BOTH PARTIES GET READY FOR NEXT PRIMARY

President and Senator Borah Carrying on Campaigns

LEADERS OF GOP ASSAIL NEW DEAL

Democrats Move Quietly About Business of Crystalizing Conventions Plans

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The aftermath of political fires, kindled on Lincoln Day by both major parties, the new dealers and their forces warmed up today for impending primary and election struggles.

While Republicans led by former President Hoover assailed the administration, the New Deal leadership moved quietly about the business of crystalizing plans for the June convention at Philadelphia. It was said Senator Robinson might be selected as the "keynote" speaker.

Evidence that the President and Senator Borah were carrying their campaigns for convention delegates into new primary states greeted political leaders as they turned away from the wave of Lincoln Day oratory.

Statements that Roosevelt-pledged delegates would be entered in the primary in Wisconsin and Pennsylvania came from Democratic leaders in those states while Borah forces laid the groundwork for the campaign for the Republican nomination in Oregon, Wisconsin and probably in other states.

That the President will be entered in the Pennsylvania primary was disclosed by Senator Guiley, Democratic national committeeman of that state. Despite reports some time ago that Mayor McNair of Pittsburgh would oppose the President, it was forecast there would be no opposition to the Roosevelt delegates.

Senator Moore (D-N. J.) said a Roosevelt delegation also would be nominated by the Democrats in New Jersey but probably would not be formally pledged.

EFFORTS FAIL DISCOVER BODY

No Trace Found of Zebulon Man Believed Drowned

Raleigh, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Efforts to find some trace of Henry K. Baker, wealthy Zebulon farmer, believed to have drowned in the Neuse river six miles from here Monday night continued without avail.

Class Everts, deep sea diver, of Norfolk, Va., was brought here yesterday by Baker's family but after surveying the scene he said he could be of no help and returned home today.

The theory that Baker was robbed, murdered and then thrown into the stream was openly advanced by some, but Coroner L. M. Waring and other Wake County officials continued to express the opinion the man fell into the stream while in a dazed condition after his automobile struck an abutment over the river.

Brother Summoned Due Condition Of Secretary Swanson

Member of Cabinet Develops Pleurisy Following Fall Which Resulted in Broken Rib

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Secretary Swanson who is ill of pleurisy at the naval hospital was said at 11 a. m. to be in "a serious but not hopeless condition."

In a bulletin issued at the hour, Capt. C. G. Thomas, commandant of the hospital said "the secretary is better now than at 6 o'clock this morning."

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Secretary Swanson who suffered a fractured rib in a fall at his home a week ago, has developed pleurisy and a brother has been summoned to his bedside at the naval hospital.

At the hospital it was said Mrs. Swanson summoned H. C. Swanson, brother of the 74-year-old secretary of the navy from his home in Danville, Va.

Swanson's condition was described as serious but not immediately alarming. His age was a factor that caused some worry.

FARM LEADER

J. E. WINSLOW

PRAISE WORK J. E. WINSLOW

Considered One of Most Prominent Farmers in State

Raleigh, Feb. 13.—Agricultural extension workers of State College consider J. E. Winslow, of Pitt County, one of the most prominent and public spirited farmers of North Carolina.

Although busy with the operation of several farms and a multi-dealer's business reaching into 15 counties, he gives liberally of his time in promoting various enterprises and programs designed to help his fellow farmers and improve agriculture in general.

For years he has not missed a meeting of the Pitt County board of agriculture, of which he is chairman, and he took an active part in the establishment of the seed bank organization, the Production Credit Association, and cooperative farm marketing associations in his county.

When the AAA was set in motion, Winslow was made chairman of the county committee and always willing to be of service, he remained in that position until the Supreme Court ruled the AAA unconstitutional.

From December 1, 1933, until June 1, 1934, he met with the committee every night, except Sunday, to approve and sign contracts. He is a member of the North Carolina Tobacco Growers' Advisory Committee and the executive committee for the four tobacco states in this region. He is chairman of the Pitt County Program Planning Committee, preparing data relative to the inaugural of a permanent agricultural program for the county.

"In 20 years of experience as a County agent, I have never been associated with a person who was more loyal and persistent in his efforts to advance the interests of his fellow farmers," says E. F. Arnold, Pitt County Farm Agent.

State Merchants Protest Tax On Interstate Sales

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Feb. 13.—A recent ruling by the Department of Revenue, credited by it to the Attorney General and which has so far not been made public to the newspapers here, to the effect that merchants must collect the state sales tax on purchases made by and shipped to customers in other states, was vigorously protested by the board of directors of the North Carolina Merchants Association which met here in an all day session Wednesday. It was revealed today by Willard L. Dowell, secretary of the association.

The protest is being conveyed to Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell and if the ruling is not changed, it was intimated that court action might follow.

"It is our understanding that no state has the power to levy a tax on interstate commerce," Dowell said. "But if a customer comes into a store in North Carolina, buys a quantity of goods and asks the merchant to ship them to him in Virginia, Tennessee or South Carolina, our contention is that this transaction immediately becomes

OIL SANCTION AGAINST ITALY NOW UNLIKELY

Action of the United States Congress Is Big Factor

LEAGUE EXPERTS AGAINST ACTION

Express Opinion Oil Sanction Would Fail Unless United States Participated

Geneva, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Advices from Washington that congressional legislation to authorize an oil embargo seemed improbable, strengthened today a general Geneva belief that application of a League of Nations' oil sanction against Italy appeared unlikely.

The league committee of experts in its report of the possibility of inclusion of an oil sanction had ruled that unless the United States participated in the proposed extension of penalties upon Italy for its war in Ethiopia would fail.

