STRIKE ENDED
AT PEKIN, ILL.
BY LABOR MEN

Announcement Made
by Business Agent of Trade Union

ACTION FOLLOWS
BLUNT DEFIANCE

Organized Business
Men Had Announced
They Would Reopen Establishments

Pekin, Ill., Feb. 6.—(AP)—The three day general strike of 2,000 union men in Pekin was ended today.

The announcement was made by Jack Kirsella, business agent for the Peoria and Pekin Building Trades Union.

Kirsella indicated the order calling off the strike probably would be effective at once.

The action by the labor men came shortly after organized business men of Pekin had announced they would defy the unionists and reopen their business establishments tomorrow.

Merchants were notified by John Patterson, secretary of the Pekin Association of Commerce, to reopen their business places at once.

Pekin, Ill., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Deputies armed with shotguns guarded Mayor W. E. Schurman's home today as a blast of gunfire ushered in the second day of a strike which imposed a business moratorium in this industrial community of 17,000.

Ten highway patrolmen cruised streets, but a car that hooped them, fired upon Clarence Rupp in the first serious shooting of a labor strike. The resultant industrial and mercantile paralysis virtually reduced Pekin to the status of a "dead" city.

As Rupp, 35, owner of a taxicab service, entered his home last night an automobile scowled up on the corner. One of the occupants shouted "hey" and a bullet from the car pierced his right breast. He (Continued on page six)

Field Supervisor Makes Arrangements For Filing Applications For Loans to Buy Seed

J. E. Wilson, field supervisor for the Federal Seed Loan Corporation was in Greenville today making arrangements to set up offices here to make loans to farmers for the purchase of their seed.

The applications will be handled at office space provided at the farm agent's quarters. No arrangements have been made for accepting the loans as yet, but details are expected to be completed in the near future.

Although the loan corporation is not strictly connected with the farm agent's offices, Mr. Wilson arranged with E. F. Arnold, county agent, to provide space and personnel in the latter's offices to handle the applications.

Mr. Wilson said similar arrangements had been made in other counties in his district.

Barring Last Minute Action, Three Convicted Murderers to Be Executed in Death Chamber

Raleigh, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Three men barring a last minute change, will die in the death chamber of State Prison here tomorrow for murder, two by gas and one by electricity.

As there has been no previous use of the different methods on the same day there was a slight possibility that the matter of arrangements and mechanics might result in a last minute stay for Will Lott, Alabama negro convicted of killing a night watchman.

There appeared no hope for Thomas Watson and J. T. Sanford, Durham negro convicted of the slaying of a taxi driver.

Governor Ehringhaus announced he would not intervene in any of their cases unless it was absolutely necessary while a reprieve will be extended Thursday to Bright Dusk, Columbus county white man due to die by gas and John Presley of Gaston and Henry Grier, of Forsyth, negroes, set for electrocution. All were convicted of murder.

Watson and Sanford will not die by gas at the same time as is possible so it will not be the first simultaneous execution in the state.

State Ranks Fifth
In Crop Valuation
For Entire Nation

Texas Leads, With California, Iowa
and Illinois Ahead of North Carolina in Values

Raleigh, Feb. 6.—North Carolina stood fifth last year in the valuation of farm crops by states, Dean I. O. Schaub of State College, said today. According to figures compiled by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and sent to the dean, the total value of North Carolina's farm crops in 1935 was $248,348,000.

Texas led the nation with a valuation of $375,298,000. Next were California with $367,143,000; Iowa with $290,230,000, and Illinois with $273,931,000.

The value of farm crops in this state dropped slightly under the level for 1934, which was $262,973,000, the dean added.

The value of North Carolina's crops on a per acre basis was much higher than in most of the other states, he pointed out.

Last year 6,152,000 acres were planted to crops in this state, as compared to 27,554,000 in Texas, 20,833,000 in Iowa, 20,158,000 in Nebraska, and 17,692,000 in Illinois.

All the figures in the report were based on the farm value of the crops raised, and do not include benefit payments distributed to the farmers who cooperated in the AAA programs.

Despite Storms and Cold Waves, Business on Increase

New York, Feb. 6.—(AP)—In the wide sweep of industrial recovery as disclosed by an impressive array of statistics published recently by business analysts see a strong foundation for a further push toward new peaks of production and consumption.

In spite of successive storms and cold waves which tended temporarily to lessen consumer buying in certain retail channels, most major lines of production business are close to the high pace of 1935 set in the final quarter.

