League Council Refuses Italian Request Shut Off Funds from Sanctions Committee

(By Associated Press)

An official Ethiopian denial of Italian claims of widespread victories on the South African war front came today from Ras Desta Dempo Emperor Haile Selassie's son-in-law. The commanding officer of the Ethiopian army, who has been in the front lines for the last week that the invaders had moved 125 miles northward and had inflicted Ethiopian casualties approximating 5,000 men.

At the League of Nations council session at Geneva an Italian attempt to shut off funds from the sanctions committee was defeated over the protest of Baron Pompeo Aloisi.

Discovery of an air base deep in the Danakil desert midway between Assab and Dessaye was reported in informed circles at the Ethiopian capital.

The same circles reported the arrest of Sultan Mohamed Yaku, who reportedly said he had moved his headquarters to the desert location in an attempt to provide housing for planes which might strike at Addis Ababa from the air.

Marshall Badoglio, commander of the Italian army in Ethiopia, reported that his forces had captured Neghelli, the capital of Galla Serrana, 210 miles from Dolo in southern Ethiopia.

A new offensive, he said, had been instituted in the Tembien sector of northern Ethiopia.

NEW FARM BILL IS CHALLENGED

Senator Norris Says AAA Substitute is Invalid

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The constitutionality of the administration's two year half billion dollar substitute for AAA was challenged by Senator Norris (R-Nebr.) today in a speech in the Senate. The bill, which would amend the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933, was introduced in Congress yesterday.

Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) and Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the House agriculture committee, made public the text of the new plan shortly before it was dropped in the bill hopper. Its terms were agreed upon yesterday.

The new substitute for AAA would broaden considerably the power conferred upon the secretary of agriculture under the 1933 soil conservation act by authorizing him to make payments to producers now out of a $500,000,000 appropriation to be proposed in a separate bill for soil conservation and economic use of their land.

"In my judgment," Norris, a constitutional authority and member of the agriculture committee, commented to newsmen "this bill is unconstitutional under the Supreme Court's AAA decision."

"I am willing to pass it and try it. I don't think it is unconstitutional personally, but under the AAA decision it is unconstitutional. That is the law now."

Bankhead previously had expressed the belief that the proposed act could not be challenged because it carried no taxes or provisions for written contracts with farmers.

After a meeting of the Senate appropriations committee, Bankhead proposed an amendment to the independent offices bill to appropriate $440,000,000 to carry out the purpose of the new farm program, but opposition developed in the appropriations committee.

Mutual Agreement Is Reached Today By Four Powers

Geneva, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The League of Nations announced tonight conclusion of a mutual assistance pact with Great Britain, France, Turkey, Germany and Yugoslavia to operate if Italy attacks any one of them.

Shortly before the league's committee of 18 had voted to create a special committee to decide upon the practicability of an oil sanctions against Italy.

Organization Perfected To Operate County Fair

Pitt and Farmville Legion Posts Make Plans

JUDGE SPEARS MAKES ADDRESS

Other Matters Taken Up by Pitt County Post of American Legion at Session

An organization to perfect plans for the operation of a Pitt county fair was established last night at the regular meeting of the Pitt County post of the American Legion, with representatives of the Farmville post present.

The two posts, the only two in the county, are planning to operate an exposition this and succeeding falls.

The organization to administer the fair is composed of D. J. Whichard, Jr., of Greenville, president; John Hill Paylor of Farmville, vice president; and S. M. Woolfolk of Greenville, secretary-treasurer. An executive committee composed of these officers and Dr. Paul E. Jones of the Farmville post and L. W. Cherry of the Pitt County post will go ahead with plans looking toward the operation of the exposition.

The executive committee will co-operate with a board of directors in making arrangements for the proposed fair. The board is made up of 20 Legionnaires from the two posts.

Besides Mr. Paylor, representatives from the Farmville post, at the meeting to make preliminary plans for the fair were LeRoy Hollins and Charles Baucum.

The fair committee today started negotiations toward operation of the exposition this fall. It is the present plans to operate the fair each fall, the two posts cooperating in the affair.

Last fall talk of the American Legion operating a fair in the county was started and from the outset it has been the plan to feature Pitt county farm products and make it an agricultural exposition in the true sense of the word. While a carnival and other entertainment attractions will be secured, particular stress will not be placed on the midway, but on the display of work of Pitt citizens.

The post was addressed last night by Judge Marshall T. Spears, who is presiding over a term of Pitt county criminal court here this week. The jurist appealed to the World War veterans to handle their money from the bonus, if and when they get it, wisely.

He advised them either to let it remain in the government bonds or invest the cash in some safe manner. He said that unless a veteran needed his money at the present time, it would be a great thing to retain the bonds as an investment to use in educating their children in the future. Above all he advised the ex-soldiers not to throw the money away.

Under the present bill to pay the service certificates, Pitt county veterans will receive cashable bonds representing approximately $600,000.

The Legion post also heard reports on the committee handling the indoor circus sponsored by the post. The committee reported plans were going ahead to operate the circus early in February.

Upon a motion made by Senator A. B. Corey the legion post voted to sponsor a safety drive in this community and give full co-operation with the county, and city officials.

New King Is Proclaimed As Head Of Great Britain

Great Crowd Awaits Outside as Age-Old Ceremony is Held with Modern Touch in Historic Saint James Palace

London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The shrill fanfare of trumpets climaxing a colorful age-old pageant with modern touches formally proclaimed Great Britain's new monarch today as King Edward VIII.

Before a great crowd outside the historic St. James's palace the medieval-clad garter king of arms, Sir Gerald Woods Wollaston, stepped to the balcony over the Friday court.

In a firm voice he proclaimed the 41-year-old Edward King Emperor and Defender of the Faith.

Blasts from silver trumpets rang out as Sir Gerald, a member of the herald's college, pronounced the words:

"God save the King."

The throng stood silent with the first of a salute of 41 guns—one for each year of King Edward's life.

The "faith and constant obedience" of all his subjects were pledged to the new sovereign confirmed his succession to the throne of his late father, the 70-year-old King George V.

The words of the centuries-old proclamation were carried through the nation and the empire to the new king's $500,000,000 subjects throughout a quarter of the world.

At Sandringham, the body of King George lay in the little village church where he once worshipped with his family. It rested in a plain, oaken coffin simply inscribed:

"George Frederick Ernest Albert Windsor, 1865-1936."

Only a mile from the pomp and pageantry of the king's proclamation under the ancient rafters of Westminster Hall, workmen prepared sadly for the return tomorrow of King George to lie in state at the palace where seven months ago he received the Jubilee congratulations of parliament.