Some league officials pointed out that if the league applied an oil sanction which was deemed hopeless and economic sanctions by sanctionist nations which are now suffering losses through thorough operation of the war penalties.

A report of the possibility of enforcing an oil sanction drawn up by the committee after many hesitations and reported changes, particularly with reference to the position of the United States and Venezuela now goes to the league governments.

CASE OF WILL DRAWS TO END

Objectors to Elva Davidson Will End Testimony

Cartha, Feb. 13.—(AP)—A request from attorneys for H. Bradley Davidson, Jr., for a directed verdict upholding the will of his wife, Mrs. Elva Stalter Davidson, was denied today by Judge Don Phillips, presiding over the trial of the suit over her $560,000 estate.

Cartha, N. C., Feb. 13.—(AP)—The case of the objectors to the $560,000 suit over Mrs. Elva Stalter Davidson's will was rested at 10:30 a. m. in Superior Court here today.

Immediately after the objectors rested, the counsel for H. Bradley Davidson, Jr., her husband, requested a 30 minute recess for a conference and Judge Don Phillips granted the request. The case was closed their case after calling minor witnesses.

One of these, the Rev. T. A. Cheatham of Pinehurst, added to previous testimony that the young and attractive Stalter heiress was depressed the night before she was found dead of carbon monoxide gas in the garage of her Pinehurst home last February 27, less than two months after her marriage to Davidson.

Mr. Cheatham said he saw Mrs. Davidson at a charity ball she attended at the Pinehurst country (Continued on page six)

At Least Twenty-Six Die In Fires And Explosions

Five Dead and 41 Injured in New York Cafe Blaze

New York, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Investigators sought today to place the blame for a fire that trapped guests at a gay dinner in a Chinese-American restaurant leaving five dead and 41 injured.

While several of the injured were reported near death in hospitals the city fire marshal called Lum Fong, proprietor of the restaurant, and Harry Riker, real estate man, before a board of investigation.

Three men and two women died in the flames which swept into the second floor restaurant from a ground floor haberdashery last night.

Burning through the floor, the flames quickly swept over the handsome drapes and flimsy decorations of the restaurant.

A mob of 150 persons who had been waiting merrily there at a party of a Catholic holy name was transferred into a terror stricken mob.

The dancers, Fire Marshal Thos. P. Brophy said, survivors told him refused to heed warnings given by first firemen to reach the scene and scrambled toward the only exit, a stairway.

Four of the victims died at the scene while they were being given first aid, the fifth died at Bellevue Hospital.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON By Ray Tucker

SAGACITY: President Roosevelt has staged a series of shrewd moves to allay popular fear and criticism as analyzed for him at fireside chats by politico-economic observers after the reporters have faded into the night. Though seemingly unrelated, they fit into the new pattern.

Wall Street contacts have informed him that business can readjust itself to many New Deal reforms and expand even more rapidly except for uncertainty on four points—inflation, higher deficits, burdensome new taxation, anti-Supreme Court moves. He got almost the same advice from a man who calls

MANY PUPILS ARE INFECTED

Survey Reveals Nine Per Cent Infected With Hookworm

A recent survey of several schools in Pitt county, both white and colored, showed that nine per cent of the children examined were infected with hookworm.

The survey was made by the Public Health service through the local county offices.

County nurses will visit the homes of children found infected and parents will be advised to have the disease treated. Parents of children found free of the disease also will be informed of the results.

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, county health officer said that he felt that efforts leading to reduction of the disease was an important factor in the health work of the county.

"Few chronic diseases deplete the child like hookworm infection," he said. "The disease causes anemia and on long time standing may bring many more serious diseases," he added.

The survey was made in the following schools, with the first figure representing the number of children upon which an analysis was made and the second the number of students found infected.

Wake County Health Officer Issues Order Due to Case of Meningitis at Raleigh School

Raleigh, Feb. 13.—All inter-collegiate athletic contests scheduled for the North Carolina State College campus for the remainder of the week, were cancelled today upon orders of Dr. A. C. Bulla, Wake county health officer, due to a case of meningitis and the prevalence of influenza among the students.

The action resulted in calling off the State-North Carolina basketball game set for tomorrow night, the State-Florida game scheduled for Saturday and the Duke-State wrestling meet set for Saturday afternoon.

Elements Are Cause Of Death And Destruction In Northern Hemisphere

NO ARRESTS IN JONES' DEATH

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst Says No One Being Held

Sheriff Sam A. Whitehurst said this afternoon no suspects were being held in connection with the death of Jesse Jones, 25-year-old Greenville man whose body was found on the highway near Greenwood cemetery Sunday morning.

The sheriff said Fountain Harrington who lives on the Red Hill road, and Mary Cannon, who lives near the fairgrounds, were questioned regarding the mysterious death, but that they were not being held and he found no evidence at all the two were connected with the crime.

Coroner A. A. Ellwanger said an inquest has not been completed, pending possible further information on the death.

Sheriff Whitehurst expressed the opinion that the man was struck by an automobile or truck. Jones' head was injured, this being the only sign of hurt suffered.

F.D.R. ENTERED NEXT PRIMARY

Petitions Entering President Filed Today in Illinois

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Petitions entering President Roosevelt in the April 14 Illinois Democratic Presidential Preferential Primary were filed here today.

The President's signified decision of his candidacy for a second term was received by mail from Chicago. The petitions were circulated by National Committeeman Patrick A. Nash, who conferred at Washington this week with Postmaster General Farley. Democratic leaders here said they expected Mr. Roosevelt would be unopposed in the advisory primary.

Two Republican candidates, Senator William E. Borah of Idaho and Col. Frank Knox, of Chicago, filed yesterday.

