POWERS AWAIT FOR REACTION FROM BERLIN

Proposals Drawn Intend to Assure Lasting Peace

NAZIS STUNNED AND IMBITTERED

Possible Sanctions Implied if Germany Refuses Proposals by Powers

(Copyright by Associated Press)
The Locarno powers awaited reaction from Berlin today to the elaborate set of proposals formulated with the intent of assuring a lasting European peace and settling the Rhineland problem.

Germany was by turns stunned and imbittered. Adolf Hitler's own newspaper called the suggestion "shylock's pound" and "collective brazenness."

From London flew Joachim von Ribbentrop, Hitler's personal emissary, to obtain from the Reichsfuehrer in person the reaction to proposals that a "buffer" zone be created in the Rhineland, policed by an international force, pending determination of questions created by remilitarization.

Some league representatives were alarmed and Germany was caustic over the invocation by Britain, France, and Belgium of the league covenant providing for action against a threat of war. This implied possible sanctions if Germany rejected the Locarno powers' proposals.

The British observed that the Locarno powers' suggestions were subject to revision and the impression in Berlin was that Hitler would attempt to negotiate away some of the sharpest points of the program drawn up, rather than reject it all.

The Locarno proposals include, in addition to creation of the "buffer" zone, submission of the Franco-Soviet pact and the Rhineland occupation to the Hague, international court, and a great international conference to consider all questions arising out of and following the world war.

Leaders of Scouts Return Home From National Meeting

Training Conference At French Lick, Ind., Attended By Over 800 Scout Executives.

The Professional Leadership of the East Carolina Council of the Boy Scouts has just returned from a ten day National Training Conference at French Lick Springs, Ind. Over eight hundred Scout executives from all parts of the United States were in attendance, and several visitors from the Canadian, Philippine, Islands and Porto Rico and England.

This was the first National Training opportunity since 1929 for the professional leadership, which enabled the local executives, John J. Sigwald and Ralph Moxo to sit at the feet of the Chief Scout Executive, James E. West, and other leaders from several parts of the world.

The instruction given at this conference will be given in all parts of the East Carolina Council and the Greenville District will have the advantage of one of the Professional men in their district at all times.

Chairman Declares That Hearing On Taxes Start Shortly

House Ways and Means Committee, to Consider President Roosevelt's $792,000,000 Tax Program

Washington, March 21.—(AP)—Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) announced today that the House Ways and Means committee would start open hearings a week from Monday on President Roosevelt's $792,000,000 tax program.

He said the committee probably would start off with the proposed levies on undistributed corporation income, with treasury officials as the first witnesses.

A subcommittee which has been wrestling with the tax program for two and a half weeks is to file a report to the full committee as a base for the hearing.

Doughton said no decision has been reached on new processing taxes or a "windfall" levy.

The windfall tax occupied the subcommittee this morning, but Chairman Samuel B. Hill (D. Wash.) (Continued on page four)

Relief Contributions $57 1st Day

A contribution of $50, donated by L. F. Evans, gave the campaign to raise funds for the relief of flood sufferers a good start today. The local chapter of the Red Cross has been asked to supply $750 to help the thousands made homeless by raging floods, in 13 states.

E. T. Meeks contributed $5.00; D. C. Dudley, $1.00 and another dollar given by "a friend" made a total of $57 raised here on the first day of the appeal.

Red Cross officials urged that anyone wishing to make a contribution get in touch with Wyatt Brown, chairman of the local chapter, K. T. Futrell, disaster chairman, or The Daily Reflector. All donations, regardless of size, will be welcomed. All contributions will be acknowledged in The Reflector.

TEACHERS END ANNUAL MEET

Gov. McNutt Principal Speaker at Closing Session

Raleigh, March 21.—(AP)—The people of America are "permitting one of the finest instrumentalities of our national life, public education, to fall short of its best," Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, told the North Carolina Education Association today and "an adequate system of public education is needed to help keep the world on an even keel."

Governor McNutt was introduced by Governor Ehringhaus. Some 2,000 teachers attended the closing session of their annual convention to hear the man who is being mentioned for the post of key-note at the Democratic national convention.

Asked before he spoke if he were going to be the key-note, McNutt's reply was a hearty, jovial laugh.

The teachers elected Ray Funderburk, Superintendent of New Hanover schools, president to succeed Mrs. T. W. Guthrie of Kinston, and named Miss Oma Lafferty of Charlotte as vice president.

President Roosevelt's record was highly praised by Governor McNutt. Resolutions calling for one constitutionally authorized body to administer state school affairs and pledging support of instructor Clyde A. Erwin and President Frank Graham of the uncertainty of North Carolina were adopted today by the association.

Sixteen resolutions were approved. The teachers said "we wholeheartedly commend" President Graham "for his liberal, fearless and courageous educational leadership and hereby pledge anew our continuous and loyal support."

After adoption by the Southern Conference recently of the so-called Graham plan to demphasize athletics there were reports concerted efforts had been started to remove President Graham.

