SEN. STEWER LASHES FORT AT PRESIDENT

SCORES AGENCIES ADMINISTRATION

Says He Believes Congress Has Un- constitutionally De- legated Many Powers

Raleigh, March 24.—(AP)—The Republican party today wrote a bone dry plank in its 1936 state platform, demanded removal of the public education system "absolutely" from politics, expressed opposition to use of the highway for "excessive loads of commercial products transported to the profit of private individuals" and called for an old age pension law.

Memorial Auditorium, Raleigh, March 24.—(AP)—North Carolina's Republican party was urged today by Senator Fred Stewer, Republican, Oregon, to fight for a G. O. P. victory this year "to save America from the New Deal," as he played the record of the Democratic national administration.

More than 1,000 party members from every county in the state, vigorously applauded the Senator's attacks on Democratic policies as he sounded the key note at the biennial convention.

"The paramount issue may be stated in one question," Stewer said. "Is the retention of the so-called New Deal as distinguished from governmental administration by either the Republican or Democratic party a good thing for America?"

Stewer lashed out at President Roosevelt "for insisting upon and obtaining for the executive agencies headed by federal appointees who have no responsibility to the people the full control of the government." "He added he believed congress has unconstitutionally delegated many of its powers and these must be recalled by the Congress before there will be a resumption of business and provision of jobs for those who want to work."

JUDGE ISAAC M. MEEKINS ENDORSED FOR PRESIDENT

Raleigh, March 24.—(AP)—The State Republican convention this evening adopted a resolution endorsing Federal Judge I. M. Meekins of Elizabeth City and Raleigh for the Republican Presidential nomination.

It was explained the action bound only the delegates elected by the convention and not the electors at large to vote for Meekins for President.

Opposition developed to the action, Harry Williams, of Charlotte, saying it was known "Isaac Meekins cannot be the next president," even though "we know he is honest and sincere in his right."

The notion to endorse Meekins carried over a scattering of "no's" from the convention after being amended to provide that all delegates to the convention should also determine the best man to back for the presidency.

CHARLES A. JONAS NAMED NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

Raleigh, March 24.—(AP)—Charles A. Jonas, of Greensboro, was named national committeeman for the Republican party at the state convention today.

Local Red Cross To Proceed With Proper Home Care

Action Follows Explanation by Miss Emma N. Murray, Special Field Representative

The executive committee of the Red Cross today voted to proceed with plans for conducting a home hygiene and care for the sick program this spring.

The action came after Miss Emma N. Murray, special field representative for the national Red Cross, had explained the work to be done through the program and estimated what action the local chapter would have to take to carry out the plans.

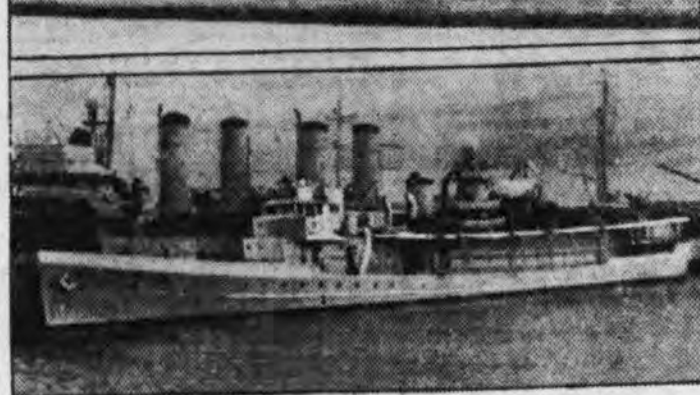

The special representative declared that this particular field was as much of the organization's duties as any, although not on as large a scale.

Under the plan adopted, a nurse will be employed for a period of time to teach the value of proper hygiene and care of the sick in the home. Under regulations of the national organization, a nurse has to measure up to certain stated standards before she is eligible for the work.

FLORIDA FISH LURE PRESIDENT

Reports that the fish were biting exceedingly well set President Roosevelt to charting his course for the Florida east coast for a vacation. He is shown in his favorite sea garb and below is the new presidential yacht, the Potomac, which waited for him to board at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for a fishing trip off Miami. ## FISHING PARTY CROSSES GULF WARNS OF BIG TOBACCO CROP

President And Party Bound for 2 Weeks Vacation Cruise

Miami, Fla., March 24.—(AP)—Aboard one of Uncle Sam's new destroyers, the U. S. S. Monaghan, President Roosevelt cut across the Gulf stream today bound for the far eastern side of the Bahamas Islands to begin a two weeks' fishing cruise.

The happy, seagoing President shoved off last evening from Port Everglades after acting in the unhappy incident of the disciplining of major General Johnson Hagood. The veteran army officer who was relieved of command of the Eighth corps area by his superiors for reference to WPA funds as "stage money," left silently from a two hour interview with the commander-in-chief.