Highway Dept. Plans More, Better Surfaces

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Feb. 13.—More and better road treatment for general highway treatment for this spring and summer, it was learned today from the State Highway and Public Works Commission.

Much of this work will have to be done in repairing surface treated roads damaged by snow and freezing weather this winter, while some of it will be done on roads which so far have not had any surface treatment whatever. More emphasis is going to be placed on the preparation of the road base under the surface treatment, in the hope that a more careful preparation of the road base, together with a heavier surface treatment will help prevent damage from rain, snow and sub-freezing temperatures in future winters, especially if they are like this one.

The commission is planning to do virtually all of the resurfacing and new surfacing with its own forces, it is understood, and has recently obtained a new engineer to be in charge of all bituminous surfacing work. This new engineer is

Biting Cold, Snow, Fires and Winds Rack Nation

AT LEAST 15 DIE IN VARIOUS FIRES

Governor Herring Advises Iowa Mayors to Confiscate Coal Supply

(By The Associated Press) Continents of the northern hemisphere were racked by the elements today as biting cold, drifting snow, fire and winds of gale of tornado proportion brought death, destruction and privation.

North America counted at least 15 burned to death in fires at Lakewood, N. J.; Jackson, Minn., New York and Montreal.

Iowa highways already blocked by snow and with more forecast, were unavailable for coal deliveries and the fuel shortage was so serious that Gov. Clyde L. Herring advised mayors of Iowa cities to confiscate coal if necessary to insure supplies.

Nine workers and a government engineer marooned aboard a work boat locked in ice floes in the Ohio river 35 miles north of Paducah, Ky., faced possible death from an ice gorge up river which stored up tremendous head of water.

Snow ranging up to three feet in depth threatened death to Montana cattle herds. Snow or rain fell or were forecast in most states west of the Mississippi river, in the middle west and along the Atlantic coast.

Europe was lashed by blizzards and gales. Scores of fishermen were killed and others lost along the Italian coast of the Adriatic. Nine persons were known dead and many were missing in Asia Minor.

In the wake of a blizzard at least 20 were dead in Bulgaria, many others in Hungary and Greece. Macedonia had 25 known dead.

In Great Britain the toll of the past three days stood at 27. Paris faced a food shortage as roads became blocked with ice and only 20 per cent of normal supplies reached market.

COTTON HEADS ISSUE RULING

May Sell Cotton Without Paying Tax Lien On It

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Difference developed today between a high government official and Chairman Jones (D. Tex.) of the House agriculture committee as to whether cotton taxes levied but uncollected prior to the Bankhead cotton act's repeal must be paid.

The government spokesman, who decided to be quoted by name, told reporters an effort would be made to collect taxes due under the Bankhead act, the Kerr-Smith tobacco act and the potato control law at the time they were repealed. He acknowledged, however, that "there might be some controversy with tax payers challenging constitutionality of the levies."

Previously Jones had expressed hope that the Treasury would rule that the Bankhead repeal relieved cotton of the uncollected taxes. He said in response to questions that Congress might have to pass a resolution clarifying the situation, but that he hoped "it will not be necessary."

Washington, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Officials of the AAA cotton section said today they had been informed by the Bureau of Internal Revenue that cotton on which there was a tax lien as a result of the Bankhead act can be sold freely without paying the tax.

This development followed an assertion by Rep. Chandler (D-Tenn.) in a message to the Memphis Cotton Exchange that Congress intended to cancel the tax and when it repealed the Bankhead law and that he would introduce a clarifying resolution if the treasury did not concur in his interpretation.

As to whether the Bankhead act taxes paid by farmers would be refunded, government lawyers said today the levies would be kept by the government "until the tax is declared invalid."

Greenville High Quint To Meet Wilson Friday

To Be First Game With Rivals For Present Season

The boys' quint of the Greenville High School will engage the strong quint of the Wilson High tomorrow night in the local high school gym at 7:30 o'clock.

The game to be played with the Wilson boys will be one of the first the Greenies have had with them the whole basketball season, and should attract much attention to the basketball fans of the city, owing to the fact that Wilson is in the Class "A" conference, and that the local high is playing Class "A" basketball although they are not in the Class "A" region.

Reynolds May, coach of the local group, said today that he had received information from an authoritative source that the Wilson team was a strong one, and that any opposing team would have to put up a good fight to conquer them. However, May laughs it off and says that he is going to see that each member of his team is in tip top shape for the clash.

The Greenies have exhibited the finer basketball ability this season, according to local fans, than high school teams here in previous years. The local basketball have been given the finest of support and those attending the games have witnessed the finest in basketball, which is all the more reason why the team is so good.

There will be plenty of seating capacity and everyone attending can rest assured of a very enjoyable evening.

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief Of Pain

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are one of Nature's chief ways of taking the acids and waste out of the blood. If they don't pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing.

If you have trouble with frequent bladder passages with scanty amount which often smart and burn, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

Don't wait for serious trouble. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS—which have been used successfully for over 40 years by millions of people. They give happy relief and will help flush out the 15 miles of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS.

The new Frigidaire with the Meter-Miser is a giant for performance that operates on a miserly amount of current. It soon will be seen at Smith Electric Co.—(Adv.)

New Frigidaire.
A newly developed mechanical refrigeration unit that will cut electric current consumption of household refrigerators to the bone will be shown in Greenville for the first time tomorrow at the display room of Smith Electric Co., dealer here for the household refrigerators built by the Frigidaire Division of General Motors Corporation.

The mechanism, simple in its construction and with only three major moving parts, has been termed the "meter-miser," according to Mr. Smith, and is incorporated in most of the new models to be sold by Frigidaire dealers this year.

The "meter miser" is being hailed as a milestone in the spectacular and rapid development of the refrigeration industry and economists predict it will widen the use of electric refrigerators sensationally by making it possible for even those in the lower income brackets to pay the hitherto unheard of low electric current costs that will prevail with their use.

