West Virginia And Ohio Are Menaced By Floods With Death Toll At 71

Worst Flood in History of Eastern United States

PITTSBURGH, PA. STILL ISOLATED

Rivers Subsiding in Some Places, But Situation Remains Acute

(Copyright by Associated Press) The worst floods in eastern United States history moved menacingly down into West Virginia and Ohio today claiming a reported death toll of at least 71.

Pestilence and shortage of food and water intensified the terror, destruction and misery. Unaccounted thousands were homeless. The property damage mounted into tens of millions of dollars.

After paralyzing Pittsburgh at its source—where the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers slowly receded after a night of terror with the steel metropolis in darkness inundated and isolated from the outside world—the Ohio river twisted down its broad course sweeping widespread destruction along with it.

With terrifying swiftness the rivers reached Wells Bur. W. Va., then plunged on down to Wheeling, where its devastating fury wrought great damage.

Early in the day a toll of nine lives from drowning in Wheeling had been counted. Four more persons were killed in an explosion.

In Johnstown, Penn. flood water subsided almost to normal.

Here and there some rivers receded, but over all the threat of danger to many localities was still acute.

Greatest danger in New England was increasing along the Connecticut river which broke through its banks, washed bridges and flooded numerous towns and cities.

The Potomac surged on seaward and after wrecking havoc its course from Cumberland to Harpers Ferry, seriously menacing Washington, D. C.

Officials believed the river would rise 19 to 20 feet above normal by nightfall, worse than the inundation of 1889, when the river spread over its banks as far as Pennsylvania.

To protect the foundation of the Washington monument, the Lincoln Memorial reflecting pool and nearby federal structures, relief workers hurriedly piled up a huge wall of sand bags along the waterfront.

The wall is only a quarter of a mile from the White House, but weather bureau officials believed the executive mansion was free of danger.

There was no concern for the Capital, built on one of Washington's hills.

In Virginia the waters of the Shenandoah, likewise receded slowly, but the danger shifted to the James river threatening Richmond and other towns along its course.

Poles Stowaway For Ethiopia
Gdynia, Poland (AP)—Ethiopia is the most popular destination for stowaways sailing from this Baltic port. Ship captains say the Ethiopians seem to have bitten most of the Polish youngsters who try—usually unsuccessfully—to get a free ride by hiding themselves away in the cargo. Usually they are between 12 and 16 years old.

PUPILS STILL ARE ISOLATED

Food and Fuel Shortage Feared at N. C. School

Marion, N. C., March 19.—(AP)—George M. Bowman, Superintendent of Schools at Newlands, where several hundred school children were snowbound in the Avery county consolidated school, telephoned Louis Klutz, editor of the McDowell County News today that food and fuel in the community were running low.

Klutz said Bowman asked him to appeal to the state highway department to make extra ordinary efforts to open the highway, blocked by four to 20 feet of drifting snow from Tuesday night's blizzard.

Bowman reported Klutz said that there had been no actual suffering from hunger or cold, but with supplies running low and the highways still blocked the situation was becoming alarming.

Bowman telephoned from his home at Elk Park eight miles from Newlands. He said he was not informed as to number of children actually in the school buildings.

Citizens of Newlands have opened a road from the town to the school building, he said, and have kept the children there supplied with food.

Sheriff W. H. Hughes of Newlands estimated, however, that there was plenty of fuel and food in Newlands to last the community until roads, blocked by the blizzard could be opened.

"I don't think there is any real danger of shortage," he said.

He said reports of several hundred children snowbound in the school were exaggerated.

President Defers Fishing Pilgrimage on Account Floods

Emergency Flood Committee Summoned to White House for Conference on Eastern Flood Disaster

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt deferred his Southern fishing trip for at least 24 hours from scheduled departure this afternoon to permit attention to the Eastern flood disaster.

Mr. Roosevelt summoned to the White House for a conference this morning the emergency flood committee, headed by Secretary Dern, which was named yesterday.

The President had planned to leave the Capital this afternoon at 3 o'clock for his annual fishing trip off the Florida coast.

Funeral Services Held Pitt County Woman

Mrs. D. C. Ross, 39, died at her home near Pateolus last night at 11 o'clock from a stroke of paralysis.

Funeral services were conducted this afternoon from the late home, with Rev. J. A. Melver, pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church, and Rev. Mr. Guthrie, pastor of the Pateolus Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in the family burying ground near the home.

Mrs. Ross was a member of the Pateolus Baptist Church. She is survived by her husband; two sons, Arthur Coleman Ross and Duraugh Ross; three daughters, Mrs. Garland Ross and Misses Annie and Mamie Ross; two sisters, Mrs. W. M. Rowe to Aurora, and Mrs. Eddie Jones of Washington; and five brothers, Harvey and Charles Cayton of Washington, Irvin Cayton of Bath, James Cayton of Edwards and Nelu Cayton of Aurora.

Then one day a friend of long-standing gave her a peke. Gradually Old Pushface became her favorite, and now he is her ideal pet.

Miss Lombard thinks the place for pets is in the home and seldom brings Pushface to the studio.

For a new picture whose script called for a "tiny dog," however, she brought her own pet rather than break in a strange dog.

MAN EXECUTED STATE PRISON

Is Third Be Electro-cuted on Day Other Than Friday

Raleigh, March 19.—(AP)—Jake Johnson, 36-year-old negro convicted of criminal assault in Rockingham county, was electrocuted today at State's prison.

Johnson was the 163rd victim of the electric chair, but only the third man to die in this state on a day other than Friday.

Preparations were started immediately for the execution tomorrow of Ed Hester, young Gaston county white man convicted of killing a fellow prisoner, who is due to be electrocuted to make it the first time the chair has been used on successive days.

Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill announced a reprieve would be granted John Presley, Gaston county negro who also was sentenced to die tomorrow for murder.

Father McMillan of the Catholic Apostolate here entered the death chamber with Johnson at 10:27. The negro was given a shot of two minutes and 33 seconds starting at 10:31. A second shot of a minute and a half and a third of 50 seconds were required before he was pronounced dead at 10:42.

Johnson was charged with attacking an elderly white Rockingham county school teacher on Feb. 1, 1935. He was caught in West Virginia several months later under the name of George Frances and was convicted in August.

Local Red Cross is Asked to Give Aid To Flood Victims

Telegram Saving 38,000 Families Homeless in 11 States, Asks for Quota of $750

The local chapter of the American Red Cross today was called on by national headquarters of the organization to raise $750 to aid families suffering from floods.

The telegram setting the quota for the local chapter said that reports indicated 38,000 families in 11 states had been driven from their homes in flooded areas.

"These people are looking to Red Cross for immediate shelter, food, clothing, and medical care. Minimum relief funds of $3,000,000 necessary provide care for the flood victims for indefinite period until they can return to their homes. Please take immediate action to raise your chapter quota of $750 in behalf of these disaster stricken families," the telegram states.

It is understood that immediate action will be taken in the community to aid the flood sufferers, although no formal announcement had been made today.

Lawyers Get Compact Bill

Proposal Referred to Attorneys by Senate Committee

Washington, March 19.—(AP)—Legislation to approve inter-state compacts for tobacco control was referred today to a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Agriculture.

Chairman Smith (D. S. C.) and a majority of the senate agriculture committees had approved the measure.

Under the compact plan tobacco-growing states would enact similar tobacco legislation to regulate tobacco growing, with congress passing a ratifying act. The Virginia legislature already has passed the state compact bill, it now is under consideration by the South Carolina assembly.

Smith said he wanted to be sure of the constitutionality of the bill before reporting it to the senate.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER

ATTACK: An enraged George Norris has advised TVA's directors to file a barrage of law suits against private power companies, which unsuccessfully contested the legality of the New Deal experiment in the Tennessee Valley.

TVA can sue to recover damages for fees it paid to lawyers in defending the case in court, according to a confidential letter which Mr. Norris has written to Director Lilienthal. Mr. Norris also contends that TVA can ask for repayment of the funds it would have received from 22 towns and cities if their applications for Uncle Sam's electricity had not been tied up by injunctions for more than a year. The Senate argues further that cities deprived of lower rates may sue for the difference they paid to private companies during the period of litigation.

Mr. Norris, who lives modestly on his $10,000-a-year salary, isn't interested primarily in the money. As a legal strategist, he believes that a flock of unexpected legal embarrassments would keep the Edison

Electric Institute so busy that it wouldn't have the time or money to harass the government's development of a rival power system. And nobody disputes Mr. Norris' knowledge of the law—or politics.

TOUGH: A violent PWA-WPA clash will be staged on Capitol Hill when President Roosevelt transmits his estimates for 1937 relief expenditures. A distracted Congress will have to choose between Harry Hopkins' bonobonding and Harold Ickes' stone-and-steel projects.

It will resolve itself into a sectional battle behind the scenes. Western legislators who favor great dams, bridges and irrigation tracts will demand that at least $500,000,000 be turned over to Mr. Ickes. They have already fortified themselves by asking the Secretary of the Interior for a list of heavy construction jobs he would inaugurate in their states if he had the money.

