EASY PASSAGE
COMPACT BILL
IS PREDICTION

Senator Bailey Says
Act to Have Easy
Sailing

GOVERNOR TO GO
ON AIR TONIGHT

Ehringhaus to Appeal
to Tobacco Growers
to Support Whatever
Program Evolved

Raleigh, March 16.—(AP)—Senator Bailey (D. N. C.), at home here over the week-end, predicted the tobacco compact bill would have easy sailing in congress.

"The senate is in a position to consider the bill immediately and I anticipate nothing to interrupt its progress through the senate or house," he said.

"The bill is simply a measure giving force and authority to the consent of the several states involved to meet their problem."

The legislation is sought to permit flue cured tobacco states—Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia—to enter into compacts to control acreage.

Bailey said he would give Governor Ehringhaus "every cooperation" in his appeal to President Roosevelt for a 50 million dollar allotment for tobacco areas under the new soil conservation program.

It was understood that Ehringhaus had received messages from the other tobacco states assuring him of support in his appeal for funds to encourage farmers to reduce their tobacco acreages.

The Governor will speak over the radio here tonight, appealing to the tobacco growers to support whatever tobacco control program evolved.

CONGRESSIONAL DELEGATION
HOLDS TOBACCO CONFERENCE

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—North Carolina congressional delegation met today to frame an answer to Governor Ehringhaus' telegram in which the state executive asked support of a proposal that President Roosevelt allocate $50,000,000 for the tobacco program under the new soil conservation act.

Every member of the delegation with the exception of Rep. A. L. Bulwinkle of Gastonia, who has been ill, was present at the session, called by Rep. Robert L. Doughton, the delegation's dean.

Two members, Representatives J. Walter Lambeth of Thomasville, and John H. Kerr of Warrenton, in individual replies, already have said the delegation on March 2 made a similar request of the President.

Kerr suggested the governor should call a special session of the state legislature to consider compact legislation for regulation of tobacco production.

William J. Bundy
Seeks Position Of County Legislator

Candidate, Who Once Taught
School, Officially Announces
Candidates For State House

William J. ("Dick") Bundy today announced his candidacy for the State House of Representatives.

Born in Farmville in 1900, Mr. Bundy received his education at the Farmville graded schools and Trinity College, now Duke University. He taught school three years, but started practicing law in 1926 and has been engaged in this profession since.

He is married to the former Miss Ruth Carson, daughter of the late S. T. Carson of Bethel. The couple has one child, a nine-year-old daughter.

Mr. Bundy served as mayor of Bethel 1927-29. He was appointed by the county commissioners to serve as solicitor of recorder's court in 1932 to fill the unexpired term of W. S. Tyson.

The candidate is a member of the Kiwanis Club, he is present district deputy grand master of Masons in this district, teacher of the young men's Bible class of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church.

Mr. Bundy ran for the House of Representatives in 1930 and received enough votes to demand a second primary, but declined to call the second vote.

Baseball Fans Invited

These flooded eastern Pennsylvania homes looked "like doll houses dunked in a bathtub" to Joseph Caneva, Associated Press photographer who recently returned from the Ethiopian war front, as he flew over the flood area. Shown in this general air view of the greatest flood in years at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., are 247 houses isolated by high water. Most of the city was under several feet of water, and scores of families were forced to leave their homes. (Associated Press Photo).

NEW DEAL ACT
IS CONTESTED

Court Hands Down
Only Two Important
Decisions

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—Another New Deal case involving constitutionality of the public utilities holding company act was appealed today to the Supreme Court.

The court met in brief session but handed down only two decisions of restricted significance and a list showing what new appeals they had decided to entertain or ignore.

Thereupon the justices adjourned until March 30.

No ruling was given on the long-pending anti-trust suit of the government against the sugar institute.

The holding company case appeal was filed by Burco, Inc., of Baltimore under a ruling by the circuit court of appeal at Charlotte.

The circuit court declined to pass upon the constitutionality of the law but ruled that the American States Public Service Company did not have to register with the Securities and Exchange Commission because it did only an intra-state business.

The petition, the first to the tribunal involving this law, asked that the questions be decided on as soon as possible.

There were said to be pending 46 cases filed by 147 public utility holding companies in attempts to restrain enforcement of the act.