The Associated Press index in industrial activity stand close to the recent record, highest point in nearly 6 years.

Retail trade, thrown into a mild slump two weeks ago by the onset of severe weather, has shown a general and healthy rebound. The Department of Commerce estimated that general business experienced a gain of 10 per cent in January over January 1935.

The total open market value of shares listed on the New York stock exchange rose more than $3,000,000 in January and at $50,164,000,000 stands at the highest level reported by the exchange since April of 1931.

FASCIST PLAN FOR MILITARY

Predicted Party to Plan Further Militarization

(By Associated Press)
Further delegation of the fascist party as a military organ was predicted today by high fascist sources in Rome.

The prediction was important for it was predicated on the theory that further militarization of the party would be necessary to take care of the international situation in Italy should an European war develop.

As for actual military activity there was little reported except in the case of a British officer of frontier duty along the border of the British colony of Kenya and Ethiopia.

The Italian column advancing along the border had placed a marker six feet over the line on Britain's soil.

His majesty's officers protested with a smile. The marker was placed back where it belonged.

Country Of "Penitents"
Invaded By Man Hunters

Forbidden Country Scoured by Searchers for Killer of Young Author Before 16-Year-
Old Boy Finally Confesses Murder

Albuquerque, N. M., Feb. 6.—(AP)—Modesto Trujillo, 16 year old Spanish-American youth, confessed today, Sheriff Ross Salazar said, that he killed Carl Taylor, vagabond magazine writer, in his lonely mountain cabin near here last night.

The boy who led officers to the body last night with the declaration Taylor had been shot by two masked assassins, admitted, Salazar said, that he fired the fatal shot himself and robbed the dying writer of an undetermined amount of money.

Albuquerque, N. Mexico, Feb. 6.—(AP)—The forbidden country of the "penitents" was invaded by man-hunters today in a search for the killer of Carl Taylor, young travel writer who was shot to death after completing an expose of the strange religious sect.

The body of the 30-year-old author and adventurer, whose writings have appeared in several British and American travel magazines, was found on the floor of his lonely Sangra mountain cabin, 20 miles of here last night.

On a desk lay the newly finished manuscripts of his latest article, the story of the secret practices of the "penitents," a self torture cult of New Mexico.

Modesto Trujillo, 16-year-old Spanish-American neighbor of the author, raced to Justice of the Peace Faustino Chavez last night and blurted out the story of Taylor's death.

Two men with rags over their faces, he said, entered the cabin where Trujillo was visiting and opened fire on the writer. The terrified Trujillo, ran at the first shot. He and an unidentified Spanish-American were held by officers for further questioning.

Conrad Richter, writer and close friend of the slain man said two nights ago Taylor dared the wrath of the "penitents" by entering their temple to take flashlight pictures. Richter said Taylor later boasted jockeying of the pictures he had made.

Lieut. Lester Jones, head of the eastern division of the State Highway Patrol, said today patrolmen would begin making arrests on or about February 15 of motorists without drivers' licenses.

The announcement followed a meeting yesterday of patrolmen in the division. The session was attended by Arthur Pulk, director of the state highway safety division, and Capt. Charles Farmer, head of the patrol force.

The highway safety director said most of the drivers' licenses had been mailed out to persons who have applied for them. Only a few which were not plain enough to photograph have not been sent out. Mr. Pulk said. It was necessary, he said, to return these to the applicants for them to fill out another blank.

Plans were announced at the meeting for a uniform examination for persons applying for licenses. The test will include a number of questions and anyone seeking the permits are required to be able to answer ten of the queries. In addition an eye test, driving test and examination of knowledge on road signs will be made.

The full list of questions and their answers follow:

1. How old must you be to obtain an operator's license? Sixteen years (and application must be signed by parent or guardian).
2. Who has the right to stop or question the driver or owner of a motor vehicle? The Highway Patrol, and any other peace officer.
3. What is the cause of most accidents? Reckless driving, hogging the road, failing to give signals, and pulling out of line.
4. Is it unlawful to use another person's operator's license? Yes.
5. How may a motor be used as brake when going down a steep hill? By shifting into first or second gear.
6. What should you do on approaching a railroad crossing? Stop and look for approaching trains and do not shift into high gear until across tracks.
7. Is it lawful to stop a vehicle on the driving portion of highway? No.
8. What is the best way to stop the skidding if you skid when you apply your brakes? Release brakes and turn in direction of the skid always having clutch in.
9. To whom must all accidents be reported? To the Department of Transportation.

