North Carolina Farmers Vote To Organize Under Farm Bureau Federation

Edward A. O'Neal
Here For Second
Successive Week

UNANIMOUS VOTE
FOR FEDERATION

Representatives of Grange Also Heard
Before Group Makes
Final Decision

A committee of farmers representing 25 Eastern North Carolina counties unanimously decided in executive session today to organize a branch of the American Farm Bureau Federation in this state. The action came after Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Bureau, had appeared before Tar Heel agriculturists on two successive Mondays and had explained the activities of his organization and the need for farmers to organize and solidly stand behind some organization in efforts to secure farm legislation in Congress and state legislatures.

Last Monday Mr. O'Neal addressed some 3,500 farmers at a general meeting held at the college. The Farm Bureau head spoke to farmers at the executive meeting today, held at the local Rotary building.

Upon leaving here last week, Mr. O'Neal expressed the opinion he would be unable to return here today, but advised sponsors of some farm organization for this section during the week-end he would be here.

The meeting was presided over by J. E. Winslow, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Agriculture.

Harry Caldwell, state lecturer for the Grange, spoke to the committee, going over some of the activities of his organization. He reviewed its membership and social legislation.

Mr. O'Neal followed Mr. Caldwell and urged the farmers to band themselves together and fight as a unit for farm programs. He reviewed the legislative accomplishments of the Farm Bureau, both in the National Congress and State legislatures.

After hearing the two main speakers, the farmers voted unanimously to establish a branch of the Farm Bureau here. Members of the committee were in session this afternoon mapping plans for the establishment of the organization.

It is understood that a temporary organization will be established immediately. Afterwards efforts will be waged to organize the farmers of the various counties, with a permanent state organization to be established in the near future.

Jesse Ross Taken By Bethel Officer For Charges Here

Former Greenville Man Arrested
By Bethel Police Chief On Forgery Charges Here

Jesse Ross formerly of Greenville, was arrested in Bethel last night as he got off a bus and was turned over to Greenville officers to face charges of forgery.

Ross is alleged to have forged a number of checks in Greenville on January 2. Although officers had sought him since that time, they had been unsuccessful in their efforts until last night when the Chief of Police of Bethel arrested him as he left the bus at that place.

He was brought to this city to face preliminary charges. He probably will be held for trial in Superior court.

Chief George Clark said he had found no trace of another man who gave a number of forged checks throughout the city some weeks ago.

State-Owned Road Changes Schedule Without Consent

Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad
Abandons Sunday Passenger
Service, It Is Learned

Raleigh, Feb. 17. (AP)—The state-owned Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad has abandoned Sunday passenger service between Beaufort and New Bern. It was learned from authoritative sources here today, though it had not received permission from the Utilities Commission to do so.

Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne would make no comment on the matter.

The state law requires all changes in operation of railroads to be approved by the Utilities Commission.

River To Reach New High Stage

B. T. Clark, head of the local weather bureau, was advised today by Lee A. Denson, in charge of the bureau at Raleigh, that the Tar river would rise to a stage of about 18 feet here by Wednesday or Thursday.

The stream was standing at more than 15 feet this morning and was still rising. Normal for the river is about 4.5 feet, and the highest mark it has reached this year was a little over 17 feet.

The temperature here was about normal, the mercury standing at 40 degrees at eight o'clock this morning.

JAPAN'S PRESS UNDER CENSOR

Ordered Not to Print
Accounts of Border
Clashes

Tokyo, Feb. 17. (Copyright by the Associated Press)—Japanese officials applied a partial censorship today to Japanese press accounts of the dangerous situation arising from recent sanguinary military clashes on the ill-defined Manchoukuo outer Mongolia frontier.

The officials ordered the press not to publish anything containing the issue except Japanese and Manchoukuo communications.

The ban was attributed authoritatively to an official desire to avoid inflaming public opinion while a series of official conferences was started in Tokyo in search of means to prevent the border friction from developing into a Russo-Japanese war.