Late today or early tomorrow the destroyer carrying the Presidential party will meet the new presidential ship, the U. S. S. Potomac, and Mr. Roosevelt and his five fishing companions will board the somewhat smaller vessel for the remainder of the cruise.

Seed Applications Being Accepted at Office Pitt Agent

Seed Loans Available to Farmers Who Are Unable to Secure Funds From Other Sources

Application for seed crop loans for 1936 are now being received at County Agents Office, Greenville, N. C., by County Agent for J. E. Wilson, field supervisor of the Seed Loan and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration.

The seed loans will be made only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source, as provided by regulations issued by the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1936 crops and in no instance may exceed $200 to one farmer.

Farmers are not eligible for seed loans if they can borrow from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern. Farmers will also be considered ineligible if they have an application pending with Resettlement Administration, have received assistance from that organization this year or are indebted to the Resettlement Administration for an unpaid loan.

As in the past, the security for seed loan will consist of a first lien on the crop financed. Landlord or others having an interest in the crop to be financed will be required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration until the seed loan is repaid.

Checks in payment of approved loans will be issued by the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at Columbia, S. C.

VOTE INCLUDE NEW TAXES IN REVENUE BILL

SubCommittee Favors Processing Levies In Measure

FULL COMMITTEE TO GET MEASURE

House Ways and Means Group Ex- pected Start Open Hearings Monday

Washington, March 24.—(AP)—A house ways and means subcommittee decided today to include processing taxes on agriculture and competing products in a report to the full committee which form the basis for the start of open hearings Monday on a $792,000,000 tax program.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill (D, Wash.) declined to say processing taxes would be recommended, explaining to reporters that they would be included merely for consideration during the hearings. "The subcommittee decided," he said, "to include in its reports as a basis for hearings the so-called processing taxes submitted by the department of agriculture."

These contemplate a yield of about $221,000,000 and cover more than 30 products or classes of products.

Asked why the subcommittee had agreed to inclusions of the processing levies, Hill replied:

"We wanted the money." Many subcommittees have been seeking to avoid processing taxes, a ticklish item in an election year, in the projected revenue bill.

Hill said their final inclusion in the bill would depend on what the committee agreed could be obtained in additional federal income from other tax sources.

Special Services Here Attended by Many

The special services now being conducted as part of the pre-East program of the Eighth Street Christian Church continue to attract splendid audiences.

Mr. Helfer, the guest speaker, is preaching this week on definite current needs which only spiritual values can meet. The services will close on Friday night of this week. The sponsoring groups for tonight's service is Circle No. 2 of the Woman's council. Members of this circle are requested to be in the College classrooms at 7:30 for the Altar services.

The family is originally from Kentucky but moved to Chattanooga years ago. Dr. Flanagan has been a member of the College faculty for a number of years as teacher of History and Sociology.

Sheriff Has Chickens Thought to Be Stolen

The chickens, thought by the sheriff to have been stolen, were found tied in a bag in the woods near Great Swamp church.

THE NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG News Behind The News

Washington By RAY TUCKER

IMPERFECT: Henry Wallace's energetic young men have run into acres of troubles in setting up the new AAA program, although they won't admit it publicly.

The major difficulty lies in the fact that payments for soil conservation afford no control over production. Preliminary reports of acreage to be sown in basic crops foreshadow the same sort of surplus that sent prices down to starvation levels in 1932. Farmers have been quick to sense that the new system will furnish federal handouts but not permanent high

Widening Of Avenue And New Underpass Sighted

Mayor M. K. Blount Says Highway Com- mission Expected to Let Contracts For City Projects Within 30 Days

Mayor M. K. Blount indicated today that contracts would be let shortly for the widening of Dickinson avenue from the Serve-U-filling station to Paris avenue, then from that intersection to the Atlantic Coast Line railway station, or where the highway runs into Tenth street, and the erection of an underpass at the Norfolk Southern railroad crossing at the cotton mill.

Mayor Blount announced that the State Highway and Public Works commission was expected to let a contract within the next 30 days for extension of 36 feet the paved portion on the highway on the road from Serve-U-filling station to Paris avenue. The pavement is only 16 feet wide at present.

The contract for the underpass over the Norfolk Southern railroad tracks is expected to be let within a short time. The proposed underpass and road will be widened and a sidewalk erected on each side of the underpass. There also will be a curb and gutter on the portion of the highway from the underpass to Paris avenue.

Mr. Blount said the highway commission also had indicated that it would widen Dickinson avenue from Paris avenue to the Atlantic Coast Line railway station, provided the present passenger station is removed back from the street.