One more New Deal case is expected to be appealed in time for a decision this term. It involves a decision also by the Circuit Court at Charlotte upholding the right of the federal government to furnish PWA funds for publicly owned hydroelectric projects.

Two New Deal cases have been argued and are ready for decision in April or May.

They involve constitutionality of the Guffey coal act and the 1933 "truth in securities" act.

Dr. Robert Humber
to Speak Here Tonight

Dr. Robert L. Humber, Jr., formerly of this city, but now of Paris, France, will speak at the Woman's club tonight at 7:30 o'clock at which time men, as well as women, are invited.

Dr. Humber's talk will be informal and his subject will be "Some Comparative Aspects of International Education."

Dr. Humber spoke at Memorial Baptist church yesterday morning and was heard by a large number of members and visitors.

Feared Lost in Dust
Small Boys Show Up

Two Butte, Colo., March 16.—(AP)—Three-year-old Steve Benson walked into a farm house today after spending the night lost in one of the worst dust storms ever to strike this area.

More than 500 persons were searching for the boy expecting to find him smothered or frozen to death. When he reached the farm home, six miles from where he disappeared yesterday afternoon, he said:

"I slept out. Saw the cows." Almost immediately he fell asleep. Doctors examined him and said his conditions was "exceptionally good."

Veteran residents of the south-eastern Colorado "dust bowl" were amazed that the child lived through the night.

Driver Gets Away
Following Wreck
of Liquor Vehicle

Operator of Car Bearing Case of Illicit Whiskey Flees Scene Before
Officers Arrive

Highway patrolmen today were seeking the identity of the person driving an automobile bearing a case of illicit liquor which crashed into another car driven by Steve Calos of Kinston, last night.

The Kinston man was slightly injured, his right arm having been cut.

Corporal L. L. Jackson, who investigated the wreck which occurred about four miles from Greenville on the Winterville road, said the car which was hauling the liquor was registered in the name of Helen Louise Brown of Greenville.

The patrolman said the operator of the automobile ran following the wreck and he had been unable to apprehend the driver as yet.

Tax Drafters May
Be Forced Resort
Processing Levies

Both Democrats and Republicans, However, Hope To Avoid Such
Tax in Election Year

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—A possibility that congressional tax drafters may have to resort to processing taxes to fill out President Roosevelt's $720,000,000 revenue program appeared today despite a desire among both Democrats and Republicans to avoid such election year levies.

"We don't have to go to processing taxes but we shall have to go somewhere to get them," Chairman Samuel B. Hill (D-Wash.) of the House ways and means tax subcommittee said.

"Of course if the March 15 income tax returns show a very great increase over estimates that would help a lot."

The subcommittee, he told reporters, spent two hours this morning struggling over the question of how to collect income taxes from foreigners on their dividends from stock in American corporations. No decision was reached.

He added that the subcommittee expected to conclude its revenue studies this week so that open hearings before the full committee could start next week.

Last Rites Held For Little Beatrice Hill

Funeral services for little Miss Beatrice Hill, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hill, who died Friday, were conducted yesterday afternoon at the home of her parents.

Rev. Worth Wicker was in charge of the services. Burial followed in Greenwood cemetery.

Besides her parents, the little girl is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Staff, Lucille, Gus, Paul, Jr., and Ritchie Hill.

Among the out-of-town guests for the funeral included Nick and Gus Manos of Suffolk, Lewis Manos of Newport News, Bill Battis of Newark, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. James Willoughby and Miss Beatrice Willoughby of Rocky Mount, Christ Stekas, Pete Balafas, Harry Williams and William Williams of Kinston, and James Hill and family of Raleigh.

Next to the United States, Canada is the most auto-minded country, with one car to each eight persons.

Man Arrested for At-

Sum from Heiress

Manchester, Eng., March 16.—(AP)—Alfred Molyneux, 31, of Lancashire, was jailed today on a charge of attempting to extort 200 pounds ($1,000) from Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow, by pretending to reveal a plot to kidnap her new born son.

Police said that Molyneux had admitted writing a letter during "moments of depression" offering to disclose the "plot." He was remanded in custody for a week.

The prisoner was trapped by police when he went to keep a rendezvous with a "messenger" from the countess. He told the police that no kidnap plot existed.