"Research in the last few years has steadily lowered the operating cost of mechanical refrigerators," Mr. Smith said, "but the unit Frigidaire has put into production after months of testing in its laboratories in Dayton and in hot areas in the south lowers the cost even more. It is a fact that the smaller units use less current than a thirty watt electric light bulb, yet have been so improved in efficiency that they have greater refrigeration capacity for both food preservation and ice-making."

"The motor operating it is built into it and sealed in oil. The new development might be termed as important to the refrigeration industry as knee-action, no-draft ventilation or the turret-top were to the automotive field."

TRY DECREASE LEVIES ON GAS

Gasoline and Oil Companies Start Drive Lower Taxes

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, Feb. 13.—The gasoline and oil trust, working through the American Petroleum Industries Committee of New York and the North Carolina Petroleum Industries Committee, is already starting its campaign for lower gasoline taxes in North Carolina.

Thousands of pieces of literature designed to stir up opposition to the present state tax on gasoline, likewise the Federal tax, are being sent out from the new offices of the N. C. Petroleum Industries Committee in the Sir Walter Hotel here. Incidentally, Robert Grady Johnson, Speaker of the House in the 1935 general assembly, is the new executive secretary of the committee in North Carolina.

It is expected that this committee now making a drive to secure every filling station operator in North Carolina as a member, whether an independent operator, contract operator or what not, will also make a powerful drive in the next session of the general assembly to secure the repeal of the chain filling station tax, under which the large gasoline companies which operate large chains of filling stations pay much higher privilege tax than the independent operators of single stations. Nothing is being said concerning the tax in the literature being sent out by the committee, however.

Thousands of vest pocket calendars are being sent out bearing the following appeal:

"Motorists! Let's make the roads safe for the taxpayers! Tell your legislators to put 4-wheel brakes on the motor. Regal duplicating Federal automotive taxes. Use all motor tax revenues exclusively for safe, economically planned roads."

Bitterness is also being sent out in the shape of an automobile bearing the legend "The car you pay for you never get," while on the second blither leaf is printed "Your Tax Car," with information that "Every year, the average motor vehicle owner pays in special motor taxes one-fourth the value of your car, and that in four years the taxes equal an amount sufficient to pay for a new car. In a black box at the bottom, in the form of a license tag, are the words 'Reduce the gas tax.'"

SOUTH AFRICAN ATHLETES HAVE SPRINGBOK MASCOT

The South Africans had a shepherd dog as their mascot at the Los Angeles Olympics. The springbok, a kind of gazelle, is pictured in the coat of arms of South Africa.

Taylor Addresses Crop Improvement Association Meet

Says United States Must Choose Between Agricultural Chaos or Scientific Plan

High Point, N. C., Feb. 13.—After 300 years of groping, the United States is now faced with a choice between agricultural chaos on the one hand and the way of a scientific plan for stabilization of agriculture and rural life on the other, Dr. Carl C. Taylor, assistant administrator of the Resettlement Administration, declared in an address here today.

Speaking before the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association, closing a two-day session, Dr. Taylor said the plan must be designed "toward a life that is underwritten with security."

The resettlement official is a noted southern rural sociologist and former dean of the graduate school of the North Carolina State College. In discussing "Stabilizing American Agriculture and Rural Life," he gave a comprehensive review of the early development of the nation's agriculture, the period of western expansion, which he described as "our period of adolescence" and the "back lash from rapid expansion and the war, or the emergence of our period of adulthood." In this review he pointed out the mistakes made by agriculture in the past and how these may be avoided in working out a sound plan for the future.

The way to stability and security, Dr. Taylor stated, "is to adjust our population to our lands properly, to adjust our lands to their best uses, to make farm tenure secure, and to bring about a situation where no longer will there be 50 per cent of the tillers of the soil who do not own a foot of the land they till, which is the case in the United States today."

"In order to adjust farm population to land resources, we must seek out the poor lands and remove them from cultivation, seek out the good lands and help people conserve them and nurture them while they farm," Dr. Taylor said.

Plants without certain minor elements in them stopped growing live after about three weeks, while those with their elements continued to grow until normal.

The picture tended to show that continued cropping had a tendency to deplete the soil of essential minor elements, and that the use of Chilean nitrate supplies this deficiency.

Talks To Parents

Seeking the Truth.
By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
Historical muck-raking is fashionable in schools and colleges today. It is partly the result of the rather sentimental hero worship of the preceding period. There is, however, a possibility that both points of view are extreme.

A generation ago, Mary Jones went to a small school taught by conservatives. In English history, the king was always right, and Oliver Cromwell was a deep-dyed villain to lay his hands on Charles Stuart. Mary came home and discussed the matter with her father, shocked at the idea that such men

About 20 farmers and fertilizer dealers were guests of C. Parker Focke and A. G. Floyd, of the Chilean Nitrate sales corporation, at a moving picture show at the Woman's club last night depicting the advantages of using minor elements found in natural nitrate of soda.

The picture showed the mining of the Chilean nitrate of soda and compared the growth of plants upon which it was used with those on which soda not containing certain minor elements.

A tobacco plant fertilized with the Chilean nitrate of soda grew to a height of four or five feet, while the plant being fed with soda without similar minor elements grew only to about a foot.

The pictured experiments were carried out at the New Jersey experiment station. Pictures of the plants being compared were taken every 20 minutes during the experiment. It was shown that the

From that time on, she deliberately encouraged differences in opinion, and even directed outside reading into conflicting authorities. Parents can do much to broaden their children's outlook by taking an intelligent interest in their studies and suggesting the possibility of another point of view.

