment program, except that it is the source of the money from which benefit payments are made to contracting growers. Should the Supreme Court declare processing taxes invalid, such a decision does not mean the destruction of the production adjustment program. The present program could go on, either by an appropriation of funds by Congress from the general Treasury, or by the elimination of benefit payments to contracting growers. It is my opinion that the sound basis of a permanent program rests, not upon bounties or benefits, but rather on penalties against non-signers. In other words, if the program results in a substantial increase in the price of tobacco, the tobacco growers will support the program, even though benefit payments are abolished. Therefore, so long as the tax can be applied to non-signers' tobacco, the program should be successful, even though there are no benefit payments.

In conclusion, it should be reassuring to tobacco growers to know that the program does not face destruction at the present time from adverse court decisions. Crop control through voluntary contracts is not being attacked at the present time. The Kerr-Smith Tax Act has been attacked, but the case has not yet reached the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, and in all probability it will be at least a year before it reaches the Supreme Court for a final decision. In the meantime, the tax will be collected on all tobacco sold other than under a contract. An adverse court decision regarding processing taxes will not have any substantial effect upon the program. And finally, should the Kerr-Smith Act be declared unconstitutional when it reaches the Supreme Court, it is clearly the duty of Congress to enact another measure along the same lines to preserve the tobacco program. It can be done, and surely it will be done. Failure to do this would be to admit failure for a principle and a program that holds the only hope of financial independence to tobacco growers.

Revival Program At Reedy Branch.

Realizing the need of trained leadership in the Sunday schools of our churches that will enhance and perfect real worship and establish a keen interest among the entire school body, I have arranged a program that will help us to meet the problems that are hard to solve in the average Sunday school. We will meet each night at Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church this week at 7:30 o'clock, and we are requesting all members of the following churches to duly attend: Greenville, Piney Grove, Winterville and Reedy Branch.

We are extending an invitation to all the public that would like to attend these series of Sunday school revivals.

There were only thirty girls and six boys remaining in the dormitories over the holidays. Most of the others went to their homes, while a few from a distance visited friends.

High School Operetta.

The high school glee club will present an operetta "The Count and the Co-ed" on Thursday evening in the school auditorium. The scenes of the operetta are laid on the campus of Marden College in the middle west.

Miss Geraldine Harris plays the part of Dolly McSpaulding and Harvey Deal plays the double role of Kenneth (Snooty) Andrews and the Count.

Others taking part are Belva Harris, James Smith, Maude West, Edward Conway, Phoebe Nesbit, Jeter Oakley, Frankie Johnston, Helen Settle and Leslie Gower.

These in the chorus are Pauline and Eugene Abeyounis, Elizabeth Holliday, Doris Duval, Iris Hoot, Ernestine Hagood, Rosalyn Swadell, Venetia Hearne, Mary Woodard, Madeline Woolard, Kate Foley, Myra Blount, Harold Forbes, Robert Earle Clark, Charles Clark, Jack Foley, Vernon Tyson, Fred Slein, Robert Musselwhite, Stephen Walters, Claire Brown, Baxter Clark, Otto Cozart and Charles Futrell.

Miss Ona Shindler, music supervisor, and Mrs. Coleman are directing rehearsals for the operetta.

The lesson sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is the master of the corporeal senses, and can conquer sickness, sin, and death. Exercise this God-given authority. Take possession of your body, and govern its feeling and action. Rise in the strength of Spirit to resist all that is unlike good. God has made man capable of this and nothing can vitiate the ability and power divinely bestowed on man."

The golden text was from Psalms 133:2-4, "Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me and know my thoughts, and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson sermon was the following from the Bible: "For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit."

UP TO THE GROWERS

Of late in this tobacco rowing section there has been much speculation as to the fate of the tobacco production program should the United States Supreme Court render an adverse decision in some cases now pending.
In a statement appearing elsewhere in this issue of the paper, J. C. Lanier gives some pertinent facts concerning the tobacco program and the expected court decisions and points out that in the last analysis, regardless of the court decisions, the tobacco control rests with the growers themselves.