Detective Inspector Foster testified that a letter was received at the Haugwitz-Reventlow London house, reading:

"Dear Countess:
"I have read of your having a charming little son. Now don't get panicky."

"You should know that two men have left Manchester to kidnap this son and you'd be surprised to hear what elaborate plans have been made for his confinement while they wait for the ransom they intend to demand from you."

"If you would learn of these plans please send someone to meet me in Manchester at once and I will let you know what I know."

Judge of Pitt County Court

Judge Dink James today announced that he would be a candidate to succeed himself as Judge of the County Court of Pitt County.

Judge James is a native of Pitt County and has been practicing law in Greenville for the past eleven years. He was educated in the local High School and in the University of North Carolina, where he completed both his academic and law courses.

He is active in political and civic affairs, and has been one of the organizers and is president of the Young People's Democratic Club. Last year he was president of the local Kiwanis Club and Lieutenant Governor of the Seventh Division.

Judge James is a son of Mrs. Georgia James, who makes her home with him, and the late W. B. James. He is also a nephew of the late Colonel F. G. James, for many years dean of the Pitt County Bar. He is married and has one child.

JURY RETURNS
BILL AGAINST
TRIO NEGROES

Bill Charges Murder
and Assault Against White Couple

TRIAL DATE SET
THIS THURSDAY

March Term Superior
Court Gets Started
Here with Judge
Frizzelle Presiding

Upon arraignment in Superior court here this afternoon following finding a true bill for first degree murder by the grand jury, Willie Pate, Negro, entered a plea of not guilty. Being without counsel, Judge J. Paul Frizzelle named Attorney S. O. Worthington to defend Pate, and set the trial for Thursday.

Pate is charged with the murder of Alexander Warren, white youth of Bethel, near the Pitt County fair grounds here the night of February 28th, and also criminally assaulting Miss Helen Phelps, Warren's companion.

A Pitt county grand jury today returned a true bill against Willie Pate, Odis Watson and George Lee, Negroes, charging them with the first degree murder of Alexander Warren and assault "with intent to commit rape" upon his companion, Miss Helen Phelps, on the night of February 28.

Solicitor D. M. Clark has not announced whether the case would come up for trial at the term of Superior court which convened here this morning, with Judge Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill presiding.

Pate was arrested last week and signed a confession to participation in the crimes. He implicated the other two Negroes, both of whom denied any guilt.

The three are charged with the crimes in one indictment. The bill of indictment sets forth that the trio combined, conspired and planned between themselves to assault and rob Warren and Miss Phelps and carried out their plans. It also declares that the three assaulted Miss Phelps by force.

The true bill was returned at the first day of a special term of Pitt county Superior court which got underway today with Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill presiding.

Ben Lindsay charged with larceny entered a plea to guilty to trespass and it was accepted by the State. Judgment was suspended upon payment of the court costs.

F. C. Newton withdrew his appeal from a conviction of driving while drunk and judgment of the County court was accepted.

H. H. Proctor and H. H. Proctor, Jr., entered pleas of guilty to giving worthless checks and prayer for judgment was continued until the April term of court.

Popcorn is "right" if its volume increases 20 times after pepping.

GOV. TALMADGE
TO DARE TEST

Permits State Democratic Executive Committee Meet

Atlanta, March 16.—(AP)—Governor Eugene Talmadge today was ready to risk his financial "dictatorship" with the Georgia Supreme court as a showdown on a state presidential primary drew near.

He added to his anti new deal political troubles by permitting his state Democratic committee to meet April 15 to decide whether there will be a press conference primary—as demanded by President Roosevelt's supporters.

The Governor, suffering a setback in his one-man financial control by a ruling of a three-judge Superior court Saturday, was determined to appeal their decision immediately.

Chairman Hugh Howell of the State Democratic ex-committee—a close friend and political lieutenant of the governor—has called his committee to meet here to decide the primary issue.

Howell, like Talmadge, a bitter critic of the new deal, attacked President Roosevelt's friends for holding two county preference primaries in which Talmadge was overwhelmingly defeated.

"There are no rules of the Democratic party for county presidential preference primaries," Howell said, "except new deal trickery for the purpose of misleading the public."