FLOOD WATERS BEGIN SUBSIDE RELIEF FUNDS REACH $170.64

Total 168 Lives Count- ed From Various Stricken Areas

(Copyright by Associated Press) Residents of a vast flood belt extending from Maine to Ohio and Kentucky, in which 168 lives were lost during a terrifying week of muck and debris from their silt-laden cities and towns today while residents of Cincinnati watched the crest of the swollen Ohio river sweep onward to new territory.

Between their homes in Cincinnati and the nearby areas in advance of the muddy tide that had brought catastrophe to Johnstown, Pittsburgh, Wheeling and other communities in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

In New England where streams overflowed their banks and wrought havoc second in severity only to the sweep of the Ohio river, conditions were definitely on the mend. In almost every stricken area anxious eyes were cast toward the federal government in hope additional financial aid would be forthcoming for the work of rehabilitation.

The American Red Cross, long since had thrown its entire force in the field to relieve suffering and ward off pestilence.

New England, with damage estimates at more than $270,000,000 and with approximately 80,000 refugees prevented from returning to their homes before sanitary measures were taken, concentrated on preventing spread of disease and lawlessness as it pushed the hurricane task of rebuilding.

Gaskill had been a presidential elector from his district, so Stanley Woodland of Morehead City was named to take place.

The committee empowered Gaskill to name his own district party chairman.

Prisoners Quizzed In Hauptmann Case

Pursuing his investigation of the Lindbergh kidnapping and murder for which Bruno Hauptmann is under sentence to die the night of March 31, Gov. ## JAFSIE AGREES BE QUESTIONED

Agrees to See Gov- ernor Hoffman and Attorney General

Trenton, March 24.—(AP)—Dr. John F. Condon, the Lindbergh ransom intermediary, agreed today to talk to Gov. Harold G. Hoffman at his Bronx home but questioned the executive's "sincerity, good taste and impartiality."

A long telegram to the Governor after receipt of the executive's request for an interview Dr. Condon said he returned last Tuesday from Panama, said he would see the Governor and Attorney General David T. Wilentz "at such time as may suit your joint convenience."

Defending his activities in the Lindbergh case, Condon referred to "statements derogatory to me allegedly given out through your press representatives or by your agents."

Condon questioned the Governor's legal authority for his present activities and said: "Although you have apparently usurped the functions of the court and the duly constituted investigating officials and, despite your unfairness, I have decided to permit you to confer with me at my home."

In another condition of the interview Dr. Condon suggested in the "interest of clarity and relevance" that the Governor write the specific questions he wished to be answered and he would give his answers in similar form and manner.

Governor Hoffman said he would have no comment until he had an opportunity to study Condon's telegram.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late home near Ahoskie by Rev. J. L. Smith, pastor of Ahoskie Methodist church. Burial followed in the Ahoskie cemetery.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Wallace and Ben Ross McKee, one daughter Julie Irene McKee; three brothers, B. S. McKee, Raleigh, C. L. McKee, Williamston and S. G. McKee of New York city.

BREACH SEEN ANGLO-FRENCH LOCARNO PACT

Flandin Opposed To Consideration of German Proposal

MAY REFUSE TO RETURN LONDON

Anxiety Also Felt Over Mussolini's De- lay in Ratifying Four-Power Accord

(Copyright by Associated Press) London, March 24.—(AP)—A breach appeared to threaten the Anglo-French sector of the Locarno front today as Joachim Von Ribbentrop was expected back from Berlin bringing Adolf Hitler's reply to the four-power proposal for a Rhineland settlement.

Paris advices that Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin would refuse to return to London if German counter proposals were considered, informed sources said, placed British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in an awkward position.

Anxiety also arose in the British, French and Belgian delegation over Premier Mussolini's delay in ratifying the four-power accord, although it was initiated by Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador in London and delegates to the conference.

Hitler's answer to the Locarno proposals was associated closely by league sources with an anticipated message from Mussolini setting forth his minimum terms for halting the Fascists warfare in Ethiopia.

Der Fuehrer's first reply was expected to be a rejection of the present Locarno program, framed to leave means for new negotiations after Sunday's Reichstag luncheon called by Hitler to approve his foreign policies.

Name Boley Farley As Local Manager For Coming Season

Business Organization of Greenville Baseball Club Perfected at Mass Meeting

At a mass meeting held in the city hall last night to complete arrangements for the business organization of the Greenville baseball club for the coming season, W. W. Morgan was elected secretary and treasurer.

Gus Forbes was named vice president of the club for this year.

At the meeting held on Tuesday night of last week, a complete list of board of directors could not be made, so this task was carried over until last night, at which time the following were named: Guy V. Smith, Gus Forbes, W. W. Morgan, Judge Dink James, L. T. Jones, H. L. Hodges, Ralph Deal, A. E. Hobbgood, Berry Bostic, J. G. Clark, J. D. Simpson, Johnnie Overton, H. H. Duncan, John Ivey Smith, W. W. Lee, C. P. Pierce, Albion Dunn, A. A. Ellwanger, J. H. Pitts and J. H. Hickey Corey.