The king will be removed to Windsor Castle just west of London for funeral services next Tuesday in St. George's chapel and burial with others of the long line of English kings at Windsor.

The Queen mother was the first to pay homage to the dead monarch walking from Sandringham House to the church after the body was taken there last night. She knelt in prayer before the bier.

John Mayo Forbes was arrested here last night and charged with operating a vehicle while under the influence of whiskey and Jack Jackson is charged with being drunk, following an escape last night when the truck they were riding in collided with two cars.

Chief George Clark said the two young men, both employees of the Rainbow Cleaners, were driving West on Fifth street and ran into the back of a parked car, Jackson being thrown against the windshield and receiving cuts.

The two then are alleged to have driven on, telling spectators that they were going to the hospital. They, however, turned down Fourth street and drove the truck into the front of an oncoming car occupied by Mrs. Luther Bowling and Miss Hilda Jacobs, injuring both Mrs. Bowling and Miss Jacobs.

The truck hit the car near the high school, running into it head on and damaging the front of both machines.

Forbes, Chief Clark said, was driving the truck and had a suit of clothes in the truck to be delivered.

At the time of his arrest Deaver had in his possession letters from Morton's former wife and opinion was expressed at the time of the arrest that he was acting in her behalf in the alleged attempt to get the children.

Deaver waived examination in a preliminary hearing and was lodged in the county jail in default of $1,000 bond. The facts were brought before the grand jury here this week and today the body found there was not enough evidence to hold the man for trial. He was released from jail this morning.

At the time of his arrest Deaver had in his possession letters from Morton's former wife and opinion was expressed at the time of the arrest that he was acting in her behalf in the alleged attempt to get the children.

A resolution of respect to the late C. B. Rowlett was drafted and ordered passed to the family and the press.

The resolution follows: "Whereas the members of this association desire to express their deepest sympathy to his family and loved ones; Now therefore:

"Be it resolved by the Pitt county Association of Magistrates:

"That the Pitt county Association of Magistrates does hereby extend its deepest sympathy to the wife, children and other members of the bereaved family."

The services were conducted from the home, with Rev. F. Pittman Ayden Free Will Baptist minister, in charge. Burial was in the Overton cemetery near Stokes.

The young boy was a member of the seventh grade of the Stokes school. Besides his parents, he is survived by four brothers, Arthur, Bernice, Leonard and Henry Glisson, and two sisters, Mrs. J. A. Carson and Miss Mary Glisson, all of near Stokes.

REVIVE HOPES FLIER IS ALIVE

Father Says Paul Redfern Be Found in Few Days

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Frederick C. Redfern of Columbia, father of Paul Redfern, disclosed today he had received information which led him to believe his son would be recovered in "a matter of days."

He aged college professor said he had received a cablegram from Art Williams, who headed an expedition into the South American jungles in search of the missing aviator which he said was "very optimistic."

Dr. Redfern said the message from Williams "gives us great encouragement and hope" and commented that "it seems to have very good evidence that Paul is alive and that he will be recovered in a matter of days."

Four young Greenville men were sentenced to terms ranging up to six years in State penitentiary following a conviction of one of them and pleas of guilty by the other three in Superior court here today.

The three, Alton Squires, T. C. Bunch, Stewart Enfield and Bonnie Squires, were charged with robbing C. W. Harvey, local dairyman, Saturday, January 4.

Alton and Bonnie Squires were sentenced to from six to seven years each and Enfield and Bunch were given sentences of five years each. Bonnie Squires denied implication in the robbery and was convicted by a jury.

The young men were convicted of having participated in robbing Mr. Harvey of a sum of money at the point of a pistol. They were arrested shortly after the robbery and have been held here for trial since the hold-up took place. Most of the money was recovered when the men were arrested.

Bill Brown entered a plea of second degree murder and was sentenced to a prison term of from 15 to 20 years. He was charged with killing his wife and leaving her on the floor while his two children, one of them a baby, remained on a bed in the room.

Monte Barnes, convicted of possessing liquor for the purpose of sale, was sentenced to four months on the roads.

Guy Smith, entered a plea of guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of whiskey and was fined $50 and costs and denied a drivers' license for 12 months.

HOUSE PASSES SENATE'S PLAN TO PAY BONUS

Votes by 346 to 58 to Pay Certificates in Baby Bonds

LEADERS SAY ENACTMENT SURE

Declare Bill to be Enacted Whether the President Signs Measure or Not

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Congress voted immediately payment of the soldiers bonus today by huge majorities—many more than the two-thirds needed to override presidential veto.

The house accepted the senate baby bond payment plan with its $2,491,000,000 cost by a 346 to 58 ballot.

Speaker Byrnes signed the bonus bill immediately after the vote, and the measure was sent to the senate for Vice President's signature.

After that it will go to the White House. Administrators leaders have predicted flatly the bill will become law whether or not Roosevelt signs it.

It provides for payment of adjusted service certificates of 3,500,000 world war veterans in $50 bonds starting June 15. Veterans prefer to hold the certificates would draw 3 per cent interest annually from June 15, 1937 to June 15, 1945.

The house vote was a mere formality. It came on a motion of Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) of the ways and means committee to concur on a senate amendment embracing the bond payment method to a cash payment bill which cleared the house by a six to one margin in the opening days of the session.

Political opponents of the assassination of President Roosevelt and endorsement of his share the wealth plan. They saw in the vote a reputation to President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Anti-Long leader reserved comment pending more complete returns. But the New Orleans Times-Picayune, an anti-Long organ, conceded the nomination of administration candidates for the chief offices.

The empire Long built up in eight years of the bitterest political fight in America's history, culminating in his slaying in the state capital at Baton Rouge last September, will descend to young Richard W. Leche.

The immediate cause of Laval's overthrow was the withdrawal of support by radical socialist party factions.

It climaxed the long political feud in which Edouard Herriot, minister of state, resigned as president of the radical socialists and then withdrew his support from Laval.

After a morning meeting the cabinet went to Elysee palace where the ministers reconvened as a council of ministers under the presidency of President Lebrun.

Lebrun immediately began a search for a new premier with the prospect that Marcel Regnier, minister of finance, might be chosen to defend the franc against the devaluation until the election of a new chamber of deputies in April or May.

It was believed Lebrun asked Laval to attempt to form a new cabinet by refusal.

GENIUS: The Democrats' closely guarded secret as to who cooked up the brilliant and profitable scheme for a chain of political banquets on Jackson Day has been solved. Credit belongs to an unknown Florida editor by name of D. C. Hodgkin.

