Soviet Minister Handed Passport By Uruguayan Foreign Official Today

Measures Are Taken Against Alarmist Revolt Rumors

BORDER PATROLS ARE REINFORCED

Move Attributed To Ramifications Of November Extremist Uprising

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The Republic of Uruguay today broke relations with Soviet Russia.

The Uruguayan government taking strong precautionary measures against alarmist rumors of armed revolt, today handed Soviet Minister Alexander Minkin and his staff their passports.

This decision signifying a break in diplomatic relations between Russian and the only Soviet American country to recognize the Soviet government was attributed to ramifications of the November extremist uprising in Brazil, Uruguay's neighbor.

A Brazilian government communication charged that instruction to leaders of the November rebellion were dispatched from Montevideo.

Raid and troops movements accompanied the Uruguayan government's activities in the face of reports of an immediate insurrection within its own borders, but nothing was found to confirm the reports.

Automobiles and trains leaving and entering Montevideo were closely watched, troops reinforced the guards along the Brazilian borders and police descended on homes of several alleged opposing elements.

SNOW CARPET MELTING AWAY

At Least 207 Die Indirectly From The Weather

Chicago, Dec. 27.—(AP)—A raw snow carpet rolled out of the west today carrying warmer weather for a frost-bitten nation.

It was due to white precipitation in which zero temperatures dealt death, directly or indirectly, to at least 207 persons in the last two days.

All but four states—Washington, Oregon, California and Nevada—shivered under freezing temperatures when the snow wave began winging eastward. The number of deaths continued to mount. Eight more were added to the list of exposure victims, four in Illinois, three in Pennsylvania, and one in North Carolina, boosting the total to 63. A fourth person died from burns in a CCC camp fire at Waterbury, Vt. Traffic deaths rose to 87 with a new accident record in Michigan.

The frigid wave produced a zero temperature at Oakland, Md., where Mike Lassey, Piedmont, W. Va., owner of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, snatched an unidentified CCC youth from the tracks in front of a locomotive.

All the southland was due for another freeze tonight, even the north of Florida.

Only nine of 47 eastern cities reporting weather readings at 8 a. m. had temperatures above freezing.

Vessel Abandoned By 100 Passengers Who Start Walking

Start Long Trek Across Ice After Pressure Threatens To Crash Ship's Hull

Viadovostok, Russia, Dec. 27.—(AP)—One hundred passengers have abandoned the stranded Soviet steamer Lozovski and are trekking across eight miles of ice to the shore of the Okhotsk sea it was learned today.

The Lozovski, a 2,000-ton freight and passenger vessel was caught in the ice while en route to Viadovostok from Sakhalin Island and reported that the ice pressure threatened to crash its hull.

NOTICES SENT LINT GROWERS

Cotton Parity Checks Ready for Distribution

Notices to approximately 1,500 cotton farmers in the county to call at the offices of the county farm agent and secure their parity checks were being mailed out today.

The payments, amounting to $24,294.53, will be made on 40 per cent of production shown in the individual contracts.

Two rental cotton payments have already been made, but the checks awaiting delivery at the county agent's office represent the first parity payments in the county. Virtually all cotton parity checks to be disbursed in the county are in the group just received here from Washington.

Notices also were being sent to 79 peanut growers to call for their adjustment payments, these checks having been received, too. The peanut checks on hand complete all but four of these payments, and total $3,759.81.

OLD LICENSE LIMIT NEARS

Short Time to Get New Automobile Plates

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Dec. 27.—Only four more days remain, including today, in which to buy the new 1936 automobile license plates, Director R. R. McLaughlin of the motor vehicle bureau of the State Department of Revenue pointed out today.

He urged all those car owners who have not yet purchased their new license plates to do so at once under the risk of being arrested after January 1. "If those who have not yet purchased their new license plates will either go to the nearest branch office today or tomorrow and buy them or order them by mail from the bureau here in Raleigh, they can avoid possible serious delay and get their licenses before January 1," McLaughlin said. "For there is always such a rush the last day or two that some are unable to get their new licenses in time to use them. Another consideration is that there will be no extension granted, which means that those who take the risk of driving their cars with the old 1935 license plates after January 1, will run the risk of arrest by the highway patrol. So the wise thing to do is for those who do not yet have their new licenses to get them at once."

Morgan and Lamont First Witnesses Called By Senate Finance

Washington, Dec. 27.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan and Thomas W. Lamont, partners in Morgan & Co., will be the first witnesses called by the Senate subcommittee committee January 7 in its investigation of whether loans to the allies helped lead America into the world war.

This was announced today as the committee members laid plans for hearings on which they will base their drive for broader neutrality legislation.

At the same time committee investigation made public by two members of the committee, Clark (D-Mo.) and Nye (R-N.H.), reviewing the part played by war-time Secretary of State Robert L. Lansing in advocating that the government permit the allies to borrow money in the country for continued war purchases before the United States entered the conflict.

TURKEY FORMALLY AT WAR
Istanbul.—(AP)—Turkey has discovered suddenly that she still is formally at war with the smallest republic in Europe.

A Turkish citizen was refused admission to San Marino because, it was said, he is a subject of a belligerent power.

In world war days San Marino, a republic of 32 square miles in central Italy, declared war on Turkey simultaneously with Italy.

When peace treaties were negotiated San Marino was overlooked.

PIERRE LAVAL ARGUES STAND ON PEACE PACT

Explains His Part In Rejected Proposal To Deputies

ALL SIDES ARGUE ILL FATED PLAN

War in East Africa Continues on With Italian Planes Dropping More Bombs

(By The Associated Press)
Premier Pierre Laval, backstopped by Minister Pierre Edouard G. Herriot faced the French Chamber of Deputies today explaining the part he played in writing the rejected proposal to end the Italo-Ethiopian war.

While the politicians, on both sides argued the potential merits of the ill-fated peace proposal, the war in East Africa moved on. The latest Italian action, the Ethiopian government reported, consisted of efforts to stir up a native revolt in Gojjam province against payment of imperial taxes. Official sources at Addis Ababa denied the revolt was already underway.

An official communique from Rome announced renewed classes in the north in which Ethiopians were said to have suffered heavy losses, and the invaders lost nine men and 50 were wounded.

Bombing planes to the South dropped explosions on native concentrations menacing general Graziani's army at Dolo.