Eastern members (refer the Hopkins kind of relief. There's no room for the Ickes type of projects in their districts, so they favor dis-

J. CON LANIER IN STATEMENT

Local Man Also to Talk Over Radio Tomorrow 1:30

J. Con Lanier, secretary-treasurer of the tobacco sign-up steering committee recently appointed by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, and former tobacco expert with the Agriculture Adjustment Administration, today issued a statement in which he urged the growers throughout the five-cured tobacco areas to sign the crop control contracts.

On Friday at 1:30 p. m. Mr. Lanier will speak over radio station WPTF at Raleigh on the National Farm and Home Hour program at which time he will explain in detail the new tobacco production-control contracts and the tobacco program.

Mr. Lanier's statement issued today follows:

"There are three compelling reasons why the voluntary agreement should be signed by all five-cured tobacco growers: First, it will actually reduce the number of acres planted in tobacco, thereby reducing the 1936 production of flue-cured tobacco; second, it will help growers to qualify for the maximum payments to be made to tobacco farmers by the Federal government under the Soil Conservation law; third, it will prepare the way for, and will supplement, the State Compact law, which is contemplated by the tobacco-growing states.

The paramount need at this time is the reduction of production of flue-cured tobacco in 1936. The purpose of all present plans in connection with tobacco ultimately comes in the same point, reduction of production. Unless production is curtailed, the Soil Conservation Act, the proposed State Compact, or any other measure, will be vain and useless. What we need now is prevention of production rather than punishment of producers. The plight of the growers will not be helped by drastic punishment upon those producing excessive tobacco.

German Reich IS BRANDED AS PACT BREAKER

Council of League of Nations Unanimously Votes Action

VON RIBBENTROP UPHOLDS NAZIS

Declares That His Country Forced Into Violation of Locarno Pact by France

(Copyright by Associated Press) The council of the League of Nations today condemned the German government under Reichsfuehrer Hitler as a treaty breaker today. The vote was unanimous.

The league members decided that Germany had violated both the Versailles and Locarno treaties when she moved troops into the Rhineland, which had been ordered demilitarized at the end of the World War.

The condemnation came a few hours after General Joachim von Ribbentrop, special ambassador of Hitler, had stood before the members and argued that the German course of action in the Rhineland had been justified by France's military assistance pact with Soviet Russia.

Arranging of 275,000,000 soldiers against the Germans by the Franco-Soviet pact, directed "only against German" Ribbentrop asserted, caused the Reich to occupy the Rhine in violation of the Versailles treaty and Locarno pact.

"We have been forced to what we did March 7," Hitler's envoy said emphatically and Germany never would have signed the Locarno pact had it been aware of the "doubtful moments" to follow.

The case against Dr. George R. Clay osteopath of this city, charged with practicing medicine without license, was rested today.

The state rested its case shortly after court convened this morning. Dr. Clay was the first witness called to the stand by the defense.

He testified he is a licensed doctor of osteopathy and gave a review of the training which he received in preparation for practicing his profession.

He stated he had never given morphine in this state and never directed anyone else to give it, or any other narcotics.

Booklets Telling of Old North State Have Been Shipped

First Shipment of Several Thousand Copies of Illustrated Pamphlet Arr on Way to Raleigh

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, March 19.—The first shipment of several thousand copies of the new illustrated booklet about North Carolina, which will be printed and distributed by the Department of Conservation and Development, is now on its way to Raleigh. Assistant Director Paul Kelly of the department, said today.

The booklet, in addition to being profusely illustrated with recent photographs, in various sections of the state also contains a "sportsman's map" of the state in four colors, showing the best hunting and fishing grounds, state and national parks and places of historical and scenic interest in pictorial form. So if a sportsman is interested in finding trout fishing, a group of trout on the map will show him where to go. If he wants deer hunting, he will look for deer on the map, and so forth. Tourists who are interested in state and national parks and recreational centers, will find these plainly indicated in color.

The Conservation Department is printing 44,000 of these new booklets, and already requests have been received for at least 50,000 of them from travel bureaus, automobile clubs, chambers of commerce and similar organizations both in this country, Canada and in European countries. Assistant Director Kelly under whose direction the booklet was prepared, is being kept busy replying to letters asking for copies and sending down the requests received. Judging from the interest being shown in it, Kelly believes that North Carolina is going to be visited by more sportsmen and tourists this year than ever before.

The booklet portrays the advantages of North Carolina from three points of view, namely that of the sportsman, the vacationist or tourist, and as an ideal location for a permanent home. Conservation officials believe the booklet will not only increase the number of tourists and sportsmen who will visit the state, but also add to the number of permanent residents who are coming to North Carolina to live each year.

QUEEN MARY UNNOTICED ON DRIVE TO ART SHOW

London, (AP)—Unable to undergo the ordeal of a public appearance, Queen Mary nevertheless did not spend all her time in the apartments and gardens of Buckingham Palace.

She recently paid a surprise visit on a Sunday afternoon, to the Park Lane mansion of Sir Philip Sassoon to view paintings by Chiswick-born, her favorite artist.

She was unrecognized as she drove through the streets in a closed automobile with the Princess Royal. Her daughter has been the day to the executive by Rear Admiral E. J. Marquart of the Cavite naval yard.

Negro Is Convicted Of Murder In First Degree In Pitt Superior Court

Jury to Try Willie Tate Is Completed About Noon

SHERIFF TELLS OF CONFESSION

Standing Room At a Premium as Thousands Attempt Hear Murder Case

A Pitt county jury of farmers, bookkeepers and one merchant this afternoon convicted Willie Tate, 29-year-old Georgia negro, of murder in the first degree.

The date of execution was set for April 24, 1936.

Tate was convicted of the murder of Alexander Warren, B the filling station operator, on the night of February 28.

The state also charged him with attacking Mr. Warren's companion with intent to commit assault.

The verdict carries a mandatory penalty of death of execution.

The case was given to the jury at 4:55 o'clock this afternoon and the verdict was rendered at 5:15, twenty minutes later.

The State rested its case early in the afternoon session after it had put on a ballistic expert who testified that a pistol identified by the state as belonging to the defendant was the one used to kill Warren. Several other witnesses also appeared for the state.

Tate was not placed on the witness stand. In its arguments to the jury, counsel for the defense contended that the state's evidence was neither sufficient nor conclusive enough to convict the defendant of first degree murder.

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle told the jury it could bring in one of three verdicts: murder in the first degree; murder in the second degree; or not guilty.

Miss Helen Phelps, chief prosecuting witness, was the first to take the stand in Pitt County Superior Court today as Willie Tate, 29-year-old Georgia-born negro, went on trial for his life.

The negro is charged with slaying Alexander Warren, Bethel filling station employee, and assaulting Miss Phelps with intent to commit rape, on the night of February 28, as the couple was parked on a side road near this city.

Miss Phelps related in detail an account of events on the night of the crime. She said Tate was the man who opened the car door and shot Warren without saying a word. She then told of the negro dragging her some distance from the car and attempting to assault her. She said the act was not accomplished.

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst was the next witness called to the stand. He related that Tate made a signed confession admitting that he participated in the crime. The confession was introduced into evidence over the objection of S. O. Worthington, who was appointed to represent the negro by Judge J. Paul Frizzelle, who is presiding over the special term of court here this week.

Tate declared in the confession that he was not the one who actually shot Warren, but said that Otis Watson, another negro, did the shooting.

The confession also implicated another negro, George Lee. Both Watson and Lee deny any connection in the crime. They are not on trial jointly with Tate.

Miss Phelps declared that she saw only one negro and that he was Tate.

The jury to try Tate was completed about noon after 59 prospective jurors had been examined. It is composed of eight farmers, three bookkeepers and one merchant. A thirteen juror, selected to hear the case and serve, should one of regular list be forced to withdraw from the case, was selected. He is W. F. Worthington, Farmville barber.

The twelve jurors follow: W. E. Pittman of Fountain, farmer; J. B. Haddock of Cheed, farmer; W. A. Dail of Winterville, farmer; E. C. Holmes of Farmville, merchant; J. S. Harrington of Ayden, farmer; Robert Lang of Ayden, farmer; H. Q. Gardner of Farmville, bookkeeper for the Eastern Carolina Railroad; S. R. Brown of Fountain, farmer; W. H. Moore, Jr., of Farmville, bookkeeper for J. H. Harris; G. E. Trevathan of Fountain, farmer; C. A. Lyle of Farmville, bookkeeper for R. L. Davis; and H. W. Smith of Chiroc, farmer.

Weapons Clank, Armies March, As Pre-World War History Is Repeated

By MELVIN E. COLEMAN
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Scrap of paper, international pact signed with all the solemnity of diplomatic ritualism, hailed as bulwarks of peace and as harbingers of brighter days, have been scattered across militaristic Europe for so far back "that the mind of man runneth not to the contrary."

Today French and Belgian fears, made almost frantic by the tramp of Hitler's new army across the bridges of the Rhine, are matched by German pride as Der Fuehrer proclaims Locarno and Versailles engagements terminated and tells his people that the restoration of German equality is an established fact.