Mr. Hodgkin outlined his vision of victuals in a letter to Party Treasurer W. Forbes Morgan, whose pickpocket has been lean. Receiving a hurry call to Washington, the editor was ushered into the presence of Ring-Master Pareley, "A great idea," shouted Pareley as he grabbed his hat to rush for a consultation with the President. FDR okayed the scheme, agreed to speak, bought the first $50 ticket.

Mr. Hodgkin was installed at national committee headquarters with orders to work out the details. His first question after he revived from this sudden turn in his luck was: "What is Jackson Day anyway? Is it his birthday or what?" But he has been kept on because the Democrats need geniuses who can make dreams of dollars come true.

COLLEGE TEAM TO PLAY HERE

Duke Quint to Engage Local Highs January 29th

Local basketball fans are in for a real treat Wednesday night, January 29th, when the Greenville High School basketball team will play host to the Duke "All Americans." Last week the locals played the Durham Institution and took on the Fresh in a fast and furious contest. Coach May was anxious to have a return game with the Freshmen to be played here in Greenville but Coach Caldwell had a full schedule and the game could not be arranged. However, he succeeded in arranging a game with a team that is as good, if not better, than the Freshman outfit.

The Duke "All Americans" are not All Americans, but they do have in their group a bunch of boys, all of whom are top notch basketball players. Two of these boys are well known to sport lovers of Greenville. They are George Barley and Wayne Ambler, two star performers for the Greenville Coastal Plain baseball team last summer. Barley was the outstanding pitcher in the league, turning in a record of 13 victories against one defeat. Ambler turned in the highest fielding average of anyone in the league and was awarded a place on the Coastal Plain all-star team.

Superintendent Rose and Coach Reynolds May are preparing to accommodate the largest crowd ever to witness a basketball game in Greenville High School. The Greenville High School band will be there to furnish the music and some sort of entertainment will be provided for the spectators between the halves.

F. C. T. C. Girls Team Plays Thursday Night

The Teachers will play the Carolina Beauty Culture School basketball team at the E.C.T.C. Gym on Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock. This is the second game the college girls have played.

Their last game was with Mitchell Junior College. At the end of the game the score was 36 to 34 in favor of the Teachers. The three forwards that did the scoring were freshmen.

Those expected to play are: forwards—L. Martin, Blanton, Tyson, Miller and Wilson; guards—Capt. M. Martin, Pleasant, Smithson, M. Parker, R. Parker and Howard.

filibuster against prompt passage of the administration's neutrality measure accounts for the Franco-British decision not to initiate oil sanctions against Italy on the date originally selected—January 20.

European statesmen have only themselves to blame for the upset in their plans. They talked too much. When Secretary Hull appeared before an executive session of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, angry members bombarded him with embarrassing questions. They produced Laval-Baldwin declarations assuring opposition benches they would not invoke drastic weapons against Hitler until assured of Uncle Sam's cooperation. The Franco-British chief admitted they were stalling until the American Congress adopted a neutrality law authorizing embargoes against belligerents.

Mr. Hull flatly denied that this government would take a hand in the diplomatic poker game across the seas. But his inquisitors suspect that his neutrality bill might make Uncle Sam both dealer and banker in the European pastime. So they scheme to block passage of any legislation until all chance of reinforcing the Londo-Paris drive against Italy has vanished.

OUTSIDE: Back-stage maneuvers in the Green-Lewis row over marshalling workers into craft or industrial unions bewilder followers of both leaders. Administration scouts are watching the scene vigilantly for the political effect the feud may produce next fall.

United Mine Workers' President: Lewis has launched a sensational drive for organization of industrial unions. He has distributed thousands of pamphlets urging "new members and old hands to desert the craft union system. He has carried the battle into the enemy's territory by speaking before rubber, automobile and mechanical laborers in the Middle West, especially Ohio. A.F.I.-ers Green has apparently withdrawn from the field. Last week he laid off a dozen craft organizers in the South and Middle West. So far the advantage appears to lie with the bulky, beetle-browed miner.

Inside explanation for Green's silence seems to be that the United Mine Workers convene at Washington late this month. Mr. Green attends A. F. of L. national conventions as a Mine Workers' delegate. Should Brother Lewis take a notion to withhold credentials from the Federation president, Mr. Green would be on the outside looking in at his own gang's powwow. This might lead to his own dethronement.

Saturday. He has rejected advice that copies distributed in advance will attract mobs of publicity.

His attitude is all the more baffling to his friends because of his innate fondness for the spotlight. Al's delight in headlines featuring his performance borders on the childlike, and the only two-column headline he has had recently is the one Mrs. Roosevelt promoted for him. New Dealers are passing out word that they understand Al will treat Friend Franklin with velvet gloves. Al's own explanation is: "I make a better speech when I don't take it off the icebox."

Liberty Leaguers have made "emergency arrangements to spread the speaker's remarks where they will do the most good—in the newspapers. A battery of twenty stenographers and typists will relay "the record" to reporters paragraph by paragraph. Al is the League's three-star headline and the Shousers intend to make sure that his act in the 1936 presidential circus gets maximum attention.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN
TRIVIAL: New York's first action to the administration plan to use the 1935 soil erosion and conservation act as the base for an AAA substitute was uneasy surprise. Hardly anyone in the metropolis even knew the law was on the books. Had FDR been cunning enough to slip a trump up his sleeve when they weren't looking?

But closer inspection allayed their qualms. The law is virtually toothless. The only way it can function to control crops would be by unprecedentedly wholehearted cooperation from the farmers. It's doubtful whether benefit payments can be linked to it effectively. So the move is now rated an ingenious but meaningless device to save the administration's face. It will also serve the worthy purpose of keeping a lot of AAA employees on the public payroll—thus saving their congressional sponsors from embarrassment.

Legal sharps admit it will be hard to challenge the constitutionality of the law. Nobody will get hurt—as the processors were hurt by AAA—to the point where law-suits are justified. But the general New York feeling is that it's too trivial to bother about.

AMMUNITION: Financial leaders aren't sure whether to be glad or sorry that T. J. Jefferson Coolidge has quit as Undersecretary of the Treasury. They are pleased that so able a banker finds it impossible to serve the New Deal any longer. But on the other hand they will have to do business with the Treasury—and there's no doubt that Coolidge's skill and experience did much to smooth financing relations between Washington and Wall St.

Before Coolidge took office, every important federal issue was preceded by backstage dickering as to terms of interest and maturity between representatives of the government and the larger banks. Sometimes there were prolonged arguments. Coolidge stopped all that. The issue he helped to plan were priced right and timed right and invariably went over without fuss or friction. He understood the bankers and they understood him. At the same time he served his chief well by gradually reducing interest rates in accordance with administration desires. Secretary Morgenthau will miss him. The bankers suspect this they may also.