Additional Nurse Will Be Employed At Health Office

Miss Mary Ann Crockett of Williamson to Take Over New Duties Here Monday Morning

Miss Mary Ann Crockett of Williamson will be added to the force of the Pitt county health office, effective Monday, thereby bringing the number employed in public health work in the community to six.

The services of Miss Crockett were provided by the United States Public Health service with funds provided for in the Security act of the last session of Congress.

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county health officer, in announcing the addition to his staff of Miss Crockett, said definite arrangement had been made for the employment of the new nurse only until February 1, but added he felt Miss Crockett would be continued in the position indefinitely.

Miss Crockett, who completed a course in nursing at Peabody college at Nashville, Tenn., will aid Miss Edna McKee, chief county nurse.

In addition to Dr. Ennett and Miss McKee, the county health office force at present is composed of J. P. Stowe, sanitary inspector and Miss Susie Bursell, secretary. Hannah Hilton is colored nurse for the department.

Credit Association To Take Applications

The Greenville Production Credit Association will begin receiving applications for loans January 1st, 1936.

J. C. Galloway, secretary-treasurer of the Greenville Production Credit Association, reported today the association has had a successful year, $223,000.00 having been loaned to 531 individuals, 99 per cent of which has been collected to date. Other collections are expected in the near future.

The stockholders of the association have expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the way their loans are being handled.

Anyone interested in securing a loan for crop production for the year 1936 is invited to call at the office of the association and discuss the matter with the secretary. The Pitt County office is located in Room 203 of the Blount Building and the Greene County office is located in the office of Walter G. Sheppard, Greene County representative. Applications will be accepted at either office.

The annual stockholders meeting will be held January 11, 10:00 a. m. in the Court House in Greenville and the public is invited to attend.

Madrid Raskickers Doomed

Madrid (AP)—Madrid's city government has decided that the work of the city's traditional raskickers in going through trash cans in the streets in the early morning is unhygienic and all licenses to pick rags have been withdrawn.

FORETOLD THELMA TODD'S DEATH

Mahlon Norvell, Hollywood astrologer, who predicted a "mysterious tragedy" would take the life of a well known blonde actress in 1935, said he knew it would be Thelma Todd, but in such cases he never names the person. Norvell sees 1936 as a more unhappy year than this one for movie stars. He is shown with Florence Rice, screen actress, predicting a good future. (Associated Press Photo)

MORE TALK OF PEACE HEARD

Ethiopian League Delegation Authorized Talk Peace

Addis Ababa, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Reliable sources disclosed today the Ethiopian delegation to the League of Nations has been authorized to discuss peace.

The basis on which the delegation was authorized to talk of a settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war was said to be a program involving the following five points:

1. Withdrawal of Italian troops from Ethiopia.
2. Recognition of Ethiopia's sovereignty.
3. Payment of an indemnity of Italy.
4. Delimitation of the boundaries between representative and the Italian colonies in Eastern Africa by a league of nations commission.
5. Agreement by Emperor Haile Selassie that Ethiopia would seek foreign economic, administrative and financial assistance and advice but that Italian influence would not be permitted.

It was officially denied however, that the Emperor was offering peace terms or that he had agreed to the points outlined.

It was stated the Emperor insisted first on Italian withdrawal from Ethiopia.

Police Find Body Of Man Thought To Be Ex-Convict Victim

Butte, Mont., Dec. 27.—(AP)—Police announced today the finding of the body of Floyd Woods, 44, ranch caretaker who was believed to have been the fourth victim of William Henry Knight ex-convict.

Poses scouring a wide area thru-out southwest Montana reported to police here this morning that the body of Woods was located on a sand bank on the Madison river near Ennis, about 80 miles southwest of here.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington
By RAY TUCKER
PERKINS: Income tax shares brand the upper-middle class as the "nervous Nellies" of the depression. The salaried and business men earning from $10,000 to $25,000 a year played poker with their chips while they had them.

There were about 100,000 of them. They got rid of their stock holdings when the market first bulged in 1934, refusing to hang on till the 1935 "boom." They sold already, however, netting themselves a real gain while smaller fellows unloaded at a loss.

Fear made them cautious: They invested heavily in real estate and in government bonds, content with a small but supposedly sure return. They were Henry Morgenthau's best customers. They're supposed to be the ones who are now venturing back into the market—timidly but hopefully.

NORRIS PLANS GET BILL FOR POWER PLANT

Senator to Offer Congress Vast Proposal

BIGGER PLANS THAN TVA ACT

Nebraska Republican To Seek to Establish Mississippi Valley Authority

Washington, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Senator Norris (R-Neb.), father of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act and other new departures in government, will soon offer congress a proposal faster than all the rest.

He said today he would introduce at the coming session a bill for a Mississippi Valley Authority along the lines of the TVA.

It would embrace considerable more than half the continental U. S. Its territory would include all the broad plain between Alleghenies and the west continental divide.

In this far flung area only the Tennessee valley which has its own TVA would be omitted from the plan.

Norris said it was an expansion of his former plan for a Missouri valley authority. Flood control would be its chief goal, he disclosed, but it would also direct the development of navigation, irrigation, hydro electric power, soil conservation and reforestation.

Like TVA it would be managed by a three man directorate. The cost is not started. Congress would vote funds from year to year as work progresses.

State Department Goes Back to Work In Bitter Weather

Activities Resumed on Capital After Christmas Holiday of Two and One Half Days

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Dec. 27.—The various state departments and offices opened up again here this morning as the ponderous state governmental machine started grinding again—but slowly and laboriously. For the weather is still cold and most of the state employees, from department heads on down to clerks and stenographers, did not feel very much like work after their Christmas holiday period extending from noon Tuesday until this morning—a total of two and a half days.

Most of the offices had an accumulation of mail and most of the time this morning was spent in sorting it, and in an exchange of experiences among the various employees as to where they had spent Christmas and what they had done. Most of them agreed they had been only too glad to stay in where it was warm and that they had no desire to do much "gadding." Many, however, had visited their homes in distant portions of the state and had used up much of the holiday period in traveling to and from their homes.

With the exception of the motor-vehicle bureau of the Department of Revenue, not a great amount of work was done in many of the state offices today. But the motor vehicle bureau was busy again today.

As it was yesterday, issuing the new 1936 automobile licenses. Employees of this department worked all day Tuesday and also went back to work at noon yesterday, due to the short length of time left for the sale of these licenses.

Sales of licenses are already running well ahead of last year, with the total sold up to last night in excess of 50,000. There were thousands of mail orders on hand this morning which when sorted and counted are expected to swell the total.

