FASCIST POWER

ICKES STATES

Says Issue is Fascism

Founding Fathers

COMMUNISM NOT
REAL TROUBLE

Secretary Declares
Communism Merely Bugaboo and That
Fascism Real Threat

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes declared today that economic security must be assured the average citizen if democracy in the United States is not to be supplanted by fascism.

Our rugged individualists have already undertaken an active and well financed campaign looking toward a return to power that will make it possible for them to continue to grow ever richer while the great mass of the people become poorer and poorer," he said.

"I warn them that they are putting a lighted match to a keg of powder."

"The issue is fascism or the America of the founding fathers," Secretary Ickes, who addressed an audience in the Detroit town hall said. "I say this fully conscious of a deliberate effort that is being made to cause us to believe communism constitutes the real threat to our liberties. Communism is merely a convenient bugaboo. It is the fascist minded men of America who are the real enemies throughout their solidarity and their ability and willingness to turn the wealth of America against the welfare of America."

Secretary Ickes said opponents of the Roosevelt administration "are lacking in effective remedies for our social and economic ills as was their administration prior to March 4, 1933. They are the modern exponents to do 'nothingism'."

County Purchases
L.W. Tucker Home
On Third Street

Offices of County Farm Agent and Possibly Others Including Health
Department, to Be Moved

The offices of the county farm agent, and possibly others including the county health department, will be moved to the dwelling now occupied by L. W. Tucker on Third street some time between now and the beginning of next year.

The county commissioners in session yesterday purchased the house and it was announced that County Agent E. F. Arnold and his force, now located in the Edwards building, would be transferred as soon as Mr. Tucker vacates the place.

No definite decision was announced as to what other county offices would be located in the new quarters, but it is understood that at least some others would be moved there.

The purchase price was not announced, but it was stated by one official that the purchase was "mighty cheap."

Farley Will Ask
Funds Of Congress
For Airmail Route

Experimental Flights To Be Started Next Week; Route in Operation Next Year

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley said today he will ask the coming session of congress for funds to start a trans-Atlantic airmail service.

He said experimental flights will be started next summer and the route probably will be in operation within following year.

Postal officials said Pan-American Airways who operate the new trans-Pacific route is the only American company interested in the route now.

Farley said more aviation interests had conferred with postal officials on the question of cooperation in a trans-Atlantic service.

A British group representing the Imperial Airways was in the capital today and a ranch mission was expected to come later in the year with definite proposals.

Asked if budget cut moves in congress would affect the trans-Atlantic appropriation, Farley said "it is not a very large thing."

Harley Branch, assistant postmaster general, in charge of airmail, said the southern route via Bermuda and the Azores to south-Europe was faced.

Motor Products Corporation Plant Scene of Strike Disorders
in City of Detroit

Detroit, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Violence broke out anew today at the Motor Products Corporation plant here where 21 persons were injured last night and two policemen and two strikers were added to the list of casualties.

Carrying out police orders forbidding picket lines, more than three score policemen drove back 75 strikers who attempted to resume picketing of the plant entrance.

Two policemen were struck by flying bricks and two strikers were hurt by police night sticks.

One striker was taken to a police station for questioning today. Eleven of the strikers were detained last night.

Announcing that picketing of the plant had been forbidden, Police Inspector Irwin Patterson attributed the order to last night's clash.

The workers, estimated at more than 500, marched on the plant after a meeting called by the automotive Industrial Workers Association independent organization which called a strike in the plant several weeks ago.

Union executives said the strike was called after company officials ordered a change from piece work to a day wage basis of pay.

Revenue Agent and Former Detective
Captain Slain by Two Men
Claiming to Be Bouncers

Tulsa, Okla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A federal revenue agent, Louis Papan, 42, and George Stewart, 39, former Tulsa detective captain, were shot to death at the Sheridan night club here early today after they had been thrown from the place by two "bouncers."

After a preliminary investigation County Attorney Holly Anderson declared the shooting was "worse than murder."

"I haven't found exactly what is behind all this and I may not be able to make a case, but I certainly am going to raise hell," said Anderson.

The two "bouncers" Tyree Parks and G. R. McCullough declared that Papan and Stewart had attempted a hold up. The men were arrested and Roy Staley, manager of the club, was placed in jail later in the morning.

County Attorney Anderson refused to elaborate his theories on the case and would not say against whom he planned to file charges.

Authorities said no witnesses to the shooting had been found. Guests at the club said they knew nothing of the affray until officers arrived and arrested the "bouncers."

Italians And Ethiopians
Prepare For Big Battle

New Commander of Fascist Forces Preparing To Carry Out Mussolini's Desire For Closing Period of Relative Inactivity

(By The Associated Press)

Italian and Ethiopian troops girded themselves today for a long-heralded decisive battle on eastern war front.

From Asmara, port of entry in the fascist colony of Eritrea, came a report that skirmishes between the opposing armies on the northern front were becoming hotter and the major engagement seemed nearer at hand.

Italian officials said periods of exchanges of fire showed forces of Emperor Haile Selassie were pressing in force against the Fascist front line beyond Makale. The Ethiopian village so easily occupied in the forward advance a few weeks ago.

The new commander of the Italian forces in east Africa, Marshal Badoglio, apparently is preparing for a decisive thrust southward in keeping with a desire of Premier Mussolini to close the period of relative inactivity and pursue the campaign of occupation with more vigor.

At Makale the main armies of the two nations maintain positions within striking distance of each other after a first encounter from which native defenders were reported to have retired. Italian headquarters, there proclaimed officially for the first time the probability of a forthcoming major engagement.

