

MUCH MINING BY TAR HEELS

Industry Becoming More Important In North Carolina

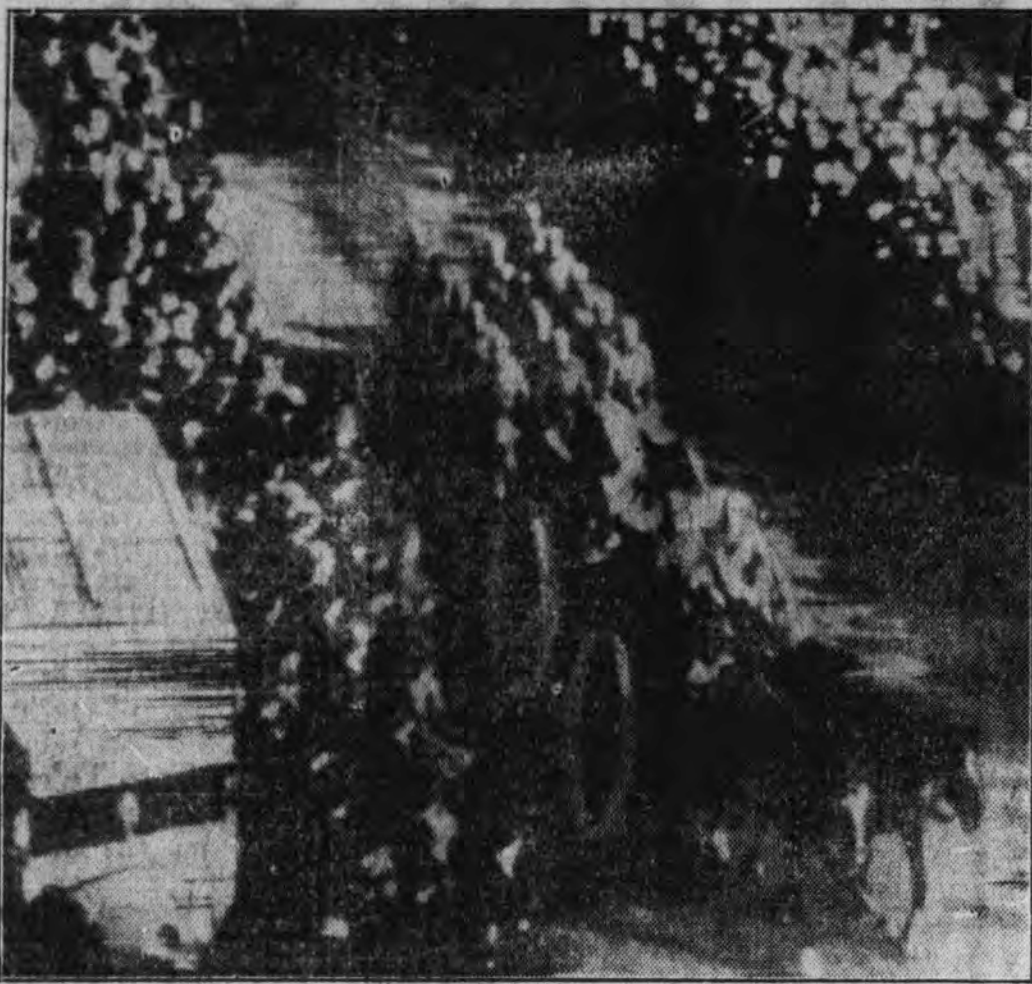

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, March 20.—Mining is steadily becoming a more and more important industry in North Carolina and during 1935 almost 750,000,000 tons of ores, minerals and stone were mined in the state, in addition to more than $50,000 worth of gold that was mined. Commissioner of Labor A. L. Fletcher points out in the March issue of "North Carolina Labor and Industry," published by the State Department of Labor just off the press today.

Figures compiled from the annual reports of 60 mines and quarries now operating in the state, show that an unusually large amount of minerals and stone was produced last year and shipped to almost every section of the country. These 60 mines and quarries gave employment to 1,190 persons and in normal years give employment to 1,916 persons. Last year these mines and quarries operated at only 62 per cent of their capacity.

"While the Department of Labor received annual reports from only 60 mines and quarries, this number does not by any means represent the total number now operating in the state," Commissioner Fletcher said. "The mountain section of the state is literally honeycombed with small mines, some of which are still in the prospecting stage, but any of which are regularly producing feldspar, mica, kaolin and other minerals, though on a small scale."

The accident rate in the mines and quarries of the state is much too high, the report showing that there were 301 accidents in the 60 mines and quarries which submitted annual reports, and that six accidents were fatal. This is an unusually high accident rate in proportion to the number of men employed, Fletcher pointed out. An analysis of the six fatal accidents shows that two were killed by electrocution by coming in contact with live electric wires, two were killed by earth or rock slides, one during

50,000 TAR HEELS ELIGIBLE TO GET OLD AGE PENSIONS

(Continued from Page One) ate Veterans and their widows. In order to pay these old age benefits, the general assembly would have to levy $9,000,000 in new taxes or else reduce appropriations to other agencies, such as schools, the State University, and other state departments accordingly. Approximately one-third of the 50,000 persons eligible to receive the old age benefits, if the legislature should provide the additional $9,000,000 needed to put them into effect, are negroes, the survey indicates, so that about 16,600 negroes over 65 years of age would get $30 a month from the state and federal governments.

