FIVE NEGROES
SENTENCED TO PRISON TERMS

Andrew Cogwell and Marvin Taylor Sent
Up For Murder

PAIR ARRESTED
IN NEW YORK

Three Other Negroes
Sentenced for Robbing Aged Pitt Man of Sum of Money

Two negroes, Andrew Cogwell and Marvin Taylor, were sentenced to from 15 to 20 years in state's prison, following a plea of second degree murder in Pitt county superior court here today.

The two negroes, who were arrested in New York about the middle of December, admitted killing John Lee Smith, another negro. All of the negroes lived in Grifton and Smith was killed there on the night of November 9.

Three other negroes were given long-time sentences. John Brown, Roosevelt Cox and Charlie Edwards entered a plea of second degree burglary and Edwards and Brown were given sentences of 15 to 20 years and Cox was sentenced to from 25 to 30 years. The three were charged with robbing Jimmy Nelson, aged Pitt county man, of a sum of money after striking him on the head with some instrument.

Other cases disposed of by the court was one against Walter Smith charging breaking and entering. He was given six months on the roads.

Snodgrass, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of whiskey, withdrew his appeal noted in County court and the original sentence of $50 fine and costs, 12 months revocation of his driver's license and a suspended sentence was ordered in effect.

Isaac Jackson, Grifton negro, withdrew his appeal from conviction of operating an automobile in a careless and reckless manner and the original sentence of payment of half the cost was ordered.

Willie Manning of Grifton, convicted in county court of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and appealed, also withdrew his appeal and paid the $50 fine and costs of court. The original sentence also called for the revocation of the defendant's driver's license for 12 months and a suspended road sentence.

Maggie Langley, negro, was convicted of forgery, but prayer for judgment was continued until October. The woman has an infant baby and Judge Spears held judgment in abeyance until another term of court.

Walter Smith of near Black Jack, was given six months upon conviction on a breaking and entering charge.

Theron Nelson and George Lee House, Greenville boys, were given 12 months each, suspended for two years upon payment of cost and good behavior, upon conviction of breaking and entering.

John Davis, negro who stole an automobile from the streets of Greenville was given from two to three years in State prison on the larceny charge.

Harold Ennie, Greenville negro, was sent to the roads for 18 months upon conviction of breaking and entering. He was charged with stealing a pair of pants from the house where he was working.

The case charging Jarvis Tyson with assault was remanded to Farmville Recorder's court for trial.

J. S. Snead, Grimesland negro convicted of an assault with a deadly weapon, was sentenced to serve from 12 to 18 months on the roads.

Smith Brothers Have
Unusually Big Hogs

The Smith brothers of near Hanrahan are known in their communities as the king hog raisers and their latest kill seems to bear out the distinction.

E. A. ("Ed") Smith killed six hogs yesterday and they weighed a total of 2,345. One of the hogs weighed 750 pounds. The other members of the hog-raising family are Willie and Jessie Smith.

CITY OF WILSON NOTES
SOLD BY COMMISSION

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The executive committee of the Local Government Commission today sold four issues of revenue anticipation notes for political subdivisions of the state, which included $8,250 worth of this city of Wilson notes to R. S. Dickson & Co., at a premium of $2.25 with interest at 2 1/2 per cent.

London, Jan. 21.—(AP)—King Edward, VIII, flew today from Sandringham to London—the first English king to ride in an airplane—to take up officially his new duties as ruler of the British empire.

The body of his father, King George, who died just before midnight in the royal residence at Sandringham awaited removal to the little church where the first public homage was paid the departed sovereign.

The new king, modern to the last degree, took off at 11:40 a. m. from Birmaham, Newton, airport, near Sandringham, on the 100 miles flight to London with his brother, the Duke of York, heir presumptive.

Although Edward flies his own plane his private pilot sat at the controls on the trip to London.

He and the Duke of York had worked with palace officials through the morning drawing up final plans for King George's funeral and the new king's formal accession.

The final plans for all services, it was announced, would be made public after further conferences at London.

Bells tolled and guns boomed in London and throughout the empire. "The King is dead—Long live the King."

An hour after the bells of St. Paul's cathedral began its mournful dirge his majesty's ships, whether at home or abroad, began firing guns at minute intervals in honor of the late king.

Every British ship and navy establishment throughout the world lowered colors to half mast to remain until the king is laid to rest at Windsor.

It was understood that the proclamation of Edward as king will take place at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. James' palace.

REPLIES MADE TO INVITATION

Several Counties
Agree to Join in Delegation Plan

E. F. Arnold, Pitt county farm agent, said today some counties already had started sending in favorable answers to the Pitt county board of agriculture's invitation to join in a program to send delegations to Washington to press for prompt action in enacting a farm program to succeed AAA.

Martin Johnston, Craven and Vance counties have replied to the suggestion made by the local group, and in each instance the answers declared the farmers of the respective counties would support such a move.

The plan was originated here last week. It would send a delegation from each of 34 Eastern North Carolina counties to the national capital on separate days. It was explained that if each county asked to participate would send a group, a delegation from the state would be in Washington for quite a spell to seek to influence their congressmen to enact immediately legislation providing some farm program.

Spinning Industry Made Big Gains In Month December

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The cotton spinning industry was reported today by the Census Bureau to have operated during December at 103.8 per cent of capacity, compared with 101.1 per cent in November, and 87.1 in December a year ago.

LONDON'S FISH BOWLS
EMPTIED BY SANCTIONS

London.—(AP)—Italy's "counter-sanctions" have doubled the price of goldfish in England.

So popular did glass bowls of these fish become as decorations for British parlors that for a time they had boom sales in the ten-cent stores. In a good season an Italian goldfish could be bought for two cents, but that was before sanctions.

Imports of Italian goldfish now have ceased and a domestic industry is being started, but the British fish-harvesters are likely to appear on the market in any appreciable quantity before next fall.

Frank Hancock Advocates
Smaller Cigarette Taxes

North Carolina Congressman Suggests $1.20
Horizontal Reduction in Federal Excise
Tax With Benefits to Farmers

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A $1.20 horizontal reduction in the federal excise tax on cigarettes—now $3 a 1,000 was suggested today by Representative Frank W. Hancock, Jr., of Oxford, N. C.

Hancock said such a reduction would have a two fold benefit, insuring better prices to growers for tobacco and cheaper cigarettes for the consumer.

The N. C. representative declared the reduction should be effected in such a way as to insure that benefits would pass on to the producer.

Hancock said it was "safe to redict" that the government would continue to get as much revenue from the cigarette tax as in the past as a result of increased consumption which would follow price reductions.

"Tobacco is the only farm product in the United States that is a basis for revenue," the representative declared.

"The government is collecting annually an average of five times as much in taxes from each pound of tobacco as a grower receives 'or a pound."

"It is time for the grower to get more," he said.

Threats Against Governor Hoffman Turn
Out to Be Naught

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The impeachment bomb which sputtered threateningly after Governor Harold C. Hoffman reprieved Bruno Richard Hauptmann turned out today to have been a dud.

The Governor, whose 30-day respite for the condemned Lindbergh baby killer, had stirred his foes to talk of impeachment, appeared at a joint session of the legislature last night, addressed a special message on social legislation.

The Hauptmann case was not mentioned in either senate or assembly and the Democratic minority leader gave no hint that any open criticism would be made of the chief executive.

Hoffman's attitude on Hauptmann, who would have been electrocuted last Friday night except for gubernatorial reprieve, was somewhat clearer today after a new explanation of his interest in the case.

To Entertain Major
Bowes Amateurs at Barbecue

The program for the regular weekly meeting of the Rotary club last night was presented by the Boys Work committee, of which Joe Waker is chairman.