The most outstanding factor of the meeting was to elect a manager for the coming season. This was done by selecting a nominating committee of four, which was composed of John G. Clark, H. L. Hodges, Gus Forbes, and H. H. Duncan. After adjourning for a few minutes, they decided upon Boley Farley as manager for this year. It was brought out that the efficiency used in managing the club of last year accounted for their decision.

During the process of the meeting, John G. Clark suggested that the club would need a legal adviser for this season. This suggestion met the approval of everyone present, and Judge Dink James was given this post.

Guy V. Smith said that the circuit this year would be the same as that of last. He further said that the first game would be played June 2, and that the season would close August 21, giving the baseball public a total of 72 scheduled games.

It was also pointed out by Mr. Smith that he thought all towns would play Sunday baseball this year. "In careful observation of the people attending Sunday baseball games, I came to the conclusion that those attending Sunday games were more orderly than those attending games played on days other than Sunday," he said.

When the meeting adjourned, Guy V. Smith announced that a meeting of the board of directors and other officials of the local baseball club would enjoy a barbecue supper at the Yum Yum at 6:30 o'clock on Monday night of next week.

Applications of copper sulphate will increase the productivity of reclaimed swamp lands.

A BIG IMPROVEMENT.

Announcement was made today that the survey of the west end of Dickinson Avenue had been completed and contracts would be let within the next 30 days for widening the paved highway from the city limits to 36 feet as far out as the junction of highways 11 and 91 and the widening of Dickinson Avenue between the city limits and the A. C. L. railroad. The widening of this street and highway will be a big improvement in the way of lessening traffic congestion and Mayor Blount and his associates are to be congratulated for the untiring efforts they have put forth to have this project approved by the state commission.

GIVE NOW.

Local contributions to the Red Cross flood relief fund have reached about $200. This county has been asked to give at least $750, so more than $500 is needed to reach our quota. The need for relief in the flood stricken areas where hundreds are homeless, is great and our county should not fall down on the raising of its part of the necessary funds to carry on the relief work. If you have not already contributed to the fund, do so at once. The money is needed now and the sooner the national organization receives it the greater will be the benefit in relieving suffering in the stricken areas.

KNOW THE TRAFFIC LAWS.

The traffic lights being placed at certain intersections in this city will be in operation about April 1 and our people should begin now to study just what the signals mean in order that there might be as little confusion as possible when the signals are put into use. Yesterday the city government published the newly adopted city ordinances with reference to traffic in this city and it would be well for every person to get a copy of these laws and give study to them. The local schools could likewise do a good piece of work by bringing these new traffic rules and ordinances to the attention of the school children in order that they might know what to expect on the part of the motorists and protect themselves when crossing the streets.

Golden Rain

by Margaret Wildemer

SYNOPSIS: Through Morgan Black, Iris Lanning has found her brother Owen and her Aunt Phina. Phina is the most famous couturiere in America, and Owen is a charming young man of a world quite different from the simple surroundings of Iris. Now Aunt Phina has offered Iris a luxurious home in New York and although Morgan confesses he loves her, Iris is determined to accept the offer. It means leaving behind her old life and her friends.

Chapter 16 NEW WORLD

"WELL be in New York now in about three-quarters of an hour," Owen told his sister, smiling at her bright eyes, and then retreating again into what was obviously that very encouraging letter from Sigrid.

Iris hoped the fact that she'd never been in a parlor car before didn't show, "Isn't it extravagant," she had asked Phina incredulously, "for three hours?"

"Your Aunt Ella obviously believes discomfort a proof of economy," Phina answered with that sharp glint which Iris had learned was a signal of reference to Aunt Ella. "It's not extravagant. A woman in my position can't afford to be seen in a day coach."

Aunt Phina settled herself regally. The porter was kept busy putting her hat in a paper bag, getting

"You look bored," he said politely. "Come on, have a drink, have a magazine, have a good time."

She smiled and shook her head. He pushed a little closer and continued, "Come on over and join the gang!"

In spite of his being a little drunk—he was not out of control, but his natural friendly impudence had been improved on—he was tempted for half a moment. They were having such a good time, and as she turned a couple of the others smiled at her.

She had the correct mark, she looked to be their own kind, and they were having a lot of fun. Then shyness and prudence combined decided her.

"It's sweet of you to ask me," she said, for the red-headed boy was obviously a kindly soul, "but I'd rather stay here."

He became rather more than kind—he hadn't realized how far gone he was. He flung a rough arm around her, pulled her and said, "Oh, neris! C'mon, sister, we're a keen crowd."