CRACK BOY SHOTS DRILL NAZI COMPANIONS

Munich, Germany.—(AP)—Arms proficiency is high among German youngsters chosen to superintend target practice in the Hitler Youth organization, reports the "Frankische Tageszeitung," official Nazi organ in Franconia.

Eighty per cent of the youths attending the training school for Hitler Youth leaders at Roth, Franconia, passed a stiff examination involving theoretical knowledge as well as practical shooting tests of various kinds.

With these specially trained lads scattered about the country supervising rifle practice, it is hoped to make good marksmen of the approximately 2,500,000 boys of pre-military age who are members of the Hitler Youth.

Similar courses will be held at Roth periodically to replenish the supply of supervisors.

Mercury Here At Lowest In Several Years But Relief Seen By Bureau

RELIEF IS SEEN FROM WEATHER

Forecast Promises A Let-Up in Cold Wave

(By The Associated Press)
Weather forecasts today carried a promise of some relief for the Carolinas in the next 24 hours from the past week's cold wave.

The weather Bureau reported the outlook was for moderating temperatures tomorrow, but at the same said there was possibility of rain and snow for North Carolina.

Low temperature tomorrow were expected to be about the same as for this morning.

Disclosure of the frozen body of aged negro at Edenton brought the total of known exposure deaths in North Carolina to six. Nine other deaths were attributed indirectly to the cold with four lives claimed by explosive stoves and heating systems and five by automobile accidents.

A sight seldom seen in this territory was viewed this morning when regular icebergs floated down the Tar river with wild ducks perched on them. Mr. Clark described it as one of the prettiest sights he has ever witnessed. He said it was evidence the river had frozen somewhat where up the stream and the falling water had broken the ice logs and it floated down the river in big pieces.

The cold weather continued to hinder regular activities, although business and public offices were opened after the Christmas holidays. Because of cold buildings, practically all business activities slow in getting started for the past several mornings.

All police forces of the city reported unusually few law violators and credited the cold weather with curbing unlawful acts for the past several days. The highway patrol officials said that only a few scattering wrecks had occurred in the vicinity recently, explaining that what motorists were on the roads were exhibiting extreme care. The sheriff's office also said its force had not been called on to make many investigations during this week. Local police declared major violations were very few.

BORAH'S MOVE WORRY TO GOP

Makes Decisive Gesture Toward Nomination

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Senator Borah's latest and most convincing gesture toward the Republican presidential nomination leaves Republican plans in a state of much disturbance on the threshold of the fateful year of '36.

To many of the old-line Republican leaders, who at this stage control the party organization, Borah's willingness to run appears to have come as a great surprise.

For weeks they had closed their minds to such a possibility. In spite of repeated warning indications to the contrary, they had clung trustingly to their original assumption that the man from Idaho was "just talking again," and never would do what he was threatening to do.

The realization that he is in earnest has dawned at a most interesting moment. The movement for a conservative, "sound business" ticket and platform, with industry and finance lined up in an imposing phalanx for Republican victory, had attained almost bandwagon proportions.

Republican hope of winning the election on that basis had risen higher than at any time since the defeat of '32.

Now all calculations are undergoing revision.

To understand the situation of the old-line leaders, who aspire to continue throughout 1936 and thereafter their present domination of the party organization, it is necessary to take account of only three salient facts:

1. Borah's pulling power among the rank and file is unquestioned. No one disputes that he can go into the convention with a large bloc of delegates, perhaps with far more delegates than any other candidate.

2. Borah's ideas about monetary "reflation," and his views on various other subjects, are entirely out of joint with those of the old-line leaders and violently out of harmony with the kind of campaign those leaders have been organizing.

3. Borah personally, on the basis of his record of independence within the party, has been and continues to be a thorn in the flesh to those who nominally control the party. They know what would happen to them if Borah gained control.

The sum total of these facts is that Borah's emergence as a full-fledged candidate forecasts a pre-convention struggle of great bitterness, and a major split in the convention itself.

There is plenty of reason to doubt whether Borah or any one of his experienced friends believes he can be nominated in the face of the determined character and entrenched position of the opposition.

STANDING AT 16 THIS MORNING

Icebergs With Wild Ducks on Them Seen Floating Down River Here

Greenville experienced the coldest weather last night in several years, the mercury dropping to 13 degrees, B. T. Clark, in charge of the local weather bureau, announced this morning.

The mercury went down to 16 tonight before last, and was standing at only 17 yesterday morning at eight o'clock, but last night's low of 13 set the record for the year, as well as for the past several, Mr. Clark said.

At eight o'clock this morning the reading was 16 degrees.

Cold weather was predicted for today, with cloudiness and somewhat higher temperatures expected Saturday.

A sight seldom seen in this territory was viewed this morning when regular icebergs floated down the Tar river with wild ducks perched on them. Mr. Clark described it as one of the prettiest sights he has ever witnessed. He said it was evidence the river had frozen somewhat where up the stream and the falling water had broken the ice logs and it floated down the river in big pieces.

STUDENTS END THEIR ADVANCE

Two Thousand Chinese Students Halt Trip

Shanghai, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Two thousand Chinese students halted their "advance on Nanking" in a commandeered train when they were 70 miles from their goal today.

Threatened by the government with stern measures they gave up attempts to reach the capital which was planned as a protest against Japan's "aggression" and the movement for North China autonomy.

Many started for Shanghai in bitter weather which sent scores back to their homes suffering from exposure.

Their decision ended a five-day railway tieup which the government had attempted to terminate by sending 500 soldiers to block the commandeered train.

Railway communication throughout Honan province had been disrupted when another student body rushed the Railway station in Kaifeng commanding free transportation.

The students demanded that they be permitted to petition the central government for a stiffer national policy toward Japan an suppression of the move for separation of North China from the central authority.

Christmas Season Good for Retailers

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—An unexpected rush of late Christmas buying aided by the cold wave helped the majority of retailers to end the most satisfactory holiday season in five years. Dunn and Bradstreet announced today.

"From a week earlier, volume expanded 10 to 30 per cent while the 1934 total was exceeded by an estimated range of 12 to 25 per cent."

"Individual purchases were large but he is out to head off those who he does not regard as 'lib-morers and general cash sales increased."

LIFE IN 1935

After several years of staying home nights, Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, in 1935, proved it wasn't a habit and gave the entertainment palace from Broadway to Main street a generous fling.

