SOVIET OFFERS FULL SUPPORT FRENCH MOVES

Agrees to Punishment of Germany for Violation of Treaty

FOR SANCTIONS AGAINST REICH

Source Declares that France Is Assured of United Front Against Germany

(By The Associated Press)
London, March 13.—(AP)—Soviet Russia threw its full support to France today, an authoritative source said, for punishment of Germany with sanctions—both military and economic—for the Reich's violation of the demilitarized Rhineland.

Representatives of the Locarno powers, after indicting Germany yesterday as a violator of the Locarno pact and the Versailles treaty by its occupation of the Rhineland, met again to determine what actions to recommend to the League of Nations.

They talked nearly two and a half hours, adjourning at 11:45 p. m. to reconvene again at 5:00 p. m. in the foreign office.

With France and Russia both pressing for severe penalties, informed sources said the powers were considering issuance of a virtual ultimatum to Adolf Hitler giving him 24 hours to reply to a demand for evacuation of the Rhineland before the league council proceeds tomorrow on its course against the Reich.

An authoritative French source said Foreign Minister Flandin entered today's conference reassured by a united Franco-British front against Hitler as well as the Soviet backing for sanctions.

The French were understood to have received recognition from the British that stiff application of the full range of sanctions might be necessary unless Der Fuehrer adopted a more conciliatory attitude.

A swift succession of private conferences preceding the full session of the Locarno powers pointed toward a conciliation for a final agreement on the penalties to be recommended in tomorrow's league council session.

Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff talked with Flandin for a quarter of an hour at a hotel where informed sources said France was assured Russia's support.

Authoritative sources said the Soviet foreign commissar would recommend to the League of Nations council session, called for tomorrow, that full sanctions—military as well as economic—be invoked.

Campus Building is Named in Honor of Late Dr. Wright

Gathering Place at Local Training College to Be Known as Robert H. Wright Building

The Campus building of the college was yesterday named the "Robert H. Wright Building," by action of the Board of Trustees.

It is fitting that this should be the building to be named for Dr. Wright as it is the one that was erected to be the center of campus life and community activities. It brings the students together in all their campus activities outside the classrooms and is available for large gatherings in the community. It is a symbol of one of his basic ideas—that the school and community should work and play together.

There is daily proof that the building is used as Dr. Wright wished it to be used. At the present time the county high schools are holding their annual basketball tournament in the hall. Recently thousands of farmers from Eastern North Carolina held their meeting there. Church conferences and conventions have been held in it, and teachers association meet there frequently. The Roosevelt balls and college dances show that it is used for social purposes.

In the plans and on the records this building has been called the "Social-Religious Building," the name itself showing its purpose, but it was shortened to "Campus Building."

The plot in front of this building, with the fountain in the center, which was donated by a graduating class, was named the "Wright Circle" when it was presented. The Robert H. Wright Building and Circle together make a most appropriate memorial to President Robert H. Wright.

Farm prices for popcorn in December, 1934, were close to $5 per 100 pounds; the price for farmers for the 1935 crop was $2.15 per 100 lbs.

FRENCH GUNNERS ALERT FOR GERMAN PLANES

Reports that a German airplane had flown over the border brought French anti-aircraft guns in threatening position along the tension-charged frontier facing the Rhineland. ## COMMITTEE AT WORK ON TAXES

Indicated that Group Would Frame Levy Netting Big Sum

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—A house ways and means subcommittee indicated today that it would frame a tax on undistributed corporate earnings which would yield the $620,000,000 requested by the administration regardless of any revision for "cushion" reserves.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill (D-Wash.) said he believed the tentative schedule "will bring in $620,000,000 although it may not be exactly that."

A rate starting at 15 per cent on the first five per cent of undistributed net corporate income and mounting to 55 per cent on 35 per cent or more of undistributed profits has received the most serious consideration of the subcommittee.

Hill said the members spent two hours this morning trying to untangle the knotty problem of how to prevent foreign holders of stock in American corporation from escaping tax on dividends.

"We are no nearer a solution," Hill said.

Hill expressed the opinion the subcommittee would not recommend that corporations be allowed to set aside for reserves entirely exempt from taxation some portion of net income.

Rather he said, corporations should be required to pay taxes on all undistributed net earnings with some part assessed at a lower rate. This he said would let them build necessary reserves even though they did pay some taxes.

Order Expenditure To Combat Floods In Various States

Work Relief Funds Are Allowed to Fight Floods in New England and Middle Atlantic States

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—Expenditures of $5,334,000 of work-relief funds to combat floods in New England and middle Atlantic states was authorized today by President Roosevelt.

The President's order, forwarded to WPA administrators of eight states by Harry L. Hopkins, said the fund could be used to provide for necessary emergency work when danger to life or great risks to property arose from floods.

WPA officials said this did not mean additional cash allotment to the states but authorized such use of existing funds.

Greenville Armory Is Approved by WPA

Raleigh, March 13.—(AP)—The Works Program Administration today allocated funds to two more armories, decided to locate armories in Greenville and Reidsville and gave funds for 12 buildings for agriculture extension work.

Agricultural buildings, each to cost $8,227.60, were allotted Duplin, Lenoir and Beaufort counties.

New Deal High Command Locks Horns With Hoover

Says Former President Sought Destroy Confidence

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—The high command of the New Deal was locked in a verbal struggle with Herbert Hoover today on the government's financial policies.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader in a broadcast defense of administration expenditures, struck out repeatedly at Mr. Hoover and declared the former president sought to "destroy confidence."

Hoover in New York at the same time reiterated his insistence on "a stable currency and a stable credit system."

In a speech last night Robinson said Hoover took every opportunity to "question the financial policies of the federal government and to raise doubts in the minds of the people who have a little money invested."

"Mr. Hoover claims now that he turned the depression in June of 1932, whereas in August of that year he was accepting renomination with the pious hope he might be able to turn the tide if given another chance."

Robinson accused Mr. Hoover of "gross misstatements" in quoting a newspaper as saying the rural resettlement administration had spent $350 in overhead for every $90 of relief. Robinson declared the paper later had published a correction but that Hoover never corrected his statement.

Speaking for the former President, Lawrence Rieky, his secretary, declared in New York last night that Mr. Hoover never had been informed that the figures were "mis-stated."

Students of ECTC End Examinations And Start Holiday

Every Bus and Train Leaving City Crowded With Students Going Home For Short Vacation

The College students are leaving the campus today as they complete their winter term examinations. Every bus or train is crowded and cars from all parts of the State are here. Very few will remain on the campus, but most of them will be back in time for registration next Tuesday morning when the spring term opens, and classrooms will be filled on Wednesday morning when classes begin.

Not many members of the faculty and staff are among those leaving today. The two days granted for a week-end holiday between terms is to give them a chance to get the term records straight before registration for the next term.

There will be the largest number of March graduates in the history of the school, but the names of those on the list will not be released until after term grades are recorded.

The next term is the last time students will be allowed to begin work on the two-year normal school course, as the course requires six terms of work which must be completed by the end of the summer of 1937. It is then that the State department will sop issuing B certificates for two-years of work.

SAVE FARMERS FROM DEBTORS

Many Farms Saved from Foreclosures by Agency

By means of friendly conciliation between creditor and debtor, the Farm Debt Adjustment, Service of the Resettlement Administration and cooperating local committees are saving many worthy farmers of this section from foreclosure, according to J. P. Greenleaf, District Farm Debt Supervisor, who was in Greenville today.

A debt reduction of approximately $75,000 has been effected for farmers in the counties of his district, including Pitt County, since September 1, Mr. Greenleaf said.

There exists in this county a small group of outstanding men known as the Farm Debt Adjustment Committee organized for the sole purpose of adjusting the debts of honest and sincere farmers who are financially overburdened, have exhausted every other resource and are unable to satisfy the creditor," Mr. Greenleaf said.

