FINAL HEARING OF HAUPTMANN CASE NOW NEAR

Last Hopes Fade For Personal Appearance of Bruno

PARDONS COURT SITS TOMORROW

Hearing to be in Executive Offices, Preventing Hauptmann From Testifying

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 10.—(AP)—The last hope of Bruno Richard Hauptmann to make a personal appearance before the court of pardons faded today when Gov. Harold G. Hoffman's office announced the court would not meet at the state prison.

The Governor, through William S. Conklin, his press aide, said the court, convening tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. to consider Hauptmann's plea for clemency, would meet as usual at the executive offices.

A meeting at state prison would have been without precedent, but Governor Hoffman's delay in announcing where the court would sit had been taken by some as an indication he hoped for a last minute statement from the man convicted of the Lindbergh kidnapping.

The one remote chance of Hauptmann appearing before the court lay in the possibility defense counsel might have allegations necessitating Hauptmann's corroboration. In that event the court would adjourn to the state prison, a mile and a half away, and call the prisoner.

Governor Hoffman said it was "extremely doubtful the court of pardons tomorrow would make the unprecedented move of sitting at the prison and hearing the last plea of the condemned man."

Governor Hoffman will deliver to the court a letter signed "J. J. Aulander," a name that has long been one of the mysteries of the four-year-old Lindbergh murder case.

"I don't know what significance, if any, there is to the letter," he said. "It doesn't sound like a crackpot."

"As the zero hour in the case drew near" the letter read. "I feel impelled to direct these few lines to your excellency in order to dispel the preconceived idea of the guilt of Hauptmann, or rather to sustain an affirmed view in your own and rightfully so formed idea of his innocence."

"All the poor bum is guilty of is his money madness which made him risk a $1,000, or so of his own good money in the belief and greedy notion that he could get independent rich and by handling this cheaply acquired horde he brought himself into all this trouble, nearly causing him to lose his life, which I hope will be spared."

Mrs. Alice Turnage Dies Of Pneumonia

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Turnage, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Lane, in Pinetops this morning, will be held from the home there tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. Burial will be in the Fountain cemetery.

Mrs. Turnage died at 7:15 o'clock from pneumonia contracted as a result of an automobile wreck Christmas eve. She was considered one of the most outstanding women of her community and also was regarded highly in Fountain, where she formerly lived.

She is survived by one son, Floyd Turnage, and three daughters, Mrs. Lane and Mrs. S. L. Parker of Pinetops and Earl Trevathor of Fountain.

Harnett Man May Be Charged With 1st Degree Murder

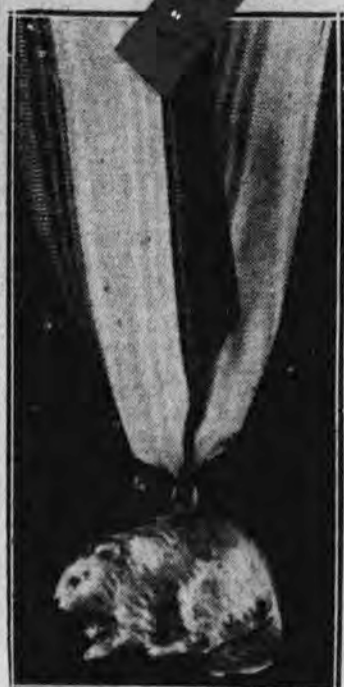

Lillington, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Wendell White Mason, 54, charged with murdering of his wife on last Thanksgiving day went on trial in Harnett Superior court this afternoon.

It took 40 minutes to select the first two men of the jury, six tall-men being examined to get them. Solicitor C. C. Canaday expressed belief the jury's election would be completed this evening.

The start of the Mason case was delayed due to trial of a homicide case in which a negro, Carl Bailey was charged with the killing of Henry Mack, another negro. The jury in that case was still out this evening.

Solicitor Canaday said he would seek a first degree murder conviction against Mason, who contended robbers shot his wife.

Prized Award

The Silver Beaver award, pictured above, was presented to J. H. Rose, superintendent of Greenville schools, last night in Rocky Mount as a token for his distinguished work among youth.

ROSE AWARDED BEAVER MEDAL

City School Head One Of Three Given Prized Award

J. H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville schools, was presented a Silver Beaver award for outstanding efforts in development of youth at the annual meeting in Rocky Mount last night of East Carolina Boy Scout council.

Mr. Rose was one of three men awarded the medal at the meeting. The others were W. H. Whitmore of Wilson and W. B. Middleton of Rocky Mount.

The awards were made by Judge F. C. Harding of Greenville. The medal signifies the recipient has engaged in distinguished service to boyhood. Mr. Rose was honored with the token because of his "long, continued service to Boy Scouts."

Stanley A. Harris, national director of inter-racial activities of the Boy Scouts of America, was the principal speaker of the meeting. He declared "the youth of America today is the finest we've ever had—the most honest, the most intelligent and most daring."

W. K. Helms of Wilson was re-elected president of the organization, comprised of approximately 20 counties in Eastern North Carolina. Judge Harding was chosen as one of the vice presidents.

Besides Mr. Rose and Judge Harding, those from Greenville who attended the banquet meeting included:

Greenville was awarded the attendance prize at the meeting. Besides Mr. Rose and Judge Harding, those from here attending included Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Fleischman, Miss Mary Harding, K. T. Fattrell, Dr. Gilbert R. Combs, Jake Skinner, D. H. Conley, Marcellus Hearne, T. C. Bryan, Miss Carolyn Hamric and Billy Tolson.