None of these facts, of course, are pointed out in the survey made by the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare at the request of the Governor, nor by the Governor when he made the results of the survey public this afternoon. But it is only necessary to use a pencil, paper and some simple arithmetic to arrive at the figures cited above.

These figures also make it clear that if a special session of the general assembly should be called to pass social security legislation, it would also have to find approximately $9,000,000 a year in new taxes in order to make the old age benefits section of the law applicable in North Carolina, to say nothing of unemployment insurance and other portions of the national Social Security Act.

In making its new survey to determine the number of persons 65 years old and over who would be eligible for old age benefits, if the state should enact a law that would permit it to participate in the Social Security Act and match the $15 a month which the Federal government will allow, the Board of Charities and Public Welfare used the "sampling" method and confined the survey to only eight typical counties. It also had access to and used figures obtained from the old N. C. Emergency Relief Administration rolls, included in the survey are all persons 65 years old or more who have an income less than $30 a month (farm income had to be estimated in terms of money income) or whom own property valued at less than $3,000. Very few had property amounting to more than $1,000 and most of those surveyed reported property amounting to less than $300.

Only 3 per cent of those surveyed had a monthly income of more than $15 a month, and a majority reported incomes of less than $10 a month.

The eight counties included in the survey are Anson, Brunswick, Buncombe, Duplin, Guilford, Orange and Pitt.

"Several qualifications are necessary in making any statement regarding this estimate or survey," the explanatory statement issued along with the actual figures, prepared by R. Eugene Brown, director of the division of Institutions of the Department of Welfare, said. "Foremost of these is that the eligibility rules have not been defined yet for North Carolina and accurate estimates cannot be made until these eligibility rules have been determined."

"From the sample cross section obtained in the survey, it is indicated that considerably less than half of those who will ultimately be eligible (for old age benefits) under a liberal interpretation of the Federal Act, have been in relief. The NCERA rolls as of January 1, 1935 and subsequent thereto included 16,313 individuals 65 years old or more. It is likely that most of these would be eligible for assistance under whatever rules are adopted.

"It is hence indicated that 20,000 or more persons would be eligible under rather strict rules of eligibility. And if the rules are relatively near their evident intent of the Social Security Act, the number (who will be eligible for old age benefits) will probably be near 50,000.

"It seems of particular interests that slightly more than half of the total sample, or 3.64 per cent, were 70 years old or more. Thus, if the minimum age should be set at 65 instead of 70, the expenditure for assistance would be almost twice as large.

"Interesting also is the discovery that the percentage of negroes eligible is almost twice that of the white people, in ratio of eligibles to groups over 65 by races. Thus, since the racial ratio in the state each negro, the eligibles for pensions or benefits over 65 years of age would be about two whites for each negro."

The survey further showed that while in actual numbers, there were more women eligible than men, on a percentage basis, the men were in the lead. Out of the more than 8,500 persons interviewed, less than 3 per cent had incomes of more than $15 a month, the majority having less than $10 a month income. The whites had larger resources as a rule than the negroes, but there was virtually no difference between the monthly incomes of these two groups.

About 10 per cent of those eligible for pensions will need institutional care either in state hospitals, county homes, county hospitals and so forth, those making the survey estimated.

The Round Table Meets

On Tuesday, March 17th, the Round Table met with Mrs. W. C. Vincent as hostess, at the home of Mrs. C. T. Munford. A glowing fire in the grate and spring flowers added quite a pleasing contrast to the dreary weather outside.

Mrs. E. E. Austin presided over a short business session. The principal item of business was selecting a subject for next year's study. From the many subjects submitted, "Science in Every Day Life" was the one selected.

Mrs. E. W. Griffin continued the study of the year "Shrines in the United States," by giving a very delightful program on the landmarks in Delaware and Maryland. Gross Manor has been remembered, because the old legends connected with the name and its being the home of Cornwallis-New Castle, Delaware, is famous because it marks the landing place of William Penn. Other equally interesting places are the Ridgely House at Dover and Doughoregan Manor at New Castle.

The hostess assisted by Mrs. C. T. Munford, served a delicious ice cream luncheon at the St. Patrick's Day color scheme.

The guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Wyatt Brown and Mrs. G. F. Smith.—Reported.

The amateur hours have created much interest and have attracted large crowds.

Largest Audience Hears Rev. Helfer on Thursday Night

"Come On Up Higher" Subject of Speaker at Last Night's Service at Christian Church

The largest audience of the week heard Rev. Fred W. Helfer speak last night in the Eighth Street Christian Church on "Come Up Higher." The speaker stated that humanity had just about laughed its last derisive laugh at the idea of God, and that there were evident signs of a growing conception of the reality of God and of religious values.