How does this committee function? What are the advantages of debt adjustment? Who is benefited by taking advantage of this process of settlement? These are some of the questions raised every day in the minds of people in this county. Such questions were answered by Mr. Greenleaf on his visit here.

The creditor as well as the debtor may be benefited by debt adjustment. For example, the debtor owes more money than his property is worth because his debts were contracted when property had—or rather was supposed to have had—a much greater value than it now has. When the obligations were incurred the debtor sincerely expected to pay his debts in full and the creditor was satisfied that this payment could and would be made. The depression came. The price of farm land as well as farm products went down. Although conditions have improved, many individual farmers are still bound down with debt beyond their reasonable ability to pay. The farmer owes more money than (Continued on page three)

WATER RUSHES OCEANWARD

At Least 14 Persons Are Left Dead By Swirling Waters

(By The Associated Press)
The icy crest of unnumbered swollen streams plunged seaward today leaving at least 14 persons dead, and endangering additional thousands and causing millions of dollars damage in eastern United States and Canada.

Cold weather increased the misery of refugees and torrents were increasing in fury in parts of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and New England.

Countless hundreds of families were made homeless by swirling waters, bridges and a dam gave way, highway and railroads were inundated and fertile farm lands were scoured of their top soil.

Two died in New Hampshire and one each in Massachusetts, Vermont, Maine, New York, New Jersey, Ontario, and Quebec.

Most of the threatened middle west was saved temporarily from flood danger by colder weather and falling snow but 100 families were forced from their homes in western Iowa.

Snow or more rain fell during the night in many parts of the east where temperatures dropped too or below freezing.

The American Red Cross at Washington asked the coast guard to send 10 boats to aid in removing refugees at Wilkes-Barre, Penn., and said it had two workers already in the area and had ordered another from Newark, N. J.

Wilbur M. Kittrell, Former Pitt Man, Claimed By Death

Funeral Services For Former Resident of Ayden to Be Conducted From Home in Robersonville

Wilbur M. Kittrell, 39, of Robersonville, formerly of this county, died in Park View hospital of Rocky Mount this morning at 4:00 o'clock following a brief illness.

Funeral services for the former Ayden man and member of a prominent Pitt county family, will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home in Robersonville. Burial will be in Ayden cemetery.

Mr. Kittrell spent most of his life in this county. He was born in Winterville, later moving to Ayden, where he remained until a few years ago. He was the son of the late L. L. Kittrell and Mrs. Stella Kittrell, who lives in this city.

He is survived by his wife, the former Miss Sallie Carmon of New Bern; two daughters, Misses Robin and Anne Kittrell; four brothers, O. S. and J. B. Kittrell of Greenville, Leon L. Kittrell of Mount Airy and L. G. Kittrell of Glenn Falls, N. J.; and two sisters, Mrs. A. R. Cannon of Ayden and Mrs. Roy T. Cox of Winterville.

Police Officer House Is Not One Arrested

Constable J. Gus Stokes today called attention to the fact that the Roland House arrested for driving while drunk Wednesday night was not the man by that name employed on the police force here.

The Mr. House arrested lives near Winterville.

Officers Praised for Solving Crime

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst and Police Chief George Clark and their forces were the recipients of congratulations today from such prominent personages as the Mayor, as well as from the average man in the streets.

The two officers were complimented, not only by local people, but over long distance telephone by people from out of the city, for their work in solving the killing of Alexander Warren and the criminally assaulting of Miss Helen Phelps tonight two weeks ago.

Telephones in both offices were kept busy today with persons expressing their congratulations.

The officers had only the barest clues upon which to base their investigation. Each of the officials paid high praise to Miss Phelps for her part in aiding them in apprehending the guilty person, or persons. They declared that it would have been a very hard task to clear the case up without the information and cooperation she so freely rendered.

PATROL FORCE NOW PREPARED

Safety Division Is Ready Enforce The Driver's Law

Raleigh, March 13.—The highway safety division is ready for the highway patrol to start active enforcement of the drivers' license law, which will begin on Monday, March 16. Director Arthur Fulk of the division said today. Up through today 662,079 driver's licenses have been issued and the photographic duplicates filed in the division of files here, so that it will now be possible to check up and determine who have already applied for and received licenses and who have not, Fulk said.

Director Fulk again pointed out that no applications or licenses have been lost, in reply to charges made in several sections of the state that hundreds or even thousands of persons who applied for licenses have never received them.

"We do have a file of between 4,000 and 5,000 applications and licenses which are defective and which we have not been able to deliver, however," Fulk said. "We have about 2,000 applications on which those applying failed either to put their address, or other necessary information required. We have been trying for weeks to get the required information to complete these applications and make it possible to issue the licenses, but in most cases we have failed. We cannot send a license to a person who neglected to give his address."

"Then we have about 3,000 licenses which have been returned to us by the postoffice department because of incorrect address, no forwarding address, and inability to locate addressee. We are doing our best to find the correct addresses of these persons and get their licenses to them. One man came in today from Winston-Salem, saying he had not received his license. We asked him what address he had given when he applied for the license, and located it immediately among those which had been returned. He had failed to leave a forwarding address. One woman wrote us a few days ago about her license, but failed to sign her name. We wrote the postmaster, asked him to try to trace the letter, finally found out her name and then found she had failed to put her address on the original application blank. So we have been trying to do everything we could to locate all those who either sent in faulty application blanks or whose licenses have been returned because of changes in address."

Italy Holds Back On Imposing Bans On German People

High Authority Says Country Flatly Refused to Actively Participate in Sanctions

London, March 13.—(AP)—A high authority stated today that Italy flatly refused to impose sanctions against Germany shortly after the British foreign office announced: "The door is still open for Germany to make any kind of an offer it wishes."

The Italian action was regarded as a stumbling block in the way of French demands that military and economic sanctions be applied to Germany for sending troops into the Rhineland.

It was stated that Hitler told the other powers that his dispute with Europe must be settled before he could participate actively in smoothing out the Rhineland trouble.

Hoey was the first of the four Democratic aspirants to file.

Statement Corroborates Account By Miss Phelps

Willie Tate Admits Taking Part in Killing of Alexander Warren and Criminally Attack on Companion, But Says One of Two Companions Actually Fired Fatal Shot

Willie Tate, 29-year-old negro, originally from Georgia, was taken to State's prison in Raleigh early today, following his arrest and confession to participation in the murder of Alexander Warren and criminal assault on Miss Helen Phelps two weeks ago tonight.

The negro, who worked at East Carolina Teachers College until he was discharged about a month ago, had been sought by officers for several days. He was arrested yesterday afternoon at Sarah Watson's cafe on Railroad street. He probably will face trial at the criminal term of Superior court, which convenes here next week.

MAN ARRESTED ROBBING BANK

Edward W. Bentz Wanted in North Carolina

Washington, March 13.—(AP)—The Justice Department today announced the arrest in Brooklyn, N. Y., of Edward Wilhelm Bentz and said he was wanted in connection with bank robberies in Nebraska, Vermont and North Carolina.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau of investigation, said Bentz was one of the participants in the $1,042,000 robbery on September 19, 1930 of the Lincoln National Bank at Lincoln, Neb.

"Prior to this bank robbery," Hoover said, "Bentz was associated with Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates."

The Justice Department statement said Bentz also was wanted for robbery of the First National Bank at Brandon, Vermont, and of the First National Bank of Mooresville, N. C.

Five men robbed the Mooresville bank November 28, 1934, obtaining $26,408 in cash, bonds and travelers checks. To bureau said Bentz and Avery Simmons were identified in this robbery.

Hoey First To File Notice Of Candidacy

Raleigh, March 13.—(AP)—Clyde R. Hoey of Shelby, said no attention to the superstition Friday the 13th is bad luck, as he paid $105 today to the State Board of Elections qualifying as a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Hoey was the first of the four Democratic aspirants to file.