GERMAN ARMY
IS INSPECTED

Rhineland Celebration Set for Tonight
Is Called Off

Frankfort on the Main, Germany, March 16.—(AP)—The tightened international situation applied a dampening and dampening influence to the Rhineland celebration of Germany's army today, all ostentatious military display being banned in the crisis.

What was to have been today great military parades culminating in a celebration of the Reich's "symbolic" reoccupation of the demilitarized zone, was cancelled while the League of Nations deliberated the treaty violation at London instead, there was a quiet inspection of the troops in the barracks.

Tonight, however, after the troops inspection by War Minister General Werner von Blomberg, there will be military music in the open square and later Reichsfuehrer Hitler will speak.

The city was gaily decorated in honor of the Fuehrer's coming and widespread anxiety over the seriousness of the situation raised to fever pitch popular interest in what Hitler would say.

Funeral Services For Ayden High School Senior Conducted From Late Home This Afternoon

Funeral services for George Langston Edwards, 18-year-old Ayden High School senior who died Saturday night at 11:50, were conducted from the home near Renston this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rev. E. H. Connally, pastor of the Winterville Baptist church, of which Edwards was a member, was in charge of the services. He was assisted by Rev. R. F. Pittman of Ayden and Rev. J. C. Moore of Snow Hill. Both Free Will Baptist ministers. Burial was in the family burying ground in the Renston community.

Young Edwards died after two weeks' illness with pneumonia and complications. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George N. Edwards; two brothers, Jack Edwards of the U. S. S. Indianapolis, now stationed in San Pedro, Calif., and Charles Vernon Edwards of the home place; three sisters, Mrs. E. C. Davenport and Misses Mildred and Clarissa Edwards; one grandfather, Charles Langston, and a step grandmother, Mrs. Charles Langston. A large number of other near relatives also survive.

Both honorary and active pallbearers were members of young Edwards' high school senior class of Ayden.

Active: Carlton Dale, J. M. Mosley, Robert Pittman, Jr., Wade Cox, Tucker McLawhorn and Zeb Little.

Honorary: Tyree Buck, Leslie James, Dixie Harris, Harry Mumford, Clifton Martin, Frederick McLawhorn, Roscoe Tripp, Reginald Sumrell, L. B. Kinlaw, John McLawhorn, Jack Noe, Roland Cox, W. E. McLawhorn, Graham Coward, J. F. Funeral Rites Held
For Charles Braxton

Funeral services for Charles B. Braxton, 74, who died at 8:07 o'clock last night at his home two miles from Greenville on the Washington road, were held this afternoon from Saint Paul's Holiness church, with the pastor, Rev. John Berry, in charge. Burial was in Wilkerson cemetery.

Mr. Braxton had been a resident in this county for a number of years. He is survived by his wife, one son, Jim Braxton; one daughter, Mrs. Bertha Beachman; one sister, Mrs. Tommie Edwards of Pine Tops.

The population of the Kentucky state prison is 1,110, about double the number its buildings were constructed to house.

LET GERMANY
SIT IN SESSION

Vote Interpreted as Tantamount to Refusal of Hitler's Conditions

(By The Associated Press)

London, March 16.—(AP)—The League of Nations council, in secret session, agreed today to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's demands for equality but it flatly rejected his "condition" that the council must discuss his peace proposals.

Hitler had offered to send a representative to the council deliberations on German remilitarization of the Rhineland only on a basis of full equality in the conference and with the understanding that his recent offer of new peace pacts would be considered.

Six nations, headed by France opposed Hitler's insistence on bringing his peace proposal up simultaneously with the discussion of the Rhineland reoccupation.

The vote was interpreted as tantamount to a qualified refusal of Hitler's conditions.

The council was agreed that Germany was entitled to sit in the council with an equal footing with other Locarno powers—that is without the right to veto.

It was stated that owing to their status as interested parties in the Locarno pact, France and Belgium as well as Germany would not be entitled to vote in the league council meeting.

The French delegation said they regarded the verdict of the secret session as a decisive victory for France.

A French spokesman predicted that the league now would condemn Germany since Great Britain and Italy have "given France their assurances that for them the Locarno pact still exists."

(By The Associated Press)

London, March 16.—(AP)—The fate of the present negotiations concerning the critical relations of Germany with the rest of Europe may hang on the translation of a German word.