A father-daughter-son night was observed and each member was asked to bring either a son or a daughter to the dinner meeting. Also as guests of the meeting were the various Boy Scouts executives in the county, about 26 being present.

The principal address of the evening was made by June Rose.

Announcement was made at the meeting that the club would be host here Wednesday at noon at an old-fashioned barbecue dinner to Major Bowes amateurs who will present a program here on that date. Haywood Dail, who has charge of the Wednesday's program wired Major Bowes and Graham McNamee inviting them to attend the dinner.

Members are invited to bring their wives or sweethearts to the affair.

College Reports
an Enrollment of
1,077 This Term

Eastern Carolina Teachers College Has Biggest Enrollment in History of Institution

There are 1,077 students enrolled this term at Eastern Carolina Teachers College, the highest number in the history of the College and the first time in its history that the number in the winter term has exceeded that of the fall term. There are six more students this term than last. The new students enrolled and re-entrants overbalance the withdrawals.

Four completed their four-year course at the close of the fall term and are entitled to the A. B. degree, and two completed the two-year course which entitles them to the normal-school diploma. The degree students are as follows:

Misses Hilda Boyce, of Tynes, Alma Hammond, of Bethel, Mrs. Bertha Hart Tripp, of Winterville, and Elizabeth Clarke, of Jackson Springs.

The two year graduates are: Misses Myrna Lee Bell, Rocky Mount, Virginia Lee Ellis, New Bern, and Dorothy Smith, Walstonburg.

Paul Massey, 35, Drowned When His Boat Capsizes in Roanoke River Near Weldon

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The heaviest flood in the Roanoke river at Weldon and the lowlands since 1912 today was forecast as other streams in North Carolina rivers overflowed due to week-end rains. The Roanoke had already claimed one life.

The river stood at 41.6 at Weldon this morning, 10 feet above bank level and a warning that it would crest at 47 or 48 feet war forecast.

Lee A. Denson, in charge of the weather bureau here, expressed the opinion considerable damage was being done by the streams.

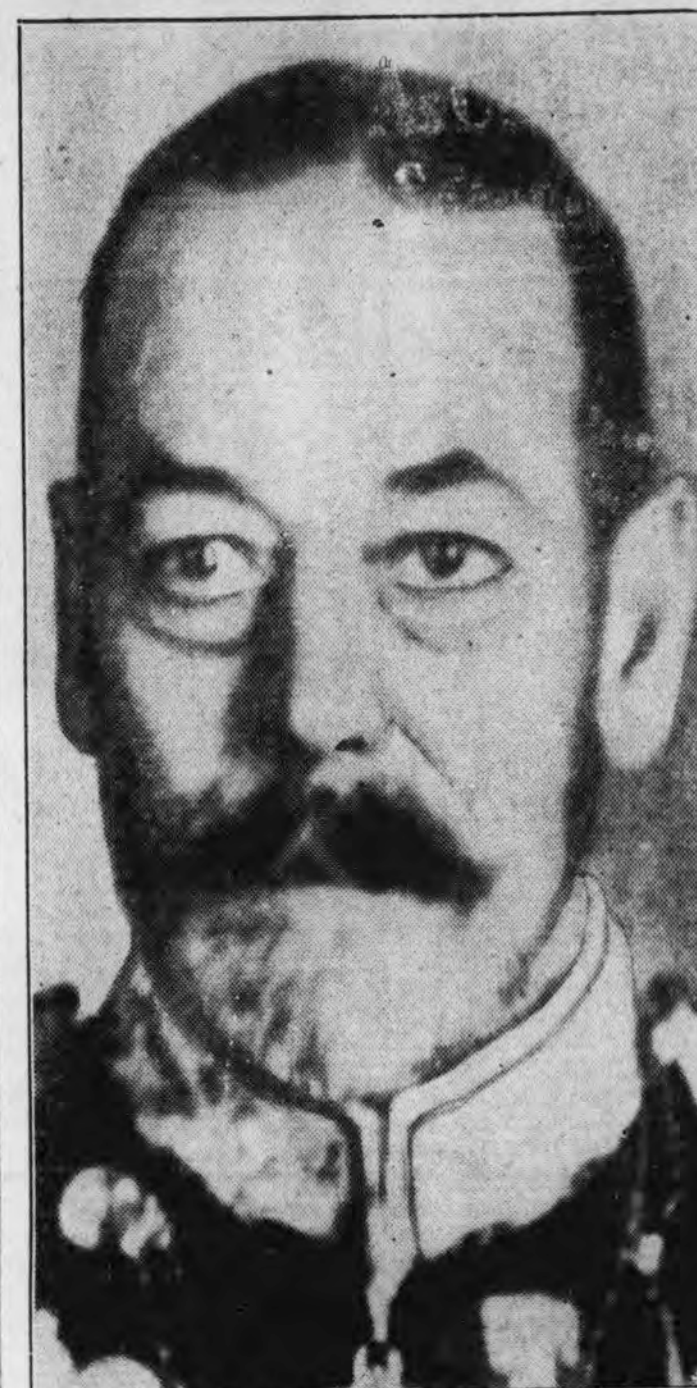

Paul Massey, 35, who drowned when his boat capsized in the Roanoke yesterday.

The Tar river at Rocky Mount was slightly above its banks and rising slowly and will overflow at Tarboro within 24 hours.

The Cape Fear was 41 feet deep, 6 foot above its banks at Fayetteville this morning but was on a stand and was falling at Moncure in its upper reaches.

At Smithfield the Neuse was 7.7 more than four feet in flood and a further rise was expected.

WORLD MOURNS KING'S DEATH

(By The Associated Press)
The loss of an Italian bombing plane and the defeat of troops under Ras Desta Dempo were reported today by the Italian government.

The League of Nations council met at Geneva but confined itself to expression of condolences to Great Britain over the death of King George V.

Premier Mussolini of Italy informed Prime Minister Baldwin of Great Britain that "the Italian people heard with profound motion the announcement of the death of King George and sympathize with the mourning British nation."

The Ethiopian government issued a call for more troops.

London Tonight

Parliament Swears Allegiance to King Edward, VIII, Successor to Late King George V

London, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The new title King Edward VIII, was used for the first time tonight when parliament met to swear allegiance to the oldest son of the late King George V.

The new king, the former Prince of Wales, came to London dramatically by airplane—the first English monarch ever to fly—12 hours after he saw his father die in Sandringham, 100 miles away.

Captain Richard Honorable Edward Algonon Fitzroy, speaker of the house of commons was the first to take the oath. He swore allegiance to his majesty, King Edward, VIII, his heir and successor to the law.

The next to take the oath were Prime Minister Baldwin, Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the exchequer, and Sir John Simon, home Secretary.

Sandringham, Eng., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Great Britain's royal family mourned the death of 70-year-old king George at a private service in Sandringham's little church today while the new monarch, Edward, VIII, flew to London for his accession ceremony.

The beloved old sovereign, as he had always wished, died in the quiet and peace of his Norfolk county estate just before midnight last night with the family he loved at his bedside. Members of the royal household went to Saint Mary of Magdalen's church this morning for a holy communion service.

The service was conducted by Arch Bishops of Canterbury, who only a few hours before had given a last blessing to the dying king.

Four days after he contracted the illness his majesty succumbed at 11:55 o'clock (6:55 est) last night to complications arising from a severe cold, bronchial catarrh and heart weakness.

After comforting his mother, Queen Mary, in the hour of grief 41-year-old Prince of Wales conferred with court officials before hastening to London to be acclaimed King Edward, VIII.

From high and low, from all parts of the earth, came messages of condolences. Broadcasts were discontinued and London crowds were hushed.