It was originally estimated that at least 2,500 persons would attend the meeting, but sponsors are now declaring that if the weather is good, a crowd of 5,000 would not be surprising.

No word has been received from J. B. Hutson, head of the tobacco section under the old Agricultural Adjustment Administration, as to whether or not he would be able to attend.

The address by Mr. O'Neal, to be delivered at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, is sponsored by the Pitt County Acreage Control Board.

A motorist does not become a safe driver until he reaches the age of 30, the Eastbay, California, safety council was told.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER
BLOCKING: The ability and oratory of two isolationists—Senators Borah and Johnson—have plunged the Senate Foreign Relations committee into the most violent deadlock since the behind-the-scenes battle over the League of Nations. They are waging a desperate fight for a neutrality bill more to their liking than the administration proposal.

They have already won three major victories. The tentative draft strips a President of discretionary power in applying embargoes; he must treat all belligerents alike, it also proclaims that adoption of strict neutrality does not amount to a waiver of the right of freedom of the seas—and the right to collect for damages. Latest victory is exemption of "clothes and medicine" from the materials which a President may deny to warring nations.

Messrs. Borah and Johnson represent a minority. But they are slowly winning over members who thought that framing a practical neutrality law would be a simple matter. The Senator's experiences on the committee in war-time afforded them a great advantage. They may so delay vital decisions that the existing law will have to be re-enacted for a few months. That seems to be the last strategy, for a lifting of tension in Europe would work on their side.

By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, Feb. 6.—The liquidation of 40 closed banks was completed during the 12 months of 1935 and a total of $10,412,971 collected from the assets of these banks, according to the statement filed today by Commissioner of Banks Gurney P. Hood with Secretary of State Stacy W. Wade, as required by law.

This statement shows in detail the amounts paid to all independent auditors, departmental auditors, attorneys and all cash collections for each bank, also the ratio of these payments to the total collections.

In addition to the figures given for the year 1935, the statement filed today shows that since the 1927 general assembly placed the liquidation of all closed banks under the State Banking Department, 185 banks have been or are now being liquidated—only 52 banks are still in process of liquidation, while a total of $48,739,358 has been collected from the assets of closed

FEW ESCAPES
ARE REPORTED

Only Five Inmates
Flee from Prison
This Month

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Feb. 6.—The number of escapes from prison are continuing to remain small so far this month, with no escapes during the past five days. Acting Director Oscar Pitts of the prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission said today. So far there have been only five escapes, while there have been eight recaptures, Pitts said.

These five escapes actually occurred the last of January, but since the reports did not reach here until February 1, they are credited the February record," Pitts said.

These five prisoners escaped from a prison camp after sawing the bars to their cell while a guard was asleep. The guard was discharged.

Several of the prisoners which are credited as having been recaptured, actually returned voluntarily to complete serving their terms.

"Hardly a week passes that one or more prisoners who have escaped return voluntarily to finish out serving their term," Pitts said.

"Most of them find that they are better off if they stay in the prison until they complete their terms."

"After they have escaped, they know they are likely to be picked up any time and frequently they go for days with little or nothing to eat, sleeping in the woods or hiding in deserted houses or barns. They know that if they come out among other people or try to get jobs they are likely to be recognized and returned to prison. Accordingly, after a few weeks of cold and hunger, many of them decide that the prison camps, with three good meals a day and with warm, comfortable quarters at night are not so bad after all, and they decide to come back."

Since the prison division conducted its schools for the prison camp stewards and issued orders for more and better food for the prisoners, the morale has been much better and the prisoners have been doing more and better work on the roads, Pitts said.

ROAD CLEARED

Congress Ends Action on Repeal of Three
Farm Bills

SENATE ACCEPTS
HOUSE REVISION

Solons Now Ready to Take Up AAA Substitute Bill Approved by Committee

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Congress today completed repeal of three AAA auxiliaries—the Bankhead cotton, Smith-Kerr tobacco and potato control acts—with senate acceptance of a minor house amendment. The bill now goes to the White House.

The senate passed the repeal Tuesday. The house acted yesterday but added a brief amendment and cancellors taxes assessed but not collected under the compulsory cotton law. The senate concurred in the change today.

Erasing of these three post-AAA acts paved the way for debate on the revised administration AAA replacement bill which the senate agriculture committee approved yesterday as a substitute for the Bankhead bill.

The substitute similar to the Jones bill pending before the house, provides a dual system of federal subsidies for soil conservation and other crop control methods.