Weapons clank on both sides of the border, diplomats hurry from conferences to send reports to home offices, governmental leaders counsel calmness and editors plead for cool heads.

History Repeats

So Europe poised throughout the first decade of the century. Clashing colonial interests in Africa brought several acute crises but the combination of the "triple entente"—France, czarist Russia and Great Britain—against the "triple alliance"—Germany, Austro-Hungary and Italy, kept the balances tilted on the peace side.

Then the scene swung to the Balkans. Turkey's grip on her European lands was loosening and Russia, "big brother" of the south slavs, was still feeling the effects of her 1904-5 defeat by Japan, when, in October, 1908, Austro-Hungary annexed Bosnia and Herzegovina. Neighboring Serbia protested and called on St. Petersburg for help. Berlin warned that Russia must not interfere. The czar's forces were not ready for another war, so Serbia was compelled to acquiesce.

But not the people of the annexed provinces. "Revolutionaries" flourished there, particularly in Bosnia, through the Balkan wars of 1912-13. France persuaded Russia to stay out of those embroilments and Germany and Italy kept Austro-Hungary from intervening.

Armies Strengthened

Meanwhile Germany was increasing her army and building a navy; France, as she has today, had lengthened the service terms of her military conscripts; England was working out military cooperation with her dominions and Russia had embarked on a five-year plan for rebuilding her war machine. Austro-Hungary's general staff had drawn up full plans for a campaign in the Balkans.

Into this powder keg fell the Bosnian match, the murders on June 28, 1914, at Sarajevo of the heir to the Austrian throne and his wife.

Austro-Hungary pounced on Serbia; Russia rose ponderously to defend "the little brother" and Germany's ultimatum, effective when the Bosnian dispute arose in 1908, was disregarded. France, bound to her alliance with czarist Russia as today she is bound by treaty to the Soviet Union, called her men to the colors; Germany turned in both directions, knew the Alsace-Lorraine frontier was too strong to overcome by frontal attack, and debouched through Belgium. She had helped guarantee the neutrality of that little kingdom but when reminded of this obligation by Britain responded:

"Pouf! A scrap of paper!"

Huge Death Toll

More than 8,500,000 dead, more than 21,000,000 wounded, and 7,750,000 "prisoners or missing"; starvation, bankruptcy and revolution was the result. The treaty makers of Versailles in 1919, of Locarno in 1923, the negotiators of the Dawes and Young plans, the organizers of the League of Nations, all have tried to erect barriers that would hold back any such flood of death and destruction in the future.

But Versailles' pact is in shreds, Locarno's signature line is torn off, reparations belong in the misty past and the League did not prevent China's loss of Manchuria or Italy's "colonial expedition" into Ethiopia. Germany desires warlike intention. Hitler offers a fresh series of treaties and General Werner von Blomberg, war minister, tells a nation-wide radio hook-up:

"War destroys the flower of humanity and brings gain neither to the victor nor the vanquished."

The Rhineland (shaded) was demilitarized at the close of the World war in an effort to make a repetition of the famous 1914 German march toward Paris impossible. The success of the initial German "push" in the late war is illustrated by the broken line on the map representing the position of the Kaiser's troops Sept. 5, 1914, a few weeks after the outbreak of hostilities. Soon thrust backward, German forces never got this close to Paris again. Duesseldorf, Cologne, Mannheim and other Rhineland cities just occupied by Hitler's soldiers are shown on the map, as are Verdun, Chateau Thierry and Reims, French cities of World war fame. A line of French forts, built at a cost of a quarter of a billion dollars, now stretches along the border from Huningue on the south to Thionville on the North. At some points Hitler's men now are in machine gun "shooting" distance of reinforced French garrisons.

PLANT-FOODS FROM NATURE'S TREASURE VAULTS

ONE of the ten ingredients used to make Robertson's Fertilizers is fish—rich in available Nitrogen that does not easily leech away. Fish-scrap supplies 21 different elements.

THE bones of prehistoric animals are mined and treated to make available the Phosphoric Acid that all growing plants must have.

BIRD-GUANOS supply food to plants in forms that chemists cannot imitate. The manure of fish-eating birds and their remains are used to enrich Robertson's Fertilizers.

THRUOUT growth, crops are nourished constantly by Robertson's Mixtures because we use much blood and tankage that feed plants from sprouting time 'til maturity.

Bailey, N. C.
December 5, 1935.

This is to certify that I used Robertson's fertilizers under my entire crop this year, and while it was my first trial of it, yet, I must say that I received better results than from any other fertilizers ever used. On one particular crop of only 2 three tenths by actual measurements, I received $800.00 for tobacco grown with Robertson's Silky Leaf! I expect to use it again the coming season.

Writes Script For Minstrel. Miss Loraine Hunter has written the script for the third annual Carolina Teachers College show, to be given by the Varsity Club of the College on the night of April 3. It is said to be a very clever variation of the conventional minstrel show, with a thread of plot stringing together the minstrel features, the combination making a play of plantation life. There is a plantation negro family and the family of the plantation owner appearing in it. Miss Hunter is the director also.

Jimmy Carr's stage band, composed of a campus group, will furnish the music for the show.

Returns From Knoxville. Miss Lucille Norton, Director of Physical Education of East Carolina Teachers College, attended the ninth annual convention of the Southern District of the American Physical Education Association which was held four days last week, March 11-14, at the Andrew Johnson Hotel in Knoxville, Tennessee. The association has a membership of 700. The southern district is composed of 12 states: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

The sections holding meetings were: recreation, health, therapeutics, dance, women's athletics and swimming, men's athletics, camping, research, teacher-training, and physical and health education for negroes.

Eastern Star Installs Officers. On the evening of March 17th the incoming officers of Greenville Chapter No. 149 Order of the Eastern Star, assumed their new obligations in an impressive ceremony of great beauty and solemnity. The chapter room was beautifully decorated with spring flowers, significant in their color arrangement of the Eastern Star ideals. The lovely blossoms were seen only by candlelight, whose soft brilliance grew, as each officer took oath, by the added strength of a new flame.

Mrs. Louise D. Wells, junior past worthy matron, was installing officer. She appointed to act as installing marshal Mrs. Roland M. Herring; organist, Mrs. Loula Fleming; chaplain, Mrs. Minnie Brooks; warden, Mrs. Nell Moore.

Officers installed were:

Worthy Matron, Mrs. Maude Earhart; Worthy Patron, J. Frank Harrington; Associate Matron, Mrs. Melbie House; Associate Patron, A. R. House; Secretary, Mrs. Roland Herring; Treasurer, Mrs. Mollie A. Brown; Conductress, Mrs. Patsy Randolph; Associate Conductress, Mrs. Kathleen Whitehurst; Chaplain, Miss Lil Wilson; Marshal, Mrs. Sarah Tucker; Organist, Mrs. Lena Galloway; Adah, Mrs. Lucile Mison; Ruth, Mrs. Nanette Lee Williford; Esther, Mrs. Patsy Clark; Martha, Mrs. Thelma Joyner; Electa, Mrs. Josephine Rawl; Warden, Mrs. Evelyn Cox; Sentinel, J. S. Elks.

Appropriate music was rendered by Mrs. Loula Fleming throughout the ceremony. Mrs. E. S. Hamric and Mrs. Marion Scarborough beautifully sang appropriate hymns as each Star Point was installed into office. Immediately after the installation, Mrs. Minnie Brooks, past worthy matron, presented the outgoing worthy matron, Mrs. Louise Wells, the past matron's jewel from the chapter, with words of appreciation for her splendid work during the past year. Mrs. Wells graciously responded by thanking the chapter for their entire cooperation during the year, also thanking the officers for their allegiance.

The program was presided over by Mrs. Louise Wells. "Welcome To Our Chapter" was sung by members of the Greenville chapter to the many visitors present.

J. F. Harrington, worthy patron of Greenville chapter for ten years, in a few well chosen words told of some of the purposes of the order. He thanked the retiring officers and members for their cooperation for the past year and gave a welcome to the new officers. He introduced Lawyer David Williford, who made a wonderful talk on the "Order of the Eastern Star," which was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. A duet "Beautiful Eastern Star," was sung very beautifully by Mrs. Hamric and Mrs. Scarborough.

Several visitors made short impromptu speeches. Mrs. Florence Jenkins of Ayden, district deputy grand matron of the second district said a few words for the good of the order. Mrs. J. A. McIver, in her usual charming manner, sang "Mighty Lak a Rose." Mrs. Wells called on Rev. J. A. McIver to say a few words. He responded in a most beautiful way, in a manner becoming the solemnity of the occasion.

It was regretted by all that Mrs. Alice H. Parker of Farmville, who was on the program for one of her unusually good speeches, was kept away by illness. Also Mrs. Annie J. Stroud of Ayden, who was to have given two readings, was ill and could not attend. The program was brought to a close by prayer by Rev. McIver.

Delicious refreshments were served by a committee of nine. Mrs. Josephine Rawl chairman. St. Patrick's Day was carried out in refreshments and favors.—Reported.