The body of the late monarch will be removed to London to lie in state, probably in Westminster Hall.

Interment will take place at Windsor, just west of London, on the Thames and seat of one of the traditional royal residences.

King George probably will go to his last resting place in a vault there besides the bodies of his father, King Edward, VII, Charles I. and Henry VIII.

Estimated That Between $40,000,000
And $50,000,000 Is Needed for Plan

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The House appropriations committee today included provisions in a deficiency bill to pay cotton farmers the difference between the price they received for their 1935 crop and the 12 cents a pound figure guaranteed by Secretary Wallace under the AAA.

The inclusion was made to forestall any possible question of such payment by reason of the Supreme Court ruling invalidating AAA. The funds will be obtained from 30 per cent of the customs receipts set aside for the AAA.

The committee also wrote in a provision that the payment would not be conditional on signing a 1936 production control contract which was required in the original agreement.

An estimated $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 will be required. The bill also allows $2,201,500 to reimburse ginners 25 cents a bale the government agreed to pay them for handling the cotton marketed under the Bankhead act. The exact total to the cotton farmers will get was undetermined.

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The deficiency bill introduced today included $12,500 for operation of the new tobacco inspection act.

The money would pay for a referendum to determine whether producers desired government grading of their crop before it is sold on auction warehouse floors.

An item of $250,000 is in next year's budget for administering the tobacco law but the $12,500 was asked immediately in view of the early opening of the markets.

Sandringham, Eng., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The body of King George was started tonight on the last journey which during the next few days will permit thousands of his former subjects to view the face of the deceased for the last time.

The body was removed from Sandringham house where he died yesterday, to the little parish church.

The body of King George was taken on a bier escorted by a detachment of Grenadier Guards through the streets of rain.

The king's pipe played a wailing lament as the procession moved along.

Provide Consultant
On Electric Lines

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—David S. Weaver, head of the department of agricultural engineering at N. C. State College, who is now working with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will soon be available for consultation in the development of rural electrification programs in the different states of the Union, according to word received here today.

As rural electrification specialist for the State College extension service, Weaver had been assisting with the rural electrification program in this State. Last year he directed a survey of the rural electrification possibilities in approximately 800 communities.

Schense Quadruplets [And Father] Prefer Farming To Sideshow Tour

HELCA, S. D., January 21.—(AP)—Helping milk the cows and feed the pigs is more fun than having folk stare at you in sideshows, say Joan, James, Jean and Jay Schense, quadruplets who were five years old January 13.

Farming pays better, too, adds Father Fred Schense, who is making a comeback on a quarter-section seven miles southeast of Helca after a series of financial reverses which included an unsuccessful exhibition tour with his foursome.

"I'm going to let them grow up just like ordinary children," Mr. Schense assures curious visitors who stop at the farm to see the quartet. "And I'm going to let them be whatever they want to be."

Now, there's Joan. She wants to be a dancer. Maybe she'll change her mind when she grows up; but if she still wants to, that's her business.

Joan, he said, hasn't decided what she wants to be. The two boys, Jay and James, want to be farmers.

Already they play at being farmers—the girls, too.

Carrying corn to "Old Whitey," big Chester White sow, is one of their "chore." But most fun is milking "Bossy." They take turns while one feeds the cow to keep her docile.

Planned to Cash In.

A spacious, well-filled hayloft is their favorite play place. For variety they ride "Charley," gentle old work horse—all four at once.

Hardly had Fred Schense recovered from the shock of fathering quadruplets when he began planning to cash in on nature's caprice.

He quit farming, loaded his family into an automobile and set out to show his quartet to the world. The tour yielded scarcely enough to meet expenses.

The strain of life on the road, moreover, hastened the tragedy which capped the family's misfortunes. Before the babies were three years old, their mother died.

Finding Contentment.

Schense returned to the farm. A year ago he married his housekeeper, a girl who had cared for the children during their mother's illness.

Today the family of ten—the quadruplets have two older brothers, an older sister and now a baby half-sister—lives in a four-room house on the prairie.

There they are finding the first security and contentment since they popped into the news limelight five years ago.

SEE INCREASE STATE BUDGET

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Jan. 20.—Instead of being able to reduce taxes, the 1937 general assembly will have to find a minimum of $12,500,000 a year in additional revenue for the general fund alone if appropriations for only two objects are materially increased, these two being schools and old age benefits, it was pointed out here today by those who have been doing some figuring.

This means that where the 1935 general assembly appropriated approximately $30,000,000 a year for this and next year, that the 1937 general assembly will have to find revenue with which to provide appropriations of $42,500,000 a year for the next two years, if it does nothing more than make the normal and necessary increases for regular state purposes and add $3,000,000 more for schools and for old age pensions.

It is already conceded that the school forces are going to make a determined drive—in fact, they are already making this drive—for a minimum appropriation of $25,000,000 a year for schools, which is $5,000,000 a year more than the present appropriation of $20,000,000 a year and the figure which Dr. Ralph W. McDonald sought to get from the 1935 legislature. It is understood, however, that North Carolina Education Association, assisted by the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers, the textbook publishers and other affiliated and interested organization, will make a campaign for $3,000,000 a year for schools, with a view to getting not less than $25,000,000 a year. For it has long been the strategy of those seeking increased appropriations to campaign for a larger amount than they actually expect to get.

In order to leave sufficient leeway for a "compromise" and still get an increase, this was evident in the 1935 general assembly when the school forces started out with the contention that they must have $25,000,000 a year, then finally came down to $24,000,000, later to $22,000,000 with the result that they finally got $20,000,000, the first year and $29,000,000 the second.

So it is being more or less generally conceded in political circles here that the school forces will be able to get an increase of $5,000,000 in the school appropriation in 1937, even though they start out campaigning for an increase of $10,000,000 a year. This will not be enough to provide for a state-supported nine months school term, a 12 grade school system or many of the other things already being advocated by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, State Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin and other school leaders. But it will be enough to further increase the salaries of teachers—which is what the school leaders and teachers are most interested in. It may also be sufficient to provide some more teachers and thus make it possible to reduce the teaching load, which next to higher salaries is most desired in school circles. Consequently it is being pretty generally conceded that the school forces have a good chance to get the school appropriation boosted to $25,000,000 a year in 1937.

It is also conceded that a very strong drive, probably almost as intense as that of the school forces, will be made for the enactment of a state old age benefits law, by means of which the state will be able to match the Federal allotments of $15 a month for all persons 65 years old or more who are without means and income, so that these old people may be assured the maximum of $30 a month, of which $15 will come from state funds and $15 from Federal funds. In fact, there is a strong movement under way right now among the older people and the advocates of the old age benefit plan for a special session of the present general assembly to enact a co-operating law whereby the old people of the state would come under this pension plan immediately and in which other states are already sharing.

Recent estimates by the State Department of Labor and by the Department of Public Welfare are that there are approximately 20,000 persons in the state 65 years old or more who would come under this law. Thus if the state should undertake to pay each of these 20,000 persons $15 a month, a total of $6,000,000 a year would be required. So on a conservative basis, it is estimated that at least $5,000,000 a year in new revenue would have to be found in order to match Federal funds under the present old age benefits law. Still more would be necessary if the state sought to come under other Federal social security laws.

It must be borne in mind that both of these increases, as well as other bills recommended and urged by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, the candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, who is running on a platform pledged to remove the sales tax, which would reduce the state's revenue a minimum of $10,000,000 a year and probably more. This means that Dr. McDonald must figure out ways and means to raise $22,500,000 from forms of taxation not now being employed by the state.

The general fund appropriation as proposed for the biennium of go back to some form of a state-get, especially if it should also undertake to repeal the sales tax, to simply "swim" would not only the wide property tax.

