SUBSIDY BILL
ENDORSED BY FARM BUREAU

Edward A. O'Neal
Calls on President
Roosevelt

NEW FARM BILL
IS INTRODUCED

Republican Leader
McNary Offers
Measure Drafted by Former Advisor

(By The Associated Press)
Washington, Feb. 11.—Endorsement of the subsidy bill was given President Roosevelt today by leader of the American Farm Bureau Federation as the plan was attacked and defended on the Senate floor.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Federation, and Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, called on the President with Secretary Wallace.

"We are for the bill," O'Neal said.

Coincidentally, a new farm bill was introduced in the Senate by Republican leader McNary providing for increased tariff payment to farmers based on the mosaic allotment plan and use of customs receipts to encourage production of new products and find new markets.

The measure was offered "by request," McNary said. George N. Peek, who resigned recently as the administration executive advisor, had drafted it.

Shortly after its introduction, Senator Hastings (R-De.) attacked on the floor the Smith-Bankhead soil conservation subsidy bill a proposal to "control the farmers themselves and to give jobs to the thousands of Democrats who were employed under the AAA."

Democratic leader Robinson interrupted Hastings to assert the last Republican platform declared for control of agriculture production and the pending AAA replacement bill came within the bounds of the Supreme Court's decision invalidating the adjustment act.

William M. Perkins
Certifying Agent
For Pitt County

To Aid Welfare Superintendent
in Certifying Families Eligible for Work on WPA Program

With the establishment of Certifying services in all but four or five counties, according to an announcement made today by Mrs. W. T. Post, State Commissioner of Public Welfare, the certification of relief clients to WPA was set in motion this week as the field representatives of the Public Welfare Department contacted county by county, the County Superintendents of public welfare and the certifying agent and advised them as to eligibility regulations.

Wm. M. Perkins has been appointed certifying agent for Pitt County to aid Welfare Superintendent, K. T. Futrell, in certifying those families who are eligible for the WPA program.

Although the impression is quite general that with the opening of these certifying agencies in the county welfare departments, all unemployed persons can be certified and immediately assigned to work, the real facts are that only those persons who were actually receiving direct or work relief between May 1st and November 1st, are eligible for certification to the WPA and other Federal programs. This means that the county welfare departments will be able to certify only a few of those now without work.

Families who received surplus commodities only between May 1st and November 1st, are not eligible for certification. To date, no change has been made in this ruling. Families on rural rehabilitation between the two dates, who have been released by Rural Re-settlement are eligible for certification to WPA.

According to instructions issued there will be no CCC referrals until further notice.

Establishment Of Branch
Of Farm Bureau Expected

Committee to Meet
Here Monday To Adopt Plan

Establishment of a North Carolina branch of the American Farm Bureau Federation is generally predicted today following the meeting here yesterday of farmers at which time a resolution was passed instructing a committee to compare the merits of the bureau with other farm organizations existing in various North Carolina counties.

The resolution does not specify what organization to establish, but does call for establishment of some form of union for the farmers.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau, was the principal speaker at the meeting yesterday and explained some of the work of his organization. In addition a number of conferences were held throughout the day with leading farmers from the Eastern section of the state.

Those favoring a branch of the Farm Bureau declare they desire to set up a temporary state organization and then start work in the various counties. Later a permanent state organization will be established.

The meeting set for Monday at 11 o'clock will be open to any group wishing to explain the merits of any organization. It was generally conceded, however, that the committee would favor the Farm Bureau.

It was pointed out that those favoring the Bureau were not fighting any other farm organization, but wished to establish a branch of the Bureau in North Carolina to join other organized states in fighting for farm legislation and in other work.

REPORT PLANE
LOST AT SEA

French Seaplane Reported Missing Over Atlantic

Paris, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The seaplane "Ville De Buenos Aires" of the French Air Lines, was reported today as "missing" over the South Atlantic.

Around the "Ville De Buenos Aires", bound from Natal, Brazil, to Dakar, Africa, were a crew of five and one passenger.

The plane left Natal yesterday morning and was due at Dakar at 10 a. m. (6 a. m. EST) today. Radio communication was lost at 3:50 p. m. yesterday.

At that time the crew reported they were flying over Saint Paul Island, about 500 miles from Brazil with the message: "All well."

TWO AMERICAN
MISSIONARIES
UNDER ARREST

Ordered Held After
Refusing to Leave
Danger Zone

CROWN PRINCE
ORDERS RELEASE

Lack of Communications Prevents Determination if Order Carried Out

(Copyright by the Associated Press)
Addis Ababa, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Two North American missionaries who refused to leave the danger zone have been under arrest in Southwestern Gama Province.

Crown Prince Asfa Wosan was learned today to have ordered their release. Lack of communications with the interior made it impossible to determine immediately whether the local chieftain who made the arrest had complied with the order.

The Rev. Harold Street, one of the captives, has been shackled with a dog chain on his legs. Mrs. Street and her four children were under guard.

The other missionary, Rev. John Trewin, of Toronto, Canada, was also under arrest, but not shackled. Both missionaries are members of the Sudan Interior mission. Dr. T. Lambie, head of the mission in Ethiopia, said both men were well treated.

Before the Italo-Ethiopian war started last October Cornelius Van H. Ewert, now United States Consul General to Ethiopia and Sir Sydney Barton, British minister to Ethiopia, accepted a proposal by the Ethiopian foreign minister that any American citizen of British subject in what was considered a dangerous area could be ordered to go elsewhere.

Government officials described the action of the Gamo chieftain in arresting the two missionaries as "over zealousness" for the safety of the missionaries.