Better salaries, enactment of tenure and retirement laws, stricter professional requirements, more classroom supervision by principals in larger schools, professional assistance in offices of superintendents, backing of a federal bill to be introduced in Congress and expansion of the curriculum to enrich it with cultural subjects were asked in the resolutions.

It was recommended Congress approve funds to provide money to carry out PWA school construction for which applications have been approved.

INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS INCREASE TO 28 PER CENT

Washington, March 22.—(AP)—Income tax collections of $389,694,381 for the first 20 days of March were reported by the treasury today representing an increase of 28 per cent over the comparable period of last year.

Candidates Fail To Gain Control Education Body

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, March 21.—Both the McDonald and Hoy factions in the state convention of the North Carolina Education Association, which ended here at noon today failed to get control of the officers of the convention, as both had previously intimated they would do, although the McDonald forces did land the vice-presidency.

Supt. Ray Funderburk of the New Hanover county schools, was elected president of the education association without opposition, while Miss Oma Lafferty of Charlotte, was elected vice-president, also without opposition, since she was the only nominee for that post. The secretary-treasurer of the association is not elected by the association, but by the board of directors, neither the McDonald nor Hoy faction, it is presumed that July B. Warner of the association, will be re-elected to that post by a new board of directors.

Before the nominations were made Thursday night, it had been spread around that the classroom teachers would nominate Miss Lafferty, who is at present the president of the N. C. Classroom Teachers Association, for president of the education association. It is generally agreed that Miss Lafferty is very strongly for Dr. Ralph W. McDonald for Governor and the leader of the McDonald faction among the teachers. It is also known that the Hoy faction at one time considered nominating Supt. J. C. Grigg of Cleveland county, Hoy's home county, for president. But neither of these nominations ever developed, which indicates to some observers that the McDonald forces were actually strong enough, for many years secretary-treas-

LAWYERS HOPE TO SAVE LIFE OF HAUPTMANN

Increase Confidence Is Exhibited by Defense Counsel

CONDEMNED MAN ALSO IS HOPEFUL

Florida Prison Inmate Reported To Be Able To Shed New Light On Case

Trenton, N. J., March 21.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's lawyers, showing increased confidence of saving him from execution, hurried preparations today for a frontal attack on the testimony of Dr. John F. Condon, a principal state witness, in the condemned man's trial for the Lindbergh baby kidnapping-slaying.

The defense hopes appeared to have taken a sudden upward surge and Hauptmann, himself, was pictured as feeling certain he would escape the penalty. He is under sentence to die March 31.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief defense counsel, said he did not see how Hauptmann could be executed in view of "the facts in our possession."

The defense hopes were buoyed by reports that Robert W. Hicks, a special investigator in the case, had obtained an important affidavit from Samuel W. Garelick, serving a kidnapping sentence in the Florida state prison, which he said "will clear up satisfactorily some interesting points in the Lindbergh kidnapping case."

Governor Harold G. Hoffman, meanwhile was still trying to arrange with Dr. Condon for an interview to clarify various parts in the case which the governor thinks by no means have been settled satisfactorily.

CONVICT QUOTES CONDON SAYING HE NOT SO SURE

Tallahassee, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Samuel W. Garelick, convicted kidnaper, said in an interview today that Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jaslie" of the Lindbergh case, told him "I am not so sure we have the right man," after Bruno Hauptmann was arrested.

Garelick, who was questioned by Condon and later by Robert W. Hicks, investigator for Governor Hoffman of New Jersey, said he told Jaslie he was in trouble enough already and "I could not see why they wanted to drag me into the Lindbergh case. You've already got the right man."

"I'm not so sure we have the right man. That is why I came down here to see you," he quoted Condon as replying.

Trio Negroes Arrested On Liquor Violations

Local police officials reported today that Ike Anderson and Alfred Williams, negroes, were arrested by federal agents between Greenville and Washington last night with two casks and one five gallon container of illicit liquor in the car.

The pair was brought here last night, but officers took them to Washington this morning where they will face trial before a United States commissioner.

Jim Holliday, described by officers as an old bootlegger, was bound over to County court under $300 bond following a preliminary hearing in police court this morning. Officers said they found about five gallons of illegal whiskey at the negro's home in the city.

POTOMAC CLIMBS LINCOLN MEMORIAL STEPS

Far out of banks, the swollen Potomac is shown (top) partially covering the steps of the Lincoln Memorial in Washington. The walkway and about a dozen of the steps were submerged when this picture was made. But the memorial itself was still 20 steps above the water. The flood played havoc in the yacht basin near the Washington airport. Boats are shown (below) all scrambled together with the housetops barely above the surface. (Associated Press Photos)

TWO NEGROES GIVEN TERMS

Otis Watson and Geo. Lee Sent to Roads Two Years Each

Otis Watson and George Lee, two negroes implicated by Willie Tate in the murder of Alexander Warren on February 28, were sentenced to two years each on the roads upon conviction in Pitt Superior court yesterday afternoon of carrying a concealed weapon.