Corn Hog Adjustment Makes For Balanced Farming

1. Brings Production in Line With Market Outlook

2. Provides for Adequate Pork Supply

3. Encourages the Planting of Soil-Improving and Erosion-Preventing Crops

THE 1936-1937 corn-hog program is designed to aid cooperating producers to attain three objectives: (1) Adjust corn production to feed requirements; provide for a 30 percent increase in hog production in 1936, but prevent excessive expansion in 1937. (2) Provide consumers with an adequate and stabilized supply of pork by leveling off the peaks and valleys of the hog production cycle. (3) Protect our soil resources by planting soil-improving and erosion-preventing crops on acres shifted from corn.

Children's Colds Should Have This Safe Treatment

Young Mothers Benefit from Two Generations' Proof of This External Treatment For Fighting Colds.

IT AVOIDS CONSTANT "DOSING"

There's nothing like a child's cold to upset a young mother. And mothers of two generations, anxious to help end colds, have depended on Vicks VapoRub. It is effective—external—and safe. It avoids the risks of constant "dosing," so often upsetting to children's delicate digestions.

Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts two ways at once:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

A Practical Guide for Mothers
Each year, more and more families are being helped to fewer colds and shorter colds by Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.

First Church of Christ, Scientist. "Life" was the subject of the lesson-lesson in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, January 19.

The golden text was from I John 5:11. "This is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in his Son."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-lesson was the following from the Bible: "The fear of the Lord tendeth to life; and he that hath it shall abide satisfied; he shall not be visited with evil." (Proverbs 19:23).

The lesson-lesson also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If God had instituted material laws to govern man, disobedience to which would have made man ill, Jesus would not have disregarded those laws by healing in direct opposition to them and in defiance of all material conditions."

The transmission of disease or of certain idiosyncracies of mortal mind would be impossible if this great fact of being were learned; namely, that nothing inharmonious can enter being, for Life is God.

Tickets For "Romantic Age." Tickets for "The Romantic Age," the play to be presented by the Hedgerow Players in the campus building of the college on Saturday night, will be sold Friday afternoon and night, from 2:30 to 6:00 o'clock, and from 7:30 to 10:00 o'clock, and on Saturday from 11:30 to 6:00. There will be someone during these hours at the place advertised who will be in charge of the box sheet. The holders of season tickets, by presenting those, can get reserved seat tickets.

Milne's delightful comedy on the search for and ultimate discovery of romance in the twentieth century, was one of the most popular plays presented by the Hedgerow Players on their tour last year, which was their first national tour. Jasper Deeter, himself, founder and director of the Hedgerow Players, and the one who deserves credit for their achievements, will not only come with the company, but has a part in the play. He is as great an actor as he is director.

Mrs. Smith III. Friends of Mrs. Joseph Smith will be sorry to learn that she is ill at her home on Greene street.

A. A. U. W. Meets.
"Today's Challenge in Hobbies," was the subject for discussion at the supper meeting of the A. A. U. W. held at the parish house on Monday. The idea of riding hobbyhorses, beloved by the wisest of the world since the beginning of time, was effectively and attractively carried out in the decorations.

After the business session and a few preliminary remarks by the leader of the discussion, three members of the college faculty who have been particularly successful and happy in their hobbies, spoke most entertainingly of their experiences. Miss Gorrell talked about gardening; Miss Mead, about photography for fun; and Miss Cassidy about amateur telescope-making. Attention was called to the reasons for the increased interest in the wise use of leisure and to the evidences that the movement has become a major one. Large cities are holding hobby fairs; school administrators and teachers everywhere are stressing education for leisure; the federal government has more than six hundred publications on the subject; and two organizations of national scope are devoted entirely to recreational activities.

The members enjoyed having as their guests Mrs. Gullede and Misses Gorrell Mead and Adams. Miss Rachel McKee, Miss Lelia Higgs and Mrs. Utley were gracious hostesses.

Garden Club.
The regular meeting of the Garden Club was held at the home of Mrs. H. E. Austin Friday afternoon, January 17. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. C. Deal. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

The president asked Mrs. E. L. Henderson, chairman of the program committee, to communicate with Wm. Hunt of Chapel Hill. Mr. Hunt has a garden school in Chapel Hill. If his services can be secured, it is planned to have an all-day meeting in February, with talks by Mr. Hunt both morning and afternoon.

Mrs. J. H. B. Moore had three announcements to make concerning the work of the Woman's Club. Mrs. Bost, who was scheduled to talk at the regular meeting of the Woman's Club in January, will talk at the March meeting instead. Mrs. Moore next told of the gift that had been made to the Woman's Club since the last meeting of the Garden Club. E. G. Flanagan has given $100 to the club to be used in welfare work.

Mrs. Moore's last announcement concerned the School for Flower Arrangement to be held in Chapel Hill Feb. 18-20. There will be two speakers of national importance at this school. Examinations will be given certificates will be awarded. The fee for the course is $5.00.

of the company to cut any more than is absolutely necessary.

The president then invited the members of the club to Austin Hall on the campus, to hear M. L. Wright of the college faculty, talk on the subject of "Shrubs."

Mr. Wright gave us a very interesting and practical talk. He told us he would try to answer four questions: "What to Plant?" "What Not to Plant?" "When Shall We Plant?" and "How Shall We Plant?"

First, Mr. Wright talked about the shrubs that are hardy and that will grow in this section, mentioning special characteristics of each shrub. He recommended the following broad-leaved evergreens: Japanese Privet, Lucidum, Carolina Cherry Laurel, Pyracantha, Nandina, Abelia, Viburnum, Gardenia, Elaeagnus and Laurels. He recommended Boxwood and Magnolia for the optimists. He advised the following blooming shrubs for this section: Althea in various colors; Forsythia, Weigela, Deutzia (non-dwarf variety); Red Bud, Crape Myrtle, Japanese Quince, Jasminum Primulinum, Jasminum Nudiflorum, Callicarpa, Hydrangea, Hypericum, Dogwood, Flowering Peach, and Spiraea (Van Houttei and Thunbergii).

Mr. Wright said that many of the junipers and cedars are pretty for a few years, but that their life is fairly short in this section. He finds the Italian Cypress (in front of the Austin building), the Blue Juniper (in front of the Training school) and Pfitzer's Juniper, to be good here.

The best time to plant shrubs is in November and December. The next best time is mid-winter. Early spring is also a satisfactory time for planting most shrubs.

Shrubs should be worked every year, not just the first two years. Mr. Wright then showed on the screen, pictures of the shrubs he had talked about, in very beautiful settings.

The members of the club were then invited to return to Mrs. Austin's home for a "cup of tea."

TRANSATLANTIC AIR BASE WHERE SHANNON FLOWS
Limerick, Ireland (AP)—Famed in the Irish melody, "Where the River Shannon Flows," a point on the river itself has been unofficially selected as the base for the forthcoming transatlantic air service.

"British and Free State government officers have inspected the River Shannon site and were greatly impressed," the mayor of Limerick announced. "It has been chosen for the base."

The proposed terminal is 12 miles outside Limerick.

SCOUT CIRCLE REORGANIZED

Jake Skinner, Scoutmaster, Named as Sagamore

Following the Rotary meeting on Monday evening, at which the Scoutmasters of Pitt county were the guest of the club, the Scoutmasters and Scouters met for a short session in the Rotary building to re-organize the Scouters Pow Wow Circle.

Jake Skinner, Scoutmaster of Sagamore, and it was decided that the group would meet once each month. The first meeting called was for February 3rd, at which time preparations will be completed for the Anniversary Week program.