Men are steadily growing in their sense of appreciation of the need for God and more and more clearly hearing His call to "Come up higher" in the forming of life's values and the building of life-bases upon which to erect their living standards. The speaker made a most winsome appeal to his hearers to come up higher in the setting up of life's ideals; to be a little more lovely in their conduct, until they more and more nearly approximate attainment unto the fulness of the stature of Christ. God is a high mountain, beautiful in its majesty but difficult to climb. Hidden at times in the clouds of the dust of passing moments, he unfolds himself to the earnest and honest seeker.

Obscured at times by the unworthiness of our own lives, none the less, He stands ready to reveal Himself when our efforts are made to make ourselves more like Him.

There is a noticeable absence of dogmatism and sectarianism in his preaching. Rather a beautiful spirit of love and understanding and winsoneness bring to his messages an attractiveness seldom sensed in much of present-day preaching.

The Sunday school and Youth Groups of the local church are sponsoring tonight's service and will meet in the College Classroom at 7:30 for the Altar Service of Dedication.

Mayor Marvin Blount will give a talk on "Community Service." A large attendance is urged.

Women who are entering middle life will be interested in the experience of Mrs. L. C. McDonald, of Paragould, Ark., who writes: "I cannot say anything but good about Cardui. I think it is a grand medicine. I took Cardui during change of life. I was so weak, so nervous, I could hardly go. I just dragged around. I had fainting spells and would just give down. My back and head hurt. I knew I had to take something to give me strength. I read of Cardui. I took about seven bottles. It gave me relief and strength. UP TO THE GROWERS

There seems to be some difference in opinions as to whether or not there should be a special session of the legislature at this time with regard to the tobacco production program in this and adjoining states, but in the last analysis it is not a matter of whether the states and the government legislate crop reduction. If the large majority of the growers will sign the crop production contracts, and certainly the experience of the past three years should convince them that reduction is necessary, then laws to control production would be unnecessary.
If the majority of the growers want crop reduction it is within their power to sign contracts and have it. If they do not want it, then there should be no law to force them into it.

Prior to passing death sen-

Tate, negro convicted of first degree murder, Judge J. Paul Frizzelle in open court paid high tribute to the people of this county for the fine spirit of restraint they had shown following the negro's crime and during his trial. The judge also highly commended the city and county enforcement officonnection with the working up of the case and the apprehension of the criminal, and declared that Greenville and Pitt County were indeed fortunate in having such efficient officers as Chief of Po-heads of their law enforce-officers also received high praise from the government here from Washington to testify in the trial. The expert said that this county was following the best scientific methods in working up its cases against the criminal element and few places showed such a high type of efficiency in its law enforce-

by Margaret Wildmer

SYNOPSIS: Iris Lanning just has found her brother Owen, and her Aunt Josephine, both of whom had been kept out of her life by the Aunt Ella with whom she lives.
Aunt Josephine turns out to be a famous couturiere which excites Iris because she never has had proper clothes in her life. The money that should have been spent on her had slipped into her father's pocket supposedly a genius. But Owen tells Iris that their father's point of view really was wrong, that the sacrifice has been a vain one.

Chapter 13
CLOTHES!

IRIS seemed to herself the only one who knew the difference.
Aunt Ella sat in her usual dream; Uncle William of course, had a tray with him and praised the food; Morgan was a little quieter than usual.

So was Iris; she was inclined to think he had interfered. Anyway, he saw things so queerly; he acted as if Owen were trying to steal her.
Uncle William, with an invalid's interest in everything, had to hear all about the visit, so they had to seem, at least, to have made up.

"He's a splendid boy," he said to Morgan proudly.

Morgan praised Owen politely and switched the conversation to the day's routine at the courthouse, and Iris was wickledly amused.

OWEN was meeting them at the Bejlevue-Stratford for luncheon.
Iris saw herself in one of the long mirrors entering by her aunt's side; she would not have known herself except for the reflection of Phina beside her. From her smart odd hat with its curving brim and small feather, to the simple exquisite shoes, she was correct.

A heavenly feeling of self-respect and courage swept over her. The

For three hours, Aunt Phina bought things.

"Ask Jostie if she won't come see me tomorrow," said Uncle Will when they rose to leave him. "Tell her how it is that I can't call on her.
Don't you think she's a remarkable woman, your Aunt Josephine?"

"Yes, I do," Iris answered, lifting a mischievous shoulder at Morgan.
Uncle William was wonderful. From somewhere, in that life of his which had so little outward semblance of happiness and success, he had become possessed of a fund of inner happiness and serenity which made living a pleasure to him.

But Iris shrank away from such a serenity the while of his aura pleased her. When she was fifty, perhaps—but not now! Not now, with the whole exciting world holding out unexpected handfuls of presents!