She did not know quite what to do. She had to walk through the group to get back to her own Pullman; but before she could do more than detach herself, help came. Another of the party, the oldest one of the group, put a white limp-seeming

Iris glanced up, gratefully hand on the red-headed boy's shoulder with an effect of languid slowness, and said, "Hey, Dick, old kid, Georgia wants you! Back to the mines!"

Iris glanced up gratefully. He smiled at her, as if they two understood poor Dicky's little ways. He might have been as old as thirty-five. He was tall and lanky and very fair, with a pink flush like a girl's and a small light mustache that did not hide a full mouth.

He might have seemed effeminate but for a natural air of authority and an irregularity of feature perhaps more winning than otherwise. "You don't mind?" he said to Iris with a whimsical lifted eyebrow.

"Not Georgia's slave, Allan. Go tell her to bite herself," said Dicky before Iris could reply. But he went, "Dicky's a bit lit," said the man named Allan in the same slow gentle third voice. "But I'll second his invitation and I'm in possession of my senses."

"I do thank you," Iris said, smiling up at him, she did not know how dazzlingly. "But—all things considered—I think I'd better get back to my people. We must be almost in New York."

Then the one called Georgia shrieked, "Allan, Allan!" in a metallic voice that filled the car. Iris, with a little gesture of smiling farewell, made her way back to her seat. She hoped she'd carried it off modernly and easily. At least Aunt Ella's funny old-fashioned training was good for one thing: "Never show you are at a loss; never show your feelings; never lose your control" had worked in this brief interlude.

And then everything was swept away but the excitement of porters coming through importantly, getting her and everyone else up and whisking them all over and begging them to make a perplexing decision about Manhattan Transfer.

And presently the three of them were walking down the platform, mounting the stairs, crossing to a far-off place where there would be taxis.

They passed the still talkative group of girls and men. Georgia, thin, dark, bright-eyed, hard-featured, gave Iris a long look. The older man spoke gravely and courteously. One of those people who would always do everything just right.

our political and economic structure.

Although not optimistic, they have agreed to give FDR another chance provided he is reelected. But what they really expect is a collapse of the going system before 1940 and a popular demand for a new party. Then they expect to step in as saviours of the nation. Sounds fantastic but stranger things have happened.

STRIKES: Although many industrialists blame the administration for promoting class consciousness among their workers, confidential reports assembled by Secretary Perkins indicate that factory disturbances hit a new ebullience in the years of "Roosevelt recovery."

Normally, when the United States drags itself out of a depression, the workers demand a greater share of increasing profits. An epidemic of gain prestige which may insure strikes sets in. To a certain extent their reelection to their present eighteen months. But Miss Perkins reports show that in 1935 there were only half as many strikes as there were when the country began to recover from the 1919-1921 depression. More important still, they involved fewer people and they did not last so long.

Enlightened employers attribute this improvement to better relations between management and labor. They maintain that both sides have become more "reasonable" as the result of closer study of the relationship between profits and wages. Both sides agree that it has been one of the chief gains resulting from the country's "worst depression."

BUILDUPS: Two Republican presidential candidates are striving for that high prize simply to re-increase their prestige which may insure their reelection to their present

Borah and Dickinson.

Neither expects to be nominated at Cleveland. But both have got in bad in their agricultural bailiwicks by their attacks on the administration's farm program. Mr. Borah will face a popular vote-getter in Gov. Ben Ross, and the latter has been given every reinforcement the Democrats could think up, including a CCC force of more than 9,000 who ought to show their gratitude to the White House by voting against the Senator. At least a dozen Republicans may oppose Mr. Dickinson for the senatorial nomination and he will need extra help to save them off.

But if they can remain in the presidential balloting for a few rounds, it may enhance their standing at home. Even if they don't return to the Senate, a few votes at Cleveland may build them up enough for a Cabinet post—Borah, say, for Secretary of State and Dickinson for the agricultural post now held by a fellow-Iowan.

New York

By JAMES McMULLIN
HOLE: The Landon opposition—both Democratic and Republican—is gleeful about the governor's refusal to call a special session of the Kansas legislature to consider a state security act.

New York insiders understand the real reason for Landon's reluctance is that he has been told the Democratic members of the legislature would concentrate on the state prohibition issue in order to focus national attention on his dryness. The governor wants that question let alone at this juncture.

But Kansas can't qualify for the benefits of the federal social security act unless it enacts a state law to tie in with it. That is impossible unless the governors summons the lawmakers. If he doesn't he will be charged with obstructing social security—which would raise hob with the efforts of his backers to paint him as a liberal. So New Dealers and left-wing G. O. P.-ers figure they have him in a hole either way.

WISEST: Politicians of both parties can sleep easier of nights. Managed currency is not likely to become a major issue after all.