Tate was convicted of the murder of Warren Thursday afternoon. Lee and Watson were not tried in connection with the crime, evidence at Tate's hearing showing that the murder was committed by the defendant, who was sentenced to be asphyxiated at State's prison on April 24.

It was brought out that the three negroes had planned robberies, with the use of a pistol, and Lee and Watson as a result were charged with and convicted of carrying a weapon.

With the exception of a confession made by Tate in which the two negroes were implicated, no evidence was brought out that the two had anything to do with the murder of Warren.

The part of the confession implicating Lee and Watson was discounted when a jury found that Tate was the one who actually fired the shot that killed Warren. Tate had contended that one of the other negroes fired the shot.

SEAGOING JAGUAR CAUGHT UNDER YACHT CLUB WHARF

They found the mountain cat under a wharf in a yacht club turning basin, slipped a noose over his head, and pulled out the animal. If it proves untamable, Cunningham plans a new rug.

News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER

DENTING: Relations between Secretary Morgenthau and Currency Controller J. F. T. O'Connor have not always been cordial. For a long while "Jeffy's" friends suspected that the Secretary of the Treasury inspired the abortive move to ease him out of Washington into the presidency of the Sao Francisco reserve bank.

But Mr. O'Connor has just engineered a coup which may endear him to the Treasury head. The Controller persuaded a Detroit bank to purchase stock in an institution which might otherwise have had to turn to Jesse Jones for financial aid. The administration's financial chief-

Pitt County Jury Decides Machines Are Not Gambling

Marble Boards Are Declared To Be Game of Skill and Thereby Legal In This State

In what is thought to be the first time such a case has been decided by a jury in North Carolina, two defendants charged with operating a marble board, were acquitted by a Pitt county jury yesterday afternoon of operating a slot machine.

L. B. McCormick and Glenn Scott were the two defendants in the case which is expected to have a wide significance.

The 1935 General assembly outlawed the "one-armed bandit," the slot machine, but allowed marble games which tended to be a game of skill. Since then the marble machine has replaced the slot machine in practically all public businesses.

A number of cases involving the marble board have been brought up in court before, but this is the first time a jury has decided the issue.

It was left with the jury to decide whether the machine was a game of skill. The 12 men decided it was and the machines declared legal.

Cases charging Mr. McCormick and R. L. Gurganus with operating slot machines and Mr. McCormick and Howard King with gambling, were not pressed.

GIVES CREDIT FOR SUCCESS TO PET DOG

Charleston, S. C.—(AP)—Sidney Jaffe is never without a pocketful of marbles.

He says it's because he never "sticks in" for a game unless Shelve his pet Spitz dog, is along.

"I don't call Shelve a pet," Sidney says. "She's a mascot, for she always brings me good luck."

"I always take her with me when I play marbles. One day I left her home and lost every marble I had."

Sidney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Jaffe and they back up their son in his claims for Shelve.

APPROVE PLAN ON WATERWAY

Improvements North Carolina Waters to Total $13,000

Washington, March 21.—(AP)—General Edward M. Markham, chief of army engineers, today approved the recommendation of the rivers and harbors board for additional improvements on the waterway connecting Pamlico sound and Beaufort Harbor, N. C., at an estimated cost of $13,000 for new works and $750 for annual maintenance.

The recommendations came for modification of the existing waterway project to provide a channel seven feet deep and 75 feet wide for the main channel in Core sound to the town of Atlantic, provided local interests furnish free of cost spoil disposal areas as required.

Slain Patrolman Once Located In This City

Leggett Fidler, 23-year-old highway patrolman, who was killed in Thomasville yesterday afternoon, was located in this division several months in 1934.

Patrolman Fidler was sent to Greenville to complete his training before being assigned a post. He was located here from late summer until about Thanksgiving, being transferred from here to a regular post.

The patrolman was killed when his motorcycle crashed into a telephone post as he swerved to avoid a collision with an automobile that came from a side road.

A. B. Chandler was elected governor of Kentucky by the largest majority in the state's history.

Criticisers Of Governor Are In Turn Criticised

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, March 21.—Those who at first criticized Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus for going over the heads of members of Congress and appealing directly to President Roosevelt to do something to help the tobacco farmers and especially for an allotment of $50,000,000 to be used in helping reduce tobacco acreage, are now being criticized as the Governors of seven other southern tobacco producing states have joined with Governor Ehringhaus in appealing directly to President Roosevelt in support of his move to help the tobacco situation.

Governor Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina is the seventh Governor to inform Governor Ehringhaus that he has already wired President Roosevelt asking for a minimum allotment of $50,000,000 from the soil improvement appro-prision bill to aid the tobacco farmers. The Governors of Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Florida, Kentucky and Maryland had already wired or written Governor Ehringhaus that they were in complete accord with his views with regard to the tobacco situation and had wired President Roosevelt using definite and immediate action in behalf of the tobacco farmers.