It developed today that the League of Nations council may seek from Reichsfuehrer Hitler a clarification to his reply to an invitation to attend a council session.

The clarification, it was said, would be to clear up just what was meant by the word "alsbald" contained in the telegram Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary general of the league, received from Hitler last night.

The Germany embassy in London, while the British cabinet was considering the situation, informed the foreign office that the correct translation of the word is "in due course," instead of "forthwith," as the council secretariat officially translated it.

The new translation put a modified interpretation on Hitler's condition for sending a representative to the council's session.

Hitler's reply originally was interpreted to mean that he demands the negotiation of his peace proposal simultaneously with the discussion of his denunciation of the League of Nations.

PREPARED: The men who man
our State and War Department outposts are growing uneasy in a police way over the barrage of foreign propaganda poured into the ears of American radio audiences.
It began when dark clouds first arose over Asia and Europe but it has become more intensive within the last few weeks.

Almost every world capital puts an official spokesman on the air from six to midnight each evening. They broadcast news favorable to their governments in an obvious move to cultivate the good opinion of world listeners. But the United States rates a high place in their plans. All reports and communications are translated into snappy Americanese and delivered a second time. Furthermore, timing the broadcasts so that they will be heard here in the shank of the evening (or two o'clock in Europe)
tips off the propagandizing purpose.

The broadcasts come from London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Tokio, Madrid—trouble spots all. The Tokio station shut down for three days
during the recent "purge" and Paris was silent on the Monday after

no official objection will be raised in peace time, Washington is prepared to act if bugles blow again.

PRIZE: Here's the dope on the mysterious service rendered by the Federal Communications Commission to Senator Black's Lobby Investigation Committee. The Commission used its personnel and its legal access to telegraphic files to sort over bales of messages with an eye to the Senator's requirements.
When it advised him which ones he would find most interesting and he duly issued a blanket subpoena for those.

So when Mr. Black asserts there was no wholesale "seizure" of telegrams he is technically correct. The Senator has been very careful about the phraseology of his denials.
He aims to leave as few loopholes
for legal challenges as possible.
Of course there is still room for argument about the constitutionality of a blanket subpoena.

Astute observers remark that the F. C. C.—Black cooperation is a prize sample of economy and efficiency in government in accordance with the best corporate practice.
It's rare for one federal agency to know what another is doing—let alone for them to work together.
"More of the same might speed up progress to a balanced budget."

agree to maintain the employment

the bills can't be enacted against his wishes. So they decided to con-

SYNOPSIS: Miss Ella Lanning is usually a very mousey woman, except in defense of her dead brother's memory. He was, she believes, a genius as well as a painter, and she has sacrificed her other brother, William, and her niece, Iris Lanning, to his memory. Morgan Black, who boards at the once-distinguished Lanning house, is not only a love with Iris—he has promised to find Iris' brother Owen, whom Iris believed dead until recently.
Miss Ella is not sympathetic; Uncle William is.

Chapter Nine

PARTY

AS Iris wiped off the big wooden kitchen table with the wrung-out dishcloth, and rinsed it under the faucet, she asked Miss Ella, hanging up the rinsed dish towels
at the other end of the long room,
one sudden question.

"Didn't any of you try to get my brother Owen back?"

And Miss Ella answered as matter-of-factly, standing on tiptoe to stretch the damp towels along the rack.

"After I took you out of the baby carriage in front of the boarding house where the Ross girls were,
your mother came down to try to get you again. But your father had the law on his side, and they had no money to fight. They were just two ordinary little dressmakers who had settled here, and entrapped my brothers."

Iris crossed the room, her eyes blazing.

"You're talking about my mother.
I don't care what she did, she was a good, kind, lovely woman. I remember enough of her for that."

"All right, child. Perhaps I shouldn't have said it," said Miss Ella.

Iris stared at her. This was so unlike her aunt!

When she followed it up with her old suggestion that Iris might be able to make something to wear to Katherine Oliver's out of her own
old best dress, Iris breathed again.
That was more normal.

She refused the offer, mechanically. Katherine Oliver and her teas, which had loomed so important,
seemed to matter little now.

She met Morgan in the hall.

"I've found out all about it that he knows," he said. "Be kind to him.
It was—oh, well, your Aunt Ella had a brother-complex, and smashed four lives on the strength of it, that's all. That's how I figure it out."