He at first denied any connection with the double crime, but later admitted his guilt and implicated two more negroes, Otis Watson and George Lee, the former a local negro and the latter having come here some time ago from Virginia. The two, when questioned, denied any connection with the crimes. They were arrested last night and placed in an untraveled jail.

In a signed confession last night, Tate declared that Watson shot Warren, and he and Lee dragged Miss Phelps "up the road a piece," while Otis served as lookout. He related in detail his actions following the crimes, telling which route he took home and of washing mud from his shoes.

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst and Police Chief George Clark had high praise for the manner in which Miss Phelps had aided them in identifying and finding Tate.

The signed confession corroborated the story told by Miss Phelps in every instance, with exception of the number of persons involved. Both Sheriff Whitehurst and Chief Clark expressed the opinion that, if the other two negroes had anything at all to do with the crimes, they remained in the background. The officers said they believed Tate was the one who actually did the shooting and that he was the only one who dragged Miss Phelps from the car. They added that footprints from the car to the place where the attack took place bore out their belief.

"If it had not been for the faith we have had in Miss Helen Phelps' story, it would have been very hard for this crime to have been solved. "She readily recognized Tate's voice as that of the man who shot Warren and attacked her. She almost had a nervous breakdown while sitting in an anteroom listening to him. After identifying his voice as that of the guilty man, she was brought face to face with Tate and readily told him 'You are the man. I'll swear until my dying day your voice is that of the man who killed Alex Warren, and assaulted me'."

Officers reported that they found the gun which was used to kill Warren at the home of Tate's sister-in-law, where he has been eating recently.

The officers said there was no doubt as to whether the gun was the one used to slay Miss Phelps' companion. The two had been going together for several years.

Warren worked at a Bethel filling station. Miss Phelps is a popular amateur entertainer of this city.

The full confession, signed by Tate and witnessed by Sheriff Whitehurst and Chief Clark, follows:

"I, Willie Tate, of my own free will and accord, without any promise, inducement, or threats, make the following statement:

"Where were you born?"
"Edenton, Georgia."
"When were you born?"
"I am 29 years old."
"How long have you been in the State of North Carolina?"
"Twenty months."
"By whom have you been employed in the State of North Carolina?"
"East Carolina Teachers College."
"How long did you work for East Carolina Teachers College?"
"About 19 months."
"What was your course of employment?"
"Janitor."
"How long have you been discharged from East Carolina Teachers College?"
"Thirty-three days."
"For what reason were you discharged?"
"For buying whiskey for a student."
"By whom have you been employed since?"
"Nobody."

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington

By RAY TUCKER

DEADLOCK: It may be nothing more than smart propaganda but the Democrats' shrewdest politician predicts that the GOP nomination will fall into Herbert Hoover's lap. National Chairman Farley and Vice-President Garner will gamble their high-grade reputations as prophets on it. As they generously arrange the Cleveland scene, the Landen and Borah forces will meet in a head-on collision. The fracas may frighten other entries and dare horses off the track and leave the field to Mr. Hoover's handlers. In such a situation the dopests believe that even hostile Old Guardsmen will catch on behind as a move to get rid of the former President once and for all.

The newest Hoover tale to reach the Capital represents him as resigned to his dubious prospects. For a while he was keenly hurt by the active leaders' neglect. But several political pals undertook to impress on him that his wisest game was to let the nomination come to him if it's in the cards. They accented the "if" heavily and he reluctantly nodded assent to their strategy of watchful willingness.

SIX TEAMS ARE ELIMINATED IN PITT TOURNEY

By R. O. MOYE

The second day of preliminaries in the third annual Pitt county tourney being held in the Campus building of East Carolina Teachers College saw six more teams in the county eliminated in the championship race.

In the opening game played yesterday afternoon the Stokes girls easily defeated the Farmville girls by the score of 28-13. Stokes took a lead of 17-7 at the half, a lead which they took early in the game and maintained throughout. Miss Eunice Burton scored 17 points to feature for Stokes, while Miss Elsie Conway with 7 points, was best for Farmville.

In the game between the Winterville and Arthur boys teams, Winterville easily defeated the Arthur boys by the score of 25-6. Winterville took a 16-4 lead at the end of the half and limited the Arthur boys to one lone field goal in the final period. Little and Barnes with six points each were best for Winterville, while Raspberry of the Arthur team scored all his team's points.

In the final game of the afternoon was witnessed one of the closest games of the entire tourney so far. This was between the girls' teams of Winterville and Belvoir, with Winterville posing out a win of 21-20. Belvoir who was trailing by the score of 12-7 at the half, pulled into a 15-all tie during the second half and then into a 20-all tie in the final minutes of the game. With about a minute to play Miss Madeline Braxton shot a foul to score the winning point for her team. Incidentally Miss Braxton scored 14 points to lead her team to victory. Miss Frances Moore with 11 points led Belvoir.

In last night's opening game the Grimesland boys defeated the Grifton boys 14-9. Grimesland had a 9-5 advantage at the half and for the remainder of the game held the Grifton boys scoreless. Edwards led Grimesland with 5 points. Cauncey scored three points to lead Grifton.

In the girls' game between Chocoma and Arthur, Chocoma defeated Arthur by the score of 17-6. Chocoma had a two-point lead at the half but came back strong in the final period while the Arthur sextette were able to score only 3 points. Miss Hooks scored 6 points to lead Chocoma, while Miss Helen Warren led Arthur with 3 points.

In the final game of the night the Bethel boys' team, who last year were winners in the county tournament, easily defeated the Pacolus boys by the score of 43-8. Coach Latham of Bethel used his entire second team in the game and had little trouble in defeating the Pacolus boys. Taylor led the Bethel team with a total of 16 points. Bethel led at the half 20-3.

The schedule for today's play is as follows:

3:00 p. m.—Fountain vs. Stokes (Girls).

4:00 p. m.—Fountain vs. Grimesland (Boys).

5:00 p. m.—Grimesland vs. Chocoma (Girls).

7:00 p. m.—Winterville vs. Stokes (Boys).

8:00 p. m.—Winterville vs. Bethel (Girls).

9:00 p. m.—Ayden vs. Bethel (Boys).

CHALK WISHES
NEW PROGRAMWould Turn Streams
Into Natural Fish
Hatcheries

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, March 12.—Transformation of some 150 miles of the most desirable fishing waters of North Carolina into natural hatcheries to provide more enticing angling grounds of residents of this state and visitors, is the ambitious program proposed by the Department of Conservation and Development, J. D. Chalk, State game and inland fisheries commissioner, announced today.

One of the first steps will be to close these portions of streams, all of which are in Eastern North Carolina, to fishing for a specified period, which is contemplated to extend for a year.

This system is to be tried out in Eastern North Carolina first, according to the commission, because of limited facilities for restocking these waters from the state hatcheries and because the game fish found in the streams cannot be propagated as easily as mountain trout. The output of warm water fish depends upon natural reproduction of brood bonds and these fish cannot be hatched in troughs as are trout.

Mr. Chalk and his field forces have been studying plans and mapping out details of the program for several months, after obtaining approval of the Board of Conservation and Development.

A strip of about 35 miles of the Trent river, extending from Wilson's Creek to the highway bridge at Trenton, county seat of Jones county, will be one of the first areas to be set aside for the program. Stretches of the Lumber River, Wacamac River, Black River, Northeast Cape Fear River, and Alligator River are also being considered for the purpose.

According to plans of the game and inland fisheries commissioner, after the closing period has expired, the original portion will be opened for fishing and other sports will be closed. The reserved parts of the river would be alternated under the plan to permit fishing in some portions while other parts are closed. Game fishing would be improved considerably when the closed strips are opened to anglers and would provide excellent attractions for non-residents as well as for the people who live in the immediate vicinity and other parts of the state.