Considerable parliamentary confusion followed the offering of the substitute farm measure to the senate by Chairman Smith (D-S.C.) of the agriculture committee.

It was agreed 18 to 6 that the draft of Senator Bankhead's farm measure would remain before the senate until displaced by the latter much-altered bill.

Democratic leader, Robinson, assured Senators McNary of Oregon, the minority leader, and Borah (R. Idaho) that only a preliminary explanation of the plan was indebted today. There was no intent to test a final vote said.

Smith said "no one will question the constitutionality of the ultimate objective of the new measure which he discussed as "the coordination of federal power with state power to accomplish the best possible for agriculture."

Tax Bill May Be
Surprisingly Low

Chairman Doughton of House Ways and Means Committee Drops
Hint After Conference

Washington, Feb. 6.—(AP)—Hope for formulation of a tax bill which "will surprise the country by not being as large as expected" was expressed today by House leaders after a talk with President Roosevelt.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the House ways and means committee, said after a White House discussion that no new taxes for the bonus payment were indicated and "I am still hopeful new levies will not be necessary on that account."

He said a tax bill would be required to meet the demands of the new farm legislation and he predicted the measure would be ready by the first of next week.

"I think we will surprise the country," Doughton told newsmen "by not having to have as large a tax bill as is expected."

Doughton said he expected no additional legislation aside from farm administration and the bonus that would require further taxes.

Mrs. Long Helped 'Launch' Huey Now She Succeeds Him In Senate

With a baby on her lap, Mrs. Huey P. Long prepared and folded the campaign circulars that launched her late husband on his political career.

By RALPH WHEATLEY

New Orleans. (AP)—Mrs. Huey P. Long goes to the United States senate as successor to her spectacular husband well grounded in the machinations of politics.

From early married life and until the last few years of his career, she fought for his advancement from behind the scenes. It was she, with a baby in her lap, who prepared and folded for mailing the campaign circulars that launched her husband in politics.

He sought and followed her advice as he prepared the groundwork that brought him the political dictatorship of Louisiana. But in the last years of Huey Long's life, he became a little too tempestuous with his politics for her and she played a small part in his public life.

Helped Huey's Career.

Like her husband, she came from a farm and she was almost his age. In 1892 she was born on a farm near Greensburg, Ind., and in a few years the family moved to the town of Greensburg. Her mother was a native of Louisiana and when she was 10 the family moved to Shreveport, La., where she met her husband by winning a prize for the best cake made from a compound that Huey Long was selling.

At the age of 20, she married Long in Memphis, where they lived a short time until Long decided on a legal and political career. She came with him to New Orleans and did housework on a shoe-string until her husband completed one year of law school, enough for him to pass the bar examination. They then settled at Winnfield, La., her husband's birthplace. After a few years they moved to Shreveport and turned to politics.

With small funds and little encouragement, she worked with her husband at her home, doing the clerical work and her housework. From Shreveport they went to Baton Rouge to the governor's mansion and with Huey well launched on his career with plenty of money, Mrs. Long turned her attention more to her children and her home. She let her husband proceed alone in politics after that and had no desire to go to Washington as a senator's wife.

Acceptance Surprised Friends. Mrs. Long is a brunette of average height and a little plump. She is pleasant and jolly, caring little for society and club life. She said she was happier with her daughter and two sons in her home. Until she was appointed senator, she had no desire for public office and her acceptance surprised those who knew her best.

She is the type of woman who can grace a mansion as well as a cottage and probably will fit into the senate as a quiet and interested member. She has no special political plans and hardly could be expected to attempt to follow the up-roarious course of her husband. She probably will map her own course as she goes along.

counts how a group of disgruntled officers, without asking "by-your-leave," called at the palace in a body.

Unnered into the king's study, they were kept waiting—until they began to fume. When the king appeared, at last, he had changed his clothes. He stood before them in the full uniform of commander-in-chief of the Greek army, and still returned their salutes.

He permitted one of them to talk. The spokesman protested volubly against the granting of grace to military and naval officers involved in the ill-fated Venizelists revolt last March.

King George listened attentively. Then he said:

"During my years of absence in England I learned the value of discipline. I believe it is the wisest policy for officers not to interfere with politics."

He saluted. The interview was ended.

The officers gaped, gulped—and backed out of the room.