CRAWLS MILES
THROUGH ICE

Man Given Up For Lost Crawls Back
to Civilization

Charlebois, Mich., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Clayton Brown, 25-year-old fisherman given up for lost with two others who swept into Lake Michigan Saturday before a 40-mile sub zero gale, came back today to tell how he refused to die.

Brown crawled on frozen hands and less seven miles across rough ice after Claude Beardsley, 31, his father-in-law and Earl Cunningham, Coast Guard surferman froze to death in the small boat before it jammed into a floe and stuck.

Brown's life was saved, physicians said, by the ministrations of an Indian family into whose cabin he stumbled early last night.

In a hospital here today, Brown told his family of the 48-hour struggle to keep his companions from freezing and how he stumbled shoreward after the boat grounded "because I figured I just as soon die on my feet."

Brown and Beardsley were in a party of fishermen caught on drifting ice. Cunningham saved 3 of the five in the party, but he was swept out into the lake after he got Brown and Beardsley into his row boat.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker.

BALKED: President Roosevelt's latest confidential advice from Europe warn that the British people will not tolerate directly or camouflaged—a face-saving peace between Mussolini and Haile Selassie.

Under the circumstances Great Britain and Geneva will defer application of sanctions which might provoke Il Duce to retaliate with a desperate move on the continent. Military developments in Ethiopia seem to make a League ultimatum unnecessary. The Ethiopians have apparently halted the Italian drive, and within a month the "little rains" are due. Mussolini will have to postpone operations until fall and autumn may find him in a more conciliatory mood.

Simultaneously with receipt of this report the President let it be known that he was in no haste for enactment of the administration's permanent neutrality measure. His spokesmen on Capitol Hill immediately relaxed their efforts to rush it through before February 29 when the existing law expires. If there is to be no European war now the United States can afford to take more care in blueprinting ways and means to avoid conflicts.

This fire engine was among the humans, beasts, machines and whatnot that found Chicago's icy temperature entirely too cold. When a church caught fire, the engine dashed out to fight the blaze. TWO TRAINMEN
BURNED DEATH

Fireman and Engineer Scalded in S. Carolina

Moncks Corner, S. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Engineer C. B. Rutledge and Fireman Paul Etheridge, negro, were burned to death by steam here today when a rod broke on the engine pulling the Atlantic Coast Line southbound Florida special.

Both men lived at Florence. K. M. Teer, railroad agent here, said the accident happened about 5 a. m. and that the train resumed its journey two hours later being pulled by another engine.

Officials of the railroad at Savannah, Georgia, announced the broken rod punctured the boiler, releasing the scalding steam.

No one else was hurt.

Presents Dinner;
Asks Cooperation

Peace Officers and Few Interested Parties Attend Dinner At Which Plans Are Announced

At a dinner given by the Pitt County Alcoholic Control board last night at the Woman's club, plans were explained for further control of liquor in the community and the wholehearted co-operation of officers and citizens was asked.

The dinner was attended by peace officers, representatives of the county commissioners and a few interested parties.

The board announced the purchase of booklets explaining the harmful effects of alcohol and the distribution of the booklets throughout the school of the county to be used in teaching these ill effects.

The meeting was presided over by C. O. Horne, chairman of the liquor board. Short talks were made by Judge F. M. Wooten, F. C. Harding, K. T. Futrell, county welfare officer, J. R. Turnage of Ayden, and Dr. Gilbert R. Combs, local Methodist minister.

Officials of the board urged the citizenry to pledge its co-operation to efforts to better control legalized liquor in the county and to eradicate the bootlegger.

SEEK REVENUE
FINANCE PLAN

Tax Sources to Finance Farm Program Studied

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Tax sources estimated to provide from $500,000,000 to $900,000,000 annually today were reported under consideration by administrative experts for revenue to finance the new farm program and pay the old AAA's obligations.

In canvassing sources for revenue it was learned that these particular fields were receiving attention:

1. Enactment of excise taxes on processing of farm commodities to raise about $460,000,000.

2. Enactment of other taxes to raise about $230,000,000 to $250,000,000.

3. Enactment of retroactive excess profit or special income taxes to recover from processor the $200,000,000 in impounded taxes returned to manufacturers under the Supreme Court ruling in the rice millers case. Which or what combination of these three would be selected finally was not known.

Authoritative quarters said the administration probably would center its attention upon the excise taxes. The recommendations were reported to be prepared for use of congressional committees.

The excise taxes following closely in form the now invalidated taxes were reported designed to become a permanent levy to serve as the "Farmers' Tariff" to meet the cost of the soil conservation program.

While scores of suggestions concerning excise-tax rates were said to have been discarded and while the administration was reported to have made no final decision, informed sources said the excises favored would include more commodities than the old processing taxes and would be levied at considerably lower rates.

DECLARES WILL LEGALLY MADE

Harvard Professor Upholds Validity of Contested Will

Carthage, N. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—W. Barton Leach, Harvard law professor, who drafted Mrs. Elva Statler Davidson's will, testified today in the suit over its legality that H. Bradley Davidson, Jr., her husband, had nothing to do with its making.

"It was I who induced her to make a will, but she used her own judgment as to the bequests," Leach testified.

By agreement of attorneys, the contest is based solely on the question of undue influence with no attack to be made on the grounds of mental incompetence.

Poster relatives of the Statler hotel fortune heiress are contesting the will, contending it was made under undue influence by Davidson who was named the principal beneficiary of her $560,000 estate.

The tall, slender, slightly bald Harvard professor, who since Mrs. Davidson's mysterious death a year ago, has become Davidson's attorney, detailed how he became financial advisor to the foster daughter of the late E. N. Statler.

Under the questioning of attorneys for the caveators, he insisted that she fixed the bequests in the contested will without influence from anyone to his knowledge.