Over our telephones you buy the same fine foods that you yourself would select—your budget will stay healthy, too. "Make Us Prove It." Johnson's Food Market, Phone 610. (Adv.) 18-31

Willis-Mayo.
Falkland, March 19.—Marked by impressive simplicity was the wedding of Miss Anne Cordelia Mayo of Falkland to Harold Parker Willis of Elizabethtown and Greenville, which was solemnized in the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville Sunday afternoon, March 15th, at two o'clock. Dr. J. N. H. Sumner, a former pastor of the bride and close friend of the bride's family, officiated.

The church was decorated in green and white, ferns being banded behind the altar and tall floral baskets filled with Easter lilies and white carnations flanking the altar on either side.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Edith McIver of Falkland, played "To a Wild Rose," by MacDowell, and "I Love You Truly," by Bond. The bride's bouquet was "Lohengrin," by Wagner, was used as a processional, while Mendelssohn's Wedding March was used as a recessional. "At An Old Trysting Place" by MacDowell, was softly played during the ceremony. Miss Marsden wore a black and white ensemble with matching accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of white roses.

Miss Olive Mayo, only sister of the bride, attended as maid of honor. She wore a navy blue suit with accessories to match and a shoulder corsage of pink roses.

The groom entered with his cousin, Carlton Willis, as best man. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, H. B. Mayo of Fountain. She was becomingly attired in a beige suit with London lace accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mayo of Falkland. She completed her high school course at Mitchell Academy in Statesville, N. C., and later received training at Park View Hospital at Rocky Mount. For several years she has done private nursing in the county and has won a wide circle of friends.

The groom is formerly of Elizabethtown but for several years has made his home in Greenville where he operates the Pitt Poultry Co.

The wedding came as a surprise to a large majority of friends of the couple and the wedding guests included only relatives and very intimate friends.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Willis left for Miami and other points of interest in Florida. Upon their return they will be at home on Eighth Street in Greenville.

FRESHMEN RAISES STOCK TO PAY WAY AT COLLEGE

Lubbock, Tex. (AP)—Carl Kiehl, freshman at Texas Technological college, is "raising" his way thru school.

An uncle gave him $5 for Christmas in 1929. Carl bought a pig. He raised the pig; she had a family of six.

He sold five; the remaining two presented him with 11 more. He sold the pigs and bought a registered cow and calf.

He accumulated a herd of 16 registered cattle, sold two for $200 and enrolled in Tech. The other 14 he values at more than $1,000, and he thinks the calves will put him through school.

Rev. Fred Helfer Continues Series Of Sermons Here

Large Audience Attends Second of Series of Sermons Being Delivered at Christian Church

A splendid audience attended the second of the series of sermons being held in the Eighth Street Christian Church last night. The Rev. Fred H. Helfer of Hiram College, Ohio, who is conducting the preaching mission in the local church, delighted those present with a most helpful, challenging and thoughtful message on "Something To Live For." Mr. Helfer's messages are splendid illustrations of the fact that the most profound principles of human living and the basic facts of man's relationship to God can be expressed in simple, easily-understood language. The simplicity of his preaching is one of the most pleasing aspects of the work of the man who is guest speaker in the Christian Church. The people of Greenville should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear the messages being delivered under the general theme of "We Need Religion." Tonight's subject is "Come Up Higher."

The sponsoring group for tonight's service is Circle No. 1 of the Women's Council. Members of this Circle, and others who wish to do so, are asked to meet in the College Classroom at 7:30 for the tentative Altar Service of dedication. Please be on time that this devotional period may proceed with as little interruption as possible. Tomorrow, Friday, night the sponsoring group will be the Bible School and Young People's organizations. Members of these groups are likewise asked to be present for the Altar Service on Friday night.

Jazy Gypsies Gyp Band Tax
Debrecen, Hungary, (AP)—When is a gypsy band a jazz band is the question which Debrecen has answered with an explicit decree.

Societies for the preservation of Hungarian folk music forced adoption of ordinances providing a higher tax for jazz bands than for gypsy bands. But jazz retained its popularity, and soon it became apparent that bands composed entirely of gypsies were playing jazz. Now the mayor has issued a decree which defines a jazz band as any musical organization of which more than half the instruments are saxophones and banjos.

(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Senator Borah's embarkment on an active speaking campaign holds far more than a casual interest for Republicans of all shades of opinion.

Two questions about Mr. Borah have been asked repeatedly. First, is he really in earnest, and ready to throw his best efforts into his presidential campaign? Second, does he still retain at least 71 those great powers of persuasive eloquence which made him famous?

These questions have not arisen from mere curiosity about the fortunes of a public man who has become an American institution. Their direct relation to the present confused Republican situation as a whole is readily apparent.

The senator from Idaho is seeking to upset the calculations of the old-line party leaders, and turn the party itself into new paths. Whatever he accomplishes must be largely through his own efforts, for the organization almost everywhere is against him.

In that situation, it is hardly too much to say that the course of the Cleveland convention, and consequently the future direction of the Republican party, depend directly on Mr. Borah's willingness and ability to sway the voters by personal appeal.

Borah Workers Discouraged
His own principal supporters will be among the most eager to learn whether his first efforts on the stump "go over."

Without an effective organization largely without funds or prominent speakers aside from the candidate himself, the workers for Borah have not found the road easy. Some of them have been plainly discouraged, and have said so privately.

Their one hope lies in the lingering confidence that Borah has over the heads of local bosses and precinct committeemen, and persuade the masses of voters. And that confidence is by no means a mere pretense among many who knew Mr. Borah's record.

Ever since he attracted national attention as a lawyer in a celebrated western labor case more than 40 years ago, he has been recognized universally as one having the rare ability to speak to the "plain people" in language they understand. Always he has been at his best when he stood, as he now stands, in opposition to the established order, and battled against recognized authority.

Can he do what another leader of somewhat similar background accomplished in 1920, when Hiram Johnson swept Republican primaries by direct personal appeal in states where he not only had no organization of his own, but was opposed by old-line leaders who thought their entrenchments impregnable?

A Look At The Record
The doubt which has arisen on the score of Borah's earnestness is founded, likewise, on his record.

His political reputation for starting things he did not finish is so widely established that at first very few of the recognized leaders thought he meant it when he said he would be a candidate. They had heard talk of his running for president many times before, but nothing came of it.

His hesitation about entering Ohio was such that some of his own Ohio leaders openly express exasperation. After he spoke in New York some weeks ago he returned to Washington in a frame of mind which his advisers interpreted as reflecting much doubt and discouragement.

Now he has made engagements, however, which indicate a fixed determination to go through with the campaign. If he holds to that determination, the possibilities will come down to the final question of sheer ability to perform the task he has set for himself.

In all ordinary matters, Borah remains strikingly active and vigorous for his years. The next few weeks alone can demonstrate, however, whether his old fire on the stump endures and whether, in consequence, he is to be a real power at Cleveland or only one of the numerous casualties of a sanguinary campaign.

For the past three weeks the writer has been absent from this city during which time he has made a trip to the Pacific coast, covering a distance of around seven thousand miles and viewing many of the sights to be seen enroute. Naturally there are wonders to be seen and the beautiful scenery is an inspiration to the traveler, but in the end there is no place to live like Eastern North Carolina. Everyone enjoys a brief vacation and a change of scenery but there is nothing to make one more appreciative of this section of the country than to visit other places and then come back home.

It is to be hoped that the tobacco growers as a whole of the flue cured tobacco producing states will lose no time in signing the new crop control contracts. The experience of the past three years is conclusive evidence that holding down the size of the crop is the only way to receive good prices for tobacco. In view of this it would be bad judgment on the part of the growers not to get together to control the acreage and those who prefer to remain outside endeavoring to take advantage of those who join together to assure the industry good prices, should be classed as outcasts or slackers.

tribution of federal money for boondoggling. They think that Mr. McKay shows too much favoritism toward representatives of the wide open spaces. It's going to be a tough problem for FDR, especially as the West is his political home-land.

SHREWD: Conservative Republicans bitterly criticize Minority Leader "Charlie" McNary's leadership in the Senate, although not publicly. They think that the Senator from Oregon is secretly making it easy and sure for FDR. Mr. McNary has diplomatically stated off several schemes for capitalizing Democratic blunders, including the Black Committee's seizure of impromptu members on his side of the aisle that they cannot afford to tie up with some of the President's enemies—Hearst or the American Liberty League. The result has been that the lead in denouncing presidential policies has been taken by House G. O. P.ers—Members Wadsworth, Snell and Taber of New York. There has been no concerted onslaught on the New Deal on Capitol Hill.

Nevertheless, back-stage attacks on Mr. McNary are tempered by the realization that he is the shrewdest politician in the party. Though he backs Mr. Borah, he doesn't think that the Idahoan can make the presidential grade. But he knows that no old-style G. O. P.er can win next fall. Meanwhile, he's looking after "Charlie" McNary. And he got Bonneville Dam and a new state Capitol Building out of FDR.