This is a fact that should be remembered and if the growers will keep this in mind and continue to work together as they have during the past two years in controlling production there will be no question as to receiving living prices for their tobacco. Under any plan there will always be some chiselers and the same is true and will be true under a production control program, but even despite these chiselers there are enough loyal growers to control production to the extent of living prices if they will stick together and no thought should be given to going back to the old haphazard days of unlimited production of tobacco.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

mic doctors are hovering over the present boomlet as if it were a sick infant. Three times since 1932's low have they sat hopefully by the bedside of the recovery patient but always their charts took a downward turn after a few months.

Now the diagnosticians think they detect symptoms of real health.
Improvement in almost all lines—retail and wholesale, industrial and agricultural—has lasted for nearly a year. Residential construction is responding to Washington's stimu-lators and stimulating the heavy industries. WPA purchasing power will approach its peak soon. People are buying autos despite the shift in the season for new models, though the aren't flocking to the showrooms as feverishly as auto magnets had hoped.

The statisticians note two factors that were absent from previous upturns. The economic machine is in better balance all along the line.
Production and consumption are approaching a level. The folks have enough confidence to buy things they couldn't or wouldn't in other years—household furniture, clothing, luxury goods. They are holding theaters, movies, hotels, restaurants, night clubs. They seem to feel it's time to snap out of the blues.

recent stratospheric experiments

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett has come down the Poles to Pro-pionore, on his way to the capital to see what has happened to a shipment of equipment he and his father used very badly. He suspects foul play on the part of the active government. Now, at the American Legation Polo Ball in the capital, George Fox of the American foreign service finds himself disturbed by the memory of a certain girl Captain Dent tells Fox she has disappeared.

Chapter Five ALLAIRE IS FOUND

"SHE'S flying tomorrow," went on Dent, "with that Major—what's his name?—you know the Spig with the half-pint movie mustache? First time since her crash a few months ago. Read about it, Fox? The New York papers played it up big. The motor went four feet into the ground and she nearly went out for good."

Fox heard him as through a great fog. He knew Allaire West—his circle in the States rotated close to hers.

A stunning girl with eyes the deep blue-black of storm-tossed tropic water, engaged three times, but always moving on, living to the tune of roaring motors and steel.

"Have to fly tomorrow, and I'm scared to death."

snapping speed—her motor had gone four feet into the ground—

But the attaché knew what was wrong with him now. He knew it the minute he saw Ray West go into the conservatory with a woman in silver evening gown—Sue Thatcher, of the large slanting Oriental eyes, jet-black hair, tall, gliding, full lipped.

And West, tanned of face and jaw, trim and handsome in spite of his fifty years—the well-known sportsman Fox smiled grimly. Everybody knew that when Ray and Eleanor West were married two great fortunes had merged.

And everybody ought to have known by now that only because it would have been too much trouble to unravel the estates had they not divorced each other a half-dozen times.

And so Ray West did as he pleased, and his slim wife spent thousands on her beauty and did as she pleased, while a girl with honey-colored hair and dark stormy eyes did—as she pleased.

Yes, the attaché knew what was wrong with him now. Years and years ago he had stood in the shade of a giant elm near some red brick stables and watched a bright-haired young girl gleefully probe the splintered leg of a beautiful quivering horse with skillful strong fingers and sigh as if a loved child were dying—the tenderness and strength and pity in that girl became an ineradicable part of his mind.

"Going to get some air," he told Dent suddenly.

HE went out into the gardens and lit a cigarette. Her motor had gone four feet into the ground.
He inhaled deeply and began to wander down the paths that twisted their way among the flowerbeds.

She had a habit of disappearing at any time. She loved both the hum of powerful motors and the generating of satiny silences in a leaping thoroughbred.