If the teacher is a good one, he will welcome the chance of discussion and encourage it. If he is not a good teacher, a complaint is in order, not about his theories, but about his lack of ability to inspire thought and a real search for the truth.

Rumor comes from Wash-

contemplating returning to his home in Washington,

would welcome the oppor-

TRADING: Twice the Republic of Panama has politely returned the $250,000 check which Secretary
Morgenthau made out in payment of the annual rental of the canal.
The 1933 treaty calls for payment
in "gold dollars."

Panama has long wanted a revision of that treaty. Its reasons have struck former American diplomats as a curious blend of statecraft and musical comedy. The Panamanians mourn that Uncle Sam may land troops to repel foreign at-plaint appears to be that army commissary stores in the canal zone

take trade from local merchants.
It's hard to tell whether the na-

Back-stage negotiations for doc-proposition which the State Departwill accept currency in payment for

SYNOPSIS: Frankie Descent

about Mr. Carstairs?" she asked.

"I really wanted his address," explained Bobby. "As you know, we act for him and we've just had a rather important cable from New York—you know there's rather a serious fluctuation in the dollar just now—"

Mrs. Rivington nodded with despate intelligence.

"And so," continued Bobby rapidly, "we wanted to get into touch with him—to get his instructions.
And he hasn't left an address—and having heard him mention he was a friend of yours, I thought you might possibly have news of him."

"Oh, I see," said Mrs. Rivington, completely satisfied. "What a pity!
But he's always rather a vague man,
I should think."

"Oh, distinctly so," said Bobby.

"Well—" He rose. "I apologize for taking up so much of your time."

"Oh, not at all," said Mrs. Rivington.

Dr. Nicholson was holding Sylvia's hands.

"So that's all right," thought Bobby, as he walked away down Tite Street. "I seem to have taken Dolly What's-her-name's character away
for good, but I dare say she deserves
it. And that charming idiot of a woman will never wonder why, if I wanted Carstairs' address, I didn't simply ring up and ask for it!"

BACK in Brook Street he and Frankie discussed the matter
from every angle.

"It looks as though it were really pure chance that took him to the Bassington-Frenches," said Frankie thoughtfully.

"I know. But evidently when he was down there some chance remark directed his attention to the Nicholson."

"So that, really, it is Nicholson
who is at the heart of the mystery,
not the Bassington-Frenches?"

"It seems like it."

"Why only 'seems'?"

"Well, there is just one other possibility. In some way, Carstairs may have found out that the Rivingtons were going down to lunch with the Bassington-Frenches. He may have overheard some chance remark in a restaurant at the Savoy perhaps.
So he rings them up, very urgent to see them, and what he hopes may happen does happen. They're very hooked up and they suggest his coming down with them. That is possible, Frankie."

"But it seems a very roundabout
method of doing things."

"No more roundabout than your accident," said Bobby.

"My accident was vigorous direct action," said Frankie coldly.

Bobby removed Lord Marching-ton's clothes and replaced them where he had found them. Then he donned his chauffeur's uniform once more, and they were soon speeding back to Staverly.

"If Roger has fallen for me," said
Frankie demurely, "he'll be pleased I've come back so soon. He'll think I can't bear to be away from him
for long."

"I'm not sure that you can bear

agree to restrict commissary sales so that native concerns can get more of the 59-cent dollars than they have been getting.

LABEL: Congress is quietly staging a tin-cash showdown to the big-time neutrality act. The House passed a bill authorizing a presidential embargo on tin-scrap and passage in the Senate is assured
when the inside facts leak out.

Although tin is a vital war material, the United States is at the world's mercy. It is not produced within 6,000 miles of this country.

But a vast supply can be obtained from salvaging the tin used to bathe tin soup cans and many steel products. While we have been neglecting this source, Japan and other nations have gobbled up all kinds of tin and steel scrap. Japan leads in importation of this kind of American junk and Italy ranks second—two nations mentioned in all confidential talk of future wars. Tin and steel scrap collected in American backyards and from abandoned car tracks have fashioned the engines and hulls of Japanese battleships and the motors of Mussolini's airplanes.

State Departmenters could get a few tips from the way its sponsors handled the tin-can bill. They delivered no idealistic orations about preserving peace in the Orient or Mediterranean. They branded the proposal as a "national defense measure" and it shot through. Even in Congress there's a lot in a name.

MELTING: You would understand why there has been so little protest against Cordell Hull's reciprocal tariff agreements if you could see the delegations of business men and manufacturers which march into his private office several times a week. The man who was once reviled as a "free trader" blushes
and stammers while his ancient enemies lay apologies and eulogies at his feet.

Heads of heavy industries—steel,
cement, lumber—protested when the Secretary of State negotiated agreements permitting the importation of competing products. But they have discovered that these materials rarely enter into large-scale competition with domestic stuff because they stop at the seaboard. It's too expensive to haul them into the interior. On the other hand, Mr.

Hull has wangled concessions for manufactured steel which avoid similar barriers in foreign countries.

A few Republican Congressmen are slicing the air with tariff speeches of an 1896 vintage in which Mr.
Hull is pictured as another Bryan.
But they are receiving thin support from the interests which once financed this kind of campaign. Two historic issues—the tariff and prohibition—are melting day by day.

BEGGARS: Harold Ickes insists that he has rock-bottom proof that recovery is around the corner.

When the Secretary of Interior launched his first public works program in early 1933, states and municipalities put up their bonds as collateral for projects partially financed by the federal government.
Governors and mayors told Mr.
Ickes that they had been unable to dispose of their securities in the private market. He took them at a fairly good price and turned them
over to Jesse Jones, RFC chairman, to sell for him.