PAYOFF: Senate Leader Pat Harrison has often squirmed under New Deal demands, but he has been a loyal foot-soldier. His falsetto voice has often swung the Senate behind proposals he detested. Now

by Margaret Wilder

SYNOPSIS: Through Morgan Black, who appeared one day at her Aunt Ella Lanning's boarder, Iris Lanning has found the brother Owen who had she believed died many years before. She has found also her aunt Josephine a famous colorist and learns that against his will Owen designs for their aunt. Now Iris is taking Owen to see his aunt and her Uncle William, both of whom have sacrificed their lives in the memory of their dead father, the painter who was supposed to have been the family heirloom.

Chapter 12 DITTY TRUTH

"Haven't you any money?" asked Iris.
"It would take a while to get it all that, and to carry me all things get better. This is a bad time for architecture anyhow. But that isn't the point. Sign won't marry me till I cut out working for Phina. But I owe it to Phina, much as I hate being a man milliner."

His shoulders sagged a little. There seemed nothing to do but to slip her hand in his and say, "I'm sorry."

"But what about you?" he demanded more briskly. "Who's this thing that seems to be running everything? You engaged?"

"Goodness, no!" Iris answered. "Just a boarder. As for even being interested in each other, we began with a terrible row. He's a splendid friend, though!" she added. "He's been wonderful to Uncle Will. We don't know much about him, except that Uncle Will says he knows enough about human nature to know he's never done anything very wrong."

Owen was a little white as he entered the house, but he was saying happily, "For unworldliness, you should all get large leather medals." On the stairs they met the doctor coming out.

"Oh, has anything happened?" Iris demanded. The doctor did not come in that economical household unless something was very wrong indeed.

The doctor spoke to her cheerily. "You're a touch of neuritis, a thing you'll get from your uncle's heart-ache. And a bit nervous excitement, I understand. He looked keenly at Owen, unmistakably a Lanning. "He's a fine visitor. It's better for him than suspense. But he mustn't get in a couple of weeks. This is a serious matter."

Yes, Mr. Lanning? "Good! Glad to see you, too, Mr. Owen. You'll find you have very nice people. Now go along and meet your uncle."

Uncle William was ready for them, calm and interested in his conclusion. "I'm glad to see you, Mr. Owen. Wasn't he just saying Owen came over and put his hand in his iris slipped out of the room. Before this was gone she could see them down and Uncle Will sitting for word beginning to talk in the air and friendly way, they both had the smile a little in their eyes. They would get on."

After perhaps half an hour Owen came downstairs. He spoke in the same way she had learned was his own.

Grand old man, he said. Then as if he didn't mean to be so serious, he said, "I'm glad to see you, Mr. Owen. Wasn't he just saying Owen came over and put his hand in his iris slipped out of the room. Before this was gone she could see them down and Uncle Will sitting for word beginning to talk in the air and friendly way, they both had the smile a little in their eyes. They would get on."

He shook his head. "Show me father's picture, that did it all," he said abruptly.

She opened the door of the beautiful long old parlor. She stood by the door and watched him move about the room, she saw him has one picture, pause at another. "He had made the round of them twice. He returned to her. "All right, let's go," was all he said.

"No. Tell me."

tion. When he wouldn't go take a job she took us and went away."

"No good! I can't believe it." Suddenly she got control of herself. "You mustn't tell them—Aunt Ella and Uncle William. They'd die."

"Gosh, Iris, you're a grand person!"

She shook her head, tremulous. "I'm not grand, Owen. Can't you see? I'm selfish. Because—this frees her."

Her brother hung an arm around her. "I've never been free myself. But if I can manage it you shall be. After all, if the old people die if they wanted to, there's a lot of waste in life usually, I guess."

And then Iris knew that in spite of the sophistication and the worldliness of this new brother of hers there was something she could give him; her freshness, her belief in life and living, her knowledge that everything was important and worth while.

"But we're young! We can go on!" she said ardently. He looked at her.

"Can we? If you say so, Iris, somehow I can go on believing."

She laughed. "Of course! And now, since you are going to be an architect, look at the house, isn't it good? And Daddy has a collection of Stiegel glass he used to show people. Owen, you mustn't think of him as cruel. Being with him was like being in exciting sunlight. I can't say it any other way, people would give everything for it."

He looked at her gravely. "Being in exciting sunlight. That's a good phrase for it. You have it, too, Iris."

She laughed and shook her head. "Oh, I'm Iris. I'm a cross between sun and rainstorms! Here, look at the glass!"

She went to the cupboard, opening it to show him the long array.

BUT he did not exclaim, or look impressed as she had expected him to. Come on away, he said suddenly. He looked at the cupboard door. He took her by the wrist and walked her out into the hall where he threw her coat and hat and then he turned and looked at a box and had her back at Phina's room in the hotel before she knew what it was about.

Phina was there, dark right about her. "You said that as he walked in. She kept Father till it collected news and inquiries while this poor kid's never had a decent thing in her life. As far as I have anything to say she shouldn't stay with that dirty old woman one minute longer!"

"Hold on a minute," said Morgan. "I've clipped quiet voice from behind Aunt Phina where they had been standing talking by the window. "Iris has had high ideals and love and devotion. She's lived with one of the finest men I ever met, she's been brought up to honesty and simplicity and charity. She is better educated and has more talents than any girl I've ever seen. I'd like to know how much real love and selflessness and happiness you can offer this girl if you snatch her away from a home that centers in her."

"You seem to have rather a low opinion of the world outside Persia, Pennsylvania," said Phina in a silky voice with an edge under its sweetness. "It has misjudged you, perhaps. Your romantic ideas of what we are offering her do not approve, perhaps, the society of her own brother and perhaps a better man and shows."

Morgan had flushed, as if some phrase of Phina's struck home, but he answered sharply none the less. "I can only repeat that a girl of Iris's ideals and upbringing will not be happy in the life you can give her."

"You seem to think the Lannings down there are the only people in the world who can love Iris," said Owen bluntly. "I happen to be her brother, and I love her and want her. So does Phina."

against the President's plan to tax corporate surpluses.

One is that many corporations—especially big fellows that have been paying large dividends in proportion to earnings—stand to gain a lot from the legislation. The surplus tax in their cases will amount to much less than the present corporate income tax and capital stock tax to be repealed. Why should they kick? As for the bank, they will gain more than anybody. On current indications they will be relieved of the old taxes and exempt from the new. Probably neither side would admit it, but in effect FDR has offered them an olive branch as big as Bismarck's.

Experts agree that—apart from large individual stockholders—small corporations and those with heavy debts will be hardest hit. New Yorkers who would like to protest on principle don't dare make a public outcry. They figure that would only clinch Congressional approval of the measure.

CRUCIAL: The coal companies, which have been obeying the Guffey Act—including most of the Pennsylvania mines—are jittery about one phase of their situation. By observing this law they are explicitly violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. If the Supreme Court rules the Guffey Act unconstitutional they will be in a long way out on the legal limb. In fact their lawyers tell them they are in some jeopardy even if the Act is sustained.

Not that Homer Cummings is likely to use them for combining in restraint of trade. Cynics comment that even New Deal inconsistency could hardly go that far. But there's no telling what some future administration with trust-busting propensities might do.

In some ways the Guffey test is more crucial than even the AAA and TVA decisions. The Act represents the New Dealers' most vital hope of establishing some degree of federal regulation of business. Conversely, conservatives fear a private government decision would open the gates again to Congressional jurisdiction over all major industries.

HOCK: A number of banks that would like to repay their preferred stock debt to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation find that it isn't going to be so simple. There are individual exceptions, but in general the big banks are having trouble enough keeping their capital in proper proportion to deposits without, retiring any of said capital.

This problem arises chiefly from the amazing growth of deposits in the past two years. From the end of 1933 to the end of 1935 the capital of the 100 biggest banks in the U. S. increased only by $400,000,000—a negligible difference. In the same period their deposits jumped by about $7,500,000,000. Their ratio of deposits to capital climbed from 9 to 1 to almost 12 to 1. To 1 to almost 12 according to conservative banking standards. Jesse Jones thinks the banks should find the answer in selling their own securities to the public. That will probably come in time—but bankers are not yet so confident that the investing public would be receptive to sticking their necks out.

They do admit the government is trying to make it easier for them to raise capital. Double liability for stockholders of national banks will be abolished after June of 1937. The New York Banking Department is pressing a similar measure for state institutions. But meanwhile most of the banks which accepted RFC capital must remain in hock to Mr. Jones.

DELAY: The Securities Exchange Commission could give a snail's pace on leisure—leaves in connection with its split to force E. C. Bond and State to pass the holding act.

All the SEC's lawyers are doing about it at present is to talk things over every now and then with attorneys for the utility. They are working on "stipulations." These are facts to be presented in evidence which both sides agree to beforehand. The more arguments over facts eliminated in advance, the more time saved in court. These parties have had the take-your-time atmosphere of a cricket match.

A thoroughly posted insider says: "Unless Federal Judge Mack wants to sit through the hot summer months, there will be no trial before November." That will be after election.