Coolidge is a financial conservative and an ardent advocate of a balanced federal budget. He stuck as long as he did—even though cut of sympathy with much of the New Deal—because he felt that Secretary Morgenthau sincerely shared his budget aims. His friends say that recent blows at the budget made him feel it was futile to continue. In some respects his retirement parallels those of Lew Douglas and O. M. W. Sprague. But he isn't likely to emulate their example of blasting the administration with public criticism. He doesn't care for the limelight and he has no political aspirations. However, conservatives will be delighted to use his resignation as fresh anti-Roosevelt ammunition.

CLEANING: The revamping of Bethlehem Steel's corporate structure is further evidence of the trend towards simplifications of holding companies predicted here recently. Henceforth Bethlehem will be a single operating company with several diversified departments instead of a group of interrelated corporations.

The company's proposal to pay arrears on preferred dividends with a new issue of 5 per cent preferred stock indicates optimism as to future earnings. The directors would hardly create a new form of senior capital unless they were pretty sure its requirements could be met. This jibes with the prevailing New York impression that the steel industry has sunny skies ahead.

Insiders predict that 1936 will be a big year for corporation houses. Apart from capital simplification, many companies are planning more efficient coordination of personnel and properties, reduction of fixed charges—especially bond interest, clearing up dividend arrears, etc. That means a lot of new corporate financing.

RUFFLED: Great Northern's 4 per cent bond issue—the fruit of Jesse Jones insistence on a cheap coupon—has all the earmarks of success. It is still selling at a premium in the when-issued market. Great Northern's stockholders—to whom it will be offered first—will probably snap up most of it. Why hesitate to pay $100 for a security you can sell immediately at 103?

The RFC is pledged to take any of the issue left over. That residue should be small. This will make Jesse Jones look very good—which won't soothe the ruffled feelings of the bankers who insisted the issue couldn't be sold at less than 5 per cent.

MIRAGE: New Yorkers who have studied the Literary Digest New Deal poll point to one fact that has hardly been noticed as a partial explanation of the violet shift in sentiment shown by the straw vote.

Using virtually the same mailing list as in 1934, the Digest reports an increase of 88 per cent in the total number of votes cast. He analysts figure that anti-New Dealers must have been out for blood this time where two years ago they were so discouraged they didn't bother to vote.

This emphasizes the conservative suspicion that the results of the poll may be more a mirage than a mirror.

Man's Friend Glad He Told Them About BLACK-DROUGHT

Writing from Texarkana, Texas, Mr. W. T. Bentley, of that city, says: "I have been using Black-Drought for fully forty years. I keep a supply on hand. I first knew of Black-Drought when I was a boy, clerking in a store. I saw people buying it and thought it must be good. I took it for constipation and biliousness. I would have a bad taste in my mouth and headache. I knew I needed a laxative to cleanse the system. I would hunt up the Black-Drought and take a dose. I would be relieved in a few hours. In Black-Drought, I have found a simple remedy—one that does not have after-effects. I do not know of anything better to take for a dull, tired listless feeling. I have recommended Black-Drought to many friends and neighbors. I know they have been glad that I did, for they have said so."

A GOOD MOVE

News that the two posts of the American Legion in this county will operate the county fair in the future no doubt will meet with the approval of the people of this county
generally. A good agricultural fair is an asset to any county but for several years
Pitt County has had a carnival masquerading under the name of a fair and most everybody has been disgusted. The Legionnaires declare that it is their intention to make the county fair truly county fairs, giving first consideration to the exhibits setting forth the activities and products of this county. Operating with this purpose in view the fairs under the sponsorship of the American Legion are bound to be a success and will mean much to the county.

KEEP PRODUCTION DOWN

With the weather improved to the extent that tobacco growers are busy preparing their plant beds, reports
from some of the fertilizer
dealers of increased orders for plant bed fertilizers indicates that the growers are anticipating an increase in their acreage this year.
AAA or no AAA, tobacco growers are just downright foolish if they go ahead and produce a big crop of tobacco
this year. With the downfall of the AAA as a result of the Supreme Court decision, the business of holding tobacco prices up until some substitute production
control law can be passed, rests entirely in the hands of the growers. If each and every grower will hold down his production this year to the same point that it would be if the government contracts were in effect, he will continue to get a good price
for his tobacco, but if each of the growers makes an effort to get ahead of his neighbor by increasing his crop then the year's total production is going to be so large that prices are again going to hit bottom with the diastrophic results for the growers and the areas in which they live. Let us repeat our warnings to the growers against being foolish enough to produce a big tobacco crop this year.

Thomas King, the English actor
and dramatist, reached the height of his reputation in 1777 with his creation of the part of Sir Peter Teasle in "The School for Scandal."

THE BOOMERANG CLUE

SYNOPSIS: Bobby Jones and Dr. Thomas have found the body of a man at the foot of a cliff on the Marshall golf course. The only person who has even mentioned
this play is Lady Frances Dervent, and Frankie was "only talking." At the inquest the man is identified as Alexander Pritchard by a Mrs.
Cayman of London, who says he is her brother. Bobby is disappointed in Mrs. Cayman, because he had seen a photograph of a very beautiful woman in Pritchard's pocket, and Mrs. Cayman is by no means beautiful.

Chapter Six CALLERS

THE coroner said a few soothing words and dismissed her. Then he addressed the jury.
Their task was to state how this man came by his death. Fortunately the matter appeared to be quite simple. There was no suggestion that Mr. Pritchard had been worried or depressed or in a state of mind
where he would be likely to take his own life.

On the contrary he had been in good health and spirits and had been looking forward to his holiday. It was unfortunately the case that when a sea mist was rising, the path along the cliff was a dangerous
one, and possibly they might agree with him that it was time something was done about it.

The jury's verdict was prompt.
"We find that the deceased came to his death by misadventure, and we wish to add a rider that in our opinion the Town Council should immediately take steps to put a fence or rail on the sea side of the path where it skirts the chasm."

The coroner nodded approval.
The inquest was over.
On arriving back at the Vicarage
about half an hour later, Bobby found that his connection with the death of Alex Pritchard was not quite over. He was informed that Mr. and Mrs. Cayman had called to see him and were in the study with his father.

Bobby made his way there and found his father gravely making suitable conversation without apparently much enjoying his task.
"Ah!" he said with some slight relief. "Here is Bobby."

MR. CAYMAN rose and advanced towards the young man with outstretched hand. Mr. Cayman was a big, dark man with a would-be hearty manner and a cold and somewhat shifty eye that rather belied
the manner.