PITT FARMERS MAY ORGANIZE

Express Willingness To Aid in Forming New Program

When the time comes for action, Federal and state organizations will find Pitt county farmers solidly behind any move to inaugurate some plan to retain many of the provisions of the smashed AAA.

E. P. Arnold, county agent and administrator for AAA activities in Pitt, said today the farmers have been preparing for mass organization to back any moves designed to give Federal supervision and control of crops in the country.

The county agent went to Raleigh yesterday and conferred with Dean I. O. Schaub, of N. C. State college, who was state administrator for the smashed agricultural adjustment act. Mr. Arnold told the state administrator the Pitt farmers were back of any reasonable plan and would organize when advised to do so as an attempt to form some substitute for the old AAA, declared unconstitutional Monday by the Supreme court.

Mr. Arnold conferred with Dean Schaub at length, but the county agent said nothing definite was decided upon. He said state officials were in practically the same situation as county officials. He said they were just waiting for some action from higher up.

ARTHUR DAIL DIES IN WRECK ON TENTH ST.

Bakery Employee Killed in Accident Last Night

FUNERAL RITES HELD FROM HOME

Coroner's Inquest Finds Death Result of Unavoidable Accident

Arthur Dail, about 33, well known Greenville man, died last night shortly after he was injured in an automobile wreck at the intersection of Washington and Tenth street at 7:15 o'clock. Dail, an employee of the People's bakery, was taken to the hospital where it was revealed that his head was crushed. He died about 8:30 o'clock, never regaining consciousness following the wreck.

The accident occurred when a bakery truck Dail was driving East on Tenth street crashed into an automobile driven by Sam Godley. The automobile was going south on Washington street.

It was the first fatal accident to be reported in Pitt county this year. Chief of Police George Clark said an investigation by his department showed that Dail apparently saw the Godley car and attempted to avert striking it by swerving his truck to one side. The truck struck the car, however, in the side and turned over. The car was not overturned and Godley was not injured.

Chief Clark quoted Godley as saying that he did not realize the wreck was as bad as it was until he stopped his car and looked around and saw the truck turned over. He then sought to render aid to Dail and the bakery employee was rushed to the hospital.

The police chief said Dail's head evidently was pinned between the truck and the pavement, crushing it immediately.

At a coroner's inquest this morning a verdict was reached that Dail died "of injuries sustained in an unavoidable accident." No charges were preferred against Godley.

Funeral services for Mr. Dail were conducted this afternoon at four-thirty from the late home 1203 Cottage Street by Rev. S. B. Denny, Primitive Baptist minister of Wilson. Rev. R. F. Pittman and Rev. J. I. Blackwelder, Free Will Baptist Ministers of Ayden and Rev. J. B. Roberts, Primitive Baptist Minister here, burial followed in Greenwood cemetery.

He is survived by his wife and one son, Herbert Cephus Dail. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. (Continued on Page Four)

WALLACE ASKS NEW FARM PLAN

Suggests New Plan Using 50,000,000 Surplus Acres

Washington, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The formulation of a new farm plan or using 50,000,000 surplus acres "to serve the long-time welfare of the farmer, the consumer and the voiceless land" was projected to farm leaders today by Secretary Wallace.

He told agricultural leaders "we believe" such a program can be devised, but did not give his own views on the subject.

Wallace spoke to approximately 100 agricultural representatives summoned by the new deal "for advice" on what to do about the demolished AAA. He lashed "obstructionists" to the future welfare of agriculture, and flayed "special interests" that "would be delighted to give six-cent cotton, 30-cent wheat, 5-cent lard, 8-cent tobacco to foreign nations" and asserted:

"I believe the AAA has steadily been directed to the general welfare and that now we have the opportunity to grasp another bill which I hope will be just as decisively in the farm interest as the AAA and which will make an even stronger appeal to the consumers of the nation as being sound and fair."

After hearing Wallace, the farmers went to another agricultural department building where discussions were begun. Wallace did not attend this session.

The atmosphere was cheerful, but the farm leaders appeared determined. A hurried survey disclosed no central interests in any single farm program, but most farmers appeared insistent that some measure as nearly like AAA as possible should be drafted immediately.

London, Jan. 19.—(AP)—British official circles said today that if Japan withdraws from the International Naval Conference, the parley will not collapse, but will become a six-power conference with the inclusion of Germany and Soviet Russia.

Officials said the addition of Germany and Russia, if Japan left the parley might restore some of the prestige of the conference. Some also said it would be a hint to Japan that Great Britain would move closer to the Soviet union in resisting, increasing Japanese strength on the far East.

London, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Bellah sources reported today that Great Britain and the United States had reached an agreement to return to conditions of Japan's demand for equality at the international naval conference.

The British arranged to communicate with the French and Italian delegates later in the day, but authoritative quarters indicated an agreement of all delegations already was assured.

It was learned on good authority that the Japanese are presenting new details of their party proposals which other delegations previously had demanded, but had been unable to obtain.

All the Occidental delegations want to know specifically how the proposed Japanese equality will work out in practice and whether Japan intends to actually build a fleet equal to those of Great Britain and America.

It further was understood the United States delegation now is considering formal presentation of President Roosevelt's suggestion for a 20 per cent all around proportional reduction in all fleets.

Earlier informed Japanese observers said Admiral Otsu Nagano, chief Tokyo delegate to the international conference was convinced the die was cast against the Japanese and predicted the parley soon would collapse.