Questioned by J. M. Broughton, attorney for the caveators, Leach admitted he had warned the young heiress against marrying Davidson.

MUTUAL PACT
IS CALLED UP

French - Russian Assistance Treaty Before Deputies

Paris, Feb. 11.—(AP)—France's mutual assistance treaty with Soviet Russia intended to protect the two nations against any German attacks, was called up for debate in the Chamber of Deputies today on the question of ratification.

Approval of the pact was considered generally a foregone conclusion.

Rightist deputies, however, indicated they would attack the treaty with Socialists acceptance of the pact depending on assurance that France would not be obligated to go to war automatically if Russia were attacked.

The fact, a virtual military alliance reuniting the World War allies, promises France the instant aid of the great Soviet army of more than a million men in the event of a Nazi attack.

Similarly, France's blue-clad polis would cross the Rhine to fight if Adolf Hitler sent his troops against Russia.

HULL SAYS HE

IN CRITICISM

State Department
Stays Clear of Pittman Speech

HOUSE MEMBERS

Backers of Peacetime Record Appropriation
for Army Seek Vote by Tonight

Washington, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The State Department pointedly held aloof today from anti-Japanese criticism in a Congress where advocates of a stronger army and navy are demanding quick action to bolster national defenses.

Soon after Sen. Pittman (D. N.) had charged, and Japanese spokesmen had denied, that Japan's policy is a threat to America's interest, Sec. Hull stated that his department was not responsible for the Pittman speech in which the chairman of the Senate Foreign Committee advocated increased naval and air strength.

"There has been, as regard his speech, no speculation or collaboration between him and me," Hull told inquiring newsmen.

Meanwhile, House backers of a peace time record appropriation for the army sought to obtain a vote by tonight. The measure providing total military expenditures of $338,782,232, was introduced yesterday. It was not, however, accompanied by criticism of any nations.

In Tokyo newspapers played up the Pittman speech and Foreign Office spokesmen declared signatures of the nine-power treaty had no right to review Japanese action because of what she has done in Manchuria or China.

The newspaper Asahi quoted a high official as saying: "Japan is seeking to establish peace in the Far East and never intends to violate the open door principle nor to claim a monopoly on the Orient."

DOWELL AFTER
AUDITOR POST

Regarded As Strong
Candidate for State
Office

Raleigh, Feb. 11.—Willard L. Dowell, secretary of the North Carolina Merchants Association, who has just announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for State Auditor, is regarded in most circles here as being a really formidable candidate against State Auditor Baxter Durham, although one other candidate, Charles W. Miller of Asheville, has already announced as another candidate for the same office. But the prevailing opinion here is that the real race will be between Durham and Dowell, since Miller is an admitted newcomer to state politics.

That Durham will be a difficult candidate to defeat, is readily agreed. He has the advantage of being one of the "ins" and of having been elected State Auditor to that post four times and now entering up his sixteenth year in that office. Durham is regarded as having served the state faithfully and well during his long period of office and repeated attempts to defeat him in the past have failed. The Democratic voters have become so accustomed of voting for the re-nomination of existing state officials, with the exception of Governor, for so long that it is conceded to be very difficult to defeat any of the old line office holders, such as Durham.

The Dowell supporters maintain that the election this time is going to prove an exception, however, and the very fact that Durham has held the office of State Auditor for 16 years is going to react in favor of Dowell this time, since many voters are already taking the view that Durham has held the office long enough. It is also pointed out that Dowell has a very wide acquaintance over the state, extending into every county and town, that his contact with members of past legislatures are of the best and that he is credited with having as good political sense as there is in the state. It is also understood that Dowell has already received promises of extensive support from groups which for some time have not been greatly pleased at Durham's purported non-cooperative attitude towards the present and past administrations. Accordingly, the prevailing belief in most circles here is that Dowell is going to give Durham a hard run this time.

MANY GUESTS ATTEND CLUB

Prominent Visitors on Program of Rotary Meeting

By WYATT BROWN

Speakers took the time of the Rotary Club last night at the regular weekly meeting but their charming guests—Rotarians' daughters who are attending East Carolina Teachers College—took the eyes. Miss May Johnson Eare of Ayden, introduced her college mates: Naomi Gaskins of Greenville; Ronie Dickinson of Wilson; Cora Bobb Smith of Ayden; Melrose Gardner of Dunn.

Then Miss Eare introduced "the finest daddy in the world," her father, Thad Eare of Ayden. Mr. Eare spoke briefly along two lines. First he called attention of his hearers to the opportunity and duty of adults to help the young people of our communities to find what they fit into or would like to do as their life's work. Next he indicated as worth serious consideration, a matter coming up for balloting at the next general election—the increasing of the number of justices of the Supreme Court of North Carolina from five to seven, and a homestead exemption of $1,000 from taxation. The exemption he said would work more to the disadvantage of towns than rural areas and in Greenville might result in an increase of the tax rate.

Next, Dr. Ralph McDonald, who was guest of the Club, spoke for a moment epitomizing his remarks with his platform stated in rhyme: "Here's to the death of the State Machine. It's the darndest thing I've ever seen. While it grows fat, the people grow lean. To H— I say, with the State machine."