The only Governor who declined to cooperate and who did not wire President Roosevelt, was Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, bitter anti-Roosevelt and anti-New Deal critic.

Most of these other Governors told Gov. Ehringhaus that they had not only wired President Roosevelt, but also every member of their state delegations in Congress to use all their influence in securing the desired action with regard to tobacco.

New Localities Hit As Rains And Snow Threats Add Woes To Homeless

PITT PERSONS TO GO TO MEET

Local Officials to Attend District Welfare Conference

A large delegation of Greenville and Pitt county officials, as well as others interested, are expected to attend a regional welfare conference to be held in New Bern Tuesday afternoon.

Six such meetings are to be held throughout the state. Greenville county's board of public welfare will be host to welfare workers in this district. This will be the first in the series of meetings.

Mrs. John D. Whitford is president of the district and will be in charge. Miss Payne Sugg of Greene county is secretary.

The general theme of the conference will be "Social welfare—a local, state and federal responsibility." In view of the pending social security benefits and the expansion of public welfare service, much interest is being manifested in the meeting.

The program for each of the conferences calls for talks by a number of prominent state and national people. Scheduled on the program are Miss Loula Dunn, regional social worker for WPA; Dr. Roy M. Brown, associate professor of the school of public administration of the University of North Carolina; Dr. W. C. Jackson, administrative dean of Woman's college off the University; Harris Newman of Wilmington; Dr. Wiley B. Sanders, associate professor of the school of public administration of the University; Edwin Gill, state parole commissioner; R. S. Proctor, assistant director of the National Youth Administration of North Carolina; Judge William York of Greensboro, and others.

Boards of commissioners, mayors, members of the boards of education and members of the county boards of county welfare are urged to attend the conference.

Sam A. Whitehurst States Candidacy For Another Term

Sheriff To Make Race For Present Office For Sixth Time, Having Won Position Five Terms

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst today announced his candidacy for a sixth term as sheriff of Pitt county.

Sheriff Whitehurst has held his present position for five consecutive terms and has had opposition on each occasion, with the exception of one time. He has, however, increased his majority of votes on each occasion.

The officer is not only well known in this county, where he has held various other police offices, but throughout the state. He is at present president of the North Carolina Sheriffs Association, the highest position among the various sheriffs in the state.

Forty-five years old, Sheriff Whitehurst served in the World War for 18 months and now holds his commission as first lieutenant in the Reserve Corps of the United States Army.

The sheriff's official duties date back to 1919, when he was chief of police of Ayden. From 1920 to 1922 he served on the local police department.

Big Sum Allocated For Replacements In Flooded Areas

President Roosevelt Allocates $43,000,000 to Works Progress Administration for Relief

Washington, March 21.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today allocated $43,000,000 to the Works Progress Administration for repairs and replacements in the flood stricken area.

This sum includes an emergency allotment of $18,411,633 on February 29 and a new allotment of $25,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt gave the works progress administration "blanket authority to restore roads, streets, bridges, sewers, water and electric power and other damaged public properties."

Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator informed the President he could put 250,000 WPA workers on the rehabilitation job in the 10 states where property losses are heaviest—Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Ohio.

The President announced that emergency projects would be given preference in all cases.

Death Toll 13 States Now Stands at 167 Persons

Public Health Experts Sent to Areas to Prevent Epidemics

(Copyright by Associated Press)
Flood crests in New England and Ohio poured death and destruction over new localities today with heavy rains and threats of snow adding to the misery of 200,000 persons made homeless by the widespread disaster.

The death toll in 13 states rose to 167. Estimates of damage neared the $300,000,000 mark and pointed to an even higher figure before the water finally abated.

Three inches of soggy snow fell over the devastated western Pennsylvania area from Johnstown to Wheeling, W. Va., bogging down relief efforts and further crippling transportation.

The Connecticut river, already at a record high of 37.1 feet, pushed into additional sections of Hartford, Conn., paralyzing industry and public utilities and almost isolating the city.

The Ohio, which apparently spent a sizable portion of its fury at Wheeling, W. Va., inundated small Ohio and Kentucky towns. Most of their residents fled as danger approached.

Pennsylvania meanwhile began to dig itself out from Wednesday's flood only to find new danger in water and food shortages and threats of disease.

The central part of New York state also began a rehabilitation program with health agencies distributing typhoid serum, food and clothing. Public health experts from Washington were sent into all flood areas.

Special Pitt Term Of Criminal Court Is Brought To End

Week Of Civil Cases To Be Aired Beginning Monday and Another Criminal Session In April

A special term of Pitt county Superior court was completed yesterday afternoon, but a week of civil court will convene Monday morning and a two weeks' term of criminal will be held, beginning April 13.

Judge J. Paul Frizzelle of Snow Hill, who held court here this week, and will preside over next week's term of civil court, also will return for the April term of criminal court.