"They went out together. She wondered if Morgan would scold. After all, he had done it all. She felt ungrateful. But he only gripped her hand so tight it hurt, and said, 'Iris, Iris, promise me—'

"What?"

"Nothing, you wouldn't understand."

And he flung away.

She didn't understand. Morgan had been so odd since Owen and Phina had come, in spite of having found them for her.

EARLY next day Owen rushed in, quite in another mood, gay and excited.

"Phina's outside, champing the bit to take you in to Philadelphia shopping, hurry up!"

"I can't, there are things to do—" he began but he would hear nothing of all that.

"She doesn't keep Phina waiting," he said with a grin. "She's like time and tide and taxes, she waits for no man. I'm staying here a little to be ready for her." He waved a hand at the unheeded mansion and slipped out, leaving Iris upset.

"Owen was in this morning and it must have been a very nice letter," said Iris to her sister.
He took her out, but as she was except for her and Aunt Phina, Phina Rosen stood waiting.

"Heaven's child, she greeted her.
You have charm, as well as a good figure and face. I can make any thing out of you."

Tomorrow, Uncle Will has a taxing caller.

SPEED: President Roosevelt's prompt recognition of the new fascist government in Paraguay gave several kinds of a headache to patient, toiling diplomats in the State Department. It reveals FDR's concern for getting the Americas' house in order in the face of European turmoil.

Although the U. S. policy of not recognizing governments which come into power by force applies only to Central America, normally Washington defers its welcome until it has a good look at the new lineup. Uncle Sam can't afford to lose prestige by flinching with a faction which may vanish from sight within a few hours. But in this instance there was not the slightest delay.

The explanation is that the Paraguayans politely pointed a gun at Uncle Sam's head. They explained that they could not promise to make peace with Bolivia or attend the proposed pan-American conference unless their government was assured of American friendliness.
So Cordell Hull signed on the dotted line.

AVOIDANCE: The shrewdest diplomats' version of Hitler's Rhineland thrust insists that he was inspired chiefly by fear that economic hardships at home might break his hold on public sentiment.

The alternative might have been —might just be—that Germany would become rich soil for communist seed blown on winds from Moscow. That is a prospect which his industrial backers cannot contemplate without horror. According to this highly held theory, the seizure of the river territory amounted to a diversion designed to restore the dictator's popularity and remove the people's mind from everyday troubles.

The ironic note happens to be that both France—Russia's newest ally—and England shiver at the thought of the spread of communism in Central Europe. That brooding fear accounts for London's anxiety to reach an amicable settlement that will not destroy Hitler's prestige and thereby open the door to more threatening possibilities.
Europe wants to keep out of the "red."

New York
By JAMES McMULLIN

COMBINED: Big-time anti-New Deal are definitely panning to back Alfred M. Landon for President. Some of the most powerful industrial and financial interests in the United States are working on a nationwide organization to put the Kansan across with a bang.

A significant angle is that many leading anti-administration Democrats have been consulted about this plan and have given it their approval. They agree that the best way to beat FDR is for them to combine with Republicans in support of Landon instead of feckling around with a conservative ticket of their own. This goes for the Liberty League too. Recent lists of campaign contributions show that the heavy sugar is going into the G. O. P. treasury these days—including duPont money—while large contributions to the League have dried up.

So in effect the Landon delegates at Cleveland will represent all the anti-Roosevelt forces. Some allowance will be made for a first battle build-up of favorite sons—including Frank Knox. This will help qualify the favorite sons in the public mind for subsequent cabinet honors.

SQUARE: The inside layout calls for the nomination of Everett San-be better to have a straight Republican ticket than a coalition hybrid.

CLOSER: Senator Borah's crack about "Sahara Oil influence" in Ocala ties in with the Landon-Sanders drive. But the Idahoan is groping at the one-eighth of an inch which is vis.oe. Senators of the big push is sub-ar-face and will remain so as long as possible. Industrial and financial men involved feel that the more they stay out of the public mind the better their chances for success. "Business must take the reins" is a better slogan to raise money and to corral votes.

Borah's crusade does worry them a bit—but not because of any specific charge of undue corporate pressure the Senator himself might bring up. He has trumpeted many alarms of this kind in the past, but they have never had an appreciable effect on the voters. His Paul Revere rides always bog down before the householders are really aroused.

Their real concern is about the use FDR will make of Borah's aspersions if and when Landon becomes his opponent in the finals.
They suspect closer teamwork between the White House and the Idaho veteran than they can prove.
They still have a hunch that Borah may wind up in the Roosevelt camp after Cleveland. He has too many followers in the Republican ranks to make that possibility any joke.

BARGAIN: This column recently reported indications of an un-ground tie-up between Father Coughlin and John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers. The radio priest's remarks last Sunday contained strong substantiating evidence. He played to Lewis—though not mentioning him by name—as prettily as a trained bridge player responding to his partner's signal.