An ominous tenseness was sounded in Rome. Troops which had been expected to depart for the southern front are still in Italy as usually well informed sources said home defenders are being tightened. All naval leaves have been withdrawn by Mussolini. It was reported and some of the sea forces were believed to be concentrated in strategic points against the possibility of Mediterranean hostilities.

Speculation centered on the possibility that troops are being marshalled for any eventuality arising from the European tension over the application of league of nations sanctions against Italy.

All of the standing committees of the board were reappointed for the coming year.

D. C. Wilson was appointed superintendent of the County Home. He succeeds J. O. Harris.

The meeting was the final one of the year and the commissioners faced with a number of year-end routine matters spent two days in busy sessions rounding up pending business preparatory to beginning the new year.

WEED PRICES

Despite Recent Low
Grades Average Remains Over $21

With the date for the closing of the Greenville tobacco market set for Friday, December 13, only poor grades were being offered for sale on the local mart.

Tuesday's sales lacked only 12 pounds of reaching the 60,000,000 mark for the season, the estimate set in the early part of the season.

The official average for the season remained above the 21-cent mark despite offerings for the past few weeks have been of the poorest grades. At the close of business Tuesday, the average for the season was $21.07 per hundredweight. A total of $12,644,076.36 has been paid farmers selling their leaf on the local warehouses.

Sales yesterday amounted to only $4,036 pounds and brought growers $47,012.59, for an average of $13.85.

CALIFORNIA TURKEY CROP
'ESCAPES' THANKSGIVING

San Francisco (AP)—Thanksgiving Day and turkeys have a close association, but in California the holiday brings consumption of only 15 to 20 per cent of the state's gobbling crop.

Another 35 per cent goes to market ordinarily during the Christmas season, while the remainder is sold over the counter after the first of the year, says George Malkins, manager of California Turkey Growers Association, a co-operative organization.

Mrs. Thomas O'Berry, State Relief Administrator, Says Offices To Be Locked

Raleigh all relief offices in North Carolina will be closed Thursday night when direct relief work in the state is discontinued.

Mrs. Thomas O'Berry, state relief administrator, said all the local headquarters scattered over the state would be locked tight against relief clients from morning and thereafter.

Office workers, however, must file records and other matters which need to be straightened out later.

The personnel of the relief organization, already reduced 60 per cent since September, will be steadily reduced as liquidation proceeds.

There were 44,423 families on relief rolls November 30.

Negro Who Sued
Commissioners
In More Trouble

Lehman Move, Who Charged Commissioners Were Responsible for "Kangaroo Court" Sent to Roads

Lehman Move, negro well known in police circles here, is in trouble again, but he was not sent to the county jail, but direct from Mayor's court to the county prison camp.

Move was the negro who brought suit against the county commissioners charging they were responsible for treatment he received in "kangaroo court" while in jail on a previous indictment.

The case was disposed of last month when the Supreme Court ruled Superior Court Judge M. V. Barrhill was in error when he denied the commissioners a demurrer.

Move was given a 30-day road sentence by Mayor M. K. Blount this morning on charges of disorderly conduct.

GAS CHAMBER GIVEN OKAY BY PRISON HEAD

Howling of Dogs in Tests Said Involuntary

FIRST VICTIM SET
FOR DECEMBER 13

George France, Convicted of Criminal Assault in Rockingham County, First

Raleigh, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Carpus M. Waynick, state highway public works commission chairman, said today testing of North Carolina's new lethal gas chamber has been completed and it will be certified at once to the Governor as ready for use.

Two dogs have been put to death in the chamber and although both howled loudly, medical authorities said the howling was involuntary and the animals were not in pain.

George France, alias Jake Johnson, convicted of criminal assault in Rockingham County is scheduled to be the first victim of the death chamber. France received a reprieve some time ago while the chamber was being constructed, but Edwin M. Gill, parole commissioner, indicated today he did not intend further gubernatorial intervention for the negro who is scheduled to die December 13.

Due to the fact his crime was committed prior to July one, when the new law became effective, there is still some question as to whether he should have been sentenced to die by gas or the electric chair, and a ruling of the attorney general may be sought this week.

Hull Reiterates
His Determination
On War Materials

Makes Statement to Press on Shipments of War Materials to Italy and Ethiopia

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Secretary Hull reiterated to the press today this government's determination to do all it can to discourage abnormal sales of commodities classed as "war materials" to warring Italy and Ethiopia.

The state department head made this statement in parrying a direct question on whether new legislative authority would be required to embargo war material as distinguished from actual arms and ammunition.

Without commenting directly on reports that new legislation must precede any official steps to halt shipments of such commodities as oil, copper and cotton, Hull said there had been no variation from the government's policy as set previously.

The present neutrality law makes it mandatory upon the president to declare an embargo on exports of arms, ammunition and implements of war. It has been the general opinion that this does not permit an extension of such an embargo to materials such as copper and oil, despite their value in military campaigns.

Boost In Income
For Longer Hours
Fails to End Strike

1,500 Works Progress Administration Workers in Florida Refuse
To Accept Longer Week

Key West, Fla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—A boost in income for longer working weeks failed to end the strike of 1,500 works progress administration employees here today.

Following yesterday's protest against a monthly wage of $24.60, project workers refused at a mass meeting to return despite an offer of 25 per cent increase for wages for a five day work week instead of four.

Louis Avila, chairman of the strike committee, said the wage boost without longer hours would have been accepted.