SPORT
SLANTS

Japanese swimmers, because of their short stature, are handicapped by the present rules governing speed swimming competition, especially in the plunge and on the turns, and a high official of the Japanese government urges changes to eliminate these disadvantages.

Eiji Anian, who as chief of the foreign office information bureau, is the famous "foreign office spokesman" who figures in the world press, is the exponent of such changes. Amau, a famous swimmer and baseball player in his school and university days, fears that unless the handicaps inherent in the Japanese stature are removed the aquatic champions of Nippon may lose to the Americans at the Berlin Olympics this summer—lose the world supremacy the Japanese gained so spectacularly at Los Angeles in 1932 and successfully defended against an American invasion last August.

Boys For Turns

Hence Amau, between history-making statements on Japan's political moves, is feeding representatives of the international press conferences with arguments in favor of new conditions for swimming competition. He would abolish the plunge at the start, and instead of having turns made against the solid walls of the pools he would have swimmers negotiate their turns around buoys, as in yachting and other water sports.

"Present conditions give the tall, long-legged swimmers too great an advantage," the government's spokesman said after having seen the American-Japanese dual meet in the Meiji Shrine Pool. "Much of what our swimmers gain by their speed in the water they lose to their larger opponents in the initial plunge and in making the turns. America and Japan are now so nearly equal in swimming strength that it may well prove at Berlin that just that small advantage enjoyed by the taller American boys will mean the passing of the aquatic crown from Japan back to the United States."

Amau began his campaign to change the swimming rules after watching Jack Medica, Peter Fish and other American stars, most of them 6-footers or taller, gain from one to three feet against Hiroshi Negami, Masanori Yusa and other Nipponese champions, ranging from 5 feet 2 inches to 5 feet 8 inches, on the plunge and then pick up precious inches with heave thrust of their long legs against the side of the pool at the turns. Medica defeated Negami by not more than three inches in the 400-meter free-style race in which both set a new world record at 4 minutes 45.2 seconds. Pick won from Yusa by not more than a foot in the 100-meter free-style event. Amau is confident that these results would have been different with a "standing" start and with the thrusting turn eliminated.

Apparently that little band of American swimmers who invaded Japan last summer made a lasting impression on the Nipponese officials just as their fine showing did much to raise our hopes for a victory in the Olympic swimming events. That the Americans were able to win three of the six Olympic events on the card at Tokyo—and missed the fourth when Taylor Drysdale was disqualified for making a faulty turn after touching first in the 200-meters backstroke—without the services of our two best backstroke swimmers—Adolph Kiefer and Albert Van de Weghe—indicates that the United States will be prepared to give the Japanese swimmers and all others a stiff battle for top honors.

Social and Personal

Miss Julia Brown will arrive this afternoon from Greensboro to spend the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Brown.

Dr. F. M. Davis and Dr. W. M. B. Brown have returned from a ten days' fishing trip in Florida.

Mrs. W. M. Traub who has been the guest of Mrs. Hortense F. Moye, returned to her home in Greensboro today.

Mrs. C. M. Jones left yesterday for Dunn to visit her daughter, Mrs. Earl Westbrook.

Miss Gretchen Parker of Kinston, was here today.

Visit Elizabeth City Club.
On Wednesday several members of the Greenville Woman's Club were guests and presented the program at a luncheon meeting of the Elizabeth City Club.

Mrs. J. B. Kittrell was in charge of the program, and introduced Mrs. J. H. Waldrop, who gave several vocal numbers accompanied by Mrs. Ray Tyson. The vocal numbers were followed by a very interesting talk on "Interior Decoration" by Miss Lelia Elfigs.

In addition to the talk Miss Higgs displayed samples of the latest in draperies and fabrics for house furnishings.

At a recent meeting of the local club, the Elizabeth City Club presented the program.

Mrs. Arnold Ill.
Friends of Mrs. W. H. Arnold will be sorry to learn that she is ill in Pitt General Hospital. Mrs. Arnold is the step-mother of A. O. George and Ed Clark of this city.

In Duke Hospital.
Friends of Mrs. F. L. Gaskins will regret to learn that she is in Duke Hospital for treatment.

Card of Thanks.
We wish to express our deepest appreciation to our many friends for their sympathy in our recent bereavement.
Leo F. Burks and Sons.

Eastern Star Baby Contest.

The Eastern Star Baby Popularity contest closed yesterday with a parade of the contestants, children not more than five years old. The parade was colorful, with beautifully dressed little girls wearing lovely shoulder corsages, lots of bright colored crepe paper used on tricycles and carriages, and the lone boy in the parade wearing a cowboy suit and big hat, on a very handsome pony. The winners were Emily Joyce Dupree, the most popular child, and recipient of the beautiful engraved silver loving cup; Dallas Clark, the most attractive boy, receiving a gold engraved signet ring; and Barbara Jean Bullard, the most attractive girl, receiving a lovely white gold ring with large pearl. Judges for the contest were Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Judge Dink James and Rev. W. A. Ryan.

Members of the Order of Eastern Star wish to thank the mothers of the children in the contest, and all others who had a part in making the drive a success.

It makes no difference in what section of Greenville you live, we always have an order going your way in a very few minutes. Johnson's Food Market, phone 610. (Adv.)

Carson Memorial In Membership Contest

Members of the Carson Memorial Bible Class of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church is staging a contest to secure new members and bring the old ones who have quit attending the class, back into active membership.

The class has been divided into sections and a spirited race is on to see which can make the best showing. The losing side will provide a dinner for the winners.

Corporal L. L. Jackson, W. H. Taft and Grover C. Tice have been named on a committee to map out plans to further the membership campaign.

TOWN THAT BANNED "MONKEY TEACHING" NOW GOES MODERN

Dayton, Tenn. (AP)—The prohibition against teaching evolution published in the Scopes case in 1925, has not otherwise balked "progress" in Dayton.

Those who thronged the town for the famous "monkey trial" would hardly recognize it today, with its new skyline, created by demolition of seven old buildings and erection of others.

The old brick high school, where Thomas Scopes precipitated the "battle of intellectuals" by teaching the theory of organic evolution to his sophomore biology students, has given way to a modern structure.

Also missing are the Gem City opera house, built in 1898 as one of the first brick buildings in Rhea county, the old button factory and the wooden waterhouse livery stable.

Work is progressing on the administration building of the William Jennings Bryan university, endowed by the Great Commoner who carried his fundamentalist faith to victory in the trial.

Social Calendar

FRIDAY
6:30 p. m.—The Kiwanis Club will meet in the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Warren Club Hostess.

Mrs. C. M. Warren was gracious hostess to members of her bridge club yesterday afternoon at her home on East Ninth street. Tables were placed in an attractive setting of early spring flowers.

At the conclusion of the game cards were removed and the hostess served a tempting ice course with salted nuts and candy.

For high score Mrs. E. E. Rawl was presented silk hose.

Crafts Exhibit At College.

The display of artistic articles made by the members of the class taking a course in "crafts in use in the grammar grades," makes Miss Kate Lewis's classroom look like a gift shop instead of a college classroom.

All the articles were designed and made by the students. Many of them are made of wood and with the coping saw. Among them are attractive book shelves, what-nots, magazine racks, over stards, door-stops and book-ends, of various shapes and sizes, in various colors and with a variety of art decorations. Children would glory in the animal and flower designs, and any home will be fortunate to have in it the decorative and useful objects.

A few pieces are clay work. The array of books with lovely backs is proof that the work in book-binding can be artistic as well as useful.

There was no special exhibit and no attempt to make a show of the work. The objects were placed on the tables to be graded by the teacher, but the only difference the observer could see is that slips with grades and notes are on the objects instead of blue or red ribbons.

he can pay, and the creditor does not have sufficient security for his loan. Such a situation, of course, creates a dissatisfied creditor and a distressed debtor.