Mr. Ickes has made a neat profit of $5,000,000 on the resale. The same bond houses which wouldn't touch state or municipal issues three years ago are now begging for more.

of $5,000,000 on the resale. The
same bond houses which wouldn't
touch state or municipal issues three
years ago are now begging for more.

READJUSTMENT: There's another important angle to this limiting process an dits effect on future investment trends. In June, 1930, the number of stock issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange reached a record high of 1324. The corresponding figure for January 1
of this year was 1185—a shrinkage of more than 10 per cent despite recent transfers of issues from smaller exchanges to the Big Board.
The peak for bonds traded on the New York Exchange (reached in November, 1930) was 1615 issues with an aggregate par value of roughly $50,000,000,000. At present there are 1463 bond issues and their total par rating is around $43,- 000,000,000.

Comparable figures are not available for the smaller exchanges, but financial experts say their percentage of casualties is even higher.

What's more, the contraction of issues available for trading is expected to continue.

Couple the reduction in channels
of investment—including the offcolor kind—with increased funds available for investment in the hands of the public and you get a basic readjustment of supply and demand. Still another factor in this is the continually greater ability and desire of women to invest.

WIDE: Here's evidence that such a readjustment is already underway. Before the '29 crash a stock that sold at 10 times earnings was in general considered reasonably priced. Today—partly due to low money rates—20 times earnings is not rated an excessive valuation
for the stock of an established corporation. ar-sighted experts believe the day may come when the pressure of mounting demand and diminishing supply will force stock prices to untenable levels.

If that happens it might turn out that the government's baby bond campaign was the entering wedge for a very wide distribution of federal securities to the public—similar to that in France, where the peasants put every spare centime into government "rentes" and not into motor cars and other manufactures.

TORN: The big fellows in the oil industry were all set to jack up crude oil prices again recently. O'd Man Winter spoiled their plans by chasing cars indoors and sharply cutting gasoline consumption. However, they still have hopes—if Spring isn't too far behind.

The only cloud in sight is on the West Coast, where California oil production is running consistently ahead of consumption. If this keeps up much longer the Californians will start shipping oil to the Atlantic Coast—which might precipitate all kinds of price wars.

Hot oil has almost ceased to be a problem in Texas. The state commission has done a good job of clamping down. But the new Rod-essa field now opening up in Texas promises headaches. The Commission will soon be torn between letting the Rodessa producers pump out 20 times as much oil as their East Texas neighbors—or holding them down to the East Texas quota and letting the producers just across the Louisiana border get away with draining their properties. No matter what they do they will be in terrible wron gwith somebody.

ALDERMAN IN FIRST SPEECH

Says No Faction Behind Him for Superintendent

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, Feb. 12.—The speech made by A. B. Alderman last night in Stoneville, Pamlico county, in which he answered the various questions which have been asked concerning his candidacy for State Superintendent of Public Instruction against State Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin, is regarded as significant here, in that it is the first political speech which Alderman has made since he became a candidate.

Those unfriendly to his candidacy especially those supporting Superintendent Erwin for re-nomination, have been asking why Alderman came out as a candidate and who was backing him. Some have openly hinted that he was the candidate of the State School Commission.

"I am running for State Superintendent because I want to and because I have always wanted to be State Superintendent ever since I started teaching," Alderman said last night in answering the question as to why he is running for the post. "I am also running because I think the people should be given a chance to select the State Superintendent for a change, since every Superintendent of Public Instruction in North Carolina from 1901 to the present time has held the office by appointment and without ever having any opposition in a primary. So one reason I am running is so the people may actually nominate a State Superintendent and not merely give rubber-stamp approval to a Superintendent appointed by the Governor."

In replying to the question as to who is backing him in his race, Alderman said:

"The only man who is backing me in any way, directly or indirectly, is A. B. Alderman of Snow Hill—myself. No one has urged me to run and the idea of seeking the nomination for State Superintendent was all mine. So I am not the candidate of any organization, faction, group or individual. And if elected, promotion of the cause of public education shall be my chief concern."

He never discussed his candidacy with a single member of the school commission before announcing. Alderman said, has seen only three members of the commission since announcing, and did not ask any of these to support him.

Eccles Faces Big Responsibilities As Inflation Drive Gets New Start

Marriner S. Eccles, who was reappointed chairman of the federal reserve board, built up a "depression-proof" chain bank system in the west.

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE Washington (AP)—Sitting at the helm of the new federal reserve board is Marriner S. Eccles, the millionaire banker from Utah who in boyhood was a Mormon missionary to Europe.

The slim, sharp-featured westerner of Scottish parentage flabbergasted some old school financiers with his "radical" monetary and economic recovery proposals. But now he heads a board which is generally regarded as conservative. And Eccles himself maintains that he is a "true conservative"—a capitalist interested in saving capitalism by reform.

A Republican, who rapidly built up a "depression-proof" chain bank system in Utah and neighboring states and enlarged his fortune by investments in sundry industrial enterprises, he now is rated the most eloquent exponent of the administration theory of "conscious control" of the nation's banking system.

Face a Major Problem "A monetary system left to itself acts to promote instability rather than stability," he contends. "Expansion and contraction of credit once started have a tendency to become self-generating and to proceed to injurious limits."

Taking over increased banking and credit control power under the new banking measure, Eccles and his fellow board members face a major problem in controlling the huge surplus reserve of money in the banks of the country representing, as it does, tremendous credit potentialities. Coincidentally, new talk of inflation arises on Capitol Hill.

Glass Opposes His Theories. Eccles has said "the first of two supremely important tasks likely to devolve upon the reserve administration is assuring that recovery does not result in an undesirable inflation." He has defined the second as "assuring that recovery is not followed by a depression." And inflation, he maintains, is certain to lead ultimately to another depression.