"The Man from the Agency," he paused in amazement, his cigarette halfway to his lips, as the low husky voice came out of nowhere, tinged with humorous mockery.

air.
Feeble trials indicate that planes which make only 180 miles an hour at ordinary altitudes 4,000 feet—will do 400 miles an hour 30,000 feet up. It would revolutionize civil and military flying. Other nations are getting ready to steal a march on the U. S.

Dan Roper is trying to sell the idea to the White House. The prospect is known to appeal to the President, who likes speed in any form, but whether this request for new funds will get by the budget-balancers is another question. Mr.
Roosevelt knows he must be reelec-"Hurray for the glamor of the Foreign Service! The Man from the Agency."

She was sitting on a marble bench, resting back on straight bare arms, a small curve to her mouth as she regarded him. Two heavy wings of honey-colored hair were the gleaming coronet against the background of low-cut dark evening gown.

"Oh," he said finally. "So this is where you've been, Allaire?" She nodded nonchalantly.

"Just waiting for a lesson in international law," she told him. "Tell me, Ambassador—if A was born in Hongkong of British parents and was assaulted in Leningrad by B who was born on a French vessel of an American father and a Dutch mother, would the case be eligible for trial before the justice of the peace in Little Falls, Oklahoma?"

"You're very well informed for a young woman," Fox commented, sitting down beside her.

"It's my gift for statistics. I used to raise rabbits."

"And now you raise—"

"She halted him with a quick flirt of her hand."

"Don't be trite, George. Besides, it isn't good diplomacy. Not that I care," she added laconically, "but I wouldn't be good training for your career."

SHE crossed her knees, letting one satin slipper swing idly while she regarded him with her wide dark eyes.

"Haven't seen you in years," she commented. Then like a flash of light: "What do you think of me?"

He may be reversing the system under which the young and abeoboded support their aged parents.

Reports reaching Townsend headquarters at Washington say the sons and daughters see profit for themselves in the pensions plan.
Since they can't work, the youngsters envisage a day when they will live off the old folks. It's a political argument which may mobilize many unexpected recruits at the next session of Congress.

DEFINITION: The Democratic high command shrinks at mention of one word in the GOP's political vocabulary: "boondoggling." The Farleyites fear that it may swing millions of votes to the Republicans unless Rooseveltian publicists can give it another meaning in the public mind.

Messrs. Farley and Michelson weep at the way Harry Hopkins failed to meet the "boondoggling" attack when it was first made. They don't think he has squared the record in any of his belated efforts to justify this form of public spending. The maintain that a proper, political explanation of the need for relief projects for those who can't dig ditches or operate tractors would set things straight with the people.

From now on Publicist Michelson will stir up sympathy for barbers, manicurists, tap-dancers and writers receiving relief pay from the government. He has begun a canvass of the kind of "boondoggling" sponsored by Mr. Hopkins. GHQ will publicize the idea that a man's a man for a' that, even though he is a "boondoggler."

By JAMES McMULLIN

TRY-OUTS: Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa recently paid an unobtrusive visit to New York to be looked over as a presidential candidate by the GOP Piper payers. He is mentioned in informed quarters as the possible Harding of '36.
Dickinson has an edge over his Senatorial rivals in being presented as a Simon pure Republican.
He has no pro-New Deal votes to explain—which cannot be said of Vandenberg, McNary or Borah.

Backstagers who pull the Republican strings have evolved a tryout process for their candidates. Each of them in turn is trotted out for a whirl in the public eye, then is put back in storage to await developments. Frank Knox had his whirl a while back, Governor Alf Landon of Kansas is getting his now. Presumably Dickinson is due for one in the near future if he passes New York inspection. Congressman Hamilton Fish has also had a whirl —but in his case he performed the acrobatic feat of whirling himself.

Keen observers remark that this process creates cabinet material as well as presidential possibilities—so consolation prizes are in sight (assuming a GOP victory) for those who don't get nominated.

CHOICE: A word of caution is in order to those who might naturally figure that the parade of candidates means party leaders are already seriously debating their final choice of Roosevelt's rival. Nothing could be further from their thoughts. All they are trying to do now is to mark the cards for future reference and slip them back in the file.