Neither Tokyo nor Hsinking, capital of the Japanese-advise State of Manchoukuo, issued communiques immediately after the Manchoukuo government protested to the outer Mongolian people's republic, demanding immediate "evacuation" of Manchoukuo territory.

Officially the Japanese war office and foreign office agreed in a conference to reject the Soviet proposal that neutrals be included in a joint commission which the Japanese suggested be created to liquidate Far Eastern border conflicts of January 29 and 30.

A foreign office spokesman said, "we hope the Soviets will withdraw that suggestion to permit early formation of a tri-partite, Japanese, Manchoukuo Soviet commission, to begin the task of easing the border situation."

SPAIN PLACED UNDER ORDERS

State of Alarm Declared Thru Spain
For Days

Madrid, Feb. 17. (AP)—A "state of alarm" to last six days was declared throughout Spain today following the death of six persons in yesterday's general election.

The state of alarm—which requires that police authorities be constantly on the alert, but does not suspend civil processes—was proclaimed in the face of rumors that a start of war might be instituted.

Authorities feared that disorders might result from large Leftist gains in the election. A cabinet session was called.

The ministers authorized the state of alarm and indicated that a state of war would be declared at once if necessity arises.

President Zamora's family was transferred from the Zamora home to the presidential palace where there were more facilities for defense.

The government authorized the publication and broadcasting of a manifesto by the Socialists and Left Republicans in which they claimed victory and called on party members to maintain order and tranquility.

ITALY CLAIMS MAJOR BATTLE WITH ETHIOPIA

Great Victory Is Reported on Northern
War Front

TROOPS CAPTURE
300 SQUARE MILES

Total of Ethiopians
Wounded and Killed Announced in Rome About 20,000

By The Associated Press.
Claims of a great Italian victory in North Ethiopia were put forward in Rome today as the Italian government announced the most sweeping advance of troops in the north since the early days of the war with Ethiopia.

The Italians said they had captured 300 square miles of new territory in a six day battle which brought death to 5,000 Ethiopians, and wounds to 15,000 more. The total alleged Ethiopian casualties 20,000 was exactly the same figure as was advanced by Ethiopian sources last week concerning the Italians.

The Italian casualties in the battle were said by the Italian government to have been 1,500, of which less than 500 were killed.

The Italians said that their front lines in the north now were within 20 miles of Amba Alagi, the famous ridge that their punitive expedition reached in 1935—before the Ethiopians cut the army to pieces in one of the greatest defeats Italy ever suffered.

The Ethiopian government announced Italy's success. But stated that 4,000 Italian native troops had deserted from the command on the southern front and gone to the British colony of Kenya.

The Italians immediately denied that anything of the sort had happened.

With most European nations seriously concerned with their armaments, the British government asked an additional appropriation amounting to the equivalent of $39,065,000 for its fighting forces for "special measures taken in connection with the Italo-Ethiopian dispute."

RADIO PRIEST ACCEPTS DARE

Father Coughlin Says
He Will Go To Washington

Washington, Feb. 17. (AP)—Representative Sweeney (D-Ohio) told the House today that Father Charles E. Coughlin will arrive in Washington to take up Representative O'Connor's (D-N. Y.) challenge to "kick" the Detroit radio priest "all the way from the capitol to the White House."

After reading to the House a telegram sent to the Detroit radio priest by O'Connor yesterday in reply to Coughlin's radio attack on the rules committee chairman, Sweeney said:

"Father Coughlin will take up that challenge and will arrive here tomorrow."

Sweeney only had one minute of time in which to read the telegram and make that statement. Applause and rebel yells which greeted O'Connor's telegram were so loud that few members heard or caught the significance of Sweeney's object in reading it.

Supplies Electricity

Under TVA, the war-time Wilson dam of Muscle Shoals fame has been supplying electricity for several cities and communities in the Tennessee valley. The challenge of the government's right to produce this power for sale in competition with privately-owned companies brought TVA before the Supreme court.