We would welcome an investigation of living conditions in Key West as compared with New York city which has granted special considerations in the wage scale," Avila said.

An increase in prices of commodities in Key West had increased 25 per cent since the Labor Day hurricane, he said.

C. N. MILLER BE SPEAKER

To Address Group Boy Scout Confer- ence at Wilson

Charles N. Miller of the National Boy Scout headquarters has been chosen as speaker for a Scout group conference set for Wilson Wednesday, December 11. Local officials announced today.

The national Scout executive was chosen for the group conference in finance and Scout council administration. He will be introduced by Kenneth G. Bentz, regional executive of Region six of the Boy Scouts of America.

Kenneth G. Bentz, Regional Executive of Region 6 of the Boy Scouts of America, will introduce the speaker at 10:00 Wednesday, December 11. Mr. Miller is held at several different Scout's throughout Region 6, with two of them to be held in North Carolina. The East Carolina Council will act as host to Scouters from the Tuscarora Council, with headquarters at Goldsboro. Representatives for the East Carolina Council will come from Greenville, Washington, Rocky Mount, and Wilson. Among those expected from Greenville are: Dr. G. R. Combs, J. H. Waldrop, B. B. Sugg, Guy Smith, K. T. Futrell, Rev. W. A. Ryan, J. E. Winslow, C. W. Howard, W. E. Hooker, J. H. Rose, J. H. Overton, E. L. Henderson, R. L. Powell, Charles Whedbee and Berry Bostic.

Charles N. Miller, Assistant National Director, Division of Operations, Boy Scouts of America, has been active in Scouting for many years, first serving as a Scoutmaster in Los Angeles, Calif., in 1916. His great interest in Scouting caused him to give up active leadership in the field of physical education in 1918 in order to devote his entire time to Scouting, becoming Executive of the Los Angeles County Council.

In 1919 he became Deputy, then National Field Executive of Division VI with jurisdiction over eleven western states. When the entire country was reorganized and divided into twelve Scout Regions in 1921, Mr. Miller was selected to serve as Executive of the Twelfth Region, comprising the states of California, Utah, Nevada and Arizona. He served in that capacity until December 1927, when he was chosen to serve as Assistant National Field Director, broadening his service to the Scout Councils of the entire country through the Field Department.

In January 1931, at which time the new Divisional Plan became effective at the National Office, Mr. Miller was named to serve as Assistant National Director of the Division of Operations, which position he now holds.

Mr. Miller was born in Milton, Mass., in 1889, is married and has one son. After graduation he served as Director in the Department of Recreation in Boston, Mass. During his years at Harvard he directed private camps in the summers and in 1912 he was called to Los Angeles to serve in the Physical Department of Los Angeles School and supervisor of the Recreational Playgrounds of that city.

Region No. Twelve, during his incumbency, became the first Region to bring all of its territory under First Class Council supervision. Later, Mr. Miller was very active in completing the extension of the First Class Council Plan of organization in many other sections of the country. He has served as advisor to many Councils on financial matters and has also extensively aided in the development of financial support for Scouting on a Regional and Local basis, conducting numerous campaigns and assisting in the building up of permanent financial constitutions.

President Kendall Helms, of the East Carolina Council, will serve as Chairman of the Conference.

When this same course was given at the Mortimer L. Schiff Scout Reservation last year, the East Carolina Council was represented by Leon A. Keaton, Assistant Scout Executive at that time. He gave the course the best recommendation and by popular request it is being brought to the East Carolina Council.

Bloodhounds Seen To Have Nose For Locating Whiskey

Only Quantity of Liquor Found
Dog Follow Trail in Wilson
County for Ten Miles

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Dec. 3.—The bloodhounds belonging to Superintendent W. R. Brooks of the Wilson county prison camp turned out to be boozehounds when used last Saturday in an effort to trace down some marauders who broke into a house near Lucama, Assistant Director of Prisons L. G. Whitley said today.

While the bloodhounds followed the tracks of the house breaker for almost ten miles, all that was found at the end of the trail were two five gallon demijohns of liquor hidden in a thicket in a dense woods, Whitley said.

"It is hard to say whether they are tracking or sniffing booze when they turn out to be boozehounds instead of bloodhounds," Whitley said. "But since they found the hidden ten gallons of liquor by tracking the men who broke into the house for about ten miles from the scent of their shoes and not by the smell of the booze, I guess the dogs must be improving."

Since the trail stopped where the liquor cache was found, officers believe that the men sought must have had an automobile or truck parked there and left it, after unloading the demijohns of liquor.

CHINA'S TRAVEL DECREES PALE JAPANESE TRADERS

Nanking, AP.—Japanese who wish to go places and do things in China complained to the Japanese firms to send salesmen into the interior.

The embassy, carrying these complaints to the Chinese ministry of foreign affairs, insisted that Japanese citizens be given the right to travel freely.

The Chinese government pointed out that bandits and communists are abroad in many districts and that it wants no recurrence of such incidents as the murder of Gareth Jones, former secretary to David Lloyd George. The regulations apply to all foreigners alike. Japanese embassy officials make the point that the restrictions are being carried to a ridiculous extreme. Among the provinces "absolutely unsafe for travelers" is Fungsi, in which Shanghai and Nanking are situated.

Mrs. Austin Entertains

The Round Table met December third with Mrs. H. E. Austin, where the greetings of friendship, the beautiful flowers in the gold of the club colors and the softening rays of the afternoon sunshine furnished inspiration for a delightful occasion.