By HERBERT YAHRAES

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Whether John Smith frequented the theaters of Broadway or the vast moving picture palaces of Main Street, he found indications that happier days had come to the land of make-believe.

In Hollywood, the "million dollar picture" returned; in New York, the producers were freer with their money, there were more hits, fewer sudden deaths.

Among 15-odd films costing in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 and shown or in production during 1935 were: "Mutiny on the Bounty," David Copperfield, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Crusades," "China Seas," "Becky Sharp," "A Tale of Two Cities," "The Green Pastures," "Captain Blood," "Anthony Adverse" and "The Good Earth."

New Stars 'Discovered.'

From these and others arose a galaxy of new stars and near-stars, headed perhaps by Lily Pons of grand opera, whose first screen performance in "I Dream Too Much" revealed a comedienne as well as a singer.

Versatile Eleanor Powell rocketed toward the top in "Broadway Melody."

Fred MacMurray, Henry Fonda, and Robert Taylor put on a three-cornered race for the most sought new leading man of the year.

Olivia de Havilland ("A Midsummer Night's Dream") is regarded as a valuable new ingenue, and Peter Lorre, European film star, made his Hollywood debut successfully as a horror-man in "Mad Love" and "Crime and Punishment." The latter film marked another step in Edward Arnold's stardom.

Children Starred.

From opera also came Nino Martini, the Italian tenor. His "Here's to Romance" also introduced Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink who at 74 scored as character actress.

Established stage stars triumphed again when Fred Stone won new honors in "Alice Adams," Blanche Yurka in "A Tale of Two Cities" and Fritz Leiber in "The Life of Louis Pasteur."

Among child stars, Freddie Bartholomew ("David Copperfield") and Jane Withers ("Ginger") made the grade decidedly, with Virginia Weidler, Sybil Jason, David Holt, Edith Fellows and Mickey Rooney appealing to many.

Tobacco Road! Runs On

While "A Midsummer Night's Dream" may not have been quite everything hoped for, John Smith could expect to see at least one more bit of Shakespeare, "Romeo and Juliet," in the movies.

"Tobacco Road" ran into trouble on the road but on Broadway, apparently was as permanent as the skyscrapers.

Zoe Atkins won the Pulitzer prize for her dramatization of Edith Wharton's novel, "The Old Maid." Two other costume plays, "Fanny," by the late Elsie Schaeffer, and Helen Jerome's dramatization of Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice," were to John Smith's liking.

Shakespeare, who failed to get a single performance last year, came into his own again. Katharine Cornell's "Romeo and Juliet" was one of the season's hits; Philip Merivale and Gladys Cooper staged "Macbeth" and "Othello"; Walter Hampden played Hamlet, Richard III and Macbeth, and Leslie Howard made "Hamlet" his latest venture.

Bergner Scores.

Lillian Hellman's "The Children's Hour" continues its run of more than a year. Lawrence Riley's "Personal Appearance" swears away on the road after more than a year in New York. Clifford Odets' most admired plays of the year, "Awake and Sing" was one of the Another newcomer, John Cecil Holm, had a hand in another hit, "Three Men on a Horse."

Among the outstanding new players were Gladys George, star of "Personal Appearance," and Florence McGee, the upstart child in "The Children's Hour." New to Broadway also were Elisabeth Bergner, who came from Europe for the stellar role in "Escape Me Never," and the English Melville Cooper ("Laburnum Grove" and "Jubilee").

State Ends Third Year Without Any Borrowing

Reflector Bureau.

Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Dec. 27.—The State of North Carolina has not only not had to borrow as much as a dime during the last three years, but has been paying off its debts — almost entirely highway bonds and interest — at the rate of approximately $1,000,000 a month, it was pointed out here today by State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson. He has already made out and mailed checks for $6,867,700 which will pay the interest and principal due on state highway bonds January 1. Of this amount, $3,750,000 will go to retire the principal, while $3,117,700 will be used to pay the interest due. A similar amount will be due July 1, since the state makes its payments of interest and principal due on bonds every six months, on January 1 and July 1.

Both State Treasurer Johnson and Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus are facing the new year unusually happy over the fact that they are completing the third year in which it has not been necessary to borrow a penny or pay out a single cent in interest charges in connection with operating the state government, since they have been able to meet all expenses, including debt service payments, from regular state revenues.

It is true that this administration has sold some $12,500,000 in bonds, but these were sold to fund the deficit piled up in the last two years of the Gardner administration and to take up short-term notes on which the state was paying 6 per cent interest until the 1933 general assembly balanced the budget and made it possible for the state to sell bonds to fund these notes. When the bonds issued to fund these notes were finally sold, some were sold at 3.76 per cent and a later block at only 2.72 per cent—the lowest rate in the history of the state and a lower rate than the Federal government has been obtaining. This reduction in interest alone is saving the state about $250,000 a year, or enough to pay the salaries of all state officials and most state employees in Raleigh for years to come.

he board faced in 1929. Nobody has the role of Jonah.

But the board has quietly taken steps to intervene swiftly. It is understood that the open market committee empowered its chairman, George Harrison of the New Reserve Bank, to reduce reserves by selling government securities on the market. That makes him the sad Revere of 1935-36.

NIGHTMARE: Never before have many members of Congress packed to Washington so far in advance of the opening of a session.
They admit they have hurried back to escape from constituents, who are in their hair and their soup while at home.

"They even got to me at night," says a Texas member. "Once there were several thousands who marched into my room, with various types of hats and shoes. They pinched my ears, stuck their fingers in my nose and poked hot, smoking irons into my stomach."

PREPARED: Few people realize that the U. S. army and navy are nearly reaching their largest troop strengths in peace-time history.
That his friends call FDR's "Nac-leonic complex" is responsible for the troubled state of world affairs.

He has obtained appropriations which will build the fleet to treaty size. He will increase it immediately if, as expected, the naval conference at London collapses. But it the army which is unobtrusively expanding as never before in time peace.

It will number 165,000 men by next July. There are about 200,000 straw soldiers in the National guard and 30,000 officers in the reserve. About 600,000 CCC-ers have received semi-military training.
Even though officials shush-shush
the phase of the tree-cutting experiment, that makes a potential army of almost 1,000,000 men, not counting about 1,000,000 war veterans still young enough for active service.

PRYING: Doctor Francis Townsend practices what he preaches.
Despite the millions contributed to his treasury, the author of the $200-a-month pension plan allows himself only that amount a month (and expenses) for his organization and inspirational services. He lives simply, almost drably, when he visits the office in Washington.