Also guest of the Club was E. Y. Floyd who has done so much in the tobacco program. In a few words he expressed his delight at the co-operation of the public with the farmers the last two years. He recounted how everyone used to advise farm boys not to stay on the farm because it meant bare subsistence as a living. But the farm promises satisfactory life in the future with improved living conditions and satisfactory income provided the farm organizations and legislature cooperate fully with a friendly supreme court who will not kill satisfactory legislation. Besides the College students and speakers and other guests of the evening were Fred Johnston of Catawagus, New York; J. W. Goodman, of Raleigh, assistant to Dean Schaub of State College; J. B. Webb, who has come to Greenville to take charge of Harvey's Dairy, and Paul Waldrop of New Bern; John Winstead won the attendance prize given by Sam White. Carl Adams had charge of the program for the Club Service Committee which has Kinchen Cobb as chairman. Bill Lee, president of the club, presided.

Talks To Parents

FORCED FAITH

By Brooke Peters Church
Mr. and Mrs. Smith had attended church on Sunday morning all their lives. When their first baby came, however, they were faced with a problem. There was no one to leave him with. So for a few years they took turns. Mr. Smith going one Sunday, Mrs. Smith the next. When the baby was four, however, they decided that he was old enough to go with them, and so they resumed their old routine, with the small boy between them. For the first year or two all went well. The child was so small that it seemed all right for him to sleep through a large part of the service. But when he was about six, he gave up the sleeping habit. Bored with the familiar routine of which he could understand very little, he began to be restless and fidgety, and by his behavior to disturb everyone about him.

Finally he protested openly at going to church at all, and every Sunday staged a violent scene just as his parents set out.

The average church service is not adapted to children, and rightly so. It is supposed to give help and inspiration to adults, and if it is to appeal to them, it is necessarily above the heads of the young.

A total of 2,414 coyotes were killed in 54 California counties during 1935.

Rev. Leylan Cook At Vesper Services.
"Live, and Live a Spiritual Life" was the advice left to the students at the college by W. C. A. vesper services, by Rev. Leylan Cook pastor of the Christian Church of Kinston, Sunday night.

Students come to college, he said to store up their brains with wisdom and expand their mental capacities, but he asked, is this all? To live, he pointed out, is the most solemn and dignified thing that we have before us and we must help do all we can to develop our spiritual natures as these are the bases of the lives we lead.

In every soul, he continued, there is some sense that gives to us the consciousness of helpfulness and nothing will stabilize life quicker than spiritual activity.

He gave as an illustration an anchor being dropped into the sea, stating that it has no value unless one end is deep in the sea and the other securely fastened to the ship.

"Believe in God," he advised, "strive to enter in and peace will be in your soul."

"Dream of an Angel" was played as a piano solo by Miss Mary Evelyn Thompson.

4:00 to 5:30—Mrs. R. T. Burnette, Mrs. G. C. Smith and Miss Helen Burnett will entertain at tea at the home of Mrs. Burnette, honoring Mrs. Robert Troy Burnette, a recent bride.

Junior Woman's Club.
The regular meeting of the Junior Woman's Club was held in the club house on Friday, February 7th, at 3:30 with Miss Agnes Wadlington, Miss Elizabeth Smith and Mrs. Burt Stancil as hostesses. Mrs. Douglas West spoke to the club on noted southern writers.

During a brief business session the club voted to cooperate with the Senior club for a garden club meeting, having an out-of-town guest speaker. The nominating committee for the new officers was appointed.

The hostesses served spiced tea and sandwiches during the social period which was enjoyed by everyone.—Reported.

Third Street P. T. A.
"Major Bowes' Amateurs" broadcast from station ABC—Always Be Careful—gave a delightful program at the Parent-Teacher meeting held last night in the Third Street School. Under the able tutelage of Mrs. Robeson the first grade gave a most instructive little play on "Safety First," and every first grader, in song and reading, gave a lesson on "Stop, Look and Listen." These unable to attend would really have been proud of each child, ably introduced by "Major Bowes" (Tommy Delmer).

At a short business session Mrs. Charles Horne read the minutes of the previous meeting, and Mr. Waldrop gratefully acknowledged the response to an appeal for clothing for needy children. There is still a need for clothes, and any donation will be deeply appreciated. Mr. Waldrop urged all parents to attend these meetings, so there may be closer cooperation between teacher and parent.—Reported.

Interpretation of 'Dover Road.'
Dr. Claud Simpson's interpretation of "Dover Road," which the author dubs "an absurd comedy," was decidedly effective and enjoyable. This program on Monday evening was the first of a series of drama readings to be given this winter at Ragsdale Hall. The local branch of the A. A. U. W., for the third year, is sponsoring these and invites all who are interested in contemporary plays to hear them.

The situation in "Dover Road" is unusual, to say the least. Mr. Latimer, a middle-aged Englishman with unlimited wealth and time at his disposal, tries to keep young people who are unhappy in their first marriage from making second mistakes. With his staff he has worked out an elaborate and effective system of securing names, arranging car trouble, misplacing baggage, missing the vessel, and enforcing visits at his "sort of hotel" while the young people become better acquainted and ponder over the question "How do you know you will be happy ever after?" The week of probation has varying effects on the young elopers; but the each-to-the-other revelation reduces the danger of failure.

The complications of Leonard and Ann, who have just arrived, and of Leonard's wife Eustacia and her lover Nicholas, who are near the end of their visit, are highly diverting; and the lines are delightfully clever.

At the close of the program Miss Lois Grigsby, leader of the group, asked that everyone watch the daily paper for detailed announcements concerning the three other readings.

Six More Persons Are Enrolled For Scouting Courses
Lieutenant Lester Jones and Corporal L. L. Jackson of Highway Patrol Give Instructions

J. B. Bland, Senior Patrol Leader of the Boy Scout Training Troop, announced this morning the best attendance yet at the First Aid and Leathercraft training courses last night. Six men came for the first time last night and will be the last who will be eligible for the Standard Red Cross First Aid Certificate.