The Japanese said they understood the delegates of the other great sea powers virtually had reached a decision to vote Monday on Tokyo's demand for fleet equality with no doubt as to the result.

Immediately after reporting this act to Tokyo, authoritative source said the Japanese delegates expect to receive instructions to withdraw formally from the conference at the following session, probably Wednesday or Thursday.

Italian Officer and Several Somalis Said Slain

(By Associated Press)

The Ethiopian government at Addis Ababa announced today that one Italian officer and several hundred Somalis had been slain in the first important clash along the Webbe river on the southern front.

"The troops of Seyume Mered routed a strong Italian column at Kerelle last week," said an official communique.

"One Italian officer and several hundred Italian Somalis were killed. Six tanks were captured."

Egypt decided to join Ethiopia and Sweden today in protest of Italian bombing of cities and ambulance units on East Africa's battlefronts.

The government of King Saad announced at Cairo it would protest to Italy against bombing of an Egyptian Red Crescent ambulance unit near Daggah Bur on the southern front.

Prince Ismail Daoud, the king's brother-in-law, also reported another Egyptian ambulance detachment had been bombed and machine-gunned by eight Italian planes Tuesday at Dolally in the same territory.

Ethiopia has sent a strong protest to the League of Nations asking appointment of a commission to survey its claims that the fascist invaders had a policy of "merciless extermination with bombs."

Unofficial sources reported 200 Italian native troops had been killed in an Ogaden province engagement. Six tanks, nine machine guns and rail equipment have been seized by the defense forces, it was reported.

CAMPAIGN OFF FLYING START

Campaign Chest Of Democratic Party Well Stocked

Washington, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The Democratic party was off to a flying start toward a well-stocked campaign chest by virtue of selection of Philadelphia for its convention city and the recent series of Jackson Day dinners.

Complete reports on returns from the 2,000 Jackson Day dinners will not be known for several days, but the party treasury held a cool $200,000 in cash from the Pennsylvania city which on the convention late yesterday after a stiff bidding contest.

The decision of the national committee carries the Democratic convention into the heart of the industrial East, home-ground of many of the business men who oppose the New Deal.

In some quarters the selection was interpreted as a move indicating an aggressive Democratic campaign for the electoral vote of the thickly populated eastern states. It will be the first Democratic convention ever held in Philadelphia.

But Chairman Farley has discounted the political importance of the convention site. It was apparent that in selecting Philadelphia the committee was moved as much, if not more, by financial considerations than others.

Dozen Persons Wounded In Series of Bomb Explosions at San Diego as Prelude to Election

Havana, Jan. 10.—(AP)—A dozen persons were wounded in a series of Santiago bomb explosions today, a prelude to the election of a President and other constitutional officers by Cuba's two million voters.

Ten bombs exploded before the polls opened in the seaport city of Santiago. One damaged the office of Dr. Caesar Covani, Marianist party leader.

A political agent was brought to Havana suffering grave bullet wounds from Bauta, in the nearby province of Pina Del Rio.

Majority More Than Two-Thirds Needed Override Veto

SENATE GROUP TO ACT SOON

Indication That Senate Committee May Amend Bill or Report Out Its Own

Washington, Jan. 10.—(AP)—A crushing house majority today passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing immediate cash payment of the bonus to nearly 3,500,000 world war veterans. Its immediate cost was estimated variously from one to two billion dollars.

The vote on passage was announced by Speaker Byrns as 355 to 58, more than the two-thirds required to pass the legislation over a presidential veto.

The final ballot was taken before galleries packed with spectators. The bill was backed by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans.

Prompt consideration of the cash bonus issue by the Senate finance committee was promised by Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.).

Unless pressure for the House bill is too great the committee was considered likely to amend the measure or vote out a less liberal one of its own, realizing President Roosevelt is opposed to full payment at this time.

Just before the final passage the House defeated 319 to 89, a motion by Rep. Treadway (R-Mass.) to return the bill to committee under instruction to require payment with unexpended relief funds.

The public is invited to hear Bishop Kern at Jarvis Memorial church Sunday morning.

President Rejects Export Subsidies as AAA Substitute

Washington, Jan. 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt at his first farm discussion since AAA's death, today asserted his responsibility to farming as a national problem and reiterated his determination for soil conservation and control of production as the answer to the farm situation.

Taking offhand with news men at his Presidential conference the President turned thumbs down on a proposal to provide subsidies for exports.

"We must avoid" he said "any national agricultural policy which will result in the shipment of our soil fertility of foreign nations."

In a return to uncontrolled crop production he saw a new race or shortsighted plowing of the vast midwest area, a return of the dust storms and even desert lands in this rich region.

Mr. Roosevelt proposed no specific plan and carefully avoided discussion of any special farm plan to meet the situation resulting from the death of AAA. However, he gave notice of an intention to seek some legislation at this session to carry out what he regards as his responsibility and that of those he described as thinking farmers for soil conservation and control production.

The President made no reference to the Supreme court.

AUTO DRUNKS IN DRY SPOTS

Fewer Drunken Drivers Found in 'Wet' Counties

Reflector Bureau, Str. Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, Jan. 9.—The "dry" have it when it comes to having the most convictions for drunken driving and the most revocations of drivers' licenses for driving while drunk, according to the latest list of 272 persons whose driving permits have just been revoked by the Department of Revenue.

ment of Revenue for out of this list of 272 persons who have lost their drivers' permits for a period of one year, only 38 are from towns and counties where liquor is legally sold, the remaining 234 being from counties and towns where the sale of liquor is prohibited by state laws.