Coughlin urged all workers to join unions. He camouflaged his intent slightly by mentioning both trade (craft) and vertical (industrial) unions. Then he went on to say that vertical unions were more suitable for mass production industries—such as the automobile industry. This was squarely down Lewis' groove and might easily bring him thousands of recruits in the field he is trying hardest to develop behind the scenes.

Meanwhile Coughlin clubs are growing fast in the mining section of Pennsylvania where Lewis rules the roost. This couldn't happen without Lewis' tacit encouragement.
That is evidently his end of the bargain.

SUPPLY: The capital gains tax is contributing a lot to the gradual combining of supply by demand in the stock market. This factor combines with that increasing investment appetite for stocks which we have described here to lay the foundation for a broad bull movement in seasoned securities that experts agree will bring them to much higher levels.

The point is that big-time traders no longer sell—as they used to—at the first signs of a reaction, with the idea of making money by re-purchasing at lower prices. To do so nowadays means establishing a taxable profit—and the tax is so large it would usually take a very steep decline to offset it in terms of picking up fresh bargains at the bottom. So the boys tend to sit tight—even when they think their stock are overpriced.

This is why the market is so thin when prices are dropping and why reactions dry up so quickly. A large part of the normal floating supply of stock is cut off.

SPORT SLANTS

Versatile players came into their own last season and almost every major league club possessed at least one Handy-Andy who was capable of filling in when injuries or slump forced regulars to the sidelines. Big-time baseball is still pretty much of a matter of specialization, but with the limited rosters a Jack-of-all-baseball-trades is a mighty handy fellow to have on the bench when an emergency arises.

Bucky Walters certainly earned his pay-check at Baker Bowl last year. The versatile ace of the Phillies went to the training camp with hopes of winning a job at third base only to find Johnny Vezzer securely stationed there by virtue of his superior hitting. Bucky came about a bit and discovered that his best chance for a job with the team was to try to win a place on the mound staff. Manager Jimmy Wilson, after watching Walters toss strikes to the first baseman while working out at third, readily gave his consent and even went to work coaching the youngster. He was quite a sensation on the rubber when he shut out the world champion Cardinals with four hits.

Back To Third
After a string of victories he went along with fair-to-middling success until one day when Wilson, finding himself in a difficult spot with only two outfielders available for duty, called on Walters to try his hand in the outfield. When the pitching staff needed bolstering Walters took up hurling again. His pitching record showed nine victories against the same number of defeats. But the strange part of it all is that Walters finished up the season right where he started—at third base.

Bobby Reis of the Boston Bees is another infielder-outfielder-pitcher. Most of his mound work was confined to relief pitching but he won the two games he started for Brooklyn last year, one an 11-inning affair. Al Lopez, now of the Boston Bees, often took off his catching gear while with Brooklyn to go out on the infield and see just how much fun it was for a second baseman to take a throw from the catcher, dodge flying spikes and get a would-be base stealer.

Ralph Wingersper went to the Cleveland Indians with a reputation as a Handy-Andy. He made a decided hit with Manager Steve O'Neill by the way he handled himself in his numerous assignments. He hit 300 and did a creditable job on the mound.

as a Handy-Andy. He made a decided hit with Manager Steve O'Neill by the way he handled himself in his numerous assignments. He hit 300 and did a creditable job on the mound.

Ryba Plays 'Em All
Pepper Martin alternates between the outfield and infield for the Cardinals. He had one brief whirl on the mound but did not threaten Dizzy Dean's regular turn. The real Jack-of-all-trades of the Cardinals roster is the veteran rookie, Mike Ryba. Ryba reported to the Cardinals late last season after he was rated the best pitcher in the American Association and one of the leading batters of that circuit. He has played every position on the field, and a couple of years ago piloted Springfield of the Western Association.

Randy Moore of Brooklyn is a catcher-infielder-outfielder. Jimmy Fox played third, first and caught for Connie Mack while he was with the Athletics. Mark Koenig played every infield position for the Giants within a two-weeks' period. Mark once took a flogging at pitching when his eyes were troubling him but he didn't set the leagues afire.

Babe Ruth wasn't exactly an all-around ball player but the Babe did all right on the mound before his slugging prowess demanded that he be played every day. He wasn't a bad first baseman and, before his legs gave out, he was a mighty fine outfielder.

ST. LOUIS' FIRST BELL IS PLACED ON EXHIBIT

St. Louis—(AP)—A 163-year-old church bell, first to ring in the settlement of St. Louis, has been given a place of honor in Old Cathedral.

It was cast in 1772, brought to St. Louis by a Spanish soldier, Penito Vasquez, who had 200 silver Spanish dollars melted into it to improve its tone.

It was baptized and christened "Pierre Joseph Pelicite" in 1774 by Father Valentine, the first resident priest here.

After service in several chapels, but in recent years an object of curiosity, the bell was brought to Old Cathedral.

TICKET SALES FOR BASEBALL

Season Passes To Be Sold For High School Games

Season tickets will go on sale tomorrow morning for home games to be played by the baseball team of the Greenville high school for the coming season.