After the Troop and Patrol meetings the class as a whole started on the Leathercraft work. Many of the men are working on lanyards, key and watch fobs, etc. While the leathercraft course was being instructed by Scout Executive Sigward, Dr. E. L. Henderson and Asst. Executive Ralph Mingo gave a brief review of the First Aid work to the men that came in for the first time or had missed a session.

Scoutmaster Jake Skinner expressed his appreciation to Lt. Lester Jones, Instructor of First Aid for bringing his competent assistant, Corporal Jackson of the Highway Patrol, to help in the instruction last night.

The first aid subject covered last night was dressings and bandages. The points to be remembered are: Never use absorbent cotton, adhesive tape, coplaster, collodion, or similar preparations over a wound. A wound must be covered with a dressing before a bandage is applied. In handling material to be used for dressing, it must not come in contact with the fingers or any substance that is not sterile. Material may be sterilized with a hot iron over open fire or with a match by scorching it. The triangular bandage may be used for the head, foot, hand, hip, chest, face, back of head, or for an arm sling. It may be folded into the cravat and be used for the ear, eye, neck, arm, hand or sprained ankle. Four tailed bandage, which is roller bandage split part way on both ends, making four tails are especially good for nose and jaw bandages.

New men last night were: Graham Coward, Ayden; D. G. Hart, Stokes; A. H. Windham, Harry Bruce Smith, S. A. Robinson and Francis Brooks of Greenville.

Progress Made In Mining Operations In North Carolina

Interest Centers On Gold, Nickel, Talc, Hemite and Feldspar, State Geologist Says

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Feb. 11.—Thousands of dollars are being expended in the development of mineral deposits in North Carolina and during the last several months interest has been centered on gold, nickel, talc, hemite, and feldspar, State Geologist H. J. Bryson said today.

Options on approximately 2,000 acres of nickel land have been obtained in Jackson and Haywood counties by a group of prospective developers, who have called on foreign engineers to visit the property to pass judgment on its possibilities, Bryson said.

Considerable progress at various gold properties in the state has also been made. Developments, including the erection of recovery plants and prospecting activities are underway on eight properties.

Among the various developments in gold mining reported by Mr. Bryson is the construction of the first flotation mill to be erected in North Carolina at Charlotte by the Rudisill Mining Corporation. Another small flotation mill was reported erected by the Cabarrus Mining company on the Rocky river.

Again we call your atten-

local business houses are co-

Dr. L. R. Meadows spoke words of wisdom to the 3,500 farmers gathered in the campus building at the college yesterday when he declared that the Supreme Court or no other agency could set aside the laws of supply and demand and that the best solution of the farmers' problems was to keep their production down to the point of just meeting
the demand. Resolutions adopted by the farmers' mass meeting promised adherence to a reduced acreage program for this year for their tobacco, cotton and peanut crops. If every farmer in the tobacco belt will stick to his determination to hold down his production
this year he will receive fair prices, but if a farmer gets the idea that he should increase because others are reducing, so as to make some extra money for himself, he is off on the wrong track,
for if many of the farmers
try the same tactics the crop will be much larger than is needed, with the result that prices will be below the cost of production. We have said before and we say again, that the only way for the farmers is to see to it that they produce no more tobacco this year than is actually needed by the manufacturing companies.

"WHO WANTS WAR?"

In the whole world there is probably not one man person who left alone wants war. The very great majority of us stand to lose all that we hold most dear. Yet all we seem capable of is to sit around doing nothing and watch with sheeplike eyes the slaughter creeping nearer.

THE BOOMERANG CLUE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS: Frankie Derwent
and Bobby Jones agree to meet candidates for the murder of Alexander Pritchard—or Alon Carstairs, as Frankie is convinced that the name is properly. One is Roger Bassington-French, who now seems too frank and charming, to have done it. Another is Dr. Nicholson, who runs a drug store in the neighborhood, and seems very strange.
Bobby, disguised as Frankie's chauffeur, has explored Nicholson's place, and found there a frightened woman who told him that on a photograph in the dead man's pocket.

Chapter 23

CONSULTATION

"MR. HAWKINS"
"Yes," said Bobby, "his voice slightly muffled owing to a large mouthful of bacon and eggs."

"You're wanted on the telephone," Bobby took a hasty gulp of coffee, wiped his mouth and rose. The telephone was in a small dark passage.
He took up the receiver.

"Hello," said Frankie's voice.

"Hello, Frankie," said Bobby in-cautiously.

"This is Lady Frances Derwent speaking," said the voice coldly. "Is that Hawkins?"

"Yes, my lady."

"I shall want the car at ten o'clock
to take me up to London."

"Very good, your ladyship," Bobby replaced the receiver.

"When does one say 'my lady' and when does one say 'your ladyship'?"
he cogitated. "I ought to know, but I don't. It's the sort of thing that will lead a real chauffeur or butler to catch me out."

At the other end, Frankie hung up the receiver and turned to Roger Bas-sington-French.

"It's a nuisance," she observed lightly, "to have to go up to London today. All owing to Father's fuss."

"Still," said Roger, "you'll be back
this evening?"

"Oh, yes."

"I'd half thought of asking you if you'd give me a lift to town," said
Roger carelessly.

Frankie paused for an infinitesimal second before her answer—
given with an apparent readiness.

"Why, of course," she said.

"But on second thought I don't think I will go up to-day," was Roger's answer. "Henry's looking even odder than usual. Somehow I don't very much like leaving Sylvia alone with him."

"I know," said Frankie.

"Are you driving yourself?" asked Roger casually as they moved away from the telephone.

"Yes, but I shall take Hawkins.
I've got some shopping to do as well and it's a nuisance if you're driving yourself—you can't leave the car anywhere."

"Yes, of course."