Guests of the afternoon who added much pleasure were Mrs. J. L. Lewis and Mrs. Carl Adams. Mrs. G. R. Conner was welcomed as guest for the club year. In response to roll call each one gave a spicy confession of her pet extravagance.

The invitation of the End of the Century Club to share her Christmas meeting of the Campus Building, "A Christmas Carol" was gladly accepted.

Mrs. H. L. Carr was presented as leader for the day and her subject, "Shrines Across the Mississippi" was extremely interesting and splendidly rendered. She described (1) the "Natchez Trace," the oldest highway in the entire nation, telling also what is hoped to be accomplished there.

(2) "The church of the Redeemer," a Confederate Shrine, one of the Biloxi Diocese, with a strong appeal as a place of historic interest. It contains Jefferson Davis' pew and many other Memorials of the Davis' family.

"The Jefferson Davis Highway" proposed and fostered by the Daughters of the Confederacy, inaugurated as Memorial, historical and educational work in keeping with this tenets of that order.

(4) "The Alamo," the ancient Spanish Mission that became the cradle of Texas liberty.

Mrs. Herbert, Re Barker, gave pertinent phases of the problem of the unemployment of youth as the current event.

The hostess, assisted by little Mary Elizabeth Austin and Miss Nellie Denny served a very tempting salad course.

Announcement Party

Nashville, N. C., Dec. 4.—On Saturday afternoon Miss Helen Strickland charmingly entertained at her home in Nashville, having as guest of honor Miss Helen Burnette, of Greenville. During the course of the bridge party Miss Strickland's engagement to Mr. R. Troy Burnette, of Greenville, was announced. Chrysanthemums in varied hues were used with ferns in the library and living room to enhance the attractiveness of the home. At the conclusion of the spirited games high and second score awards went to Miss Delia Batchelor and Mrs. R. J. Plyler and to Miss Burnette who was also remembered with a gift.

Dainty ices and cakes of green and white were served after the play. French Vanilla cream being topped with two tiny cooling doves. On each plate was a larger dove bearing the message, "Troy-Helen, December 28," announcing the engagement of Miss Strickland to Troy Burnette, of Greenville.

Miss Strickland is the daughter of Mr. N. L. Strickland and the late Mrs. Strickland of Nashville. Mr. Burnette is the son of Mrs. R. T. Burnette and the late Mr. Burnette, of Greenville.

Both Miss Strickland and her fiancé are popularly known in the state, where they number many friends who will be interested in the

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has sent out a call for extra shifts to run off enough stamps for Yuletide bottles of whiskey, rum, brandy, gin and the like. Withdrawals of booze from government warehouses during September and October in preparation for holiday trade touched the record of 13,500,000 gallons of whiskey alone. It was less than 9,000,000 gallons last year. Withdrawals of other forms of liquor have jumped in proportion.
Treasury agents are conducting shock-troop drive against bootleggers to insure that celebrants drink legal stuff. The Coast Guard squadron in the New York-New England district went without holidays before Thanksgiving so all force could be mobilized in combating smugglers. Rum Row consists of only six ships, mostly Algerian, whereas a few months ago there were twenty-five vessels. The capacity of seized stills is running much smaller than last year. So much so that stills should be mostly in the up-and-up.

NEVER MIND THE LADY
by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett has been through a bombshell into the midst of the embassy ball. He has told George Fox, the attaché, that he intends to see that a shipment of his equipment, being delayed by the notice government, gets aboard ship tonight. Fox knows it means trouble, so does Allaire West. But Allaire sees to it that Fox does not follow Terry to the docks. She sends him out on the dance floor to separate her mother from an adventure named LaMar.

Chapter Eight
UNINVITED GUEST
Allaire hated it—the whole stuffy, stifling, ceaseless round: Nell West dueling her husband on a mutual ground of fashionable hypocrisy, handsome young men with a business address as a matter of form, polo and tea dances their career.

Breathe!—with the whipping, cutting lash of air. Tomorrow she took up a piano, and tonight she wanted to forget it. Above the silken music of the orchestra was the distant note of a brass band. Follow the parade!

Noises, the Embassy runner, was talking patronizingly to a carriage driver. Carriage?—too slow. Noises jumped at her summons.
"Mr. Fox's car," she requested.
"Ou est-il, no damn it, that's French. Where the dickens is Señor Fox's car, old top?"

Noises understood enough to lead her to the attaché's long low roadster. Allaire contemplated it approvingly, and slid in behind the wheel.
"Get in," she directed the runner.
"You have to direct me to Rosina B. Rosina B—ships—too! Vapor—Rosina B—"

"Rosina B?" Noises pronounced it "bay." He looked anxiously at the lovely, dark-eyed girl impatiently awaiting him. "But, pardon, señorita, I don't understand—Rosina B?"
"Vámos," she ordered, and blew the horn in lieu of further Spanish. Noises scrambled in beside her. And he hadn't been riding a block before he would have been quite content to get out.

Silver drum headlights cutting the darkness, winking the occasional street lamps, speeding out of the residential section into the metropolitan area, rolling through the broad streets of this City of the Dons as though they were on a track in the middle of an open prairie.
Noises jabbered directions with stabs of his finger, and muttered prayers under his breath. These crazy Americans—beautiful but crazy. The señorita wanted to get to Rosina B—!
They roared down the leafy Balneario drive, passing scattered carriages, racing right up on top of them and then slithering past as the girl at the big wheel moved her hands slightly.