George of Greece Quits Playboy Role For Long Days of Hard Work as King

That the "king business" is a strenuous vocation may be judged from these contrasting photographs of George II, king of the Hellenes. One shows him laughing and carefree before he was recalled to the throne of Greece. The other reveals him as the stern-faced monarch whom Athens has come to know after less than three months of sovereignty.

ATHENS (AP)—From a dapper man-about-town in London, during his 12 years' exile, George II, king of the Hellenes, has become a stern-faced, business-like monarch—already showing the strain of sovereignty in this turbulent realm.

"I shall dedicate my capacity for work to the nation," he said when he returned to the throne a little more than two months ago.

At the time few realized the force behind the pledge.

Popular Portrait Changes. Athens had a picture of him based on reports from abroad—a be-moaned, stylishly-dressed man of leisure, dining in gay West End cafes in London, playing tennis on the French Riviera.

But the king has kept his word, with a dead seriousness in every gesture—and a will of iron. The 12-year interlude of ease has ended. He has gone on a strict diet. He drinks with extreme moderation.

No Time for Tennis. He rises at 8 o'clock in the morning, reaches his desk at 9 sharp, and works with dynamic energy often until late at night.

He has not yet appeared on the tennis court, finding time only for brief walks in the palace gardens, and his social life has consisted almost entirely of conversations with ministers and officers of the army, navy and air force.

Those who believed he would become merely a "show-piece" king, under the thumb of the former dictator, General Kondylis, and badgered by conflicting party interests, have good reason for amazement.

Officers Not in Place. Countless stories of his technique in "crushing" insubordination are ended. He has gone on a strict significantly honored that the State College team should be invited from among so many outstanding teams in this section of the country," Professor Paget said.

CHAPLIN WON'T TALK—BUT SINGS IN NEW FILM

New York. (AP)—Charlie Chaplin has been actor, director, producer, musician and business man, but in his latest picture, "Modern Times," he is a singer, although he refuses to recognize the advent of the talking film by talking.

The picture, his first in five years, is the first in which his voice is heard.

In a picture he made when talkies were inaugurated, "City Lights," he satirized sound by weird noises emanating from the loud-speakers.

Bars Topless Swim Suits. Miami Beach, Fla. (AP)—Police Chief M. V. Yocum has warned:

I Ate What I Liked... Fat Slipped Away

It was so easy—I did not go on a diet. I took no exercise. I did not weaken my body with drastic purgatives. Yet fat slipped away. Each day I felt myself growing lighter, more slender. Now my figure is lovely, graceful. And I never felt better in my life.

That, in brief, is what thousands who have reduced the Marmola way might tell you. Four times a day they take a little tablet containing the right quantity of a world-famous corrective for abnormal obesity.—A corrective prescribed by physicians everywhere and acknowledged to be the most effective known.

Since 1907, more than 20 million packages of Marmola have been purchased. Could any better recommendation be had?

SAYS ROY F. MARTIN

2000 16th St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

"My pocketbook used to balk at the fancy prices asked for whiskey. But I figured I just had to pay them if I wanted to get the kind of whiskey I could enjoy. So when I first began hearing folks rave about Old Drum—boasting of its flavor—marveling at its low price—I made up my mind to try it then and there. Nor was I disappointed! Old Drum was all they said and more—and its price makes it one of the best friends my pocketbook ever had."

Entertain Clubs.

The End of the Century Club and the Sans Souci Club met at the home of Mrs. Hortense Moyer, with Mrs. G. B. Hadley assisting hostess. The home was lovely with its suggestion of Valentine decorations, red, roses, gladioli and red burning candles in the spacious rooms.

After the club books had been distributed and each club held a short business session, Mrs. W. L. Hall entertained the members with a few of her lovely poems.

Mrs. Moyer in her usual charming manner, introduced the Hon. F. C. Harding, dean of the Greenville Bar, who gave us a most interesting and educational discussion of Women in Science.

Mr. Harding defined the term Science and told us of some of our foremost women scientists, their works and how they had cooperated with men in science. He said that today only five per cent of the scientists were women and gave the reasons that so few women had entered this field. Up until a few years ago women were not permitted to use the laboratories in the big schools and as it takes long, tedious years of research in laboratories to become a scientist they could not prepare for it. Women have been educated in music, painting, sculpture and more domestic lines. The scientific field is rapidly enlarging and many universities now prepare women as well as men for this work.

Madam Curry who spent many happy years working with her husband in the discovery of radium, Elizabeth Blackwell, Mary Watson Whitney and several other women scientists were highly praised for their work.