He said no more, but when the car
came around Bobby, at the wheel
very stiff and correct of demeanor, he came out on the doorstep to see her off.

"Good-bye," said Frankie.

Under the circumstances she did not think of holding out a hand, but Roger took hers and held it a minute.

"You are coming back?" he said
with curious insistence.

Frankie laughed. "Of course. I only meant good-bye till this evening."

"Don't have any more accidents."
"I'll let Hawkins drive if you like."

SHE sprang in beside Bobby, who touched his cap. The car moved off down the drive, Roger still standing on the steps looking after it.

"Bobby," said Frankie, "do you think it possible that Roger might fall for me?"

"Has he?" inquired Bobby.

"Well, I just wondered."

"I expect you know the symptoms pretty well," said Bobby. But he spoke absently.

Frankie shot him a glance. "Has anything happened?" she asked.

"Yes, it has, Frankie, I've found the original of the photograph!"

"You mean—the one—the one you talked so much about—the one that was in the dead man's pocket?"

"Yes."

"Bobby! I've got a few things to tell you, but nothing to this. Where did you find her?"

Bobby jerked his head back over his shoulder. "In Dr. Nicholson's nursing home."

"Tell me."

Carefully and meticulously Bobby described the events of the previous night. Frankie listened breathlessly.

"Then we are on the right track," she said. "And Dr. Nicholson is mixed up in all this! Bobby, I'm afraid of that man."

"What is he like?"

"Oh! big and forceful—and he watches you. Very intently behind glasses. And you feel he knows all about you."

"I have no more definite idea of what can be done than anyone else,
but there is one great latent power, unused, capable of anything—the protective instinct of any she-thing for her young. A gentle tabby cat mother. The most chilled-steel act of courage of my experience was that of a mother mouse. Years ago in my attic at the top of an old trunk filled with clothes, I found

"When did you meet him?"

"He came to dinner."

"She described the dinner party and Dr. Nicholson's insistent dwelling on the details of her 'accident.'"

"I felt he was suspicious," she endowed him.

"It's certainly queer his going into details like that," said Bobby. "What do you think is at the bottom of all this business, Frankie?"

"Well, I'm beginning to think that your suggestion of a done gang isn't such a bad guess after all."

"With Dr. Nicholson as the head of the gang?"

"Yes. This is a big home business would be a very good cloak for that sort of thing."

"That seems plausible enough,"
agreed Bobby.

"I haven't told you yet about Henry Bassington-French."

Bobby listened attentively to her description of her host's idiosyncrasies. "His wife doesn't suspect?"

"In sure she doesn't."

"What is she like? Intelligent?"

"I never thought exactly. No. I suppose she isn't very. And yet in some ways she seems quite shrewd. A frank, pleasant woman."

"And our Bassington-French?"

"There I'm puzzled," said Frankie slowly. "Do you think, Bobby, that just possibly we might be all wrong
about him?"

"Nonsense!" said Bobby. "We worked it all out and decided that he must be the villain of the piece."

"Because of the photograph?"

"Because of the photograph." No one else could have changed that photograph for the other."

"I know," said Frankie. "But that one incident is all that we have against him."

BOBBY looked at her coldly. "Did you say that he had fallen for you; or that you had fallen for him?"
he inquired politely.

Frankie flushed. "Don't be so silly, Bobby. I just wondered if there couldn't be some innocent explanation—that's all."

"I don't see that there can be.
Especially now that we've actually found the girl in the neighborhood."

That seems to elude matters. If we only had some inkling as to who the dead man was—"

"Oh, but I have. I'm nearly sure that the murdered man was somebody called Alan Carstairs."

"You know," said Bobby, "we really are getting on. Let's spread out our facts and see what sort of job
we can make of it."

He paused for a moment and the car slackened speed as though in sympathy.

First, we'll assume that you are right about Alan Carstairs. He certainly fulfils the conditions. Alan Carstairs comes down to Staverley with these people—what did you say their name was—"

"Rivingtons. There's a possible channel of inquiry there. In fact I think we ought to follow it up."

"We will. Very well, Carstairs comes down to Staverley with the Rivingtons. Now, is there anything in that?"

"You mean did he get them to bring him down here deliberately?"

"That's what I mean. Or was it just a casual chance? Was he brought down here by them, and did he then come across the girl by accident just as I did? I presume he knew her before or he wouldn't have had her photograph on him."

"The alternative being," said Frankie thoughtfully, "that he was already on the track of Nicholson
and his gang."

"And used the Rivingtons as a means of getting to this part of the world naturally?"

"That's quite a possible theory," said Frankie. "He may have been on the track of this gang."

"Or simply on the track of the girl?"

"The girl?"

"Yes. She may have been abducted.
He may have come over to England to find her."

"Well, but if he had tracked her down to Staverley why should he go off to Wales?"

"Obviously, there's a lot we don't know yet," said Bobby.

"Evans," said Frankie thoughtfully.
"We don't get any clues as to Evans."

They were both silent for a moment or two. Then Frankie woke up to her surroundings.

"My dear, we're actually at Putney
Hill. It seems like five minutes.
Where are we going and what are we doing?"

"That's for you to say. I don't even know why we've come up to town."

"The journey to town was only an excuse for getting a talk with you."

Important eastern leaders have been avoiding commitments in the expectation that the Senator from Idaho would back out of the race.

For a while they were not too frightened at the prospect that he might win the nomination. But his recent flirting with inflationary movements has scared them. They are drawing closer to the Kansas candidate if only to build up walls
the Senator cannot hurdle.