The "dry" city of Charlotte in the "dry" county of Mecklenburg leads the list with the largest number of convictions for drunken driving, with 28 license revocations, while the "dry" city of Greensboro in the equally arid county of Guilford takes second place with 15 license revocations for attempted steering. In third place for the most license revocations for drunken driving is the supposedly arid city of Salisbury in the "dry" county of Rowan, while the equally arid "Towel City," of Kannapolis comes next with ten revocations. The city of Clinton, in the "dry" and Republican county of Sampson, also has ten residents in the latest batch whose licenses were revoked for drunken driving.

Yet the "wet" city of Wilmington had only four residents whose licenses were revoked in this latest batch, while the "wet" cities of Winston, Kinston and Henderson had only four revocations for drunken driving on this list, with only one for Rocky Mount, which has two legal liquor stores.

In this particular batch of revocations, not a single one was from Winston-Salem, likewise none from Asheville, these being the only two of the larger cities in the state not represented. Only four residents of Durham were in this batch and only three from Raleigh. Most Durham people who use legal liquor buy it from the Vance county store in Henderson, 44 miles distant, while Raleigh people patronize the Nash county store in Middlesex, 32 miles from Raleigh. In fact, this store has become generally known as "the Raleigh liquor store in Middlesex."

because of the heavy patronage it receives from Capital residents. There are some five or six "liquor stores" right here in Raleigh, however, operated by bootleggers, from which either Government bottled and tax-paid liquor or home-distilled corn or rye bootleg liquor may be purchased or ordered by telephone. The prices for the bottled, tax-paid Government liquor are only slightly higher than the prices in the county liquor stores, while the standard price for the home-made "blockade" liquor still remains $2 for a two-quart jar.

According to residents of "dry" cities and counties who are familiar with conditions, liquor, either government bottled or domestic bootleg, can be obtained in most of them with more ease and at about the same prices as in the cities and towns which have legal liquor stores. Residents of Charlotte, Asheville, Greensboro, Winston-Salem, Durham and other supposedly "dry" cities in "dry" counties have told this correspondent that it is just as easy to buy liquor there as in Raleigh, since it can be ordered by telephone, with quick delivery service to any address or hotel room. In the cities and counties having legal liquor stores, it is necessary for the buyers to go to the stores in person and make their purchases. In Johnston county, just outside of Smithfield, the Flowers brothers operate a liquor store in which they are reported to carry all the standard brands of bottled liquor, in addition to home-made "bootleg" and to sell the bottled liquor at lower prices than are charged for the same brands in the liquor stores in neighboring counties. These same brothers are said to have had their salesmen on the floors of all the tobacco warehouses in the county during the Tobacco season soliciting business and making almost immediate delivery. Yet Johnston is supposed to be a "dry" county.

Of course, there may not be any connection whatever between the number of convictions for drunken driving and the revocation of drivers' licenses for this offense, and the figures deduced may mean nothing. But yet they may be significant.

STRAY RAZOR BLADES ENDANGER TINY FINGERS

The housewife should warn the man of the house in no uncertain terms of the danger of razor blades if children are around. They should be kept in a box or container which is out of reach of the younger ones so they won't cause any accidents. Throw out old medicines, especially those whose original uses you have forgotten.

Arrange your bathroom cupboard shelves so that the children's necessities are kept low and those they do not need or should not touch are far above them.

PLAN SURVEY OF ARCHIVES

State Historical Commission Arranges Movement

Reflector Bureau, Str. Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Jan. 9.—Plans are rapidly being completed for the starting of a survey of North Carolina archives and public and historical records, to extend into every county of the state, it was announced today by Dr. C. C. Crittenden, secretary of the State Historical Commission and assistant state supervisor of the survey.

Offices have been set up in the Supreme Court building next to the Historical Commission offices and the election of the district supervisors for the project is now in progress.

The sum of $30,000 has been set aside for this project by the state Works Progress Administration and those who will be employed on it will be secured through the WPA from among those formerly on relief, especially from the many "white collar" relief clients among whom are many college graduates, former school teachers and office workers who are not qualified for manual labor. These workers will go into all of the counties and list all public and historical records which are or may be valuable in the future as source material for students of history. It is work which the State Historical Commission has advocated for years but which it has never had sufficient funds to perform. Dr. Crittenden is convinced that the results of the survey will prove most valuable.

It is expected that the survey will be well under way in many sections of the state within the next three weeks, and everything possible is being done to speed it up since it must be completed by July 1, 1936, although it is admitted that the task is a tremendous one to be completed in such a short period.

The survey here in North Carolina is only a unit in a similar national survey including every one of the 48 states of which Dr. Luther H. Evans, of Washington, D. C. is the national director and for which a total of $1,200,000 has been allotted by the Federal government.

We'll Appreciate Your Patronage!

ATTENTION FARMERS!

We sincerely hope, for the benefit of tobacco growers, that the Supreme Court's ruling on the AAA program does not cause an increase of tobacco acreage for the coming season. But, for the tobacco that is planted, you should consider very carefully the start that you give it.

Candle Grease Stains.

If you drop candle grease on something do not try to scrape it off with a knife. Place a blotter over the candle-grease spots and then rub over with a moderately warm iron.