But several Senators suspect that some of his aides don't exercise the same self-restraint. They may be on an investigation of the movement's activities and finances.
They often do when people become politically troublesome. That's the way they have handled durs, inkers and other lobbying groups
the past. It's an easy way out.

NEVER MIND THE LADY

by David Garth

SYNOPSIS: Terry Willett has called on Allaire West in Washington, and been from out. Allaire disappeared that night and Willett went on to New York, preparatory to returning to his job in the tropical land where he first met Allaire.
Last night, having tried to blackmail
George Fox, Allaire's young diplomat friend, has turned to her playboy father Ray West and Ray cannot find Allaire; he has been talking from New York to his wife in Washington, and both are pretty much perturbed.

Chapter 28

A CLUE

RAY'S lawyers were no help. They pointed out that no steps could be taken until the story was verified or denied, and Allaire had to do that.

Ray immediately set the machinery in motion. He called a firm of private detectives he'd used before.
They sent a man right over, and together they tried to sift the threads. The only thing they seemed to have to go on was a possible connection between Allaire and a man named Willett.

"We need a place to start," said the detective. "You want her as fast as you can and picking up a trail in a city like Washington is no clutch on short notice. Now, do you seriously think she's run off with Willett?"

"I don't know what to think," Ray said helplessly. "She was out at my country place a couple of mornings

Ray sounded eager, on edge.

ago, and she said she could do a great deal about something or other and she would. We were talking about her attitude toward men."

"Do you know anything about Willett, Mr. West?"

He tried to think and the name seemed to stick in his mind. In the lucid light of mind-clearing shocks he had a chance to think deeply. He was convinced he'd heard that name before.

Willett? Willett? And then something shone through the mists. He got up and strode about the room.

"Now I've got it," he said suddenly. "He was on my car. I'm sure it was he. Willett! Terry Willett!
That's it! I found him on my car and he rode to Washington with us.
I was a little tight so I don't remember much about him, but he got off at Washington."

He stopped in his stride. That didn't help much; it was a known fact that Willett had been in Washington. Ray said so gloomily.

"WELL, you can't tell," said the detective. "Did he say anything to anybody—leave the train alone, or what? Did anybody else get off your car at Washington?"

"Yes," said Ray. "Puff Harrington did."

"Who, Mr. West?"

"Carolyn Harrington, Senator Harrington's daughter."

"They get off together sir?"

"I don't know, I suppose so."

The detective arose purposefully.
"Well, that's a fair enough place to start. Where's the phone, Mr.
West? We'll get in touch with Miss Harrington."

He paused for a word of advice.
"There'll be fifty men on this case inside of an hour. That means reports, telephone calls, perhaps identifications to be made. This isn't a very good place for a headquarters, I mean, something might leak out. You have a house in town haven't you?"

"Yes, but it isn't staffed."

"Well, it would give us a better chance of privacy than this club.
Can you open it just for a while,
Mr. West?"

"All right," said Ray impatiently.

"I'll attend to it. Now get busy after Puff Harrington."

TERRY had been out attending to a few last details and when he returned to his room late that afternoon he found Puff waiting for him.
It was the first time he'd seen her that day.

"What, she inquired severely,
"have you been doing?"

"Buying tickets and things."

"No, I mean in other and darker days. Ray West is all of a dither to that day."

"Who? Allaire's father?"

"None other. He had some queer notion I'd know where you were. He called Washington and was referred to Louise's. Might have been embarrassing if I hadn't had the foresight to ask Louise to 'front' for me in case the Senator or the Senator's wife should make a surprise call."

"So Louise stalled off Ray until she'd talked to me and I thought I'd better see what was on his mind.
Ray's rabid on the subject of making your further acquaintance. I repeat therefore—what have you been doing? If it's a shogun, affair, beloved, then all I can say is that Allaire is a lot better than I am?"

"He wants to see me? Why, I wonder?"

"Ravenously. His voice quivered with eagerness. Had I seen you
with eagerness. Had I seen you

"What did you tell him?"

"That I hadn't the slightest idea nonchalantly.

This was beyond Terry.
"I'd better see what he wants—"
"Call his house if you're inter-look it up."

As soon as he heard Ray West's wrong; he sounded, as Puff had said, eager, on edge.

"Where are you, Willett?"

Terry told him, still wondering.
"I've got to see you right away.
George Fox will come over for you.
Don't go away."

He hung up. Terry looked at the girl.

"He acts drunk as an owl. Wants to see me." He sat back and lit a cigarette, frowning slightly. And George Fox!—had he said George Fox?

"You've done something terrible," Puff accused. "I'll bet it's something about Allaire?"

"What do you mean—something about Allaire?"

"The only person who can get Ray up in the air is Allaire. He's absolutely lost with her."

Willett didn't want to talk about her. Neither had Steve Perry. He'd asked them for God's sake to change the subject. Willett felt like asking the same thing. That girl may have lingered in his mind, but the sooner he forgot her the better.

There wasn't any percentage in reminding himself how soft he got when he was around her. Willett didn't believe in being soft; you never got anywhere that way—just left yourself open to aches and pains.

He wished suddenly he was on his way back right now, because every once in a while he had a feeling he'd like to see her again and that was the same as sticking his neck out.

Senator in fostering his share-wealth clubs. The other is Boyd Gurley, who was editor of the Indianapolis Times some years ago when it won the Pulitzer prize for expressing the Ku Klux Klan.

Mr. Gurley is publicity director of the Townsend movement, although he doesn't care to be identified as such. He is also editor of the Townsend weekly—which aims at a circulation of 2,000,000 with the price jacked up to $2 a year. Gurley is responsible for the new policy of building strong county and township organizations as the backbone of the movement instead of trying to handle everything from state headquarters. A good organization in a township can always get out enough votes to make an impressive showing locally.

Even Dr. Townsend's severest critics admit that he is sincere and that his motives are above reproach.
They are not so kind in their appraisal of his entourage. His principal advisers do not have impressive records of financial experience or financial success.

LAG: Because New York and other populous states have enacted state unemployment insurance laws, nearly 50 per cent of employees liable for federal unemployment benefits under the social security act will soon be covered by state legislation.

Meanwhile many manufacturing corporations have been quietly busy reworking details of production schedules to minimize forthcoming payroll taxes. Keen observers remark that perhaps these self-defense measures account largely for the lag in reemployment despite business recovery.