Jack Atkinson was convicted at the last court session yesterday afternoon of possessing whiskey for the purpose of sale. He was sentenced to from 18 to 20 months on the roads, but appealed. Appearance bond was set at $400 and appeal bond at $100.

THEY NEED YOUR HELP

Pitt County citizens have been asked to contribute $750 to the Red Cross for use in relief work among the flood stricken areas and already the response to the appeal made yesterday has been generous. Wherever catastrophe strikes the Red Cross loses no time in reaching the scene to carry relief to the suffering, and only through the financial aid received from the various sections of the country is it possible for the organization to carry on this work of mercy. Our immediate section has been extremely blessed in the way of escaping the disasters that have visited other sections and certainly we should be willing to help in sharing the burdens of aiding the unfortunates. Whether the contribution you can make is large or small, send or bring it in now. Every cent received will be an aid in giving relief to some homeless man, woman or child, and everyone should want to have a part in aiding in such a great work.

The sufferers in the storm and flood stricken areas need your help.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

It was introduced by Chairman Hutton Summers of the House Judiciary Committee, which stamped it as an official proposition. It provided that a Supreme Court justice could "retire" instead of "resigning" when he had reached 70 and served 10 years on the bench. As "retired" members, they would be subject to call for special judicial missions and payment of their salary would be assured for life. Under existing law their pay when they quit can be reduced by Congress like that of any other federal employee.

The bill's sponsors gave the impression that it was wanted by members of the court. Not because of the money involved so much as the prestige the status of a "retired" judge would confer, and the opportunity for continued service. In view of the 2-to-1 vote against it, however, Mr. Summers has not reintroduced the measure. It would probably have less chance now than it did last year.

GUERRILLA: Administration sleuths say they have dug up new evidence of a filibuster by the private utilities against every phase of FDR's power program.

Harold Ickes thinks he has discovered a new twist. He almost rolled off his chair when he found that a former Insull company in the Middle West was willing to sell out to the city—until he satisfied himself that the asking price was three times the company's own valuation of the plant. He accuses other corporations of "bribing" municipalities to renounce PWA grants with offers of lower rates and higher tax payments.

Rural Electrification Chief Cooke has bumped up against competition everywhere. Private companies are stringing wires and digging holes through rural areas to keep farm organizations from borrowing from REA. Though Mr. Cooke insists the utilities never furnish service. And the vast TVA enterprise is still tied up in court proceedings. The administration's retaliatory move will be to spill these revelations through a Senate speech.

SYNOPSIS: Through Morgan Black, brother-in-law of Aunt Ella's dearest old maid, Iris Lansing has found her brother Owen and her Aunt Phina. Iris believed her brother dead. But in her happiness at seeing this Owen is a fine chap, and that her Aunt Phina is the best known courtesan in America. Iris reveals a little Morgan's attitude. It seems to her that Iris will be removed from her simple and appropriate setting and placed in artificial surroundings less suitable. Aunt Phina is offering Iris a luxurious home in New York.

Chapter 14.

STRONG WORDS

"YOU would spend your winters with us in our Park Avenue apartment, and the summers either on Long Island or traveling," Phina went on. "I can give you everything you should have, and I will. With me, you should make the sort of marriage that is right for you."

Owen's words had almost made her say an eager yes; but Phina's were so detached and cool that something in her shivered away for a moment. The orchestra was playing a tripping dance of Delibes'; the chatter of groups around them, the hurry of waiters, went on. After all, to go away from people who were fond of her... Phina didn't say anything about Jova.

"Do you want me—because you like me?" Iris said, stumbling a little.

Phina smiled. "You foolish child, who wouldn't?" "It's wonderful—it's like a fairy-tale," she said. "But I can't say yes this minute. May I tell you tomorrow?"

"Of course you may," Phina said. But her air said that it was settled. "I have to telephone New York now," she added. "Wait for me in the lobby, when you finish."

"She keeps the shop tied to a telephone wire," said Owen. "Never a detail gets out from under Phina's hand."

"She's wonderful—and isn't she generous?"

Owen did not answer for a moment. Then with a visible effort, he began to talk.

"She is wonderful. And she is generous. But she never gives without some prospect of return. I'm being disloyal to her, but you're my own sister. I want you because you're young and kind and human and belong to me. Phina has some reason, I'm afraid, beyond all that—it may be merely to pay off Aunt Ella, whom she has never forgiven and never will. Come, anyhow, Iris, I need you like the devil! But don't take Phina for a romantic or you'll be disappointed."

"Why," said Iris, wide-eyed, "if there's something I could do for her to pay her back, I'd feel better about going! It's such a lot to take!"

Owen said no more.

WHEN she returned home she ran upstairs, happy, excited, to show herself.

"Isn't my hair nice this way? The rings are kept in shape with brilliantine so they can't come out! I don't look like a whisk-broom! And see my shoes—and my nails!" She showed the pointed pink-tipped fingers, the smart suede shoes and gloves, the dusky hair thinned and shaped and polished, outlining her living, lovely young head.