APPROVED: Several of the big utility groups are quietly swapping odd properties with each other small boys trade stamps. In this way they are working toward the principle of geographical integration which was one of the main ideas behind the holding company act. They figure it's just as well to be prepared in case—by some miscarriage of justice—the law is held valid.

It has been made privately clear to these companies that the government unofficially approves such exchanges. It can't say so officially because the corporations in question have sinfully neglected to register.

SPORT SLANTS

If you happen to be a musically minded and entertain ambitions of sports conquests for your tiny little daughter when she grows up you might give her a good start by naming her Helen. A quick glance over the list of girl champions shows that a flock of fair champions answer to the name of Helen. No other single name comes even close to it.

Women's tennis is dominated by a pair of Helens, Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs. Helen Stephens, the outstanding girl sprinter in the country, holds the national A. U. championships and is America's best bet to win Olympic titles at Berlin.

A Helene, Too

Helen Hicks, now a businesswoman golfer, held the national amateur title and was one of the leading girl golfers in the land for several years. And there was Helen Meeny, winner of the Olympic diving championship at Amsterdam in 1928. Helen Madison turned professional after she had won just about every swimming honor possible. She held Olympic and national championships, and most of the freestyle swimming records as well. The New York Women's Swimming Association has a tiny little Helen who is going to be a threat in future backstroke races. She is Helen Rains, 11 years old and weighing only 74 pounds—but she can swim.

You'll hear plenty about Helen Mayer in connection with Olympic fencing next summer. She is the juno-esque German girl who is favored to successfully defend the fencing championship she won in 1932 at Los Angeles. Another Olympian bearing the name of Helen is Mrs. Helen Boughton-Leigh, captain of the American women's skiing team which competed at Garmisch-Partenkirchen.

Pound-Building Program

Evangeline McLennan, pretty Atlanta, Ga., tennis star, hopes virtually to eat her way into the nation's first ten ranking this year. While many other young ladies are merrily "letting" sandwiches and toying with a lamb chop and tea to have down their weight, Evangeline sits down to enjoy meals of Steak with potatoes, spaghetti, fruits with plenty of butter—and that sort of thing.

Last year she called forth to the east for her "big-time" tournaments and critics raved over her possibilities but lamented: "If she were only heavier and had the stamina that necessary weight gives the tennis player."

But at that, her splendid showing won her the name, "The Slight Southener." This year things will be different, the girl tennis luminary says, and she points to her pound-building training program as the reason.

"I've gained 16 pounds already since last summer," she declares with a note of satisfaction.

Last year Evangeline went to the quarter finals in the Southern, lost a match critics said she should have won, then made her assault on the eastern matches, and climaxed the season by competing in the national at Forest Hills.

Twice in eastern tournaments she lost to brilliant Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold, the young lady who turned pro after starring an amazing comeback in which she won the deciding match to take the Wightman Cup for America.

Teachers Pushing Miss Lafferty For Association Prexy

Greenroom Teachers of State Think Association Should Pay More Attention to Their Division

Reflector Bureau.

Sir Walter Hotel. Raleigh, March 18.—The reason the classroom teachers of the state want to elect Miss Clara Lafferty of Charlotte, president of the North Carolina Classroom Teachers Association when it meets here Thursday and Friday of this week, is because they think the association should do more for the classroom teachers than it has in the past.

They also think that it can accomplish more during the 1937 general assembly with the classroom teacher as its head than with a city or county superintendent as president. The teachers are convinced that in the past the officers of the education association and its legislative committee have paid too much attention to matters affecting superintendents and principals and not enough to matters affecting the teachers.

The present revolt of the teachers against the clique of city and superintendents which for years is conceded to have controlled the policies of the education association is actually a double-barreled revolt both against the association and the present State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Clyde A. Erwin. Teachers privately agree, and had its beginning shortly after the close of the 1935 general assembly when the facts about the lobbying activities of the association came to light.

Many of the teachers have never become reconciled to the expenditure of more than $4,000 of association funds for lobbying activities during the 1935 Legislature, of which $2,500 was paid to Stover P. Dunnagan of Rutherfordton, a former political association of State Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin when he was county superintendent in Rutherford county, before being appointed state superintendent. Many of the teachers feel that their money was spent by the association in employing a lobbyist who spent most of his time trying to put over legislation in which Erwin and his group of appointees were interested, instead of in behalf of legislation that would help the teachers.

If the classroom teachers succeed in electing Miss Lafferty president of the education association this week, as many now think they will, it is reported that the only lobbyist they will have during the next Legislature will be classroom teachers who will work for the teachers.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, March 18.—Administration leaders are confident; the next few weeks.—Col. Henry Brockbridge's "stony Roosevelt" candidacy in presidential primaries notwithstanding—will see more and more party stalwarts who have opposed "new deal" policies come out for the reelection of President Roosevelt.

The recent declaration of Senator Tydings of Maryland is in their opinion, the start of the parade. Tydings, one of the severest critics of various administration policies—nearly spending and foreign trade—has said that while he believes the President should modify substantially a number of his emergency activities, nevertheless "I do not propose to take a walk."

Many read into the impromptu statement of Senator Glass of Virginia on the senate floor during the heat of debate an indication that he feels the same way.

"I am as partisan as any man on the stump," declares Glass, "and I expect to be hereafter."

Borah Sights Guns

Advance notices of the opening by Senator Borah of his campaign in the Ohio presidential primary at Youngstown indicate it will be by far the biggest gun yet fired on the political front.

Washington political correspondents were advised weeks in advance by those in charge of arrangements at Youngstown to make reservations and specify what telegraphic facilities they would need for covering the event. Such warnings usually are reserved for national political conventions or the actual launching of a party nominee's campaign.

Because it is Borah, however, and because the outcome in Ohio promises to shed so much light on the future political situation that event at Youngstown takes on real significance.

The First Platform

Political researchers in the capital, preparing for coming national conventions, have resurrected what they believe to be the first actual platform adopted by a party.

It was ratified in Washington, D. C., May 11, 1832, by a faction of the democratic convention. Here are two of its major planks:

1. "Resolved, that a uniform system of internal improvements, sustained and supported by the general government, is calculated to secure, in the highest degree, the harmony, strength and permanency of the republic."

2. "Resolved, that the indiscriminate removal of public officers for a mere difference of political opinion is a gross abuse of power; and that the doctrine lately boldly preached in the United States senate, that 'to the victor belongs the spoils of the vanquished' is detrimental to the interests, corrupting to the morals, and dangerous to the liberties of the country."

BY NAZI BURGOMASTER

Brunswick, Germany, (AP)—A "colony for anti-social elements" with houses lacking plumbing, running water and modern improvements, has been established here for Germans who can't live amicably with neighbors.

An entire street is reserved for these houses so that everybody in town knows where "undesirables" live.

Burgomaster E. Hesse, who announced the colony, described its conditions as "sufficient for simple needs without meeting cultural requirements."

He said the colony has not been filled to capacity, but that the mere threat of its existence proved sufficient to "cure" some of the prospective tenants.

THURS. FRIDAY SAT.

Getting babies the things they need at prices parents can afford to pay is one of our chief specialties. We're a good many years wise on the subject of babies. We know what doctors recommend for them... what makes them grow... what keeps them from getting the colic and catching cold. We're as particular about our baby purchases as we are our pharmaceuticals. We insist on freshness, purity, and quality. We carry no so-called "seconds." And because we buy with a group of chain stores, we get tremendous discounts which enable us to sell for less. Join the hundreds of thrift-wise parents who have made Bissette's their headquarters for Baby supplies.

SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE ISSUES DO'S and DONT'S CONGRESS IN A NIGHT SESSION

BY THE SPEAKER HIMSELF

"You know," he said, "when it comes to parents, we've got to get 'em young and train 'em or they get out of hand." Here are a few of the laws:

- Don't show me off to your bridge guests after I've gone to sleep.
- Give me rubber nipples that don't stop the milk just when I'm getting interested in it.
- When you powder me after my bath use powder that feels good. After all, my skin hasn't had time to get tough.
- When you give me that Cod Liver Oil stuff, be sure it's fresh. A fellow can stand just so much!
- Don't get excited if I get the sniffles. Call the doctor...
- ...and if he orders some extra-special medicine you make good and sure you get it for me just as the Doctor orders.

Congressmen Take Notice Of Ehringhaus Leaf Plan

Opinion is Expressed Governor Getting Results

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
By J. C. BASKERVILLE
Raleigh, March 19.—The powers that be in Washington are already sitting up and taking notice of the tobacco farmers and the tobacco crop control problem, largely as a result of what Governor J. C. Ehringhaus has done during the past week in carrying his appeal for the tobacco farmers over the heads of the state's delegation in Congress direct to President Roosevelt. It is being generally agreed here today.

For while Governor Ehringhaus has undoubtedly incurred the jealousy, if not the enmity, of some members of the North Carolina delegation in Congress as the result of his appeal to the president and promulgation of a new plan of attack on the tobacco crop control problem, he is already beginning to get results, according to opinion here.