The Republicans have one advantage over the Democrats as the '36 contest approaches. They have been so completely out of the picture for the past three years that they've had ample opportunity to concentrate on planning their comeback without having their attention diverted. Consequently their campaign will be thoroughly charted and their ammunition in first class shape by the time the real scrap starts.

To the question "With whom will you beat Roosevelt?" party chiefs point out that they have an embarassment of riches. The variety of candidates leaves backstagers much freer to choose their standard-bearer in accordance with the political situation at convention time. For instance, if FDR's popularity has shrunk appreciably by then they can pick a man to fit their own specifications without so much regard for his "liberal" appeal. If the President is still riding high they can name another whose liberal qualifications stand out more.

PERMANENT: Informed New York sources insist that if Mr.
Roosevelt wants to show any real progress toward a balanced federal budget, he must definitely make up his mind to cut down on Harry Hopkins' Emergency Relief Administration or Harold Ickes' Public Works Administration or both. Experience indicates that public works are a slow and costly method of putting people to work, so Ickes is probably the more likely victim—although Hopkins' projects haven't exactly turned out to be so many balls of fire either.

A coordinated housing program will undoubtedly emerge from the many conferences being held on the subject. But it will not have any appreciable effect on those twin demons that plague the New Deal —relief and reemployment. It will take a long time to develop and cannot possibly be expected to get in stride within a year.

Keen observers marvel at the way Harry Hopkins manages to remain a White House favorite considering how strenuously some of his colleagues criticize his policies. Hopkins visualizes relief as a permanent method. Townsendsites are quietly boasting that they have effected a union with erstwhile Anti-Saloon League promoters who find time heavy on their hands under repel. And the white-ribboners have sense of humor enough to revel in this method of striking back at the President who authored the return of liquor.

The California doctor is making headway too with the young folks as well as with the 65-year-olds who would be eligible for a $200-a-month pension under his scheme.

federal function—a view which Secretary Morgenthau, for one, doesn't share at all.

HALT: A point worth noting about the rising commodity price levels which prevail almost everywhere in the world is that they reflect restrictions on production rather than credit expansion or the deliberate cheapening of currencies.
Therefore they cannot be considered truly inflationary.

This means there is less danger of runaway price gains than there would be if they derived from a monetary cause. In many commodities the rise could be slowed up —or even halted—by broadening allocations of permissible production. This device has already been tried quite successfully with tin.

GENEROUS: The transfer of security issues from the New York Curb to the Stock Exchange is creating a progressively more serious problem for the former. If the Securities Exchange Commission allows the ban on trading in unlisted securities on registered exchanges to take effect next year, the Curb would have practically no excuse left for continued existence. Quite a few brokers are talking about a merger of the two New York exchanges as the only feasible solution.

But the rulers of the Stock Exchange privately do not take at all kindly to that idea. They prefer to retain their superior status and contend there is plenty of room for a junior exchange handling the smaller and less well-established issues. They are now working on a new set of minimum standards for Big Board listing which would freeze out the less desirable applicants for transfers from the Curb.

Critics comment that it's really very generous of them to be willing to leave the neck for their little brother while keeping the white meat for themselves.

New 'Boom' Hits Toyville's Market Santa's Pack to be Heavier, Costlier

By CHARLES NORMAN
NEW YORK (AP)—There is a "boom" in Toyville, and Santa Claus' pack will be heavier — and costlier — this Christmas.

Santa, of course, is not interested in figures—but they show that the $200,000,000 toy industry is experiencing its best year since 1929, with advance sales 10 per cent ahead of last year, and a scarcity already apparent in "quality toys"—those of higher price.

And toy factories, as a result, are working night and day, in 30 states, to keep up with the demands, says the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A., Inc.