"Nothing anybody could do to it would make you anything but pretty," said Uncle William. "I suppose that's the way girls should look now."

"She's been taking you up into an exceedingly high mountain," Morgan said bitterly from the little table by the window where he had been at work.

It was too much, on top of this radiant, wonderful day! "It's not your affair as far as I can see," Iris told him with more of anger than she had shown since their first days together.

Before he could answer there was a rap on the half-open bedroom door. "May we come in?" said Aunt Phina's cool loud voice.

Uncle Will sat up, a light on his face that transformed him for the moment into a young man.

"Josie, my dear!" He held his hands out.

There was no answering light on the face of the tall woman who came toward him. She smiled brightly, mechanically, as something told Iris she had been doing for years.

"I'm sorry to see you so ill," she said conventionally.

He stared up eagerly at the artificially smooth face, the set smile. "Do you know, my dear, you look no older now than you did then? I suppose"—his thin sensitive face flushed as she took his hand—"I look an old man to you."

"You look as if you'd had a hard life. Not greatly changed otherwise."

this particular time. President Roosevelt furnishes fresh evidence that he is the "least worrying" Chief Executive Washington has ever known. And the cheerful mood is contagious among his aides.

Mr. Roosevelt will be absent from his desk during consideration of two of the administration's major problems—new taxes and 1937 relief funds. Not far distant from the presidential fishing grounds Secretary Morgenthau will be resting while Congress debates how much it will let him collect from the taxpayers. Also out of town are At-

... I came to talk to you about Iris."

"Is Iris all you have to talk to me about, after all these years, Colleen?"

It had been a love-name. Iris, standing at the door with her brother and Morgan, knew that, and felt as if she were eavesdropping. But Uncle Will had forgotten everything but the fact that after twenty years he was seeing a woman he had—Iris knew it now—never, in his gentle, romantic way stopped loving.

Josephine Ross's face broke up suddenly into convulsed lines. The smooth massaged youthfulness went: in its place came a haggard youth—she was like a ravaged girl. Her blunt-fingered capable hands wrenched themselves. Then she stiffened, steadied. She too had forgotten her young people at the door.

Iris turned, self-conscious for those who were not self-conscious for themselves, and found that Owen and Morgan had gone. There was a small room at the stairhead, glassed in: half conservatory, half sewing room. She leaned her head back. Yes, they were there, with the doors closed; talking pleasantly enough, it seemed. That was all to the good anyway....

"And you can reproach me now!" Josephine was saying furiously, standing over the bed where Uncle Will lay, propped with pillows, his thin cheeks flushed, his hands playing nervously with the edges of his gray dressing-gown. "You, that treated me as you did! You, that let your sister treat Jean and me the way she did!"

"I wanted to marry you, Josie," he said. "I loved you. I've never loved anybody else."

"And what good did that do? What did you do to prove it?" she demanded. "You asked me to marry you—you that were twice my age, with twice my knowledge of life. But we had to wait because your brother Lawrence was a genius, save the mark."

"And so my fine genius comes with you to the little house where Jean and I were working; young girls who asked nothing but to earn a living and be let alone, and the first I know he, that you had to help support because he was a genius—a genius, when he'd done nothing to show it at forty, walks off with my little sister to Philadelphia and marries her."

"He didn't stop for thoughts of duty. No, with all his good looks and his selfish charm and his clever talk and his grand ways, he sweeps off little Jean who would always believe anything she was told, and love anybody for a kind word, the poor little pretty thing. And still you persuaded me to wait, and still I waited."

"You were too well-bred and proper to marry me and let me go on working, and there wasn't the money to support Lawrence and Jean and for your marrying too. You loved me, but your duty to everybody on God's earth came before me—or your sister Ella and your brother Lawrence had you so cowed and hypnotized that you thought so."

Her voice had risen; it swept on like a flood. She came closer, and stood above the bed with clenched hands. "I even went to Philadelphia to work, so that your poverty-stricken fine family wouldn't be shamed by a well-brought-up girl earning an honest living—young affectionate fool I was!"

"Josie, Josie, if you had only explained some of this to me, long ago!"

"Explained it to you! Didn't I say it and scream it for five years? But what could two girls do against three middle-aged people who were all set one way, and two of them selfish? For I'll say for you, Billy, you were never selfish for yourself, only for Lawrence."

He held out a thin hand. She pushed it away.

"Never mind." She had gone back to her hard, smooth, English-accented voice. "We're through with all that, you and I, and I suppose I should thank you. It was the hate of you and your sister Ella that drove me along. To where I've got. To where I'll be...."

She caught her breath.

He sat up in bed and caught her hands. "Josie, Josie, I'm sorry. We were selfish—we were cruel. But—"

She laughed suddenly, harshly, jerking her hands away. She seemed about to come closer to him, when Aunt Ella, carrying the five o'clock tray of tea brushed past the rapt Iris, and then stood suddenly still.