In addition to its output of power, TVA is carrying on a great flood control, reforestation and soil erosion program in the vast territory extending from the mountains of East Tennessee to the low flatlands of Alabama. Some time ago, more than 16,000 persons were employed on the authority's vast projects.

The $34,000,000 Norris dam, named in honor of Senator Norris who was the father of the act creating the agency, is almost completed and is partly in operation. Spanning the tiny Clinch river in eastern Tennessee, the 233-foot high dam creates a finger-like lake in the mountains. Four miles from the dam is the TVA's model town, Norris, inhabited by workers of the project.

"Yardstick"

The $20,000,000 John Wheeler dam is being built across the Tennessee river in North Alabama and the $22,000,000 Pickwick Landing dam, which will span the same river in the next fiscal year.

TVA One Of First Pillars In New Deal Economy Plan

Sale of "Cheap Electricity" Cause of Court Action

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Washington, Feb. 17.—Battle-scarred TVA, the federal government's gigantic electric power development, flood control and soil conservation project in the Tennessee valley, was one of the first pillars in the "new deal's" structure of planned economy.

Long the dream of Senator Norris of Nebraska and suggested by Mr. Roosevelt shortly before his inauguration as President, the Tennessee valley authority was created by congress in June, 1933. TVA, NRA and AAA were rated as that time as the "big three" among the many alphabetical agencies designed to bring about recovery and a "better economic balance" in the nation.

Not only was the program of significance because of the government's plan to supply cheap power to southern consumers and rehabilitate a vast area, but it was of nationwide import owing to the administration's expressed intention to apply the Tennessee experiment as a yardstick for determining "fair" electric rates throughout the country.

REDUCTION IN LINT HARVEST

1934 Acreage Harvested 38 Per Cent
Less Than 1929

Washington, Feb. 17. (AP)—A reduction of 38 per cent in the harvested acreage of cotton in 1934 as compared with 1929 was reported today by the Census Bureau.

The figures are based on the 1935 federal farm census, the first since 1930.

The average decrease was accompanied by a production drop of 35 per cent but the Bureau stressed that the drought of 1934 seriously affected all comparison with the previous period. It added:

"One of the most significant features of the statistics is the reduction in cotton grown per farm from 21.8 to 13.9 acres coupled with the increase that is found in the yield despite the havoc wrought by the drought west of the Mississippi. All territory of the river except the State of Mississippi shows material gains in yield per acre."

Saint Paul's Episcopal Church was the scene of a beautiful wedding this morning at nine o'clock when Miss Annie Rosamond Horne was married to Mason Farquhar Yates. The altar was beautifully decorated with white lilies and ferns and lighted with the two seven-branched candlesticks.

Miss Elizabeth Andrews played the wedding music. While the guests were assembling, she played Schubert's Serenade and Chopin's Nocturne in E Flat. She played the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin," by Wagner, as the bride entered. Rubenstein's Melody in F was softly played during the ceremony. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used as a recessional.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She was becomingly attired in a dove grey wool crepe dress with black accessories. She carried a black prayer book trimmed with gold, the confirmation gift of her god-mother. The groom entered with his best man, John Adams, and met the bride at the altar. The Reverend Worth Wicker, the bride's rector, read the impressive ring ceremony of the Episcopal Church, using the prayer book which the bride carried.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Yates left for a short stay in Charleston, S. C. For traveling the bride wore her wedding costume a black fur coat.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Hill Horne of this city. She is a graduate of the city high school and received her A. B. degree at East Carolina Teachers College in the spring of 1935. She is a popular member of the younger social set and has been extended a number of social courtesies since the announcement of her engagement.

Deal Vesper Speaker.

Man as a creation and his relationship to his creator and to the created universe around him, was the theme of Professor R. C. Deal's interesting talk to the college Y. W. C. A. last night. The two parts of the Bible he read as scripture lessons were the first chapter of Genesis and the eighth Psalm.