And then as they turned off the Balneario into a waterfront drive that led to the docks the lights seized upon a lone ambling carriage. The girl nodded and brought the car to a stop.
"Much obliged," she told her guide. "Vámos."

She pulled out some banknotes from her silver mesh bag and pressed them into his hand. Noises looked at them and got out shaking with emotion.
"Sorry," she told him, "to leave you here, but that ought to get you back."

Back? He could go back on a battleship, by damn! He burst into a torrent of thanks, but she'd forgotten him. Already she was shifting into gear, a slow smile curving her lips.

"LORD!" breathed Terry Willett. He gave a quick command to the driver and stepped out of the carriage.
Allaire lounged behind the wheel, her hair in thick wind-blown confusion, the evening wrap sliding off one bare shoulder.

"Would you mind awfully," she asked tranquilly, "if I went with you?"
He'd thought he was prepared for anything.
"Why?" he heard himself say.

"Oh—," she waved a slim, delicate hand. "I'm one of those people who pay a grizzly bear on the nose to see if he's friendly."

He looked at her a long moment. Funny things, women. This one, for example, she blazed across his life like a rocket.
"You'd better go back. You'll only be bored."

"The evening," she assented, with a quick nod of her blonde head, "is all that way."

"Then," said Terry Willett, "why don't you get Fox to take you to the Long-sponsored legislation directing their expenditure be repealed. The delta politics might have struck a better bargain if they hadn't developed the jitters when their "kingfish" was assassinated. Immediately they raised a white flag. Their panicky state was a complete give-away of their inner weakness and they were marked for political slaughter by the excruciations at the Capital.

CONTRARY: Democratic higher and patronage. Mr. Ickes won't discuss certain PWA funds until he was Washington that Jim Hargis receives written assurances that may be available for the Democratic senatorial nomination next year. The shift would solve several quandries confronting the Farleyites. It might also satisfy many Michigan Republicans.

Henry Ford's former partner has supported FDR on most major Senate votes. He is understood to favor the President against any Republican rival now in the head-lines. Mr. Couzens once offered to finance a Borah-for-President movement but he got neither an acceptance nor a thank you from Mr. Borah. You can imagine how the sensitive and explosive Couzens feels toward the Idahoan now.

For Mr. Couzens to run as a Republican while backing FDR would cause all kinds of inter-party chaos. The Democrats would put up their own man and demand White House support. GOP-ers would resent Mr. Couzens' open endorsement of the President if he gave it. Most plausible reason given for the Senator's reported shift is that he "likes to be different—contrary."

AUTHOR: As campaign time approaches, Democrats quote Herbert Hoover more often than FDR in support of several New Deal experiments. They blame—or credit—the former President with authorship of many reforms now assailed by Henry Fletcher's battery of propagandists.

The AAA is no outrageous New Deal Monster," says one of the lawyers who will defend its legality before the Supreme Court. "It is the culmination of numerous schemes for relief of the farmer enacted by one or both branches of a Republican Congress in the last decade. It embraces the domestic allotment scheme, the McNary-Haugen plan, the export bounty program, the old farm board's idea of production control. Mr. Hoover was mixed up in most of these movements as Cabinet member or President. All we have done is to recognize that human nature is weak by adding benefit payments."

The New Dealers also cite Mr. Hoover's handling of relief for banks and industries through his RFC and his grants to drought-stricken farmers and urban sufferers from the depression. To hear them talk, Mr. Roosevelt has simply expanded and stepped up his predecessor's ideas. But when these citations were relayed to Mr. Hoover, he grinned: "I don't appreciate the compliment."

VETERANS: Shrewd soldier-politicians shiver lest their political representatives at Washington muss up the bonus bill again, although the stage seems set for its passage even over a presidential veto.
Veterans on the pay roll have hinted that they will demand World War pensions on a vast scale once they liquidate their certificates ten years ahead of time. James E. Van Zandt, head of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, lists pensions as the next trench to be taken on Capitol Hill. Certain American Legion lobbyists are also known to be preparing more diplomatically for a pension drive.

Small things show how the war wind blows. James Mck. Lewis was recently discharged after serving as Legion contact man with Capitol Hill for twelve years. His offense was that he had counseled against Legion action in favor of pensions. Heads understood to be writing unknown history in a book entitled "The Veterans and Taxes." It is scheduled for publication about the time that the Argonne push for the bonus reaches the Congressional trenches.

NOTES: State authorities in Texas are co-operating to discourage oil exports to Italy. . . . Stoppage of processioning tax payments doesn't prevent sending out farm benefit checks—war relief funds can be drawn on. . . . A heavy slash in slow and costly public works is impending. . . . Interest on public debt now amounts to more than the entire cost of government in Wilson's time. But revenues are much greater also.

INDEPENDENT: Financial leaders sardonically comment that the teamwork between the White House and the Federal Trade Commission isn't so hot. Here FDR is trying his damndest to convince business that the breathing spell is genuine and that it doesn't need to worry about regimentation any more when along comes the Commission and demands that the anti-trust laws be stiffened. This gives industry a beautiful excuse to doubt the sincerity of Mr. Roosevelt's swing to the right and to redouble its efforts to separate him from his job. Right wing leaders figure that the Trade Commission's outburst of zeal will bring many wavering business men safely back to anti-New Deal fold.

RAILS: The Transportation Association of America—formed primarily to keep the railroads out of the clutches of public ownership—is beginning to get effectively organized. It has influential backers who include big shippers as well as new in and around Detroit urging automobile workers to join the miners' organization. They are told they will not have to pay any dues for two years—and confidential reports indicate that an impressive number of recruits are falling in line.