"And now what?" Iris said eagerly. She knew it! "About complexes." "Now I'm going to put things in motion. But don't hope too much,
child!"

"Oh, you're so good to me!"

But she spoke as she might have to an uncle, or to a brother.

He was stung into answering with some of his old bitterness.

"Don't blame me if you're sorry.
You're in a place where there's peace and beauty and honesty and love, and if you had any sense you'd want to stay here and not investigate."

"You aren't fair."

"I suppose not. It's hard to be fair."

THE months went on; the summer drifted by. Uncle Will still was not very well.

"He's nifty, been the same since the accident," Miss Ella said, trying to spare him. Morgan noticed, in everything that meant waiting on,
but not at all as regards suggesting that he do less work. Saving for the dead brother's memorial came first with her.

Morgan stood by. He had never known what it was to be needed before. He was an unofficial partner in the old man's law practice, and the genealogical work that meant extras. More and more he became a part of the household, petted fiercely by Miss Ella, leaned on by Uncle Will, Iris's comrade and friend.

He had not told Iris that he loved her. He would win her, first. And he would be sure that she was as disinterested, as crystalline, as she seemed. A little of his old bitterness remained.

Iris was restless at first. She would come to him every day or so and say, "No news about Owen?"
But by degrees they both lost hope.
The detectives he had hired worked faithfully, but they had no results
to report.

Presently, he thought, Iris stopped thinking about it. She went on, busy like the rest. She did her exquisite place-cards and her perfect embroidered for sale. She went on giving her French and singing lessons to the little sisters of her acquaintances.

And—to Morgan's suppressed

anger—what she made want as it always had into Miss Ella's hands
for the memorial fund; she wore her shabby dresses, made over from old things in the attic, or years old;
she had nothing for pleasures. And she was gayer, happier than Morgan had thought anyone could be.

He took her to movies occasionally—not too often, she would not let him. They went for long walks.
He would have been caught up in the tide of small-town life himself,
the parties that went on steadily, including Iris on their edge, if he had permitted it. But as would not, more than once in a long while.

"You know, you put your worst foot foremost. When I met you I thought you spent your whole time
grousing," he said to her one day,
when he had managed to lure her from her sewing for one of the long walks in the leafless woods that they both liked taking. It was November weather, but she laughed, swinging along beside him. In her old brown fall coat.

"Well, to begin with, I do it only
on my Saturday afternoons off;
and besides, since you've been here life's so much better. It's a little lonely, being the only young person in the house all your life. They were all middle-aged when I was born. It was a grand day for the Lanning family when you and I met on the courthouse steps with our mutual bad tempers. You're not so lowering yourself, you know, Morgan. In fact, I think, you're a grand person." She laughed up at him with her sudden brilliance that was sometimes almost blinding.

He was on the verge of telling her he loved her. He put an arm around her, and she leaned against him as if he had been her uncle. No. He'd wait. Just a little longer.

SUDDENLY she stopped and looked at her watch. A lady's gold watch of the eighties, swung around her neck on a black ribbon,
and tucked into her belt as unlike a modern girl's possessions as everything else she owned.

"You'll just have time to get to Kay Oliver's. She'll never forgive you or me or anybody if you don't turn up at her party."

"I'll go if you will."

"It's the same old story, Morgan.
I can't go like this. And I can't go any other way. But you can, and you must. One of our best-dressed young men, you are!"

Her pluck, her smiling bravery
and generosity, suddenly came over him.

"If I go this time will you come with me next?"

"I will. But I will not be lured into taking even a bungalow apron from the ten cent store at your fair hands."

She laughed. "Uncle Will actually held out ten dollars from the maw of the memorial fund. If he'd given it to me yesterday I could have blossomed out in an elegant garment and even now shiver but he forgot till this morning. Bless his absent-minded old heart, and the layette for Iris. Warden had been promised. You go on, and she'll invite me some more for your report sake. You don't know what a treat a young man from the city is! She began to recite theatrically.

"There was a young man from the city
Who saw what he thought was a kitty.
He gave it a pat
And said 'Nix little cat!'"

"Only you didn't! You held 'horrid little cat!'"

"You're not a cat! You're a grand little sport."

"Morgan, this from your 'puff' up will keep me proud and puffed up till I see you again."