In the first place, a majority of the tobacco leaders now agree that an immediate, though voluntary sign-up campaign to restrict the 1936 crop to 70 per cent of the base acreage as determined by the old AAA is necessary. At the meeting of tobacco and agricultural leaders here Tuesday, it was decided to push this campaign as rapidly as possible, regardless of what other steps may be taken.

In the second place, whether some members of Congress liked it or not, the Governor's telegram to the President, undoubtedly resulted in some action, with the result that almost every member of the Congressional delegation, with the exception of Congressmen Kerr, Bulwinkle and Weaver, who were prevented by other duties or sickness, called upon Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to present a united request that he allot at least $50,000,000 of the $470,000,000 appropriated for soil conservation, to the tobacco farmers.

In the third place, most of the tobacco farmers are again becoming convinced that Governor Ehringhaus knows what he has been talking about, that he is sincerely interested in the welfare of the tobacco farmers and is at last getting some action out of Washington where none was forthcoming before.

The new plan advocated by Governor Ehringhaus and unanimously endorsed by the 50 or more tobacco growers, farm leaders, farm organization heads and others who met here this week, does not in any way interfere with the plan for an interstate tobacco crop limitation pact, if Congress passes the needed legislation to validate such a pact, but supplements the interstate pact plan, it is pointed out here. If it is not possible to get an interstate pact plan adopted that will be effective in controlling the 1936 crop, the other two avenues of approach to the crop control problem, as suggested by Governor Ehringhaus, should prove effective, it is believed here by those who have been studying the situation.

The three-fold plan as recommended by the Governor and approved by the tobacco men and farm leaders here, briefly is as follows:

1. To work for the interstate pact plan for controlling tobacco production in the tobacco growing states and for the enactment by Congress of a law validating state pacts.

2. To push an immediate voluntary sign-up campaign among tobacco farmers in all the tobacco growing states to limit production in 1936 to 70 per cent of the old AAA basic allotment.

3. To work for the allotment of at least $50,000,000 from the soil conservation appropriation to be used in paying tobacco farmers for planting soil improving crops instead of tobacco, and which should be enough to pay them a bonus of about 5 cents a pound on all tobacco they produce if not in excess of the 70 per cent of the basic acreage allotment.

Governor Ehringhaus reiterated today, as he did to the tobacco meeting here Tuesday and again last week, that if and when Congress passed the necessary permissive act validating state pacts, he will call a special session of the North Carolina general assembly to pass a state pact law, especially if in the mean time South Carolina passes such an act. But there is still great doubt in the minds of many tobacco men and others familiar with the tobacco problem if a state pact law, without these other adjuncts, would prove of much value in reducing the 1936 tobacco crop, even if Congress and South Carolina eventually act. At any rate, most of the tobacco farmers seem in favor of going ahead with the second and third points of the Ehringhaus plan without waiting for Congress and South Carolina.

Employment Dept. Makes Good Mark Filling Vacancies

Positions Found For Large Number of Unemployed Veterans by Division of Labor Department

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, March 18.—The war veterans' placement division of the State Employment Service of the State Department of Labor has made an enviable record in the placing of unemployed war veterans in jobs, Assistant Director S. F. Campbell of the employment service pointed out today.

From July 1, 1934 to July 1, 1935, the veterans' placement division, of which H. P. Williams is the head, placed three times as many veterans in jobs as registered, indicating that it placed the same veterans in as many as three or four different jobs in the course of the year. During this period there were only 3,218 new registrations of unemployed veterans, while 9,650 veterans were placed in jobs, or a placement average of 300 per cent.

"This is a record of which I feel the Employment Service and Mr. Williams, the Veterans' Placement Officer, should feel proud," Campbell said.

The registration of war veterans was first started August 6, 1933. From that date through December 31, 1935, the registration of veterans was 24,944 while in the same period 30,466 veterans were placed in jobs, a percentage of 122 per cent.

The total number of registrations with the employment service, from August 6, 1933 to December 31, 1935 was 564,280, of which 256,558 were placed in jobs, figures just compiled by Mr. Campbell show, so that the number placed is 45.4 per cent of the total number registered. Yet in this same period, 122 per cent of the veterans who registered were placed in jobs. This high percentage is reached, of course, because a veteran was frequently placed in three or four jobs in the course of one year, with each job counting as a separate placement.

During the fiscal year from July 1, 1934 to July 1, 1935, the total number of registrations numbered 79,505 of which 75,744 were placed in jobs, so that 95.2 per cent of those who registered in this period were given employment.

Japan's six great cities are Tokyo, Osaka, Nagoya, Kyoto, Kobe, and Yokohama, in that order.

PHONE PROBES HAVE BEARING

Washington Hearing Has Effects on Case in This State

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, March 18.—Some of the facts brought out concerning the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in the investigation of that concern by the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, have a very direct and pertinent bearing on the efforts which have been made to reduce the rates charged by the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company here in North Carolina and the long-drawn out court case in which the Bell company has fought the reductions ordered by the State Utilities Commission. It was pointed out today by Utilities Commissioner Stanley Winborne.

More than a year ago the Utilities Commission found the Bell Telephone rates being charged in North Carolina excessive and ordered a reduction of about 15 per cent, which would have saved its telephone users at least $300,000 a year in charges. The Bell company appealed from the order, and a long trial was just completed, although no decision has as yet been rendered. In this trial, the Southern Bell company sought to prove its charges for equipment and materials were not excessive by comparing them with the prices charged by The Graybar Electric Company, portrayed as an independent company manufacturing telephone equipment to independent telephone companies.

"But in the investigation now in progress in Washington, it has been brought out that the Graybar Electric Company is a subsidiary of the Western Electric company, which in turn is a subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which of course means that the A. T. and T. controls and fixes the prices of the Graybar Company and hence holds a virtual monopoly on all telephone equipment manufactured in this country," Commissioner Winborne said. "And since the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company is a subsidiary of the A. T. and T. Company, its lawyers and engineers were citing prices charged by a subsidiary, claiming it was an independent company, in order to justify its own charges."

"It is a good thing to have these facts brought out so the public can see and understand how telephone charges and rates are controlled by the A. T. and T. which holds a virtual monopoly on telephone service in the United States."

PROFESSOR RATES

Bel "G-MEN" SUPERIOR TO SCOTLAND YARD

Columbus, Ohio, March 19.—(AP)—Harvey Walker, Ohio State university's criminologist, tips his hat to Uncle Sam's department of justice agents and says he would rate them better than even with England's famed Scotland Yard operatives.

Walker, an authority on English police methods, says a definite comparison could not be made because of the vast difference in the criminal problem here and abroad.

"But Scotland Yard never faced a job like that the federal agents had in cleaning out the Dillinger and similar gangs," Walker said.

"Our federal agents' work has been brilliant, spectacular and effective. They have fought crime in America with Crime's own weapons—fast cars, scientific equipment, modern firearms—and have won."

"Scotland Yard's enforcement is centered on an island on which few criminals hide successfully after committing a crime."

Bloody Wars In Picturesque Rhineland Have Remade Maps Since Julius Caesar

Hitler has pointed the way, and goose-stepping German troops again renew their "watch on the Rhine" at Coblenz and other cities in the "demilitarized" Rhineland.

By HOWARD ALLAWAY

New York (AP)—Song and legend celebrate the Rhineland's picturesque castles and pretty fairy tales, but history also knows its wine-flowing valleys in the centuries-old battleground where armies remade the map of Europe.

Today the marching feet of Hitler's warriors echo against the Rhinish hills a sound familiar since the punitive expeditions of Julius Caesar. While Europe faces perhaps the gravest crisis since the war, Germans once more sing "Steadfast and true each son, each son of mine, stands sentry o'er the Rhine, our noble Rhine."

Romans First "Watchers"

Roman legions kept the first "watch on the Rhine." For nearly 1,000 years the river, as the boundary of the Roman empire, protected the civilized world from Germanic savages. But even before that, fighting over the Rhine was an old pastime with Europe's wandering hordes.

Teutons from the north were battling the resident Celtic tribes for possession of the district when history began. The blonde invaders won, and only a few tombs and place names were left to mark the Celtic occupation. That was about 400 B. C.

Coblenz, 1,800 year old capital of Rhenish Prussia, was one of the first river forts garrisoned by the Romans. It was there, in the first century B. C., that Caesar himself made two thrusts across the river to punish the Teutons for border raids into Roman territory.

Agrippa An Invader.

At Cologne, largest city in the formerly demilitarized zone, a similar sally was made by Agrippa in 38 B. C., on a timber bridge replaced with a stone structure by Constantine in 306 B. D. Caesar destroyed both wooden bridges on which he crossed into Germany.

The Roman "watch on the Rhine" though frequently violated, broke down about 800 A. D. when Charlemagne, king of the Franks, became Emperor and sought to graft Roman culture to that of the Teutons. Upon his death in 814, his domain was divided and the Rhine became the boundary between Germany and the Middle Kingdom.