Although the young banker's appointment to the board and his banking legislation proposals met stiff opposition from Carter Glass last year, the Virginia senator did not contest his recent reappointment as head of the reserve administration. Glass still opposes the Eccles theories, but both men won concessions in the new banking measure, and the senator has characterized the new setup as "a pretty safe board."

A Prodigious Worker Eccles, who became a bank director at 22 after work as a lumber-appointed governor of the federal bank and a boy missionary, was reserve board at 43—the youngest man ever to hold that high government post. His advocacy of a recovery program along "new deal" lines before the inauguration of President Roosevelt brought him to the attention of the administration.

Associates describe him as "a prodigious worker—a bundle of re-strained nervous energy—who does not know how to relax." He plays an occasional golf forenoon, and maintains a running fire of conversation with his companions on financial and economic topics. He is brisk in manner, but not cocky, and is slow to anger.

Twinkling eyes and a pleasant voice offset the severity of rather sharply cut features and firmly set jaw. He spends unusually long hours at his desk, but finds time to munch the peanuts he greatly relishes and to engage in enthusiastic discussion of fishing, hunting and camping in the mountains of Utah and the Jackson Hole country of Wyoming.

Old Men of Antiquity.

The impression is somewhat widespread that the famous men of antiquity lived, like Methuselah, fabulously long lives. A recent study of the age at death of eminent persons of antiquity reveals that while there were a few centenarians among them, the average came close to three score and ten.

The Statistical Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, in which this study is reported, observes that "Men of achievement apparently enjoyed just about the same average length of life two or three thousand years ago as they do today." That "length of life," be it noted, is much longer than that enjoyed by the average ordinary person.

Taking an unselected sample of 32 famous men of antiquity whose age at death is fairly well authenticated, it is found that three, Isocrates, Democritus and Thales, were nonagenarians (90 or over); 11 were octogenarians (80 or over); Among the latter were Anaxagoras the poet; Cato, the Elder; Diogenes, the philosopher; Plato the philosopher; Hippocrates, the physician; Pythagoras, the mathematician and Sophocles, the dramatist.

The average age of death of the eminent men of antiquity included in the survey, was 66.7 years. This average does not differ from that of a sample of 82 noted mathematicians of modern times, whose average age at death was 64.3, or from a sample of 75 modern poets whose average life span was 64.1.

Social and cultural eminence and sturdy stock frequently go together. This is contrary to the popular conception of genius as being housed in a sickly and fragile frame.

"The extreme limit (of life)," to quote the Statistical Bulletin, "attainable by most sturdy individuals has been practically unchanged in all historic times, even though the average length of life of the population at large has changed (for the better) very materially."

TEACHERS FOR NEW PROGRAM

Taxpayers, However, Oppose Unification Of Schools

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Feb. 13.—The "unification of school control" which has been preached vociferously for almost a year by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin and which has more recently been incorporated in his platform by Clyde R. Hoy of Shelby, one of the four candidates for governor, is admittedly popular with the school forces, especially the city and county superintendents and many of the teachers.

But the plan is not popular with the rank and file of the taxpayers and the public, in spite of efforts by the school forces to make it appear that the salvation of the schools rests upon this so-called "unification" of control, according to sentiment sounded out here from all parts of the state.

To the public, the school people say they want the control and administration of the schools "unified" under the state superintendent and State Department of Public Instruction, on the grounds that the present system of "dual control" is unwieldy and confusing. But among themselves, it is known that the "unified control" is meant either the complete abolition of the State School Commission, or its revamping to the extent that the State Supt. of Public Instruction will be its chairman and have control of it to such an extent that he can virtually dictate how the state appropriation for schools shall be spent. For by some queer quirk of reasoning, many of the school people seem to think that they can get rid of the State School Commission and get control of the spending of the state school appropriation of $20,000,000 a year or more, they can make it go farther than the School Commission has been able to make it go.

SIX ARRESTED SECOND TIME

Discovered Operating Cars After Licenses Revoked

Reflector Bureau,
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, Feb. 13.—With 26 more drivers' licenses revoked today by the highway safety division for drunken driving and combinations of drunken driving and other violations, a total of 110 licenses have been revoked so far this week, bringing the total to date to 1,425, according to Arthur Fulk, director of the division. Seven of the drivers whose licenses were revoked today are from Winston-Salem.

Sofar six drivers have been arrested, convicted and their licenses revoked for a second year because they were discovered operating cars after their licenses had been revoked for one year, Fulk pointed out. Of these six, five are now serving prison terms. One was let off with a $10 fine, although his license was revoked for another year. Another, who has a suspended sentence of 90 days on the roads for a previous offense, had to go to the roads and serve out that term. Yesterday two others who had been arrested for driving while their licenses were revoked, turned up in the reports here, both from Charlotte. One had been given 30 days in jail and the other 90 days in jail.

"The punishment given those who are arrested for driving a car after their license has been revoked depends entirely upon the judges, since all we are empowered to do is to suspend the licenses of these drivers for an additional year," Fulk said. "But so far the judges are certainly cooperating, as our records show that five out of six so far convicted for driving after a license has been revoked have gotten stiff jail terms. Under the law, the judges are empowered to impose a fine up to $500 or a sentence up to six months or both, for driving after a license has been revoked. If the courts continue to enforce the law the way they have started out, it will not take long to stop drunken and reckless driving in North Carolina. Whether the drivers' license law really proves effective or not, depends in the final analysis, of course, upon the judges and the type of sentences they impose. From the reports of convictions which we are getting every day, the courts indicate that they are really enforcing this law."