Cochran May said today that the drive had been started to enable the members of the team to purchase sweaters, and those purchasing season tickets would not only be saving themselves money, but would also be helping the team itself. He added that the tickets would sell for $1.50 each, and the purchaser could rest assured that they would consider the price a wonderful investment when they see the Greens in action.

The highs will have one of the best schedules to be had in some time. Being in the class "A" conference in baseball this season will not only require them to play many conference games, but to have a class "A" conference team.

In addition to the class "A" conference games on schedule, there will also be a few games with teams who are members of the Northeastern conference.

Blount's MADE FROM THE RIGHT MATERIALS

If you want the best results from our soil, do as thousands of Eastern Carolina farmers are doing and have done, use Blount's Home-Mixed Fertilizers each and every year. They are made from premium materials at no extra cost. They use only plant foods as a filler. They have consistently brought the best results and consequently more profits to their users.

If you haven't bought your goods as yet, read what these prominent farmers say about Blount's—then see your nearest dealer! Remember, $1.00 per acre in your fertilizer may mean the difference between a good crop and a poor one.

November 29, 1935.
I used your Golden Harvest 3-2-3 Tobacco Fertilizer this year. While we had to make do with the fertilizer we had on hand, I am well pleased with the results. I am glad to recommend your fertilizer for all crops to my friends. The way I see it, your plant food is the right material to produce the very best results.

"A DIFFERENCE IN THE WAY TOBACCO GROWN WITH BLOUNT'S CURED UP."

November 11, 1935.

Last year I used only 2 tons of Blount's New Deal Tobacco Fertilizer, but it proved so satisfactory that this year I used 10 tons. I noticed a difference in the way my tobacco grown with Blount's cured up beside tobacco grown with another well known brand. Blount's had better color and more body. Consequently, it sold better.

D. L. JAMES,
Parnell, N. C.

Out of 110 acres of tobacco planted this year using Blount's 3-2-3 New Deal, I made 11,800 pounds, which sold for an average of $26.50 per hundred. I am convinced that there is no better fertilizer. I shall use them again in 1936.
B. M. LEWIS,
Parnell, N. C.

I have used several brands of fertilizer for the past 20 years. I was a little skeptical about using Blount's as it was a new product, but after seeing the very satisfactory results and I can safely recommend it to all my friends who want a good fertilizer.

Sea Again Lures Roosevelt Who Travels Far After Fish

By DILON GRAHAM
Washington (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, by all odds the No. 1 sea-going President and just about tops as a consistently regular angler, is depending on his hobby to supply what may be the last "breathing spell" before the summer political campaign.

Leaving Congress to its own devices, the most enthusiastic fisherman among recent Presidents seeks rest, amusement and the solace of outdoor sun and breezes to break the long routine of office duties.

Hoover Explained It.
Perhaps he has noted the remarks of another well known fisherman, Herbert Hoover, who said "fishing is the sole avenue now left to a public man that he may escape to his own thoughts; may live his own imaginings; may find relief from the pneumatic hammer of constant personal contacts, with the satisfaction that the fish will not be influenced either by the headlines or the text."

It is certain the President feels his absence from the capital will be of value to him, physically and mentally, and, while resting on the rolling waters of the Atlantic, he will have opportunity to view the political picture from a distance.

Although his trip will be comparatively short, it adds to the many thousands of miles traversed by the President since 1933 to most of the far away places where the American flag flies.

Has Traveled Widely.
Last fall he made a 15,000-mile journey across the continent, and then cruised leisurely through the Panama canal. In the summer of 1934 the President completed a 13,000-mile trip to Hawaii.

Many Entries on Log.
The log shows many another jaunt of varying length by the amateur sailor whose office is filled with ship models. These include a several days' trip down the Atlantic coast in September, 1933; two weeks in Atlantic waters in July of that year; a trip of two weeks as skipper of his own small schooner, the Amberjack II, in June; two weeks in Bahaman waters in April of 1934 and again in March of last year; sundry short cruises in the Potomac or in nearby waters.

qualify for the pensions.
Only 122 per cent of the white population in the county could secure the pensions. The white population for the county was stated at 28,018, while 342 would be able to secure the funds.

Among a negro population of 26,370—589, or 2.23 per cent—would be qualified for the pensions.

Of a total population, both whites and negroes, of 54,496—931, or 1.71 per cent—could qualify for the funds.

Of the total eligibles in the county, 926, or 99.46 per cent have an income of not over $15. Of this number 495, or 53.46, are 70 years of age or more.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, March 20.—No one familiar with the situation here expects the administration's federal housing program to be ready for consideration by congress any time soon.

President Roosevelt himself has intimated that differences of opinion among experts considering proposed legislation may defer action until he returns from his Florida vacation trip.

Aside whispers from authoritative sources are that it will be even later than that. The so-called differences of opinion among experts go much more deeply than the phrase implies.