Instead of going to the convention unpledged, New York may set up a favorite son who will hold the line—Reps. Wadsworth or Snell. New Jersey may boost ex-Senator Walker E. Edge, who is angling for second place. And money bags which might have been tapped for a bet on Mr. Borah are tightening up against him. The Senator concedes ruefully that lack of funds will restrict his pre-convention troyouts to demonstrations for delegates-at-large. He can't afford to go after the district term.

HOMES: Senator Wagner is quietly revamping his low-cost housing program. He is attempting to make it more workable legally and financially.

He has taken the Supreme court's hint in the AAA decision as a guide
in framing a slum-clearance measure. Under his new plan the government would turn over money and management to local authorities, thereby hoping to stay constitutional. Private 80 per cent by the government. On a $5,000 home a worker must put up $1,000 under this system, and few can afford that down payment. So the new idea is to increase the mortgage insurance to 90 per cent.

A recent walk through the East side of New York convinced the Senator of the need for federal aid.
"On one side of the street," he said, "were fine apartment. And on the other were tenements where the bedrooms have no windows, no light, no air. I know—I used to live in one of them years ago. It isn't right."

GENTLY: Secretary Roper has at last set out to break the agreement which Secretary Hull bosses commercial attaches in foreign countries.

President Roosevelt originally imposed the restriction so as to do away with the old, high-pressure sales methods which had earned Uncle Sam ill will abroad. He required that all efforts to develop markets or assist American manufacturers be supervised by consular representatives. Mr. Roper argues that this roundabout system causes delay and handicaps the fight for foreign trade. Many business men have complained against delays.

Recalling the fate of Ray Moley
and George Peek when they clashed with Mr. Hull, Secretary Roper is moving quietly and diplomatically. The negotiations are being carried on by Under Secretary

Greenville And New Bern To Clash In City Tonight

Game to Be the First Played Here in Several aDys

The Bears of New Bern High will come out of their winter quarters in the local high school auditorium tonight at 7:30, when they clash with the boys' quint of Greenville High School.

Tonight's game will not only be the first game to be played here in several days, but will also be the first the local basketballers have played at all during the past week or so due to bad weather.

The Highs' rest has given them considerable opportunity to acquaint themselves to new playing tactics and polish up their old ones. Coach Reynolds May aid today that the boys under his charge had really been through the mill, and were equipped to give any competitive high school a real fight in the field of basketball. The public is giving the local High group commendation that any team or any of its members should be proud of.

Supl. J. H. Rose stated today that he was extremely proud of the fine support the local public has shown in basketball, and stressed the point that his hopes would always be bright for continued support from the basketball lovers of this city.

Large crowds are expected to attend, due to the fact that they will be expecting a real basketball game which they will see. The action starts promptly at 7:30 o'clock and every member of the high school faculty and student body are anxious to meet you there in the local gymnasium, to see the Greensies out to victory.

Greenville All-Stars Trim New Bern Five By Count of 70-19

The local All Star basket ball team defeated Newbern Monday night by the score of 70 to 19. At the half time the locals were leading 43 to 6. Reynolds May, with 25 points and Boley Parley with 13 points led Greenville while Loekey with 9 points was best for the visitors.

Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the high school gym the locals will meet the strong Williamston quint. Williamston defeated Greenville in the first game of the season and the boys are out for revenge so this will probably be the best game of the season.

Greenville has entered the Bethel all star tournament which will be held February 20, 21, and 22. Bethel is one of the outstanding teams in this section having lost only two games this season. Greenville defeated them 27 to 25 earlier in the season.

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER
New York—That was a dramatic dispatch that flashed across the wires from California the other day the one that told so bluntly and factually that John Gilbert was dead.

Of all major stars, he probably cared less for New York than any other, yet strangely enough it was his visits here that parenthesized his greatest success.

Gilbert came to New York in 1925 for the premiere of his great war picture, "The Big Parade," the vehicle that lifted him to Olympus and made him a god to women. It was first of the super-dazzle cinema premieres on Broadway, and he attended it with the exotically beautiful Leatrice Joy, then already divorced from him.

Even then, the actor's quick nervous energy bespoke the temperament that sometimes threatened to overwhelm him apart. His home in New York was the Algonquin, favorite hostelry of so many stage and screen stars. This too, was the favorite stopping place of Paul Bern before he went to Hollywood to become famous and to die violently by his own hand.

Perhaps you recall the news photographs of Bern's wedding to glamorous Jean Harlow. If so, you'll recall seeing Gilbert's picture, too, with Norma Shearer and Irving Thalberg. He and Bern were friends long before one became a star and the other an important executive.

When John Gilbert came back to New York again, it marked the end of silent pictures and also the end of John Gilbert, but no one realized it just then. Having swept the much-sought Ina Claire off her feet with a whirlwind courtship and married her, the actor tore through Manhattan with two steamship tickets in one hand and his bride in the other.

At that moment, in tin cans, a singularly unfortunate motion picture was being shipped to every part of the country. It was Gilbert's first talkie and it wasn't exhibited until it was in Europe.

Of such a sensitiveness that adverse criticism always brought extreme anguish to him, Gilbert's honeymoon went bloomy when cables tersely informed him that his picture was a flop. He spent a small fortune burning up the transatlantic wires offering to remake the film without pay if the studio would withdraw it.

But the damage was done. His fame, like a gallow's plank, was cut from under him by one bad picture.

Thereafter the dark and impetuous Gilbert became one of the real tragedies of Hollywood. He grew aloof, retreating deeper into the Lone Wolf role which, except for brief splurges, marked his life until the end. Various impresarios invited him to Broadway to do a play but he refused, preferring rather the loneliness and solitude of his great empty house that sat between Hollywood and the ocean.