They Really Work.
A glance at Santa Claus' 1935 pack shows every type of industry represented in "put-the-children-to-work" playthings. From house-keeping to building, toys are efficient, gleaming and streamlined. Stoves that can cook a turkey, electric trains from $4 to $2,000, and grocery stores with scales that really weigh, safes with combinations, dial telephones and cash registers are "in the bag" for Santa.

Farm toys are very popular, too, says the toy group, ascribing it to the wide publicity given the farm belt by the drought. Farm animals, barns with modern lines, and tractors with snow plows are some of the headlines.

In keeping with the "toys that work" motif, there are lead-casting sets with which youngsters can make their own toys, if they wish; cement-mixers that mix cement; optometrist sets with which Johnny can grind glasses for microscopes, and chemicals used in industry.

New Trains
There is an ad-a-room house that can be built on the "installment" plan and enlarged after the initial Old Santa's pack this year, heavier than ever, will be brimming with new toys—streamlined toys—speed toys—building toys—toys that really work. Here, according to Santa, is just a sample of some of the things Johnny and Mary might expect on Christmas morning.

building is started.

For a large number of children—and adults—fascinated by trains and trucks there is an automatic gateman who jumps out of his booth and waves at the train. Some of the trains this year have a whistle that sounds just like the real thing—enough so to make commuting fathers run for the station when they hear it.

Dolls are numberless—and realistic, for children, says the toy group, are realistic. The Dionne quintuplets have helped boost the "birth rate" of dolls.

Streamlining, while not new for toys, has been brought to the 10-cent division for the first time. Fifty thousand new designs in playthings, representing the combined efforts of more than 400 manufacturers, will pour from the larger pack of Santa this year to delight America's children.

State Republicans Fear Results In Atlanta Talk

President Also Makes Bid For Negro Votes

COLORED VOTES BIG POSSIBILITY

Such Ballots Have Often Swung Close States and Republicans Fear Losses

Rector Bureau
Sir Walter Hotel
Raleigh, Dec. 2.—Republicans commenting on President Roosevelt's two speeches yesterday, the second one to the negroes of Georgia, see in the Georgia visit the most impressive campaigning that the President has had a chance to do within two years and with it the certainty that Mr. Roosevelt will get the negro vote in the nation.

That vote so often has swung the close states that the Republicans cannot look with any levity on such a loss. New York State must have a quarter million of such voters and Pennsylvania certainly half that number, while Ohio, Illinois and Indiana are in percentage quite as strong. The recent declaration of Senator Borah that he will not support a federal anti-lynching bill fashioned after the Wagner-Cottigan measure means, to Republicans, that the Idaho senator will not get a race vote that he ordinarily could have counted for him.

That brings up the question whether the Democrats would pass the federal anti-lynching bill. It would seem impossible to put it through the congress with the entire South against it. But Mr. Roosevelt has found many able negro supporters in the colleges and in politics. The regulars who have studied his speech believe he will take as high a per cent of that race vote as any Republican ever has done.

Queerly enough, the liberality of Mr. Roosevelt toward the black man has not appeared to hurt the President in the South where business objections seem to outweigh racial. The Roosevelt administration did not figure at all in the decision, but supreme court opinions in Washington have restored some fundamental rights of negroes, suffrage and jury duty, which had been lost under national Republican rule. The President is regarded very friendly and very clever in being able to show kindness to the negroes without losing caste among the whites.

The recent publication of possible candidacy on the national Republican ticket by Judge I. M. Meekins tends to make harder the Republican capture of the negro vote. That suffrage is utterly lost in North Carolina where Republicans concede the entire negro vote to

SEEK PAROLE FOR BANKER

Renew Efforts for J. M. McCorkle Of Salisbury

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Nov. 30.—Renewed work in behalf of James M. McCorkle, Salisbury banker, serving two and a half to five years at state prison is set for next week in the hope that before the end of the year the Rowan county man may leave the prison.