The best bet at the present is that proposed legislation will reach congress about the time talk of adjournment becomes a topic of pressing importance. The closing days of a session of congress, hectic even in a normal year and vastly more so in a national election year, fits in nicely with the tangled situation.

Differ On Loan Amount

That there are serious differences of opinion on housing legislation no one denies. Gossip as to the extent of these differences runs the gamut of imagination. This much, however, seems to be true: The $500,000,000 federal revolving fund from which cheap loans would be made to builders is in question. Some contend it is too large, others are equally insistent that such an amount is necessary. Since that situation prevails, the most feasible thing to do, administration leaders reason, is to delay submission of the proposition to congress as long as possible. While it is possible to obtain an appropriation that large in the closing days of a session of congress, it is highly improbable. What with a national campaign coming on and attendant pressure for curtailment of governmental spending, the chances are slim.

Delaying as long as possible actual submission of housing legislation to congress would mean that a compromise measure will be enacted. In other words, rather than see nothing approved proponents of the measure would take what they can get.

Debate Emergency Angle
President Roosevelt has said that he has consulted housing experts, building contractors and financiers and that he couldn't find any two of them who agreed on just what form the program should take.

He, Senator Wagner of New York, foremost advocate in congress for a federal housing program, and others in the administration are convinced that the government must help pay the cost of slum clearance and that private capital needs governmental stimulus to open the way for small home building.

The big question at the moment is whether the problem should be considered as an emergency or permanent proposition.

Chances are that it will be treated by congress as an emergency piece of legislation and expenditures voted accordingly.

SAFETY FIRST

SAFETY is the first consideration in building Ford cars. Thus Ford was the first low priced car to bring you the extra protection of a steel body welded in one piece and reinforced with steel. Ford was the first low priced car to protect all members of your family with safety glass all around at no extra cost. The Ford V-8 is the first low priced car to give you super-safety brakes—12-inch drums and 186 square inches braking surface. Ford super-safety brakes are of the sure-acting, positive, mechanical design used on many of the highest priced cars here and abroad.

From the ground up, the Ford V-8 is a safe car to drive. It is the only low priced car with 6.00 x 16-inch air-balloon tires as standard equipment. The double channel X-type frame is low, rigid, strong. Correct weight distribution with low center of gravity gives exceptional stability on

Even the powerful 85 horsepower V-8 motor adds to your safety with its instant response to your demands. Examine the Ford V-8 and you will find that safety has been built into it at every point—safety that has been time-tried and proved by millions of miles on the highway. It is well worthwhile to remember these things when purchasing a car.

Island Honeymooners 'Go Native' But Dinner Comes From Tin Cans

San Francisco (AP)—Breakfast may be a banana plucked from a tree and luncheon a fish caught in the surf, but dinner—as in the case of many other American honeymooners—is going to come out of a tin can.

Such was the admission of two young couples who have sailed for a lonely South Sea island to take up a permanent residence and "go native."

Their romantic plans were made at a double wedding at Pontiac, Michigan, February 28, and in mid-March the four walked up the gangplank of the S. S. Maunaloa at San Francisco and waved goodbye to civilization, full of optimism but admittedly a little hazy about how life is lived in a grass hut.

"While we intend to exist exactly like natives, we realize we must change our ways gradually," said Archie D. Hogan, 25, in explaining the canned food feature. "A sudden change to native diet might make us ill."

Listening with approval were his bride, Marjorie, 23, formerly a Detroit stenographer; Merrill F. Walls, 23, who quit a post as high school teacher at Pontiac for the South Sea adventure; and the latter's bride, 21, twice elected "Miss Pontiac" at that city's annual peach festival.

"Our home will be Murea, an unspoiled island 15 miles from Tahiti," Hogan continued. "There are 2,000 Polynesians there and a few whites."

"I think we'll live chiefly on fish. I am an experienced boatman and all four of us are good swimmers. Fishing will take up a good deal of our time. Walls and his wife are going to write a book."

"We're not burdened down with clothes, either," said Mrs. Hogan. "We all will wear shorts or slacks on the island."

"We've been thinking about this for years," Walls explained. "Three of us were at Albion college, and Hogan and I talked of the idea when we roomed together. Finally things worked out so we could afford the trip. We got married and here we are."

"And our folks think we're a bit cracked," said Mrs. Hogan.

BUILDING OFF FOR FEBRUARY

Decrease in Residential Construction Noted During Month

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, March 20.—Building permits issued during February in 21 North Carolina cities and towns amounted to $554,405 as compared with $647,272 in February, 1935, according to figures made public today by Commissioner of Labor, A. L. Fletcher.

This represents a decrease of $92,867 as compared with building activities in these 21 cities in February of last year, a drop of 14 per cent. This drop in construction work in February of this year is due entirely, however, to a decrease in residential building, the figures show, since residential building decreased 30 per cent and home repair work dropped 19 per cent.