In the absence of the District Activities Chairman Wyatt Brown, a special committee was appointed to make plans for the Silver Jubilee Year Anniversary Week program. J. H. Reese, is chairman of that committee.

It was also announced at this meeting that there would be another training opportunity offered by the Boy Scouts, in First Aid and in Leathercraft, to begin Monday, January 27th at 7:30 p. m. in room 209 of the Austin Building at the Eastern Carolina Teachers College. Lt. Lester Jones, of the Highway Patrol, will be the instructor of First Aid. Lt. Jones is recognized as one of the best First Aid men in East Carolina and holds an unexpired Red Cross Instructor's Certificate. Men completing this course will be given the standard First Aid Certificate and the Boy Scout First Aid Specialization Certificate, which is required for the Scoutmaster or Scoutmasters Key. Leathercraft course will be taught by the professional leadership of the East Carolina College.

Officers of the Training Course will be: Troop Committee, Dr. E. L. Henderson, Dr. K. B. Pace, Joe Taft, Scoutmaster Jake Skinner, Assistant Scoutmaster Ed Nash Warren, Senior Patrol Leader J. B. Beland. The Patrol Leaders are W. R. Hardison, J. P. McBryde, H. B. Mayo, and M. B. Hearne. Anyone that would like to take this course either from Pitt or Greene counties, whether you expect to become a Scout Leader or not, get in touch with any of the men mentioned above and they will give complete information about the course. There is no charge for the course and it will be held on Monday night of each week for ten weeks. It is for men 18 years or over.

High Pork Prices During Past Winter Reviving Interest

Farmers Seek Better Feeding Methods As Interest in Hog Raising In State Is Revived

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—The higher price of pork during the past fall and winter has revived an interest in hog raising in North Carolina. At this time the farmers are particularly interested in better feeding methods, said H. W. Taylor, assistant extension swine specialist at State College.

Over the State the farmers are building self-feeders, as recommended by the extension service, to facilitate the feeding of a balanced ration at comparatively low cost.

A few days ago in Bladen County, for example, the county agent, J. R. Powell, helped local farmers build 15 self-feeders at a cost of approximately $5 each. Powell said the farmers in that county expect to have 1,000 hogs on self-feeders this spring.

The Rowan County agent, D. H. Sutton, together with H. W. Taylor and E. R. Raney, extension agricultural engineer, help John C. Shulenberger, of the China Grove community, build a self-feeder for his herd of Poland Chinas a little over a week ago.

Seven of Shulenberger's neighbors were present, Taylor reported, and after they saw the completed self-feeder, they too expressed a desire to build similar feeders for their hogs.

This illustrates the way in which interest in better feeding methods is growing throughout the State, Taylor said.

He also pointed out that with hog-raising for around 10 cents a pound on foot, as at present, farmers can make from $1 to $1.25 a bushel from their corn by converting it into pork, whereas the market price of corn is around 50 cents a bushel.

GOPS! A SPLASH-AND BOOM MAN BUYS BEERS

acoma, Wash. (AP)—Unless you fall in the water, the boss thinks you're not working—and if you do fall in you buy beer for the whole crowd.

This is the dilemma faced daily by some 1,500 "boom men" riding spinning logs in the cold waters of Puget Sound.

The logs come to Puget Sound on flat cars, piled as they were cut in the forests of Western Washington. They are dumped into the water at Tacoma, Olympia, Bellingham and half a dozen other ports.

Then the boom men, armed with pike poles, hop out on the bobbing logs and shove, roll and curse the timber into rafts for tugs to tow to various mills. It takes a lot of pushing to move a 40-foot log with a diameter of six feet or so. If the man watches his footing too closely in guarding against a cold bath, he can't push hard enough. Hence the foreman criticizes him. But when he does take a plunge it is often an act of carelessness—hence the beer-buying tradition ruling all boom crews.

The average boom worker is about 35 years of age, 172 draws about $5.70 daily wages. His insurance costs about $1 more per $1,000 than a bank clerk's, but although accidents are frequent a boom man seldom is killed on the job.

'SANCTIONS' NEW GAME IN LONDON NURSERIES

London, (AP)—Politics have invaded the nurseries in England with a new game called "sanctions" and played something like checkers.

The equipment is a board with small moveable pieces, two red and twenty black. The red men are "aggressors" and have broken the League covenant; the blacks are "League states" seeking to enforce sanctions.

If the red aggressors are driven into a position in which they cannot move, sanctions are held to have succeeded. But if the reds capture 10 of the League pieces, sanctions have failed.

Inventors of the game are suspected of being realists, for the chances have been so calculated that stalemate is the most frequent result.

Brazil Exiles Revolutionists

Recife, Brazil, (AP)—Some 400 rebels, captured after their unsuccessful movement in this state of Pernambuco in November, have been sent to the island of Fernando de Noronha, about 300 miles out in the Atlantic.

SYNOPSIS: So far as anybody has guessed the man Bobby Jones and Dr. Thomas found at the bottom of a cliff on the March 10th golf links fell over the edge. Bobby has come to London for a couple of days and on the train returning to Wales has met Lady Frances Derwent a friend from childhood. Frankie has spent the time doing over mutual acquaintances, and not as the train reaches March. Bobby she offers to take Bobby home.

Chapter Five THE INQUEST

THE inquest on the body of Alex Pritchard was held on the following day Dr. Thomas gave evidence as to the finding of the body.

"Life was not then extinct," asked the Coroner.

"No, deceased was still breathing. There was, however, no hope of recovery. The— Here the Doctor became highly technical.

The Coroner came to the rescue of the jury. "In ordinary, everyday language, the man's back was broken."

"If you like to put it that way," said Dr. Thomas sadly.

He described how he had gone off to get help, leaving the dying man in Bobby's charge.

"Now as to the cause of this disaster, what is your opinion, Dr. Thomas?"

"I should say that in all probability (falling any evidence as to his state of mind, that is to say) the deceased stepped inadvertently over the edge of the cliff. There was a mist rising from the sea and at that particular point the path turns abruptly inland. Owing to the mist the deceased may have not noticed the danger and walked straight on—in which case two steps would take him over the edge."

"There were no signs of violence? Such as might have been administered by a third party?"

"I can only say that all the injuries present are fully explained by the body's striking the rocks fifty or sixty feet below."

"There remains the question of suicide?"

"That is, of course, perfectly possible. Whether the deceased walked over the edge or threw himself over is a matter on which I can say nothing."

Robert Jones was called next.

Bobby explained that he had been playing golf with Dr. Thomas and had slipped his ball towards the sea. A mist was rising at the time and it was difficult to see. He thought he heard a cry and for a moment he hesitated if his ball could have hit anybody coming along the footpath. He had decided, however, that it could not possibly have travelled so far.

"Did you find the ball?"

"Yes, it was about a hundred yards short of the footpath."

HE then described how they had driven from the next tee and how he himself had driven into the chasm.

Here the Coroner stopped him, since his evidence would have been a repetition of the Doctor's. He questioned him closely, however, as to the cry he had heard or thought he heard.

"It was just a cry."

"A cry for help?"

"Oh, no. Just a sort of shout, you know. In fact I wasn't quite sure I heard it."

"A startled kind of cry?"

"That's more like it," said Bobby gratefully. "Sort of noise a fellow might let out if a ball hit him unexpectedly."

"Or if he took a step into nothingness when he thought he was on a path?"

"Yes."

Then, having explained that the man actually died about five minutes after the Doctor left to get help, Bobby's ordeal came to an end.

The Coroner was by now anxious to get on with a perfectly straightforward business. Mrs. Leo Cayman was called.