Judge A. M. Stack, who sentenced the 66-year-old business man, has written that he will be entirely satisfied with whatever disposition is made of the case. Ex-Solicitor Zeb Long of Iredell, heartily asks for clemency. Recently Stahle Linn of the Salisbury bar was here and he spoke for the prisoner who several weeks ago went back to his old home as a witness to appear in Rowan court in a litigation there. This was the second time that Mr. McCorkle has been summoned as a witness, but he has been given no privileges outside those coming under subpoena.

The Salisbury member of an eminent family and son of one of the greatest North Carolina lawyers in his day, was indicted for embezzlement and entered a nolo contendere. Judge Stack gave him the indeterminate sentence and he came to Raleigh a Gov. Ehringhaus not to extend clemency to prisoners whose offenses have been fiduciary breaches has made the going very slow. But working Sundays and holidays, Mr. McCorkle has piled up a fine record and under the new parole law of 1935 he long ago become eligible. The new law requires the serving of a fourth of his time before he makes the application for parole. He has approached the half time with consideration for extra work and good behavior.

Bertie Growers Get Much From Peanuts

Windsor, Dec. 2.—Peanut growers in Bertie county have received a total of $122,623.49 this year for cooperating in the peanut adjustment program, reports County Agent B. E. Grant. There are 247 growers that have not received checks and Grant estimates that payments to these growers will bring the total in the county to more than $150,000.00. Grant also reports that twenty tobacco growers have already bought additional allotment cards totalling 887,237 pounds. The excess production this year will be more than one million pounds, he says.

The two tobaccoists have secured the services of Jackie Taylor, an auctioneer. In making the announcement, Mr. Keel said he considered the auctioneer one of the best he had ever known.

Physical Changes Are Seen on Coast of North Carolina

Nature Cutting New Inlets, Closing Channels, Eating Into Beaches and Building Up Elsewhere

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Dec. 2.—Nature, in her various moods, is causing decided physical changes along the coast line of North Carolina, cutting new inlets here, closing old channels there, eating into the beaches at places and building up elsewhere. In order to determine and evaluate these natural forces, a scientific study is being made along the coast under the division of water resources and engineering of the Department of Conservation and Development under the direction of T. S. Johnson, chief engineer.

A party of engineers under the direction of Mr. Johnson spent the summer months on the coast in a check of changes made by the elements, and the office force is now engaged in studying the variations which have occurred since the last field party visited the same localities. A preliminary report on the subject is expected soon.

One of the strangest natural freaks as observed by the engineers is the migration of some of the inlets, which in cases has amounted to a movement of around a mile over a period of years. The check will enable an exact measurement of this phenomenon. Another odd occurrence resulting from Nature's caprices is the recent addition of some three acres to the State Park recently established at Cape Hatteras overnight.

The number of inlets from the sounds to the ocean has varied widely over a period of years. Mr. Johnson reports that at times there have been as many as ten seemingly permanent inlets between Cape Henry in Virginia to Cape Lookout in Carteret county. At present, there are only five of these passages to the sea, Oregon, New, Hatteras, Ocracoke, and Drum inlets. Constantly shifting sands; migrations, opening and closing of inlets; and erosion and accretion of coastline effect vitally the resources of the North Carolina coast, including shellfish, recreational values, migratory waterfowl, navigation, and other factors, according to Mr. Johnson. The studies now underway, it is pointed out, will furnish valuable information in behalf of the preservation and development of these resources.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady one to four advance on Higher Liverpool cables and trade and for buying.

Prices eased slightly after the call on continued liquidation particularly in the spring months. At the close of the first half hour active months were within point or two Saturday closing quotations. The market sagged slightly later. Offerings were not heavy but the demand seemed restricted to trade buying on limits or scale-down orders with prices working off to 11.72 for December and 11.36 for May or about two points net lower.

The proof of the cigarette is in the smoking... and it always will be Smokers—both men and women—want a cigarette to be mild—yet not flat or insipid. At the same time they want a cigarette that gives them taste—taste they can enjoy.

Chesterfields are outstanding for mildness—outstanding for better taste. You can find that out by smoking them.

Just try them—Chesterfields are what they say they are