He said when he saw God's creation of the sun and the hills and the wonders of nature and realized that man was above all other created beings in his power to use these and appreciate them, he was conscious of man's responsibility. He also remembered that man was created in God's image. He gave some of the things in which man is God-like and pointed out ways in which he differs from other creatures, such as his power of reasoning.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.
"Soul" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 16, 1936.

The golden text was from Psalms 25:1-4. "Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. Shew me thy ways O Lord; teach me thy paths."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "And it came to pass, as Peter passed throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda. And there he found a certain man named Aeneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy. And Peter said unto him, Aeneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole; arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately."

Caught a Cold?
To help end it sooner, rub throat and chest with VICKS VAPORUB

And all that dwelt at Lydda and Saron saw him, and turned to the Lord." (Acts, 9:32-35).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus instructed his disciples whereby to heal the sick through Mind instead of matter. He knew that the philosophy, Science, and proof of Christianity were in Truth, casting out all inharmonies. In Latin the word rendered disciple signifies student; and the word indicates that the power of healing was not a supernatural gift to those learners, but the result of their cultivated spiritual understanding of the divine Science, which their Master demonstrated by healing the sick and sinning."

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER
New York—A favorite feasting place for columnists is a restaurant on 45th street where torch singers and other fauna of the night world gather to barter the local gossip. The reporters like it because they enjoy the devastating sarcasm with which some celebrity is usually bombarding another, and because they are sure to run into something worth writing about. It attracts a strictly cosmopolitan crowd, as an inspection on almost any midnight will show, but you are not to assume that only stars of the first magnitude are welcome.

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

Recently I recognized a detective who told me he had been dining there for weeks. "We think—might pop in here and when he does we are going to nab him." The man he named was a furrier who absconded with his partner's cash. "What makes you think he'll come here?" I wanted to know. "The fact that he's an egotist," the detective confided. "He likes to dine in the company of actors and he thinks he looks like John Barrymore."

In the old days, before Libby Holman experienced "that crashing and tumbling of the universe," this restaurant was her favorite after-midnight place. She liked to lounge at its comfortable tables and mince Welsh rabbit.

Too, that song "When I Woke Up This Morning She Was Gone" was written on one of its tablecloths. You'll usually find a song writer in the crowd, the Tin Pan Alley boys finding it a convivial place to air their newest lyrics. Benny Davis is an occasional diner.

You are apt to recognize Osgood Perkins, Tallulah Bankhead, Sheila Barrett, Joe Cook, Rouben Mamoulian, Noel Coward (if he's in town), James Barton and any of a score of others spotted at tables here and there. They find its homely comfort cheering, for all its lack of streamline trimmings, and that is why they have adopted it as a sort of unofficial club.

A typical bit of by-play was the

CARDUI

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine for the relief for functional periodic pain, nervousness and weakness due to poor nourishment. It is in successful use by thousands of women. "I have used Cardui and had good results from its use," writes Mrs. W. E. Barnett, of Taylors, S. C. "I suffered with cramping and headaches and would have a chilly feeling. Sometimes I would feel miserable and have pain more than a day, and I would be nervous. I read of Cardui and decided to use it. After taking six bottles of Cardui, I had less pain and was regulated. I feel much better." When such suffering can be avoided by taking Cardui, isn't that the common-sense thing to do? Of course, if it does not seem to reach the cause of your trouble, consult a physician.—(Adv.)

tale Charlie MacArthur was telling the other night. Among other things, it emphasized his horror of sitting up with the dead. "I couldn't get out of it," MacArthur declared, "and so I offered to sit up with the corpse. About midnight everybody left, leaving me alone to bite my nails and jump every time I heard a noise." "That isn't true," snorted Ben Hecht, "feeling sorry for my pal, I decided to drop in about 4 a. m. and cheer him up. What do you think he was doing? Seated by the fire, in the same room with the casket, he was drinking coffee and reading Balzac's Droll Stories."

I am reminded of one other incident which happened here and which brought new lights to a Rialto marquee. One evening an actor with a bandaged head came in. "I've been in an automobile accident," he explained. "At the hospital they were marvelous. I've never seen such dramatic and exciting work."