As for Mrs. Cayman, though she might be considered attractive in a bold, coarse fashion, she had little now in common with that early photograph of herself, and no trace of that wistful expression remained in fact. Bobby reflected, if she had not recognized her own photograph it seemed doubtful if anyone else
would have done so.

"I came down with the wife," said
Mr. Cayman, enclosing Bobby's hand in a firm and painful grip. "Had to stand by, you know. Amelia's naturally upset."

Mrs. Cayman sniffed.
"We came round to see you," continued Mr. Cayman. "You see, my poor wife's brother died, practically speaking, in your arms. Naturally, she wanted to know all you could tell her of his last moments."

"Absolutely," said Bobby unhappily. "Oh, absolutely," he grinned
nervously and was immediately
aware of his father's sigh—a sigh
of Christian resignation.

"Poor Alex!" said Mrs. Cayman, dabbing her eyes. "Poor, poor Alex!"
"I know," said Bobby. "Absolutely grim." He wriggled uncomfortably.

"You see," said Mrs. Cayman, looking hopefully at Bobby. "If he left any last words or messages—
naturally I want to know."

"Oh, rather," said Bobby. "But as a matter of fact he didn't."

"Nothing at all?" Mrs. Cayman looked disappointed and incredulous.
Bobby felt apologetic.

"No—well—as a matter of fact,
nothing at all."

"It was best so," said Mr. Cayman solemnly. "To pass away unconscious, without pain—why, you must think of it as a mercy, Amelia."

"I suppose I must," said Mrs.
Cayman. "You don't think he felt
any pain?"

"I'm sure he didn't," said Bobby.
Mrs. Cayman sighed deeply. "Well, that's something to be thankful for.
Perhaps I did hope he'd left a last message, but I can see that it's best as it is. Poor Alex! Such a fine outdoor man!"

"Yes, wasn't he?" said Bobby. He recalled the bronze face, the deep blue eyes. An attractive personality, that of Alex Pritchard, attractive even so near death. Strange that he should be the brother of Mrs. Cayman and the brother-in-law of Mr. Cayman! He had been worthy, Bobby felt, of better things.

"Well, —he very much indebted to you, I'm sure," said Mrs. Cayman.
"Oh, that's all right," said Bobby.
"I mean—well, I couldn't do anything else—I mean—" He floundered hopelessly.

"We shan't forget it," said Mr.
Cayman. Bobby suffered more from that painful grip. He received a jabby hand from Mrs. Cayman.
His father made further adieu.
Bobby accompanied the Caymans to the front door.

"And what do you do with yourself, young man?" inquired Cayman.
"Home on leave—something of that kind?"

"I spend most of my time looking for a job," said Bobby. He paused.
"I was in the Navy."

"Hard times—hard times nowadays," said Mr. Cayman, shaking his head. "Well, I wish you luck, I'm sure."

WANTS LIQUOR MONEY FOR HOSPITAL

Mr. Editor:
Again consider your editorial of Thursday, January 16th, entitled:
"It Belongs To All The People" referring to the net profits from the ABC stores, two statements appear therein which I believe err, in judgment, therefore this communication.

1. "Some of these suggestions may have merit, while others may not,
but as we see the situation these funds should not be earmarked for spending on any specific project
but should go into the general fund
of the county and the taxpayers should have the benefit of same in the way of lower tax rates if the county can operate efficiently without using these additional funds." It is my privilege to believe that it is to the best interest of Pitt County that the profits from the ABC stores should not go into the general fund, as stated by you, for the following reasons:

(a). The taxpayers of Pitt County are amply able to support efficient county government without resorting to "blood money" or money
made out of the liquor business.
Very generally such money has been run from the imperative needs of dependent children, women and old men: Diverted from the purchase of food, clothing and substance for the preservation of health.

(b). It appears that the ABC stores in Pitt county will earn a net profit of approximately $50,000 per year. This sum is not included in the budget. It is not needed for governmental purposes, so if dumped into the general fund of the county it would tend to invite an unbalanced expense in government, waste and extravagance. It is probable that the next General Assembly will change the law under which these stores exist, and if such a done and this fund withdrawn from the general fund, we will have greater difficulty in again establishing a economical government free of waste. Such would very likely lead to unnecessary, but tolerated,
high tax rates in our county.

(c). If this fund be used to lower tax rates too many of us will be inclined to support the liquor traffic
for the purpose of maintaining lower tax rates. The liquor traffic is destructive from every angle, and it seems, almost without exception,
that the normal result of money
made from such source is destruction.

2. The second point on which I do not agree, using your language,
is: "The county commissioners should not let this or any other county money be used to defray the expenses of anyone's pet scheme
but should use the money, like all other county money, for the interest of the people of the county as a whole." Inasmuch as I have heretofore advocated that the profits from the ABC stores be used by the county to provide hospital, including a place that consumptives

may be humanely provided for and the public protected from the danger of this disease, I feel that the term "pet scheme" refers to that suggestion.

(a). I can imagine no better use to make of the profits from the liquor business than in an effort to remedy the injuries caused by the liquor business. Such hospital could be wisely maintained for the "best interest of the people of the county as a whole." Many other counties have hospitals. Such institutions have become necessary to our present civilization. It is reasonably certain that the picture now on display in a front window of the Hill Home Drug Store will convince one of this fact. Realizing this fact Dr. R. J. Slay, R. C. Stokes, and this writer joined efforts and secured charter for Pitt General Hospital for the primary purpose of securing of the Duke Endowment the sum of One Dollar per day for dependent inmates of this hospital.
Here is not one penny compensation to either one of us. Pitt Community Hospital is privately owned by physicians. Why should these physicians be compelled, in the ordinary sense, to accept dependent victims and to meet their actual expense, make more burdensome
charges against the inmate who pays his expenses. Certainly the physicians can not be expected to pay all expenses of a charitable institution. Certainly our county has no other way to provide a hospital for its dependent citizens. Again, certainly our county will not continue to neglect to protect its citizenship
from the dangers of spreading tuberculosis. Certainly, it will not cotinue to fail to provide reasonable support for its dependent victims of diseases and accidents. I earnestly urge that the county commissioners use the profits of the ABC stores to provide a county hospital, and I assert that this is not a "pet scheme."

(b). Very recently I was in Duke Hospital, Durham, and learned of an official that the greater portion lars per day, including services of county if hospital facilities are provided at an expense that our people can afford, physicians will be saved

the time and expense of travel throughout the county in that many of the sick will be in the hospital in convenient reach of every physic). About 1905 a Mr. Bruce offered to donate $5,000 to make a fund to purchase a hospital for Pitt County. He placed this sum on deposit in one of our banks and it remained there for more than five years, but the necessary funds to accomplish the object could not be had and his offer was withdrawn.