LIONESS LEAPS INTO AUDIENCE AT THEATRE

Ruthie, a lioness, literally panicked 'em at her first (and last) performance in a Baltimore theatre. Slipping from her cage behind the scenes, she leaped from the stage into the laps of four boys in the audience, slightly injuring Edward Poslusny (left), 15. A policeman shot and wounded her in the lobby after she waded through 2,000 terrorized spectators. Mad with pain and fear, Ruthie is seen snarling in her cage at an animal hospital. ### N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Selected buying in utilities and rails kept stock charges generally higher in today's stock market while many others fell below their best levels, obtained during an early movement.

Although board rooms heard statements that there is too much inflation talk and not enough "good business" discussion, strict attention was paid to Western Union earnings which last year amounted to $5.03 a share against $2.14 in the previous year.

The late tone was fairly firm. Transactions approximated 2,600,000 shares.

Motorists Exempt From Paying Levy On Gas Tax Paid

Federal Income Tax Payers May Deduct Money Paid Out in State Gasoline in Making Returns

Charlotte, Feb. 13.—When making out Federal income tax returns North Carolina motorists can deduct money paid out in state gasoline taxes, Coleman W. Roberts, president of the Carolina Motor club declared today.

"Every penny paid to the State in the form of registration and other special fees may be deducted by North Carolina motorists. Also they may deduct amounts paid out in gasoline taxes when traveling through most of the other states as the Bureau of Internal Revenue will allow such deductions for all but fourteen states.

However, amounts paid out in Federal gasoline and other excise taxes are strictly not deductible. Other deductible items include interest on money borrowed for purchase of a car and loss sustained from damage when not covered by insurance. Fines or forfeited collateral are not deductible.

Pitt County Woman Asks Home Makers To Attend Meeting

Third Triennial Conference of Associated Country Women of World To Be Held in Washington

Raleigh, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The third triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World will be held in Washington the week of May 31-June 6. Dr. Jane S. McKimmon, state home demonstration agent, announced here today.

Delegates to the conference have been appointed by rural women's organizations in England, Union of South Africa, Kenya, New Zealand, Australia, Germany, Sweden, Norway, Canada, and the United States and others are expected from Finland, Czechoslovakia, Holland, Bulgaria, India, Estonia, Nairobi, and Palestine, Dr. McKimmon said.

The program will contain the names of women known over the world for their interest in the problems of country life, she continued, and there will be on exhibit handicraft and far-grown products from the different nations.

Mrs. J. Brooks Tucker of Grimesland, president of the North Carolina Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs, is urging farm women to attend the conference, saying it will be well worth their while.

The associated Country Women of the World has approximately 75 affiliated organizations in 40 nations, Mr. Tucker said, and the large variety of exhibits, together with the interesting speakers on the program, should make the conference educational as well as entertaining.

"I hope the home agents and the various club members in North Carolina will plan to attend the conference in a body," she said. "Those who are planning bus trips for this spring or summer should arrange to include the conference in their itinerary."

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—An event long-awaited in the Senate—breaking of the self-imposed silence of Bilbo of Mississippi—apparently has come at last.

The wiry and fiery Mississippi senator, whose entry into the Senate at the beginning of the last session gave promise of providing another one-man show in that body, shows belated indications of making good that prediction.

He has worked himself up an excellent row with his colleague Pat Harrison over the appointment of a federal judge in Mississippi which not only may provide fun and fireworks in the Senate but muddle the political situation in that state as well.

Harrison is sponsoring the appointment of Judge Edwin R. Holmes to the fifth circuit court of appeals at New Orleans. Bilbo's opposition to Holmes is based on his charge that the judge sent him to jail for 10 days back in 1923 for contempt. Bilbo says it was for political reasons.

At the start only the appointment of Holmes was involved, but now it has developed in a feud between Bilbo and Harrison. The former is out to defeat Harrison.

who comes up for re-election this year, if he can.

"I'm in the market for a colleague who will have some respect for me," Bilbo has declared.

The break between the two Mississippi senators comes as something of a surprise to observers here. While it is known that Bilbo and Harrison have not always seen eye to eye in politics, since Bilbo entered the Senate outwardly the two have been getting along famously. Gossip has it that Harrison more or less took Bilbo under his wing when he came to the Senate, offered to show him the "ropes," and that Bilbo acquiesced.

If the two have come to open warfare, opinion is divided as to what will happen. Harrison's friends say that Bilbo's opposition may mean a harder contest for him in this year's primaries, but they believe Harrison surely will be re-elected.

Mrs. Ellen Palmer, said to have been the oldest woman in London, died recently at 108. She attributed her longevity to simple living. Her hobby was needlework.

QUEEN OF ALL THE HENS

AMONG THE MILLIONS of hens in America today, the blue ribbon for egg production goes to only one. She earns first prize with 324 eggs a year for two consecutive years—more than four times the national average of 70.

Suppose every hen did that. Think what profits that would mean to poultry men. But most hens are just hens, common, ordinary hens. There is only one champion. To rest one single hen, Nature gives the vital spark—that perfect natural balance of all the elements that make a champion.

The champion hen is Mother Nature at her best—one of Nature's rare masterpieces. Because she stands out from the flock because she does things that other hens can't do, she is worth her weight in gold, while the rest of the flock is worth just about two bits a pound—dead or alive.

And here is another of Nature's masterpieces—Natural Chilean Soda. Like the champion hen, Chilean has Nature's priceless gift—natural blend and balance of many fertilizer elements—vital impurities. The vital spark—the secret of every champion—is in Chilean Nitrate, born there, and kept alive through centuries of aging and mellowing in the ground.

Natural CHILEAN NITRATE

Natural Chilean contains almost two score of major and minor elements such as boron, magnesium, manganese, iodine, calcium, potassium, etc.—each a vital element in growth and development of plants.