Bobby gave a gasp of acute disappointment. Where was the face of the photograph that had tumbled from the dead man's pocket? Photographers, thought Bobby disgustedly, were the worst kind of liars.

The photograph obviously must have been taken some years ago, but even then it was hard to believe that that charming wide-eyed beauty could have become this brazen-looking woman with plucked eyebrows and obviously dyed hair.

Time, thought Bobby suddenly, was a very frightening thing. What would Frankie, for instance, look like in twenty years' time. He gave a little shiver.

MEANWHILE, Amelia Cayman of 17 St. Leonard's Gardens, Paddington, was giving evidence. Deceased was her only brother, Alex.

The World War. But there has not been and will not be any organized criticism of his attitude. They explain—and excuse—it by attributing it to the "spirit of the times."

The other beneficiary of this forgiving and forgetting complex is Mariner S. Eccles, reappointed Governor of the Federal Reserve Board. Carter Glass is still ignominious for the Utah banker and claims he has evidence of questionable banking policies in the Eccles chain. But fellow-Senators dismiss the Virginian's suspicions with the reminder that ander Pritchard. She had last seen him the day before the tragedy, when he had announced his intention of going for a walking tour in Wales. He had recently returned from the East.

"Did he seem in a happy and normal state of mind?"

"Oh, quite! Alex was always cheerful."

"So far as you know he had nothing on his mind?"

"Oh I'm sure he hadn't. He was looking forward to his trip."

"There have been no money troubles, or other troubles of any kind, in his life recently?"

"Well, really, I can't say as to that," said Mrs. Cayman. "You see, he'd only just come back, and before that I hadn't seen him for ten years, and he was never one much for writing. But he took me out to theatres and lunches in London and gave me one or two presents, so I don't think he could have been short of money, and he was in such good spirits that I don't think there could have been anything else."

"What was your brother's profession, Mrs. Cayman?"

The lady seemed slightly embarrassed.

"Well, I can't say I rightly know. Prospecting—that's what he called it. He was very seldom in England."

"You know of no reason which might cause him to take his own life?"

"Oh, no, and I can't believe that he did such a thing. It must have been an accident."

"How do you explain the fact that your brother had no luggage with him—not even a knapsack?"

"He didn't like carrying a knapsack. He meant to post parcels—alternate days. He posted one the day before he left with his night things and a pair of socks—only he addressed it to Derbyshire instead of Derbyshire, so it only got here today."

Mrs. Cayman went on to explain how she had been communicated with through the photographer whose name was on the photograph her brother had carried. She had come down with her husband to Marchbolt and had at once recognized the body as that of her brother. As she said the last words she sniffed audibly and began to cry.

BOSS: "Joe" Guiffy hopes with his political wand to transform ribbed Republican Pennsylvania into a Democratic province.

The rose of the Guiffy clan reads like a romance. For many years the short, smooth, stocky oil-and-coal man has represented a lost and lonesome cause—the Democratic party in the Keystone state. He had as much right or influence as Democrat powwows as southern delegates have at Republicans'. Whenever he boasted of carrying Pennsylvania, party leaders patted him on the head and said: "Tell us another one, Joe."

But in 1934—David Stern assisting—he cracked the state, electing himself to the Senate and has candidate for Governor. Delayed rewards fell into his lap. Congress and FDR gave him the "little NRA" coal law which bears his name. He was made chairman of the Senatorial campaign committee. FDR himself ordered the national committee to choose Philadelphia for the convention city. His sister, Emma Guiffy Miller, has suddenly become the Democrats' leading feminine orator. Though entirely different from Boies Penrose, he is the state's nearest approach to a boss since the Greek scholar's death.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN
REBUFF: Informed financial sources are cheered by the following evidence that the Townsend movement is passing its peak.

M. Burt Thurman is an old guard Republican in Indiana—a close friend of ex-Senator Jim Watson. He aspires to be governor and decided it would help him to espouse the Townsend cause. The result has been practically to kill whatever chance he had for the G. O. P. nomination.

Next to California and Kansas, New York sharpens its Indiana the most fertile hotbed for political novelties of any state in the union. That adds zest to their pleasure in the Thurman rebuff.

RESHAPE: A gradual but significant change in the character of holding companies—industrial as well as utility—is well under way. Some are working on simplification of structure with a view to becoming integrated operating companies themselves. Others—like United Corp., and American Superpower—are divesting themselves of management functions and becoming investment trusts. Insiders predict that the trend will spread both ways.

The first alternative is difficult for utility groups with properties in several states. So many states have laws penalizing "foreign" corporations that locally incorporated subsidiaries are practically a necessity. The logical answer to this is federal incorporation and informed business leaders see it inevitably on the way—even though they will fight the O'Mahoney bill for that purpose sponsored by the Federation of Labor.

The second alternative is really a surrender to the New Deal concept that too-big business is bad. An outstanding utility chief puts it: "The writing is on the wall, even if the holding company act is ruled out by the Supreme court. The tide of public opinion is running against oversize corporations and will continue to do so regardless of the New Deal's fate. Industrial super-combines are as out of date as hoop skirts. If we are smart we will reshape our corporate patterns accordingly."

STRONGER: Additional factors continue to develop to postpone action on the constitutional amendment issue well into the future. One is the absence of whole-hearted public response to the idea. A check-up of sentiment by experienced scouts indicates that many voters feel an amendment is desirable—and perhaps necessary—but prefer to take time to mull it over from all angles rather than rush for it headlong.

A second obstacle is the difficult-ty of securing ratification. The child labor amendment—which embodies a similar principle of extending federal powers—has been kicking around for nearly twelve years and is still shy fifteen states out of the required thirty-six. State legislatures are bound to resist encroachment on their powers. Furthermore, a number of Democratic governors who have backed FDR with state programs now have too many troubles of their own to take on added political burdens.

Keen New York observers also make the point that Mr. Roosevelt is stronger politically with his program knocked out by Supreme Court edict than he would be if he offered a highly controversial remedy to revive it.

LOSING: New York expects plenty of haggling in the Senate over FDR's nominations. Senators have been known to invent or exaggerate objections to presidential selections so as to be bought off by being awarded nominations they want. Lamar Hardy, named as district attorney in New York, ran "n" to snags on account of whisky opposition.

In these squabbles over confirmation the President usually wins, because the majority in the Senate are rarely interested in any particular case. The old rule that made one Senator's objections binding on others no longer prevails. Senatorial courtesy is losing ground in this respect, as in other directions.

DEBT: Financial circles that make a point of keeping close tabs on the Treasury estimate that the federal deficit for the fiscal year of 1937 will be around 2.1-2.2 billion dollars instead of the one billion forecasted in the President's budget message.

On the same basis the total federal debt figures to reach about 34 billion at the end of that period instead of a little over 31. Of course the profit from gold devaluation could be used in a pinch to reduce it if an international stabilization agreement eliminates the need for the Treasury's stabilization fund.

PLANES: The major airlines will have a new type of plane in service in about six months. It has already reached the testing stage. It will be considerably larger than these now in use—seating 24 passengers or sleeping 16 in berths. The model closely approximates in size and general construction the new Douglas bombers ordered by the army.

But this plane—while it will be ballyhooed as the last word in aviation when introduced—is only an intermediate step toward the four-motor 48 passenger giants definitely planned for delivery to the airlines beginning about the end of 1937. Work has already begun on these.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Three New Appointments
In Various State Offices

Assistant Attorney
General Resigns
Position

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILLE.
Raleigh, Jan. 21.—The resignation of John Aiken, of Hickory, as Assistant Attorney General of North Carolina, to accept a position on the staff of the U. S. Attorney General in Washington, announced late last night, has given Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus an opportunity to re-shuffle his deck of appointments here, even if it has not provided a "New Deal."