Non-residential building, however, showed an increase of 30 per cent in February of this year as compared with February of last year. It was pointed out. The non-residential building this past month amounted to $170,055 as compared with $132,091 in February of last year. Residential building in February amounted to $216,610 as compared with $308,925 in February, 1935. Residential repairs this past month amounted to $160,740 as compared with $206,256 in February a year ago. The increase in non-residential construction this past month was 29 per cent as compared with last February.

Although the February building permits reflect a decline as compared with February, 1935, the totals for the past month show an increase of 21 per cent over the January figures.

The February building permits totals in some of the principal cities in the state are as follows:

Asheville, $35,640; Charlotte, $137,467; Concord, $5,650; Durham, $42,225; Elizabeth City, $2,030; Gastonia, $91,355; Goldsboro, $28,000; Greensboro, $77,699; High Point, $12,162; Kinston, $7,400; New Bern, $2,669; Raleigh, $31,677; Rocky Mount, $3,960; Salisbury, $3,000; Shelby, $11,036; Statesville, $2,100; Thomasville, $2,800; Wilmington, $3,768; Wilson, $3,500; Winston-Salem, $41,001.

THREE TRYING STATE OFFICE

Increased Interest Show in State School Head Job

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel, Raleigh, March 20.—Another candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Superintendent of Public Instruction has plunked over 500 and filed with the State Board of Elections. There are rumors afloat that there may be still another candidate before many more weeks.

The latest candidate to file is Gilbert Craig of Hillsboro and at the R. Whitehurst and wife, Lucy J. present time seems to be pretty Manning Whitehurst, to Julius much of war horse, as no one here seems to know much about him. It is understood that he was at one time principal of the high school at Taylorsville, Alexander county. But so far as can be learned here today, he is not teaching at the present time. He paid his fee and formally filed Thursday.

The day before, Superintendent A. B. Alderman of the Green county schools, who announced as a candidate several months ago, filed with the State Board of Elections. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin has not yet paid his fee and filed, although it is generally conceded that he is a candidate to succeed himself and has been actively campaigning for many months.

The fact that Superintendent Erwin already has two opponents and may have a third, is regarded as indicating that his job is more in demand than usual, since this is the first time in 35 years a State Superintendent has ever had any opposition in a Democratic primary. Erwin's opponents are also pointing out that in 35 years, every State Superintendent has been first appointed and then reelected without opposition, so that the people of the state have never elected a State Superintendent in fact, but have merely given rubber-stamp approval to those appointed by various Governors. Supt. Erwin was appointed by Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus to fill out the term of the late Dr. A. T. Allen.

The salary of the State Superintendent will be $6,000 a year starting January 1, 1937.

up their soil; therefore

Be it resolved:—That the Pitt County Acreage Control Committee go on record as supporting Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus' special committee and the North Carolina Farm Bureau in securing a State Tobacco Compact, through a special session of the legislature; and

Be it further resolved: That we advocate farmers indicating their willingness for a thirty per cent reduction in their 1936 tobacco contracts, and thereby securing full benefit of subsidies offered under the Soil Conservation Program; and

Be it further resolved: That we urge our Governor to announce publicly over the radio at once, his intentions to call a special session of the legislature as soon as National Legislation, authorizing tobacco control compact, reaches the floor of the Senate; in as much as the leaders of Congress have assured us of its speedy passage, as soon as legislation is cleared for action by them, in order that the tobacco growers of the State may know that there will be a penalty on surplus tobacco produced above their allotments; and

Be it further still resolved: That we accept the above declaration as a Bill of Rights, for the tobacco growers of North Carolina and that we dedicate, not only our energy and time, but our resources as well, to the end that this Bill of Rights be written on the statute books of North Carolina, and that we call upon all other tobacco acreage control committees of North Carolina, that they also dedicate their time, energy and substance to the end, that a special session of the legislature may be called at once for this purpose."

WAR ON WILD BURROS TO END TICK MENACE

San Angelo, Tex.—(AP)—The campaign continues against wild asses and unbranded mustangs in this section in the government's program to rid the Big Bend country of tick.

San Roberts, living on the banks of the state's greatest canyon, Santa Helena, south of Alpine, estimates 500 wild burros have been killed.

"There is no use capturing them, they will starve before eating," said Roberts. "In the winter time they fur out like a bear."

The government recently distributed 1,000 rounds of ammunition for the wild burro campaign, while many mustangs have been roped and sold.

SCOTCH RECORDS DASH NAZI MOTHER'S HOPES

Aberdeen, Scotland (AP)—Hopes of a German mother, wife of an army officer, that Scotch church records would prove her Aryan, have been dashed.

"It is a matter of life or death for my two children," she wrote to the Aberdeen Presbytery.

She explained she was born in Aberdeen and taken to Germany when two years old. She wanted the record of her mother's Christian baptism so her children might qualify for full citizenship under Nazi racial laws.

The Presbytery had to inform her, however, that ever Presbyterian minister in Aberdeen searched baptismal records back into the 19th century without finding the record she sought.