LUNCH BOX DELIGHT: CRACKERS WITH ICING

Why not give the child who takes lunch to school a special treat? Buy his favorite crackers and ice them at home with his favorite frosting flavoring. This will please the child and take the place of candy, giving them the sweetening that is good for them and removing the temptation to spend their pennies on cheap candies.

Custard 'Musts'

For a smooth custard, you must always dip the cup in cold water before filling with the mixture. And always bake in a slow oven. These might be called custard "musts."

WANT CRISP WAFFLES? DOUBLE UP ON BUTTER

Waffle parties are smart for cold winter evenings—waffles served with good coffee!

To make your waffles very crisp, add twice the amount of butter that the recipe demands. In addition to having delicious waffles, you will avoid the bother and waste of having them stick to the waffle iron.

Needed: A Wooden Spoon

A wooden spoon is essential in the kitchen. It is useful for many things, and for some absolutely necessary. For example, a fudge sauce should always be stirred with such a spoon and so should such vegetables as rice and barley, and so should acid fruits.

ONE JEW IN HOUSEHOLD TAINTS ALL NAZI EDICT

BERLIN (AP)—The new law prohibiting employment in Jewish households of Aryan housemaids who are less than 35 years old has caused perplexity among the housemaids.

In order to remove misunderstandings the ministry of the interior has found it necessary to define exactly what is a Jewish household.

The household cannot be considered Jewish if only the women and children are Jewish, states the official explanation. If at least one adult male member of the household is a Jew, however, then the household is Jewish and the Aryan housemaid must show she is at least 35 years old or look for another job.

SOMEWHERE

(Dedicated to the Memory of W. K. Woodard)

Somewhere back of the sunset, Where loveliness never dies, Where peace in his dark brown eyes, And laughter lies all about him, And music sways on the air, He is far from all thought of sadness, Of sacrifice, sorrow and care.

The flowers of his life of service—The pure gold of his true worth are wrapped like a cloak about him, Who has gone too soon from earth, And who loved him always, His beauty of soul which brings swift tears, Will cherish his memory forever To brighten the drifting years. He is not dead—such souls forever live, In boundless measures of the love they give.

—Mrs. W. T. Warren.

According to Manager T. Y. Walker, two of those on the program last Sunday evening will appear here.

RELIEF COWS WAS BIG TASK

Department of Agriculture Had Job of Inspection

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 10.—Supervising the inspection of 100,921 "relief" cattle shipped into North Carolina by the Emergency Relief Administration from the drought areas in the west was probably the largest single undertaking of the State Department of Agriculture during 1935, Commissioner W. A. Graham today pointed out in his report on the 1935 activities of the department to the State Board of Agriculture.

Of these 100,921 cattle inspected under the direction of veterinary division of the department, 4,806 were found to be infected either with abortion or tuberculosis and were slaughtered.

After being fed in various sections of the state for several months 50,332 of these cattle were killed for canning and the canned beef distributed to relief families, while 1,489 were condemned as unfit for food. Some 860 died in the concentration and quarantine pens from emaciation of disease and destroyed. A check-up leaves some 5,000 of these cattle still unaccounted for, some of which were given by the ERA to relief families, while some are still roaming in swamps and woodlands where they were pastured. The report stated that some of these cattle have introduced diseases into the state not before known here, the chief of which is pink-eye.

The division of weights and measures made 23,543 inspections, in which 19,805 weighing and measuring devices were approved, 3,257 condemnations and 481 releases. There were 3,257 confiscations and 17 prosecutions.

The division of entomology, of which Dr. R. W. Leiby is the head, has been supervising the task of pulling up or digging up some 10,000 diseased peach trees in the Sandhills orchard section, the work being financed by the WPA with Federal money. In addition, this division has inspected 87,000 narcissus bulbs, of which 77,400 were fumigated and 10,000 given hot water treatment to kill infections. Some 234,000 iris bulbs were also inspected and treated.

Outstanding activities of the various other divisions were also reported on in considerable detail.

FAIR BEFORE STATE AGENCY

Agriculture Board Considers Leasing Exposition Again

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 10.—Whether it will again lease the State Fair to private individuals on a percentage basis or whether it will again undertake to operate the State Fair directly, is the principal matter of business before the State Board of Agriculture in session here today with Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. Graham. The board will also hear a report by Commissioner Graham on the activities of the various divisions of the department.

It is an established fact that the Department of Agriculture has earned a good profit from the operation of the State Fair ever since it decided to lease it instead of operate it directly, while it lost money on the fair each year it tried to operate it under the department. This past year, the 1935 State Fair netted the Department of Agriculture $10,556 under the lease to Norman Y. Chambliss of Rocky Mount and George Hamid of New York.

In 1934 the fair yielded the department $6,512 and in 1933, the

THE 'HAILE SELASSIE FROCK' IS INTRODUCED IN BERMUDA

A new fad is introduced in Bermuda—the "Haile Selassie dress" which combines cool comfort with simple practicability. Although it is obviously smart for any southern resort, Bermuda has the distinction of having been the first place where this very style was shown.

first it was leased to Chambliss and Hamid, it yielded $3,660. Thus the total return to the Department of Agriculture since it has leased the State Fair to private individuals who have assumed all risk in its operation, has been $20,729. In addition to these receipts from the leasing of the fair, the department has collected $15,446 in fire insurance following the burning of one of the fair buildings, making the total receipts from all sources for the three years period amount to $36,176. During this same period, the department has expended a total of $5,860 on the grounds and buildings, leaving a balance now on hand of $30,315.