At a nearby table sat an unknown who drew inspiration from the actor's words. He went out of there and for six months he nosed about the clinics and hospitals in Manhattan, taking notes and crystaliz-

LOCALS MEET RALEIGH HIGH

Greenies to Enter Tilt Tomorrow As Underdogs

The quint of the local high will play Raleigh high in the local gymnasium tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock.

This will be the most outstanding game of the season for the locals. The Raleigh high are in the class "A" conference and have reigned undefeated for the past two and one-half years. Each member of their basketball squad is at least 6 feet or over in height, which accounts for their being state champions in basketball for such a long while.

Each coach who has seen the quint of the Raleigh high in action asserts that the team is the finest to be found anywhere. Reynolds May, coach of the local high, asked the coach of Wilson high on Friday night of last week if he thought the Greenies would defeat the state champions. To which the Wilson coach replied: "I am very doubtful about this, however, if any team is to defeat the Raleigh quint, it is my opinion that the basketball team of the Greenville High is the one to do it."

The Greenies have also made a fine record this season, and with the consistent practice they are undergoing each day, it will be no easy matter for teams in future games to defeat them. The game played last Friday night was the first the locals have had with a team in the class "A" conference, and tomorrow night they will play a team who, when defeated, never lost by a majority of more than 15 points.

A warm welcome awaits those wanting to see one of the best games in basketball this season in the local gym tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. So be there with your friends and see two of the most aggressive teams in the whole state in action.

All Stars Meet Bethel Tonight

The Greenville All-Stars will meet the Bethel Red Raiders tonight at 8 o'clock in the high school gym.

Bethel has one of the strongest teams in this section and tonight's game is expected to be the best one of the season. Greenville defeated Bethel during the first of the season by the score of 27-25 and the All-Stars expect to take another victory from Bethel tonight, although it will be no easy task.

Grady Speaks At Union Services

At the Eighth Street Christian church last night another of the union services sponsored by the congregations of the Christian and Presbyterian churches of the city was held. Rev. Robert C. Grady, of the latter church, delivered the sermon on "A Consecrated Imagination," basing his thoughts on the text, "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

"We terrifically need that kind of imagination," said Mr. Grady in introducing his subject. "We need imagination so consecrated and Christ-led that, fired with social passion and aflame with social purpose, we can gain a drive toward action in these larger tasks of social reconstruction—imagination so Kingdom-possessed that, unperverted by what someone has called 'doctrine-obsessed minds and prestige-hungry institutions,' we can lead forward to that newer day of Christ's increasing kingdom."

"For one thing, a consecrated imagination will be one that is focused on the highest values in life. For another thing, such will provide the key to all high religious living and Christian progress. It is the only answer to despair and pessimism. Yet again, a consecrated imagination serves the practical ends of life. Let such be properly intentioned, and in an ever-widening orb the practical ends of living and of society become served and become saved."

"But one warning, in concluding," said the minister, "for a consecrated imagination must view the future realistically. Remember that the Church—especially the Protestant Church—in this country is largely composed of privileged classes of society. Then remember what happened in Russia, is happening in Mexico and Germany, and visualize what can happen here in Greenville and this country, for what happens will depend largely on people as ourselves, who are the privileged side of the social order. The words of the prophet still call startlingly to us: 'The Lord will bring an indictment against the elders and princes of his people; it is you that have ravaged the vineyard. The plunder of the poor is in your houses. What mean you by crushing my people, and grinding the face of the poor? Rather ironically perhaps history may change those words of our text to read that "eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man those things which God hath promised for those who nominally profess to love him!"'

BETHEL PLANS ALL-STAR MEET

Second Annual Tournament to Open on Thursday Night

By R. O. MOYE.
Bethel, Feb. 17.—The city of Bethel will be hosts to its second annual all-star invitational tournament on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Feb. 20, 21 and 22, at the Bethel gymnasium here.