Now this is where the work of the Debt Adjustment Committee can help all parties concerned. The Committee's first action is to arrange a meeting between the debtor and creditor in an attempt to work out a plan whereby one of many things may be done.

(1) The time of payment may be extended over a period of time so that the debtor can eventually meet his obligations.

(2) The creditor may reduce the amount of the debt and extend the period of time in line with the ability of the debtor to pay.

(3) If there is more than one creditor, they may, by mutual agreement, scale their debts and give more time.

(4) Perhaps there is one preferred creditor secured by mortgage and a number of other creditors that are not secured and the debts amount to more than the property is worth. If the property were foreclosed and sold under the mortgage, it is likely, after the cost of sale and the secured debt is paid, that there would be nothing left for the common creditors. In a case of this kind the Committee generally proceeds to get the common creditors to scale their claims, and, in some cases, the debtor can by a Commissioner's Loan through the Federal Land Bank increase his debt but take care of his scaled debt and thereby get his indebtedness spread over a long time period of payment. In this way the debtor saves his home and meets his obligations as they come due.

Stating that the Farm Debt Adjustment Committees do not have legal authority to force debtor or creditor to accept suggestions, Mr. Greenleaf explained that the Committee, nevertheless, is able to be of immense assistance through conciliation and by clarification of the problems involved.

"Most of the trouble is inability to see the other side of the question," he declared. "The Committee can show the creditor how he will profit by a new arrangement, and it can show the farmer how he should arrange his financial affairs to warrant further credit or an extension of time. The Committee is often able to advise farmers as to where they may refinance to best advantage."

Farmers in distress on account of debt, or creditors who desire help in securing satisfactory adjustment of mortgages, may call upon any member of the County Committee, or they may leave their rubric at the office of Mrs. Ruby Duncan, at 304 Evans street, Both Rural Rehabilitation and Farm

Debt Adjustment activities are now under the Resettlement Administration and Supervisors of each work hand in hand in striving to save homes of deserving farmers from foreclosure, Mr. Greenleaf stated.

Explains Doctrine of Holy Eucharist at Catholic Church

In the fifth of the series of Mission Sermons being delivered at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Rev. Father Maurice preached an inspiring sermon on the Catholic doctrine and teaching in regard to the Blessed Sacrament of the altar.

The Missionary brought his listeners back in spirit, to that ever memorable Holy Thursday evening when Christ, with His chosen twelve, assembled in the Upper Room. Quite vividly, the youthful Missionary described what took place in that sanctified Upper Room.

Quoting the Gospel of St. Matthew, the preacher impressed upon his hearers the clearness of the meaning of the words of the Master:—"And whilst they were at supper, Jesus took bread, and blessed and broke; and gave it to His disciples, and said: 'Take ye, and eat: This is my body. And taking the Chalice, he gave thanks, and gave to them, saying, Drink ye all of this. For this is my blood of the new Testament, which shall be shed for many unto remission of sins.'"

In explanation of these words of Christ, the Missionary reminded his congregation of an incident recorded by the Evangelists. On the occasion of the miraculous feeding of the five thousand, Christ told his listeners that He is the Living Bread. "If any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever; and the bread that I will give is my flesh, for the life of the world." The Jews therefore strove amongst themselves, saying: How can this man give us His flesh to eat? Then Jesus said to them: Amen, amen I say unto you: Except you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink His Blood, you shall not have life in you. "For my flesh is meat indeed and my blood is drink indeed."

In the application of his discourse, the priest commented on the Catholic doctrine of the living Christ in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass; on the real presence of Christ in the tabernacle of the altar; and lastly, of the living Christ as the food for the Christian soul.

He concluded with the touching appeal that a strong living faith be enlivened that the Christian soul be convinced of God's infinite and personal love, as proven by the Gift of Gifts, the gift of Himself in the Holy Eucharist.

BILIOUS SPELLS
In bilious spells, one of the first things to do is to take a dose of Black-Draught to relieve the attending constipation. You can rely on Black-Draught whenever a laxative is needed.

Mr. T. L. Austin, of McAdenville, N. C., tells of having used Black-Draught for a long time. "There is a box full on my mantel, now," he writes. "I take it for biliousness. If I did not take it, the dullness and headache would put me out of business. It is the quickest medicine to relieve me."

Black-Draught is purely vegetable. It is one of the most economical laxatives. Sold in 25-cent packages containing 25 doses.

Ghost Walks All Over Hollywood Trying To Get Rid Of Paychecks

By ROBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—When the ghost walks in Hollywood, he takes a hike—literally.

Pay-day means a stroll from stage to stage, from star dressing room to executive office, for the studio cashier.

The extras, bit players, carpenters, electricians and property men file by the cashier's barred window to collect their week's earnings, but the stars—in the majority of cases—get those fancy checks delivered. They do, that is, if they see them at all.

Most stars have agents who pop up, bright and early each pay-day, to collect their checks for them. The agent, with his 10 per cent in mind, wastes no time getting to the bank. He always bears with him a letter from the star, or a power of attorney, authorizing such collection. If he hasn't, the studio cashier in most instances will not release the check.

Astaire Collects
Ginger Rogers is one star who never sees her paycheck. She has a manager who banks it for her, allowing her to draw her "allowance" against it. But Fred Astaire, says Harry Peale, RKO cashier, is always at his window, bright and early Wednesday morning, to collect in person.

Ann Harding likes to let her checks accumulate—sometimes as many as three or four weeks—and collect them wholesale.

"Once she recalled," says Harry, "the days when she made $30 a week and a pair of new stockings was a thrill. Now, she told me, she can buy a hundred pairs at once and never miss the cost—and it's not so exciting."

Those affected, broadening the inquisitorial powers of the federal trade commission.

Known as the Wheeler-Rayburn bill and sponsored by the two men who engineered the utility holding company measure through congress at the last session, the proposed legislation would give FTC almost unlimited authority to pry into the organization, business conduct, practices and management of individuals and corporations engaged in commerce.

Either by direction of the President, house or senate or, what is more important, upon its own initiative FTC could launch any sort of investigation it pleases.

Senate discussion of seizure of telegrams by the Federal communications commission and the Black committee was followed by passage of a senate resolution directing the communications committee to make a detailed report of the agents' activities in "any inspection or alleged seizures of telegrams and records of telephone communications, or other private communications, or from any point in the United States."

Talk Bigger Beer Tax
The ten cent glass of beer is responsible for the suggestion in the house ways and means committee to increase the tax on the beverage from $5.00 to $7.50 a barrel as a means of obtaining additional revenue recommended by President Roosevelt.

Congress, in holding the original tax to $5.00 a barrel after beer was legalized, did so because it thought it would make a nickel glass possible. The cheap beer failed to materialize, however.

More figuring has revealed that by hiking the tax to $7.50 a barrel, the government could realize around $100,000,000 in additional revenue and the average man still pay his dime a glass.

A 'Test' Of Thrift
Dr. Tugwell's aides in the Resettlement Administration "blew up" on this one:

A western congressman telephoned that he was in receipt of a letter from one of his constituents saying word was being passed around in that section that the federal government had decided to contribute $1,000 each to 4,000 families throughout the country in an effort to determine how thrifty people were.

Would the RA advise if this was true, queried the congressman, and if so "who was responsible for such a blankety-blank scheme?"

RA officials still are trying to find out where such a report originated.

Here Comes Hepburn!
Peale always knows when Katharine Hepburn is coming to collect.

"You can hear her laughing and joking a block away—but she's mighty nice," he adds.

At Metro the agents get most of the checks but Mary Carlisle, Maureen O'Sullivan, Cecilia Parker and Henry Wadsworth are among the few who call in person. Joan Crawford's chauffeur picks up hers and Franchot Tone's.