G. O. P.: Senator Borah's decision to participate actively in the Republican reorganization campaign has New York G. O. P. leaders bitterly hating him. His insistence on a liberal candidate doesn't fit in with their plans at all and they frankly admit they have no idea how far he is going to get with it. Their scouts report that the Idahoan is getting a remarkable popular response from all sections of the country. There isn't the remotest chance that Borah can impose his trust-busting ideas on the party as a whole—but he's in a position to make life distinctly uncomfortable for party chiefs who try to ignore him.

The New York State battle about

PLAY SANTA TO BIRDS

Boys and girls now is the time for you to play Santa to the birds.
They are not asking for toys. It is true skates and cowboy suits would be just the thing for them this cold weather. However, they can't use them. So they are beg-fun to watch them eat—then too, you will be a real Santa Claus.

High School Grid Stars Start Practice For Game

Eastern Team Trains Here For Tobacco Bowl Game On New Years Day At Winston-Salem

Twenty-one young hunkies rolled into camp today all eager to begin workouts. They were a big lot, with high schools in 14 towns being represented on the squad which is to represent the East in the inaugural Tobacco Bowl football game on New Year's Day at Winston-Salem.

After being placed in the visiting team's room quarters at East Carolina Teachers College, they were issued gym equipment which they will use in their workouts within the huge gymnasium.

Coach Doc Mathis, head coach of East Carolina Teachers College, assisted by Leon Brogden, of Edenton High School, Steve Brown of Sanford High, Emory Atkins of Rocky Mount High, Bob Eason of West Edgecombe High, Jimmy Johnson, "Hoot" Gibson and Lex Ridenhour, members of this year's football squad at E. C. T. C., were all on hand today to run the boys through their paces.

The weather conditions, having had their play, are now very promising and the coaches are drilling the boys in open football, not football for muddy fields.

A large crowd packed the balcony to watch the East run through their signals in the opening practice held this afternoon. All seemed greatly impressed by the way in which the boys took to their new plays, and also at the hugeness of the squad as a whole.

There will be two workouts daily, one at nine o'clock in the morning and another at three o'clock in the afternoon until the squad entrains for Winston-Salem.

Among those reporting for initial practice this afternoon were: Wozelka, P. Spencer, W. Spencer, Layton, Spruill, Sexton, of Edenton; Williams, Hubbard and York of Sanford; Cook and Gurganus of Williamston; Senna of Raleigh; Howe of Hamlet; Pitts of Rocky Mount; Soufas of Wilson; Van Horn of Morehead City; Sparrow of Washington; Hamilton of Greenville; Polakoff of Kinston.

The following are expected to report today: Edens of Wilmington; Cagle of Roanoke Rapids and Miller of Elizabeth City.

State Treasures Johnson Answers Ralph McDonald

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Dec. 27.—Candidate Ralph W. McDonald's wish to have some official statement of North Carolina's finances by Gov. J. C. B. Ehringhaus or by State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson, has been gratified by Mr. Johnson.

The state treasurer adopted some what the policy of Dr. McDonald who came to Raleigh several weeks ago, assembled the newspaper men, took them to Revenue Commissioner Allen J. Maxwell's office and engaged in debate with the commissioner. During the controversy carried on over Mr. Maxwell's table Dr. McDonald declared that Mr. Maxwell is honest, "but woefully ignorant of taxation." Mr. Johnson did not summon the Forsyth scribes and bombard Dr. McDonald in the candidate's office. The treasurer was invited by the Rotary club to speak before it. He did and he used figures which Dr. McDonald is at liberty to attack. The candidate has not yet made his assault, but he is due to do so. He asked for a statement from an official qualified by position to speak. Mr. Johnson went to what William Jennings Bryan called "enemy country."

Discussing state finances Mr. Johnson told the Rotarians that January 1, 1935, the state owed $185,139,000 and had approximately $11,000,000 in the sinking fund invested in North Carolina bonds. This left a net debt of $174,139,000. On June 30, at the close of the first year of the Ehringhaus administration the state owed $170,549,000 and had $13,474,424.32 in the sinking fund. The net debt therefore has been reduced to $157,074,575.18, a total reduction under this administration of $17,139,424.37. At the beginning of this period the state had accumulated a deficit of $14,982,000, despite the most drastic cut in operating expenses of government anywhere in the country.

Without getting personal in his speech, Mr. Johnson takes up the schools, one of the perpetual cares of Dr. McDonald who does not easily forget what was done to them. Treasurer Johnson says that in the 1933 general assembly there was a bill introduced which passed the House, cutting the public school appropriations to $10,000,000. The treasurer says it would have been a calamity to pass that bill. The state lifted the appropriations to $16,000,000 which Mr. Johnson says is too little. But he defended it as the best the state could do.

On the one item of $12,230,000 representing the deficit, Mr. Johnson says this administration has saved $242,600 in interest by virtue of the state's ability to borrow on better terms after getting its financial house in order. If the bonds had been sold in 1933 the interest losses as compared with the later sale would have been $2,000,000. By waiting and working with North Carolina financial institutions Mr. Johnson was able to get the lowest interest rate in North Carolina history. He saved on the bond sale $323,731.32.

More than $60,000,000 of North Carolina's bonds are owned by North Carolina people, he said, and during the worst of the depression bonds sold at par went down to 70 cents on the dollar. National bank in North Carolina could stand up a loss as the $30 slump on each cent on the dollar. National banks could not sell these bonds nor could they. But the sound financing by the state has sent these bonds up higher than ever; and Mr. Johnson recommends them as a perfect investment for North Carolina people.

Thus did Mr. Johnson talk in Dr. McDonald's home town, declaring that restoration of the state's bonds is in the interest of the bondholders was in the interest of North Carolina whose people own so many millions of these securities. Finances look hopeful enough to him now to move him to the prophecy that the teachers soon will be getting their 26 per cent raise; and with it their five days sick leave for which no provision had been previously made.

Hoey Expected Go Ahead In Gubernatorial Race

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILLE

Raleigh, Dec. 27.—Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby already has more potential strength than any of the other candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor and will be the one candidate all of the other candidates will have to defeat, if they can defeat him, in the opinion of many of the more conservative and careful political observers here. For while Hoey has not been doing much visible campaigning as yet, he has been carrying on a very active but quiet campaign from his law office in Shelby for many weeks now, according to reports reaching here. These same reports also indicate that this quiet beneath-the-surface campaigning has accomplished a great deal more for him than some of the more spectacular campaigning that has been launched in by some of the other candidates.