Pitt county must continue this effort until it is accomplished. Humanity demands it. Humanity does not need intoxicating liquors and can well afford to refuse to profit from money made from that industry.

Respectfully submitted,
F. M. WOOTEN.

Critical Times Faced England As George V Ascended Throne

By MELVIN E. COLEMAN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

The place in history of George V, can, at this early day, be keyed by his personal motto:

"The secret of life is not to do what one likes, but to try to like what one has to do."

That "try" is eloquent to those who studied him and his reign. It reflects his sudden transformation in 1892 when his elder brother, the Duke of Clarence, died and George second son of Edward VII, became Prince of Wales. It recalls the scarcely concealed distaste with which he went about the business of appearing at the laying of cornerstones, dedication of hospital wards and all the other occasions to which the heir to the throne must lend "the grace of his appearance."

Saw Many Changes.

It tells too of the change of the man from a disciplined officer of His Majesty's navy, dedicated to the status quo and traditions of the world-wide empire, into a monarch who could go along with such changes as the partition of Ireland, the elevation of workmen to the peerage, the acceptance of women as part and parcel of public administration and the spread of self-government to teeming, illiterate Asia.

With outward equanimity he saw the development of authority among the dominions of Canada, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand until they became self-sufficient to such an extent that in the closing years of his reign they were making treaties of their own with other nations.

Economic disaster overtook the home country in his post-war years. His was a reign which some saw as the beginning of the possible disintegration of the British empire.

Lords Under Fire

When George took the throne the another country was engulfed in approaching climaxes. The house of lords, bulwark of the past, was under fire of the rising tide of the growing liberal and labor parties. Suffragettes, finding half a century of argument had gotten women no closer to the vote, were turning to militancy, smashing windows, heckling the house of commons and defying the police.

Irish nationalists, smarting under reiterated failures of home rule measures, were vocal and hostile. Cubism in painting and syncopation in music were signs of the restless times.

Abroad, Germany, imbued with the doctrine of the inevitability of "der Tag," was stirring international problems in the Mediterranean region and in the heart of Africa. France, England and Russia were but lately aligned in an entente to maintain the European balance of power against the tribe balance of Germany, Austro-Hungary and Italy. The Balkans were blazing in wars against Turkey and among themselves.

Inherited Grave Problems

The suave Edward VII, man of the world in both cultural and political fields, was counted upon to smooth out many of these rough spots. His death May 6, 1910, following a cold contracted at Sandringham, dumped these problems in the lap of his son.

Herbert Asquith, prime minister of England, had his hands full at this stage. Trade unionism was booming; it gained in membership from 2,500,000 in 1907 to 4,000,000 in 1914. One result of this was the passage of the "shop act," establishing the weekly half-holiday for workers. But a railway strike in the summer of 1911 testified to the demand for more sweeping changes.

In 1911 too the Agadir incident, actuated by the impulsive German kaiser, showed how delicate was the balance between war and peace.

Passage of an Irish home rule bill early in 1914 was preceded by threats of civil war on the part of Ulsterites and followed by preparations for open conflict. On July 20 King George summoned an Irish conference at Buckingham Palace. It broke up indecisively. But on July 28 the heir to the Austrian throne was assassinated at Sarajevo and the European powder keg blew up.

King George never lost his love of the sea. Frequently, during the yachting season, he was at the helm of the royal yacht, Britannia, for races and pleasure runs.

will increase. Unless the leaders clamp down, the situation may become serious.

The entire membership of the house and one-third of the senate are up for reelection this year. No better place is to be had than the house or senate for these senators and representatives to make their speeches.

In addition to the fact that their speeches may be noted the same day in their home town papers, there is another factor probably of greater importance to them. They have the privilege of broadcasting their remarks to constituents in the mails, free of charge, on whatever scale they desire.

The member of congress pays for the speech he has printed, but they are printed in the government printing office at Washington at cost price. His franking privilege permits him free use of the mails.

Some idea of the large scale operation in "canned" speeches in a national election year may be had in the fact that in one such period senators and representatives paid $68,266.19 to the public printer.

A member often will send out another member's speech on some subject he thinks will be of interest to his constituents. Not so long ago, records show that a member of the house from Pennsylvania used 30,000 copies of a Colorado representative's speech on the business side of the national government.

During the present session, principally because of their desire to get through and go home as quickly as possible, leaders on both sides have privately agreed to throttle speech-making as much as they can.

They intend wherever possible to prevent speeches being made in the open house and have them confined to the time when the house is in "committee of the whole." Time is limited for debate in committee of the whole and equally divided between Democrats and Republicans. Thus the leaders are able to allot time just as they choose.

The situation is different in the senate. There a member can talk on any subject as long as he pleases. It requires invocation of the rule of closure—agreed to by two-thirds of the senators—to take a member off his feet. It's rarely been done.

ACQUIRE LAND NEAR HIGHWAY

Tracts Being Purchased Along Park-To-Park Road

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, Jan. 22—In order to provide recreational areas along the route of the park-to-park highway which will connect the Shenandoah and the Great Smoky Mountains National Parks, some 7,000 acres of land along the route of the parkway in North Carolina is being purchased by the Resettlement Administration; it was learned here today from the regional offices.

This land is now in process of being acquired in Allegheny, Surry, Wilkes, Watauga and Avery counties. Similar recreational sites along the route of the parkway in Virginia, amounting to a total of 9,800 acres, will probably be purchased in Floyd, Patrick and Franklin counties, it was indicated.

Funds for the purpose of development of these tracts of land along the parkway route are being provided by the Resettlement Administration as a part of its "better land use" program. The actual development of these recreational sites will be under the direct supervision of the National Park Service. It is regarded as likely that additional sites will be acquired along the en-

ICICLE MAKER

There hasn't been a real icicle in Hollywood for many years, but that doesn't deter the movie prop men, who don't consider an exterior winter set well dressed unless it has icicles. Among the icicle makers Jack Baker ranks high. Once all icicles were of fiber and wet plaster with mica dust sprinkled on the surface. Baker changed the system developing several new types. Now he makes his icicles of several layers of transparent paper, twisted and crushed into icicle form, and then dipped in wax. Baker's icicles have a peculiar advantage over those of other composition. Under studio lights the wax melts and drips exactly like water. Baker estimates his production of icicles in the thousands.

Floors of Congress Sounding Board For Campaign

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—The first days of the present session of congress indicate that the floors of both houses will be utilized at every opportunity as sounding boards for the coming national campaign.

From the opening day this has been so. President Roosevelt set the pace when he broke all precedents by delivering his message on the state of the union at a night session when the nation could listen in. It has been maintained since.