There are several members of the Board of Agriculture, however, who think the board should again take over the direct operation of the fair, that the department could have the benefit of the entire amount taken in, instead of only a percentage of the receipts, as is the case when it is leased. There are others, however, who maintain that in the long run the department will receive more net cash from the fair under the leasing plan than if it undertakes to operate it directly. There is a possibility that final action on the state fair may be deferred until a later meeting.

CARDUI

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine for the relief for functional periodic pain, nervousness and weakness due to poor nourishment. It is in successful use by thousands of women.

"I have used Cardui and had good results from its use," writes Mrs. W. E. Barnett, of Taylors, S. C. "I suffered with cramping and headaches and would have a chilly feeling. Sometimes I would feel miserable and have pain more than a day, and I would be nervous. I read of Cardui and decided to use it. After taking six bottles of Cardui, I feel much better."

When such suffering can be avoided by taking Cardui, isn't that the common-sense thing to do? Of course, if it does not seem to reach the cause of your trouble, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

In his Jackson Day address President Roosevelt gave assurance to the farmers that his administration would continue its fight to lift agriculture to higher levels of prosperity. Despite the recent action of the Supreme Court, Mr. Roosevelt's efforts in behalf of the farmers since he entered the office of President should be sufficient to assure the farmers that he is their best bet to tie to in this year's election.

If the legislation now before Congress for immediate payment of the soldiers' adjusted service certificates receives favorable action as is now indicated it will mean much to North Carolina in the way of increased purchasing power. Close to $35,000,000 will be distributed among approximately 64,000 veterans in North Carolina. Pitt County's part of the distribution in this state will be $600,000 which should mean much in a business way.

It is not too late for you to donate to the Democratic national fund by purchasing the Jackson Day dinner tickets. There are still some of these tickets on hand here and they will be held for a few days pending final report to the national organization. If you would like to donate one dollar or more to the national organization do so through the purchase of one of these left-over tickets. The name of each donor is reported to national headquarters.

Indications point to immediate action toward some form of substitute for the AAA that will protect the farmers against the old methods of over-production and starvation prices. In the meantime, we urge growers to go right ahead with their plans for planting this year's crops the same as if the contracts were in effect. An over-production this year would probably result in ruinously low prices while keeping the production down to the demand would mean living prices for the growers. Certainly this is true in the case of the bright leaf tobacco production and we hope that the tobacco growers will not upset the prosperity they have enjoyed for the past two years by an over-production at this critical time.

SYNOPSIS: A Daire West has at last learned the truth about Terry Willett—and the other way about. The truth is simply that each loves the other, and that nothing can keep them apart. So Terry, who is an engineer in charge of a tough job up a fever-infested South American river and Allaire, who is a daughter of great wealth in the States, are married in Proprietary Terry must shortly leave Allaire and go back to his job.

DAYS TOGETHER
"I HOPE you're going to get along all right," said Terry. "If you need anything or get in a jam, notify Drake or the Consul. They'll contact me somehow."
"How long will you be gone, Terry?"
He shook his head.
"A long time, I'm afraid. Hope to get through before the rain comes, but I don't know. The rain's lovely around here. Allaire soaks through you, seems to get into the houses, rises back to the sky in early morning mists and comes down again. The same raindrop is used a thousand times. And that lousy Palva swells and swells. Gets hold of some terrific force from somewhere—usually it just muddles along. Sort of makes me think of a rejuvenated

He left a revolver with her before he went, opening a table drawer and dropping it in.
"Remember where that is," he said casually.
"You need that more than I do," she said. She didn't like the things much.
"Don't worry. I've a couple more and so has Corrigan. Good-bye, Allaire, take care of yourself. Don't," he grinned briefly, "wait up late."

He kissed her and she held on to him suddenly, fiercely, and then released him. Silly! She acted as though he were sailing for the front line trenches.
But the stamp of battle was already in Terry Willett's face and she knew he probably fought a job as he fought a man, grimly, relentlessly, recklessly, risking anything and daring all to beat it down.
A man to whom life was still a bloody, sweating battlefield and who didn't know his own keen powers for fine achievement and balanced life. He was gone and she was alone.

DAYS passing into weeks and weeks passing like the endless monotonous click of subway turnstiles in a rush hour—weeks that saw the bright hot sun of day begin early and go down in a final blast of slimy snake coming out of the mud."

"Terry, don't—think about it, tonight."
He looked down at her swiftly.
"Sorry, Allaire."
"It's just the night that starts us off together and all the rain and rivers and heat in the world aren't going to spoil it. And it really is a beautiful night. You mustn't forget that."
He was silent and so was she for a moment.
"Terry," she said hesitatingly, "you never really loved Puff Harrington—did you?"
"Who? Oh, Puff! So you know about that?"
"I don't want to know anything, but I just want to feel for you."
"Forget it, honey," he bade briefly. "There was never anything between Puff and me. You were all that ever mattered."

Sie-transit: Puff, Allaire felt a grand little thrill. Not that it would have mattered now, but she'd always been proud herself, and it was such a relief to know that he hadn't buried himself in blind, transient escape.
As they stood there the warm tenor of the night seemed to become colder and he felt her arm shiver slightly in his.
"Better go in, Allaire. These nights sneak up on you."
She turned to go, met his eyes, and paused. For a minute they looked at each other without a word, then her eyes dropped with the quick sweep of those long lashes, and her naturally high color seemed a bit heightened.