Despite efforts of the Committee for the Nation to re-arouse enthusiasm for the cause, the big farm organizations have about made up their minds to lay off it for the present. They are still sold on the Warren theory that raising the price of gold is the ultimate answer to the price level readjustment they want. But they don't care to press for it now. They would rather wait and see how the new soil conservation act works out.

Here's why. The most important feature of the new act is that it continues benefit payments. But the standards a farmer must meet to qualify for benefits are loosely drawn. The Secretary of Agriculture has a lot of discretionary power in determining who gets paid and who doesn't. Mr. Roosevelt is obviously opposed to further monetary experiments and would be embarrassed by pressure for additional devaluation. If the farm groups put him on the spot it's just possible that Wallace might get fussy in interpreting soil conservation. So it's considered wisest to let the monetary situation ride as which is a break for the Repubicans as well as for FDR.

DISCREDIT: A number of ministers in most of the Protestant denominations are becoming interested in the anti-Hearst movement. Quite a few of them are teaming up behind the scenes with educators who are organizing a fight on the publisher.

In its field the local insurance agency can and does render services that are quite as valuable and necessary as that of the lawyer in the legal profession, the physician in the field of medicine and the counselor in the fields of advertising and merchandising. Users of insurance should choose their insurance agency with the same care and in much the same manner as their lawyer, doctor, dentist or advertising agent is chosen.

The aim and purpose of the good insurance agency is not merely to get a piece of the business, but to provide a complete insurance program. From its knowledge of local conditions and a careful study of each case, such an agency prescribes broad and properly written contracts in reputable companies, drawn to special requirements of each client.

When permitted to do so, such an agency assumes the responsibility for the complete insurance needs of its clients including the most expert engineering and inspection services, all available to agents of organization companies. There is at least one such agency in nearly every community of consequence. Western Underwriters Association, adv.

MRS. MARY NELSON SMITH, TEACHER

(A Tribute from One of Her Pupils) Long before the alcove in the Sheppard Memorial Library was dedicated to the honor and memory of Mrs. Smith, it had been my intention to try to pay a fitting tribute to her as a pioneer in educational work in this county.

It was my good fortune to be a pupil in her school and a boarder in her home. It is impossible to convey here the impression made on my youthful mind and heart by the strong personality of this Christian mother and teacher.

Her presence always awakened an intense desire in her pupils to do our very best.

To her motherly advice I, for one, owe much of the content and happiness which have thus far attended me.

The recording angel alone can tell the good which this noble, self-sacrificing woman did for orphan boys and girls whom she took into her home and gave an opportunity to make good in life.

Ever kind and hospitable, no one was turned from her door.

A friend in need, always ready to help those in trouble; ministering to the sick, feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, comforting the dying, thus did she order her days.

When I stand before her portrait recently placed in the Sheppard Memorial Library by her devoted children and grandchildren, and look upon that placid face I wish, oh so earnestly, that every one of her pupils would write for the benefit of those who are to come after them, a word of appreciation for the life of this consecrated woman.

HUMMING BIRD 'AT HOME' AFTER RESCUE IN STORM

Brownsville, Tex. (AP)—Cold weather descended upon the Lower Rio Grande valley this winter and brought "Dippy," a humming bird, to a wail of the storm.

Picked up half numb by a member of the Grover Slinger household here, "Dippy" took up an abode on a curtain rod, stayed out a spider in a duel for stray insects, and now, when called, will fan its wings toward any member of the home and take a perch upon a finger.

Bayard, Neb. (AP)—A passion play without a Christus will have its eighth annual production here next June.

Because the figure of Christ does not appear in the drama, the Rev. Louis H. Kaub of Lexington, Neb., the author and director, insists that technically it is not a passion play.

"The play is of such a quiet, deeply, worshipful nature Christ seems always present," he says. "Though unseen, He is present to play His own part."

EDITOR TALKS TO ROTARIANS

D. J. Whichard, Jr., Tells Club of Recent Trip Across Country

By WYATT BROWN

The impressions one gets and contacts one makes are the things that are significant in a journey said Dave Whichard, editor and publisher of the Daily Reflector, last night as he shared his recent trip across the United States with the Rotarians for the few brief moments he used. Huey Long, the Carlsbad Caverns, the Grand Canyon and economic situation on the West Coast were the four impressions he related. It seems Bruce Sugz, prominent local business man, accompanied Mr. Whichard on the trip which required eleven nights out of three weeks on pullmans to save the daylight for seeing.

"Huey Long wasn't just like we thought he was around here. I changed my opinion of him, after talking with the people in Louisiana. He worked wonders for his people and his state. The only trouble was he could not take criticism—just or unjust. This caused his downfall and final assassination. If he could have stood criticism, he would have been able to still be doing wonders for his state. This is what we got from talking to the people down there," Mr. Whichard said.