Already congressional leaders, especially in the house, have experienced difficulty in holding the members in check. Supporters of the Townsend old age pension plan have been particularly insistent they be given opportunity to air their views.

As the session progresses, the pressure for "letting off steam," as Vice President Garner described it when he was speaker of the house,

Secretary Griffin Wants Relief From Gasoline Taxes

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Jan. 22.—Executive Secretary Lloyd E. Griffin of the State School Commission is heartily in favor of the schools being relieved from paying the state tax of 6 cents a gallon on gasoline used in the 4,000 school buses that transport some 275,000 children to and from school every day, and which amounts to about $24,000 a year, he said today.

Since the state took over the operation of the schools, Griffin estimates that at least $240,000 in school funds have been paid into the state highway fund through the gasoline tax.

"I have long contended that all of the money appropriated for schools should be used for school purposes and that other divisions of the state should not be required to pay taxes that go another division of the state government," Griffin said.

It was recalled here today that during the 1935 general assembly a bill was introduced by Griffin, who was a member of the senate and by Senator Fred Folger of Surry county, to relieve the schools of having to pay the gasoline tax on gasoline purchased for the operation of school buses, but the bill failed to pass.

Within the past few days The News and Observer here has been calling attention to the fact that the schools are required to pay this tax and has been raising strong editorial opinion to it. But since the law cannot be changed until the next general assembly meets in 1937, nothing can be done about it until that time. It is not recalled that The News and Observer had anything to say about the imposition of this tax on the gasoline bought by the schools when the 1935 general assembly was in session.

It is recalled that the Griffin-Folger bill to rebate this tax on school bus gasoline was opposed by the gas companies and the highway forces because they maintained it was a form of "diversion." So the tax was retained.

OTHER STATES COOPERATING

Aid North Carolina In Carrying Out Driver's Law

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Jan. 22.—Other states with drivers' license laws are cooperating with the North Carolina officials to the fullest extent in notifying them of the conviction of North Carolina drivers in these other states, Arthur Pulk, director of the Division of Highway Safety of the Department of Revenue said today.

Of these states, South Carolina is not only notifying the highway safety division of all convictions of North Carolina drivers in South Carolina, but is also suspending and revoking the licenses of South Carolina drivers convicted in North Carolina.

"Since the South Carolina law is somewhat different from ours, the driving permits of South Carolina drivers are suspended for only 60 days after being convicted of drunken driving in North Carolina, but these permits are revoked for one year following a second conviction for drunken driving," Pulk said. "We, of course, revoke their driving permits in this state for one year following the first conviction, as our law requires."

Virginia drivers convicted in Virginia, so that their licenses may be revoked here for whatever period of time the offense calls for under the North Carolina law. The division also notifies the Virginia motor vehicle department of all Virginia drivers convicted in North Carolina, but it is not known here yet whether their Virginia driving permits are suspended or revoked or not, although it is supported that they are.

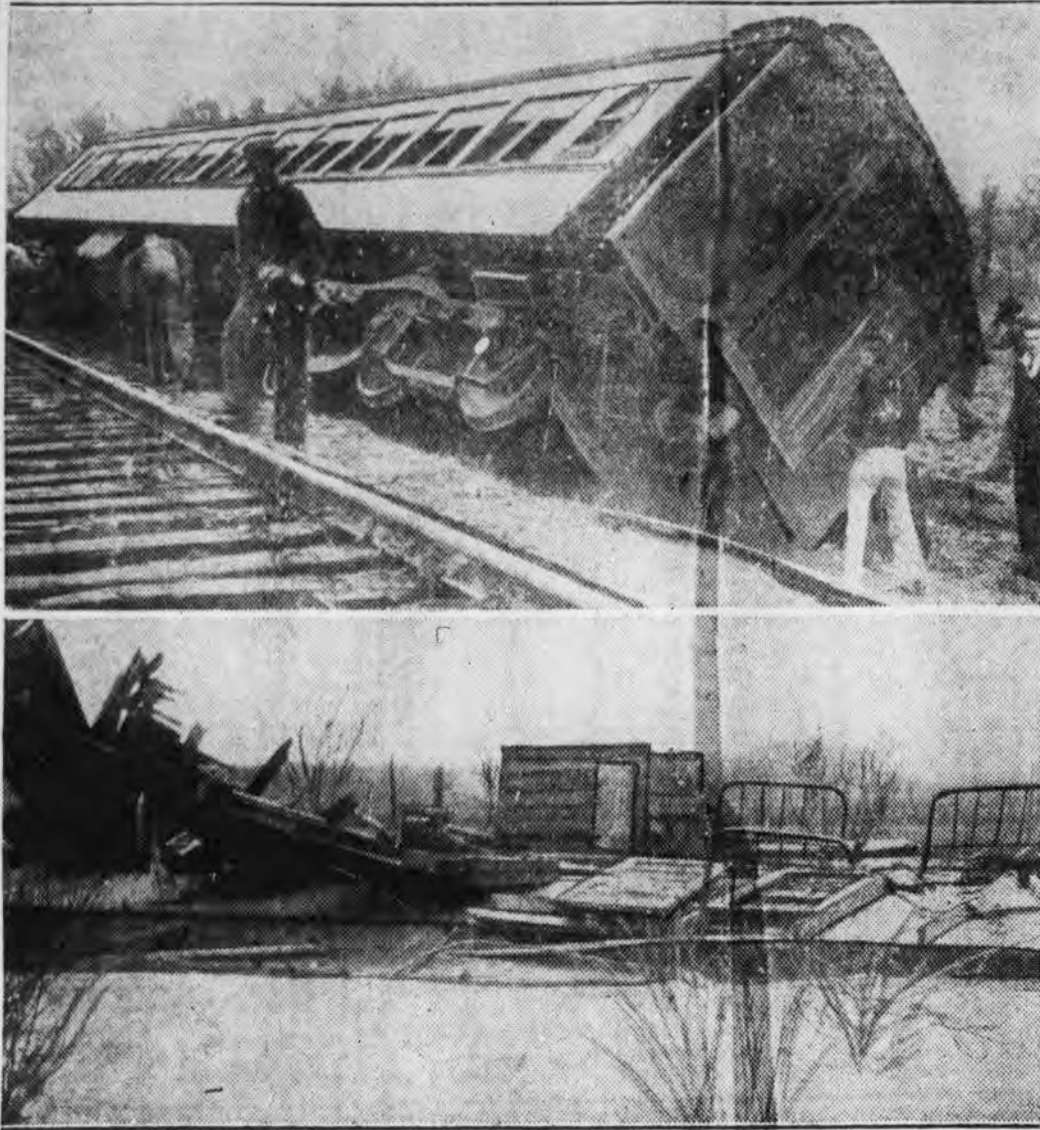

The Maryland highway patrol and motor vehicle officials are also cooperating by sending the North Carolina highway safety division notices of the conviction of any North Carolina drivers in Maryland, while this state is reciprocating, Pulk said.