Claudette Colbert, Mary Ellis, Charles Boyer, Joan Bennett, Henry Fonda and Margaret Sullivan are among the great majority who have agents helping the ghost walk to them. At Warner Brothers the cashier delivers the checks personally, unless the player is not working at the time.

Rhineland as far as Washington officialdom was concerned.

With President Roosevelt, Cabinet members and foreign diplomats as their guests, the White House Correspondents' Association staged their annual dinner on the evening of the day the "symbolic battalion" goose-stepped into verboten territory. Highlight of the entertainment was a synthetic movie in which the President was pictured as putting on an "amateurs' hour."
FDR tossed his head in frank enjoyment of the broad satire of his side.

Then Cordell Hull's weary face flashed on the screen. While he reiterated his demand that nations settle their disputes by "peaceful means," warlike scenes unrolled.
There were grim shots of troops and tanks parading through the streets of world capitals, battleships driving through the Mediterranean, airplanes dropping bombs.
The coincidence created a tragic rather than the intended comic impression, and a spirit of tenseness swept through the darkened banquet hall.

WOUNDS: Hugo Black's renewal of his drive against utility propa-gandists may have spoiled backstage schemes for promoting a limited reconciliation between the White House and some bigwigs in the industry.

It is understood that this was the delicate topic which dominated the recent conference between the President and Owen D. Young. The New York magazine explained that about $1,000,000,000 worth of construction was being withheld because of uncertainty over the administration's future policies. He intimated that he would serve as good-will ambassador if there were any good will to hand out. Both sides would like to break the jam holding up unemployment which would reduce unemployment.

FDR's reply hasn't got into the record yet. But White House con-fidents are waving olive branches in the air. Certain utilitarians have urged at inner councils that they make up with the administration.
But the warfare over seized telegrams and their contents has revived wounds first inflicted by the "yardstick" ironic feature is that Mr. Black's "expose" hits corporations which the industry brands openly as "black sheep."

DISCIPLINE: Dignified Federal Reserve members can't afford to pay public attention to attacks on their current personnel shakeup.
But it is known that their retirement of certain reserve bank heads amounts to a deliberate showdown between Washington and private financiers throughout the country.
Reserve bank officials now in office were named through the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover regime. Many were appointed because of the influence of local bankers. They have been suspected of shaping policies so as to satisfy their backers' desires rather than national needs.
Some have flatly refused to adopt rate changes and orders which Washington wanted. Previous boards have had plenty of grief in these disputes.

The Eccles group is more nettled than they let on by suggestions that politics motivated retirement of several anti-New Deal bankers.
They maintain that the political affiliations and activities of the busied officials were never mentioned. Important fact is that they want the banking community to learn right now that a hard-boiled crowd is running the show at the Capital.

G. O. P.: As John M. Hamilton
quits his Republican headquarters job to become organizer for Gov.
Alfred Landon, and Senator Borah goes into Pennsylvania primaries, the G. O. P. situation becomes a little more tense.

General opinion among old-stagers in politics is that Borah will not hold Pennsylvania in line, even if he wins delegates, as they are not bound to stand by him. Eastern managers are planning to throw Borah out of the automobile on a lonely road. That would suit many

Golden Rain

by Margaret Widdemer

SYNOPSIS: Morgan-Bloch is a boarder in the house of Miss Ella Lanning, whose family is impres-sioned, but whose pocketbook is rather lean. Morgan and Ella Lanning, Miss Ella's beautiful and gifted niece, have come to like each other enough to engage in a kind of courtship. Now Ella has asked Morgan to open an old trunk in the attic. Thinking that she may find something in it that she can use for herself, and Morgan feels that perhaps the trunk contains a dark mystery.

Chapter Seven SURPRISE

"NO," SAID Iris. "It's labeled, as neatly as Aunt Ella always does. Jean's other things. Of course it may be just mine and Owen's baby clothes."

"Owen?"

"I had a brother who died when he was five and I was a year and two months old, about the time Mother died. I wish I remembered her."

Morgan rose and pulled down his thick dark blue sweater. "Come on, Iris, I'll do your Boy Scout deed."

They gained the enormous attic, smelling delightfully like apples and clothes and dry wood. Morgan followed Iris across the sounding boards, far back under the eaves till they both had to kneel. Under a presents I never got come to be in this trunk?"

"He doesn't know anything about you, or want you, or he'd have looked you up." Miss Ella was suddenly transformed from the mouse of a woman Morgan had known to a fiery vindictive creature.

"That woman, Josie Ross, has him. Your mother left your father, and took both of you. She went to that creature, her sister. We got you back; they hadn't any money then, they couldn't fight. Your father didn't want you told. So of course I didn't tell you."

"You've done this to me all these years I thought you loved me!" Iris said passionately. "I've loved and trusted you and Uncle William; and you've kept me from knowing I had a brother, you kept me from my mother. How do I know you're telling the truth?"

"You can look in my scrapbook.
Her death notice is in that," said
Miss Ella sullenly.

"Let me see it!" Iris demanded.
"It's in the Sherraton desk in the dining room, the locked drawer.
Here's the key."

Iris quieted a little. Her aunt wouldn't say this if it weren't true.

"I'M ASTONISHED at the way you're taking it," said Miss Ella with incredible reproving anger.

"Why, I never had her," declared Iris.

half dozen boxes and a broken rocker was the trunk.

One movement of Morgan's strong brown hands wrenched the hinges off, and Iris dipped avidly in, lifting out a large tissue paper wrapped bundle that lay by a large flat green pasteboard box. She opened it.

"A doll!" she said. "A big beautiful French doll, perfectly new! Why, I never had her, I swear I never did!"

"That's queer. Try the box," Morgan said. She opened it.

"This is queerer still. It must be my dress. But it's never been worn, either—none of these things have."
She tossed them over. Exquisitely made, of exquisite material, the trunk held the summer and winter wardrobes of a girl from two to five years old. "I know I never had them," she said again, bewildered, and dug deeper.

Morgan, also exploring, dragged up a couple of photographs. "Who are these?" he asked. "Cousins?"

She took them from him, and they both stared down at them.

"They're my mother," she said,
"but it doesn't make sense."

THE first was a girl, not unlike Iris in build and carriage. A five-year-old boy stood by her, the baby iris was in her arms. The names underneath were Jean, Owen, Iris.

The second was of Jean Lanning taken three years later. A taller, darker, harder-looking young woman stood behind her. The boy was still there. He looked about eight or nine.

They died when he was five. But they're alive in this picture, and he's eight. Morgan, what does it mean? she demanded.

Before he could answer they heard quick footsteps on the stairs. Miss Ella ran, even though her face was white and angry.

"What are you doing in that trunk?" she demanded harshly.

"Aunt Ella, where are my mother and little brother? Where did all these things come from?"

"Your mother," dead I told you.
Iris stood over her aunt relentlessly.

"Is my brother dead too? If my mother's dead, how did all these

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN
VALUABLE: New Yorkers learn that the real author of the proposal to tax corporate surpluses was Herman Oliphant—counsel to the Treasury Department. He drafted the plan substantially as it was presented to Congress by President Roosevelt.
Mr. Oliphant is one of Secretary

Morgenthau's most trusted advisers.
He worked with the Secretary on the latter's first New Deal job in the Federal Farm Credit Administration and became so useful that Mr. Morgenthau brought him along to the Treasury.

He has had an important hand in conciliating other legislative pie-—although always modestly in the background. He whipped the bill into shape which translated the Warren theory of dollar devaluation into action. He also had a lot to do with drafting the silver act.
This was a diplomatic masterpiece.

The bill managed to satisfy the silver Senators while leaving Secretary Morgenthau powers of discretion in carrying out the silver purchase policy which he urgently wanted.
You can see why the Treasury chief rated his aide's services too valuable to allow him to be named to the new Federal Reserve Board —an appointment that was seriously discussed.