Without any noise or ostentation, Hoey has already succeeded in building up excellent organization in most of the counties in the state which is already waiting and ready to go into action when the time comes, according to those who have been following the activities of Hoey and his supporters. It is pointed out that the Democratic leaders in the various counties have not forgotten the help and assistance which Hoey has been giving them for the past 25 years or more, especially in the close western counties where he has always been ready and willing to go to their aid with both speeches and campaign contributions. As a result, it is maintained by Hoey's followers and reluctantly admitted by many of his opponents that he probably has a larger following among county Democratic chairmen, committeemen and officials than any of the other candidates.

"These County Democratic chairmen, county officials and committeemen in the counties in which Hoey has been making speeches for 25 years, often turning the tide in his favor, are not going to forget this in the campaign this spring." It was pointed out here today by a state official with many years of political experience. "And it has been my observation that the candidates who have the support of most of the county chairmen and county organizations and officials, are the ones which are usually nominated and elected. For these are the men and women who for years have been getting out the vote and who know how to do the kind of work that counts."

Another strong factor in Hoey's favor, according to many observers here, is that he can count upon getting a very large proportion of the church and "dry" vote. The Hoey supporters here maintain that he can count upon not less than 100,000 votes to start with from the church people of the state than any of the other candidates, and probably as well as any layman in the state, with the result that he will poll a very heavy vote from the church members, especially the women, because of his life-long opposition of liquor and advocacy of these things promulgated by the various churches. Not all the active members of the various religious denominations will vote for him, of course, it is agreed. But

ROSE BOWL GAME BRINGS TOGETHER POWERFUL ELEVENS

BOBBY GRAYSON—Stanford. BOBBY WILSON—S.M.U. HARRY SHUFORD—S.M.U.—J. C. WETSEL. Stanford university will be seeking its first victory in three consecutive Rose Bowl games when it clashes with Southern Methodist in the annual New Year's day classic at Pasadena, Cal. Bobby Grayson, pile-driving fullback, is one of Stanford's most versatile backs and is expected to get a major portion of offensive assignments. Bob Reynolds, giant tackle, and Wes Muller, center, are considered Stanford's bulwarks of the line. Southern Methodist's great little halfback, Bobby Wilson, who passes, kicks and carries the ball better than any other man on the team, has a dependable running mate in Harry Shuford, fullback and ace blocker. Wetzel is rated one of S. M. U.'s best linemen. (Associated Press Photos) enough of these church members, and especially of the "drys," are expected to support him to assure him of at least 100,000 votes to start with, his followers maintain.

Still another factor regarded as being strongly in Hoey's favor is that he is regarded as having the full and complete support of the State Department of Public Instruction and the North Carolina Education Association with its membership of 16,000 school teachers. For while some of the individual teachers are personally supporting Dr. Ralph McDonald of Winston-Salem because of his promises to greatly increase school appropriations if elected, it is an open secret that the organized school forces are betting on Hoey rather than McDonald in the belief that in the long run Hoey will be able to find more money for the schools than McDonald would. For most of the school forces are perfectly willing to see the sales tax retained and have other taxes added, if it will mean more funds for teachers' salaries.

And Mr. Hoey can count on the county organizations, the church vote and the school forces, he is sitting pretty, his supporters say.

Two Greenville Men Recruited As Seamen

The New Bern Navy Recruiting Station announces the December quota of Apprentice Seaman and Mess Attendants complete and this station furnished the following named men: A. S. Owens, New Bern; N. A. Cox and M. R. Tripp, both of Greenville; L. E. Colburn, of Morehead City. The Mess Attendant was S. A. Orum, colored, of New Bern.

This office will furnish six Apprentice Seaman and one Mess Attendant for the month of January, 1936.

H. L. Cavitt, Grantsboro; F. A. Aldridge, Oriental; L. H. Coward, Vanceboro; W. C. Temple, North Harlowa were visitors at this office this week they are on 15 days leave and will be at home with their parents over the Christmas holidays. Upon reporting back to Norfolk, Va. they will be sent to the West coast via the Panama Canal to be assigned to the Fleet.

The above named men were sent in by this office in September.

Best Kickers Are On Western Teams For Tobacco Game

Winston-Salem, Dec. 27.—When the East meets the West here on New Year's Day, the West should have a very distinct advantage in the kicking department. Charles "Red" Mayberry, great young Mt. Airy punter, who has had only two punts caught this season, is one reason. The other is that Bob Smith, who instructs Furman University's kickers, has accepted an invitation to attend the West training camp, which is to be held at Boone under the able tutelage of Kidd Brewer and his Appalachian State coaching staff, assisted by several of the outstanding high school coaches in the section.

Then again Purdue, Thomasville ace, and Red Forrest, Winston-Salem boy, are accomplished kickers. Purdue has hung up a record of having averaged 38 yards for the season on his kicks, while Forrest has had a record almost as impressive.

The East had several good kickers, but none that will stand placing on a par with Mayberry, Purdue or Forrest.

OLD DRUM WORTH 40% MORE THAN ITS ACTUAL PRICE—PALATE POLL REVEALS!

Imagine! A low-priced whiskey so much better than hundreds in nation-wide poll of palates over-estimated its price by 40%! That thrifty folks everywhere hail as the greatest whiskey buy in the market! No wonder Old Drum is the talk of America today!

"drinkable" whiskey at a "cent's-ible" price... challenges comparison with any "straight" or "blend" in its price class. Try Old Drum for yourself. Marvel at its high quality. Save on its low price. Prove to your own satisfaction what so many already know—that you can't beat Old Drum.

DEATH STILLS OPPONENTS OF FDR POLICIES

Huey Long and Thos. Schall To Be Absent BOTH OPPONENTS ADMINISTRATION Went So Far As To Criticize Mrs. Roosevelt, Almost Unprecedented Procedure

By HERBERT PLUMMER Washington, Dec. 27.—(AP)—By the singular and macabre coincidence of death the senate's two most bitter opponents of President Roosevelt have been killed before the opening of the 1936 congress.

Huey P. Long and Thomas D. Schall, so active in the 1935 session have lost their lives violently. No two other men in congress have been more vocal against the administration; certainly no others would have been more ardently opposed for re-election.

The way in which they met death was widely different—Long from an assassin's bullet at Baton Rouge, and Schall, the blind Minnesota Republican, prosaically from automobile injuries suffered almost within walking distance of the national capitol. Too, they were wholly dissimilar personalities in many respects, alike chiefly in the unparalleled vigor of their denunciations of Mr. Roosevelt. But in this one regard they had relations extraordinarily close for a regular Republican and an insurgent Democrat.