Coincident with the announcement by Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell of the resignation of Mr. Aiken, who will become a special assistant to the Attorney General of the United States, in charge of anti-trust litigation, he announced the appointment of Harry McMullan as Assistant General to succeed Aiken.

Governor Ehringhaus in turn announced the designation of Commissioner J. Dewey Dorsett of the Industrial Commission to become its chairman and the appointment of Bryan Journey, an attorney of Statesville, to become a member of the Industrial Commission.

None of these changes will become effective until February 1st, however, when Assistant Attorney General Aiken's appointment becomes effective in Washington. While pleased at the honor and promotion which has come to Assistant Attorney General Aiken, who has made many friends here both because of his ability and genial personality, state officials and others who have come to know him are expressing keen regret here today at his leaving the state, as he is generally considered one of the most brilliant young lawyers ever associated with the Attorney General's office. Little surprise was expressed in most quarters, however, that he has been selected by U. S. Attorney General Cummings to assist him in handling the mass of important litigation now in transit through his office in Washington.

No one here seems to know yet the inside story as to why Harry McMullan was selected by Attorney General Seawell and Governor Ehringhaus for the post of Assistant Attorney General, unless it was that he wanted this post and preferred it to being chairman of the Industrial Commission. It has been known for a long time here, of course, that the Governor has great admiration for McMullan and his ability. McMullan was first appointed Director of the Division of Accounts and Assessments of the Department of Revenue when the sales tax was first put into operation and did much of the pioneer work in setting up the collection machinery for this tax. Later on, when it became evident that it was no longer necessary to have a high-salaried official in charge of this work, the division was merged with the division of accounts and McMullan was appointed chairman of the Industrial Commission to succeed Matt H. Allen who resigned to re-enter the practice of law in his home town of Kinston.

It was understood at the time McMullan was named chairman of the Industrial Commission that there was strong protest from many who thought Commissioner Dewey Dorsett should have been named chairman instead of McMullan because he was one of the original members. The report was current that the Governor had asked McMullan to accept a mere commission, so he could name Dorsett chairman, but that McMullan was not interested in becoming a member of the commission unless he was named chairman. At any rate, he was named a member of the commission and also designated chairman, while Dorsett and Wilson, the other commissioner, remained as commissioners only.

It is regarded as significant that this time Dorsett is moved up to the chairmanship of the commission and that Bryan Journey, the new member, becomes only a commissioner. While no political significance is supposed to be attached to any of these appointments, it is generally agreed here that the promotion of Dorsett, who is from Siler City, in Chatham county, and the appointment of Journey, who is from Statesville, Iredell county, should add to the prestige of Governor Ehringhaus in the Piedmont where he has been none too popular during the last year or so. It is also agreed that the appointment of McMullan as Assistant Attorney General should keep him and the Governor's friends in the vicinity of Washington. Beaufort county, satisfied. So on the whole, the reshuffling of the appointive deck made possible by the resignation of Aiken, should help everybody.

TEXAS CLIFF YIELDS BONES OF PREHISTORIC AMERICAN

Dallas, Tex. (AP)—J. D. Figgins, former director of the Colorado Museum of Natural History, announced the discovery of the skull and part of the skeleton of what he believes to be one of the most ancient examples of human life unearthed in the United States. The skull and bones, a right femur and a right rib, were found in a crevice of a limestone cliff. Dr. Figgins said he believed them identical in character to bones of the "New World Man" discovered in New Mexico last year and estimated to have inhabited this continent from 25,000 to 50,000 years ago.

FEW CHILDREN ARE EMPLOYED

Only 276 Certified for Employment in Entire Year

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—Only 276 children under 16 years of age were certified for employment in North Carolina during 1935 and none of these were less than 14 years old, according to figures released today by Commissioner of Labor A. L. Fletcher.

These figures represent the "tremendous increase" in child labor in the state as charged by northern manufacturers and given as one of the reasons they cannot compete with southern manufacturers, especially textile manufacturers, Fletcher said.

"But of the 276 children, which were certified for regular employment in North Carolina during 1935, only 106 have been employed in industry and only 82 in the cotton textile industry," Commissioner Fletcher pointed out. "So we cannot see where there has been any tremendous increase in child labor in the state during the past year, especially in the textile industry. The facts are that most of the textile mills now refuse to employ any children whatever, largely because they can employ experience workers for the same wages they would have to pay 14 and 15 year old beginners."

Most of the children who were given certificates by the Department of Labor so they could be employed, were boys and girls who had mothers or younger children dependent upon them, it was pointed out. For employment certificates are not issued to 14 and 15 year old boys and girls unless there is a real necessity for them to work, Fletcher said.

Of the 276 children between 14 and 16 years of age who were regularly employed during 1935, 212 were boys and 64 girls. Of the total of both sexes, 82 were employed in textile mills, six in hosiery mills, two in silk mills, ten in furniture and lumber manufacturing and six other lines of manufacturing. Of the 170 employed in the service trades, 113 were employed in mercantile stores, largely as delivery boys, 28 in outside delivery service and 29 in other lines of work.

Of the 61 girls employed, 35 were in textile mills, two in hosiery mills, 22 in mercantile stores, one in a silk mill, one in miscellaneous manufacturing and three in miscellaneous mercantile work.

Speaking of ODD JOBS-

Apple Polisher
Bernard Rogers, literally is an apple polisher. Fruit used in motion pictures doesn't photograph properly unless it is "made up" before, and Rogers is fruit make-up man for one of the large studios (Paramount). He gives apples and oranges and bananas and grapes the proper sheen by applying glycerin and liquid wax. "Artificial fruit looks artificial," he says, "so we must keep a supply of real fruit on hand. But we can't use it until after a treatment of wax and glycerin. Why? Well, it must look appetizing." There is quite an art to Rogers' job, and not everybody—be points out proudly—can be a successful apple polisher.

A
Washington
Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington.—(AP)—"New Dealers" who have expressed their opinions of the nine Supreme Court justices rather freely since the invalidation of NRA and AAA probably chuckled inwardly when they read the concluding statement in Chief Justice Hughes' opinion in the case of the Bankhead cotton control act.

By a unanimous decision the court dismissed a test of the act, with no statement on its constitutionality. It was the chief justice's statement, however, that the writ of certiorari was "imprudently granted" in the first place by the Supreme Court (and therefore dismissed) which appeals to the "new dealers."

While it is not the first time the Supreme Court has reversed itself on a decision, coming at this particular time the reversal has attracted more attention than it ordinarily would have.

Opponents of the policies of the Roosevelt administration have been loud in praising the majority of the court in declaring AAA unconstitutional. Supporters of the administration have been as violent in their denunciations.

The latater, if they chose to, could make much of the fact that the justices who passed the death sentence on AAA, by their own admission, are not infallible.

Supporters of the administration, however, can find little other comfort in the first test on the Bankhead case.

It means the cotton control act has survived its first test. What the future holds for it is something else.

ROBINSON CRUSOE

ADAPTED from the Daniel Defoe classic

THE SHIP IS HARDLY OUT TO SEA WHEN THE WIND BEGINS TO BLOW AND THE WAVES RISE IN A FRIGHTFUL MANNER. IT SEEMED TO ME THE JUDGMENT OF HEAVEN FOR MY WICKEDNESS IN LEAVING MY FATHER'S HOUSE.

AS THE STORM INCREASES IN FURY I EXPECT EVERY WAVE TO SWALLOW US UP—I BECOME INEXPLICABLY SICK IN BODY AND TERRIFIED IN MIND, REFLECTING UPON MY FATHER'S TEARS AND MY MOTHER'S ENTREATIES.