BALANCE: The best posted New Yorkers are not perturbed by the war scare. Paradoxical as it sounds, they figure Hitler's bold treaty violation has actually improved the chances that Europe will keep the peace for a while.

It's known that the Rhineland occupation has been vigorously urged by Nazi party extremists for some time. The heads of the German Army were opposed. The blood and thunder boys finally got their way with Hitler—but by that very token they had had their inning now and cannot ask for more.
Germany will make no war of her own initiative until the Army gives the word—and the Army is still a long way from ready.

On the other hand, France will not dare to take military measures without the British support she cannot get. She must now pay the price for her lukewarm cooperation with England in the early stages of the Italian controversy. Britain is in a beautiful position to pursue her pet balance of power ideas—with herself holding the scales. She will take good care that the forthcoming gales of blistering oratory do not blow up a storm of lead.

ADVANCE: One angle of the new situation is an especial source of worry to the French, though they naturally aren't advertising it. The heavy artillery backbone of their powerful fortifications along the German frontier is composed mainly of high-range howitzers concealed in deep emplacements.

These howitzers are pointed so high they can pump shells only into a limited area. They were designed to cover the territory behind the demilitarized zone with an intense barrage. That was the line from which any German advance was supposed to start.

The sad part is that the gunnery can't touch the demilitarized zone itself. The Germans are now so close they are out of range of France's main defensive weapons.
Changing the armaments to meet this challenge will be slow and very costly. So Hitler has gained even more of a military advantage than appears on the surface.

SQUIRMING: Secretary Hull's recent remarks about our willingness to enter a currency stabilization agreement may have started a political prairie fire that will scorch both parties.

The Committee for the Nation's protest against the implication of a return to an international gold standard touched a match to dry grass. The big farm groups are all sold on managed currency as the sovereign remedy for agricultural ailments. They haven't been very militant about it lately because they were waiting to see how the soil conservation law works out. But they are suspicious of moves towards stabilization and private councils of war have been convoked to decide whether the situation calls for full strength mobilization on behalf of their monetary beliefs.

FDR is opposed to further monetary experiments. So are all the leading G. O. P. candidates except Borah. But both sides want that farm vote badly, so if the organizations cut loose you will see some fancy squirming.

EXPECT BUILD COTTON ROADS

To Construct About Fifty Miles as An Experiment

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, March 11.—The State Highway and Public Works Commission is hoping to be able to build from 50 to 60 miles of "cotton roads" this spring and summer, as a result of the appropriation by Congress to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads of $1,300,000 to be used in building experimental roads using cotton fabric as a binder between the clay base and the bituminous surface on top. Chief Engineer W. Vance Baise said today.

He has written to the Bureau of Public Roads for further information and to find out, if possible, how much of this sum will be allocated to North Carolina.

"We have been planning to build some of these 'cotton roads' this spring with state funds, in order to determine whether the surface treated roads built with a cotton fabric binder will stand up better and wear longer than roads built without it," Baise said.

"But if the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads will furnish the fabric for these experimental roads, as preliminary reports indicate, we will try to build from 50 to 60 miles of these roads this year, since we can use the fabric on roads which we are going to rebuild or retreat anyway and at no additional expense. We are hoping that this will be the case since the cotton fabric needed cost from $800 to $1,000 a mile and the cost of surface treatment a road is increased by that amount."

There is no doubt that the use of the cotton fabric binder between the road base and the surface treatment, helps to hold the base together and make the road stand up better, since it prevents the seepage of water and moisture into the base, Baise pointed out. Much of the damage to surface treated roads this winter could undoubtedly have been prevented or greatly reduced if they had been built with the cotton binder to prevent rain, snow and moisture from getting into the clay and soil base.

The only question to be determined is whether the additional cost involved in building these "cotton roads," amounting to from $800 to $1,000 a mile will be justified by longer wear and a decrease in maintenance costs, Baise said.

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington.—Those interested in anti-lynching legislation at the present session of congress might do well to ask Senator Byrnes of South Carolina what he carries around in his pockets these days.

He probably won't tell you, but everybody in the Senate knows that among other things is the resolution of Senator Van Nuys of Indiana authorizing an investigation of recent lynchings, bearing the approval of the judiciary committee.

The Van Nuys resolution came into Byrnes' hand because he is chairman of the senate committee on audit and control—the group which must approve all expenditures for such investigations. In this particular case $7,500 is requested.

Already in his possession since February 13, Byrnes is smilingly non-committal as to how much longer he'll keep it snugly tucked away. Outside of vague mention that he has "no plans" and that hearings will be necessary, he has nothing else to say.

Despite the declaration of Van Nuys that he has no intention of letting his resolution die in the committee, the fact remains that the committee can't act until Byrnes calls a meeting. The suspensions on capitol hill are that either Byrnes will not call a meeting for this purpose or that he will delay it so long that action on the Van Nuys resolution will be impossible in the crush of the closing days of the session.

Byrnes knows that in either case he will be safe. Southern solidarity in the Senate can be depended on to smother any anti-lynching legislation brought in between now and the date set for adjournment. Filibusters may come and go in the senate, but the mere whisper of anti-lynching legislation provokes the most unyielding of them all.

This was demonstrated as late as the last session when an effort was made to force a vote in the senate on the Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill. Two or three senators were able to block the move. The sizeable, though minority bloc of southerners could have stalled off a vote for months.

Previously, in 1922, even after an anti-lynching bill had passed the house, southern senators organized, served notice that not a lick of work would be done until the bill was withdrawn, and forced the Republican leadership to accede to their demand.

In 1922 the southern senators were charged individually with the responsibility of warding off a vote for 18 hours. Every known parliamentary trick was employed.

Senator Smith, Byrnes' colleague, has assumed the floor leadership against any anti-lynching legislation now. He's prepared to go the limit.

Washington, March 7.—Whispers behind the scenes concerning the house investigation of the money-raising and spending activities of the Townsend old age pensions organization hint of interesting disclosures forced into the open from disgruntled Townsends themselves.

The titular leader of the Townsend bloc in the house—Representative Monaghan of Montana—is far from pleased with the way certain things are going within the organization.

Chairman of the Townsend committee on legislative strategy, the 29-year-old, robust Montana representative, serving his second term in the house, is particularly dissatisfied with the lack of appreciation shown by the national organization for efforts put forth by members of congress to secure enactment of the plan.

Especially is he at outs with R. E. Clements, co-organizer and secretary of the Townsend movement and key figure in the publication of the Townsend weekly, the official organ of the Townsend movement.

Monaghan makes no secret of his feud with Clements and the reason for it. It's political and personal. The youthful representative, who will reach his 30th year on March 26, wants to go to the United States senate, Senator Murray, who succeeded the late Tom Walsh, is up for reelection this year and Monaghan is anxious for his seat.

He claims he has the blessing of Dr. Townsend, but that for some reason the Townsend Weekly refuses to come to his support. More than that, Monaghan charges, "an attempt has been made to give the impression that my candidacy for the senate would be harmful to the Townsend cause."

The story is told that Monaghan confronted Clements with such charges at a meeting of Townsend supporters in congress at a private meeting one night in the office of Representative Connelly of Massachusetts. Clements is reported to have told Monaghan flatly that "it might interest you to know we will accept a paid advertisement from your opponent."

He has as a prize exhibit a recent issue of the Townsend Weekly containing the following headlines and stories which occupy almost a whole page:

"Hoover Kept Busy," "Borah Announces," "Landon Starts His Campaign," "Knox Leads."

"How do these men," he demands of Clements, "some of whom have termed the plan 'visionary' and 'great illusions' merit publicity in your columns. I challenge you to justify your actions in that those members of the house who so loyally and fearlessly took the jeers, the jokes and sneers now are being tossed to the oblivion of obscurity and in many instances being abused."

CAN HE PITCH LIKE DAD?