The hostesses assisted by Mrs. George F. Hadley and Mrs. Howard Moyer, served a delicious salad course carrying out the Valentine suggestion.—Reported.

COMMA BACK IN LAW. ENDS LIQUOR DISCUSSION

Austin, Tex. (AP)—The battle of the comma has been settled.

Texas liquor law authorized local governments to prohibit the sale of liquors within 300 feet "of any church, school or educational institution."

Some argued the comma wasn't there—that the law simply said "church school."

The secretary of state formally installed the comma, omitted in orphanages, hospitals, rural churches and universities.

Mellon Tax Suit, Bitterly Fought, Goes To Washington For Roundup

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Washington (AP)—The government prepares for a last roundup of evidence in the most celebrated tax case in recent years—that against Andrew W. Mellon, a slight old man with the face of an ascetic and money-making magic in his hands.

Andrew Mellon, who finds one of the biggest fights of his life in the government suit against him for millions in taxes and penalties, charges "political persecution."

The prolonged hearing before the board of tax appeals on a claim for about $3,000,000 in income taxes and penalties against the Pittsburgh multi-millionaire has been set for resumption on February 11.

It has been one of the great fights of Mellons long life—he now is in his 81st year—and he has carried it on with words sharp and bitter in a man so habitually reticent of speech.

The government charge has been that he—the man often called by admirers "the greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton"—used his erstwhile office to begin "the execution of a scheme to evade (in 1911) his federal income taxes."

To this Mellon has attached the answer "political persecution" by Democratic officials, and of the assertion he has said that it was "impertinent, scandalous and improper."

Highest Diplomatic Post
The proceeding, held now here again in Pittsburgh, began in 1934 and in that year the banker-industrialist won a victory when a Pittsburgh federal grand jury refused to indict him on a charge of tax evasion, substantially exonerating him so far as the criminal courts were concerned.

The case comes back now to Washington, where Mellon served three Republican Presidents as secretary of the treasury and later became ambassador to the court of St. James, the highest diplomatic post in the world for an American.

Here, too, he has planned the establishment of a great national art gallery built around a $19,000,000 collection of old masters which he has turned over to a trust for that gallery. The paintings have been one of the great interests of his life; in their collection he demonstrated, along with his love for the finest art, the same persistence that skyrocketed the mighty Mellon fortune.

Always Calm in Crises.
Washington. When the board convenes soon to wind up his tax case, he'll be a battleground for him on other and older occasions. He entered official life here at 67, an age when many men of his station retire with their memories, and as some thought—a political tyro. Despite these supported handicaps, the shrewd little cabinet officer, with a manner of diffidence and quietness about which many legends have grown, rode out some bitter storms.

Opponents of him and of his political philosophy in both senate and house attacked him bitterly. Efforts to remove him came to naught. He remained calm in the face of demands for his impeachment voiced by the bitterest among his critics.

In crises, he plays a cool and imperturbable hand. He is readier, in such cases, with a grin than with speech. He seems a curious fragile figure to command an empire such as his, and there is nothing monarchical in his manner. This head of one of the world's great family fortunes has an intensely commonplace habit not often associated with the wealthy and powerful—he chews gum.

ed for the sun and for the man with the whistle and the sack of mail.

You know, of course, that the man did not have to burglar that house and risk being shot. With the mail came a $450 check from an editor who could have had it there a week earlier, only it never occurred to him that a week one way or another could make any difference.

As it turned out, it didn't. My favorite act of vengeance this week concerns the striping whose car was ruined by a careless motorist. He came out of a restaurant just in time to see another car crash into his.

Angered, he essayed fistuffs, but the other fellow was much larger and waved him away contemptuously.

Snapping at his heels like a terrier after an elephant, the enraged one followed until his persecutor disappeared into a private club. Then something akin to inspiration came. Returning to the car, he glanced carefully up and down the street. No cops were in sight. Plucking the rear seat from the car he toted it up to an East River dock. He tossed it overboard. He brushed his hands with the satisfaction of one who knows that a task has been well done.

"Now I feel better," he said to no one in particular.

Shrewd observers attribute some of the new life in business to the skating rinks around town. After using skates in some of them you have to go out and buy a new pair of shoes.

Talks To Parents

DOING THINGS WELL
Brooke Peters Church
"What is worth doing at all is worth doing well."

It is a saying which grandmothers of past generations frequently used as they patiently ripped out the irregular stitches with which two squares of patch-work had been joined by inexperienced fingers.