OFFHAND it doesn't seem to make sense—motor labor joining hands with the United Mine Workers. But Lewis is playing his cards astutely. The enrolling is done among workers who do not belong to craft classifications—thus sidestepping jurisdictional disputes. The new members, not paying dues, don't vote in United Mine Workers affairs—so there are no complications on that score. The object is to create a strong nucleus for a new union in the auto industry under the United Mine Workers' wing. The Federation can't interfere with the enrollment of any member union as long as there is no jurisdictional clash with any other existing union.

Eventually, when a big enough group of auto laborers belong to the United Mine Workers, the plan will be to have them apply for a Federation charter of their own. Naturally they will be organized strictly on industrial union lines. Sponsors of this strategy are confident that the Federation will not dare refuse the application. Bill Green may hurl Olmpanian thunder at the Committee for Industrial Organization but that won't stop Lewis and his supporters any more than a bee can stop a battleship.

IGNORER: The Federal Reserve Advisory Council—composed of bankers—lived up to its title at its recent meeting by recommending that the Reserve Banks should start selling their government securities in order to cut down member bank excess reserves and minimize the possibility of excessive credit expansion.

There's about as much chance that the Reserve Board or the Reserve Banks will heed that advice as there is that Halle Selassie will be the next King of England.

There is too much Treasury financing still to be done to take a chance on a move that might depress the government bond market. Conservatives also remark caustically that this would be too orthodox a maneuver to appeal to Washington. The Council's views have been ignored so often in the past two years that some Wall Streeters wonder why it takes the trouble to meet.

STRAW: Informed New Yorkers doubt that Premier Laval's initial victory in the French Chamber of Deputies means much. It was unlikely that parliament would try to throw him out of office the first day before it had a chance to get its bearings.

The continued tension in the international situation is the biggest factor in Laval's favor. Even his opponents admit he has done more than anyone else to prevent a general European war. It was he who persuaded the British that Mussolini wasn't kidding when he said that an oil embargo by the League of Nations would be considered an act of war—and thus forestalled hasty action that might have started something serious.

But the French internal situation is so bad insiders can't see how Laval can hang on for long. It and when his cabinet falls the event will probably inspire a fresh flight of capital from France which might well be the final straw to break the gold standard camel's back—either by way of a gold embargo or outright devaluation. A violent flare-up between the Fascist Croix de Feu and leftist partisans at the same time would be no surprise.

The object is to create a strong nucleus for a new union in the auto industry under the United Mine Workers' wing. The Federation can't interfere with the enrollment of any member union as long as there is no jurisdictional clash with any other existing union.

Eventually, when a big enough group of auto laborers belong to the United Mine Workers, the plan will be to have them apply for a Federation charter of their own. Naturally they will be organized strictly on industrial union lines. Sponsors of this strategy are confident that the Federation will not dare refuse the application. Bill Green may hurl Olmpanian thunder at the Committee for Industrial Organization but that won't stop Lewis and his supporters any more than a bee can stop a battleship.

IGNORER: The Federal Reserve Advisory Council—composed of bankers—lived up to its title at its recent meeting by recommending that the Reserve Banks should start selling their government securities in order to cut down member bank excess reserves and minimize the possibility of excessive credit expansion.

There's about as much chance that the Reserve Board or the Reserve Banks will heed that advice as there is that Halle Selassie will be the next King of England.

There is too much Treasury financing still to be done to take a chance on a move that might depress the government bond market. Conservatives also remark caustically that this would be too orthodox a maneuver to appeal to Washington. The Council's views have been ignored so often in the past two years that some Wall Streeters wonder why it takes the trouble to meet.

STRAW: Informed New Yorkers doubt that Premier Laval's initial victory in the French Chamber of Deputies means much. It was unlikely that parliament would try to throw him out of office the first day before it had a chance to get its bearings.

The continued tension in the international situation is the biggest factor in Laval's favor. Even his opponents admit he has done more than anyone else to prevent a general European war. It was he who persuaded the British that Mussolini wasn't kidding when he said that an oil embargo by the League of Nations would be considered an act of war—and thus forestalled hasty action that might have started something serious.

But the French internal situation is so bad insiders can't see how Laval can hang on for long. It and when his cabinet falls the event will probably inspire a fresh flight of capital from France which might well be the final straw to break the gold standard camel's back—either by way of a gold embargo or outright devaluation. A violent flare-up between the Fascist Croix de Feu and leftist partisans at the same time would be no surprise.

INDEPENDENT: Financial leaders sardonically comment that the teamwork between the White House and the Federal Trade Commission isn't so hot. Here FDR is trying his damndest to convince business that the breathing spell is genuine and that it doesn't need to worry about regimentation any more when along comes the Commission and demands that the anti-trust laws be stiffened. This gives industry a beautiful excuse to doubt the sincerity of Mr. Roosevelt's swing to the right and to redouble its efforts to separate him from his job. Right wing leaders figure that the Trade Commission's outburst of zeal will bring many wavering business men safely back to anti-New Deal fold.

RAILS: The Transportation Association of America—formed primarily to keep the railroads out of the clutches of public ownership—is beginning to get effectively organized. It has influential backers who include big shippers as well as new in and around Detroit urging automobile workers to join the miners' organization. They are told they will not have to pay any dues for two years—and confidential reports indicate that an impressive number of recruits are falling in line.