Meanwhile, the Acting President is Secretary of War Dern. Should he go away, the nation's temporary Chief Magistrate would be Postmaster General Farley. Since Secretary Swanson is ill, the next in line is Secretary Ickes. Both those men frequently take to the road, so it is possible that for a few hours next week the head man will be Secretary Wallace. Should farm conferences call him away, "Uncle PROTEST: Wise politicians at Washington detect several angles to Henry Breckinridge's presidential candidacy which don't appear on the surface.

They think Mr. Breckinridge is firing two barrels—one at President Roosevelt and one at William Edgar Borah. Mr. Breckinridge has filed in virtually every state where the Idaho man has entered. What the Jeffersonian Democrat seems to be doing is to furnish people a chance to protest against the administration without crossing over into the G. O. P. primary.

It is known that numerous Democrats who don't like Borah's views would plump for him if it were the only means of voicing their dissatisfaction with FDR. And the Breckinridge faction has as little use for Mr. Borah as they have for the man in the White House.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN

HOPLESS: Our Washington column recently reported that Senator George Norris has advised TVA's directors to sue private power companies for repayment of funds it would have received from 22 towns and cities if their applications for TVA electricity had not been tied up by injunctions. New York utility men get a chuckle out of that.

They say the doughty Mr. Norris is barking up a dead tree. The fact is that TVA had an option to buy their distributing plants in the 22 Alabama towns aforementioned. The option was cancelled at TVA's own request—in line with the policy of narrowing the legal issues to be decided by the Supreme Court as much as possible. And since the decision TVA has served private notice that it will not exercise a similar option on Tennessee properties.

What covers the power company's legal position completely. It's admitted that Senator Norris probably doesn't know about this angle of the situation, because he's too smart a lawyer to pick a hopeless quarrel. "Perhaps the TVA people were afraid to tell him they had backtracked so far."

VALUABLE: New York political sharps figure that the anti-New Dealers have made a tactical blunder in shooting off all their big guns so early in the battle. They have already harped so strenuously on debt and spending and taxes and boondoggling and FDR's disregard for the Constitution there's very little more they can say. Experience shows that voters get tired of hearing the same old song and demand fresh sensations to keep their interest hot. The Republican G. H. Q. is likely to have trouble digging up those sensations—say their opponents.

Meanwhile Mr. Roosevelt has conserved his ammunition. The Treasury and other agencies have strong figures in reserve with which to combat allegations that the New Deal has wrecked government credit, created an unpayable deficit, ruined business with taxes and regimentation, etc. These statistical blasts will be spaced for maximum effect.

The American Federation of Labor isn't officially committed to Roosevelt, but it might as well be. Its latest report on unemployment—planting the responsibility squarely on industry's doorstep—is valuable campaign fodder for the New Deal cause.

WISER: One important slant on the outcry against the Black Committee's "inquisition" hasn't yet been mentioned. If the Senate or any other governmental body goes on record as disapproving Black's methods on the grounds of illegality, what will happen if the G. O. P. comes into power and wants to show up New Deal iniquities? The blocking of Black might boomerang. Silas Strawn's injunction against the subpoenaing of his telegrams may yet return to plague his fellow anti-New Dealers.

Major Congressional investigations which have admittedly been worth while—such as Walsh's Teapot Dome and Reed's Smith-Vare inquiries—started out as fishing expeditions. Legal limitations on the powers of Congressional committees to command the production of witnesses and records might wreck useful revelations, as well as those which are merely embarrassing.

Mr. Wyatt Speaks to Troop 30.
Mr. Wyatt spoke to Troop 30 Friday night at the Rotary Club. His subject was camping. He told us how to act in camp. He also told us some very interesting experiences he has been through.

We played two games: "Poison sticks" and "Steal the Bacon."

We also sang some songs, and although we didn't harmonize we had a good time.

Winners of the kite contest were as follows:

Clifton Evans, largest.
James Elliott, smallest.
Billy Combs, won the highest.
Lonnie Cahoon, prettiest.

Troop 30 voted for Eddie Boy Williams as our mascot.

The scores of the contest are as follows:

Fox patrol, 5.202.

Beaver patrol, 3.680.

Hawk patrol, 3.568.

Eagle patrol, 3.502.

The meeting as a whole was very good.

SIDNEY JOHNSON, Troop Scribe.

Following luncheon bridge was played and at the conclusion of the games, Mrs. A. D. Frank was awarded a double deck of bridge cards for high score.

Immanuel Baptist Sunbeams.
The Sunbeams of Immanuel Baptist Church will meet on Sunday morning at 9:45.

West Greenville P. T. A.

On Wednesday afternoon, the Parent-Teacher Association of West Greenville school met in the school auditorium with a large attendance. During a short business session, reports from different committees were submitted and voted on. President also named nominating committee composed of Mrs. Helene Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Carl Abee and Miss Laura Foley to appoint new officers for 1936-37.