INMATES PLAN SPORTS TEAM

Prisoners Already Plan for Basketball Outfit

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Jan. 21.—The prisoners in Central Prison here as well as in the other prison units are already making plans for the baseball teams they are going to have and the beginning of practice as soon as the weather opens up. Acting Director Oscar Pitts of the prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission said today. They are also interested in the handball, volleyball and soft baseball teams which will also be organized as soon as the necessary equipment is purchased. But they are more interested in the baseball than anything else, Pitts said.

Various groups of prisoners are already beginning to organize baseball teams and there is keen competition among them for the best players, Pitts said. "Here is the Central Prison, for instance, those working in the printing plant are organizing a team, those in the automobile tag plant another team, those in the prison bakery another, and so on."

"The other day one of the boys employed in the bakery came up to me and asked me if I would go something for him. I asked him what he wanted, and he said:

"I would like to have you transfer Bill Jones out his real name from the Onslow county prison camp back here to Central Prison and make him a helper in the bakery."

"But I didn't know Bill could cook—the fact is, I don't think he can cook," Pitts said.

"Yes he can cook some—but to tell the truth, the reason I would like to have him here is because he is the best baseball pitcher in the entire prison system and if I can get him here and on our baseball team we can beat every team in the prison system."

"So there is no doubt that the prisoners are becoming interested in the new recreational program we are now starting," Pitts said. "As a result, we are more than ever convinced that this recreational and sports program is going to be worthwhile."

BAD WEATHER HURTS ROADS

Rains, Snow, Freezing Temperatures Are Damaging

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Jan. 21.—The rains, snow and freezing weather of the last few days have done additional damage to the highways of the state, especially to the surface treated roads, so that the problem of repairing these and other highways is becoming more and more of a problem, according to Chief Highway Engineer W. Vance Baise. He is estimated that more than $1,000,000 will be required to repair roads which have been damaged by rain, snow and freezing temperatures during the past 30 days.

"The weather we have had for the past 30 days is the worst, and has been the hardest on the roads I have ever seen in the 16 years I have been with the highway commission," Baise said. "We have no idea yet of the damage caused by the rains, high water and freezing temperatures of the last few days, but we know that it has been plenty."

High water in the French Broad river between Asheville and Marshall covered the highway between those points Sunday in several places and forced the closing of this link in U. S. 70, Baise said. Sunday night there was five inches of snow in the Boone area, after sleet had fallen Sunday. So that the roads in that section were very slippery and dangerous. The temperature fell to 10 degrees above zero in the mountain sections and to 16 above in Asheville, following the rain, with the result that heavy damage from freezing is expected. There have also been numerous earth and rock slides in the mountain sections which in some cases have carried away whole sections of concrete or asphalt pavement. One slide near Bat Cave, in Henderson county, has caused considerable damage.

It will be impossible to repair and rebuild the roads damaged with the money now left in the maintenance appropriation, Baise said, and maintain all the other roads, too. Less than $5,000,000 remain in the maintenance fund with which to provide upkeep of all the roads until July, 1936. About $8,000,000 had been expended on maintenance from about March 1 to December 15, 1935, Baise said.

Rumania Lifts Soviet Trade Ban. Bucharest.—(AP)—Rumania's ban on Russian goods, effective 17 years, has been abolished because of the Russo-Rumanian trade negotiations which are under way. The transit through Rumania of Russian goods and foreign goods for Russia, which was prohibited during the same period, has been resumed.

BRITISH MONARCH DIES AT COUNTRY PLACE AT SANDRINGHAM, ENGLAND

While the British public waited with gravest concern, King George VI died in Sandringham House of a bronchial ailment that was made more serious by a weakened heart. These pictures are among the late monarch's of the 70-year-old monarch. At extreme left, he is shown as he attended the Royal Tournament. He and Queen Mary are seen (top center) as they rode together during the Silver Jubilee. The center picture at lower left is probably the latest one made of the king. It shows him motoring after a rest period at Sandringham House. He is seen (lower right) as he spoke during the Silver Jubilee, and at extreme right: he is seen reviewing the British police in Hyde park last July 20. (Associated Press Photos).

Movie Men Need Pampering, Says Nurse With 11 Years' Experience

LIONEL BARRYMORE
'Very Difficult'

NORMA SHEARER
'Sweet and Stalact'

CLARK GABLE
'Easy to Handle'

By ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood.—Clark Gable is easy to handle, Lionel Barrymore is difficult, and Norma Shearer is "sweet and stalact," says a nurse with 11 years' experience.

That is how Peggy Coleman, who sees the stars when they are suffering, sizes up stellar response to the first-aid treatment she administers in her capacity as studio nurse.

For 11 years Peggy Coleman has ministered to the common and minor ailments, injuries and sometimes serious accident cases that befall the workers on her lot. If an actor has a headache on the set, they send for Peggy. If an actress fears her cold will show in her eyes, Peggy hastens over to give treatment. She may be treating a prop-boy's bleeding finger one hour and the next it may be Gable who needs quick repairs.

Clark is not only "easy to handle" but among the men one of the easiest. Miss Coleman, who was a first lieutenant army nurse overseas during the war, has treated Gable for everything from an injured leg to ordinary colds. "He does what he's ordinary colds. He does what he's asked to do and realizes it's for his own good," she says.

But Lionel Barrymore—! "He resents having anyone think anything's the matter with him. Once he fractured bones in his hand, he resents having anyone think anything's the matter with him. He resents having anyone think anything's the matter with him. He resents having anyone think anything's the matter with him."

"So Norma Shearer—and stalact about pain. May I tell you, she doesn't want to be molested and objects to taking her medicine. William Powell likes to be molested and he likes to take his medicine. He doesn't like to take his medicine and would rather wear out a headache. We have to use persuasion."

One of the loneliest kids over "taking his medicine" when he wrenched his hand, and by the way, from California's own Max Baer—but then, as Miss Coleman points, men need more pampering than women, no matter what the stunt.

On the other hand, she says, men usually are "more appreciative, quicker to obey advice and take medicine" while women "have a lot of ideas about what's good for them and often insist that the best treatment is wrong."

"There is a search now for good stories since 'Mutiny on the Bounty'—The film story to be made is a dramatized version of D.M. Miller's old story, 'Man of the Sea'—Lawrence's first film as a director will be 'The Conqueror' set for January 1936. As a star he is busy on 'The Lone Riders Have Landed'—A battle, wrestling in trade papers and a tragic note, caricatures of the 'Conqueror' and had been prepared for the 'Conqueror'.

He bought no appreciable selling in the market here. The closing stock done was over Transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

FOREST WORK PLANNED HERE

Demonstrations Set for January 30 in County

Plans were announced today by C. D. Griggs, assistant county farm agent, for two forestry demonstrations to be held in the county, followed by a general meeting in connection with the work at the county house of January 30th.

A tree planting demonstration will be held on the O. H. Lemmon farm on the Bruce road, at 10 o'clock on the morning of January 30. Mr. Lemmon has purchased trees to be planted on three acres in establishing a new forest on his farm. Farmers interested in planting new forests are urged to attend the demonstration.

A forest thinning demonstration is planned for 2:30 p. m. on January 30 at the Hugh Winslow farm, three miles northeast of Pauline. It was pointed out at the farm agent's office that trees grow three times faster in thinned forests than in those where the trees are allowed to grow without any attention. Thinning also cuts out the poorer grade trees and allows the better ones to grow faster.

The demonstration will be conducted by R. W. Graeber, extension forester. Mr. Graeber also will address the general meeting at the county house at 8 o'clock p. m. Another feature of the night meeting is the planned announcement of latest information on the tobacco program.