Throughout the middle ages the Rhineland remained a German state. Robber barons, who lived by crossed the river, built the castles levying a toll on travelers as they by legendary knights and maidens fair.

Napoleon On The Scene

About 1800 Napoleon added his name to the list of warriors who have battled for possession of the Rhineland. Germany regained the territory in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870.

Following the World War, Germany retained possession of the Rhineland subject to military occupancy by the allies, which ended June 30, 1930, when France withdrew her last soldier. But as punishment for her "war guilt"—and as a protection to France—Germany was forbidden by the Treaty of Versailles to fortify or garrison the region.

Now Germany, after accepting these restrictions by ratifying the Locarno pact of 1925, has moved in troops and renewed her armed "watch on the Rhine." Europe frankly fears a renewal of the 2,000-year struggle for the Rhinish fairland, whose ruins are populated today

Hugoton, Kas. (AP)—An irrigated 80-acre tract producing more crops than an unirrigated and adjoining 640 acres has convinced Howard B. Wheaton, one of this county's big wheat farmers, that irrigation machinery and small tracts would be more successful here.

Forty states and eight foreign countries are represented by the 1,702 students at Duke University.

CONTAINS THE EXTRA POTASH THAT PAYS EXTRA CASH at an extra cost surprisingly low!

3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER is well-balanced with potash. It contains 35% more actual plant food than 3-8-3, yet it costs you only a fraction more. Figured in terms of an acre the extra cost is so small it will surprise you! Ask Your Fertilizer Man!

Tobacco removes from the soil more potash than both nitrogen and phosphoric acid combined. A 1,000-pound crop of cured leaf removes about 80 pounds of actual potash, or the potash in 1,000 pounds of fertilizer containing 8% potash. The tobacco plant is a shallow feeder that grows to maturity in a very short length of time. For this reason very often even larger quantities of potash than the plant actually removes from the soil are needed to enable it to get sufficient potash to produce extra yields of a high quality crop.

Before you buy tobacco fertilizer it will pay you to check up and find out how little extra it will cost you to use a higher potash mixture. Remember, the Committee of Agronomists recommends fertilizer containing 6 to 10% potash for bright tobacco.

Extra NV POTASH in your fertilizer will probably be the best investment you have ever made. Many leading farmers have used it with outstanding success. Extra potash gives tobacco a better grain and increases yields. It does not make the crop rough and red. On the average the man with the most pounds makes the most dollars per acre. Extra pounds this year will give you the chance to grade your crop closer and sell more pounds of high-quality leaf.

Your fertilizer man knows the importance of plenty of potash in tobacco fertilizer. That is why he has 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER on sale. Tell him you want to produce "high-dollar" tobacco in 1936. Tell him you want 3-8-8 TOBACCO FERTILIZER, the fertilizer that contains so much extra-profit-producing plant food at such low cost.

When you buy straight potash or potash in mixed fertilizer, it pays to make sure you get genuine NV POTASH—the same potash that has helped Southern farmers to produce better crops for more than fifty years.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, March 19.—(AP)—The stock market righted itself today in recovering with three or more points in scattered issues.

Motors, farm implements and specialties were in the vanguard of the advance. The steels did a little better along with some of the utilities and rails. There were a few lagers such as American Can and American Telephone which yielded about two points each.

The late tone was firm. Transfers approximated 2,100,000 shares.

If an excessive tobacco crop is actually produced in 1936. If a majority of the growers have agreed to reduce their tobacco acreage, a State law taxing the production of the non-signer will fit perfectly into the program. It should be remembered that under the A. A. A. it was necessary to have contracts and sign-ups, even though the Kerr-Smith Act penalized the non-signer. Although the Kerr-Smith Act was in full force and effect at that time, the Department of Agriculture last December insisted upon a new voluntary sign-up of the growers, in order to round out a complete program.

The prime purpose of this present sign-up is to secure a definite commitment on the part of the growers to curtail their tobacco acreage. Many farmers are willing to do this provided they know that other farmers are going to do likewise. The signing of such an agreement by farmers, one with the other, will undoubtedly cause many growers to restrict their crop who otherwise would be uncertain as to the proper course to pursue.

In union there is strength, and in such a voluntary agreement is the power and the opportunity to reach the goal of tobacco control for 1936. I will not at this time go into the present status of tobacco stocks, and will not attempt to predict prices for the coming year. But it is beyond doubt true that unless this crop is substantially curtailed from last year's production, tobacco will sell this fall at a disastrous price level. Without a sign-up program it appears most likely that farmers will plant at least as much tobacco as was planted last year. Last year's crop amounted to 803,000,000 pounds or more. Another crop of this size will beyond peradventure break the backbone of the price structure maintained during the past three years, and will result

SAYS PROGRAM IS ADAPTABLE

Dean Schaub Says New Farm Plan Best for Farms

Raleigh, March 19.—County farm agents of North Carolina will meet Tuesday at State College to study fundamental details of the soil conservation and domestic allotment act.

The new farm program is more suited to all farms in the state than was the old AAA, said Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College, and it is essential that all agents gain a working knowledge of the program as soon as possible.

Agents in the cotton counties will also meet at the college Monday afternoon to go over the procedure of handling cotton adjustment payments, the dean said.

The dean has asked the agents in each county to establish a county committee of three members, and a community committee of three in each community.

The committee will play a prominent role in the administration of the new program, Dean Schaub pointed out, and the agents will acquaint the committees with details of the program after they return from Raleigh.

The committees will be given a temporary appointment at first, he continued. Later, the farmers themselves will be asked to elect county and community committees.

In counties where there is one major commodity, such as cotton or tobacco, the old committees who served under the AAA may be allowed to continue, temporarily under the new program.

Where there are two or more major commodities, the agent will need to designate the individuals who are to serve as temporary committees, Dean Schaub stated.

$60 FEE PAID BY CANDIDATE

A. B. Alderman Files for Superintendent of Schools

Reflector Bureau.
Sir Walter Hotel.
Raleigh, March 19.—Superintendent A. B. Alderman of the Greene county school, handed over his $60 fee and officially filed as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Superintendent of Public Instruction by R. C. Maxwell, executive secretary of the State Board of Education here Wednesday. Superintendent Alderman is here attending the annual convention of the N. C. Education Association.

Since announcing as a candidate for the nomination as State Superintendent some months ago, Alderman has been in more than seventy counties of the state and has been getting a very favorable reception, he said today.

Alderman is the first person ever to oppose any incumbent state superintendent in a Democratic primary during the last 35 years, if at all, since without exception all those who have held the post of state superintendent have been re-nominated in the Democratic primaries without opposition. Most of the state superintendents during the past 35 years have been appointed by the various Governors, and then been re-nominated and elected without any opposition.

In the forthcoming primary, however, the Democrats of the state will have a chance for the first time in 35 years to select between two candidates for the nomination for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, since Alderman is opposing the nomination of Clyde A. Erwin, the present incumbent, appointed by Governor Ehringhaus to fill out the unexpired term left when the late Dr. A. T. Allen died.

HORN MADE OF OLD INSTRUMENT PARTS

Wichita, Kas.—(AP)—Lewis E. Clark, a resident of the Kansas Masonic home here, offers the following recipe for what he calls a "hash horn."

Take an old euphonium (a baritone horn with double bells), use the body of the baritone and the trombone bell of the euphonium, add the valves of an E flat bass and attach all these together with the tubing of a worn out bass.

Clark tried it, and the resulting instrument had the tone of a valve trombone.

Musicians were surprised that the hybrid was in pitch, until they had learned Clark was once employed in a musical instrument factory and for years played various wind instruments in bands.

ARTIFICIAL MEASLES CASES MAY HALT BAD EPIDEMICS

Thorshavn, Norway.—(AP)—Authorities here are discussing a plan to give a few healthy people measles whether they want them or not. A medical survey showed that measles wave sweeps the Faero islands only at long intervals, but when it does come it is excessively malignant. Because of the long periods between epidemics the population fails to build up any immunity.

Now officials are considering a scheme of artificially maintaining a few measles patients year in and year out, thus hoping to shield the people from severe outbreaks such as caused several fatalities on the islands this winter.

LUCKY STRIKE CIGARETTES

A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

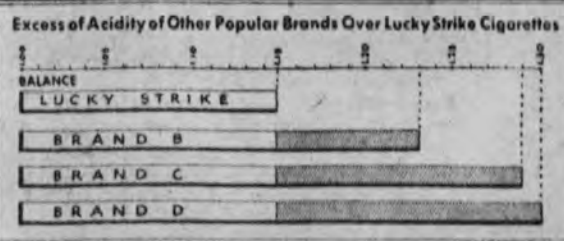

Luckies are less acid. For hundreds of years, tobaccos were selected—and gradations in flavor secured—by the roughest sort of rule of thumb methods. Hence, one of the most important innovations made by the Research Department was provision for chemical analysis of selected tobacco samples before purchase: the resulting reports offer the professional buyer an accurate guide and reinforce his expert judgment based on the senses of sight, smell, and touch. Thus extreme variations toward acidity or alkalinity are precluded by such selection and subsequent blending.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.