We were delighted to welcome Rev. J. A. McIver as guest-speaker who gave a most helpful talk on "How the School and Home can Co-operate in Character-building through Recreation and Enjoyment." He very plainly pointed out how the lack of proper attention to the child's physical, habitual and cultural life can influence their character and stated that the lack of play-life in the child has more to do with character-building than anything else. The best opportunity parents and teachers have to prove they are friends to the children is through the Play Life, and if we teach them to enjoy their play life, they will enjoy their chosen vocation.

An outstanding feature of the program was vocal selection by Mrs. Karsnak, accompanied by Miss Ona Shindler. Mrs. Laura Foley's grade won the prize for having "most mothers present."

Seeing Through My Windshield

4-H Clubs.

The 4-H club at Belvoir, Grimesland, Fountain, Bethel, Stokes and Bell Arthur have met this week. These meetings were attended by 163 girls. The Juniors at Fountain had an exhibit from each girl. These girls have practically finished their contract one hundred per cent. They made a quilt and sold chances for it and made enough to send their best scoring girl to the 4-H Encampment at White Lake the week of June 8th. These girls also made doll patterns and bird pictures and gave them to the first grade girls who visited their exhibit of doll dresses. Bell Arthur girls have a new leader, Miss Mary Jo Jones will assist Miss Norma Sutton.

Contest Cancelled.
The principals cancelled our 4-H song and dance contest at their last meeting because of the school schedule being broken by bad weather. We regret this very much as this is our one occasion for getting all club folks together, and to prepare for the State Contest which will be held at the State Short Course this summer. As a substitute for this program we shall have a county 4-H party the same night we were to have had the contest and learn as many songs and dances as possible there.

Garden Notes

Make the first planting of tender vegetables about the time dogwood or apple trees are in bloom. This usually means early April in Eastern North Carolina and two to four weeks later in the foothills and mountains, depending on locations and elevations. Many gardeners take a chance on even earlier plantings, especially of such crops as beans and corn. If the earlier plantings escape frost, you are that far ahead of the conservative gardener.

Why not try some real sweet corn in 1936? There are now a number of meritorious varieties worthy of trial by the home gardener. Early varieties which have done well at the Central Experiment Station are Top Cross Bantam and Golden Cross Bantam. These are much superior in size and quality of ear to the old Golden Bantam for conditions in North Carolina. They are yellow varieties and that means more vitamins, according to food specialists. Country Gentleman and Stowell's Evergreen are later varieties of standard merit.

Tomatoes for the main summer crop should be started in April in most parts of the State. The seeds may be planted in a protected plant bed or in a shallow box placed in a sunny window. As soon as the young seedlings are large enough to handle, set them 4 x 4 inches apart in an outdoor bed in order to produce stocky, well-rooted plants.

CHAIRMAN DECLARES HEARING ON TAXES STARTS SHORTLY

asserted "we haven't come to any decision as to rates or on any phase of the situation at all."

He added that members have in mind a very high rate, or perhaps 80 to 90 per cent, and the classification of the windfall tax in a new category.

Snags developed in the corporate tax proposal have threatened to force complete revision of a tax scheme tentatively agreed upon by the sub committee.

President Roosevelt once more delayed his vacation to continue in personal charge of relief activities.

CHOCOLATE WAFFLES ARE AN EASY NOVELTY

Chocolate waffles make a nice novelty dessert. They are made as any other waffles except that cocoa is added to the sweet milk. If you wish to be very elaborate you may even serve chocolate waffles with to dominate the convention and go over the heads of the others, and break the precedent which for years has resulted in the election of the existing vice-president to the presidency.

As a result, Supt. Funderburk of New Hanover county was nominated and elected president without opposition. It is understood that Funderburk is a supporter of Lieut. Gov. A. H. (Sandy) Graham for Governor.

Some observers think a compromise was agreed to between the Funderburk and LaFollette backers in order to block out the Hoey forces, although it is agreed that many of both the Hoey and McDonald forces voted for Funderburk because of his personal popularity among the teachers and superintendents and because of precedent.

SHADE THAT BEDROOM WITH LIGHT 'HANKY'

If you wish to shade the bright light that hangs down from the ceiling in the bedroom why not drape a pretty colored handkerchief over the light? A fringed "hanky" looks particularly pretty. If the shade is low enough for you to reach you can lift back the shade any time you want the very bright light for dressing.

COON DOGS WANT LET TEXAS FARMER SLEEP

Kerrville, Tex.—(AP)—The baying of two volunteer coon-hunting dogs, ownership unknown, awakened Farmer Herman Schulze about 10:30 p. m.

Fearing for his sheep, he left his bed and grabbed a gun. The dogs had treed a coon. He shot the animal.

Retiring once more, Schulze again was called from his bed by the dogs. He came back the second time with another coon and one possum.