Just in passing remark Mr. Whichard said Juarez formerly famous for its night life has now had the gambling stopped by the government and is "just a squalid, peon, Mexican City."

The travelers next stopped at El Paso, Texas, one hundred and sixty miles from which are found the Carlsbad Caverns which were visited. All the other caverns in the United States can be put in one room of the Carlsbad formation. Mr. Whichard said. He related how it was discovered by a cowboy or herder who saw bats fly out and was impressed and investigated resulting in the discovery of these famous underground passage ways.

"The government has taken over the caverns and have developed them as a scenic wonder. From a massive standpoint, they are the largest caverns I have ever seen. The formations, geologists say, go back sixty million years. In one place I stood eight hundred feet beneath the earth's surface, the roof was three hundred and fifty feet high and beside me was the bottomless pit. It makes a man feel how infinitesimal he is in the universe," he said.

They stopped off to see the Indians at Albuquerque and the next main stop was the Grand Canyon. It seems one can see the canyon by taking a ride around the "rim" or ride down into the canyon on mule back.

"Bruce said he had ridden his last mule and plowed his last mule and he was not going to ride on one of those mules. We reserved bus seats for the ride around the rim."

Finally, after much persuading from Dave and contagion of hearing other sightseers talking of the preference of seeing the canyon from the bottom where the true height could be appreciated, Bruce decided to ride a mule. They got astride the beasts and started down the steep incline.

"The first thing we knew the mules made a hairpin turn and we had a four foot wide trail with a sheer drop on the other side. We wanted to turn back but that could not be done because there is one way traffic—going down in the morning and up in the afternoon. Adding to the trying situation was a two-inch ice covering to the trail due to a recent snow. At the first turn they stopped to take our pictures—they said for souvenirs when we got back, but I think it must have been to send our folks if we did not get back."

"By the time we made our third hairpin turn, I was not big as a nicker, there was a crack in my back from trying to lean in away from the edge."

"When I would call to Bruce to look at some especially pretty view, he would call to save it until we got home."

"Finally we reached a flat place."

There was a CCC camp. We relaxed. When we mounted and got going again we found we were just started. And next for a distance of thirty feet or so there was a sheer drop on each side of the four-foot trail," he said.

It seems there was quite a crowd at the top of the canyon to greet the returning party. They were there to greet the riders back but the speaker said he believed they were there to see how many had been lost from the party.

From there the trek took them to the West Coast which inspired the speaker to say he observed that East Carolina ought to have a kick in the pants for grumbling about conditions. In spite of the disadvantages of using artificial irrigation, cooperatives and diversification, the growers seemed to have raised a surplus and were having to practically give it away.

In conclusion he told of seeing John Humber, an old Greenville boy, now living in San Francisco, California, who Dave said, is doing a wonderful work out there. "He is tied up with a good thing and I think they are on the right track," Dave said in conclusion.

Prior to the speaker of the evening Gus Fleischmann, chairman of the program committee, took time to call the "Rotarian," the Rotary magazine, to the attention of the Rotarians, on this occasion of its Silver Anniversary, and particularly to the challenge of the article which asks the Rotarians if he is studying economic and social experiments of today and finding out how to answer the young people there question of where the young people are to fit in.

"Baby Rotarians," Ollie Van Nortwick and L. M. "Izzy" Ernest were greeted last night. Guests of the club were Rotarian Bruce Eure of Ayden and Mr. Robert Seay of Columbia, S. C. John Winstead won the attendance prize, given by Judson Blount.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington, March 24—Informed persons in Washington credit Edward F. McGrady, the big, smiling Irish assistant secretary of labor, with actually settling the strike of building service employees in New York.

Officially it was the plan of Mayor LaGuardia that broke the prolonged deadlock between the Building Service Employees Union and the Realty Advisory Board, but McGrady is credited with laying the groundwork for its acceptance.

Here's what happened, according to those on the inside:

settled and at a time when it appeared agreement was far distant, McGrady put in a long distance telephone call from his office in Washington to Mayor LaGuardia. Inability of union officials and building owners to agree on terms for reinstatement of strikers was holding up the show.

Used Ohio Plan

McGrady suggested to the New York mayor that the procedure followed in settling the strike at the Industrial Rayon Company's plant in Cleveland, which had worked so successfully, be tried out.

In that strike there was difference of opinion between the company and union officials over the status of 54 men. The company refused to rehire them because they allegedly engaged in sabotage during the strike.

After some persuasion, McGrady induced both sides to permit him as a disinterested conciliator to pass upon the individual cases with authority to decide who merited employment and who didn't. The plan proved successful. Both employers and union officials were satisfied with decisions and peace soon was restored.

McGrady advised LaGuardia to try the same plan. The mayor agreed, appointed an arbitrator whose word would be final in the matter of reinstatement of strikers, and some 48 hours later the strike was settled.