OFFHAND it doesn't seem to make sense—motor labor joining hands with the United Mine Workers. But Lewis is playing his cards astutely. The enrolling is done among workers who do not belong to craft classifications—thus sidestepping jurisdictional disputes. The new members, not paying dues, don't vote in United Mine Workers affairs—so there are no complications on that score. The object is to create a strong nucleus for a new union in the auto industry under the United Mine Workers' wing. The Federation can't interfere with the enrollment of any member union as long as there is no jurisdictional clash with any other existing union.

Eventually, when a big enough group of auto laborers belong to the United Mine Workers, the plan will be to have them apply for a Federation charter of their own. Naturally they will be organized strictly on industrial union lines. Sponsors of this strategy are confident that the Federation will not dare refuse the application. Conservation Director Bags 3 Geese One Shot

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Dec. 4.—In addition to establishing an avian record as a conservationist, H. Bruce Etheridge, director of the State Department of Conservation and Development, is becoming known as a hunter of ability.

The conservation director recently accomplished a feat which elicits the envy of hunters by killing three geese with one shot. Mr. Etheridge was in a blind in his home county of Dare when the unusual incident occurred.

Immediately after occupying the blind, a flock of geese came in to the hunter and a single shot brought down three handsome Canada geese. Within a few minutes another shot brought down the fourth goose, the legal limit for the day. His total bag was taken in about an hour and Mr. Etheridge was forced to suspend his hunt for the day.

Mr. Etheridge reports the presence of great numbers of geese along the coast. He believes the supply of this type of waterfowl in his section of the state is the largest for several years.

Conservationists are looking forward to the creation of a large Federal migratory waterfowl refuge in Dare county below Oregon Inlet within the next few months. Recent reports are to the effect that an area of approximately 25,000 acres on this portion of the "banks" has been optioned by the U. S. Biological Survey.

An experiment which is hoped will be a constructive move for the attraction of waterfowl is being conducted on the marshes between the beach and Roanoke Island under the direction of the Biological Survey and the state conservation department. Six ponds have been cleared of native growth and hopes are held out that this will be replaced by marsh vegetation which will form more attractive feeding grounds for this type of game.

As a result of this work, the proposed refuge and the general sand fixation program, it is believed that the migratory waterfowl population in the coast will be increased materially during the next several years.

Discussions Of Cotton Problem Set For Meeting

Worries Facing Manufacture of Lint Before 1880 To Be Discussed At Historical Meeting

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Dec. 4.—The cotton manufacturers in North Carolina had their problems back in 1880 and before that time, just as they have troubles and problems today — and some of the problems are very similar now to what they were 75 years ago, according to Dr. C. C. Crittenden, secretary of the State Literary and Historical Association which will meet here the latter part of this week.

At the Friday morning session, to be held in the Mantle room of the Sir Walter Hotel, some of the problems of cotton manufacturers in North Carolina prior to 1880 will be discussed by Mrs. Lucius A. Bigelow, wife of a Duke University professor. This discussion should not prove of interest to historians and those interested in history of the cotton industry in the state, but to others as well, Dr. Crittenden believes.

An address dealing with early explorations, maps and names in North Carolina will also be given by Prof. W. P. Cumming of Davidson College, while Dr. Benjamin F. Siedel of Wake Forest College, one of the states best known poets and men of letters, will present a discussion of North Carolina books and authors of the year.

Raleigh, Dec. 4.—The annual art exhibit brought here each year by the North Carolina State Art Society, of which Mrs. Katherine Pennington Arrington of Warrenton is president and chief patron, will open here tonight in the Sir Walter Hotel. Members and patrons of the art society will hold a brief reception preceding the opening of the exhibit, to hear the annual report of Mrs. Arrington.

A sculpture demonstration will also be given by Miss Brenda Putnam of New York. The paintings to be exhibited this year are by noted New England and North Carolina artists.

TEXAS GRIDIRON RULERS ADOPT NEW AGE PROVISION

Amarillo, Tex. (AP)—The proposed 18-year-old limit for high school football players was unanimously voted down at the meeting of the Panhandle superintendents association here.

Threats of withdrawing from the Texas Interscholastic league if such a rule were put into effect were voiced.

The school men favored a limit of 19 years instead of 20, provided in the previous age rule. Speakers said the 18-year rule was unfair because the average boy doesn't graduate until he is at least 19.

CRAZY TO HAVE A CAR, CAR DRIVES HIM CRAZY

Weatherford, Okla. (AP)—Johnny Klassen, 18, always had been crazy for a car, and now that he has one, it's almost driven him crazy.

The day after he purchased it, all the tires were stolen.

By harvest field labor, he made enough to replace the tires and drove to a tent revival. There the car was stolen.

Klassen pursued in a friend's car, caught his wayward auto and although he recovered it, the two would-be thieves gave Klassen a beating.

Two days later motor trouble developed on a side road and he spent the night in the car.

While it was being towed to Klassen's home it burst into flames. His repair bill equaled his total summer's savings.

State's Prison Hospital Of Most Modern Variety

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Dec. 4.—The remodeled prison hospital, in the west wing of the Central Prison here, is now one of the most modern and complete prison hospitals in the entire United States according to both health and prison authorities. As a result of this new hospital wing, located in the portion of the prison which has been completely fireproofed, it is now possible to provide whatever medical and surgical attention is needed for the more than 2,000 prisoners in the state prison system without taking them to any outside hospital, according to Dr. George S. Coleman, prison physician, and in charge of the prison hospital.