"Just pitch like your dad, son!" That was the advice of Connie Mack (right) to Walter Johnson, Jr. (left), 21, when the son of the "Big Train" reported to the veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics for a try-out at the training camp in Fort Myers, Fla. (Associated Press Photo)

He has asked Bell of Missouri, chairman of the investigating committee, to call Clements as one of the first witnesses. Although not a member of the committee, he has promised to be on deck when Clements appears.

FARMALL FARMING Is Still 'Way Ahead of Any Other

McCORMICK-DEERING

THE FARMALL way of farming row crops is still the cheapest and best way. There isn't any other that can touch it. FARMALL owners have been able to cut production costs to the very bone—they are in a position to take advantage of any upturn in farm prices and profit by it.

Make the FARMALL investment yourself and enjoy all the advantages that FARMALL power brings to its users. There is a size for every farm now with the addition of the FARMALL 12 for small farms. Other sizes are the original FARMALL which handles 2 plows, and the FARMALL 30 for 3-plow work. Remember there is only one true FARMALL—the McCormick-Deering.

Come in and let us tell you about it. Or better yet, call us for a demonstration of the FARMALL that is best suited for your farm.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 13.—(AP)—War fears continued to drive most stocks down in today's market.
The selling was of a comparative rapid character during the first two hours and scattered issues showed signs of wanting to move against the trend. The sliding movement gained momentum later.
The late tone was heavy. Transfers approximated 3,000,000 shares.

NEGRO SIGNS CONFESSION HE PARTICIPATED IN MURDER, ASSAULT CRIMES

"Then you say you are not employed by anyone at the present time?"
"No, Sir."
"Where were you on the night of Friday, February 28th?"
"I was in the pool room and the open field near the tobacco barns."
"Who was with you near the tobacco barns in the field?"
"Otis Watson and George Lee."
"What was your purpose?"
"To rob."
"We were over laying in the field. I was half-way asleep and Otis said he seen a car and said, 'Get up.' And I got up and we all went to where we seen a car turn in at and there was a car there behind the tobacco barn. There was a man and woman in the car."
"Did you ever know this man or this woman?"
"No, Sir."
"Had you ever seen them before?"
"No, Sir."
"And George opened the door and Otis shot the man and me and George pulled the woman out of the car and up the road a little piece and Otis whistled and we looked. I and George dragged her down the path. George tore her bloomers off. We both threw her down. We were both trying to get on her. After he seen the light of the car coming Otis whistled. I ran to the right after the car came up like it did.

"I ran across the field to the right and fell in the ditch, came down the highway toward Greenville, went to New Higgs Street through the school yard, out to Fleming Street, down Fleming Street a little piece. I turned around and came back to the light and stopped. And then went on over to the house and washed my shoes off and went to bed."

Father-Son Banquet In Ayden Wednesday Is Widely Attended

The first annual Father and Son banquet of the Ayden Young Tar Heel Farmers organization was held Wednesday night, March 11, at 7:30 o'clock, in the Ayden Community building. About 55 people were present, including students, fathers and guests.

The banquet was serviced by the Ayden Home Economics class, Miss Annie Laura Herring, teacher. The toastmaster for the occasion was Roderick Sumrell, president of the Ayden Young Tar Heel Farmers.

The Young Tar Heel Farmer organization is composed of boys taking vocational agriculture under S. F. Peterson, N. B. Chestnut, district supervisor of agricultural education was the speaker. He was introduced by Mr. Peterson. The main thought in his speech was "Vocational agriculture trains farm boys to do better what they will most likely do in life." He also stressed the progress the Ayden Agricultural department had made in its first year.

Senator Arthur B. Corey of Greenville spoke on the thought "Boys train yourselves for work in life, high character and healthy living." Senator Corey stated that he is a supporter of vocational education in the State Senator.

The next speaker was D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt County schools. Mr. Conley told of the history of the schools in Ayden including the consolidation and building of the new school plant, and now the enlarged school of training through vocational agriculture.

Other speakers on the program were: G. W. Prescott, C. V. Cannon and Blayne Sumrell, members of the school board; J. H. Coward, county auditor; J. R. Turnage, J. B. Pierce, J. H. Mobley, agricultural teacher of Winterville; G. M. Britt, agricultural teacher of Stokes, and B. A. Pape, agricultural teacher of Pountain.

RABBI WHO WRITES MUSIC NOW WORKS ON ORATORIO

Cincinnati, (AP)—James G. Heller, rabbi of Isaac M. Wise Temple, is working on an oratorio he hopes to complete this summer.

Composer of considerable chamber and religious music and of four strangely contrasting orchestral arrangements that received an enthusiastic reception recently from a Cincinnati symphony audience, the rabbi has completed the text of the oratorio and has made progress with the music.

The four orchestra sketches, which Rabbi Heller says had NO particular significance, enjoyed such success when played from manuscript by the Cincinnati symphony that Director Eugene Ormandy requested their use for the Minneapolis symphony orchestra.

ARGUMENT FOR PATROL AUTOS

Patrolmen Almost Lose Lives Because of Motorcycles

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, March 13.—Two highway patrolmen nearly lost their lives within the past week or so because they were riding motorcycles instead of in patrol cars, Captain Charles D. Farmer admitted today. One of these patrolmen, C. A. Beard, is still in a very serious condition in a hospital in Hickory suffering from a broken breast bone, two broken ribs, a punctured lung, a double fracture of the left leg and many minor bruises, caused when his motorcycle skidded out from under him on a muddy spot on the pavement while he was riding on patrol duty. Beard's home is in Mecklenburg county, near Charlotte, and was stationed in Newton. It is now believed, however, that he has a good chance to recover.

The second patrolman who almost lost his life but who escaped uninjured, is E. W. Jones, of Moore county, stationed at Franklin, N. C. Macon county who was fired on with an automatic rifle of sub-machine gun while chasing a stolen automobile on Route 28 between Franklin and Highlands a few nights ago. Five bullets from the machine gun in the car he was chasing struck his motorcycle, one of them striking his headlight and forcing him to give up the chase.

The headlight, incidentally, saved his life, since if it had not stopped the bullet, Jones would not be alive today, according to Lieut. Fisher, who reported the incident. One bullet penetrated his glove, went up the sleeve of his coat and came out at the elbow. Another bullet grazed his arm and left a seared place on it.

"If Jones had been in a patrol car, he could have overtaken the stolen car and the gunman in it, since the cars have bullet proof windshields and two headlights," Captain Farmer said. "But when they shot his headlight out, he was forced to give up the chase. It was a miracle he was not killed, as it was."

"Likewise, if Beard had been driving a patrol car, instead of riding a motorcycle, he would not be broken to pieces and fighting for his life in a hospital, as he is today. Motorcycles are all right for patrol duty in daylight and in clear weather. But we need more patrol cars for night patrol duty and for use in bad weather. We really need 120 patrol cars instead of only 60 as at present."

RAG DOLL TEST GIVES FARMERS INDEX TO CORN

Cincinnati, Ohio.—(AP)—Ohio agricultural experts are cautioning farmers against planting seed corn before careful testing.

Severe cold weather has caused much seed corn to deteriorate due to freezing of the moisture content. Carl R. Bibbee, Hamilton county agent, says farmers may find many ragged fields unless they conduct careful tests.

He adds, corn that tested 85 per cent germination before Christmas has been found to test only 65 per cent now.

As a result he is inaugurating the "rag doll method" for testing corn and his office is filled with containers that will tell the story of the value of potential seed corn.

The method, roughly, consists of removing about 10 kernels of corn from an ear, marking both the kernels and the ear, and wrapping the kernels in a moist cloth or paper toweling.

The kernels then are placed in a container for a week, after which the kernels are removed and the sprouts, if any, are examined to learn the advisability of planting from the ear from which the kernels were removed.