It was hard for both grandmother and child, but it bore fruit in the end. "Good enough" was not accepted. "As good as possible" was the rule, in spite of the child's protests and monotonous repetition.

In childhood the idea of perfect work can best be established. To allow careless slipshod work to get by because the child is small and inexperienced is a mistake. Unless the undertaking is beyond the child's ability, he must be encouraged to try for perfection, and not permitted to finish it up in a hurried way as "good enough."

Many parents admire inordinately whatever a child gives them or offers them for inspection. Mother's Christmas-present was thrown to her in a moment of fine frenzy. When the enthusiasm died down the workmanship suffered, and the result is a useless, badly-made article. Mother can be gracious about accepting the gift, thankful for the thought that prompted the giver, but she may comment on the fact that a little more care and time would have made it more useful and attractive.

It requires tact to do this, and many parents are unwilling to look the little gift-bearer in the mouth with any hint of criticism.

"But to give a child praise for careless workmanship in any line is to put a premium on habits of carelessness. One must demand not perfection, but the best the child can do. If he forms the habit early in only one line of work, it will help him later in all he does."

Argentina Plans Public Works.
Buenos Aires (AP)—Argentina's public works budget for 1936, excluding highways, has been fixed at $235,000,000. The biggest items will be for port improvements and branch railways.

How's Your Health?

The Mind Divided In Its Parts: I
To modern psychology we are indebted for the conception of "the mind divided in its parts." Not that before the days of Freud no one had thought of this. On the contrary, the writings of Shakespeare, for example, are replete with references to such divisions of the mind, and one could expect Hamlet to break forth in metrical plaint of his gastric ulcer.

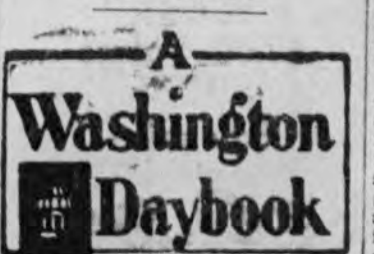

To modern psychology, however, goes the credit for not only establishing the existence and frequency of such dissonance in mind and personality, but especially for its clear demonstration of how such dissonance leads to functional and organic disturbances.

Each person has a given constitution. He is built in a certain way, tall and thin, short and stocky, or average. He moves, acts and reacts in a given way. He talks with certain emphasis, or lack, he manifests a characteristic (for him) response to humor, provocation, curiosity, etc. These peculiar qualities of his personality are largely hereditary in origin. They are integrated with and arise from his given nervous system, his glands of internal secretion, his skeletal framework etc.

With his peculiar endowments, the individual is born into and grows up in a variable world. For the rest of his lifetime, he will continue, and to varying degrees succeed or fail, to adapt himself, in terms of his capacities to the world about him, and vice versa.

But not infrequently the individual is not aware of his limitations, or, being aware, refuses to recognize them. The "square peg would fit the round hole." Then we have division, dissonance and struggle within. To this dissonance, parents contribute by overstimulating their children, by entertaining ambitious plans for them. Society feeds the strife by setting so high a prize on the victor, so low a worth on the vanquished.

Tomorrow—The Mind Divided In Its Parts: II

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — The "off the record" story of what happened in the senate rules committee on the Byrd resolution calling for reorganization and simplification of the federal government is illustrative of how cautious and touchy administration leaders have come to be on this subject.

MORGAN MERRY AT ARMS PROBE

"I didn't want to miss the party," chuckled J. P. Morgan, in high good humor, as he took a front seat at the senate munitions committee's renewed investigation of the part American financiers played toward leading the United States into the World War. Morgan wasn't even summoned but he and his partner, George Whitney (left), were among the first to arrive. (Associated Press Photo) therefore, is evident. Industrial unionists say their way is the only way—to have unions which comprise all employees in an industry, irrespective of the kind of work they do.

In the words of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers and leader of the industrial unionists, such a step will be increasingly necessary for two reasons:

"First, to safeguard the fundamental rights of industrial democracy; and, second, to secure legislative and perhaps constitutional sanctions for labor's program."

"Success in the organization of our basic industries," says Lewis, "will bring with it the political power which the labor movement has hitherto lacked for the attainment of its objectives."

While labor leaders like Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America; David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies' Garment Workers, and others, agree with Lewis, there is a disposition on their part to proceed cautiously.

Hillman, who represents some 150,000 workers, warned against undue haste in his speech here before the United Mine Workers' convention.