Eight teams will compete for the championship and are composed of the following all-star teams in East North Carolina—Edenton, Greenville, Bethel, New Bern, Lenoir, Aurora, Williamston and Goldsboro. Play will get under way Thursday night at 8:45 with the pairings as follows for opening play—Greenville vs. Edenton at 8:45; Bethel vs. New Bern at 9:00 o'clock; Lenoir vs. Aurora at 9:30 o'clock; Williamston vs. Goldsboro at 10:00 o'clock.

The semi-finals will be played on Friday night between the four winning teams of Thursday night with play beginning at 7:30 o'clock. The finals will take place Monday night at 8:00 o'clock.

In the first tournament held last year at Bethel, the Bethel all-star team nosed out a victory for the championship over Greenville by a score of 37-36. Williamston, however, is picked as the favorite in this year's tournament.

A silver loving cup will be given to the winner in the tournament, and each member of the squad will receive gold basketballs. The squad of the runner-up team will also receive trophies and in addition trophies will be given to an all-star team picked by judges of the eight teams participating, and a trophy will also be given to the most outstanding player voted upon by the judges.

Farley Will Coach Baseball At College

Boley Farley, who managed the Greenville Club of the Coastal Plain League last summer, and who is at present Physical Director at the Greenville High School, will coach baseball at East Carolina Teachers College this spring. Farley will not sever his connection with the high school.

He succeeds Doc Mathis, who has resigned as coach at the college to accept work elsewhere.

TVA One Of First Pillars In New Deal Economy Plan

southwestern Tennessee, also is under construction. A super-phosphate fertilizer is being produced at Muscle Shoals by the government and tested on 2,000 demonstration farms.

President Roosevelt, when he announced the Tennessee power development and reclamation plan, designated it as the "forerunner" of similar gigantic projects in other sections of the country. If successful, he said, it would be followed by like developments particularly in the Ohio and Arkansas valleys and in the Columbia river basin in the northwest. The Bonneville dam on the Columbia river is now one of the government's big power projects.

A Controversial Move.
Supporters of the TVA experiment contend that it promotes higher living standards among thousands of people, cheaper power, the conservation of lands and forests and "many things that lead to human betterment." They say that the dams, which the agency is building, could be duplicated on large streams in all parts of the country and that low-cost power could be made available throughout the nation.

Opponents have assailed it as a "revolutionary invasion by the government of the domain of the private business" and an attempt by the administration "through a board of three men, subject to none of the traditional checks, standards or restraints, to establish the government permanently in absolute control of the power of a vast region."

GOVERNMENT IS VICTORY AS SUPREME COURT HOLDS TVA MAY SELL ITS POWER

navigation or aid national defense. The government owned the property, Hughes said, and there was nothing in the constitution limiting the government's disposition of the power. The general purpose of the TVA, it was decided, present no "justiciable" question. The Tennessee river is a navigable stream, said Hughes, developing the thesis that the constitution reposed powers over navigation in the federal government. In its present condition the river is not adequate for commercial navigation.

The only thing involved in the present case was validity of the contract for sale of transmission lines by the Alabama company to TVA. Reading the deliberations before the distinguished audience the Chief Justice dismissed the contention that these suits had no right to do so because they were preferred stockholders of the Alabama company. Justice Brandies by implication questioned their right. A court of equity should shut its door against such action. The general purposes of TVA, he proceeded, do not provide a "justiciable" question.

It was impossible at the time to tell whether it upheld or threw out the contract under attack.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 17.—(AP)—An over-enthusiastic stock market was caught today by a TVA decision favoring the government and striking gains in utility shares were turned into losses.

Just as Chief Justice Hughes started reading the ruling a rush of buying power issues from one to three points ahead and blocs of 1,000 to 3,000 changed hands frequently.

As the reading continued the trend became uncertain Wall street and when the full import of the court's order became known traders turned to sellers and prices tumbled about their ears.

The general market was carried along in the wake.

The stock turnover approximated 5,000,000 shares, the largest in several years.