The operating room, on the fourth floor of the hospital wing, has tile floor and wall's and the most modern equipment, including steam sterilizer, x-ray room for doctors and nurses, shower baths and the latest type of focused lighting from the ceiling, so that it is possible to operate any time day or night. Those who have inspected the operating room pronounce it the equal if not the superior to those in many modern hospitals. The prison division expects to save many thousands of dollars a year formerly paid out to various hospitals for surgical and hospital care.

"With the large prison population we have and the large number of prisoners who need medical attention, we handle as many operations in a month as many hospitals handle in an entire year," Dr. Coleman said. "We also handle hundreds of medical cases in the various wards each month at a very small cost compared with the cost if we had to send all these cases to outside hospitals."

All of the corridors and wards have rubber tile floors and hence are almost sound-proof. The walls of the corridors and halls are painted a light cream color so that there is plenty of light. Everything is scrupulously clean, all the way down to the special kitchen in the basement from which the food is distributed to the various wards.

THIS V-8 ENGINE'S WHAT OPENED MY EYES!"

Engineers have known for years the undisputed advantages of the V-type engine... simplicity, economy, compactness, ruggedness. But until Ford announced the first Ford V-8 in 1932, no one had found a way to bring these advantages to the low-priced field.

FORD not only found a way to bring V-8 engine advantages to the low-priced field, but also improved on previous V-8 design... Cylinders and crankcase were cast in one piece (affording even greater ruggedness)... Ignition coil and distributor were combined in one direct-driven unit (giving greater simplicity and dependability).

Since then, this engine has been constantly refined and improved—but the basic features of Ford design have remained unchanged through the production of over two million Ford V-8 engines.

This is the engine that powers the beautiful 1936 Ford V-8. The 8-cylinder engine which, because it is V-type and compact, gives "all that extra room" in the Ford V-8 body. The engine which proved sparkling performance and 8-cylinder smoothness are economical if you have a V-type engine, with dual-downdraft carburetor that takes the "gas" used by a four and splits it into 8 equal charges. The engine that has opened the eyes of over two million Ford V-8 owners.

You'll find such an engine in no other car at anywhere near the price of the Ford V-8 for 1936. Why not arrange to drive one today?

New Attitude of Business Seen as Campaign Factor

Politics Uncertain But Possibilities Are Shown

BUSINESS MEN HAVE MUCH SAY

Almost Impossible to Name President Over Oppositions of Organized Business

By BYRON PRICE

(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Viewed from any angle, the massing of business opposition to President Roosevelt is a matter of prime interest politically, as well as economically.

Politics always is uncertain, but at least interesting possibilities can be predicated on the lessons of political history.

One lesson of the past is that it is almost impossible to elect or re-elect a President over a determined and wisely directed opposition by organized business. From that the Democrats may take warning.

Another is that the bringing together of powerful business organizations for political action usually results in extravagant campaign spending, and is likely to culminate in a scandal benefiting the other side. The Republicans may learn from that.

One way or the other, it is not improbable that business opposition to the Roosevelt policies, and to Mr. Roosevelt himself, will be one of the dominating factors in 1936.

Sentiment Crystallizing

Of course there is nothing new in business distrust of Mr. Roosevelt, or in the prospect that many important business leaders will be against him next year.

The interesting new thing about it, however, is that recently there has been a drawing together of this sentiment, and a tendency to express it in organized fashion.

Wholesale refusal of the utility companies to register under the new holding company act coincides with a number of significant developments elsewhere.

Returns from a referendum among members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, on whose board are represented all of the great financial interests of the country, show an overwhelming majority against current "legislative trends."

The American Bankers Association, in annual convention, gives a cold reception to "new deal" speakers. The Liberty League, which manifestly has ample financial backing, extends its attack to include most of the President's major proposals.

These organizations all maintain they are not in politics, but their effect on politics is beyond dispute.

Campaign Funds

That the Republicans intend to make a thoroughgoing job of raising campaign funds is evident from the personnel of the new finance committee appointed by Chairman Fletcher. It is headed by leaders who represent concerns accustomed to deal in millions.

A year ago the Republicans were having great difficulty raising money. Those who were asked for funds replied in many cases by asking what assurance there was that the party would not go off at a tangent, and permit itself to be dominated by the radical elements, particularly in the west.

The general tenor of discussion at the "grass roots" conference appears to have satisfied many eastern Republicans that the party would at least be more conservative than the Democrats.

The danger of too much emphasis on financial backing is illustrated by the experience of Edward F. Hutton, chairman of General Foods. He urged business, in a magazine article, to "gang up" against administration policies, but he found it advisable later to withdraw the expression and explain that he only meant "get together."

Too Early To Conclude

It would be easy to draw hasty conclusions from all of this, with no facts to support them.

For one thing, the degree to which all business, big and little, is against the President has not been established. The Democrats contend that they will have much business and banking support next year, particularly from communities largely dependent on agriculture.

Another thing to be borne in mind is that the mere existence of important financial backing for the Republicans does not prove that the election is to be "bought," or that any illegal or immoral methods are to be indulged in. The legitimate expenses of a national campaign are tremendous, and both parties spend plenty of money when they have it.

All that can be done now is to note the facts as they exist, and wonder what may come out of them.

Why Gamble With Wrecks

Have the mis-lined steering and front end aligned today and save money. Out of line wheels wear tires rapidly and causes the car to road wander and weave, conditions that make driving unsafe. Protect your family and passengers, line up with BEAR and make your car safe for the highways.

We have mechanics especially trained in BODY—FENDER—GLASS—UPHOLSTERY—MOTOR and CHASSIS repairs.

We invite you to ask for estimates.