"At the Atlantic City convention of the A. F. of L.," said Hillman, "we (industrial unionists) were in the minority, but a minority of 40 per cent can become a majority in the near future. . . if given a little time."

This was interpreted by other labor leaders to mean that Hillman was counselling men like Lewis against precipitate action. Lewis has hinted before that the United Mine Workers might walk out of the A. F. of L. if that body insists on remaining committed to the craft union idea.

A critical showdown impends. That much seems certain. And while on its face the quarrel may appear to be one over jurisdiction, the movement actually is one of far wider implications.

BINOCULAR VISION
USED BY CAVERN
SERVES AUTO AGE

San Francisco (AP)—"Binocular vision," developed by monkeys and cavernmen in their struggle for survival, is absolutely essential to the modern auto driver.

This is the finding of Dr. Theodore E. Schwartz of Alameda county hospital after a study of eye-sight and its relation to motor accidents.

Defining binocular vision broadly as "depth perception—the ability to judge correctly the distance between objects," Dr. Schwartz said it was coming into its own again after a lapse of centuries.

"Monkeys require it when they leap from limb to limb," he said, "and prehistoric man needed it to judge how far away his enemies were. With civilization the necessity for binocular vision ceased. 'Automobiles have made it necessary again.'"

ROUGH SEAS BESET NUDISTS' PILGRIMAGE

The 65-foot schooner Fleetwood, which left Tampa, Fla., with 40 persons reputedly bent on establishing a nudists' colony in the Virgin Islands, is shown back in port after encountering heavy seas and engine trouble 10 miles out in the Gulf of Mexico. Maurice Allard, leader of the expedition, described the sailing as just a "test voyage." (Associated Press Photo)

STATE BANKING DEPARTMENT
MAKES LIQUIDATION REPORT

banks from January 18, 1937 to January 1, 1936. During this same period $633,675 has been paid to attorneys for service in connection with handling suits and other legal matters in connection with the liquidation of these banks, or an average of $3,426 per bank. The ratio is slightly more than 1 per cent of the total collections.

During the same period from 1927 to January 1, 1936, a total of $194,313 was paid to independent auditors, representing a ratio of about one-third of one per cent of the total collections, the report shows. In this same period a total of $91,977 was paid to departmental auditors, a ratio of about two-tenths of one per cent.

"During the year 1935, the amount to $136,722 or an average per bank of $1,486, or slightly more than one per cent of the total collections," a statement issued by Commissioner Hood, explaining the tabulated statement filed with the Secretary of State. "The amount paid to independent auditors during this same period was $2,236, or an average per bank of $24.31 or about one-fiftieth of one per cent of the total collections. We paid $26,365 to departmental auditors during 1935 or an average of $286 per bank or about three-tenths of one per cent of total collections."

In completing the liquidation of the 40 banks definitely closed up during 1935, the State Banking Department paid 153 dividends and issued 101,605 checks, with only 52 banks left which have not yet been completely liquidated, the report shows. This means that approximately 90 per cent of the closed banks have already been liquidated. Commissioner Hood expressed the belief that the remaining 52 banks can be completely liquidated and closed out during 1936.

"A very few banks may not be finally liquidated this year, requiring us to carry them over into 1937, but I hope this will not be necessary," Commissioner Hood said.

dorsed the record of the Roosevelt administration.

"Where is the walk to take place, how long will it last, in what direction will it lead, and where will it end?"

Did he mean it in the physical sense, and does he plan to attend the convention, oppose such an endorsement, and then walk out to the dramatic accompaniment of cheers and jeers when he loses the fight?

Will he walk up the gangplank of an outgoing steamer, and while away the campaign in silence and sightseeing? If he remains on American soil, will his footsteps lead him only around his familiar haunts in New York state, or along the trail of national political spellbinding?

Will he walk into the Republican party, for the time being, or will he walk at the head of an independent party?

Or, finally, will he merely walk around the block, as he did after the Roosevelt nomination in 1932 and be back in his accustomed place before election day?

Standard definitions of the word "walk" do not help greatly. The term "walk," says the dictionary, is used to denote "the primitive method of locomotion used by the terrestrial vertebrates."

Further down a walk is described as "an advance movement in which one foot is always on the ground."

A walk also is "the act of walking for enjoyment or healthful recreation."

There is listed the "walk of life," meaning "chosen profession or habitual sphere of action;" but Mr. Smith has taken the precaution to declare beforehand, he will not become a habitual walker. He says he expects to die a Democrat.