Tennessee and Georgia do not have any drivers' license law, with the result that no record is obtained of North Carolina drivers convicted in either of these states.

Most Officials Of State Wish Shuping To Resign

Congressional Delegation Also Think He Should Quit

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Jan. 22.—Many state officials here are in complete agreement with the opinions expressed in Washington by most of the state's Congressional delegation, with the exception of Senators Bailey and Reynolds, that C. LeRoy Shuping of Greensboro, Democratic National Committeeman from North Carolina, should resign as long as he is opposed to the re-nomination of President Roosevelt and can not support his administration.

A news story from Washington Tuesday quoted almost all of the state's 11 Congressmen as being of the opinion that Shuping should resign as National Committeeman if he can no longer support President Roosevelt and work for his re-nomination. Senator Bailey declined to comment, as did Senator Reynolds. Shuping was state manager of Bailey's campaign against Senator F. M. Simmons in 1930. It has been hinted for several months that Shuping is planning to run for the Senate against Senator Reynolds in 1936 on an anti-Roosevelt and anti-New Deal platform and that this is one reason for his present unqualified and bitter criticism of the President and his administration.

The comment from the Congressional delegation in Washington was elicited by a story about Shuping in a Greensboro paper Sunday which painted Shuping as the real Democrat and President as a "mug-wump."

It is being pointed out here today that National Committeeman Shuping is now doing what Senator Simmons was a cause of doing in 1928 and for which he and Bailey started out to "punish" Senator Simmons for in 1930—for not being "regular" and for refusing to support the Democratic leadership. It was because Senator Simmons refused to support Al Smith for president in 1928 and thus ceased to be "regular" that Shuping and Bailey decided he should be defeated in 1930—and they defeated him. Yet now, it is pointed out, Shuping has turned against President Roosevelt and is openly opposed to his re-nomination by the Democratic party, thus definitely siding with the Liberty Leaguers and the Republicans in opposition to the present Democratic administration in Washington.

Thus in openly criticizing the President now and referring to his administration in allegedly sulphurous terms, Shuping is now being just as "irregular" as Senator Simmons ever was, many here contend. They further point out that Senator Simmons was completely vindicated later on, in that the Democrats in North Carolina overwhelmingly refused to swallow or stomach Al Smith in the 1928 election, when they elected a Democratic state administration by the usual majority, but gave a majority in the national election to Herbert Hoover, the Republican candidate for president. As a result, most of the party leaders here are convinced that it is time for Shuping to step down and out as National Committeeman and make way for the election of a "regular" Democrat who believes in Roosevelt and who will work for him.

It is being further pointed out here that Shuping was elected as National Committeeman largely because Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus and his friends in the State Democratic Committee decided not to make any fight on Shuping, who had conducted an intense campaign for the post. It was agreed by those who knew the facts at the time Shuping was elected National Committeeman to succeed former Governor O. Max Gardner, that if Governor Ehringhaus had wanted the post he could have had it, also that if he had wanted to see Shuping defeated, he would have been. But preferring harmony to a fight, and never inclined to push himself forward, Governor Ehringhaus passed the word out that he did not wish the post as National Committeeman. It is also understood that he even went so far as to ask his supporters to vote for Shuping and let it appear that the Bailey-Shuping forces had won a great victory. Incidentally, it is interesting to note that next to his intense aversion to President Roosevelt, Shuping is reported to have been intensely bitter in his denouncing of Governor Ehringhaus.

It is also being pointed out that while former Governor O. Max Gardner resigned as National Committeeman so he could not be said that he was pushing his position as committeeman to get business for his law business in Washington, it is reported that Shuping has not been adverse to accepting cases against the New Deal or to using his position as committeeman to get these cases.

The prevailing opinion in most circles here is that Shuping should resign—and soon.

STATE UNABLE TO GET MONEY

Unsuccessful in Efforts Get Loans For Power Lines

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Jan. 22.—North Carolina so far has not been able to get a single rural electrification loan approved by the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington, despite the fact that some applications have been on file there for almost a year, while there are 20 applications pending there now, Chairman Dudley Bagley of the North Carolina Rural Electrification Authority, said today.

However, he is hopeful that eventually the Washington officials will get enough of the red tape untangled so that North Carolina can get some of the $100,000,000 set aside by congress to be loaned to the states to assist in the building of rural electrification lines.

"I am still hopeful that eventually some of these applications for loans will be approved and that some of these rural electrification projects can be started in North Carolina," Bagley said. "I was in Washington a few days ago and found that several applications have been passed and approved by all but the legal division of the Rural Electrification Administration, and we are hoping that eventually this division will pass on them. Until I was there last week, the head of this division did not know that a single application was pending from North Carolina. When he looked, he found 20 applications in the files. We get action on one or two of these in the next few weeks—or months. We are still hopeful, at any rate."

A total of approximately $1,500,000 in loans is requested in the 20 applications now pending before the REA, Bagley said. The approval of these applications would put hundreds of people to work and provide electric service to thousands of rural homes. Many of these proposed lines are so situated that it is not feasible for the utilities companies in the state to build them, Bagley pointed out. He further pointed out that virtually all the rural electric lines built or being built in the state so far are the ones being put up by existing utility companies and at their own expense.

The resignation of French Premier Laval and his cabinet generally expected, did not stir the list unduly. The Franc, said to have been accorded officially support, moved higher.

The late stock tone was firm, transfers approximately 2,200,000 shares.

Roanoke River at Roanoke Rapids Overflows and Floods Boiler Room of One Mill Plant

Roanoke Rapids, N. C., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Roanoke river rose into the boiler room of the Roanoke Mill Company number one plant today and further over lowlands as it headed toward flood crest.

Already 11 feet above flood stage at 44 feet, the river was rising rapidly and threatened a number of small farm homes. Weather observers predicted a crest of 48 feet tonight or tomorrow, the worst since 1912.

All power was cut off this afternoon in the local power plant but electricity was expected to be obtained from Richmond, Va.

At Raleigh the weather bureau said the Neuse at Smithfield and the Cape Fear at Fayetteville, both in moderate floods, were falling slowly. The Tar at Tarboro was at 184 feet just going out of its banks with a stage of 23 feet forecast for Friday or Saturday.

At Greenville a 10 foot flood stage was forecast for Saturday.