For further coincidence, both were to come up for re-election in 1936. It was not generally known, but Schall had told friends he hoped and expected Long to go into Minnesota to help campaign for him. Just a few days before the Minnesota death visitors to his office might have seen a great pile of the slain Long's old political newspapers.

Concededly, the administration was spared an arduous and perhaps a losing campaign against Long. Schall's death left forever unanswered the intriguing question: had both lived and had Long gone into Minnesota for Schall would it not have been a hard task to defeat him, taking into consideration the fact that under those circumstances there most certainly would have been a three-cornered race between Schall, Floyd Olson, the Farmer-Labor leader, and the Democratic nominee?

Long and Schall alone of all senators drew no line of restraint in their attacks on the administration. Schall went beyond the President himself and sharply criticized Mrs. Roosevelt—an almost unprecedented procedure.

Not even an enemy would have denied that Schall indeed was a "fighter," as Mrs. Schall characterized him as he lay gasping for life in a Washington hospital. He was three years old when his father died and, as a youngster, he blacked boots. At 12 he was illiterate. He played small-time baseball and once won $25 and a cow in a prize fight. By extraordinary effort he learned the law, and clients were coming in when blindness struck him.

He wanted to give up, but Mrs. Schall told him: "No, Tom, we're going to practice law. I'll be your eyes." Thereafter, all his life, she was his eyes. Schall learned then to regard blindness as a curious ailment because, as he put it, "the passing show no longer intrudes." "The blind man's interest in the glitter and show of things is gone—I live through my mind and, like the much-used key, it must grow brighter."

BOHRA'S MOVE WORRY TO GOP

eral." He mentions no names, but that hardly is necessary. Presumably, if he were in favor of any of those now out in front, he would say so. His philosophy points distinctly toward a convention deadlock, holding in its grip all of the principal candidates, including himself.

It is the lesson of political history that when convention deadlocks are broken by compromise, the nomination seldom goes to anyone who has been a principal party to the deadlock.

That, incidentally, is what is beginning to worry some of the friends of Governor Landon. They fear he has emerged too soon out of the "dark horse" class.

Incidentally, too, that gives fresh hope to other admirers of the one prominently mentioned Republican who seems to have succeeded thus far in staying a "dark horse"—Senator Vandenberg.

When the convention is over, it may be found that Vandenberg's Michigan friends have played the wisest game of all by refusing to seek delegates or even to commit their own delegation to their "favorite son."

POLITICS at random

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Governor Landon of Kansas, whose boom for the Republican presidential nomination has been attracting more and more attention, is an object of great curiosity among eastern business men. He refuses to go east, so at least one industrialist of national reputation made special trip to Kansas to look him over.

Whenever Republican dark horses are discussed, the name of Senator Steiwer of Oregon comes up persistently. Steiwer has refused to become ever a favorite son candidate, which might help him if the Republican convention got into such a tangle that it felt it had to start all over again.

The expectation in Washington is that Secretary Roper will have a very high place in the Democratic supreme command during the coming campaign. Roper is an old hand at politics, was internal revenue commissioner under Wilson and served as McAdoo lieutenant during the memorable Madison Square Garden struggle in 1924.

President Roosevelt's willingness to speak in Chicago reflects a feeling in Democratic quarters that the party organization under Mayor Kelley has factional differences there pretty well ironed out. Several Republican and Democratic Presidents have avoided the city through fear of involvement in the intra-party strife which seems to be an old Chicago habit.

One of those most frequently consulted by Senator Borah is Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader. Borah doesn't always take McNary's advice, but he asks for his opinion often, particularly with the presidential situation developing as it is.

Some of Secretary Hull's friends back home want him to get out of the cabinet and run for the Senate again in Tennessee next year. Hull is deeply interested in the reciprocal tariff program, however, and thus far has made no definite move toward it.

There is a reason why some northwestern lumber interests have not protested above a whisper about the reduction of tariff rates on Canadian imports. These interests own many acres of timber land in Canada, and import large quantities of lumber to supplement their home supply.

Talk of drafting a Supreme Court Justice to head the Republican ticket next year has about died out. The feeling is widespread that such a venture might prove a boomerang by laying the party open to a charge of dragging the court into politics.

Word reaching Washington is that the Roosevelt men have moved in rapidly in Louisiana, and now are showing little fear of the remnants of ten Long machine, so far as national politics is concerned.

Since the death of Huey Long, who undoubtedly was thinking more of 1940 than 1936, increasing talk is heard about Governor Olson of Minnesota as the possible leader of an independent third-party ticket four years hence. Olson's Farmer-Labor party made its state campaign in 1934 on a platform sufficiently left-wingish to please some of the most radical.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson is reported still flirting with a senatorial candidacy in Oklahoma. His intimates say he's too poor financially to make a campaign, but may go in regardless. If he does, the Democratic

LESSONS IN LAW-MAKING

Congress convenes Under the 20th, or so-called "lame duck," amendment to the constitution, the congress of the United States is convened on January 3 of each year.

Vice President Garner, the senate's presiding officer, at 12 o'clock noon raps sharply with a solid ivory gavel. The senate then is in session. At the same time, at the opposite end of the capitol, Speaker Byrns raps with a gavel to convene the house of representatives.

After preliminaries such as the swearing in of new members, appointment of committees to notify the President congress awaits his recommendations for legislation, election of officers and employees by each house, the two houses adjourn.

Then follows a joint session in the chamber of the house of representatives to hear the President's message on the State of the Union.

The Constitution provides that the President "shall from time to time give to the Congress information on the State of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient."

Usually the President sends a general message at the opening of a session, discussing general conditions and recommending legislation. Later he may send brief messages suggesting legislation on one particular topic.

These messages are referred to senate and house committees. (Tomorrow—How Laws Are Born)

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The stock market kept on its feet today with the aid of scattered mining and specialty issues.

Some profit taking was met without any particular disturbing repercussions. The majority of buyers and sellers did not seem over anxious to extend commitments. The market slowed down after a brisk first hour.

The late tone was steady. Transfers approximated 2,000,000 shares.

New York Cotton

New York, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened four to eight points higher on steeper Liverpool cables and foreign buying.

Prices eased slightly after the call but the undertone was steady. Net advances of three to five predominated at the end of the first hour. The market was only moderately active later with prices holding fairly steady in a narrow range.