A 'Trouble Shooter' Thus 'Ed' McGrady, the administration's No. 1 'trouble shooter' in labor difficulties was able to add another victory to his ever-increasing string as "conciliator extraordinary."

Tall, well-built, with a military bearing, McGrady's appearance belies the fact he is past 60. He is dark, slightly bald and clean shaven, except for a dark, scrubby mustache.

He has been successively a newsboy, amateur pugilist, newspaper

New York, March 24.—(AP)—Today still was a buyer's market, although a highly selective one.

Gains of a fraction to two points or so were widely scattered with industrial and specialties again holding the main speculative and interest.

There were a number of dull periods when the ticker tape merely crawled. In addition profit-taking dropped in several sections.

The late tone was moderately firm. Transactions approximated 1,700,000 shares.

Value Safety Body For School Busses Shown by Accident

No One Hurt When Truck Leaves Road in Lee County and Turns Over With 25 Children Aboard

Reflector Bureau, Sir Walter Hotel.

Raleigh, March 24.—The value of the new safety bodies on school busses was demonstrated again Monday when a school bus left the road in Lee county and turned completely over with some 25 children in it, but without serious injury to any of the children in the bus and without crushing the bus body.

Claude Gaddy, assistant secretary of the State School Commission in charge of bus transportation, pointed out today.

The bus involved in the accident was a new 1935 model bus, equipped with one of the state standardized safety bus bodies which has been the regular equipment for all new school busses for the past several years. These bodies are built according to very strict specifications and are all rigidly inspected before being accepted by the School Commission. More than 1,000 of these new busses have been put into service during the last two to three years and some 500 more are to be added this summer before the opening of the next school year.

"If the bus which went off the road yesterday and turned over in Moore county had been one of the old style school busses, with egg-shell bodies and with the safety features which the School Commission has been requiring for several years now, the chances are that several of the children in the bus would have been killed or seriously injured," Gaddy said. "But owing to the sturdiness of the safety body, not even the roof of the bus crushed in, so that while the children were badly shaken up, none were seriously injured."

Mr. Gaddy is going to Lee county this afternoon to make a personal investigation of the wreck and to find out the exact causes, if possible. The only information he had this morning was that the bus went off the road while rounding a curve and turned over.

provements have been made in the physical properties of the churches. In the way of repairs, paint and general internal and external repairs and beautification.

After April first Mr. Noe will be rector of St. Thomas Church, Bath, the oldest church in the State, where he will assist Bishop Darst in restoring the old parish and making it a shrine for the whole State. He will also be rector of the churches at Zion and Chocowinity, the former a large and progressive rural church and the latter a fine little church in a town which was once the home of Trinity School and has done much for the work of education in the State.

SENATOR STEINER LASHES FORTH AT PRESIDENT

A. Jonas of Lincoln, former congressman was unanimously reelected Republican national committee-man of North Carolina by the state convention today.

William C. Meekins of Hendersonville was reelected state chairman with Mrs. Eugene Hester of Reidsville reelected vice chairman, neither having opposition.

Mrs. John R. Jones of North Wilkesboro, whose husband is the only Republican solicitor in the state, was elected national committeewoman.

After several hours of work the platform committee prepared a draft to present the convention "condemning the action of the legislative branch of the state government for the passage of so-called liquor control laws for several counties" and calling for strict, impartial and active enforcement of the prohibition laws.

The party would "reaffirm our allegiance to the time honored and progressive principles of the Republican party" and call for a reduction in governmental expenditures, a balanced budget and a condemnation of efforts of the present administration to restrict and destroy agricultural production.

The convention was scheduled to start at 10:30, but did not get underway until 11:02, when chairman W. C. Meekins of Hendersonville called it to order.

High-Speed Living Taxes Digestion

Smoking Camels found to have a positive beneficial effect upon Digestion...

Our modern "eat-and-run" way of living is hard on digestion. Experiences with indigestion are common! Hence unusual interest attaches to the following fact: that smoking Camels has been found to have a marked beneficial effect in aiding digestive action. You'll find Camels milder too, packed with the rich enjoyment of choice tobaccos.

Turn to Camels for digestion's sake...for the pleasure to be found in Camel's costlier tobaccos. Camels set you right!

A SENSATION! Henry Taft Snowdon, '34, intercollegiate wrestling champion, Snowdon says: "It's my experience that smoking Camels after meals and between meals aids digestion."

OTIS BARTON, inventor of the "bathysphere," says diving tests condition—especially digestion. "Camels help make my food digest better."

LESTER STOEFFEN, former U.S. Doubles Champion, says: "Camels help food to digest easier. Eating at odd hours all over the country, I smoke Camels for digestion's sake."

COSTLIER TOBACCOS!

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.