She gave him a little shove.

"Come with me."

"No, I have something to do."

"Place-cards again?"

"A singing lesson to a small child.
I'll have tea for you and Uncle Will
when you get home."

She shook her head, turning and going. . . . Well, he'd go on to Kay Oliver's party, a real imitation of New York's whoopee-beforesat.
Iris wanted him to. And he would make sure of an invitation for next time for Iris.

Kay, friendly, exuberant, brown-eyed, met him on the steps porch
of the Oliver house.

"It's simply swell to see you," she said, putting a couple of tanned, efficient hands on his shoulders and giving him a friendly shake. "Come on in. I've got some of the grandest new records you ever saw, and they say you know how to make 'em.
Girls just like old man Deane's eldest son. You should have dragged Iris along."

Junior High School Operetta.

The boys and girls of the seventh and eighth grades of the Greenville schools presented on Friday evening, March 13, a delightful operetta, "Polished Pebbles," in the high school auditorium. This was the first musical production given by the junior high school since its organization in the fall, and proved to be successful in every way.

A number of parents attended the performance and were quite pleased with the training which the young people displayed. To Miss Ona Shindler and Miss Mozelle Jones, musical directors, goes considerable credit for the success of the program. Mrs. Coleman, high school dramatic instructor, supervised the make-up.

"Polished Pebbles" is a light story of three people who assume high-faluting manners and an air of condescension, but who are brought to realize their true worth by means of a rich uncle who appears in disguise in the story. Howard Simpson played the disguised role, and George Tyndall the part of the real uncle. All of the leading characters enacted their roles in a very creditable manner. They were Louise Park, Betty Tyson, Wilma Harris, Rebecca Moye, Rosalie Brown, John Anderson, Peggy West and Herbert White Lee.

The special choruses and their personnel follow: Opening quadrille, Billy Horne, Bill Turner, Charles Wilson, G. A. Taylor, Dorothy Copeland, Martha Rowe, Emmie Lou White and Dorothy Edwards; Sun-bonnet Girls and Overall Boys, Jim Ficklen, Morris Abeyounis, Thad Nobles, Travis Flanagan, Sarah Moore, Jeanne Fleischmann, Alice Riemann and Kelly Rue Vandiford; Churning Girls, Elizabeth Sugg, Ruby Taylor, Jane Scoville and Ethel Windham; Hoeing Boys, William Craft, George Garrett, Bruce Mayo and William Herring; Sewing Girls, Verda Harris, Lucy Nobles, Christine Hellen and Ella Frances Evans; Milking Boys, Richard Stokes, George Abeyounis, Edgar Denton and Bruce Thigpen.

The general chorus was composed of the sixth and seventh grades of Third Street School and the seventh and eighth grades of the high school.

Celebrate Wedding Anniversary. Grimesland, March 16.—Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Porter entertained a number of their friends last Monday evening celebrating their fifteenth wedding anniversary. The guests were met at the door by Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Taylor and introduced to the receiving line composed of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Porter, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Spiggle of Grimesland, Sam Moore and Miss Ruth Robertson of Pinetops, and Miss Mary Moore Dunn of Greenville.

Mrs. B. F. Buck and Mrs. W. F. Galloway presided over the register and directed the guests to the punch bowl presided over by Miss Roxie Worthington and Miss Ethel Little. They were then invited into the spacious living room where seven tables were placed for bridge. A green and white color scheme was carried out very effectively, especially at the gift table, where tall white candles cast their soft glow over the beautiful gifts of gleaming crystal on a lace covered table. The centerpiece was a lovely crystal bowl with white roses and ferns.

High score for ladies was a lovely crystal flower basket, won by Mrs. N. R. Edwards. Mrs. M. H. Godley won a crystal casket set for lucky cut. Dr. C. H. Spiggle won high score for men, a crystal ash tray. N. R. Edwards, lucky cut, won a crystal ash tray also. T. F. Taylor won the floating prize, a crystal tray. Each guest received as favors a small crystal glass. At the conclusion of the games an ice course was served. Mr. and Mrs. Porter received many beautiful and useful gifts as well as congratulations and best wishes from their friends.

Those present were Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Spiggle, Mr. and Mrs. R. H.

Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Godley of Grimesland, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Taylor, Miss Mary Moore Dunn of Greenville, Sam Moore and Miss Ruth Robertson of Pinetops, Mesdames W. A. Hudson, W. F. Galloway, B. F. Buck, E. Galloway, Dan White, J. H. Brooks, Raymond Elks and Misses Roxie Worthington and Ethel Little of Grimesland.

First Church of Christ, Scientist. "Substance" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all churches and societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 15.

The golden text was from Prov. 3:9, "Honour the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Now three is at Jerusalem by the sheep market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue Bethesda, having five porches. In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water. And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years. Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk. And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked."

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science text book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Do you say the time has not yet come in which to recognize Soul as substantial and able to control the body? Remember Jesus, who nearly nineteen centuries ago demonstrated the power of Spirit and said: 'He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also,' and who also said 'But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth.' Behold! now is the day of salvation," said Paul.

Cardui

HELPED THREE TIMES

At three different times, Cardui has helped Mrs. Ike Wright, of Sealy, Texas. "I used Cardui, when a girl, for cramps, and it helped then," she writes. Next, after marriage, she reports having taken Cardui when she felt weak, nervous and restless before her children were born.

And during middle life, it helped her again. "I was miserable," she explains. "I did not have an appetite. I was very blue and upset. I remembered Cardui had helped me, so took it again and soon began to pick up. I ate and had more strength. I kept up the Cardui and did not have any more trouble. Is it any wonder that I recommend Cardui to all my friends?"

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. ## Announcement

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for re-nomination as Judge of the County Court in the Democratic Primary. The office of Judge is one of importance. Under the law the Judge of the County Court is vested with greater authority over the liberties of our citizens than any other official. I appreciate the honor and privilege of being able to serve the people in this position. I have given my very best thought and effort to its duties. I have tried to conduct the affairs of the court honestly and fairly and with the dignity which the position deserves. I will appreciate the continued confidence and support of the voters.

Respectfully,

New York Cotton

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady 3 higher to 2 lower with trade buying of March and southern and foreign selling of the late months.

At the end of the first hour March was ruling around one point net higher while later months were about unchanged to two points lower. March held fairly steady in the absence of pressure and was ruling around 11.54 at midday or three points net higher, while later deliveries showed net losses of six to eight points.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Buying of low priced utilities and a few air transport company issues helped to steady the stock market today after the list had been denied in early dealings by profit taking.

Transcontinental and Western got up two points and others were up fractions to a point, or more including United Air Lines, National Power and Light, American Power and Light, American and Foreign Power, Borden, Baldwin Locomotive and Chrysler.

The late tone was irregular. Transfers approximated 2,300,000 shares.

DID THE SPRING THAW WRECK YOUR ROADS?

THIS spring, as every spring, newspapers in many states report the break-up of roads.

As the frost comes out of the ground many roads are made dangerous with frost boils, ruts, bumps, and chuck-holes. Highway departments are forced to post load restrictions, warnings and detours until the repair crews can do their work.

But there is no "spring break-up" on concrete roads. Continuity of service is one of their major advantages. They're reliable, trustworthy every month in the year. Maintenance costs are reduced to a minimum.

Yet first cost of concrete is less than that of any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity. Swift but safe—visible at night—smooth but non-skid—saving in gas, tires and car repairs, concrete is indeed the standard by which all roads are judged.

ROBINSON CRUSOE

Copyright 1935, Screen-Motion Picture, Inc. All Rights Reserved

ARRIVING AT OUR CAPTIVE HOME AFTER OUR EVENTFUL HUNT IN THE FOREST I TAKE LEAVE OF XURY AND GO DIRECTLY TO THE HOUSE OF ACHMET, THE CHIEF.

AFTER PRESENTING HIM WITH THE BLACK PANTHER PELT AND THE FOWL WHICH I SHOT, ACHMET INVITES ME

TO EAT WITH HIM. DURING OUR MEAL ACHMET SAID "I HAVE A SURPRISE FOR YOU ROB AND YOU SHALL SEE IT DIRECTLY"

FINISHING OUR MEAL WE GO OUT AND ACROSS THE COURTYARD TO WHERE STRIPPED TO THE WAIST A MAN IS BEING FLOGGED. WHO IS THIS MAN SIR? SAID I TO ACHMET.