She went into the house and Willett took one last look at the chilling night over Proprietary, frowned slightly, and flicked his cigarette out into the darkness. Its glow in the tip described a wide arc and fell to earth to die, a little slow-burning spot.
Then he turned and followed her.
THREE days later he had to go. He'd done all he could to make her secure. Drake would keep in touch with her and the Consul was always close at hand, and yet he felt that he could have done more; he didn't know exactly what, but there was a feeling that this girl who'd followed vengeful, scorching heat to be replaced by the queer chilliness of evening.

She had called her family and George Fox that she was married and happy and well. She never felt any homesickness, but then this funny little stucco house with the iron bars on the windows was the first real home she'd had.
Her mind was too quick and eager to assimilate the terror of her surroundings. She went about learning Spanish from Rosa, and if any of the storekeepers in Proprietary were amazed at a beautiful American girl talking uncertain Spanish with a Chaiki inflection, Allaire didn't notice.

When she walked abroad, Rosa paddled along behind her, always behind, a fat figure with a shawl over head and shoulders.
And when they went driving, Eugenio would procure the carriage and sit on the driver's seat, his stooped shoulders bending yet further over the reins, and they would travel into the interior, investigating the small squalid native villages around Proprietary.
She stole off one night alone, and muffled in a dark cloak, hired a carriage and drove through some of the streets of Proprietary. She saw those soldier-police in action then. Allaire didn't go around alone after that.
Drake dropped in from time to time, but with the customary phlegm of his race could offer no particular spontaneity to his visits. It was the padre whom she liked most to see. The padre knew all about what Terry was trying to do, what his father had tried to do before him.
Allaire lost that sense of ennui that had risen to afflict her and felt the tang of battle, her battle and Terry's, when suddenly something new came into her life. Instantly she longed to see Terry with all her heart and soul.
And then one day—
Yes, it was certain. Terry Willett—you're going to be a father, and please act as if you liked it. The question mark came back from the shadows into which it had been banished.

AAA upset is going to benefit or damage—possibly destroy—FDR. If farm prices fall sharply and suddenly, the Wallaces will yell, "We told you so." If they stay firm or go up, the Fletchertites will argue that agricultural controls retarded recovery. They advanced the same contention when industry spurred after NRA's downfall.

Market conditions smile upon the GOP. Vast farm surpluses have vanished and in some products the demand exceeds supply. Processors have bought sparingly lately and inventories are low. Thus a large volume of new post-AAA purchases may stabilize the existing price structure. Certain anti-Roosevelt interests may consider it a good investment to support the market at financial sacrifice—if it means Roosevelt's defeat.

RECOVERY: FDR has no doubt that his policies are making the poor richer and the rich poorer. Five times in his budget message he bawls-drums the note that the 1935 "soak the rich" tax bill produced very little new revenue. He estimates that it will raise only $222,000,000 for the 1937 fiscal year. He looks further down the economic scale for the largest gains. With general conditions bettering, the middle class wage-earner is counted on to pay more income taxes, to buy more cars, gas, liquor, cigarettes, to go to theatres and night clubs more frequently. It's in this field that most of the extra $716,000,000 is supposed to originate.

The President had two reasons for headlining the failure to levy a heavier tax burden on upper brackets: (1) To refute the contention that he has imposed new checks on business expansion; (2) To demonstrate that basic and widespread recovery is responsible for increased government receipts.

MINORITY: All sorts of speculation results from the dissent of Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo from the majority opinion in the AAA case. Brandeis was appointed by Wilson. Stone by Coolidge, and Cardozo by Hoover. The three jurists are described as "liberals," but they joined their brethren in the Schechter case.
Justice Stone's opinion is expected to become the cornerstone of arguments supporting the power of Congress to legislate through taxation for the general welfare. Hope is still entertained in New Deal circles that this theory will win out in the social security litigation that is impending.

The minority opinion is a reminder that all cases coming before the Supreme Court are judged separately, and not by precedent entirely.

UTILITIES: Sentiment in favor of amended federal regulation of utility holding companies—as against no regulation at all—is growing rapidly within the industry. Sources in a position to know estimate that 75 per cent of the important groups are now sold on the idea recently broached by Wendell P. Wilkie of Commonwealth and Southern.
Furthermore, a number of Congressmen are also showing keen interest. This includes several who helped push through the present holding company act.
A bill is now being drafted which will fit the industry's own concept of reasonable regulation to eliminate past abuses. It is likely to be introduced and pressed at this session—although details of how this is to be done have not been determined. Its sponsors are anxious confessing abject defeat all along the line.

New Yorkers crack that there's no need for New Deal opponents to ask Congress for the repeal of New Deal measures—as the President challenged them to do. "Why bother about Congress when the Supreme Court will do the repealing with so much less fuss?"

EASIER: The Treasury's actual cash deficit for the past six months was about $1,500,000,000. It would probably have been less than a billion for the next if processing taxes hadn't been knocked out. Now there's no telling with any degree of accuracy. But in any case the Treasury can view the near future with more equanimity than most government departments.

It has a current working balance of about $1,800,000,000. That should be ample to cover all normal needs at least until July. Maturities of around $3,000,000,000 in notes and bills up to July 1 can be refunded in stride. Mr. Morgenthau will not have to ask for any new funds—except to pay the bonus.
Financial sharps predict he will play that safe and raise the money on short term notes rather than take a chance on trying to market a new long-term issue. With continued recovery in prospect it should be easier and cheaper for Mr. Morgenthau (or his successor) to refund the notes into long bonds a year or two from now. The administration may recommend new taxes to meet the bonus. If so, it will be merely a gesture Congress is sure to give that idea the razor-berry.