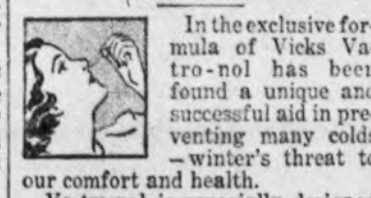

He never really gave up hope that eventually he would come back in the old Gilbert manner, but as time went on and his star grew dimmer he must have known that the jig was up.

WORK ON PLAN REFUND BONDS

State Treasurer and Governor Working
Out Method

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Feb. 11.—State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson and Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus are working on a plan to refund some of the state's long term refunding bonds that will save the state millions of dollars in interest alone, State Treasurer Johnson said today.

They are proceeding under a law which they wrote jointly and had passed by the 1935 general assembly. Neither the law nor the plan was suggested in any way by Dr. Ralph W. McDonald, one of the candidates for Governor, who has recently been suggesting the wide-spread refunding of the state's indebtedness, Johnson said.

"The Governor and I discussed the possibility of refunding some of the state's debt long before the 1935 general assembly met and we worked out the law and had it passed before Dr. McDonald knew anything about it. In fact, I cannot recall that he even mentioned any state refunding operations until after the general assembly adjourned and he became a candidate for Governor," Johnson said.

"The thing that limits any extensive refunding at this time is the absence of any appropriation for this purpose, since we cannot use any other funds, even a surplus, for buying up long term bonds at lower rates of interest. But at the present time we do not even have a surplus, or will not have by the end of this fiscal year. So that is out of the question."

"But we are trying to work out a plan whereby we can use about $500,000 a year, probably from the sinking fund, with which to buy at market prices some of our 5 per cent highway bonds maturing in 1960, and then sell equivalent amounts at about 2.50 instead of at 5 per cent. Even on such a small scale as this an buying up only about $500,000 worth of these long-term bonds a year, we can save about $150,000 a year in interest alone and eventually save millions between now and 1960. Later on, if the general assembly will supply the funds, we can buy up still more bonds and save an even larger amount."

The Kansas broomcorn yield of 1935 was more than 53,000 tons the best harvest since 1932.

A seven year plan of technical education for Great Britain, to cost $60,000,000, has been announced by Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Education.

New York Cotton

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Futures opened barely steady, five to nine points decline on lower Liverpool cables under foreign selling. There was a further trade demand for March contracts on the call, however, and after initial orders had been executed the market was steadied. March sold up to 11.30 or four points net higher while later months at midday were two to five points net lower.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The stock market continued to reach for higher levels today in exceptionally trading. Led by the steels, advances ranged from fractions to two or more points. Numerous new five-year highs were recorded. Virtually all groups participated in the forward movement. The market, backward at first, later developed strength along with rails, utilities, mines and specialties. The ticker tape was frequently behind floor dealings. The late tone was fairly strong. Transactions approximated 3,200,000 shares.

ALL JEWS FLEE ROTH, GERMAN HOPES CENTER

Roth, Bavaria — (AP) — Julius Streicher's anti-Semitic campaign has chased the last Jew out of this city of 5,500. The chief trade of this suburb of Nurnberg is in hops, and it has been almost exclusively in the hands of Jews. Streicher's daily "Fraenkische Tageszeitung" observes: "The city of Roth near Nurnberg, once a Marxist stronghold, in which Jews and Jews' knaves had much to say, has been freed of Jews, thanks to the work of enlightenment of our leader, Julius Streicher."

STOCKINGS FOR SANDALS HAVE PAINTED TOENAILS
London (AP)— Novel stockings for sandal wear have scarlet toenails painted on them. Embroidered anklets or medallions are other novel stocking ornaments. A pair of sports stockings is decorated with a dice design.

Art For Stomach's Sake Boomed By Paris Barter

A live dog for a painting of still life was the bargain struck by this Paris artist. Now all he has to do is to trade the dog for a sack of potatoes.

Paris (AP)—French artists have a salon where they swap "still lifes" for bowls of lively goldfish or "sur-realist" for real beefsteaks. There's nothing new about the salon except an increase in popularity. M. Henry Ramey, an artist inventor, founded it four years ago. Last year it did an exchange business amounting to about 800,000 francs, or $55,000, and this year it hopes to do better than that. Grocers beat painters down from six cans of peas to a can of sardines for a miniature and bakers promise to deliver a long loaf of grade A bread daily for a month in exchange for an etching. The most popular payment is wine. "We're eliminating the monetary taint on art," said M. Ramey, helping a fellow-artist drive a bargain for a sack of potatoes as payment for a nude.

BUDDHIST TEMPLE PLANNED TO ENLIGHTEN LONDONERS
London.—(AP)—London is to have its first Buddhist temple. The site has not been chosen, but plans are awaiting approval by the London county council, and a Bhikkh, or priest, is on his way from the east to join the Buddhist association here. "It is not our desire or intention to convert British people to the Buddhist faith," an official of the association said. "The temple is to be built only to make our teachings more widely known. It is planned to build the temple in Hindu style, with ornaments and furnishings to be brought from Ceylon and elsewhere."

BUSY BASKETEER
Lexington, Ky., (AP)— "Andy" Anderson, captain of the University of Kentucky basketball team, doesn't find time hanging heavy on his hands. He gets up his studies, plays with the team and leads one of Lexington's most popular 12-piece orchestras at a night club.

Important parliamentary debates in future will be broadcast from the New Zealand house of representatives.

Razor blades, oak leaves, nails, valentines, snapshots, matches, street car transfers, and bridge tables were found to be used for book-marks by St. Louis public library readers.

A federal soil conservation official says three-fourths of the topsoil and some sub-soil have been lost through erosion on more than 3,000,000 acres in California.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)