BEHAVE: The Democratic national convention will probably have to struggle along without the distinguished presence of Al Smith or John W. Davis as delegates from New York. The State Committee names delegates-at-large. Jim Farley rules the State Committee—and that's that.
Of course Al might be picked as a local Tammany delegate—but that isn't very likely either. Political insiders say the heat has been turned on Jim Dooling—Tiger boss —with a vengeance. He's been advised in no uncertain terms to go as he's told and quit fooling around—or else.

It's true that most of Dooling's followers are anti-Roosevelt and anti-Farley. But Farley can still swing a wicked axe that Dooling can't afford to ignore if he wants to keep his job. Betting is that he will behave.

BUYS PORK ON OPEN MARKET

Packers Refuse Reduce Price of Processing Tax

Raleigh, Jan. 10.—The Division of Purchase and Contract is now buying pork for the various state institutions in the open market instead of from the packers, with whom it had a general contract, since these packers refused to reduce the contract price to the amount of the processing tax knocked out by the AAA decision of the Supreme Court, Director A. S. Brower of the purchasing division said today.

The packers are more or less justified in their position, however, since they do not yet know what procedure they will have to go through, or whether the taxes they have collected will be refunded to them, Brower said.

"The only thing we are trying to do is to keep from having to pay a tax which the Supreme Court has already said is illegal, although it has not yet decided whether the processing taxes will be refunded or merely cease with the date of the AAA decision," Brower said. "Accordingly, what pork we now need we are buying in the open market instead of under the state contract. And the open market prices have declined considerably both because of the increased supply of hogs and probably because of the AAA decision."

"Accordingly, we are now buying 11 cents a pound for about 11 cents a pound which we formerly paid as high as 15 to 16 cents per pound, and which with the processing tax would now cost about 13 cents a pound. We are likewise now buying bellies, or bacon, for about 15 to 16 cents a pound, which formerly cost us about 19 cents a pound and which at present prices, including the processing tax, would cost about 17 cents a pound."

The state is not buying any other commodities right now on which processing taxes have been charged, and it has never had to pay the processing tax on wheat, since it has ground its own flour from its own wheat for the prison, and has gotten a refund on flour bought for the other state institutions amounting to about $35,000, Brower pointed out.

LESSONS IN LAW-MAKING

12. Does Oratory Pay. Legislation usually is little influenced by the flood of oratory which accompanies it.

Measures enacted by any congress are largely those originating with or sponsored by the majority party. Important legislation brought up for consideration in either house has had the careful scrutiny and a favorable report of a well-organized committee. Most of the debate, therefore, has little bearing on the outcome.

Frequently members of congress, especially in the house, seek to extend their remarks in the Congressional Record. Once permission is granted for inserting a speech in the Record it is available for mailing to constituents.

Such speeches usually are printed at the government printing office and the member is charged the cost price.

The costs to members of congress for printing speeches runs into thousands of dollars annually, despite the fact the material is carried free of charge in the mails. One year congressmen paid $61,000 in printing costs.

The senate is more lenient because of the custom of "senatorial courtesy" in the matter of extending speeches in the Record than is the house.

OYSTER PLAN IS UNDERWAY

Approximately 500 Workers Employed In Planting

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Jan. 10.—Approximately 500 workers are engaged on the planting of oysters in Eastern North Carolina waters, Capt. L. W. Nelson of Gloucester, N. C., supervisor of the project in the various counties, said today on a visit to WPA headquarters in Raleigh.

Projects are now under way in seven of the nine counties for which they have been approved. These counties are Brunswick, New Hanover, Onslow, Carteret, Pamlico, Hyde and Dare. The work is scheduled later in Pender and Beaufort counties.

While Captain Nelson did not have a complete report on plantings to date in the various counties, he declared that the amount of oysters being set is large and that a summary of the work should be ready in a short while.

Small oysters are being planted at this time in Brunswick, New Hanover, Onslow, Hyde and Dare counties and shells are being used for that purpose in Carteret and Pamlico counties. Captain Nelson said that shells are being planted wherever available since this procedure is especially effective in the rehabilitation of the oyster resources since the individual stock will be of uniform growth in the first stages of development.

Under the old CWA and ERA, more than 1,000,000 bushels of oysters were planted and it is hoped that at least as many or more will be set under the WPA, Captain Nelson said. These projects are sponsored by the State Department of Conservation and Development. North Carolina is said to be the first state in which the planting of oysters was undertaken as a work relief project by Federal agencies.

Conservation officials maintain that this project is one of the most constructive undertaken in that it is a sound investment for future returns to the fishermen and since it brings more of the unproductive grounds of the state into use.

Noise Maker.

Bradley Barker is always growling, but that's the way he makes his living. He barks, too, and has been known to imitate an egg frying. Once he made the sounds he thinks dinosaurs used to frighten prehistoric man. The aptly named Barker is a sound specialist for the movies and radio. Usually he works in New York. Barker was quite pleased with his dinosaur noise, and nobody could say he was wrong. He decided on a shrill shriek. One night he watched a jungle movie and heard a woman whisper, as a lion roared: "Heavens, I wouldn't want to be within a mile of that beast." Barker chuckled. It was his roar. Barker broke into the sound effect game by imitating a barking seal one night during rehearsal of a radio drama.
